The most Illustrious PRINCE,

D. Ludovick Borbon,

Duke of Enguienna.

F Arts and Disciplines (Most Famous Prince) could of themfelves speak, truly they would give great thanks unto thee and thy Father, a most excellent man; neither would they lesie gratify themselves with this honour, the which, at this day, by your judgment concerning them, they have attain-

For this is a clear witnesse, how much ye have made of them; because both being of so great a Noblene Se, he would have thee be brought up in the Busome, and Lap of them; Thou hast held the delights, and pleasures of the Court, inferiour to the company and familiarity of the same. This is, I fay, a thing altoyether Noble, and Honourable unto our Learning, that thou, a child of a Kingly flock, and towardne fe, doft accustome thy felf in handling thefe; not that thou callest forth the Masters of them home unto thee, or receivest them in the room of a delight, and pleasant Narration, but that thou thy felf of thine own accord commest daily to their houses; neither in performing the Duties of Schollers, doft take any thing proper to thy felf above others. wherefore either of you both get unto your felves an everlasting name, and fame; and also do give an example to this and the following Age, in what great efteem henceforward they ought to be accounted : That that may be plucked out of the opinion of men, which feemeth to have made many of that rank, either openly, or by a filent custome and judgment, to believe : that, as every one is born in the highest place so he is to have the least commerce with those idle and floathfull studies. But if anyone (hall dare to boaft for the future; not of Alexander the Great, not of Charls our Countryman, not of the rest (whom from the remembrance of Antiquity we are wont to produce) but, by that thy more modern, and the prastife of thy most famous Parent, he shall be refuted. By this honour therefore, as I have faid, how very great thanks should Sciences, if they could use speech, professe themselves to owe unto you both, and also they who can do this, their Favourites, and Lovers, Shall plentifully, and abundantly do it; and they shall joyn the commendation of this praise to others, the standing Corn, and matter of which, they have finished in thy most fa-

mom Father; but in thee nothing lesse, and they trust will be agreeable to these good things of Birth and Nature, which thou bearest before thee. The which hope, conceived of thee by the opinion of all, those so many token; of excelling Vertues, which thou haste even at that Age, do render consignmed, and fare. I know not what altegether Divine thing there is in you Princes, and a higher towardnesse then the common capacity, which separateth you from the common fort, and plainly shemeth that ye were born unto the Rule of Men, and to take in hand great and difficult matters. And as in the Bee's kind, some signs are put on their Kings, whereby they are easily known from the rest. Or as the successor of the Spattans were made remarkable by a Launce; The Pelopidans by an Ivory shoulder; The Seleucidans by an Actor, others by other naturall marks: So there is nont to be in Great men some excellent thing; whom the will of God, who governeth not so much the condition of a stock, as all things, and setting down to every one his own rank, listeth up above the Lot of other men.

Those same things we have learned to be in Thee; first of all a sharp, and excelling wit, of which there is such a speedinesse to comprehend all Arts, that now it being the Eleventh year of thy Age, thou holdest the chiefel seats of Learning and industry in the School of Eloquence, a Mind also stirred up with the pricks of praise and glory; often Combats with the Adversary concerning all kind of Learnings; neither are the Conquests and Victories more seldome then the contentions. Whiles thou indeed obtainest the chiefdome among thy Equalls, of all things, whereneith that Age is wont to be adorned; and, whether by the persuajon of thy suber, or of thy own accord, thou attaines that, which unto a certain Prince (with Homer) going to warfure, his father is read to have commanded him....

Alwaies to be the best i'th Train; Other's exceller, and remain.

That being a Child, in this shadow, and sporting encounter, then makest a shourish with those Triumphs, which afterward in a ripe. Age thou shall carry back from lawfull enemies, and baitels. Unto these, which commonly seem more gargeon, those many better things happen; A certain slower of integrity, and comeline see, before and with the spots of no Vices, a teachable nature, and pliant and tending to the will of the fashioner, as also pure Alumers, and lovely, and, toward all, even the lowest, the greatest gentlenesses, and courtesy of talk. Lasly, a diligent lover of Christian Pietz, and worship, without guile. These, and others of like sure states the freeds and beginnings, with which thy mind waveth by degrees ripe, and is persetted unto the grave bescening a Prince.

But I have not determined here to make a folemn cry of thy praifes. That, when there shall be need; the which I had began to speak of, it shall behoove all chiefly, who follow after Learning's Studies, to agree, and endeatour tegesher for that end: and also above all, our Society shall need to do it : unto whose education, thy Father (never without praise to be named) bath pefsed thee over. The which when he did, he gave together therexith, a pleage and token of his singular esteem and affection of it: and likewife he obliged Its faithfulneffe towards thee, that by what means it could, it [bould imploy it felf both for the enlarging thy renown, and alfo for belging, and flirring up thy fludies. I therefore, who, because I am of that Fellow (sip, and a lever of liberall Arts, do think my felf held by the law of both duties, I judged that I must perform my duty in that very thing, by fathering this work on thee : within which all Hiltory from the beginning of the world unto the times of our Age, with as much briefmeffe, and diligence as I could, I have contained. For fo I thought I might chiefly profit thy studies; whose chief part is placed in the knowledge of History, and Antiquity. But wife men rightly deliver, this to be not onely cornely for Princes, but very profitable. Whether because the civill learning of Prudence is taken out of that, while men learn from others examples and chances, with no pains of theirs, and danger, what in managing their own, or common affairs, is to be held, and avoided; or from fo daily ac angeablene se of humane affairs, and fortune, which they gather from thence, and the downfall of Empires, and Cities, they are wont to make little regard of those, and, both in defending them, or requiring them, to give a mean to their defires; and palle over their purposes unto the fruit of found and conftant glory, which by vertue and godline fe alone is received. That this is even the most excellent use of reading History, especially that grave Author Otho of Frifingia, doth (not once) admonish, chiefly in thefe words, which he bath placed in the end of his fecond Book. All thefe evills of things, nodding, or baking (is I may fo fpeak), the dayly deaths of mortall men, ought to fend in unto the true, andremaining life of eservity. Thou half gather out of this our book the same kind of fruits of manners, and life, not onely more profitably, but also, which is the goodne Be of thy Wit, more pleafantly, than that of science, and knowledge, of which there is especially a forcible love in Children. And hence last of all, from those two deties towards thee, which I have faid to be owing from me with the whole fociety, there will be made another confequent, that although there being as yet no private Deferts of thine; of thy most illustrious Father, furely there is toward me, as also toward our Society, common to both, I will in like mainer pay the Honour, and Observance due from me by this (what fort fuever) commendation of thy name.

To the Reader.

Ingenious Reader,

E E present thee One of the most Eminent pieces of History in the whole World. The acutenesse of the Author in his manifold polite Writings is fully demonstrated to all persons in Christendome. Insomuch, that who hath not heard of his Fame, may be justly reputed to have spent his dayes in fome Anchorite's Cell in the Terra incognita. Great and Exquifire is the Learning, which he hath manifested in his Books of the Dollrine of the Times: though it must be confest, he is somewhat too liberal in his lashing of Scaliger, a man of great Knowledge, yet too much doting upon his own parts. In this Discourse he shows the concisenesse of his pen without obscurity. Sir walter Rawleigh and others that have highly deserved by their Atchievements in the Theatre of History, have fo voluminously inlarged themselves, that the Reader's patience is too discourreously oppressed. We must acknowledg much to the view of the four Monarchies exhibited by Sleidan; yet the curtnesse of that Piece is fuch, that many stately and heroick Actions of Noble Princes are either not toucht at all, or fleightly past over, without satisfaction given to the diligent Inquirer. Cluverius hath written well, but not comparably to this Learned Man; having not fo well stated the Chronological part of his History. Whereas Here, besides the innumerable testimonics of all the Ancient and Modern Authours, whose Writings are of any use and subsidiary help to so general and brave a Work; ye have likewise many of the most famous Eclipses and Celestial Characters fet down in their distinct places out of Herodotus, Thucydides, Aristotle, Plutarch, and hundreds of others in the Monkish Age, which are most infallible demonstrations of the truth of those passand relations herein delivered. So that we may safely fay, without the Censure of arrogance, That in respect of those heavenly Phanomena, whereby History is made to ride in its most triumphant Chariot, there was never yet an Historicall Book fo Compleat as this, Extant in any Age. He is not fo short, as to draw the vail of brevity over any Noble Actions: He is not fo long and profuse, as to Nauscate the Reader with proline and tedious circumstances: wherein others take too much liberty to infert their own private Judgments and descants upon the Warlike Actions and deliberated Counsels of great Kings and Generals, sometimes impertinently, sometimes absurdly and childishly; whereas the matter of sact, a thing principally to be attended by sober Hikorians, might be comprehended in a small view. Informuch, that we may truly term this, The Index of Times; so that any person that is inquisitive into more ample Narrations, may by his choice Citations surnish himself with a whole Library of History. In a word, he deserves the Laurell from them all, a Temple of praise to be erected to his honour, and all other Historians to be offered up as Victims to his renown.

Furthermore, We must acquaint thee (most Candid Reader) that where Our Noble Author does terminate his Account of the History of former times; that the Work might be produced Compleat in all its parts, we have made use of various helps and observations of those who have lived beyond the Seas, as well as at home, to draw the Discourse down to this very day. We have indeed in the latter years more copiously inlarged, because the great and general Wars of Christendome, since the blazing of the great Comet in 1618, have administed more plentiful matter both at home and abroad, then several Ages that have preceded.

In the last place, We have annexed a Compendious Geographical Discourse of the whole Earth, and its most memorable places, that so the beautifull Statue of History might have both her eyes (Chronology and Geography) in a most lively manner inferred for the grand ornament of her personage. From whence the Historical passages in the foregoing Treatises may be fixed to the very places wherein they were acted by the Noble Chieftains of Armics, in their several Warlike Expeditions against their Enemies.

Accept therefore this Tract as a most choice Treasure: whereby thou mayost be inriched with the knowledge of the rarest and most material Transactions that have happened under the Conduct of Divine Providence ever since the World began.

time create it whole and compleat in all its parts, yet was he rather willing to perfect it by little and little, in the space of fix

Wherefore in the beginning of all things nothing did appear and exist besides the earth, and that huge immensity of waters that overspreaded the Earth: Then the waters were not so thick joyned together, as we see them now, but thin, and like unto a vapour, and the mist had filled up this whole vacuum or hollow place, which the vastnesse of the celestial bodies, and of the other Elements did peffesse upon the Earth. Moses declareth them partly by the denomination of waters, and partly of the deep; which he faith to have been encompassed by darknesse, when the light was not yet brought forth, and that the Spirit of God moved upon the face of the waters. Qut of the Water and Earth, as our of their matter, were afterward all the other bodies formed, that are reckoned in the fix dayes work. Now when Moses faith, That, In the beginning God created the Heavens and the Earth; it's a general fentence that comprehends all that which was done in those fix dayes, which afterwards is expounded throughout all its parts.

On the first day God created the Light, which the Water or that thin and immense Region of vapours did receive, the Sun not being yet produced; and that he might define and distinguish the spaces of the day and of the night, he encompassed this same Light with the motion and agitation of that misty body.

On the fecond day was the Firmament formed of God; by which appellation we believe are fignified as well the celestial bodies, as the Ayr and Skye: that is, all that which appears from the Earth unto the extremities and farthermost parts of the World, which is vulgarly believed to be hollow and empty: for the forming of all which, the deep, that is, that huge and infinite lump of waters subtilised and attenuated into a vapour, did afford the matter; Again, the Firmament hath that power given unto it to divide the waters above, from the waters below: not that it felf whole should in its middle come betwixt them both, but onely in one of its parts, which being the nearest to the Earth, is called the lower Region of the Ayr; for as it is part of the Firmament that is of that outstretched voidnesse, so likewise it may be called Firmament or spreading: the higher-most waters are clouds, hanging in the midst of the ayr, out of which rain is engendred, the lowermost are the Seas and the Rivers, which had their beginning the day following.

On the third day he first gathered the waters into one place, yea even into so many places as there are Seas and Rivers, for having heaped the Mountains to an immensity, and made hollow channels, he made them receptacles and passages of waters: thence he commanded the earth to be cloathed with the greennesse and verdure of the herbs and plants, and to bring forth Trees.

An Account of Time. Chap. 1.

And God fet the Sun, the Moon, and the Stars in the Firmament of the Heaven on the fourth day.

And on the fifth day God created the fifthes and the fowls out unto 2386. of the water.

On the fixth day he at last formed Man out of the earth, and breathed into his nostrils the breath of life, and man became a living foul, to whom he gave the name of Adam, from the Earth: The Earthly Then did God transport this new man into those most pleasant Paradise. and delightfull Gardens which he had planted, which by a right apprehension were in the Land of Babylon, or in the Confines of Babylon and Mesopotamia: for Tygris and Euphrates, which Moses mentioneth by name, have not their channels running in any other place. Now in this garden, amongst all other Trees, for the use and delight of Man, God did plant two remarkable Trees, the one of life, and the other of Knowledge of Good and Evill; the former hath gotten its name from the effect, because it had the August 3 civ. vertue to lengthen health, and foment life, as Augustine, Prosper, c. 20. and others do judge: the latter is fo called from the event, because vite conce. 18. that as foon as they had tasted of its fruit; they understood into August. 14. what a great evill they had fallen, having lost fo great a good, as GV. C. 17. it seemeth to the same Augustine, and also to Bar Cephe in his par. I. c. 19. Commentary of Paradife; or because the Serpent did promise Rup. 2. de from that Tree, the knowledge of good and evill, as Rupertus ob. Trin. c. 27. ferves it, very discreetly: There the Lord formed that ribb which Gen. 4. 14. he had taken out of the fide of Adam when he was asleep; into a Gen. 4. 26. woman, which he gave to him for his companion and help-meet: Gen. 5. 22. but the brought upon her felf and him a more grievous ruine, then any cruel enemy; who, being inticed by her flatteries, did cat that fruit presented by her to him of the forbidden Tree; the guilt of which wickednesse procured upon him a sudden and present punishment, and a future upon his posterity: Therefore being cast out of that blessed Mansion, he with the companion of his fault is cast out into the miseries of this life. Then the first of men that were born of them, were Cain and Abel, of whom the first exercised his life in the tilling of the ground, and the other in Gen. 6. the feeding of Cattel, who for his integrity and uprightnesse was best accepted of God; And for this cause Cain burning with wrath and envy, murthered his innocent brother; and in revenge of this his murther, being a fugitive and vagabond on the Earth, he begat children like to himfelf, namely rebels and enemies of God; and he built a City, and called it by the name of his fon Enoch: But Seib, a while after Abel's death, being born to Adam, begat a posterity contrary to that, namely godly and religious; whose son Enos is faid to have began to call upon the Name of the Lord; because, as the opinion is, he did publickly re-establish that Worship of God, which had been blotted out by Cain's children; and amongst the rest came that excellent and renowned Enoch, Jared's fon: Whom God having loved for his innocency, he took up to himself alive from the eyes of men, having not yet fully ended his dayes; whose posterity, whom the Scripture calls, The sons of God, being grown worse, and degenerated from their good manners, joyned themselves in marriage with Cain's posterity, out of which mixture and commerce were Gyants brought forth. Then mortal men addicting themselves to all forts of wickednesse, did turn and draw Gods wrath upon themselves. When no cause of delay could be objected to him, all Vertue being extinguished and blotted out from amongst men: Then therefore God, angry and offended by Alam's posterity, decreed to destroy them all by an inundation of waters. There remained one onely of Seih's bloud, who did perfift in the faith and obedience of God : to him doth God reveal the certainty of his counfel a hundred and twenty years before-hand; and commands him to build an Ark for himfelf, in it to fave few men and beafts. This Patriarch employed a whole hundred years in the building of it, which was three hundred cubits in length, in breadth fifty, and in heighth thirty, having the first, second, and third stories, in which he gave to every kind of living creatures their mansion; eight heads of men in all, of every clean beafts and fowls by feven, and of unclean by two, were thut up in this Ship, and so raised up and taken away by the waters of the deluge, all other things were destroyed by the overflowing and inundation of the waters over all the earth, which the continuall rain of fourty dayes, and the fountains of the great deep, being broken, had caused; so that the high Hills that were under the whole Heaven were covered by it, and the water prevailed fifteen cubits over them. And that was the year from the Creation of the World, 1656, and before Christs birth, 2329.

Into which before they went to fojourn, and before they were separated afunder, they went about to build a high Tower in the Land of Shinar, whose top might reach unto Heaven, that might be to them a name, and a general Monument to all their posterity; for then the whole Earth was of one language, and of one speech, and God did confound it, for to trustrate their endeavours and Imaginations, distracting it into several other tongues; fo the commerce and understanding of the voice being taken away from them, they then left and cast away their counsel and defign of building; And what remained of this matter, is thought to have been for the beginning of Babylon; for that Tower began to be named Babel, from the mixture and confusion of tongues. And nee think as these things are leffe judged to have been done at the begining of this great Tower, which was a full Century of years after the Floud; fo it's not convenient for us to inlarge our felves farther upon them. Now the first part of the next Century being past, then happened the diversity of Languages, and the propagation of People and Kingdoms;

From Heber's posterity, with whom the use of the first tongue, Abraham's and the true Religion remained, had Abraham his pedegree, who pedegree. was to be an excellent and great proof and example of godlineffe and obedience. His father was Terah of Caldea, out of which Countrey by Gods command, he being aged feventy years, went together with his father into Mesopotamia, and he dwelt in Haran about five years. There having left his Father, as he was commanded, he foon travelled into the Land of Canaan, with his Wife Sarah, and Lot his Nephew, it being then the 145 year of Terah his father, and his 75th year: Then in the dayes of his father he lived near fixty years in the Land of Canaan, which being expired, he in the 135th year of his age returned into Milopotamia, and into his fathers house, whence, by the command of God, he returned again into Canaan: And thus are reconciled those things which are usually objected out of the History of Mo-

fes, and of the Alls.

For those things which Eusebius relates out of Africanus, concerning ancienter Kingdoms of the Arabians and Chaldeans, are more like unto a fable, then to a real truth.

His Intervall comprehends the Originall of the Ancientest Breeks of which, however the truth be; it is fo confounded with those many fictions of the Poets, that it is something dubiousto judge of .: Norwithstanding which, we shall endcavour from the probablest of ancient writers to digest it in some order of time. And feeing the Grecian affairs and those renowned people, are the subject and scope of the work, it will be here pertinent to speak of the Grecians themselves, and of the first derimation of that name and stock.

Their name and flock derived from Hellen the Son of Deucalion, Ek. Apollod. lib. r. Diod.4.

is distinguished and divided into three kinds; Aolick, Dorick, and lonick; the Authour of this progeny, as I faid, was Deucalion, who is reported to have had his Kingdome and feat in The Baly. In his age was the inundation of Greece, whose time from the probable opinions of divers, we conceive to be in the year before Christ, 1529, the third year after the Ifraelites progresse out of Ægypt, as we shall demonstrate in its convenient place.

The Sons of Deucation and Parrha were two, Hellen, and Amphilipon. Amphilipon, expelling Cranaus, reigned in Athens. From Hellen the Greeks are called TAMPES. He begor three Sons of *Conon apud. Orfeis, Lolus, Dorus, and Xuthus. * Lolus being the eldeft, succeeded his Father, and obtained whatfoever lay between the Rivers Enipeus, and Asopus. So that besides The Saly, he became master of Locris, and Beotia. To Dorus's lot, fell that Country which is under Parna fus. He built Boeus, Cytinius, Pindus, and Erineus, From him the Kingdome of Doris took its name. Xuthus the youngest Son, expelled by his brothers for robbing his Father of his treasure, took his flight into Attica, where he built Tetrapolis, and married Greufa, the daughter of Erechtheus. Eolus begat feven Sons, and five daughters of Enares the daughter of Deimachus. His Sons were, Critheus, Sifyphus, Athamas, Salmoneus, Deion, Magnes, and Perieres; and his daughters, Canoche, Alegone, Pisidice, Calyce, and Perimide. Crithius of Tyro, his Brother Salmoneus's daughter, begat Afon, Amythaon, and Pheres. The Son of Afon was Islon, Amythaon, inhabited Pilos, in Peloponnefus, and begot Melampos and Biantes. Melampos for curing the daughters of Prætus of a Frenzy, had the Kingdome of Greece; together with his Brother Byantes delivered to him from Anaxagoras, the Son of Megapenthes; and of Iphianira, Prætus his daughter, he had Antiphas, Mantus, Bias, and Pronoes: the Sons of Antiphas were Oicles,

An Account of Time. Chap. 7.

or as Paufanias calls him, Iocles, and Amphalx: but Oicles begat Amphiaraus, father of Amphilachus, and Alemeon. Bias begat Talaus, father of Adrastus, and Parthenopaus, of Pe-rona, and Eriphyle of Amphiora, his Wife.

Pheres, begat Admetus, and Lycurgus, from him sprang Opheltes, who was also called Archemorus. These were Critheus his Sons.

Silyphus founded Corinth, and of Merops the daughter of Atlas he had Glaucus the father of Bellerophon.

Athamas being King of Beotia, by Nephele, had Phryxus and Hellen: Afterwards of Ino daughter of Cadmus, he had Sons Learchus and Melicertes.

Salmoneus first inhabited The Saly, and after that, Elis; whose daughter Tyro, before she was married to her Uncle Critheus, brought forth to Neptune, Pelias, and Neleus. Who when they came to age, falling to variance amongst themselves, Neleus flies to Messana; and of Chloris, Amphion's daughter, had eleven Sons, who were all (except Neftor) flain by Hercules. And but one daughter named Pero.

Pelias governed in The faly, having two Children, Acastus, and his fister Alcestis; Deion possest Phocis, and besides other Sons, had Cephalus, whose Wife was Procris. Magnes, his Sons were Polyde-Hes, and Dillys, Inhabitants of Seriphus. Perieris of Gorgophone daughter to Perfeus, begat Aphareus, Leucippus, Tyndareus, and Icarus. .

Hitherto Apollodorus brings the progeny of the Eolids. But * Diodorus Siculus, belides thele, mentioneth another Son of £0- +Lib.4.p.187. lus, called Mimas, who wandring remote from his brothers, reign- Gracedit.

naming the Inhabitants Beotians after his own name.

But Xuthus (for of Dorus progeny there is nothing memorable) Hellens youngest Son, expelled by his brothers, made his abode in Attica, where marrying the daughter of Erechtheus, King of Athens, he had Sons, Achaus, and Ion. Achaus against his will becomming guilty of murther, (as Conon upon Photius hath it) escapes to Peloponnesus, and in that Kingdome which he named Achaia, (but, before, Egialea) he built Tetrapolis; After which, by the affistance and aid of the Athenians, and Egialenfes, going into The Saby, he received his fathers possession.

Ion remained at Athens, and if we may credit Conon, Erechtheus Iones called being dead, obtained the same Kingdome; From him also were Atticks. the Atticks called Iones. But this onely that Authour afferts. Neither is Ion in-registred amongst the Kings of the Atticks. But Paulanias faith, that after the death of Er. Sheus, there arising a contention amongst his Sons about their succession, that Xuthus of Achaia, the father of Ion, was by them chosen as Umpire, who adjudging the Kingdome to Cecrops, as being the eldest, being constrained to obscure himself from the other brothers, he betook himself to Ægialus, which was then in Achaia, where he died. Of Ion the same Psusanias relates, that in Achaia, when he made his escape out of Attica to make war against Selinunt, was to him reconciled, by an agreement of marriage with Helice. Selinunt's onely daughter, and afterwards succeeding his Father in Law, he named them Iones, which before were called Ægialenfes, Afterwards there arising a war between the Athenians and the Eleusizians, by whom Ion being chosen Captain, coming out of Achaia, he finisht his life in Attica. This Pausanias relates concerning the Achaians and the Atticks.

De Græcorum variis linguis.

† Strabo

It is now worth our labour to consider what distinction of Languages were used amonst the first Gracians, for the people were principally derived into three kinds, Æolieks, Doricks, and Ionicks, to which may be added Acticks; who could not confift without being joyned to the Ionians. Strabe faith of these four languages, or dialects of the Greeks, there were but two Originally. The other being corruptly formed from the commixture of the others. The two former are the Doricks, and the Atticks, whereof the former is the Ancient Æolick, and the other the Ionick. But that which was afterwards termed to be the Aolick and Ionick, through their commerce with divers Nations, varied its property according to their feverall conditions; for the former remained incorrupted, because that they possessed quietly the Countrey of the Doricks, and Atticks, by reason of their roughnesse and barrennesse, being little invaded by strangers and Forreigners.

The fame Author adds, That all the People beyond Isthmus were in Greece, excepting the Athemans, Megarenfes, and Doricks, the Inhabitants of Parnassus, and were called Aolians even to this time. But of ancient time the Æolenfes inhabited berween Isthmus, with whom the Iones coming out of Attica, and the Doricks from Doris were mingled. These also the Heraclides brought back into peloponnesus: but why the Doricks are reported by Strabo to be brought back into Peloponnesus, I do not very well see; nor that afterwards the Ionians and Lolians had first their seat there, as we read. But the same Author in his 9th book writes, That Apalius King of the Doricks being by Heroules restored to his Kingdom, for requital of that favour, adopted Hyllus, Hercules's son, whom also he left his successor: from whence sprang the Heraclides, the inhabiters of Peloponnesus. Moreover, the Ionians (as * Strabo writes) were by the Achaians, of the Lolian's stock, driven out of Agialus, or Achaia; from whence there remained but two forts in Peloponnefus, the Doricks, and Lolicks.

Moreover, the Arcadians and Eleans, who inhabited those ancient Scats, who by reason of the Mountains in that Kingdom, and craggy rocks, could hardly be approacht unto, facrificing to Jupiter Olympius, used the Dorick tongue; but the others, a language made up of the Airick and Dorick dialect, faith Strabo, in the be- unto 3701, ginning of his 8th book; which quotation of the Author is something corrupted.

Jul. Period,

It is not in the power of humane Art exactly to compute the times wherein these things happened, yet I shall endeavour it in a homely ftyle. Xuthus binitht out of Thessaly in o A tica, repairs to King Ereltheus; Erectheus began to raign in the year before Christ 1400, Deucalion's flood is reported to be much about the year before Christ, 1529. So that the stock of Hellen being named Grecians, and distinguished into several kinds of people, were about 14. or 15. ages before Christ. Much about the time that the Israelites possess of Palestine, began to be under Judges. This order observed, partly out of other probable Histories, and partly by conjecture, we shall prudently compute the time of the several posterities of Hellen, which in this place will be needlesse to

CHAP. VIII.

Of the time of the Mæcenian Kings, which fucceeded the Grecians, and of the Inachids, and some remarkable passages of Perseus his progeny, conducing to better knowledg of Antiquity.

He ancientest family of the Greeian Kings (faith Eusebius) took its rife from Acrifius, and from thence he faith was the Kingdom of Mycane translated by Perfeus, the City whereof he built, still governing Greece; for after the death of Acrifius, Megapenthe Præius his fon, Talaus and Adrallus made this City the head of the Kingdom, Talaus succeeding Megapenthe; after whose death vide ?. de Adrastus his son leaving Greece, travell'd into Sycione, where after doct temp, he had govern'd certain years, he return'd to Greece again, where he received Tydius and Polynices, two fugitives. But truly at that time when Agamemnon govern'd Mycene, did Diomedes the fon of Tydius rule over Greece, as Eustathius observes about the 9th Hiad in this verte;

'Ημείερω છે જો જામછે, છે 'Αργεϊ τηλόθι πάζεης.

That we may come to the Mycemans, we must explain the stock of Perfeus, with which are contained the chiefest Acts of the Grecians in that Age. But deriving their original yet higher, we shall speak of the progenie of the Agenorians or Cadmeians, in which we shall follow Apollodorus. Besides these two, Neptune is said to have begotten of Lybia, Busiris (b) also, who leading his life not far remote from Nilus, was very noted for theft and murther, much about the lews departure out of Egypt. I shall return to the fons of Epaphus, of whom Agenor went into Phonicia; Belus governed in Egypt, and had two fons, Agyptus, and Danaus; the former he fent to Arabia to Obtain it; the other into Lybia. After which, when Ægyptus had 50 fons, Danus as many daughters, who being by the Oracle advised, that he should be flain by one of his brother's fons, he escapes into Greece in a Ship rowed with 50 Oars, where Sthenelus being dead, and Gelanor his Successor banishs by the consent of the people, he was made King the year before Christ, 1475, the third after the death of Joseph: by his name were the Grecians called Danai, After this, the fons of Agyptus going into Greece, were there murthered by their Wives, the Daughters of Danaus; Onely Lynceus excepted, who succeeded his father-in-Law. Lynceus took his begining from the year before Christ 1425, wherefore a little before this, by consequence, happened this massacre. Lynceus had a son named Abas; he also had two sons, Proctus, and Acrisius; the former of whom, Eusebius saith, governed in Greece; but * Paulanius faith, That they so divided their fathers kingdom, that Acrisius obtained Argos; Prætus, Tyrinthe, Midea, and Hereon. (a) Apollodorus mentions, that after the death of their father Abas, they contended for the Kingdom, and that Acrifius being conquerour, continued at Argos: Prætus making his escape to Iobates in Lycia, whose daughter Sthenobea, or, as Homer would have it, Antia, he married; after which, relying upon his father-in laws affiftance, he returned to Peloponnesus, and possess himself of Tyrinth; but Eusebius opposeth this, who ranketh Prætus amongst the Kings of Greece in order before Acrifius, wherefore his 17 past years must be restored to Abas or Acrisius. But Megapenthe, when he had reigned certain years at Argos, refigns his kingdom to Talaus, as is before faid,

Perseus therefore about 1312 years before Christ, began to reign Perseus his first at Tyrinth, and afterwards at Mycanas, who besides Perses, sonse whom he left with his father-in law Capbeus, from whom the Perfians are named; He begot of his Wife Andromeda at Mycenas, fix fons, Altheus, Sthenelus, Hela, Mester, Eledryon, and a daughter called Gorgophone, whom Perierus Lolus his fon, and Hellen's grandfon married, as a little before I frewed you.

To Aleas of Hypominome, Mentecius his daughter, was born Amphitrue, and a daughter called Apare; of Melter and Lyfidice, daughter of Pelops, was born Hyppother, of whom by Neptune was brought forth Taphius, who built the City Taphon in Cephallenia, naming the people Teleboans; Taphaus his fon was Pterelas, whom Neptune made immortal.

Electric by Anaxo daughter of Alceut, had Alemena, besides nine fons, and Licymnius of Midea's bastard. Sthenelus by Nicippe the daughter to Pelops, begat Euristhem, to whose service Hercules devoted himfelf.

Between the beginning of Perfeus his reign, and Sthenelus's were 58 years; for Sthenelus began about the year of the World 2730, which interval Perfeus doth not feem to exceed, if we may credit Apollodorus, who faith, That Electrion govern'd Alicenas with Taphius. But Paufanius in his Corinth faith, at Midea. And that may be, that he might both reign at Micanas, and at Midea too; for Midea and Tyrens are tributaries to Micanas. Moreover, in the Catalogue of Micana's Kings, are reckoned Elettrio and Taphius, Perseus his sons, who are set before Sthenelus, unless that at the same time we will have more Kings to govern all together, which in those dayes was used, when the Governours but of Citics went under the term of Kings, Taphius truly, and Electrion fwayed the Scepter both together, whose sons demanding their part of their father's Kingdom from Eleffryon, there arising a great contest, slew his sons; which to revenge, Electric gave his daughter Alemena to Amphitruon, upon that condition, that he should not have her, till his return from his Expedition against the Teleboans; but when Amphitruon had imprudently flain Eletrio, expell'd by Sthenelus, with his Wife Alemena, he escapes to freon at

About that time the report goes of Hercules his birth, that it was 1289 before Christ; which being thus, it doth extendate the credit of Eules bim his catalogue of the Mycenian Kings; for Perseus being dead, Electrio governed before Sthenelus; nor was Perfeus overthe Mycemans above 58 years, as from his and Paufanias's computation we have already thewed.

He removed out of Phrygia into Greece, and obtained Hippodamia Oenemaus his daughter more by craft, then as the true reward of his swiftnesse in the race wherein they contended, which happened in the year before Christ 1324, at the expiring of Ehud's (b) Hyg.f. 81. TI Itherto we infifted upon the race of Belus, or Dangus, from whom the Pérsians sprang: now we shall speak a little to the other stock of the Inachids, which took its rife from Agenor; this is not impertinent, for to give us a light into the more ancient Atchievements of Greece.

Agenor of Telephassa begat Europa his daughter, besides three Sons Phanices, Cadmus, and Cilices; as Apollodorus in his third Book, who in his fecond Book afferts that Agenor had these Sons when he was in Phœnicia, which is a Kingdome in Asia, and in uano 3701. the third, after his coming into Europe, to which agrees that Phanices being fent with his brother Cadmuto feek his fifter, whom not finding, he went into Phœnicia, that from thence his father might not fend him away. Wherefore when Jupiter had ravisht Europa, Agenor appoints his three Sons to go to feek her, with whom went their Mother Telephassa. Whereupon Phænix inhabites Phoenicia; Cilix, Cilicia. Cadmus after his Mother Telephaf- Cadmus, fus death, comes into Greece and builds Thebes after the names, as it appears, of the Country. For Agenor seems to take his rise from the Egyptian Thebes. (a) Conon upon Photius writes that Europa (a) Conon.lib. was the daughter of Phanix (which also Apollodorm affirms). But 32. 37. Cadmus who had great Authority among the Phoenicians, was by their King sent into Europe to erect a new Government, there diffembling his intent to be the feeking of his fifter. And last of all he is thought to have built Thebes in Beotia borrowing its name from the Agyptian word, because the Phœnicians having got a great part of Asia, placed the seat of the Thebane Kingdome in Leypt : from this is that fable that Cadmus failing into Europe to feek his fifter who came to inhabite Europe; thus faith Conon, (b) Pindarm Scholiastes afferts that Agenor raigned in Phoenicia. brought along with him, to the custody of the King of Colchos.

The Licence of Poetick Verses, relates this to be the Golden Fleece, which rich booty Phryxus bringing along with him, left there to be kept. Polydorus ruled at Thebes, and of Nifleis, daughter of Nileus, he begat Labdacus, who dying after Pentheus, he left behind him his Son Laius, being but a year old, wherefore Lyeus, Nieleus his brother (they both came of Eubea) takes possession of the Kingdome. Nileus his daughter was Antiopa, who being

In the interim, Antiopa being but ill treated of Lycus, and his Wife Dirce, is owned by her Sons, being now grown to age, who having flain Lycus, and fastned Direcs to the rail of a wild Bull, to be torn in pieces, they injoyed the kingdome of Thebes. Laius being by them expel'd, betakes himself to Peloponnesus, and Zethus to Thebes; Amphion marries Niobe daughter of Tantalus; who being all defunct, Laius is restored to the Kingdome, and takes Jocasta to wife, the daughter of Menæcius, by whom he had Oedipus, whose incest in marrying his Mother, and slaughter of his Sons, is the general subject of Poets, being personated upon every Theatre. A little after he was expelled Thebes; The time wherein hapned the rest, may be computed from the first year of his comming into Greece. Thus Apullodorus, lib. 3.

T. P. unto Of Hercules, Jason, The Expedition of the Argonautes, Minos, Theseus, Occipus, and has sons, and of the Thebane Warr.

T that time which immediately followed the departure of the Hebrews out of Egypt, were extant those names famous amongst the Poets in their verses, and also those fabulous Grecian Heroes; some whereof are rank'd amongst the greater, other esteemed to be of the demie and lesser gods. Most of these here and there, as occasion hath offered, we have already treated of; and now we shall come to speak of some of the most noted amongst them; and first of all of Hercules, which name appears not to be attributed to one alone. (a) There were three mentioned by Dio. (a) Diodor. dorus, one of the ancientest of which was Ægyptius, who travelled fine, 1.3.

The father of Alemena, was Elestrio, frem gette. the fon of Perfeus and Andromedes; his Mother, as Apollodorus thinks, was Anaxo the daughter of Alceus; but as (6) Diodorus faith, (6) Lib. 4. Hercules Hercules being born at Tyrene, was carried with Amphitruon to gefta. Thebes, (d) which City as it began to increase by his means, shook (d) Diodor. 4 off their subjection to the command of Erginus King of the Miziaus, and overthrew Orchomen, a City in Boeotia, which was the Metropolitan of that Kingdom. For which, Creon King of Thebes gave him Megera his daughter to his Wife. After which, obliged to the service of Eurystheus, he atchieved various attempts. he commands him to fail for Colchos, to fetch thence the Golden Fleece, which was to regain that Treasure which Phryxus in his flight had there laid up. The fame of this Expedition being fpread through Greece, which then abounded with most valiant men, many of which he makes his aflociates and partners of this fo glorious an enterprize, whose names are various. The (a) chiefest are famed to be Hercules the fon of Alemena, Orpheus born of Oeagrus and Calliona, eminent in Mufick and Poetry; Caftor and Pollux, Peleus the father of Achilles, Telamon, Thefus, Peritheus, and others. Who having constituted Jason their Captain, and provided a Ship larger then hitherto had been feen any, to whom for her swiftnesse they gave the name Argo, hoist sail for Troas. Where Hercules delivered Hesson the daughter of Laomedon, having flain the Whale to which the was exposed to be devoured; and having a grant of her for his labour, he left her behind with her father, together with his fwift horses, till at his return from his Expedition, he might receive them altogether. Jafon no fooner arrives at Colchos, but falling in league with Medea, the daughter of King Leta, is made master of his desires, whom having wedded, he conveys her, together with the Golden Fleece for Thessaly. Hercules demanding his contracted for reward from Laomedon, and feeing himself deluded by his perjury, vanquisherh Troy, slayes Laomedon, and delivers the Kingdom to his fon Priamus. The writer of the leffer Iliads reports, this to be done about fourty years before the Grecians utterly demolish'd Troy. Wherefore the Voyage of the Argonautes apppears (if it be so) to have been in the year that is numbred before our Christian Epock 1226; Dares the Phrygian relateth these things somewhat variously, saying, That these Argonautes being denyed the Harbour of Troy by Laomedon, that foon after they were returned into Greece, having furnished themselves with a Fleet of Men of War, having failed to Troas, took the City of Ilium, and flew Leomedon with all his fons, one onely excepted, who was then happily absent, Priamus by name; and that Hesto fell to Telamon's lot in reward of his vertue: whom Priamus by his Ambassadours in vain redemanding, he fent his fon Alexander into Greece with an Army, by whom Menelaus's Wife, Helen by name, being carried away, hereby was caused that huge and so memorable War; Thus faith Dares, the Phrygian.

(a) These Argonautes being returned home into their Countrey, they appinted to make, in Jupiter's honour, a folemn Play, with great preparation and thew, and they committed the care of it to Hercules; who erected the Olympick games in Elis, a Province unto 3701. of Peloponnesus, near the River Alpheus, although that (b) Velleius (a) Diod. 4. makes Atreus the Author of them, and that he faith, That through (b) Vell. 1. them Hercules was the Conqueror of all forts of games; but it may be that these games were not onely once, and by both in a short space of time played and celebrated, Hercules death was not long before the attempt of his posterity upon Peloponnesus, and before Eristheus's death, which falls upon the twentieth year before Troy's utter destruction, as hereafter shall be evidenced.

And as they were asking, the Diod. Oracle answered, That they should make Lacus the son of Jupiter and Agena, the Patron and Mediator of all Greece. Aacus having taken well and in good part their vows, restored fertility and plentifulneffe to the fields of them all, except of the Athemians: But they going again to the Oracle, Apollos answered, That they should not have an end put to this evil, untill they satisfied Minos's defire concerning Androgeus's death; therefore by his decree, every feventh year they are commanded to fend feven Males, and so many females into Crete. Then Minos fetching back by force of arms, Dedalus his ingencer, who had fled from Crete to Cocalus, King of Sicily, was imothered in a Bath by the faid Cocalus. Thefeus at the emulation of Hercul's having atchieved great things, got a famous name throughout all Greece.

Amongst his chief exploits he cut to pieces the Amazonian Armies, which from Pontus had bordered upon the coasts of Athens, in the Moneth Boedromio, having spoiled them of their Colours; who for the memoriall of this fignall Victory, had afterwards this name. Afterwards, he preferved in the lafeguard of the Athenians, with an excellent commendation of fidelity, Hercules his posterity from Euristhem, who pursued them with arms. At length having ravished Helen, a Virgin of ten years of age, some five and twenty years before the destruction of Iroy, and having provoked the Tyndars to war against himself, being expelled out of Athens by Meneficew's faction, he retired himself into the Island Syrus, and there he dyed for grief, not without the detestati-

This overthrow certainly was in that very year 3530. of the Julian Period, before Christ, 1184. in the time of Jair Judge over the Hebrews: fortune was not much more favourable, to the Conquerours, as they returned home, than she had been to them that were conquered; for most part were cast away or oppressed by the Tempest. Agamemnon in the imbraces of his houshold Gods, and of his wife, was thrust through, and so murthered by the adulterer Ægisthus, Thyesta's Son, but his Son Orestes did afterwards avenge his death, who with EleBrahis fifter, familiar to all his counsells, did flay Ægisthus and Clytemnestra his own Mother, the Gods (as it is reported) approving this his parricide, bleffed him with a long and happy reign, for he reigned feventy years and lived ninety, and he married Hermio, Menelaus's and Helena's daughter, Pyrrhus Achilles Son, being flain at Delphos, who had taken to himself his contracted spoule twenty years after Ili-

Eufebius's Chronicles allot 130, years to these four Kings: whence it appears that the beginning of Janus's reign was about 1330. years before Christ, and by this we may gather what is the ancienty of the heathenish Gods: for being Saturn as I have faid, was alive when Janus ruled in the year 1330, before Christ, his fon Jupiter could not be born much before that, and that was in the time of Ebud, judge over the Hebrews, about three thoufand years before this our age, about which time was the Golden age io much commended by the Poets Fables. raclides return back again to Actica. This first irruption was twenty years before Troy's ruine. Then an hundred years after this, and fourscore years after the overthrow of Troy, the Heraclides affault Peloponnesus again. The Chiefs of this Expedition were Aristomachus his three sons, Temenus or Temenes; Cresphontes; and Aristodemus; while they sayled to Lepantum, Aristodemus dyed either by a Thunder-bolt, or by the plot of Pylades and Elettra, children, Tifamenus Kinsmen, whose place his two sons Procles and Euristhenus supplyed, who by the Oracle's command made Trioculus, or a man with 3 eyes, General of the Expedition, they lighted upon a purblind man, riding upon a Mule, Oxylus by name of Ætolia, having agreed with him to give him Elw. By his conduct and encouragement, they prepared a Navy, and invade Peloponnesus. About this time the Countrey was inhabited almost by two people, the Achaians and the Iones, fo called from Xuthus his two fons; the Achaians dwelt at Argos unto 37016 and Lacedemon, under the dominion of the Pelopides, which were Agamemnon's policrity, Tifamenus and Pentilus by name, whose father was Orefles. The Iones possessed Achaia: The Heraclides having expelled the Achaians, they diffribute their lot into three parts, of which Argos befell to Temenes, and Messenia to Cresphontes, and Laconia to Ariflomedes's fons; and they faid, that thefe Paulan Mef-Countreys did belong to them by right of inheritance, as well as Apoll, of conquest, because that the posterity of Perfem possessed Argos before Pelop's children, and that Hercules had committed Laconia Paul. Melanthus began his reign in Attica, after the Heraelides return into Peloponnesus; though Eusebius in his Chronicles seems to think otherwise. Codrus zemulating his father Melanthus's glory, he also deserved greater praises; for in the Warr that was, between the Dorienfes, the new Inhabitants of Peloponnefus, and the Athenians, Apollos having answered, That those should be the Conquerors whose General should die in the battel, having put on a Shepherds habit, he enters the enemies Army, there rashly stirring up a gnarrel, he is flain by a common Souldier whom he had wounded: The Dorienfes finding it to be the corps of the King, they then retired without fighting: In which deed of his, whether his contempt of his life, or of his Kingdom, is most to be admired, it's hard to refolve, because mortal men usually prefer these two things before any other thing, though never so dear and precious. That I may make an end to what I had refolved touching the transplantations and Colonies of the Grecians, After the return of the Heraclides there was two remarkable ones. The first Lolick, whereof was Commander in chief Penthilus Orestes's son, who as foon as he left Laconia, entred first with his men into Thracia; then he being dead, there they transported themselves into Asia, and possessed that part which afterwards was called Loli; for the Achaians who inhabited Laconia, were the Lolians. The other transplantation was much more renowned, which is called Ionick, an hundred and thirty years after the ruine of Troy, or, as some other do think, 140 years. The Ionians being gone to Athens, as we have already declared, after Codrus's death, his fons Neleus and Androchus being their Leaders, they transported themselves into Asia, and into that confine of it which by them was called Ionia, the Towns whereof they inhabited.

In the space between these two transplantations, Theras, Autefion's fon the great grandchild of Polynices Oedipus's fon, whose fifter Argia being married to Aristodemus, brought forth to him Procles and Euristenes, led a Colony of Minjans out of Laconia; Now these Minians were the posterity of the Argonautes of Lemnos, who being driven out of Lemnos by the Pelafgians, they with entreaties obtained entertainment in Lacedemon, where being courteoully received, and suffered to dwell in the City, as they began to grow insolent, and to vindicate to themselves the right of the Kingdom, they are cast into prisons; thence having changed their habits with their Wives, they escape into Taygetum. But as the Lacedemonians were leading them to the punishment, Teras required, that they Jul. Which thing to heightened their minds, that ten Tribes being wholly rent from David's family, they appointed themselves a new King, Jeroboam the son of Nebat, an Ephramite, onely the two Tribes of Judah and Benjamin, being the numbers left for Reboboam. By that, was the Jewish name cleft into two kingdoms; whereof one was called the kingdom of Judab, the other of Ifrael; but this latter also was wont to be called the kingdom of Ephraim, from its builder Jeroboam, and of Samaria; afterward the seat of the kingdom was transported into that Town, which hitherto had been placed in the City of Sichem, (a) which Jeroboam built in Mount Ephraim; for the strength of either kingdome was in Jerusalem. About that time, and about the 13 year of Ahab, as the lews affirm in Sederholam, Eliah the Tishbite began to go forth; that is, about the year of the Julian Circuit 3809, before Christ 905, whose parents, and beginning of age the Scripture is filent of. (a) This man foretold a drought of three years and fix moneths. Then staying sometime at the Brook Cerith, a Raven supplying him with victuals, he came forward to the Widow of Sarepta, whose dead fon afterwards he restored to life. The same man, as it were an Umpire of the World, at the promised day restored rain and fruitsulnesseto the Earth: When the Priests

Ahab being dead, Ahaziah his son held the kingdom of the Israelites in the year before Christ 897. Moreover, in which year Elijah being caught up into Heaven in a fiery Chariot, cast his cloak on the top of Elisba, and appointed him the heir of his Prophetical gift. The Chronicle of the Hebrews which they name Seder-holam doth confirm that to have happened in the 17th year of Jehofaphat. But also the (a) fourth book of the Kings sheweth, (a) 4 Kings 1. that not long after the death of Ahaziah King of Ifrael, Elijah was &2. a liver on the earth. For in the same year Ahaziah dyeth, who being fick, had fent certain men on a Message, to ask counsel of

Jeboahan king

Among the Ifraelites Jehn being dead, his fon Jehoahaz, as also Joalb the ion of Jeboahaz do both reign fixteen years. Then Ieroloam, the fon of Ious fourty one years, all not worthy to be named, and given to Idols. Moreover, Joalb king of Judah had Amaziah his son his Successour thirty one years. Amaziah, Azariah took following by craft, who is also Oziah, and was chief 52 years.

About the same time two Jorans both ruled in the kingdome, the one the fon of Jehofaphat, the other of Ahab? For Jehofaphat in twenty and five years finished his reign; after whose death Joram flew his brethren, and by the like unnappinesse and treachery the other four years being finished, he (b) gave place to Ahaziah the fon of Athaliah, the daughter of Ahab, the Neece of Amri, who scarce performing his office a whole year, was slain by Jehn with for am the King of Ifrael. For the Lord carried up this man to the kingdom of Ifrael, to blot out utterly the stock of Ahab. The which as foon as he had gotten, he stoutly indeed endeavoured that work for God : for he commanded Jezabel to be cast headlong our of a window: whole dead carcals when it was fought for burial, nothing of her was found besides the skull and sect, and upper parts of her hands; the rest, the dogs devoured : but he took care also at the same moment to have the seventy sons of Ahab flain. Also all the facrificing Priests of Baal gathered together into one place through the thew of a holy folemnity, he commanded to be killed, he burned the Image with fire, demolished its house; but that which remained, he restored not the

Neither did God long defer the revenging of fo great wickedness. The year following, Hazael King of Syria with small Armies, having wasted the kingdom of Judah, flew all the Princes, and could scarce be turned away from Jerufalem, the which he now fought occasion against, by great gifts, into which all the treasures were poured our. The eleventh from David reigned Amazian the fon of loafh, (d) whose beginnings, even as of his father, were worthy of praise, 14. & 2 Chr. their ends were unlike. He raising war against the Edomites with 25. the whole strength of the kingdom, armed three hundred thousand of his Souldiers: beside whom, he hired our of the Israelitish kingdome an hundred thousand; the which the charges which he had bestowed on them being sleighted, he straightway sent home at the word of one Prophet, forbidding him to make use of the help of such. God being delighted with the king's obedience, gave him to overcome his enemy. But that victory, as prosperous affairs are oftentimes wont, turn'd into the destruction of the Conquerout. For very many Images of gods being gotten among the spoyles, he pursued with worthip and holy rites: Neither would he hearken to the Prophet affrighting him from that wickedness, Therefore he being forlaken of God, first of all he is overcome and taken by Joafb king of Ifrael, whom he had foolishly provoked; the Walls of Jerufalem being broken down; all his riches as well facred as kingly being taken away. At length, Amaziah after fifteen years from the death of Jossb, was flain by the conspiracy of his fervants.

(a) Joseph reigning, and in his tenth year, if any credit may be 13. given to the Hebrew Chronicles, Elisha dycth, which is the 3884 year of the Julian Circuit; the which by this account, must need perform that Prophetical gift very long, under fix kings of Ifrael; he dying, promifed a threefold victory to King Joash over the Syrian; which also a little after he obtained. But into his Sepulthre the dead carcafs of a man being cast, straightway as soon as it touched the bones of the good man, it is raised to life.

Azariah reigned the twelfth from David, or Oziah, & Prince good enough, and therefore he being covered with God's defence, happily governed the kingdom. But at last forgetting himself whiles he usurpeth through pride the offices belonging to the Priests, being made leprous on a sudden, he is driven out from all, even civil office, the ordering of the kingdom being paffed over unto his fon Jotham. Among the Ifraelites Jeroboam at that time swayed the Scepter, in which time Azariah began; for this man is faid to have begun (b) 4 Kings in the (b) 27. year of him.

Under this and Oziah kings, many Prophets flourished, especially in the kingdom of Ifrael, the which as it was more corrupt, fo (a) 4 Reg. 24. it had need of more often remedies. (a) Therefore while Jeroboam 25. reigned, Jonah stood forth or up, who foretold to him a victory over the Syrians. Moreover under Oziah were famous, Hofea, Joil, Amos, Abdiah. (c) But his ion Ahaz was the worlt of Kings, and so despised his fathers Religion, that he worthipped Baul, and fet Images and Altars by him, he facrificed his tons by a wicked custome in the fire. For that thing the neighbouring kings vexed him with very great flaughters; the king of Ifrael, Syria, and the Afigrian, whom he had ftirred up against this king with great rewards: also the Edcmites, and Philiftines. That he might appeale those calamities by foolish counsel, he appointed cursed rites, to pacific the gods of Damaseus towards him, and the Temple being shut up, he rais'd up Altars here and there to Heathenish gods.

But (d) Hezekiah king of Judah, who succeeded his father Ahaz next to David, far excelled all Princes. For this king cast down all Images and Temples, cut down the groves, took away the high places: And lastly, wholly obeyed the Law of Moses. In the fixth year of this king, the ninth of Hofea, the 3993 year of the Julian Period, Salmanassar the king of the Asyrians, Samaria being taken, he carried away all the Ifraelites into Assyria, and to the kingdom of Ifrael ceased, which remained almost 254 years.

And then he fends Rabjbakeh with Armies to befiege Jerufalem, who returning, while he is making ready to invade Jerufalem, in one night an hundred eighty and five thousand are slain by the Angel.

In the same year, after the slaughter of the Asyrians, Hezekiah falls into a deadly discase; of the which he was healed from God by Isaiab the Prophet, and his life prolonged for fifteen years. (b) See the (b) They do disorderly, who place the disease of Hezekiah before

Therefore in the eighth year, as we guelle, of his reign, he being taken by the Princes of the king of Assyria's Army, and bound in fetters, he is brought into Babylon; where he being shewed his evils, and turned with his whole heart unto the Lord, he is wholly restored by him, and straightway the Idols and all the Monuments of wicked superstition being taken away, he endeavoured to shew forth the worship of his father's God. Of the Tyrian Kings, the building of Carthage, of Lycurgus the Law-giver, and the beginnings of the Medes and Macedonians.

Jul. Period. unto 4185. Bout the same time, wherein to both kingdoms of the He-Livens, Princes of their own Nation were as chief, and for a long space after both kingdoms were extinct, there was a kingly government at Tyre, a place inhabited of the Sydonians : the which was built two hundred and fourty years before the Temple was founded by Solomon: (a) I fephus affirmeth this our of the Annals or yearly Chronicles of the Tyrians. That time happens on Gi. (2) Joseph. 8. or yearly Chionicies of the 1971ans. That time nappens on or Anrigen's. deon's Lievtenantship, and the year before Christ, 1247, before Theyear of the destruction of Troy almost the seventieth year. But Antiquity the Jul. Cir. hath blotted out the remembrance of the former Kings of Tyre; 3467, before neither of any of them is there an ancienter than Abiled and his Chrish, 1247. neither of any of them is there an ancienter than Abibal, and his fon Hiram; who lived in David's, and Solomon's time: and being joyned in league and friendship with them both, he also plentifully Hiranking of fupplyed this latter with matter and cunning Work-men to build Tyre. the Temple.

Ithobaal the high Priest of King Astartus, is named to have reigned the eighth from Hiram, whose daughter Jezabel, Ahab the Ithobaal. wicked king of the Ifraelites took in marriage. Moreover, Pygma. 3 King. 16.31; lion is reckoned the eleventh from the same Hiram; who deprived Sichaus (Hercules Priest, the husband of his fister Elifa or Dido, gaping after his riches) of his life. But Dido, all her riches being fecretly put into Ships, not a few companions of the flight being Dido and the gotten, fayled into Africa, where buying a field of (b) Hyarba the building of Governour of the Tauny-Moors, the built a Town, which they Carthage. called Revisage the first Charles the page of a Town, which they (b) Solinus, called Byefa at the first, (that was the name of a Tower) after that, chap. 30. Carthage. That departure is delivered by (c) Josephus out of the Records of Phanicians, to be in the seventh year of Pygmalian. But (e) Joseph. Carthage is faid to be founded in the 144 year after the pag 1043. Temple was begun, which is the 316. year after the mifery of Troy, before Christ 868 years. Therefore the account of Virgil Virgill is tais least agreeable, who determined Dido to be equal in time to kennotice of Aneas, whom it is certain, among the Annals, to have lived almost three hundred years after. For although some of the Antients have written the building of Carthage to be before the taking of Troy by siege: yet those have not judged Dido the sister of Pygmalion to have been the author of it.

Charilaus (that was the name of the Child) being ripe of age, that he might purge away the envy of an affected dominion, going afar off, he brought back a frame of Laws and civil discipline, composed from the custome of divers forts of people, into his Countrey. First of all, he divided equally the ground of Sparta amongst them all: he utterly took away the use of gold and filver, as the cause of strifes and all wickeducifies, weighty pieces of Iron-money being brought in. And lest riot should give an occasion of getting wealth, he both forbad all to feast publickly, and also to accustome themselves with thrifty and hard fare. Agreat fedition arifing, brought almost death on him, giving in charge these and other statutes to his Citizens, the which while he endeavoureth to avoid by flight, Alcander, his head being turned about, put out his eye, looking back by chance. By this spectacle their minds being bent to pitty, the authour of that wicked act is committed to punishment, whom he receiving into his house, so bound to himself by gentlenesse and intreaty, that none from thenceforth was more friendly. In that manner his Laws being openly received, that he might give an everlasting continuance to them, he told them that he would go to the Oracle at Delphos, and bound all his Citizens with an Oath, that they should change nothing of his Lawes before he returned.

So he going into Creet, remained there even untill his death. (a)

Tertullian relateth, he taking it grievously that the Lacedemonians had changed the Laws given them by him, ended his life by voluntary hunger. Moreover also, he dying, commanded his bones to be cast into the Sea, lest they, being brought back to Sparta, the

he was before them an hundred years, and more than that. A whole age before the first Olympiad, the old Kingdome of the A Brians failed; Sardanapalus the last King being despised by Achaces, the chief ruler of the Medes for his riot and floath, and after his army dispersed torced to dye. It was a custome of the A Syrian Princes delivered of old, that they should offer themselves to be seen of none, because they did lead a life shamefull and not befreming men, among flocks of Harlots. Contrary to this custome Arbaces being admitted, when he had beheld Sardanapalm drawing or carding wool among Harlots in womens apparell, being much moved with the unworthinesse of the thing, revolted from him. And after some battels managed with a changeable event, last of all he forced him, being overcome, to a despairing of his Kingdome and life. Therefore betaking himself into an inner room of his Pallace, all his treatures being heaped on a pile of wood, he cast himself on it, and burnt himself alive, that by this bold enterprise however he might shew himself a man. So the royall power of the Medes was founded in Asia, about the eighth year of Iehu King of Ifrael, but the third year of Ioash the son of A. unto 4185. baziah, King of Iudah, before Christ 876. The first in the Medes order reigned Arbaces, the last Astrages the Grandfather of Cyrus. There were nine Kings in all, who enjoyed their affairs 317 vears. . .

But Herodotus hath delivered things a little otherwise concerning the Medes. For he relleth that the Afgrians held Afia 5 20 years. Afterwards the Medes fell of from them, who when they had lived very long without laws and Government, at last King Deioces was chief over them; in whose prudence of declaring right, or civill Law, they were made skilful. Of the Olympick Conflicts or Games.

He most famous Olympick conflict or Game, was set up in L the 408. year after Troy was overthrown, before Rome was built the twenty and third, when Uzziah had now reigned over the Jews the thirty and fourth year. The chief repairer of this, was Iphitus, the Son of Praxonica, Eleus, who brought back his lineage to Hercules. Moreover there were many Herculesses. Of these, he which is reckoned among Ida's Cybeles Priests, first set forth those playes, the which after that were renewed by others, Pelops the fon of Tantalus; and Atreus, and afterwards Hercules, the ion of Alemena celebrated them. At length by Iphitus, and him which I have spoken of, they began to be never-failing in their time, that they might return in the beginning of every fifth year; from whence they were called [merraermunds] that is, five years Games or Conflicts. For four years being perfected, they ran back into a Gircle. But this four years space consisted in that kind of year, which Greece of old used, which was made by the Moon, but leffe exact, as we have thewn in(a) another place. Africanus in George Monk shewed, that the Moon is called by the Egyptians, Olympias, because she wanders through the twelve parts or figns of the Zodiack every Month; which Circle is by the Antients named (ONLINESE) whence he thought them to be called Olympiads. But that is least true; For the name of Olympiads secmeth among the Greeks to have been more ancient, than the dividing of the compasse or Zodiack into twelve pieces, as we shall (a) Book 2. of discourse (a) elsewhere. Therefore their name is put upon them Var. discour. to from the place. It found the name of Fifates from the chief City Pifa, in Princely Peloponnesus; the which, Stephanus being Author, is also called Olympia. (b) This City, their neighbours the people of Elis overthrew, when the Pifates had endeavoured to Eliac. r.p. 200. fnatch themselves out of their power, to which they had been fubdued. At or near to the fame City was the most antient Temple of Jupiter, distant from Elis three hundred Furlongs, nigh the River Alpheus. Neither far from thence is there a Wood fer with wild Olaves, of which the Crowns of the Conquerours were weav'd, as also a race or Furlong, wherein the pastime playes or fpectacles were thewn. Paufanias writeth, the Temple being made of Dorick-work, had

(d) Therefore of that (d)Paul Eliac. Nation the Judges of the conflicts, which they called (agonothetas), or (Hellanodicas), were at the first two, then nine, afterwards ten, and twelve; from thence they are made eight, and at lait, ten. Then they performed rites at fix Altars, all which a pair of gods obtained. The first Olympiad or four hours exercise imployed Corabus a Citizen of Elis for his course, whom Athaneus declares to have been a Cook by Trade. Moreover the Olympiade began in the 3938, year of Jul. Cir. Of the World 3208. which is before the birthday of Christ, 776. And the games were acted from the 19. day of July to the 23. for the just time of them was in Summer, under the very Solftice, or Sun-stead.

CHAP. VI.

Of the latter and revived Kingdome of the Assyrians, and of its Princes; and of Judith, and Olofernes, and of Sargon and Thartan: as also the beginning of the Babylonith Kingdome.

Here is made frequent mention in facred books, of the Af-1 Syrian Kings; even after that time, wherein Sardanapalus being dead, it is manifest that Empire, first begun by Belus or Ninus, had an end. For it is agreed amongst all, that that happened in that year, wherein the foundations of the royall government of the Medes were laid, the which indeed we have shewn above in the 4th chapter, to have happened an hundred years before the first Olympiade, that is, three hundred and seventeen years before the beginning of Cyrus. But long after that time, other Princes of the Asyrians are reckoned up. So Azariah reigning after his nine and thirtieth year; Phul King of the Affgrians is faid to have (b) vexed the Israelites. Which year is numbred seven hundred seventy one years before Christ, and is the hundreth and fixth year from the death of Sardanapalus, and the destruction of Nineveh.

That I may not stay thee longer; I think that after that old Int. Cir. 3453: Empire of the Afgrians put out, or passed over to the Medes, the Medes waxing old by little and little, and their strength being weakned through floath and calmnelle, some fell off from them: first the Asyrians, and then the Babylonians. For because the Medes kept not the same course of fortune from Arbaces to Deioces, from that, it is very likely, that Herodotus saith, the Medes in that mean space were free, and to have lived without a King. Wherefore Nineveh being overthrown, and the former Afgrian Kings being taken away, there were afterwards new Kings, who restored that City, and bare a large rule, untill they were overcome in war by the Babylonian Kings. The names of these, and what Kings were reigning in Judea, which indeed are mentioned in Scripture, I will writedown.

A Register of the Assyrian Kings.

These are the Kings of the Assrians, of which the Scripture hath made mention: the which at the beginning it appears to have conquered Babylon, out of the (a) facred History of the Kings. Where Salmanassar is said to have sent inhabitants out of Babylon and other countries into Samaria. But it is gathered out of the (b) C. 18.2. (b) same book that they reigned over the Medes. -

(b) Ch.20, 1.

Besides these Asyrian kings, (b) Isaiah mentioneth Sargon king of the Asyrians, who sent Tartan, whom most confound with Sen-(c)4K.18.17. nacherib, (c) because this King is said to have fent Tartan. Yet they are not wanting, who make both to be different; to whom if we hearken, he shall be thrust in between Salmanassar and Sennacherib, and is to have been thought either the Father, or furely the (d) Tob. 1. 18. brother of this. Because (d) Salmanassar being dead, Sennacherib his fon is faid to have reigned in his flead. Therefore none feemeth to be placed between them both. But those things which we have a little before cast in by the way, concerning the beginning of the Kingdome of Babylon; they are supported by the witnesse of Ptolomey, and old Astronomers, who do reckon their times from the beginning of Nabonassar king of Babylon, which beginning goeth before the reckoning of Christ, (c) 747. years. From hence the old kingdome of the Chaldeans seemeth to have begun.

The sourteenth year of Hezekiah, from these things which have been above explained, runnerh into the year before Christ, 714, which is the thirty fourth from the beginning of Nabonassar. There is an old rule or Canon of the Babylonian kings, which Ptolemy and other Mathematicians have used, which is lengthened from Nabonassar unto the death of Alexander the Great. Moreover in that Canon, Mardoxempadus, who is named Meradach in facred books, began to reign twenty seven years from Nabonassar, and peradventure that Baladan

Wherefore there is a probable gueste, that some space of time after the Assyrians, the Babylonians fell off from the Medes, and unto 4185. appointed themselves a private kingdome, Natonassar being their Captain. Which kingdome small in the beginning, and subject to the Assyrians, was inlarged by Nabopolassar, and his son Netuchadnezzar, as also the Medes themselves, and the Asyrians it subjected to it felf. Of which thing afterwards. But the beginnings of that Empire are very dark; Of which, Hiftory hath almost left nothing but conjecture.

After one years interval of the kingdom, Numa Pompilius was defired King by the Romans, by birth a Sabine, and springing from the family of the Curii, (c) in the third year of the fixteenth Olympiad, before the account of Christ 714, who being turned to the study of peace, appointed the Roman religious rites; he increased their year two moneths, hitherto consisting of ten. Moreover, the Temple being shut up, he gave a continual rest unto his Subjects. He reigned 38 years.

The third King of Rome reigned Tulliu Ho Stiliu, (a) who began the second year of the 27 Olympiad, before Christ 671, a man unaccustomed to peace, and given to Wars. This King, the Albanes being overcome, rooted out their City, when he had brought over all their wealth and the people it self to Rome; and had drawn in divers pieces Metius Fuffetius the Dichator or chief Officer of the Albanes, he being manifestly reproved of treachery, bound between two Chariots, the Horses being driven. He triumphed thrice over the Albanes, Fidenates, and Sabines. He Reigned 32 years, and being stricken from Heaven, he perished with his Wife and Family.

The fourth reigned Ancus Martius, the Nephew of Numa Pompiliu, the year before Christ 639, the second year of the 35 Olympiad, of whom the Latines were overcome, and many received into the City, who were placed in Aventinum. The Town Janiculum was fenced by the same king, and entries being framed, Tyber is joyned by a bridge made of posts. He reigned twenty four years.

The fifth King of Rome, Taxquinim Priscus, began the second year of the 41 Olympiad, before Christ 615. This Man was the son of Demeratus Corinihus, of the stock of the Bacchiadæ or people of Corinth, a fugitive, and, at first called Lucumo, wandred to Rome, and from the Tarquines, a Town of the Etrascians, where he had hitherto dwelt with his Father, was called Luciu Targuiniu. Servius Tullius, the fon in law of this King, reigned the fixth in order, in the fourth year of the 50 Olympiad, before Christ 577. This Man was born of Ocrifia Corniculana, a captive Mother; and being commended by Tarquinius the King for his virtue, he is put before the heads of the kingly race. Many things were famoully ordained by him in the Common-wealth. He first appointed a (a) reckoning or numbring of the people, and decreed it every (a) seethe fifth year turning about to be made. At length, the kingdom being governed for 44 years with the greatest praise, by the accursed parricide of his fon in law Tarquinius and his daughter, his life was taken from him.

In the fourth year of the 61 Olympiad, as Dionysius sheweth, before Christ 533, the seventh and last reigned Tarquinius, by firname, the Proud, whom most of the old Romans, and those Livie hath followed, have affirmed to be the fon of Priscus. He affaulted the Senators and Nobles with flaughters and robberies. He made the Temple in Albanum commune to his Companions the Latines, and framed the Latine holy-dayes. He built the Temple of Jupiter Capitolinus, begun by his Grandfather, from spoyls taken in War. At length, for a ravishment brought on a most Noble woman Lucretia, by Aruntes his son, he being absent, while he besieged Ardea, by the agreement of the People his highest dignity was taken away, and with him the name of King was taken away out of the City, the year of the City's building going out, 244.

envy and grudging arifeth against Neighbours. Either a ravishment offered to the Laconian women by the Mesenians through a shew of holy things, and death brought on Teleclus King of the Lacedemonians by the fame; or mutual injuries of private persons, gave the occasion: the which while the Cities prosecuted couragiously, a fierce War waxed hot on both fides. The Lacedemonians made the first affault, who, the Messenians provoking them in vain to equal conditions, binding themselves first with a most grievous oath, That they would not cease from Arms, before they should obtain Messenia; they possessed their Town Anphia, placed on the fide of an hill. (b) That happened in the fecond year of the ninth Olympiad; this is of Jul. Cir. 3971, Euphars reigning over the Messemans. On the fourth year after, which was of Jul: Cir. 3975, a cruel battel was fought, as also a new breaking in of the Lacedemonians; and lastly, the Messenians, other Towns being left, do fence Ithome. Euphaes being dead, Aristode. mus is chosen King by the Messenians, he who killed his daughter before the Oracle. That fell out about the 3984 year of Jul. Cir. the third year of the 12 Olympiad. The Lacedemonians received a great flaughter from this king: (a) whom it so pleased, as to prostitute their Wives to supply off-spring. Whence were born those whom they called Parthenians, of which afterwards. That thing happened about the third year of the 13 Olympiad, the fifth year of Aristodemus. At length Aristodemus, the safety of his Countrey being despaired of, because the Spartans did oppresse Ithome with a most straight siege, he stabbed nimself at his daughters grave, after he had reigned fix years, and a greater part of the feventh. But in the first year of the 14 Olympiad going out, of the Jul. Circ. 3991, the twentieth after the Messenian War was begun, Ithome was forfaken by the Messenians, and overthrown by the Lacedemonians. Thus an end is put to the former War. After this some of the Messenians, Alcimadas being their Captain, through Shipwrack, travel to Rhegium, which is a Town of Italy.

After 38 years from thence, this is the 4th year of the twenty third Olympiad, of Jul. Cir. 4029. Tlesias being chief Governour of Athens, as Paufanias faith, through the encouragement of Aristomenes, a man endued with Heroick valour, the Messenians renew the War against the Lacedemonians; in which Warr the Lacedemonians defire a Captain from the Athenians, by the Oracle. These ordain for them Tyrtaus the Post, a Schoolmaster, who being Commander, at the first they are overcome; afterwards they are made the superiours rather by deceit, than virtue. The Meffenians betake themselves into the Mountain Ira in the third year of the War: where they resisted their enemies eleven years. Aristomenes about that time did (b) many incredible and astonishing things. For Arienne the daughter of Alyattes, married Allyages the fon of Cyaxar. That Labynitus seemeth to be the same, who in holy books is called Nebuchadnezzar, the fon of Nabopolassar, who both reigned in Babylon, and the rule of the Medes being now shook off, enlarged the Babylonian affairs; of the which mention is to be made hereafter.

The History of the World; or, Lib. 2.

After Nabonassar, whom we rightly think the Founder of the Babylonian Empire, many, but obscure ones, are numbred even to Nabopolassar in the Mathematicians Canon, of the which we have made mention above. Nabopologsar increased by weapons the Ba-(a) According bylonian kingdom, the which he had received little. For (a) Berofus, an equal Writer of the Chaldaick Annals, and of the times of Alexander the Great, hath delivered, That Nabopolassar, the Father of Nebuchadnezzar, bearing rule over Egypt, Calefyria, and Thornicia, a Lievtenant, was chief over them: who when he fell off, Nabopolassar being now of great age, sent his son Nebuchadnezzar against him with an Army; who, his stubborn enemies being overcome, and his command recovered, when as between these things Nabopolassar was by Natures destiny dead, he speedily fled to Babylon, all his Armies together with the prey being left with a certain one of his friends, that he might carry those things into Babylon. Nabopolassar reigned twenty and one years, and began in the year of the Jul. Cir. 4089 of Josiah the King the 17. Moreover, that former Expedition of Nebuchadnezzar happened in the third year of Joachim the fon of King Josiah, or the fourth entring of the Jul. Cir. 4107, from which the Jews have counted the beginning of King Nebuchadnezzar; although Nabopolassar was alive two years space after this year. Moreover, Nebuchadnezzar being much more famous than his Father, waged very exceeding great Warrs, and passed through very many Nations, by overcoming them; the which not onely the holy Writings do witnesse; but also Megasthenes in his fourth book of the Indian affairs, according to (b) Josephus, hath wrote concerning this King, That Hercules was much exceeded by him in valour, and greatness of things done. For both that chief City of Africa, and the greater part of Spain, he brought by weapons under the yoke. CHAP. X.

Of the last Kings of Ægypt out of Herodotus, Sethon, the twelve Princes, Plammeticious, Nechaus, Amasides, and others.

THe beginnings and lordly powers of the Agyptians, which L George Monk hath gathered out of Africans and Eusebing, are mixed with many fables. Wherefore those being let passe, we will bring into publique view a few Kings out of Herodotus, which do feem needful to illustrate this our, & the facred History. (a) He therefore, some kings being rehearsed, writeth, Sethon the Priest of Vulcan to have reigned; who when he behaved himself fcornfully in a warlike kind, fell into his discontent. Therefore when Sennacherib king of the Arabians and Assyrians had with great Forces assaulted Egypt, Sethon being for saken by his Army, implored the ayd of his god; from whom a multitude of field Mice being fent by night, gnawed afunder their quivers of Arrows, and strings of their bowes, and rains of their bucklers. So the day after the enemies being naked of weapons fled. There is no doubt, but that Sennatherib was the same King of Asyrians, who, Hezekiah reigning, sacked Judea. For times on both sides

Twelve Princes.

After Sethan, twelve Ægyptian kings were chief over them, the Countrey being divided into fo many parts. One of these was Plammeticus; who being driven out by his fellows, and removed into marshy places, by the help of the Ionians and Carians; the other eleven being overcome, he possessed all Egypt; and made friendship with the Greeks, and he first gave them a field or Land in Egypt to inhabit in. His beginning happeneth into the year before Christ 670, the third of the 26 Olympiad; and from that, he reigned fifty four years, of the which he fpent thirty one years in besieging Azotus, a Town of Pale-

The Agyptians fell off from him, by reason of the Cyrenian Expedition, in no case managed from judgment; to the appeafing of whom, faith Herodotus, Amasis, a Lievtenant was sent, who making the Rebels friends to himself, he invaded the kingdom, and yielded up Apries to those that required him to be kept in custody, and then to the Egyptians for death. Apries began, by his kingdom, he had Pfammis his Successour: This man had Apries, the accounts of Herodoius, in the year of the Julian Cir. 4120, and he reigned twenty five years. Thus Analis began in the year of the Julian Circuit 4145. Whom at the first I have be- unto 4189. lieved to have been let over Egypt by Nebuchadnezzar, Necho as yet living: and after Apries being flain, the rule of the Babylomians being shook off, to have begun to reign by their own authorities. For Nabopolassar, as I have shewn above, had long ago subdued Egypt; which, as it appeareth, being suffered with their own Kings, and those made tributary, he added an Overseer, who should keep it in its homage; the which also his son Nebuchadnezzar afterwards appointed.

(a) Herodotus reports, That Anasis, because he was of a (a) Herod. common stock, was in the beginning despised of his Subjects: but b. 2. ch.172. he brought these by counsel and diligence, rather than by force unto the reverencing of him after this manner. He brake a golden bason, in which he had wont to wash his feet with his guests, and made out of it the Image of a God, and dedicated it openly. The which when he had learned to be had in great honour by the Egyptians, an affembly being called, he faid, That Image which they fo worshipped, was made of that bafon, which had accustomed to serve unto base uses. But it had happened to him as unto that; who when as before he had been of the common people; now he is their Prince. Therefore it seemeth meet, that from henceforth honour should behad by him from all: by which speech he by and by effected what he would have. (b) Also it is reported, that by the same King this Law was (b) Herod. given, That every year all should confesse openly before the beach. 177. Prefidents of the Provinces, from whence they got their living; he that either should not do this, or not prove an account of his manner of life, should be punished with death: The which law, Solon afterwards having imitated, is faid to have brought on the Athenians. Amasis deceased about six moneths before that Cambyses rushed into Egypt; of whom it shall be spoken a

(a) Herod. 1. Ctef. Juft. 1.

He last over the Medes reigned Aftyages, as (a) Herodorm, and Crefias, and other Historians out of them have fince delivered. This man joyned onely one daughter which he had, (seeing he wanted manly off-spring), Mandanes, with a certain Persian, Cambyfes, a quiet man, nor desirous of new affairs, because he had learned by a dream, that he should be deprived of his Kingdome by a Nephew. For the same cause he calls his daughter unto him being great with child, and delivereth the infant that was born of her; to Harpagus to be flain; which one man he had most familiar, and the partaker of all his fecrets. But he gave him to be put out privily unto the kings shepheard, of whom being brought up, when as he came to age, he fullfilled the truth of the dreams. For when as he was acknowledged of Altrages, and received into favour, at length Harpagu counselling him, (whose Ion Alyages, for keeping his Nephew alive, had flain, and offered to his father to be eaten,) he fell off from his Grandfather. Assages being overcome, there was a contention with Crassus and the Lydians. For Crafus being joyned in affinity with Aftrages, as I have above rehearfed, he not bearing both the increasings of Cyrus and the Persians with a moderate mind, waged war on them. In the which he being overcome, came with all his Kingdome, and the Sea inhabited places of Greece into the power of Cyrus. (d) Diodorus writeth, that Eurybatus an Ephefian, being sent with a great sum of money from Crassus, that he might muster Souldiers Valifierforth in Peloponnesus, and the other part of Greece, he ran away to Cyrus. Thence the name of Eurobatus is accounted for a reproach, that whose notable treachery and dishonesty they would fignify, him they would call Eurybatus. That flaughter of the Lydians feemeth to have happened about the 59. Olympiad beginning (e) before Christ 544.

Cræsus being condemned by the Conquerour Cyrus to the butning flame, when as he often times one after another named the name of Solon to Cyrus; demanding at length what that man unroads, should be, he answered, he was a wife Athenian, who in times w past had admonished him, That no mortall man ought to be called bleffed before death; which word how true it was, now at length he did understand. This being heard, Cyrus not onely spared the man, but alfo afterwards had him in effeem. And then X Lydia being subdued, he vanquished Asia, over which he made Magares chief; from whom when the Lydians had again rebelled by the Counfell of Crafus, weapons and Horfes being taken away, they were commanded to exercise Taverns, and playing pastime arts, and bawderies, from the which the very words ludorum and ludiorum, that is, of playes and pastimes, are believed to have flown. After this man, Harpagus took care of the fame Province, and made (a) Ionia, and other nigh Provinces, of the Perfian Empire, beginning from the City of Phocas; whose rule inhabitants for fear of flavery, all their goods being put into Ships, and curfing themselves with a curse, if ever they returned, they sailed to Corfica, and Italy, and the Coast of France, and in (b) this built (b) thoran in a noble Town which they called Massilia, which happened about Archid. Little before the first Messenian War, a beginning was given to many famous Cities. First of all to Syracusa, whereof the builder was Archias a Corinthian, of the flock of the Bacchiades, who, (c) four Towns being overthrown, Achradines, Neapolis, Epipolis, Tyches, he made out of them all, one City, unto which also Ortygia happened, which hitherto had been an Island. Both names, both of Ortygia, and Syracufa, either gave it to those places; or so many daughters of Archias, which, being born there, he called Ortygia and Syracufa, took their name from those Cities, Afterward he being flain by Telephus a certain man, through deceit, (d) Plut on 4. who was beloved of him, he gave him punishment for the old wickednesse committed in his country, for that he was compelled to depart out of Greece. But that was after this man-

This mans Son Attaon, of a fine beauty of body, but indued with a greater chastity, when Archias 1 ad in vain folicited with gifts, and divers allurements, he tryed to take him away by force. For a great company of servants and friends being raifed, he brake into the house of Melifius, and Afteen being laid hold of the began to lead him away from thence. Meliffus, the aid of Lawes and Magistrates being befought in vain, when he would expresse more indignation and grief of all things, than what was meet, he goes up through the Ishmian enterlude, and a frequent Market of Greece there, into the Temple of Neptune, which was placed in a steep place. There, after that he had thorowly pleaded many things against the Bacchiades, and concerning the deferts of his father Abron towards the Corinthians, at last praying the Gods to be his revengers, he cast himself headlong from the top. A little after, a drought and Plague arifing, the Corinthians fent Archias to Delphos to ask the cause of Apollo. To this man, asking counfell, the Oracle answered, this evil should thus cease, If the Corinthians had taken punishment for the death of Alleon. which thing being heard, Archias not daring to go back to Corinth, failed into Sicily. All the Bacchides being cast out of Corinth, changed their foil: Eufebius fet forth by Pontacus, theweth the building of Syracufa to be in the fourth year of the ninth Olympiad, which is before Christ 741. Which thing also Polyanus believed. For he writeth unto Cyrus, requiring the daughter of Amasis to wedlock; Nitetis the daughter of Apries being fent by Amasis, in her room; which Nitetis, the matter being diffembled, when as the had born many children by Cyrus, and among these Cambyses, the deceit being confessed to Cyrus, he forced him, That because Amasis was dead, he should revenge himself on his son Pfammeticus. (b) Before that Cambyfes went into Egypt, Amasis dyed, and his (b) Herod, in fon Pfammeticus succeeded him. Who being taken by Cambyfes, he the same lived sometime in Persia. Cambyses was holpen in that Expedition by a Navy of Polycrates, a Tyrant of the Samians. Agypt being fubdued, heacted many things in a cruel and wicked manner. He leading an Army against the Ethiopians, for want of provifion, left off his enterprize. But when he had fent about 50 thoufand to burn the Temple of Jupiter Hammon, by that tempest, and great heaps of fand, they were overwhelmed.

Moreover, he commanded Crafus, friendly admonishing him crafus freed of what was his duty, to be led to death. But the Persians with from death. drew him privily. Which thing being known, being glad of his safety, he punished his preservers with a mortal punishment.

At length, in the beginning of the eighth year of his reign, before Christ 522, Cambifes fell into madness, and commanded his own brother Smerdis to be flain; because he had seen in a dream him fitting in his Chair of State. Prexaspes executed that command. So indeed Herodotus. But Ctesias writeth his name to have been Tanyoxar: and he explaineth the matter a little otherwise. Not much after, Cambyfes falling fuddenly upon timber, he hurt the muscle of his thigh, and the eleventh day after he dyed.

with death, because he being forbidden by the usher of his Chamber, and Porter, to come unto the King, he had cut off both their noses and ears. He reduced the Tributes to a certain mean. The fumme of these out of Asia and Agypt was 14560 of Euleran talents; the which being reduced to our brass money, do make 10374000 of our Targets.

He gave to Sylosontes the brother of Polycrates, of whom being deprived, he was as yet endowed with a robe or a chief Counfellour in Agypt, the chief rule of his Country, the Isle of Samos. At which time almost, Babylon fell off; the which being besieged 20 moneths, he obtained through Zopyrus a Prince of great trust: which fell out next after the third year of the 67 Olympiad.

Herod. 4. Just. 1. Corp. Nep. in Milt.

There was a two-fold famous Expedition made by him. The former against the Scythians; the other against the Greeks. In the former he commanded Bosphorus, a narrow Sea with a bridge; then the other he made in the River Danubius: for the keeping of which, he placed Princes of the Ionian Cities, by whom it was deliberated, whether or no, the bridge being broken down, to which thing the Scythians perswaded them, they should deliver Darius, and the strength of the Persians to be overthrown, by an universal flaughter on the same. But the opinion of Histiaus Milesius prevailed, who perswaded, that that should not be done for this reason, because by the kingdom of Darius, their own safety and rule was supported. Therefore Darius, a great part of his Army being lost, returned with grief into Asia; Megabazus being left with 70 thousand in Europe, that he might subdue it by weapons. This dispatch against the Scythians happened, the 68 Olympiad beginning, before the account of Christ 508.

(b) Megabazus subdued Thracia and Macedonia unto the Government of Darius. At which time Alexander the fon of Amyntas King of the Macedonians, flew certain chief of the Persians, wantonly sporting themselves in a banquet at his own house. Darius returning into Persia, drew Histiaus, a Tyrant of Miletus along with him against his will, through a shew of honour, and set his Couzen-german over the City in his place: Whom afterward, was privily encouraged, that he would fall off from the King, and should draw the Ionians with him into the fellowship of the War. For through a defire of his Countrey, and a weariness of the Perfian Court, he took that counsel, that under pretence of quenching that domettick flame, he might obtain leave to travel from Darius. In the mean time, Aristagoras, freedom being restored to the Milefians, and Tyrants, as far as he could, being every where taken away, he looked at the ayd of the Grecians. Therefore the Lacedemonians being tryed in vain, he cometh to Athens; of whom he being holpen with a Navy of twenty Ships, he openly fell off from the Persians: Straightway by their help Sardis was taken and set on fire. That happened in the 69 Olympiad. The Persians following hard after the Ionians, do scatter and put them to flight. Who being for faken by the Athenians, they however maintained no leffer war against the Persians. They take Byzantium and other Cities. Darin, it being heard that Sardis was burned by the Ashemans, being covetous of revenging, commanded, that he should be daily put in mind of bringing war on the Athenians.

(a) Aristagoras being afterwards slain in the Army, Histiam, (a) Herod. 6: who was fent by Darius, doth vainly strive against the King with the Ionians: who being overcome in a Sea-fight, Miletus in the fixth year from the falling away of Aristagoras, was vanquished and consumed with fire; Histiaus being taken in fight by Harpagun Captain of the Persians, and being brought unto Artaphernes the brother of Darius, they hang him on a gibber.

Darius sends Mardonius his son in law against the Grecians with an Army; who, Tyrants being taken away out of the Cities of Ionia, in their stead he appointed Governments popular, or of the people. Thereby he subjected Thracia, Macedonia, and the Neighbouring Countreys unto himself. He being toffed at the Mountain Atho with a grievous calamity, lost twenty thousand men. After these things Darius sent Ambassadours into Greece, who should take away by force, or demand, the water and fire, unto which the people of £gina did homage.

At length, in the third year of the 72 Olympiad, 4224 of the

He not onely pretended this latter Juft. ch. for his Expedition; but this moreover, that he might restore Hippias the fon of Pisifiratus, who was cast out of Athens, and become an humble fuiter to him, into his tyranny.

Darius being moved with these things, sends a Navy into Greece of fix nundred Galleys with Oars, as faith Herodotus: but as Cornelsus Nepos relateth in Miltiades, of five hundred; wherein he put two hundred thousand footmen, ten thousand horsemen, if we believe the same man. But Lysias in his Episaph numbreth five hundred thousand. That Navy (Datis, and Artaphernes the son of Artaphernes, the brother of Darius, being Captains) first being brought to Eubæa, took Eretria. From thence it cometh into Attica, and set forth its Armies on the plain field Maratho. The Athenians create ten Prætors or Maiors against them, who were chief over the Army; amongst whom was Militades, by whose Successes with a very small company (for he had not more than ten thousand, whereof nine thousand of Athenians, of the Plataans there were a thousand) the Barbarians were scattered. Cornelius Nepos affirmeth Datis to have brought an hundred thouland of footmen, and ten thousand horsemen into battel array; 6400 being flain of the Persians. Aster this slaughter, Darius made a greater provision against the Greeks of (a) three whole years space. But in the fourth year Ægypt forfook him. While therefore he fitteth himself to be revenged of both, a diffention arising between his sons, who required to be by their father chosen King, contrary to the custome; at length Xerxes was by him ordained and pur before Artabazanes the elder, because he was also born of Arossa the daughter of Crrus; and was received into the chief power. (b) b. 6. Hered. 5. & 6.

TN the twentieth year before the Marathonian battel, as (b) 1. Thucydides is Authour, the rule of those of Pisistratus was quenched in Athens, by the endeavour of the Alemaonides, and the help of the Lacedemonians. For Hippias the fon of Pisistratus, was driven out, when he had been chief 18 years after the death of his (c) A discourse Father; whose brother was Hipparchus, as (c) Plato is witnesse, a moderate and learned man. Yet Diodorus faith, That Hipparchus and Hippias were violent and wilfull men; but the third fon of Pifistratus, The Salus, to have been civil and well manner'd, who, Tyranny being renounced, was much beloved of his Citizens: whom again (a) Heraclides contradicteth, who faith, The falus to have been the younger, and fiercely rash in boldness: Whom the Conspirators being willing to kill, they slew Hipparchus, far more gentle than his two brethren, in his stead. This man was slain by the conspiracy of Harmodius and Aristogiton, in the time of the Athenians exercifing their active games. Who both being killed by them of the guard, many others were tortured, and punished. (b) After that, Hippias lorded it three years over the Athenians: and in the fourth being driven out, he fled to Darius, in the twentieth year before the fight at Maratho, as faith Thucydides. Wherefore the death of Hipparchus happened in the fourth year of the 66 Olympiad; in which year, it is gathered from thence, the five yearly active games, facred to the Athenians, were wont to be proclaimed. But this year was before Christ 513. But Hippias was cast out in the third year of the 67 Olympiad, of the Jul. Circuit 4204; afterwards Images were publiquely placed for Harmodius and Ariftogiton, as (c) Pling written; who faith, that was done in the same year, wherein the Rulers were driven away. But they were thrust out in the third year of the same Olympiad going out; unto 4430. that is, of the Jul. Cir. 4205.

(d) About the same time, wherein Darius by Ambassadours re- ch. quired the water and fire from the Grecian Cities, when the peo- (d) Hered. ple of Agina had obeyed his commands, and Cleomenes Ruler in b. 6. Lacedemon had come thither to enquire into, or hear their cause debated, he being by his companion in Office Demaratus led into a fault, he caused the Government to be taken away from this very man; Pythias being brought in as a falle witness, which denved Demaratus to be the lawful fon of Arifto, Leotychides was ordained in the rooom of this man; of whom he being sharply touched with a mock, he ran away to the Persians.

At that season Miltiades the son of Cimon was renowned at Athens, who obtained dominion in Cherronesus, a City of Thracia. For Miltiades the Uncle of this man, the son of Cypselus born of the fame Mother as Cimon, by the Dolonean or Iwitt-footed Thracians, who inhabited Cherronesus, he being called to the chief rule, by the Oracle, at Athens, Crafus reigning, with whom when he exercifed friendship, he held that Countrey. He dying, left Stefagoras the fon of his brother Cimon his fuccessour. Who being killed by a privy murderer, the lons of Pilibratus, faith Herodotus, fend Militades the fon of Cimon, whom they themselves had taken away from amongst them, thither; who there enjoyed the affairs. But in the third year after it came to passe, the Scythians break into Thracia, whom Darius had provoked by his Expedition made against them. Whom Miltiades shunning, left Cherronesus, and was restored afterward to the same by the Thracians. These things Herodotus. Which that they may be true, it must needs be, that Militades was fent by Hippins onely after the death of Hipparchus, for in the third year after, the Scythians made their violent assault or inroad.

Which victory being gotten, he is fent to purfue its remainder with a Navy; and while he compasser by the Hlands of Bella, a Town in Campania, he goeth to Paros; and what with a false fright of an Army of Persians invading, what through the sickness of an hurr body, being beaten off from thence, he was fined by the unjust sentences of his Cirizens, with a great furnm of money; and because he had

(b) Æschylus also, the brother of Cynegirus, who behaved himself fo valiantly in the Battle at Marathonia, was very famous at Athens about this time: which Æschylus likewise was in the same fight, as the Writer of his life tells us : But in the life of Suphceles we are informed Cynegitus was son to one Archontes Philippus, and born in the fecond year of the 71 Olympiad, and younger than Afchylus by 17 years; by which account, Aschylus was born in the first year of the 67 Olympiad, and of the Julian Period the 4202, and fought this Battle of Marathonia in the 22, or 23 year of his age; fo that his death will fall in the 4267 year of the Julian Period. Of the most memorable occurrences transacted in Græcia, after the Persian war ended, and other, and the civill broils in Greece.

THen the storm of the Persian war was allayed, the Gracians had their hands full at home. For their two chief Cities Athens and Lacedemonia were at contention which of them should have the preheminence, and with these (some with one, some with the other) all the other Cities fided.

This Diodorus writes to be in the fourth year of the 77 Olympiad.

At last, in the 81 Olympiad, (t) the Egyptians deserting the Athenians, they were glad to come off upon equal terms: Inarus was executed for his revolt, and Ægypt recovered.

In the interim, the feeds of discord grew up so by degrees betwixt the two Cities, that at last they fell from words to blows, by the continual provocation one of another. For the Athenians were so taken with their own breeding and generosity, that being puft with pride; the great ones of them behaved themselves not onely arrogantly, but injuriously insulted over their fellows; so that many of them fled over to the Lacedemonians, as faith (u) Thafin in the 79 Olympiad of his Egineta. The Athenians, when under their Captain Leocrites they had routed the Corinthians and Epidaurians, marched for Peloponnese in the second year of the 80 Olympiad. Cymon with a Navy under his Command marched for Cyprus, and defeated the Barbarians both by Land and Sea, and brought Artaxerxes to compound for peace, than which nothing to this day redounded more to the honour of Greece, or to the disparagement of the Persians. For they were glad to accept peace upon these conditions, That they should not come within a dayes journey for a well-mounted horse man, of the Sea-side; and that they should not passe betwixt the Cyaneans and Chelidomians in any long or beaked Ships, and that they should set free all the Cities of Asia which they held. (v) This peace was concluded in the fourth year of the 82 Olympiad, as Diodorus reports. The very same year Cymon, as he lay at the Leaguer of Civium, fell fick and dyed.

(c) In the 303 year of the City-account, and the 451 before (c) Dion. 10. Christ, the Constitution of the Roman State was altered, accord. & 11. ing to Dionysius. For then the Decemberi (or the Government by Liv. 3. Ten) were established in the Supream Authority, who appointed several Laws for the Romans, which they gathered out of certain Conflitutions brought thither the year before, by certain Legates out of Greece, which I say they new-modelled and fitted to the Construction of the Roman Common-Wealth. But these men prefently made use of the power put into their hands, to Tyranny and Oppression; infomuch, that one of them (by name Appin Claudius) lecking by force to compell Virginia to be his Concubine, her father, to prevent him, flew her with his own hands. Whereupon grew another Infurrection amongst the common people; to appeale which mutiny, they were fain to suppresse the December, and restore the Tribunes of the People and Confuls, to Office again: which fell out upon the 305 year of the City, and the (d) 60 after (d) Cicer. $ the liberty thereof, the year before Christ 449; so that the Decem- de fine. viri had ruled but three years at most.

But in regard he testisses he wrote a book, entituled, useds Adrosus in the 730 year after the destruction of Troy; which year, according to our reckoning agrees with the 4260 of the Jul. He often quelled the infurrections of the Syracufans, advantaged by the affistance of the Lacedemonian power, and had many a fore dispute with the Carthaginians constantly; who (under the command of Imilcon their Generall) whilst they besieged Syracusa (making havock of all that came in their way, not sparing the most holy things) were ftruck with a very fore plague, fo that what by this Pestilence for that they had increached upon some hely or dedicated land. Philomelus stirred his Phocenfes to the spoyling of the Temple at Delphos. When the City was thus tainted with facriledge, they were prefently ingaged in another Broyl with the Locrians, and the Thebans, wherein they explated that heynous fact, with the utter ruine and flaughter of their whole Nation. In which it is most remarkable what (c) Philo in Eusebins writes, That whereas there was a Law, that whofoever should rob the Temple, of her Przp. Evang. money or Ornaments, should either be precipitated, or drowned, or burnt, three chief Captains of the Phocenfes, who were partakers in this facriledge, perished by these three severall deaths: for first Philomelus being conquered by the Thebans, cast himself from a Precipice, and lo died, as Diod, tells us, in the third year of the 106 Olymp. After him, Onomarchus was thrown into the waters by his own fouldiers, and so drowned, the fourth year of the same Olymp. The third was Phyallus, who, the year following, was burnt alive in the Temple at Abas, although Diodorsu and others fay, he died of a Confumption. This was accomplished by Philip King of Macedon, to whose aid the Thebans flocked, and the Phocenfes had supplies from both Lacedemon, and Athens, Yet all the Cities of the Phocenfes except Abas which was clear of the facriledge, were levelled with the Ground. This war began, as Diodorus reckons, in the second year of the hundred and fixth Olympiad, the three hundred ninety and ninth year from, or after, the foundation of Rome, and ended the very beginning of the tenth year of it in the latter end of the second of the hundred and eighth Olympiad; of the Julian Period, the four thousand three hundred fixty eighth, although (d) Paufauias will have it to begin whilst Agashocles was Prætor at Athens, and in the fourth year of the hundred and fifth Olympiad, and to expire in the beginning of the hundred and eighth Olympiad, Theophilus being Prefident, being two years before Diodorus his account, but I think it safer to consent to the opinion of Diod. For (e) Demosthenes in his Orat. de Ementit. (a) Liv.4. & Flor. 1. 1. c. 12

C Everal Wars were waged at Rome, from the beginning of the Deloponnesian War, to the death of Philip. (a) For they had to do not onely with the Equi and Volsci, but also with the Veians, whose City they besieged and kept at the Leaguer ten years together. When it was, that it came first into use to make Tents of Skins to defend themselves from the sharpnesse of the Winterstorms. They began the siege the 349, and the City was taken by Camillus the Dictator, the 358th year of the City Account. The same Camillus reduced the Falisci to the Roman Empire, (not fo much by force, as by the opinion he gained amongst them by his fingular Justice) the 360 year from the foundation of Rome.

(b) Liv. 5. Plut, Cam. Eutr. 1.

The City is taken by the Galls.

(b) But Rome her self, that famous Conqueress, had almost been Flor. 1.1.c.13. brought to nothing by the Galls. Who, when in the 363 year they had befreged Clusium, and the Romans had fent the three Fabit Legates thither, they, (contrary to the Laws of Nations) when they had once appeared in the front of the Army, forfook Clufium, and fled to the City.

> At the first onset those Romans that stood to it were routed, and fled to Alia: and at last the City was taken, set on fire, and the Capitol (into which the flower of the City had betaken themselves) beser, and Manlius being absent, had been taken by the enemy, but for the gagling of certain Geele at their approach; which awaked Manlius and the rest, who came together thither, and forc'd the Galls down a precipice from the Capitol. In this mean time, Camillus, who was banished, and at Ardea, was restored home, and while he was absent, elected Dictator. He, when he came, rally'd the Roman forces, and repell'd the Galls, and clear'd the Coasts of them within eight miles of the City.

M. Manlius.

After this, the Dictator, Camillus, perswaded the Romans from a phansic they were very earnest in, of leaving the ruines of Rome, and invading the Veians, (but with very much ado) and brought them to repair the ruines of their own Country. But M. Manlius, taken with the splendour of the Capitol, from which he had the firname, Capitolinus, being puff'd up with arrogance, he was induced, through his own ambition, and the favour he had with the people, to propose to himself, and go about the means of compassing the Soveraignty to himself; but being taken in this project, was precipitated from the (c) Tarpeian rock, (the very place he had had in charge to defend) the 370 year after the City was Curtius, an excellent young Souldier, and notably valorous, all armed and mounted on horseback, cast himself into the jaws of the gaping earth, accounting, That no virtue more became a Roman, than valour and courage, nor was a greater good.

After this, they went to War with the Tiburtians, the Tarquinii and Falisci, but most horly the 398 year of the City, when the Falifei and Tarquinians fighting with fire-brands, and casting Serpents in the front, to the great terrour of the Pricits, were conquered by Fabisa Conful, and had conditions of peace granted to them both for 40 years, in the 403 year of Rome.

With the Galls also they had to do more than once. Whileft they stood in battalia, M. Valerius, Tribune of the host, at the age of 23 years, Pichier'd a certain bravado of the enemy, who stood challenging and inticing the Romans to battle, and flew him by the help of Corvus, in the 405 year of the City; whence he took the firname Corvinus; and the year following, for his fingular deferts, was made Conful.

But none of these Wars proved more tedious and virulent, than The Samilar the Samuian, which the Romans took upon them at the request of War. the Campani, the 411 year of the City. From thence passing the Hellespont, he arrived in Asia the 3650 year of the VVorld, the third year of his reign, as (g) Zozimus tells us. He had then in his Army 30000 foot, & 4500 horse; with which fo small number, but old experienced and hardy Souldiers, he destroyed and abolishs the Persian Empire. The first Combat happened to be at the River Granicus in Phrygia, where the Persians were vanquished, and almost all Asia became the Triumph of that victory, being pestered every where with the Greek Colonies, whilest Memnon, in the mean time, the best Commander Darius had, harraffed the Islands.

(h) Curtius,

(h) The second conflict was at I sum, a little before which fight, · Alexander fell dangerously sick, but by the skill of a Physician of his father Philips, he foon recovered: at long running the Persians were worsted, although their Army consisted of no lesse than 400000 foot, and 100000 horse. The Tents of Darius, with his Mother, Wife, and Children, fell into the hands of Alexander, who treated them most courteously and vertuously. This happened the 333 year before Christ, the 3651 year of the World; and the year following, being the first of the 112 Olympiad, Alexander arrived in Phænicia, (i) which when he was wholly possess of, saving Tyre, he sent thither Heraulds to perswade them to peace; but the Tyrians, contrary to the Law of Nations, put them to death, and cast them into the Sea. He was forely pro- Curt. 4. voked by this affront, and presently laid strict siege to the City, Arianus raised great bull-works against it, and used all military engins and force to the storming of the City: When they within, what through despair of pardon, what by being out of all hopes of, and from the Carthaginians, whose Ambassadours by chance were then there, and refolv'd them of that matter, stood it out the more resolutely, but at last were vanquished by plain force the seventh moneth after the fiege was layd, when he commanded that they should all, except those that took sanctuary at the Temple, be put to the sword, and their houses set on fire, but 15000 of them were faved by the Sidonians of Alexander's Army, and carried to Sidon. There were fix thousand men of war slain in the City; 2000 that escaped the sword, were crucified along the Sea-shore.

The City was taken (as (k) Arianus tells us, Anicerus being chief (k) Lib. 27 Magistrate, (who is named Niceratus by Diodor.) the 332 year before Christ, in the moneth Hecatombeon, which falls much about the Solftice. Diod. writes, That Hephaftion gave Balonymum for a King to this City, descended indeed of a royal stock, but by poverty become a gardner in the Suburbs of it. (1) But Curtius tells (1) Curt. La us, That before the captivity of Tyre, Abdelominus was not onely made King of this City, but of Sidon alfo. After this, Alexander fubdued Gaza by force of Arms.

About this time, comming to Jerusalem he was entertained by Joseph 1.11, Jadduas the Priest there. He sacrificed in the Temple, and be- cap. 8. stowed many gifts upon the Jews; professing that he had an Apparition in Macedonia, in the very same garb that the high Priest came to meet him in, who advised him to go on with the Persian expedition, and promifed him the Victory.

Afterwards he went to Agypt, and visited the Oracle of Jupiter Diod. I. 5. Ammon, and in his return thence, built Alexandria. At length Curt. 4. he became Victor in the last battle, at Arbella, with Darin, in the Alex, Juff. 12. fecond year of the 112 Olymp. the 331 year before Christ, and the 423 of the City, in which battle, Plutarch further recounts, Plin. 1.2, Dariu had ten hundred thousand souldiers in his Army, which 6.50 Author (as also Arrianu) places the building of Alexandria before the facrifice he made at the Temple of Ammon; But Curtius, Diodor, and Justin, conceive it to be after.

Upon this account the year of the World, 3653, and the 331 The last and year before Christ, was the very year wherein Alexandria was unter breakfounded. In which very year also the utter rout of the Persians at neck of the Arbella, or Gaugamela, put a period to the Persian, and gave begin-pire and ing to the Macedonian or Greeian Empire. Which year is thought Darime to be the fixth year of the reign of Alexander, and so much after the death of his father Phillip.

In the East, Alexander got more Victories then he marcht paces, every where as he went. He brought under his subjection all Hyrcania, the Paropomisades, the Inhabitants of Caucasus, the Indians when he had first conquered their King, and taken him prisoner, and after them divers Nations and Provinces far and wide. The first year of the 113 Olymp. Bessus was delivered up to him and he gave him condigne punishment for his treachery ro his Lord and Master Darius. By this he was so pust with his high fuccesse, that not able to bear sogreat fortune, he began to forget his humane state, and would be accounted the son of Jupiter.

Then by flattery, luxury, and excesse, his disposition was quite altered into immane cruelty, infomuch that he put many friends to death, who had deserved very well both of him and his father Philip. Amongst these, he too rashly brought Parmenion, a most valiant Captain, and his son Philotas? and slew Clitus with his own hands at a Banquet. About two years before his death, he lost Hephastion his chief friend, whose death he took to heart out of measure, and most womanly; whose body he commanded to be carried to Babylon, and there to be interred with great folemnity. And would needs have him accounted a god, as Lucian tells us in his book, De Calumnia.

At last in the thirreenth year of his reign, that is, when he had reigned twelve compleat years and feven Moneths, he died at Babylon of a disease he had contracted by his intemperance in drinking, or (as some think) by poyson, in the beginning of the thirty third year of his age.

Frer Alexander's death, in regard he would nominate no successour, there grew up almost as many kings as there were bus post, Alex. Governours and Captains belonging to him: but Perdiceas at first had the command of almost all, for that Alexander upon his deathbed, gave him his ring and afterwards their minds changing, Aridaus, Ariaaus, ion of Philip by Philinna a Theffalian, and a Concubine of his was made ritular (and had very near been indeed) King, and Anno 4185. Jul. Cappadocia, and the outer Provinces; Pamphilia to Antigonus with Lyfia and Phrygia the Greater; Caria to Caffander, Lydiato Odeleager, Phrygia the lesse to Leonnatus, Thracia to Lysimachus; Macedonia to Antipater; the upper Provinces of Asia to those who were then Governours of them. Seleucus was made commander of the Horse of his companions. Craterus at this time had been sent by A lexander with 10000 choise and tryed Souldiers in Cilicia, to whom, together with Antipater, was Gracia appointed.

This while, the Grecians hearing of the death of Alexander were every where in a tumult. In the first place the Athenians, who under their Captain Leosthenes, called the Greeks to liberty; overthrew Antipater, and befieged him at Lamia, a Town of Theffaly, whence it was called the Lamian war, which began the first year The Lamian after the death of Alexander (b) but the year following, when want (b) Auct. Against Plut. in Eum. whom he led a most strong Army, but by his pride having alienated the affections of his Souldiers, in the paffing of Wilus they confpired against him and slew him the 322 year before Christ. But Eumenes a friend to Perdiceas, a little before had a conflict with Craterus and Neoptolemus, and came off Victor, which two being both conquered and flain, the one with his own hands, for this cause both Eumenes; and Alcetas, Perdiccas his brother; were voted enemics, and all things else were disposed and ordered by Piolomey and Antipater, under whose jurisdiction the Principality of Antigonus then was, Antigonus by that means being fent against Eumenes and Alcetas, overthrew them both in Pifidia. Antipater died whilst Polyspercon was tutor of King Arideus, and his wife Euridice, and his fon Cassander Chiliarch; with which fortune being not content, he fell over to Ptolemey Polyspercon, recalled Olympias the Mother of Alexander to Macedonia, from Epirus; whither the had fled for fear of Antipater. She, when the was reflored, put to death Philippus Aridaus, and his wife Euridice, and many other Princes that were friends to Cassander. From this time Antigonus growing very much in power and wealth, together with his fon Demetrius, who was furnamed Polyorcetes, waged war against Caffander and Ptolomey; both of them pretending to restore the liberty of the Grecian Cities, which Cassander had infringed. The greatest part of them, by the help of his fon Demetrius, Antigonus restored to their own Laws and priviledges. In the first place, the 15th year after they had been brought under by the Lamian war, he removed the Garrison from Athens, and restored the City to its former immunities the 307, year before Christ. In which year not onely they two, but all the rest of Alexanders successours took to themselves both the name and port of Kings, Immediately upon this, in the 24th year after the death of Alexander, the 301. year before Christ, and the last of the 119 Olymp, when the extraordinary power of Antigonus and Demetrius was become formidable to all the rest, Lysimachus, Cassander, and Seleucus joyned their forces, (to the number of 74000 foot; of horse, 10500; and 1 20. Chariots)against them two, whose armies consisted of 70000 foot, and 10000 horse, and 75 Elephants: which all met, and fought at the very Town of Phrygia. Antigonus was conquered, and died in the battle, and Demetrius fleeing into Gracia, was kept out by the Athenians. (h) But a little after having recruited his forces, he made against Athens, and took the City after a years fiege, and deposed Lachares (who ruled as King there) in the first year of the 121 Olymp. Then appeared the Kings great clemency, who behaved himself so courteously towards them (who, being conquered, could expect nothing but the utmost) that after fome verball reprehensions, he restored unto them, not onely their liberty, but all things else that were theirs, and having placed a Garrison there, bent his forces against the Lacedemonians, whom with their king Achidanus, when he had conquered, and was preparing Antipater the fon in Law to Lysimachus King of Thrace (for that he law her something more inclined to his brother Alexander then to him) flew his mother, she begging her life of him by those her breasts he had been nourisht by. Alexander therefore defired aid of Pyrrhus, who, upon that condition, received part of Macedonia into his power. At this time also came Demerrius, whom also Alexander had fent for, who, having expell'd Pyrrhus and Antipater, and flain Alexander, got the whole possession of Macedonia, the third year of the 121 Olymp.

Gr. two hundred eighty second year before Christ, past into Asia against Scieucm, and there in a fight died the seventy fourth of his Age. And Seleucus in his feventy feventh year (the last of Alexanders affociates in war) about seven Moneths after, distrest by the cunning and treachery of Ptolomeus Ceraunus, the brother of Philadelphus, lost the Kingdome of Macedonia (which he had taken from Lysimachus) and with it his life. Demetrius being dead, his posterity reigned in Macedonia, untill the time of Perseus the fon of Philip, of whom we shall speak more hereafter.

And these are the chief Kingdomes that after Alexander's death Thesour Dorose out of his ashes, and which are numbred four by Daniel the minions of the Prophet, shadowed under obscure figures, The Chief of them (m) Dan.7.6. were Ptolomeus the fon of Lagus, in Egypt; Seleucus in Babylonia, and Syria; Cassander in Macedonia and Gracia, and Antigonus in Asia: all which (as also did Lysimachus in Thracia) assumed the Title, Badges, and Port of Kings, in the fecond year of the 118 Olympiad, (c) as we find by Diodorus, the year before Christ (c) Diod. 2013 307. In emulation of whom, the Tyrant Agathocles (who then

At last, Antigonus being subdued, the whole fell into the power of the three Dominions, to wit, that of Egypt, Syria, and Macedonia: to which that of Pergamus was added, which took its rife, and was founded in the reign of Lylimachus.

The Ptolemeys Kings of Egypt.

The Dominion or Kingship of the Ptolemeys in Egypt continued along in the direct line of Posterity, from Ptolemaus the son of Lagus the very founder of it, (or, as Pausanias in his Atticks tells us, of Philip the father of Alexander the Great, who although he had the title of King but the eighteenth year after the death of Alexander, yet his Kingdom or reign is reckoned from the very year wherein Alexander dyed. From this time therefore began the Ptolemeys to reign in Egypt. For they have fourty years attributed to them by Eusebium, and all the rest,) and reach't from the 3660 year of the VVorld, to the 3699. For in this very year he substituted his fon Ptolemey, firnamed Philadelphus, King in his life-time; which fon was born unto him by Berenice his Wife.

Of Agathocles, Pyrrhus, and divers Expeditions of the Gauls into Græcia.

(a) Diod. 1. 19.

Bout the same time (a) Agathocles reigned in Syeils, very meanly born, the fon of Carcinus a private Citizen of Rheginum, of whom he learnt the trade of a Potter. He got to be Tyrant in Syracusa the sourth year of the 115th Olympiad, the 3667th year of the VVorld; which place he continued in for about twenty eight years, through most strange variety of fortune. (b) Having often conquered the Sicilians, he had to do also with the Carthaginians, by whom at the River Himera, being worsted in the third year of the 117 Olympiad, unadvisedly conveying his Forces into Africa, he there requited the destruction of this Forces to the Victors. Curtius makes this Expedition of the Syracufans into Africa, and the fiege of Carthage contemporary; in which account he is out no less than two and twenty years. The year wherein Agathocles passed into Africa, is noted for a most remarkable Eclipse of the Sun, by Diodorus and Justin, which happened at Syracufa about eight of the clock in the morning, of the 15th day of August, the 4404th year of the Julian Period, the 3 10 year before Christ. The Carthaginians being reduced to very great extremity, facrifice their children to Saturn, and recall their General Amikar from Sicilia. But he having besieged the Syraculans, is taken by the very belieged, and put to death. (c) At last, Agathocles taking Sea against the Bruttians in the 4th year of the 122 Olympiad, the 289 before Christ, is poysoned by his Nephew Agathocles. (d) Diodorus in his excerptions of the last Edition calls him Agatharchus.

For in that famous conflict, dori Eclo, e wherein Demetrius with his father Antigonus was overcome; he Justinus, 1.16, was one being yet a very youth. Afterwards by the affinity and furtherance of Ptolemy Lagidas, and his wife Berenice, he regained his Kingdom, whose beginning (f) Velleius attributes to that year, (f) Velleius, wherein Q. Fabius, and P. Decius Mus. were Confuls, which is the lib. 1. 459 year of the City-account, and the 3689 year of the World. In which very year being intreated in ayd into Macedonia, to Alexander the fon of Cassander, he requires his part of it. Whence being depuls'd by Demetrius Poliorcetes for some years, partly by himself, partly joyning his Forces with Lysimachus, Ptolemey, and Seleucus, he made war upon him, and for his reward enjoyed Macedonia, indeed, but not above seven moneths. Immediatelyafter being called to the ayd of the Tarentines into Italy, he warrs in vain upon the Romans. And likewise attempting Sicilia, he was beaten as well thence, as out of Italy, and fo return'd home. Then again he gets possession of Macedonia, having ejected Antigonus the fon of Demetrius. Lastly, being called to the ayd of Cleonymus of Sparta, the son of Areus into Peloponnesus against Antigonus, he dyed at Agos the first year of the 127 Olympiad, and the 272 year before Christ, in the 23 year of his reign, as it appeareth, in that he began to reign the 459th of the City, and the 295 before Christ. He had a very sad Auspicium that very night that he entred Argos, A Bird sitting upon the point of his Spear; as Æliamus writes.

First of all, Cambaules being Captain, they pierced even The breaking into Thrace; with whose wasting being contented, they returned in of the home. The valour of one chief one, Softhenes, Desip in Coll. railed up the affairs of Macedonia, being past hope; who beat back of Scal. the Barbarians, triumphingly rejoycing in victory, and drave them out of the borders of Macedonia; and by that defert obtained the Kingdom. They are first overcome at Thermopyla, then at Parna fin, whither they had broken thorow, for obtaining and spoyling the Temple of Delphos sake. Brennus himself, many woulds being received, drinking down new wine more largely, voluntarily ended his life. That calamity of the Gauls is noted by Paufanias, Anaxievates being chief Ruler, in winter-time; this was in the second year of the 125 Olympiad before Christ 279.

Again, the following year, Democles being Pretor of Athens, the Gaules poured forth themselves into Asia, as the same Pausanias theweth: But Polybins writeth, That in the same year the remainders of the Gaules invaded Thrace Comontorius being their Captain, and required tribute from the Byzantines.

continuance, and very dreadful, (b) of which I have made mention above; the which in this space of time was most sharply carried on with some slaughter, in the mean time, and disgrace of the Romans; but with a great, and, which is the top of all, the last of the Samnites, who being at last subdued, in the year of the C.B. 482, made an end of War, in the 71 year, as we have already faid; to wir, from the year of the City 411, unto 481. (c) In which space, the Caudina furca, or gallows made of the trunks of Trees, were made noble by the difgrace of the Romans, in the year of the City 433, the 4th after the death of Alexander the Great, when the Roman Army yielded to their enemies, and, with both Consuls, was cast under the yoke. But that difgrace, the year following, Papyrius repayed with a greater overthrow of the Samnites, and like difgrace, a most valiant Commander in that Age: befides whom, many others also are reckoned up by Livy, (d) who might be equal to Alexander, if (as the report was) he had come into Italy. (f) With the Gaules also a fight is renewed one time after an- (b) Polyb. 2. other; whose divers in breakings, I will briefly touch at, out of Liv.7. of Polytim, and the Roman Annals. The thirtieth year after that Wars begun they conquered Rome, not far from the Colline, or little hill-gate, with the a great flaughter being made on both fides, they were scarce turned away. Servilius Anhala being chosen Dictator, was the cause of that Tumult, in the year of C. B. 394. In the 12th year after, which was of the City 405, they were again flain by Camillus; at which time Valerun Corvine overcame the provoking Gaul by the help of a Raven or Crow. After thirteen years, they make a Peace and League with the Romans, in which they remained 30 years. Therefore a little before the 45th year of C. B. the Gaules on this fide the Alpes, with those beyond the Alpes, and Etruscians, definoyed the fields of the Romans. Thence those of this fide the Alps being returned with a great prey, about this very prey do fight with swords among themfelves. The 4th year after, they being joyned together with the Samnites and Etruscians, a battel being joyned, they flew the Roman Legion, of which L. Scipio-Propretor was chief. At which time another fight flaming, and the left-wing of the Army now giving back, P. Decius, Conful, avowed his head, and broughtsforth a victory by his own death, in the year of C. B. 459.

(a) Ten years after these thingsbeing flidden away, the Seno- (a) Polvb. nian Gauls being again called forth by the Lucanes, Bruttians, Sam. p. 107. & 108. nites, and Etruscians, besieged Aremus; and L. Cacilius the Pretor Liv. 13; being overcome, they flew thirteen thousand of the Romans. Which overthrow, the Conful Dolabella straightway revenged, and the Gauls being put to flight, their City Sene being taken, he brought thither a plantation. The Boians being much troubled at the mifery of the Sepones, and conspiring with the Etrascians, make fight ar the Lake of Vadino; in which all the Etruscians for the most part were flain, very few of the Boians escaped. That happened in the 471 year of the City. But the following year, the Bosans being again by the Romans utterly overthrown, intreated peace, and a league, the third year before Pyrrhus came into Italy.

(b) Moreover, the Palapolitans, where now is Neapolis, daring (b) Liv. 2. to bring War on the Romans, in the third year, which was of C.B. 428, were by Publilius the Proconful subdued.

So, 12 people of the Etrascians being stirred up for the destruction of the Roman name, in the year of C. B. 442, (c) were over- (c) Liv. 9. come in the year 444 by Fabius the Consul, in a great battel, in Flor. 1.c. 17: the which were flain, or taken, to the number of 60 thousand of Chast. the enemies.

There was the same cause of the war, as of the former, defire of Masterdome: and in the Carthaginians an impatience of bondage, because they being overcome, had (as I have faid) already the four and twentyeth year yielded to the weapons of the Romans. Hannibal the son of Amilear, put under the chief torch unto this flame, of that Amilear who being Generall of the Carthaginians in the former war, had received with grief the conditions of peace; and who, things being composed in Africa, in the year of the City (as is gathered out of (c) Polybim) 517. being fent (c) Polyb. in into Spain, had taken Hanniball, being nine years of age, along the beginning with him; when as he had first commanded him to swear at the Coin. This mifery of the Syracufans put an end to Kingly rule in Sicily, the which, that Hiero of whom we have made mention a little before, had restored; and had by courtesy and elemency made of a Tyrannicall a just one, and acceptable to the common people; when as he took nothing as chief to himself, from so great dignity, besides care, and liberality. But he reigned 54 years, beginning from the 485 year of the C.B. the fixty before the first Car. thagenian war, who entring, being overcome by Appius the Confull, he fell off from the fellowship of the Carthaginians unto the Romans, and continued in their friendship (a) nigh fifty years. But as he was of a very bad disposition, running out into all kind of c)Liv.3.Dcc.4 wickednesse and cruckty, by the conspiracy of his own subjects, he is the same year killed.

In the mean time Lavine the Pretour crushed Philip king of Macedonia, having made a fellowship with Hannibal, waiting for an advantage against Italy, and constrained him, his Navy being of his own accord burnt, to betake himself into his own Macedonia, in the year of C. But the people of the Carthaginians, her father, and the betroathed man being absent, joyned her openly unto Syphax, who being taken in love of the Maid, wasted their fields, that they might bring him over from the friendship of the Romans unto their o.vn. With which wrong Mafani fa being much moved, gave himself wholly to the Romans; and afterwards brought great help to beat down the Carthaginians.

Syphax and Hasdrubal came suddenly upon Scipio, besieging Usica with 100000 armed men, whose Camps the same day were destroyed, 40000 being flain, fix thousand taken; and both again, their Armies being renewed, were overcome in another battle.

Of the first beginning of the Achaens, the enterprises of Pyrthus, and his death, and the original of the Kings of Troy, and the Parthians.

Urthermore, in Greece and the Eastern parts, the se things chief-I ly appertain to history. The Common-wealth of Troas and Peloponnesus did by degrees close into one, (a) whose foundations (a) Polyb. 22. were laid in the 124 Olympiad, about the time Pyrrhus went over pag. 129. into Italy; when the Dymaans, Patrenfians, Tritaans, and the Phareans, were agreed, to whom all the rest for the future betook themselves. These at the first appointed one Scribe and two Prætors for the publick. When 25 years were expired, they were content to make choice of one onely Prætor. He was wont to be made so about the appearance of the seven Stars, (b) as Po. (b) Polyb. lybius our Author reporteth, and Marcus Carynensis the chief of all init. 5, p. 350. the Pretors, is by him betrayed. In whole fourth year Aratus Sycionius being 20 years of age, began to be famous for what he had done. Wherefore in the last year of that Olympiad, arose this Common-wealth in the year before Christ 281, in the year of the City 471. In the following year Pyrrhu went over Sea into Italy. The Lacedemonians being perplexed with sedition at home, came to be governed by Pyrrhu. Cleamenes after 60 years and ten moneths dyed in his Kingdome, as Diodorus witnesseth, when Demetrius Phalerem was Pretor at Athens. He is the fourth of the 117 Olympiad.(c) This man begat two fons, Acrotatus, who (c) Diod. 20? dying before his father, left a fon called Areus; and a younger Paulan. in fon, whose name was Cleonymus. When they were at variance Lacon. p.87. Plur. in Ag. & about his succession, the Senate preferred Areus before Cleony- Cleo. See mus: him they fludied to entice by fair speeches, honours, and b. to. of doctr. preferments, not to be advised against the Common-wealth. For of times, th. 5. amongst other things, he being sent unto Tarentum against the Lucanes and Romans with ayd, overcame the Lucanes. He vanquished Tarentum, which had fallen off, in the year of the City built 451, in the second year of the 119 Olympiad, as (d) Dio- (d) Diod, 26. dore is author. After the City of the Salentines being taken by the Romans, Aimilius Conful being Captain, in the year 452, being put to flight with his Navy, he comes to the Patavine Choares ravening the prey; where his Navy being very badly entertained, the fifth part of it fcarcely returned home, as Livy (a) writeth, (2) Liv. ro. who nameth not this King of the Lacedemonians aright. But he, after many years, being both mindful of the repulse, and also provoked by a new injury, because Acrotatus the son of Areus, had suddenly snarched away Chelidonic his Wife, called forth Pyrrhus into Laconica, (b) in the same year, wherein he having returned (b) Plue, in out of Italy, had taken possession of Macedonia, Antigonia being Pyrrhus, driven out; which is the 481 of the City built. Therefore the Juttin. 25. following year, an intoad being made into Laconica, he took the Pyrthus.

But being driven out through the valour of the Townesmen, he contendeth at Argos: which City having entred into, and fighting against Antigonus, a tyle being by a woman dashed on his head, he was slain, in the entrance of the 127 Olympiad; That is the 272 year before Christ, unto which, from that year wherein Cleonymus was cast off from the Kingdome, which was before Christ 309, about seven and thirty years come between.

(c) Strato. b. 13. Paul. Attic. p. 7.

(c) At the same time, in which the Cities of the Achaians began to be reduced into one body, at Cayeus, a River of Pergamus, a Town of The Kingdom the greater Phrygia, the foundations of a new kingdom were laid. of Pergamus. About the 124 Olympiad, in the last year of Ptolemy Lagides, Philetære, an Eunuch, high Treasurer, taking grievously from Lysimachus the death of his fon Agathocles, whom, his father of false crimes, by his Wife Arsinoe, being accused, had taken away by poylon, fell off from him, and was chief of a new royal authority at Pergamus. This man had two brethren, Eumenes and Attalus, who also succeeded in the Kingdom: but Attalus first took on him the Kingly Title, as faith Strabo. The last was Attalus, nephew of the former Attalus, who dying, appointed the people of Rome his heir, in the year of the City built, 621. So the Kings of Pergamus reigned about 152 years.

The begining of the Partbians.

The Kingdom of the Parthians, that was afterward strivingly ambitious with the Roman, whose founder was Arfaces, began at the same time, in which the first Carthaginian War stamed in the West. But by reason of the disagreement of the Ancients concerning its beginning, it is uncertain.

(d) Juft. 41.

(d) Justine indeed makes mention, that the first falling away of the Parthians happened in the first Carthaginian War, L. Manlius Vulso, and Attilius Regulus being Consuls, Seleucus reigning, whose discord with his brother Antiochus gave a lack of punishment to that falling away. Those Confuls possesse the 504th year of the City built, before Christ 250, in which year Antiochus, [& Bedes,] that is, the God, the third of the Seleucidain race, the father of Seleucus Callinicus. Unto Seleucus were born, Seleucus Ceraunus, who after his father Callinious dying in the twentieth year of his reign, reigned three years: and Antiochus the Great, who succeeded his brother Callinicus. Justine, who saith, the Parthians fell off from Seleucus the great grandchild of Antiochus Soter, understood not Callinicus, but his fon Ceraunus, whose brother Antiochus was. In which, he is wonderfully deceived. Seleucus Ceraunus began his reign in the second year of the 138 Olymp. In the first year of the Olymp, following, he dyed; for he referred three years. Thereforc the beginning of him agreeth with the year of the City 527, which is the 15th from the peace made with the Carthaginians; and from the Confulthip of Vulfo and Attilius, the four and twentieth. Moreover, Eusebius ascribes it under Antiochus the god, to the 133 Olympiad, two years after the Confuls mentioned by Justine.

(a) But

Juffinc's Errour.

(a) But Strabo writeth, Arfaces to have fled, Calliniam reigning, which agreeth well enough with Eufebing. Appian (aith, the Perfians to have fallen off at that time, wherein Antiochus the god unto 4713. (that would be so called) being dead, Laodice kills Bernice another of his Wives; whose death her brother Ptolemy Euergetes desiring 13. Appian. in to revenge, went into Syria, & even unto Babylon. Thele things were the end of done in the very first year of Seleucus Callinicus, a little after the death of Antiochus the god. Wherefore we do believe, that the beginnings of the Parthians were laid under Callinious, and in the first of his reign, about the 246th year before Christ. For (b) Ar. (b) Aria, in rian with Photius, is author, that Arfaces, with his brother Teri- Patthic. dates, New Pherecles, Lievtenant (from Antiochus the god) of his book 38. Country, for the chastity of either of them tempted or tryed by him. Whence, even Antiochus the god, as yet living, or a little after his death, that thing is very likely to have happened.

Hence forward, the Princes of the Parthians took their name from A faces, even as from Cefar and Augustw, the Roman Emperors, were called Augustuses and Casars. The royal command of these, remained unto about 472 years; from the year before Christ 246, unto 220 years after Christ, and even to the fifth of the fon of Alexander Mammeas; (a) In which year, Artaxerxes (a) Heredian. by birth a Persian, Actabanus King of the Parthians being slain, 6. passed over the top of their affairs unto the Persians.

(a) A little before, or about the same time, a tumult arose at Lacedemon, Agu, and Leonidas reigning, the one whereof was of the family of the Euritionides, or Europontides, the fixth from that Arefilaus the Great, who had in times past done famous things against the Barbarians. Leonidas was sprung from the stock of the Agides, or Euristhenides, which excelled the other in worthinesse, born of his father Cleonymu, which fon of the abovefaid Cleomenes, being put after Areus, the son of Acrotatus his brother, I have (b) shewn above, Pyrrhus to have brought into Laconia. Agis not as yet in the twentieth year of his age, desiring to restore the fallen discipline of Lycurgus, he attempted to do it by new obligatory writings, and dividing of their fields; whom when the chief men of the City, and amongst them the other King or Ruler, Leonidas withstood; neverthelesse he persisted in his enterprise, having gotten Lylander a Lacedemonian Magistrate, an affister of his counsells, by whom Leonidas being required for judgment, the Kingdome being repealed, and conferred on Cleombrotus his fon in law, he fetled himfelf a suppliant in the Temple of Minerva. Afterwards, new Ephori or Lacedemonian Magistrares succeeding, and citing Lysander, and other favourers of Agis to declare the cause: both the Kings come into the affembly with a guard of friends, they reduce the Ephori into order; for these, when they do ordein others of their own parties, and also Agefilaus a most large husbandman, but wrapped or covered in debt; who therefore was a worker on Agis, that before the law for the ground, he should fet forth new obligations to mitigate the common people. When Agis had yielded to his counsel, when it came unto the dividing of the fields, Agefilaus was diligent to mock or deceive, and wrangle by wonderful crafts, which thing estranged the minds of the Citizens from Agis. Therefore by the conspiracy of his enemies, Leonidus is call'd back from banishment, and is restored to the Kingdom. Agis and Cleombrotus being suppliants, fly together uuto the Temple of Minerva Chalciaca. Cleombrotus, through Cheloris his Wife, the daughter of Leonidas, his life being by request obtained, changeth his foyl; and thither Chelonis followed her husband, her father in vain restraining her. Agis being laid hold on by the Ephori, and condemned for his life, ended his life with an halter: and with the same punishment Agistrata his Mother, and Archidamia his grandmother were diffolved; his bro-

did confirm those that were already appointed by themselves with bringing those by any free-will into a common covenant, Aratus performed a diligent endeavour; and to perfect that thing, he much prevailed by industry and counsel. Therefore Antigonus to himself; and he declared the old discipline of his house, in the tenth year of his reign, of the City of Rome 528, or next following. After that, being loofed and tree from home-bred fear, he wholly bent himself on the Achaick War. When the Achaians faw themselves unfit for the undergoing this war, Acatus being already weary and languishing, and great flaughters being received from Cleomenes, that fame man, or Aratus, being the author, they had regard unto the help of the Macedonians. Antigonus, by firname, Δώσων, that is, one about to give or profit, reigned over Macedonia. Which name he obtained from this, because he faid he would give fundry times one after another what was asked of him. This man governed the kingdom for Philip the fon of Demetrius, from the year before Christ, 232; of the City 522, the 137 Olympiad entring, to wit, a little before the passing over Rome into Illyricum, as (a) Polybius faith. Therefore Aratus requireth the fellowship of Antigonus, with his Citizens, when as hitherto they had made use of the friendship of Ptolomey; which new Covenant they joyned in, by a great hire of the Town or Castle of Corinth, from which they parted to the Macedonian, and straightway renounced both by Sca and Land the same Captain of the Greek name. There came into the (b) communion of that league, the Macedonians, Achaians, those of Epirus, the Phocians, Boetians, Arcadians, The Salians. Cleomenes, Antigonus breaking in with great Armies, when he met him at the Isthmus or narrow creek of land, being affrighted at the revolting of the Grecians, went back to defend his Countrey. So the Macedonians, no man forbidding them, came to Peloponnessu in the year of the World, 3761, of the City, 531, in which the second year of the 149 Olympiad began; and in the year following they conquered many Towns. Cleomenes in the mean time not loytering, who took Megalopolis at unawares, and utterly overthrew it, because the Citizens had refused to enter into fellowship with him, although they should be vagabonds in their Countrey, Philopæmenes thus perswading, (a) who was then thirty years of age. Last of all, in the year of the City 533. before Christ 221, in which the 4th year of the same Olympiad began, a (b) battel being pitched or joyned, at Selafia, a Town of Laconia, Cleomenes was overcome by Antigonus: when as this brought out twenty thousand, the other thirty thousand into the battel, Cleomenes having flipt out of the battel, faileth over Sea to Piolomey Euergetes into . Egypt, leaving Lacedemon empty for defenders against Antigonus: To the which he coming, restored to it its liberty, and all its ancient rights. The next day he being certified, that the borders of Macedonia were invaded by the neighbouring Barbarians, he hasts thither as speedily as he could. In his passage he was present at the Nemean fports; by whom he was received with great acclamations, and all kind of honour by the Greeks. But as foon as he came to Macedonia, the Illyrians, and other Barbarians being put to flight, his

Now he being contented to recover what he had loft, granted a peace unto Antiochus asking it; as also he stayed three moneths in Syria and Planicia; (v) in which time while the lews had fent to give him thanks, he came to Jerusalem, and there facrifices, of right, being celebrated, he tryed to enter into the very innermost holier place, or holy of holies of the Temple; The which while he defireth to attempt, they in vain refifting him; he being by an hidden power cast on the earth, his body being dissolved or weakened, and his voyce hindered, he is carried away by his guardians, being filled with fear and amazement; and from that moment he departed thence, raging and threatening. He being returned unto Alexandria, whatfoever there was of the Jewish Nation throughout Egypt, he commandeth to be divided into Companies, and to be brought away bound in ferters to Alexandria, and to be inclosed in a circle; then Elephants to be brought into the place, that he might expose them to be bruised by their feet, in the fight of all the people. Unto this spectacle, when he had oftentimes appointed a certain day, as often as it came, his remembrance was taken away by God; in all of that which he had decreed neither could he at any time execute the things determined. Therefore his hatred being fuddenly changed into pitty, and afterward into love of the Nation, he let them all go; and after that behaved himself more fairly and liberally towards them, than any of the Kings hitherto. Moreover, he suffered them, that they might inflict punishment on the forfakers of the Countrey Religion of their kindred. Philopator having dispatched these cares, by and by returned unto his ancient manners, and having forgotten kingly Majesty, and all shame, he spent dayes and nights in whoredoms and mischievous deeds. He expelled Ariathes King of Cappadocia his Kingdome, being hired by an agreement of a thousand Talents from his brother Olophernes, who going to Rome the (b) Senate decreed that both brethren should reign together. Moreover three Kings being stirred up against him, Ptolomy of Egypt, Attalus of Alia, and, whom I have named, Ariathes of Cappadocia; Prompalus, a certain young man of a desperate fortune, being by the same, suborned or set forth in honour, who should report himself to be begotten by Antiochus, he is thrust down from the Kingdome. The famous Deeds or Affairs of the Romans, and divers wars, the Achaick, Punick, 3 Macedonick, 3 Numantine, the slavish war.

THe Macedonians, after Antiochus the Great, being by the other War tamed, and their Kingdom reduced into the form ot a Province, none afterwards was ashamed to serve the Romans. Therefore people and kings, emulating one another, gave themselves over unto the obedience of those, and from those they took the Umpires or judgments of peace and war between themfelves. (f) Of Kings, two, before others, endeavoured to allure their favour, Eumenes of Asia, and Prusias of Bythinia, who was (g) firnamed [venator] or hunter, one whereof being suspected of hidden favour toward Perfeus, that he might purge himself, he fent his brother Attalus to Rome; the which his brother shewing that he had remained faithful, was most acceptable unto the Senate; who lest he should ask the kingdome privately for himself, he was affrighted from it by Stratius a Physician, whom Eumenes had given to him a companion in that counsel. That, Livy sheweth, was done in the 587 year of the City.

(a) Prusias, who being joyned in affinity with Perseus, had nourished or taken neither part, he coming to Rome with his son Nicomedes, after a servile manner he flattered the Senators, so that he called them, in faluting them, gods, that were preservers from danger, and named himself their bondman made free. The same King departing from Rome, he lest his son to be brought up, in the same year of the City.

But Eumenes King of Pergamus being dead, about the year of the City 596. For he reigned full fourty years, seeing he had lest a son, Eumenes as yet of a weak age; the Kingdome procured Attalus his brother a guardian for him 21 years. The Rhodians very greatly scared the anger of the free people of Rome, and truly they had deserved it. (c) For they had been diligent for Perfeus, and dared proudly, not fo much to perswade them to peace, as to command; also they had added threatenings, that they would account them for enemies, by the which it had continued, that there could not be a peace made. Therefore Perseus being overcome, it wanted but little, but a War should have been decreed against them. The which by the most humble unto 4713. intreaties they had turned away, Lycius and Carius being taken away from amongst them.

But two people, not with a fingle damage of their affairs, but with the destruction of their Cities, purged away the harreds of the Romans, the Achaians and Carthaginians. The former, many being partly allured into one body of a Common-wealth, partly Ciries, being constrained by force, were the most mighty of all Greece. For which causes, a War is proclaimed against them, in the 607 year of the City; and first of all, they are overcome by Metellus the Prætor in two battles at Thermopylus, and in Phocia; in one whereof Critolaus was Caprain; in the other Dieus: at length in the same year, which was of the City 608, by Lucius Mummius Consul, all Achaia being brought unto a sur. Then by the sentence of ten Embassadours, the Council of Greece being taken away, and the form of a tribute written down, it was appointed, that a Prætor should be fent every year to declare the law. (b) From which time all Greece took the name of Achaia, (b) See Pline as Paufanias is witnesse.

what Men were accounted famous in the praise of wit, from the 145 Olympiad, to the 162; or from the year of the City 564, to 622.

Acilius a Comical Poet, Insuber Gallus, and the chamber-I fellow of Ennius, was accounted famous in the 150 Olymplad, of the City 574, as Jerome writeth in his Chronicle.

Ennius dyed, being feventy years old, Capio being Conful, and Philip the second time, of the City 585, Greero being author, in his book of old age.

Ten years after, that is, of the City 595, Terence the Comical Poet, did his duty to Nature; it is witnessed in his life.

Also Pacuvius, and Accius were made famous: of whom the one is faid by Jereme to have flourished about the year of the City 600; the other, 601.

Of Philosophers, three especially adorned that Age, Diogenes the Stoick, Carneaues the Academick, and Critolaus the Peripatetick, who were fent Embassadours from Athens to Rome, that they might require the fine of five hundred talents to be forgiven to the

For Ennim dyed, as hath been said, in the year of the City of Rome 585. But Cicero (2.of Academicks) affigneth that embaffage to Publius Scipio, and Marcus Marcellus, being Confuls, which is the year 585. But Paufanias in his Achaicks, under the (c) 603 year of the City, sheweth them to have come. For he writeth, Menalcidas bearing the Lievtenantship of the Achaians, a little after that embassage, Oropus to have been spoyled by the Athemians; and not long after, Metellus to have led an Army against Andrifcus.

In the same space of time, Hipparchus the Prince of Astronomy lived, whose first observation of the Æquinoctial of Autumn, agreeth with the year of the World 3822, of the City 592, as (a) Ptolemy is Author. But the last of the Spring Æquinoctial falls into the year of the World 3856, of the City 626. Wherefore the Lunar or Moon Eclipses, which Ptolemy sheweth out of Hpparchus in the end of the fourth book, whereof the first runneth into the year of the World 3783, of the City 553, do not feem to be marked with the eyes of Hipparchus himself; but to be taken by others. The warrs of the Seleucian and Ægyptian Kings, and of the Jews, from the year of the world 3854, which was of the City 624, unto the year of the World 3865, of the City 665.

Ntiochus Sidetes in the ninth and last year of his reign, (for A so many he reigned, as Eusebius is witness in his Chronicle) led an Army against the Parthians, under a presence of recovering his brother Demetrius, as (c) Appian the weth; but Justine the weth (c) App. Syr. a far differing cause. Joannes Hircanus went together with him Just. with ayds of Jews. Phaortes King of the Parthians fends Demetrius into Syria, to possesse the kingdome with a Parthian defence; and in the mean time fets upon Antiochus at unawares, who being forfaken of his souldiers, was flain, saith Justine. Appian affirmeth him to be killed with his own hand. But many think him to be that Antiochia, of whom mention is made in the (d) Epiftle of (d) 2 Math. the lews at Jerusalem unto the Agyptians. Where Antiochus is ch, r, faid to be flain in the Temple of Nanca, when he would have robbed its moneys. It may be, that the Victory being loft, he defiring with the remainder of his army to fly upon that prey, and being shut in, brought death on himself. Tois thing happened, as is gathered from his beginning, and the space of his reign, in the year of the Greeks 183. of the world 3854. about winter, as Justine (heweth. (a) Hircanus being a little before dismissed as appeareth, from Micanus High Antiochus, his death being heard of, he vanquisheth some Towns, (a) Joseph b. and among these Garizim of the Samuritanes, where he overthrew 23. ch. 17. their Temple, built two hundred years before, in the time of Alexander.

Demetrius the second time enjoying the kingdome of Syria, held that four years, untill being hated of all, and overcome by Alexander Zebinas, whom Ptolomy had fent to the Syrians desiring a king, was by his Wife Cleopatra flain, bearing it unworthily that he had married Rhodogunes, as (b) Appian is Author. year of his reign. For he reigned twelve years, as Eusebius writes inhis Chronicle. But Justine telleth, that he reigned eight years peaceably after the death of his mother, and indeed he added feventeen o her years, in which he contended with continuall hatreds with his brother, as (d) Josephus sheweth, who writeth that he reigned 29. years.

Moreover Ptolomey Euergetes was the father in law of Grypus, whose wickednesses, and loose life, we have before sharply touched; and he, (e) his fifter Cleopatra being reconciled to him, which was a great wonder, at what time he did favour Antiochus Grypus against Alexander Zebina; dying about the year of the World 3867, of the City built 637, as the (f) race of the Kings of the Ægyptians sheweth; he left the kingdome to his wife Cleopatra, the daughter of Cleopatra, his fifter, and sometimes wife; and to that child of his, which the should choose. His children were 2, Ptolomy Latburus, and Ptolomey Alexander; and besides these, a third born of an Harlot, Ptolomey Appio, to whom his father granted by will the Kingdome of the Cyrenians, (a) Justine being Author, who departing this life, about the year of the City built, 657. made the people of Rome his heir. Cleopatra was more inclined toward her fon Alexander : but being compelled by the people to chuse the elder; before she gave him the kingdome, the took away Cleopatra a most dear wife and fifter to him, and for her the commanded him to marry the younger Seleuces. Cleopatra married Antiochus Cyzicenus, which, Antiochia being by Grypus taken, by the command of her fifter Gryphina, the wife of Grypus, the is flain in the Temple. Neither much after, Cyzicenus, Gryphina being likewile flain, celebrated his wives funerall. The death of Cleopatra seemeth to have happened in the thirteenth year of Grypus, of the City 642, to wit, after those eight peaceable ones, which I have above mentioned out of Justine. But of Gryphina, the year following.

(b) In Egypt, Cleopatra the mother, expelled Ptolomey Lathurus, and for him appointed Alexander king, in the 654 year of the City, the 170 Olymp. entring, as is gathered out of the Chronicle of Eusebius, and the race of the Agyptian Kings. He being driven out, held Cyprus, and warred with Alexander king of the Jews. But Cleopatra perfecuting him with an implacable hatred, fled from Judea, and at length was killed by her fon Alexander, in the year of the City 664. Therefore this man being cast out by the Alexandrians, after he had reigned ten years, he also in the year of the City, 665. by Chereas a Ship-master, or Pilot, is slain. But then Lathurus being called back again, he afterwards finished eight years. This is that Ptolomy, the eighth from the fon of Lagus, whom Pausanias calls Philometor, or lover, or beloved of his Mother, affirming that he was so called by a mock, because his Mother troubled him with more than step-mothers hatred. Which thing he hath put upon some of the writers of the Annalls, who have passed over that declaration of Pausanias, unto the fixth Ptolomey Philometor.

Thus at the same time there were many Kings in Syria; untill the Syrians through the weariness of so many civil Wars, and Parricides, called Tigranes King of Armenia, at that feafon very mighty, thereunto: who, as

Pompey in the year of the City 688, Tigranes being received upon furrender, or made to yield, took away Syria from Antiochus Asiaticus; Therefore they reigned in Syria from the beginning of Seleucus the first, unto the beginning of Tigranes 228 years, to the last year of

Therefore he began in the year about 690. He being absent, the Alexandrians carry away the Scepter unto his eldest daughter, and compell her to marry Cybio-sallas, a filthy and obscure man of Syria, whom the Queen, a few dayes after slew. Of the Social war, the war with Mithridates, of Sylla and Marius; the Sertorian war; the Servile war; the Conspiracy of Catiline.

He Romans (a) almost at that time, waged two most hard (a) App. Civ. 1 and fearful Wars; whereof the one happened in Italy, the Epir. 71. other without Italy. That was called the Social or Marsian, be- Plut. Syll. cause it was first stirred up by the Marsians. For all the Latines, Eutr. 5. and most people of Italy, taking it unworthily, that they, who were Qrof. 5.ch. 18; partakers of all labours and dangers, should be shut out from the fellowship of Government and Honour, they endeavoured, the City through Drusus being vainly hoped for to get that by weapons, which they could not by right. And first of all, at the time of the Latine holy-dayes or Solemnities, they endeavoured, in the year of the City 663, to kill both the Confuls, Philip and Cafar: the thing being discovered, they fell off openly. They killed Quintus Servilius Proconful, Fonteius the Embassadour, and all the Romans of Asculum. After these things they sought with a diverse event. The chief honour of victory Cneius Pompeius Strabo, the father of the Great Pompey, first of all the Embassadour of Publim Rutilius Consul, obtained against them, in the year of the City 664, in which, a breaking out being made out of the Town Firmum, he drave back the Latines befreging it, and chased them to Asculum, and then the Consul, in the year 665, wherein he took Asculum, reduced the Vestini and Peligni unto a surrender, and triumphed over them. must needs be read(d) with Appian) innaid's natos ar in Dageis vi Tsaame, not as is commonly read [soirs] the eighth from that Mithridates. who a little after the death of Alexander, fell away from the Macedonians; although Appian had thought him the fixth before him. The War arose from thence, because Mithridates, Ariathes King of Cappadocia, the husband of his fifter being killed by lying in wait, then his fon of the same name, possessed the Kingdom; and afterward he being driven away by an unjust pofferfion, he had expelled (a) Ariobarzanes given unto the Cappadocians by the Senate; whom indeed Lucius Sylla Proprætor restored in the year of the City built, 660.

(b) After these things, Ariobarzanes from Cappadocia, Nicomedes from Bythinia, being through the endeavour of Mithridates, expelled, by the decree of the Senate, they recovered their kingdoms; the which Mithridates taking grievoully; and moreover, being provoked by Roman weapons, invadeth Cappadocia and Bithynia, puts to flight the Roman Armies, kills all the Italians at an appointed day, reduceth Macedonia, Thracia, Greece, and Athens into his power or title. Against this King Sylla, the Consul going, in the year of the City built 668, taketh Athens. The Captains of Muhridates being overcome, brings him to conditions of peace, That he should yield up, or depart from Asia, Bithynia, and Cappadocia.

(c) For a Civil War came on, the which also brought delayes on Sylla, the Conful fetting forward. For before this time, in the year of the City 666, Marius, although stricken with old age, burning with a defire of waging the Mithridatick War, through Caius Sulpitius the Tribune of the common people, he had taken away that Province of Sylla, and had passed it over unto himself or them. For which thing Sylla being much moved, possesseth the City, and Sulpitius being flain, he puts Marius to flight. But he being absent, Cinna the Consul in the year 667, much troubling the Common-wealth, by Ostavius, his Companion in office, being driven out of the City, Marius, Carbo, and Sertorius being joyned unto him; the Armies being divided into four parts, he affaults his Country. That being taken, many Citizens are flain; Marius the year following was quenched by a difeafe.

A peace being made with Mithridates, Sylla being returned into Italy, in the year 671 he finished a Civil War, Carbo, Norbane, Marius the younger, and others being vanquished; and a Dictator in the year 672 was proclaimed, and he likewise took away very many of the Marian parties by banishment.

(d) Quintus Sertorius in the year 671, his parties despairing, goes Plut. in Sert. into the farther Spain; where he underwent War for some years, with the like valour and industry.

(a) Sylla, when he had refigned himself of the Dictatorship in the year 675, he dyed in the year following of a lowzie discase, being 60 years old. After whose death Lepidus the Consul attempting destructive counsels of revoking his Acts, he is put to flight by Catulus his fellow-Conful, in the year of the City built

676. But in that year that followed, he coming unto the City with an Army, he being overcome by the same Catulus and Cneius Pompeius, fleeth into Sardinia, where he dyed of a disease. The unto 4713. fame Pompey being fent into Spain against Sertorius, that he might fuccour Metellas, he advanced not very much. An Account of Time.

In the mean time, the War with Mithridates (Sylla as yet li- The Mubris ving) waxeth new again; the which was waged by Lucius Mu. datiek War rands, in the year of the City built 672, as the (b) Epitomy of (b) vell. 2. Livy teacheth. After the death of Sylla, when as the King had Epit. 72. made a league with Sertorius, and had possessed himself of Bythinia App. r. Civ. by Arms; the which Nicomedes dying in the year 679, had left Dio. 33. unto the people of Rome. Lucius Lucullus Consul, in the year 680, Eutr. 62 going thither, by most prosperous battels made at Land and Sea, he constrained Mithridates first to fly into Pontus, and thence by and by into Armenia to Tigranes, in the year of the City built 683. So Pontus being subdued, he overcame in battle both Kings, going together with two hundred thousand footmen, fixty thousand horsemen, in the year 685; the which (c) Phlegos witnesseth, assign- (c) with ... ing that to the fourth year of the 177 Olympiad ... About these Phot. Coli times, Tigranoserta the head of Armenia, and also Nilibis, very 97. great Cities, were taken. Bur at last, Lutullus being forsaken by his Souldiers, he was forced to yield up the fruit of so many labours and victories unto Cneius Pompetus, in the year 688. Pom- The Law of pey, a Law being made, in the year which I have faid, by Cneius Manilius. Manilius Tribune of the common people, he undertook a War with both Kings, he commanded Tigrhnes, being brought to a furrender, to be contented with Armenia alone. While he followed after Mithridates, he added the Poris and Albanes to the Roman Empire, in the year of the City 689! Lastly, Mithridates being beaten on every fide, in the year 691, things being desperate at home, thinking of a flight into France, being very much affrighted through the failing or falling away of his fon Pharnaces, and his Army, he took away his own life. Which account of Times, is manifest out of (a) old Historians, and yearly Regi- (a) Dio. 36. sters.

Thus the Mithridatick War was ended in that year wherein Cicero was Conful, of the City 69 1, the which (b) Florus affirmeth (b) Flor. 3. to have remained 40 years. Thence to the Consulship of Cicero are full 32 years. Appian reckons the moving of Mithridates from the 173 Olympiad, which began in the year of the City built 666; in which year, the matter was brought into an open War, and Sylla failed into Greece. By this account, fix and twenty, not fourty, shall the years be thought or reckoned.

(a) Caius Cafar by the City Prætorship, having gotten the Province of Listania, in the year of the City 693, and things in the same place being famously managed, obtained a triumph. But he put the sure hope of this, after the honour of the Consull-ship, the which while he earnestly fought in the year of the city 694, at the same time Pompey, Lucullus interrupting his acts, which he would have had made established decrees by the Senate, joyned himself with Casar and Crassus, and other chief ones. So Casar obtained the Consulship in the year 695, wherein he also approved or confirmed Pompeys acts through the Senate, and divided the Campanian land, among very many citizens, and eafed the common Farmers of the Knight order, defiring an abatement of a third part of their rents. A daughter of Julia being appointed for Pompey, he married Calpurnia of Pison. When as by these Arts and infinite bounty, he had gotten the favour of all ranks of men unto himself, he got the French Province, the which from the year of the city 696, he began to Govern, and ruled nine years, as (b) Sue-(b) Suat in Jul. tonimis Author: In which space of time he reduced all France, which is conteined by the Pyrenean Alps, the Rivers of Rhene and Rhodane or Roan, and imposed on it every year the debt or title of a Stipend or Subfidy : he also, first of the Romans, provoked the Germans beyond Rhene, a bridge being laid over Rhene. Healfo was present with the Brittains, whither none before had pierced. Among these things, in the year of the city built 698, he made such an agreement with Pompey and Crasus, that the Province of France was continued unto him, Pompey enjoyed Spain, Crassus, Syria, by lot, and the Parthian war, to which (c) he going in the year 699, in the third year from thence, he most miserably perished with the greater part of his Army. Of the City, seven hundred and seventeen. Therefore Die is to be corrected, who affigneth him to Claudius and Norbanus Confuls, that is, in the 8th Julian year. But the Character of the year of Sabbath reproveth him of falshood. Antigonus being bound to a stake, and beaten with rods, a little after was smitten with a harcher, as Die and Josephus report.

Thus the chief rule of the Hasamoneans ceased, after the year, faith I sephus, 126; the which is most true. For Judas first was made chief Priest of that stock, in the year of the World 3820, of the City 90; from which, the hundred twenty fixth is the

Hence it appeareth, there was a two-fold beginning of the Adouble bereign of Herod; one from the fixth Julian year; the other from sinning of the 9th: in the former, he was declared King by the Senate; in Herod. the latter, he reigned alone, his fellow-suiter being taken away. After three years that he was made King of all Palestina, when he was at Cafarea, which is called Strato's Tower, (d) and made a speech at the Tribunall seat, suffering them to cry him up as it were a god, by the sudden wrath of God he was disparched by a consumption of worms, issuing our of his body. You shall find the relation of his death in Josephus, a little differing from Luke. But of the time, that we have spoken he affirmeth; Heassirmeth, that he reigned four years, Caius being Emperour, three under Claudius, in the whole feven years, afterward Judea was given to Syria, and ceased to have Kings of their own.

In the mean while Christian Godlinesse began to be increased through Judea and Syria, and farther also, the Disciples diligently imploying themselves in that matter, and especially Peter and Paul, of whom, the first travelling over Syria, is believed to have fastned the Bishop scar of Antiochia, the seventh year after the suftering of Christ, the 37. of the common account, over which he was chief six whole years; from thence (e)about the second year of Claudius, he travelled to Rome, as Eusebius writeth in his Chronicle, who also sheweth, that Peter was Bishop of the City 25 years: Dionyfius Alexandrinus, with Eufebius, is Author, that Peter preach-

The beginning of this feat falls into the third year of Claudius, of Christ Christ, to 43, which is the next year from his going thither, when as Paul the 68. had not as yet come thirher,; who in the mean time purely administred the Gospell in Afia and Greece, and Macedonia : and Rome, in the 25. year after the fuffering of Christ, of Nero the second, he was brought bound to Rome, (t) as Jerome witnesseth, which is (f) Jerome the year of Christ 56. Last of all setting upon Jerusalem, the head of the Nation; straightway being now Emperour, he reneweth the fiege by his fon Titus, that was interrupted by the flaughter of Nero and others, in the second year of his reign, of Christ the 70, at the dayes of unleavened bread. (i) Among the best Emperours, Titus, who was put in the place of his tather Vespasian, is by right numbred; although before he reigned, he was mistrusted of cruelty, coverousnesse, and lust. But whatsoever were his manners, in his chief rule he so turned for the better, that he deserved to be called, The Love and delight of Mankind. There was an especial same of meekness and readinesse in him. Being wont to deny any thing to none, he said, None ought to depart forrowfull from his Prince. When after Supper, he had remembred, that he had performed nothing for any one that day; On friends, faid he, I have lost a day. He being Emperour, in the year of Christ 80, a great force of flames of fire, and straightway ashes, brake out of the Mountain Vefuvius. (a) But it passed through into Africa, Syria, and even to Egypt. Two Towns perished, of Pompey and Hercules. He dedicated the Amphitheatre or Play-house, and hot Baths, with his own name.

(c) Domitian increased that desire, his brother and succeeder, the most naught of almost all Princes, who hitherto had, and atterwards lived. But among the beginnings of his principality, fome shew of clemency and justice utter'd it self. But straightway he betrayed his disposition, and shewes himself an imitator of Nero, in cruelty, robbery, and riot. Being lavish in gifts and spectacles, he, among other things, appointed a five years game, a three-fold, on the Capitol of Jupiter, a musical riding, and exercifing game, in the year of Christ 86. He first would be called Lord, and God. When he had made beginning of reigning in the year of Christ 81, he was quenched by the conspiracy of his Subjects, in the year 96, the fourteenth of the Kalends of Octob. the 45 year of his age, when he had commanded 15 years, fix dayes.

Hristian Affairs of that time, are conversant in no great light:it was rather through the scarcenesse of Writers, than because there was nothing which might have been committed to letters. For it is to be believed, the Apostles and Disciples of Christ to have carried on neither small matters, nor things unworthy to be known: but many things are fprinckled with fables and uncertain tales. And also we have decreed to commit to this book, not an exact history of all things, but only some chief heads of things.

Anno 138 of Christ, unto 192.

Nioninus Pius, adopted by Hadrian, governed the Roman A Empire in the year of Christ 138, with so much virtue and Capitolinus goodnesse, that he excelled all other examples. For he governed Victor Eutrop. the Common-wealth rather by a fatherly, then Princely affection; 8. and he governed the whole World by his fole authority, without any war, all the time of his Empire: therefore was he compared with Numa. The Forrain and far distant Princes and people did fo dread him, that they would make him the Arbitrator of their differences, he forbid enquiry to be made after them that had conspired against him. He dieth in the year of his age 70, and of his Empire twenty four, Villor gives him up seventy two years, he died in the hundred fixty one year after Christs Nativity, in the Moneth of March having taken the Scepter, the fifth of July, in the one hundred thirty eighth year of Christ; so that he Governed the Empire two and twenty years, and almost eight Moneths.

After him, ruled the Empire M. Antoninus Verm, Pius's fon in law; For he had in marriage his daughter Valeria Faustina. He from his very youth being brought up and instructed in the studies of virtue, as well as of all other Arts, he had vertue no leffe in his life and manners, then in his speeches and profession. At first he made L. Llim Verus, to whom he had married his daughter Lucilla, his companion in the Government of the Empire; and then did first two Emperours by name of Cafars rule at once. And this thing was so sull of dignity and novelty, that some of the chief Confulls, took hence their order of Confulls, faith Spartianu, (b) They (b) Spare in then reigned eleven years together, as the fame with Eutropim Re- Veto Eutrop. cords, being of a contrary manner of his life for Verus was floath- Capitol. full, drowned in riotand pleasure, and of an uncivill and unmannerly disposition, which was moderated and mitigated by his brother's reverence and respect: By whom being sent against the Parthians, he for the space of four years, had by his chief officers profperous successe. Therefore they both triumphed over the Parthians: Then, after it, they undertook the Marcoman-Wars. But Verus died in that exploit of the Apoplexy, between Concordia and Altinum, in the 171 year of Christs birth, if he attained the eleventh year of his Empire; or in the 169, if he did not exceed the ninth, for Eufebius's Chronicles mention both: Therefore did M. Aurelius alone, fight for the space of three years with the Marcomans, to whom the Quades, the Vandalis, the Sarmates, the Swedes, and all the other barbarous nations there-about those parts, had joyned themselves to; and at last overcame them in a most dan-

The publick treafure being spent, and exhausted, lest he should burthen any one by taxes, he fold and pawned all the plates, ornaments and Jewells that belonged to his imperiall Majesty, and after his victory he repayed the price back again to them that had bought them, and were willing to render them back: Avidius Cassius upon a false report of his death took the Government upon himfelf, and, after it, was killed within three Moneths. M. Aurelius having Governed the Empire 19 years, and 11 Moneths, he died in Vienna, of ficknesse, in the 180 year of Christ, being aged 59. years as Villor saith: for he was born, Verus his Grandfather being Conful, the Author of the Capitoll being Augur, which agrees with the

The Annuall Prefect prætor, being the Judge of the fact, who himself being soon after deprehended in the same fault, had his head cut off; from that time were two invested with the Pretors office. To the perennall office succeeded Cleander, who for his cruelty and covetousnesse was hated of the people, who by the command of Commodus, was killed for having raifed a fedition. He is infnared by the conspiracy of them of his own, whom he had appointed to death, and so he dieth, having swayed the Scepter twelve years, nine Moneths, and 14. dayes, as faith Xiphilinus, after he had lived one and thirty years and four Moneths : he died the first day of January-Calends, in the year 192 after Christ's birth.

But two moneths and five dayes after, he is forfaken by the same persons; because he could not give them the whole gratuity and recompence that they expected, he is flain by Septimius Severus's command.

For this man being born in Africk, and Governour of Pannonia, Spart. & alii through a shew of avenging Pertinax, he violently took the Empire superiores, upon himself. And first he discharged the Pretorian bauds circumvented by his own fervants for murthering Pertinax unworthily; then he went against Pescennius Niger Governour of Syria; and Clodius Albinus Governour of Brittain, and both competitors of the Empire. Niger being the first overcome, (Antioch, where he had fled, being taken) flying to Euphrates, was killed, as faith Herodianus. Spartianus saith, That he was killed near Cyzicum: Niger being suppressed, Severus took Byzantium, which persisted Byzantium still in his obedience, after three years siege: and having devested

The City was burnt and demolished, and Albinus's head fent to Rome, and much cruelty was used towards those of his party and his friends.

Thence again being gone into the East, he subdued the Parthians, the Adiabenians and the Arabians, he granted a Charter of Corporation to the Alexandrians. Antoninus Caracalla, and Geta, Severus's two fons, by equal right obtained the Government of the Empire, after their father's death, in the year as I have faid, 211 of Christ, who by reason of their contrary nature, had daily and continual diffention and difference together: Geta was of a meck and civil nature; the other was a turbulent and fiery man: by whom in the second year of his Empire was his brother, aged 23 years, flain, in the very bosom of their Mother, under a shew of a particular discourse, in the 212th year after Christ, as Xiphilinus doth record, and soon upon it was an infinite number of his favourites and friends put to death, amongst whom was that great Doctor in the Law Papinianus because he would not by Law excuse his murther. After this Antoninus went into the East, and there he made a great slaughter of the Alexandrian Citizens, because they had once spoken some words against him, he deceitfully invaded Artabanus King of the Parthians, and spoyled his Kingdom, at length, six years and two Sol's Priest, commonly thought, though falfly, Caracallu's son, took Eutrop. the Empire. He was the vilest of all men, infomuch, that having cast off all manhood, he difformed himself into a woman, and did fuffer any thing in his body. Therefore having ruled three years and nine moneths, by the consent of the Souldiers, he was slain with his Mother Semiamira or Julia, in the 222 year of Christ, his corps being dragg'd in the channel, and thence drawn into the River Tiber, in the 18th year of his age. Most Authors attribute to his Empire, two years and some moneths; and to his age 16 years: but we rather adhere to Xiphilinus, whose accompt is given in another place, where mention is made of Alexander.

In the year of Christ 222, Aurelius Severus Alexander obtained the Empire, having been made Cafar the year before. A Prince far surpassing all in goodnesse; and most excellent and valiant, both in peace and war. He was wonderfully diligent either in giving judgment, or in requiring justice of the Judges, he reprehended and corrected those who by favour or bribes did exceed the bonds of Justice and right; he banished out of his Court all flatterers, scoffers, and shames of the Court. He forbad the Magisfrates Offices to be bought, afferting, That it could not be, but what one had bought, he would fell it again for hire-fake: Therefore he did give a Salary out of the Treasury to the Governours of the Provinces, lest they should be burthensome to the peo-

Dionysius of Alexandria died in the thirteenth year of Galien's reign, 28 as Eusebius saith, and so likewise Gregorius Thaumaturgus: of the Gentiles, Plotinus the Philosopher, died in the beginning of Aurelianus's reign, being the 270 year of Christ, as may be gathered out of Porphyrius, upon his life.

Suidas faith, that he was very old under Galien, and that Amelius was his hearer, and that Porphyrius was Amelius's hearer, and Jamblicas the hearer of Porphyrius; and that Porphyrius flourished under Aurelian, and that he attained the dayes of Dioclesian's Empire But Eunapius makes Amelius to be Porphyrius's School-fellow, and not his Master. He together with Origenes Aquilinus, and Porphyrius lengthened his dayes unto the time of Aurelianus's, and Probus's Empire: at which time also lived Dexippus the Historian, Longinus is also reckoned amongst the learned ones of that age, by whom Forphyrius was taught and furnamed, being before that called Malchus: but Zenobia making use of Longinus for to teach her Greek, Aurelianus therefore caused him to be put to death, as writes Vopiscus.

Having quieted all things in France, he went into Slavonta, and overcame the Nations in Scythia. And being gone thence into the East, he gave battell to the Persians, and having overcome them, and taken some of their Cities, as he was returning to Italy, passing through Slavonia, he was killed at Sirmium

M. Aurelius Carus born in Narbon in France, fucceeded Probus, who foon after created his fons Carinus and Numerianus, Cafars; and baving sent Carinus into France to keep it in peace, and Govern it, he, with Numerianus his son, went into the East, against and Numeria- the Persians: There having overcome Mesopotamia, being gone as far as Cteliphon, he was strucken dead by a Thunderbolt, having governed the Empire about a whole year, it being the 283. year of Christ. Numerianns, being exceedingly afflicted for his fathers death, by reason of too much weeping fell into an ocular difease; and as he was carried in a Litter, he was murthered by the conspiracy of Aprus his father in law, in the two hundred eighty fourth year of Christ.

Carinus, of a frother temper than his father and brother, lived full of vices, and all defiled with wickednesse: For its said that he wanted no manner of mischief and basenesse, and that he had no token or spark of vertue and goodnesse: wherefore being hated both by great and small, a while after his fathers death, he contended against the people as well as against Dioclesian, by both whom he was hated; and he attained to the year of Christ 285. that is, one year after that Dioclesian was advanced to the Imperiall dignity. For then, being betrayed by his own party near Margus a town of Moesia, he was killed by Dioclesians army, which overcame him.

Then about the Month of September, in the year of Christ 284. Dioclesian who before was called Diocles, after Numerianus's death, received the Purple Robe presented to him by the Souldiers; born in Dalmatia of low Parentage, (for he is faid to have been a bondfervant to Anulinus the Senatour) but a gallant warriour: He in the first Assembly, swore that Numerianus had been murthered without his confent, or knowledge, and thereupon killed the Murtherer Aprus with his own hands, and by it full filled that Prophefy, that he had once received, That he should be Emperour, when he had killed Aper (which fignifieth a Bore) with his own. proper hands. Whence in his hunting as often as he lighted upon a Boor, he was wont to kill him with his own hands with a hunting staffe, but after he had slain Aper, then he boasted that, at length he had found out the fatall Bore: Then the Peafants of France rifing up in an uproar that were called Bacaudes, having tent Maximian Herculian to them, he quieted them in the 285, year, whereupon Maximian was made Cafar the first time : For the next year following being the 286 year. Disclesian created him Augustus; because, saith Idatius, he might prop up and uphold the republick that was tottering and falling, what by the Barbarians incursions, what by the Tyrants oppressions. For at the same time Caraufius being busied among the Britains, and Achillew in Ægypt, had both taken the purple Robe. And from the Dioclesian; that he might joyn these to himself by affinity, gave to Armentarius his daughter Valeria; and to Constantius, Maximinianus Herculius gave Theodora his daughter in Law: So having divided their Forces into four Armies, Dioclesian went into Egypt, Herculius into Africk, Armentarius into the East, and Constantius into Brirtain. By the long, tedious, and laborious Expeditions of them all, was the Roman world again settled in peace. About the end of the 12th year of Dioclesian's Empire, it being the 296 of Christ, as Eusebius records in his Chronicle, Alexandria after eight moneths fiege being taken, together with Egypt, was brought back again unto the obedience of the Romans.

Caraufius seven years after his revolt, was killed by Alestu his Affociat in the 293 year of Christ; and so the (b) Brittains were (b) Eutrop. again recovered, in the tenth year after their revolt, faith Eutrepius. But Maximian was forced to it more by the authority of his Affociate, then by his own will. This was done in the 20th year of Dioclesian's Empire, and of Christ 304; at what time Dioclesian had been 9 times Consul, and Maximianus 8, as Idatius writes; who relates, That at that same time Constantius Chlorus, and Galerius Maximianus Armentarius were declared Augustus's; and that Severiu, and Galerius Maximianus Armentarius fister's fon, were created Cafars, as Villor faith alfo.

Roman Empire, parting the same between themselves: and to Galerius Maximinus's lot, fell Scythia, Afia, and the East; to Constantius's, France, Italy, and Africk, who afterward gave Italy and Africk over to his Companion. And so Maximian established Severus over Italy, and Maximinus over the East. In the mean while, Constantinus, Constantius Chlorus's son, having been delivered by his father to Dioclesian and Galerius Maximianus for his hostage and pledg; and being re-demanded by his father, having been cast upon several dangers, and having escaped privately, he flyeth to his father at Geforiacum. Of the state of the Christian Religion, from the year of Christ 276, wherein Probus first entred into the Empire, unto the death of Constantius Chlorus, and the beginning of Constantinus; that is, unto the 305, or 306th year, wherein is spoken of Dioclesian's Persecution: Of the Original of the Donatists, and of several Pious and Learned Perfons.

TN these few years, that we comprehend in this Chapter, there were very great Troubles and Persecutions against the Church. In the beginning of Probus's Empire, that is, in his second year, and of Christ's 277, broke forth the heresie of the Manichees, as we read it in Eusebius's Chronicles: In which time also, notice is taken of the Account of the years of the Antiochenians, and Laodicenians, &c. (Hereticks, so called). (a) Pope Leo endeth this year, when Probus and Paulinus were Confuls: At which time Archelaus Bishop of Caschara in Mesopotamia, renowned for his holinesse and learning, resisted strongly and constantly the rage and madneffe of the Manichees.

But under Dioelesian, the persecution of the Christians was so grievous and so great, as afore this time there was never the like, at the latter end of his Empire. Perfecution.

2. de Penu.

But this fire of perfecution did flame more vehemently in the latter end of Dioclesian's 18th year; or, as (d) Eusebius thinks, in the 19th of his Empire; which he begins to reckon from the moneth of Easter. Then it was (in those dayes of Christ's passion) that the Emperours commanded, by their Edicts, that all the Christian Churches should be demolished; and all the facred books should be burnt; and that all those Christians that had any publick office, should be degraded and turned out, and all the others should be put to death. Thereupon an infinite number of Christians suffered Martyrdome by divers sorts of torments for Christs

Christ's sake; of whom Eusebius nameth some, as Procopius in Cafaria of Palestine, Alpheus, Zacchem, &c. But the Martyrdoms of Christ, that are read in the Ecclesiastical Histories are innumerable; of to 304. whom were Marcus, and Marcellian; Cosma, and Damianus, two brothers; Vincentius, Agnes, Lucia, Maurice, and an infinite num Divers Merber of the Thebeans. Also Pope Marcellinus, in the year of Christ tyrs. 304, (the Emperours being then reduced to order) suffered Martyrdome for Christ's sake, the 8th of May; and the next year after this great Persecution, both the Emperours laid down their dignity, as Eulebius laith. And they who for fear and punishment did deliver their Bibles, were called in Africk Traditores or Traytors, which afterward was the feed of the Donatift's Schifm: And first there was held a Council of Bishops, most of them infected with this crime in (e) Cyrtha of (e) Optatus Numidia, wherein Secundus Tigistanus the Primate of Numidia Con. CHAP. II.

Of the Affairs of the Church which came to passe in the time of Constantine the Emperour; of Maximian's Persecution; of the Schism of the Donatists; of the hereste of the Arrians; and of the Nicean Synod; and also of those Persons eminent in Piety and Learning.

He Perfecution commenced by Dioclesian, and continued after him and Herculius against the Christians, was propagated and increased by Galerius Maximianus, and by Galerius Maximinus: but Constantine who ruled France, did not onely abstain from shedding Christian blood, but also had the Christians in great esteem. Above the others, did (a) Maximinus rage in the East, putting an Marryrs under Maximinus. infinite number of Christians to Martyrdom; Excellent and renowned persons, were Pamphilus, a learned Elder of Casaria; and Procopius, who suffered in the same City. Peter Bishop of Alexandria, who excluded Arrius from the Communion by reason of his Schisms. (b) St. Potamiena of Alexandria; Lucian of Nicomedia, (c) Also was spread abroad a most pernicious and detestable book under Pilat's acts by Maximinus's command, wherein many wicked and horrid things were contained of Christ; And Maxentius raged as, much at Rome. But Constantine the Victorious, did put a stop and period to the Persecution; under whose protection and favour the Christian Religion was propagated and enlarged, even farther then the Roman Territories.

After this Licinius (d) being become an enemy, from a friend and Protector: he made not a few Martyrsalfo, amongst whom 40 Souldiers of an excellent and commendable valour are reckoned, who were starved of cold in Cappadocia; Basil Bishop of Amasea, and others: when Licinius was flain by Conftantine, then did the Christians enjoy peace.

Whilest this Tyrant rages with fire and sword against the Christians, the inward and domestick troubles did also afflict the Church; for its said, That two schisms and heresies had their rife under the beginning of Constantine's and Maxentius's Empire; The schism of the Donatists in Africk, and the schism of Meletian in Egypt. The first arose upon these causes.

(a) Lucilla

(a) Lucilla was a woman of Chartages in Spain, mighty and factious, who being reprehended by Cacilian the Arch-deacon, fought the occasion of revenging her self: It happened, that Menfurius the Bishop of Chartage, being called to Rome by Maximian, he commended the Veffels to the care of the Elders: Who being dead, Cacilian was ordained in his place by Felix Aprungita- Paim. et in nus, who asking of these Elders that that was lest in their hands, they refused and opposed his communion, and to them joyned her felt Lucilla. But they hist. c. 5. again troubling Africk, and condemned again by Ælian Proconful, they appeal to the Emperour, by whose command their cause was again examined by a Synod at Arelatis, and the fentence was given in Cacilian's behalf, in the year 314, Volusianus and Amanus being Confuls; but notwithstanding this, having again appealed to Constantine, being commanded first to come to Rome, then to Millan, there they were at last condemned, and punished by banishment, but Constantine afterwards recalled and pardoned their banishment. The other was the Schism of Meletians. (c) The Author of it (c) Athan. was Meletius Bishop of Lycopolis, who being degraded by Peter Apol. 1.2. Bishop of Alexandria, for divers crimes, and for having offered Theod. c. 2. facrifice to Idols, fell off from him; this businesse was broached at the same time wherein that of the Donatifls was.

Out of this faction came (d) Arius, an Elder of the Alexandrian (d) Athan. Church, who spread abroad an ungodly and blasphemous herefie 28, Soz. 1, 25, against the Son of God, for which being cast out of the Church, Theod.t.c.30, he fought for his advocates and defenders, Eufebius Bishop of Ni. Epiph. har. comedia, and another Bishop of Casaria, with divers others, the which burning, when Constantius could not restrain and quench it by letters, nor by his Embassadour Hosses, at length he ordained a Synod to be convoked at Nicea, in the year 325, wherein were present 318 Bishops.

By this Synod is condemned Arius's herefie, and the Controverfie about the Passeover is determined. Porphyrians. Now Athanasius Deacon to Alexander Bishop of Alexandria turned upon himself the harred of all the Arrians, because he had prosecuted the action more vehemently then any other. (c) And five moneths after this Synod, Alexander dying, he was ordained in his place; Neither could it ever be obtained by prayers nor threats from him, that Arianus might have the liberty to return into Alexandria. By reason of this being vexed by the Calumnies of the Melitians and Arians; (f) at length, he was condemned in the year 335, of false crimes, and being come to the Emperour into Constantinople, being suspected by him, by reason of his enemies new machinations and falle accusations, he is sent prisoner to Treveris, in the 336 year of Christ. CHAP. IV.

Of the Ecclefiafticall affairs, during the time of Constantius, and of the severall Councils; of Athanasius's Persecutions, and of the most eminent persons for Holinesse and Excellent Genius.

Rievous and lasting troubles did attend the Church infected With herefies during Constantius's Empire: for the Arrian perfidious Herefy, which for the fear of Constantinus had been suppressed, now began again to lift up its head. One of the causes of so great an evill was a woman, Constantia by name, which had marricd (g) Licinius. Dying, the recommended to her brother Conftantine the Emperour, a certain Elder infected with the opinion of (2) Ruff.l.r. Arius, whom he had in great esteem afterwards; and as he died, c. ir. Socr. Church, wherein Athanasius being ejected, in his place was ordained. Gregorius Cappadox, who possessed that place, having committed a great murther, Athanafius being secretly escaped, and gone The Councill to Rome, whether Paul, Bishop of Constantinople, and other Catholick Bishops, being expelled by the Arians, had retired themselves as to a sure place of refuge: (d) And for their cause, by the command of Constans and Constantius, was a generall Synod assembled at Sardis, in the year 347. By which the Arians retiring and hiding themselves, Athanasius was restored to his office, and all the other Bishops also, and the Hereticks being condemned, the Arti-(e) Socr. 2. c. cles of Faith concluded at Nicene, were here ratified. (e) At 20. Sez. 3.e. 10 the same time the Arians convoke a Conventicle at Philippia in Thracia, which they also called by the name of Sardis, where they forbad the Word of Confubstantiall evermore to be heard. (f) and fent their decree to them in Africa. But then Constantius being forced by Constans's threatning letters, commanded Athanasius to return into Alexandria: (g) But Paul being re-entered into Constantinople, and soon after cast out again, and brought to Cucusum, he was put to death by the Arians, and soon after this is also Athanasius turned out; And Constantius by all means possible feeking and endeavouring Athanafius's destruction, partly by force partly by threatnings he compells them to condemn him, and he punished partly by prison, partly by banishment, those who disowned and spoke ill of this wickednesse. Eusebius of Verselles, Dianyse of Millan and Liberius the Pope are banished, who two years atter, for desire of recovering the See of Rome, subscribes Athanasim's condemnation: but Osim of Cordubia, having constantly refisted and opposed it, at last, wearied out by sufferings and terrours, he affented also to it.

In the midst of all this, Athanasius being narrowly prosecuted to death, by the divine providence and protection, at last escaped.

(a) Now the Arians were making again new Articles of Faith, such as they had done within Eleven or Twelve

Never at any other time were Synods of Bishops more frequent then under this Emperour, the which (b) Ammianus an Heathen writer hath not ably observed as by his own words we may here sec. Confounding (saith he) the absolute and simple Christian Religion with superstition, in the fearthing of which, with more perplexity then gravity in the composing of the same, be stirred up many differtions, which being dispersed abroad, be maintained and somented by contention of words, fo that he cut off the finews of the thing carried about, whilest he endeavoureth to draw to his will the whole Ceremony of it, by multitudes of Bilbops riding far and near as publick labouring beafts to the Synods, ass they call them: (c) Now the chiefest that were held by the Anno 337. Hereticks, are reckoned to be thefe, viz. That of Syrmia in the year 351. Wherein Photinus Marcellus, Anciranus's Disciple, (d) often brought into Judgment afore and condemned, at length he (c) Hilat de was reduced into order, Bafilius chiefly profecuting him, (e) c. 29. Soz. 1.4. And that of Arimina, and also that of Seleuca, both held at the c.6. fame time in the three hundred fitty ninth year of Christ; wherein Epiph. Her. perfidiousnesse was strengthened by the fraud and implety of the $\frac{1}{73}$ Arians.

Other Herefies besides that of Arius broke forth, as that of the pend hajus Semirianians, who professed the Son of God, to be not of the (c) Athan, de fame substance of the Father, but of a substance like to it, of the Syn. Sever. 2. Marcellians, who revived (f) Sabellius's opinion: of the Photi-Suz. 4. c. 16. mians, who prefumed to fay that Christ was onely a meer man: Ruff.Li.c.21. of the Macedonians, or Pneumatomachians, who put the Holy Theod.2.c.18. Aug de Eunomess: who afferted the Son to be different from the Father, (a)Epiph has. (b) then of the Audianians and Aerians; of whom Epiphanius, The- 76. Soz. 1. 2. odoretus, and others do speak.

The persons illustrious for their holinesse that dyed in this 701 2751 Age were chiefly these, Paul the first Hermite, and Antonius the Paul the birth Monk: Hieronymus in his Chronicles writes, That in the 19 year Hermite, and of Constantius, dyed Antonius the Great; the which (c) Gregory of (c) Lib. 1. Turin hath followed; the which year in Scaliger's Edition is Hift Franc. ascribed to the fourth year of the 283 Olympiad in Pontacena, to c. 38. the first year of the 284 Olympiad, and to the 359th year of Christ; bur the 19th year of Constantius began in the 355 of Christ, Arbitianus and Lollius being Consuls; whence it may be, that Antonius dyed the year following 356 in January. (d) He was 105 years old, therefore his birth falls upon the 250 year of vita ejus, Christ, Decius then possessing the Empire, and persecuting the Hier.Chron. Christians, as Hieronymus's Chronicles do relate.

Paul was older then Antonius by 23 years; yea Hieronymus in Paul's life relates, that Antonius was 90 years old when Paul dyed, in the 113 year of his life; by this account, this Paul was born about the 227th, or 228th year of Christ, and dyed the 340, or 341, and lived in the hermitage 90 years.

Neverthelesse, Hieronymus speaks somewhat confusedly about Paul; for he faith, That Paul, at that time when Antonius came to him, that he had already led an heavenly life for the space of 115 years, and that in the 15th year of his life, for to escape the Persecution, he hid himself in a cave, which doth not well agree together. If he had lived 113 years in the desart after Decius's persecution, he would be said to have dyed the 363d year of our Lord; after the death of Constantius and Antonius, and had lived 128 years, or Antonius, who lived after him 15 years, dyed in the year 378; which is altogether abfurd.

Therefore Lucifer being come thither, he ordained Paulinus, Eustathius's Presbyter, Bishop for the Catholicks; so that there were three Bishops in that City. After this Eusebius of Verselles being come thither, disapproved what Lucifer had done; whereupon he being offended, and having taken it ill, that all those who had been dispossessed of their Offices, should repossesse and re-enjoy them again, he broke off from the communion of the Catholicks; and this was the first schism that was amongst the Luciferanians.

Ovian, born at (c) Sigidon in Pannonia, was faluted Emperout by the suffrage and common consent of the Souldiers, the 5th J of July, the 363 year of our Lord, as Idaius writes. A man of an admirable proportion of body, yet of a more excellent mind for picty and goodnesse, who suddenly brought the Souldiers from the superstitious worship of the Heathens, to the true Christian Religion: And fet out an Edict, That all the Idols Temples thould be shutup, and the sacrifices utterly abolisht, having concluded a peace more for necessity then for honour, with Sapor King of Persia for 30 years, by which he yielded Nisibis, and the most part of Mesopotamia, he established the Roman estate. But as he was returning to Constantinople, he dyed at Dadastane, in the Territories of Galatia, of a surfeit, or of the smell of Prunes, or by the fall of a new roof, the 11th of March, the 33 year of his age, and the eight moneth of his Reign.

(1) Jovianus being dead in the very same year of Christ 364, Valentinian the next day after Bissextile was clected Emperour at Nicea, having shund the biffextile, as Ominous, as Ammianus writes, he under his Father Gratian governed the second Fencing-School of Cybalis, a City in Pannonia; but Julian removed him out of that dignity, because of his constant mind in the Christian Religion, who the same year intituled his own brother Augustus. In (a) Amm.30. Constantinople, the 4th of April, (as Idatius faith,) (a) having committed the East to his charge, he goeth himself into the West, he was indued with many ornaments of virtue; but he exceeded most in the love of Justice, infomuch, that fometimes he exceeded in punishing of vices, he had an admirable face, and an excellent genius, he was learned and experienced in divers Arts, he was wonderfully temperate, and yet more worthy of praises for his constancy and integrity in the Christian faith, and that much the more, because his brother did renounce it to his great desame. He waged wars against the Alemans, the Quades, and the Saxons, befides other Nations: The Quades or Sarmats at length wasting the borders, when as he was a preparing an Army against them, and to 378. that they had fent their Embassadors to him in way of submission, being somewhat extraordinarily passionate against them; being fuddenly taken with an Apoplexy, he dyed the 15 of December in Pannonia, in Brigition's Castle, as Idatim faith, (b) in the 55 year of (b) Amm. 30. his age, and the 12th of his Empire. T this time the Catholick interest was in the East in great A troubles under an Arian Prince. (c) For Valens was infected with the Herefy of the Arians by reason of his familiarity and acquaintance with them; he vexed continually them that adhered to the Nicean opinion and doctrine, chiefly after he was baptifed by Eudoxim the usurper of the Bishoprick of Constantinople, in the very defign of his Gothick expedition; and he going before he fwore both that he never would for fake that impious opinion, and that he would oppose and pull down with all his power all the professors of the contrary opinion; and he performed both according to his promife; for he stirred up a cruel and bloudy Persecution, wherein were many Bishops banished, and Catholicks of other ranks; the rest were afflicted divers wayes, not a few suffered (d) Socr. 4.c. very deep. (a) The Emperour difliking this their condescention, he would have an affembly of his own to be held at Nicea, by whom Eunomoesus the Prince of the Anomoeans was created Bishop of Cizicum, Eleusius being ejected, but afterwards he was turned out by the Cyzinians, confumed both by fire and water. (c) Above all others, he hated the Monks, and by an edict forced to be lifted for Souldiers; yet, notwithstanding all this, God was not wanting to his Church in this turbulent and diffressed estate of hers; for he opposed to the Herericks many rare and excellent persons, both for their godlineffe, and for their learning: Amongst them were these two, Basilim, and Gregorius, most eminent, who came as it were out of the Wildernesse to succour the Catholick party. Valens doth in vain oppose Basilim created Bishop of Casarea in Cappadocia, in the year three hundred and feventy, whose son Galates for his fathers fault, is punished with death, and Gregorius ordained Bishop of the Sasimans dyed. (d) But intending also to dispossesse Athanasius, fearing that the Alexandrians would rife in an uproar, he defifted from his enterprise, but he being dead, and Peter being by the Catholicks ordained in his place, Valens commanded Lucius an Arrian to be preferred to it, and Peter to be shut up in Prison. In the West which Valentinian a Catholick Prince did govern, there was scarse any trouble occasioned by the Hereticks, onely that (d) Auxentias Bishop of Millain of the Arrian faction, under d)Soc. But there broke out a great schism at Rome, in the 367th year of Christ after the death of Liberius the High Pricst. Urcifinus being by a lawful consent and suffrage against Damascus, ordained Bishop, thence arose such a bitter sedition, that there were found in f)Amm. 27. one day 137 dead corps in Sicininus's Cathedrall Church, as Am-Ruff. 2. c.10. mianus witnesseth.

Palestine also in these times was adorned by St. Hilarie's piety who dyed about the 372 year of Christ, aged about eighty years, as Hieronymus writes upon his life, who then dwelt in Syria; and Ephrem that holy man and ornament of the Edessean Church was also living about these times.

T Alentinian being Augustus, had two sons, Gratian who was born the fourteenth of May, in the year of Christ three hundred fifty and nine, as Idatius faith in his records; and Valentinian, Junior, whom he begat of his Wife Justina (which had first married Magnesius the Tyrant as (a) Zosimus writes) the eighteenth of January, in the year three hundred fixty and fix, by Idatius's accompts. (d) Gratian was of an admirable Genius and propenfity to all Idat. vertue and honesty, which was farther adorned by the excellent d) Amm. 27. comelinesse of his body: he was a reasonable good Scholler, but he had no great skill to govern the publick, being wont to prefet Barbarian and raw Souldiers before the Romans and old-ones: (e) He, Valens being dead, when the Goths did over-run and (e) Zofim.4. spoil Thrace, and other territories of the Roman Empire, not Socr. 5. c.2. being able to bear the whole burthen alone, after he had called Theod 5. c.g. (f) He shewed a great testimony of this his disposition when he avenged himself of the Thesialonians sedition: for when that people had killed Bothericus their Governour, the Generall of the Scythians Army : Theodofius revenged this fact by the death of many of their Citizens, even of those that were innocent: For this cause, comming to Millan, he was by Anbrose forbidden admittance into the Church, the which he did not onely bear patiently, but satissying to the Pontific's injunction, he ordained a law, that all sentences given against Malefactors, should in their execution be delayed fourty dayes after; This feems to have been done Anno three hundred and ninety. Of what mind thinkest thou is God, when he seeth his Sonne despised by the Hereticks, and not honoured as himself. Hence a great contest arising, and Timothy, Peter's successour and Prelate of Alexandria, by his command denying a Bishop to Constantinople, Gregory for peace and quietnesse layed down his dignity of his own consent. And Nectarius supplied his place, after this, every ones Diocesse was limited, and the same rites and priviledges were granted to the Bishop of Constantinople, as the Bifhop of Rome enjoyed onely, being after him in dignity: but the Authority of the Roman Pontiffe forbid the ratification of this decree: And this was the fecond generall Synod held at Constantinople in the year 391. In the West, the many invasions and incursions of the Barbarians were almost the utter undoing of Rome and of the Roman Empire. (a) Radagaifus Prince of the Goths, with four hundred thousand of Souldiers, as Zof. records, or two hundred thousand, as Orosius and Marcellus do fay, over-ran all Italy; he was the potentest of all the enemies the Romans had, and a most bitter enemy to the Christians. Which whole multitude, Stilicho by a wonderful fuccesse, having thut them up in the mountains, defeated and kill'd, having taken and kill'd the General himself. Prosper faith, that this wonderful victory was obtained in the year of Christ

(b) After him, Alaricus King of the Goths, of the Balthick Family, having wasted and spoyled Greece, and a long time remaireg. suoc. 96.; ned at Epirus by Stilichon's command, who intended to draw and transport Thracia from Arcadius's dominion and rule, to Honorius, broke afterwards into Italy; whom to divert and hinder, Honorius granted him and his people to possesse and inhabit France and Spain, because he could no longer retain and keep those Provinces himself; whereunto Alaricus going with his men, Saul a Captain of the Gentiles, to whom Stilicho had committed an Army, unadvisedly assaulting the Barbarians upon an Easter day, is by them overcome. By which successe Alaricus being elevated in his mind, having drawn his forces nearer, and ranfacked all Italy, he took Rome. (c) But Stilicho before this was already put to death by Honorius's command; but intending after Theodosius's death to take the whole Empire upon himself, and to create his son Eucherius (a Gentile, and cruel enemy to the Christians) Emperour; the sconer and better to bring his design to passe, he resolved to imbroyl all the Common-wealth; And therefore be underhand stirred up the Barbarians to invade and tear the Empire to pieces; for he brought the Vandals, the Alans, the Swedes, and the Burgundians into France and Spain, whither, Prosper in his Chronicles writes, that they advanced in the year 406; his affinity with the Emperour strengthened his courage, because he had married Serena, Theodofius's fifter, and had by her two daughters, Mary, which foon after dyed, and Theumantia which he had married; but his secret practices and designs being discovered by Olympius, he is killed by Heraclinian, in the year of Christ 408, in Ravenna's Church being fled thither, who by that deed deferved, as it was bestowed upon him, the Government of Africk, as Zosimus saith; (d) then the year following, Eucherus is slain with Senera his Mother, Stilichon being dead, Alaricus intending to enter into a league with Honorius, he was rejected by an indifereet counsel. (a) Therefore at the example of the Goths and Hunns, with great forces, together with Athaulphus his wifes brother, he besiegeth Rome, and took it in the year of Christ 410; which having given to his Souldiers to plunder, he commanded them not to hurt or wrong any of them that fled into the Churches, and chiefly into the Cathedrals of Sr. Peter, and St. Paul. Six dayes after departing from the City, and leaving to his brother A haulph Placidia the Emperour's fifter, he went to Rhegium, intending to go to Scythia and Africa: but there he dyed of a ficknesse, whose to 408. place his brother Athaulph supplying, having again plundered Rome, he carryed away along with him Placidia, and joyned her to himself at the Borough of Cornelium.

What things worth memory came to passe under Theodole the younger, Honorius, and Valentinian the third, in both the Empires; and the violent a fault of the Vandals in Africk.

Anno 408. of Christ, unto 450.

Ffrer Arcadius's death, the Roman Empire remained under A two Princes, Honorim had the West, and Theodosius poslessed the East. (a) He was born the 10th of Aprill, in the year 401. and the year following declared Augustus, under the tuition of the King of Persia. Antiochus being his tutor, began to reign alone in the East; he had four sisters, Flacilla, Pulcheria, Arcadra, and Mary, of whom Theodosius called Pulcheria, Augusta, in the year, as Marcellinus agrees with the Alexandrian Chronicles, 414. And not, as Theophanes faith, 41 1. And she is recorded to have been born in the year of Christ 399. (b) By her, Theodofius and his other 22. Soz. 9;c.1. fisters being instructed, they altogether, and onely advanced in piety and vertue, fo that they differed in nothing from the Monks, and their Court was in a manner turned into a Religious house.

Theodofius, by the counsell of his lifter Pulcheria, aged twenty years, married Ahenaides the daughter of Leontius the Philosopher, a woman of rare qualities and of exquisite beauty and comelineffe of body, which he named Eudoxia, he had by her a daughter, which having also called Eudoxia, he married to Valentinian the third. (c) Theodofim governed the Empire unto the 450th year of Christ, in which year he dyed in the Moneth of August: having first recalled and restored his fister Pulcheria, which through the calumnies of his Wife Eudoxia, and of Chryfaphius the Eunuch he had degraded and rejected: During the time of this Emperour, the peace and tranquillity of the East, was scarse at all disquieted by wars, except by some few broils of no long continuance, amongst which was the Persian war moved by Vararan If degerdes's successour in the year four hundred twenty two, by Ardakurius his General, and ended by a wonderfull miracle, the Barbariansbeing all affrighted and routed.

But in the West, both under Henorius and Valentinian, there was continuall civill and forreign wars, and the face of the Roman Empire was all disfigured, and defeated; for Honorius was of under Honori- his nature, meek and jocond, and given to floathfullneffe, and negligent of the Government of the Common-wealth, and of the affairs that concerned it : but he was inclined to piety and Religion, which he maintained with divers edicts. A while after this, dyeth Honorius, in the 423 year of Christ, either the 15th of August, as Theophanes saith, or the 25 of the same, as Olympiodorus afferts in the 35 year of his age. Theodofius having honoured his fifter (b) Placidia with the title of Augusta, and having first created Valentinian then about 5 years of age, Cefar; he fent him to Italy in the 424 year, who was very foon after created August at Rome. (c) In the mean time John, the Atturney-General, takes the possession of Ravenna, usurping the Government thereof, against whom Theodosius sent Ardaburius, who being tofled and agitated with a tempest, fell into the Tyrants hands, but an Angel in the habit of a Shepherd having opened a way through the boggs that were in the way, brought Aspares, Ardaburius's son, sate into Ravenna.

So John being dead, (d) Valentinian was created Emperour at Ravenna, in the year of Christ 425, the 23 of October, as is recorded in Alexander's Chronicles. After this, the Vandals, whom the Barl Boniface had afore driven back from Africk, broke into it again from Spain, Geisericus (d) laem. a Chron. Mex. being their General; for as Boniface was accused of Treason by The Vandals

Æisus, and that Sigifuultus was lent against him, finding, that he take posses was not able to encounter the Roman Army with his forces, he fion of Africk, implored help of the Vandals, with whom he afore had made a league. brought it under subjection. (b) In the mean time, Placidia be- (b) Procop. 1. ing reconciled, Boniface not being able to perswade the Barbarians to return back, striving to drive them out by force of arms, he is by them overcome; and in the year 432, coming to Rome, depofed of his command. He dyed not long after, either of a fickneffe, as Prosper writes, or, as Marcellius saith, of a wound that he had re-celved of Actius; and dying, charged his Wife (c) Pelagia not to (c) Marcell. marry any one else but Actius. (d) Aetius sustained, refreshed, and in some sort defended the (d) Prosp.

Roman interest in France against the Francks, the Goths, the Bur. Idat. gundians, the Hunns, and other barbarous Nations. The Francks were defeated and subdued near the River of Rhine, when (c) Felix (e) Prosp. and Taurus were Confuls, being the year of Christ 428, And the Burgundians, with their King Guadicarius, in the year 435, to whom also Actius granted peace, as Prosper writes. (f) He also (f) Idat, by his General Litorius, in the year 439, drove back the Goths Prosp. from Narbonne, forcing them to raise the siege.

Actius had chased the Hunns out of Pannonia, in the year 432, and made use of their help against the Goths; so hath(g) Prosper set it (2) Prosp. down in his Chronicles : But Pitheanus faith, That it was that Salvian. 7. Then it's like that he twice folicited the Hunns; but in the 434 year Honoria, Valentinian's fifter, being driven out of the Court, and fent to Theodofius, because of the adultery she had committed The Invasion with her procuror, she induced Attila to arms against the Common-wealth in the West, as Marcellinus writes: Litorius a Roman Commander being made Governour of the West, as he laboured to attain to greater glory then Actius, adding faith to what the Southfayers and Witches faid, he unadvifedly gave battel to Theodorseus King of the Goths, who in a most humble submission had intreated peace; and having received a great defeat, he was taken and pur to death when Theodosius and Festus were Consuls, in (h) Prosp. the year 439. (h) At what time also Carthage under pretence of join dereb. peace, was on a fuddain affaulted and taken by the Vandals upon Ger. Of the first Originals of the Goths, and of their diversity; and of the Kingdoms that they established in Gallia, Spain, and Italy.

T is very usefull for to understand the history of that Age, to know the first rise and increase of the Goths, who being disperfed far and near in Europe, brought forth a very flourishing Kingdome. We judge it very convenient to repeat what fordan, or rather Jornand the Goth, and Paul Diacon, have recorded of it. The name of Goths is come from Scanvia, or Scandinavia, which (e) Fornandes faith to be almost an Island, containing the Kingdoms of Norway and Swedland. They having for fometimes

having lived in a long peace and friendship together; In the time that Valens was Emperour, there arose a crueli and bloudy civill war amongst them: Fridigernu, or rather Fritigernes, was the Generall of the Goths of the West, and Athanaricus commanded the Goths of the East. Fridigernus not being equall in forces to the others, he requires Valens to help him by Ulphila an Arian Bishop ofhis own Nation, (e) and to gratify him, he embraced the Christian Faith under the Arian profession, the which ulphilas propaga-again; So were the Goths confirmed, and hardned in the profesto death for professing the Christian Faith, who are reckoned

This man had Caleftius his Scholar, who first in Africa openly preaching Herefy, (c) in the year 412. was condemned at Carthage, Paulinus a Deacon of Carthage accusing him. Afterwards Eros, and Lazarus, two Bishops of France, carried the name of Pelagius to the Palestine Bishops. (d) But when as a disease tell on one of them, they were hindred from being present at the time. Wherefore they fent heads gathered out of the books of Pelagius, and Calestius. So a Synod being had at Diospolis in Palestine, in the year 415. in (c) which tourteen Bishops were present. P. lagius being examined by them, easily shifted off by catching answers, the Greeks, men ignorant of his tongue, and deceit. Therefore being freed through the endeavour chiefly of John Ruffinus of Jerusalem, and Origen his favourer; the which (f) Orofius sheweth, he took the greater courage. But first of all by the sharp manner of writing of Jerome, and also by the sentences of the African fathers, he began to be troubled. For in the year 416.(g) two Provinciall Synods were folemnized; one at Carthage, wherein Aurelius was chief : the other at Milevum in Numidia, Silvanus being President, at which Augustine was prefent, and from thence the Synods opinions were fent to Pope Innocent, wherein they declare the errours of Pelagius and Caleftius to be so condemned by them, that they spared the authors themselves. (h) Innocent the year following, wherein Honorius and Constantius are marked to be Consulls, (that is, the 417th of Christ) in the Moneth of January, answereth to both, and judged Pelagius and Celestius, to be deprived of Church-fellowship. Which thing being found, Pelagius wrote to Innocent. But he (i) Aug. 2. of (i) dying that very year of Christ 417, 5. Cal. August, letters. (k) Who first through the seigned protession of Calestius (for this man had come to purge himself) as also being decieved by a subrile Epistle of Pelagius; with which he had sent a commendatory letter of Praylius, who had in the year 416, succeeded in the feat of Jerusalem, he was a little the more moved against the Fathers of Africa, and also against Eros and Lazarus. Neither yet restored he Pelagius and Calestius to Communion, but fer two Moneths day for this, at which their accusers should be present. In the mean time, the African Bishops bestirring themselves, the crastinesse of the Heretiques being discovered at Rome by Zosimus, when Calestius had privily withdrawn himself out of the City, he was (a) likewise condemned with Pelagius in the year four hundred and eighteen. There followed the same year, the day before the Calends of May, an (b) edict of Honorius, whereby they were both astonied or overcome. But the African Bishops, the decree of Zosimus being received, the very Calends of May of the fame year four hundred and eighteen, in a full affembly, as Profper faith, of two hundred and thirteen Bishops, they framed eight Canons against the Pelagian Herefy; which are amisse, to 450. commonly attributed unto the Synod of Milevum. But that Milevitane Synod determined nothing against Pelagius. And of those errour of the very eight Canons, the third, fourth, and fifth are cited by Pope Milevitan (c) Cælestine under the name of the Councel of Carthage, Lastly, in Synod. a general assembly of all Africa, not in a Provinciall, it ought to to the Bishops be pronounced concerning fo great a matter. By this means the of France. affembly decrees being brought to Zosimus, faith Prosper, even through the whole World the Pelagian Herely was condemned. Of which being almost put to flight, Julian the son of Memorius, Pelagian. Bishop of Capua, and his successour, undertook the Parronage. The Earls, all the letters of the Catholiques being intercepted, they incensed the Emperour against them with letters full of reproaches; so that Cyril himself was cast into prison. At length, through a faithful man, who, going to Constantinople in a beggars habite, brought away the letters of the Catholiques inclosed in a reed, the Emperour was more certified of all things: and the Monks endeavouring it, and Pulcheria taking pains, the Acts of the Synod were confirmed by the Emperours authority, and Neftorius being cast out, Maximian was appointed in his room. (d) Candidius writeth, That Verina was ensnared with the loves of her Master Patricius, that he might marry her for the dowry of the Empire, to have excluded her fon in law: but against her hope, the top of things was brought on Basiliscus. Zeno was driven out in the year 476, Basiliscus and Armatus being Consuls; (c) which thing is gathered out of an Epittle of Pope Simplicius, these being Consuls, dated the 4th of the Ides of January, wherein he encourageth Zeno, That he would attempt fomething for his being Emperour. But Marcellinus and Vistor Tununensis mention

Zeno to be driven away, himfelf alone being Conful, in the year 475, and to have been restored in the following year, Basiliscus and Armatus being Confuls, whom the letters of Simplicius do over- to 491, throw; not the fourth onely, but also the seventh being dated after the Confulthip of Basiliscus and Armatus, on the 8th of Ides of October, which is the year 477, in which he gives thanks with Zeno for the Empire being recovered. (1) Bur whilest Enfilifeus (1) Evag. r. abuseth through tyranny, the Empire Ill-gotten, and his Wife 2.8. furring him up, he restored Timothy Elurus, and Peter Fullo, the Marcell. worst of Hereticks, into their seats, from whence they were cast Theoph. zoforth: Acacius the Bishop of Constantinople, a subtile heretique; nar. His fon by an agreement was called Cafar by Zeno, he was reckoned for a (c) Clergy-man; and Cyzicenus being afterwards made (c) Theophi Bishop, was chief over that Church with praise.

After these things, new shakings rose up against Zeno, (d) First (d) Evag. 3. Marcian the son of Anthemius, him who had been Emperour of e. 26. the West, having Leontia the daughter of Verina, and the sister of Ariadna in marriage, challenged the Empire to himself by the right of his wife, because she was the daughter of Leo now holding the Empire, not as Ariadna, he being a private man. The matter therefore he valiantly attempting, Zeno being driven out, at last he corrupted a gotten victory with riot and sloath. Therefore straightway being overcome by the deceit of Isaurus, of the flock of Illus Patricius, he is consecrated an Elder by Acacius the Patriarch, (c) in the year 479.

The year following from hence, another from fell on Zeno. This man banished Verina his Mother in law, by the counsel of Illus, with Marcian and her daughter Leontia, into a certain Cafile; and by and by he tryed to kill Illus himfelf, Ariadna stirring him up, (f) by a certain fellow Alanus. But his ear being onely (f) Candid. cut off, Illus escaped. Whom that Zeno might appeale, he made him Captain of the East, with the greatest power. (g) But he (e) Evag & being mindful of the wrong, in the year 482, he brought by force Theoph. That happened in the year 499. The next year from that, Zeno being taken with the falling evil, the which he had drawn by gluttony, calling on the name of Pelagim many times together, he departed out of this life, as & Lagrim writeth. Others tell, that he was buried, as yet living; and when the voyce of the awakened was heard by Ariadna, he being forbidden to be drawn out, there miserably dyed: God thus establishing the prayers of Pelagius, whom, he being about to dye, had called as a witnesse and revenger of his innocency.

Of Church-Affairs, from the year of Christ 450, to 491, where of the Synod of Chalcedon, and of the Heretiques Peter Fullo, Cnapl aus, Moggus, Acacius, and of Henoticus of Zeno; And of hol, and Learned Men.

He fourth Occonomical, or general Assembly, Marcian 1 reigning as Emperour, and Leo chief Bishop, was solemnized in the year of Christ 451, in which Eutyches was condemned: the order or manner of whose proceeding I will conclude in a short abridgment.

Eutyches, an Abbot of Constantinople, was the author of a new heresie, which took away all difference of natures in Christ. He being (c) required for judgment by Eusebisse Bishop of Doryleum, was condemned in an Assembly at Constantinople, by Flavian the Bishop of that City, in the year 448. He was baptized on the day of Christs Nativity, as it appears by (a) Avitus Epistle, by which he congratulates him his assumption of the Christian Faith: (3) Flodoardus and Aimoinus add far-Hinemin cap. ther, that when (c) Hinemarus a boy, carried a Viall wherein was the facred unction, and was thut in by the flocking of the multitude, that then at the prayers and request of this Holy Prelate, there fled to him a Dove from Heaven, which brought another Viall in her beak, wherewith was Chlodoveus anointed ; and fince (c)Lib.r.c.13. that time are all the kings of France confecrated and anointed at Rheyms, but Gregory makes no mention of this.

(d) Not long after this did Chlodoveus make war against Gundehaldus, the king of the Burgundians, to revenge the death of Chilpericus his father in law: for Gunderick king of that Nation, taking his Originall of Ahanaricus Prince of the Goths, had left four fons, Gundebaldus, Godegifilus, Chilpericus, and Godomarus. Gundebaldus, having killed Childeric and his wife, as also Godomar, he reigned with Godegifilus; therefore at the instant request of Chlotices, and (e) Greg. Tu- Godegifilus, he gave battell to (e) Gundebaldus. And having overcome him near Dijons Castle, commanded him to satisfy himself with the half of the kingdome, and the other half he gave to Godegifilus, and layed an impost upon both: Chlodoveus being departed, Gundobaldus kills his brother Godegistus, having on a sudden besieged Vienna wherein he was, and taken it. Then having shaken off the French yoke, he recovered all that territory that now is known by the name of Burgundy, and ordained Laws to his people, which very likely were figned in the year five hundred and one, when Arienus was Confull, or enacted in the year tollowing. The divine providence gave to Chlodovem, above all other Princes of the World, in those dayes such happy and joyfull successe, as oftentimes by miracles, his warrs were confirmed to be guided of God, such as are recorded by (b) Gregory of Turine, (b) Greg. i. amongst which is that remarkable thing: That hastning against c. 37. Procopius (a) relates, That the Franks being driven away from the fiege of Carcasone, and having for saken the Countrey of Narbonnes, obtained Aquitania, and that Theodorick let them have that part of the Countrey, because he could not easily drive them out. (c) Neither may I omit what our Historiographers themselves have not mentioned, whereof Procopius hath spoken; That the Francks made a League offensive with King Theodorick against the Burgundians, and that the Goths delaying the time purposely, at length arrived when the fight was ended, and so without receiving any losse or detriment, they divided the spoyl with the Franks, equally tharing the Kingdom, which it's like came to passe about the 508 year of Christ, it being after the wifigoth's great defeat; although at that time the Burgundian Kingdom was not utterly extinct out of France, (d) for Gundebald being defeated and dead, Sigifmund his fon kept still what remained, who hearkening to St. Avit, the Bishop of Vienna, he changed his Arrian heresie into the Catholike faith.

Anno 491 of Christ, EO 527.

The Ecclesiaftical Affairs under Anastasius, and the other Princes, from the Year of Christ 49 1, unto 527.

He Churches estate could not but be very full of trouble under an Emperour, who was fuch an opposite enemy to the Catholick parties.

A sastastus, of the number of the (b) Acephalians and Hesitants, (b) Evag. 3. and also adhering to the Manichaans, gave liberty to every one c. 30. & 31. to professe what opinion he would: And he mortally hated The Emperous the Catholick Bishops, expelling Euphemius Bishop of Constanti- Anaslasius an nople out of his feat, having oftentimes laid snares for him; in whose place was ordained Macedonius, (c) Anno 495, in the 5th (c) Marcell. year of Anastasius's Empire, who subscribed to Zenon's Henoticum; Theoph. and for this cause the Catholicks refusing his company, suffered

our Lord, and also Symmachus, who succeeded Anastasius in the of Rome un-498 year, did all endeavour to obtain it : but it was so impossible der Pope to perswade the Emperour Anastasius to peace and unity, that on symmachus, the contrary, he poured forth the pestilence of his breach and disfention upon the Catholike Church, which exhorted him to love and reconciliation: Festus, a certain Roman Senatour, being sent by Theodoricus to Constantinople, having secretly promised to Anastasius the Emperour, that Anastassus the Pontiff of Rome should subscribe to Zenon's Henoticum; as he returned to Rome, and found Pope Anastasius dead, Symmachus being already by a legal election ordained, some certain sactious persons being corrupted with money, opposed to him another Pope called Laurence, in the year of Christ 498; whence arose murthers and disboistnesses: which to prevent and remedy, the decision of the whole controversic, (according to Odoacres's law) was referred to the King, (who was Theoricus); he gave sentence in the behalf of Symmachus: So this burning, a little quenched, flamed out the more soon after: (a) (a) Tosn. 2. mand; herein, above all others, was to praifed the endeavour of Ennodius of Tichick, who gallantly pleaded Symmachus's cause against the Schismaticks: Anastasius in the mean time endeavouring to amplifie and spread his herefie, brought in every one: therefore did he admit into Constantinople, Xenaya, Prince of the Manichees in the (b) 506th year of Christ, and in the 509th year he received Severus of the Aephalians sect, a notorious person, with some 200 Monks coming along with him, and entertained them all very honourably: And this was the beginning of that filthy Severas, who in the year (c) 513, possessed by violence the Antiochian Bishoprick, out of which Flavinius because of his constant zeal for the Catholick profession had bin turned out, and he attempted to bring all them of the East to the condemnation of the Chalcedonian Synod: but he turned out of their places those Catholique Bishops, who opposed to him first Elius Bishop of Jerufalem, then (d) Macedonius in the 511th year of Christ. (e) Pope Symmachus being taken out of this world, Hormisda who was elected in his place, endeavoured as much as he could, to re-unite into one communion both the Churches, by the means of General Vitelian, who for that cause had taken up arms against Anastasius; but he deceived them both by his old crastinesse. (a) He being dead, and Justinian a most Religious Prince governing the Empire, Hormifda obtained what he had so earnefily endeavoured in the year of our Lord 519, having sent Embassadors to Constantinople, amongst whom Germanus of Capua was a very godly man, and therefore by their means and labour was condemned the memory of Acacius, Euphemius, and Macedonius, with all other hereticks; and also of Zenon and Anastasius both Emperors, and there was a full peace concluded, and renewed unity by the East Countrey Churches with the See of Rome, (b) which as Hormisda's Embassadours went to declare and proclaim along the Tom. 2. Conc. Countrey: amongst them was one John a Bishop of The statonica, who was cruelly and ignominiously entreated by the people of The Salonica, who were of the faction of Dorotheus Bilhop; for which cause Dorotheus being warned to appear before Justinus, the Judges being bribed, he escaped with a small punishment. This discord of the East and West Churches lasted almost 40 years, as (c) Lib.cont. (c) Facundus writes, that is, reckoning exactly 36 years, which Mocia, p.565. being numbred from the 484th year of Christ, at which time Pope Felix anathematised Acacius, unto the 519th of Christ, do belong unto the 6th of Hormisda. (d) Then Justine by Edicts and punishments restrained the Hereticks, and restored the Catholick Bishops, he commanded Severus's tongue to be pulled out of his mouth, because he had usurped by robbery the Bishoprick of Antioch; but he fled with Julian Bishop of Halicarnassus into Egypt, (c) the first year of Justine's Empire, in the moneth of September, and there ipread the contagion of his errour, (f) infomuch, that at that time there was divers divorcements and separations of that sect in Alexandria, fome of them affirming the body of Christio be corruptible, as Severus; and others incorruptible, as Julian of Halicarna Bus. Ti- 10 527. mothy of Alexandria followed Severus; and Julianus was followed by Themistaus his Deacon, who separating himself from Timothy, broached forth the new herefie of the Agmetans; hence arose the division of the Corrupticolites, that is, that held Christ's body corruptible; and of the Incorrupticolites, which held Christ's body to be incorruptible, or of the phantasticks.

(g) There also arose in Constantinople an idle question by the (e) Epist. Monks of Scythia, Whether any mention might be made of the Hormif. Trinity; concerning which thing the Catholicks fell not a little Tom. 2. at variance amongst themselves. (a) Maxentius was one of those Monks, who made his apology against the Pontiff Hormisda's (a) Tom. 4.

A league being entred with the Romans, being holpen by their riches, they made prosperous battels against the Gepides, in the 14 and 17th year of the Gothick War, as(f) Procopius writeth, of Christ 548, and 551; and likewise they also came for avd to the Romans in the same Gothick war: (g) At which time Narfes being fent into Italy, warred with the Goths, their King Totila being flain, in the year 552, as I have minded above. (c) Anastasius and Vuarnefride affirmeth, That the author of this (c) Anastasin breaking in of the Longobards, was Narjes a Senatour, a gelded Joan. 3. man, by whom the kingdom of the Goths was blotted out. For ch. 25. when he was by the Romans brought in for an acculation before The Hillory of Justine; he was commanded by reproachfull letters of Sophia the Empresse to return to the spinning of wooll, as became an Eunuch; he answered, he would weave such a web for her, the which neither she, nor her husband, should ever unweave: and fo called forth the Longobards to invade Italy. These things Vuarnefride. Which things are therefore thought to be refuted by some, because Narses then lived at Constantinople, as Corippus affirmeth, and because the same man afterwards resided in that City, far most dear unto the Emperours: untill by Phocas in the year 605, he was burnt alive, as Theophanes writeth. But the history of those times sheweth many of that name. For Justinian being Emperour, (d) Procopius mentioneth there were two Narsetes; (d) Procop. 12 whereof the one was a gelded man, and was now Treasurer of the Perf. p. 25. common treasury the 4th year of Justinian, of Christ 530, by Got. p. 280. whom the affairs of the Goths were overthrown in Italy, Toulas being flain in the year 553, as I have shewn above. (c) And this (e) Procop. 1. man was a Perf. Armenian by birth. The other arifing from thence, Perf. P. 27. with his brother Aratim and his Mother, fell away to the Romans in the same 4th year of Justinian, and was received by the former Narses. Of these, Anastasius telleth, that the former dyed in the year of Christ 572, after he called out the Longobards. I have not remembred I have read of the death of the latter. Corippus treating of the Confulthip of Justine the second, nameth Narfes his Armour-bearer, who as he there fingeth, was

Of goodly shape, and hair comb'd out so fine, And comely speech, was all of golden mine.

This cannot be that gelded one, which was then somewhat old and mishapen. But neither was the latter of the stock of Aratima unlesse we would think him to have been almost a child when he went over unto the Romans. Therefore it is not an absurd fuspition, that he was the son of this man, to whom (a) Gregory (2) Greg. I. z. gave an Epistle, unlesse thou hadst rather he should belong unto ep. 6. the very father of this. Moreover, I judge the same Narses, the fon of the latter, to have been burned alive by Phocas; whom they who think him to have been that famous Eunuch, do greatly erre; as amongst others, Constance Manastes.

That I may return to the Longobards, these by little and little got Italy; Rome, as hath been faid, and Ravenna excepted; and from them the name of Longobardy being drawn almost through the large Province of Italy, and to this day keepeth it. They reigned 206 years. For (b) the last King Desiderius being overcome by Charls the Great, king of the Franks, in the year 773, and shur up in Ticinum, the following year, the City being taken, he was brought into France. His fon Adelgifus fled to Con Stantinople. Where by Constantine, Copronymus, he got the honour of a Senatourship; the which our Annals witnesse; and also Paul Vuarnefride.

Furthermore, at the same time, wherein the Longobards bare rule in Italy, [Exarchi] or difpatching-Princes held Ravenna. They were Greek Governours, who had wont to be fent by the Emperour from Constantinople ; and in some fort resisting the Longobards, they defended there the remainder of the Empire; but through wilfulnesse and covetousnesse, they brought more hurt unto their own Citizens, than the enemies themselves.

Therefore about the year 568, (c) Longinus a Senatour is sent the first Exarch to Ravenna, Narjes being removed, Justine the younger commanding. The last was Eutychim, under whom Ai-Rulphus King of the Longobards possessed Ravenna by arms, (c) about the year 752. After this account, the Greek Exarchs, or unpatching Princes, were chief over Ravenna, about 185 years.

This fellow, from a shepherd of Camels, being made a husband of a wealthy mistress, went into Palestina, where talking with Christians and Jews, Sergius a Monk being his affistant, who had been cast out of the Church for heresie, out of the filthy heap of all sects, framed that new Monster: unto which blockish lye he added authority. For when ever and anon he was roffed by the devil and falling-fickneffe, or grew weak, he perfiwaded his wife grieving for that thing, that he being affonished at the fight and talk of the Angel Gabriel, was so moved: That; Sergius confirming, was largely dispersed by the endeavour of the poor woman, and was commonly believed. That is manifest, in the year of Christ 622, the 16 day of July, the 6th holy or resting day, he took his flight, when as for the newnesse of the errour he was in danger of his life. From this flight, which the Arabians call Hegyra, that is, Swyndy, or persecution, their new Epocha, or stop, or measure of time, goeth forward. This Concerning which thing, an ordinance of Chlodoveus being fet forth is read the 10. Cal. July, in the 16 year.

Chlodoveus died in the year 660. of the Kingdome the 17. and at the same time, Erchenwald Lievtenant of the Pallace dying, the French ordain Ebruine a man famous for cruelty and treachery.

(a) From which time, the French Kings being let loose into riot (2) Sig. in the and floath by little and little, the top of affairs came to the Governours of the Pallace: when by them all things were ordered, but the kings contented onely with a name or title, conteined themselves in their Pallace; neither came they but once every year, on the Cal. of May, into open view of the people. Which thing also is read in the yearly Register of the Greeks, with this most foolish fable; the kings of France being like Hogs, have a Wheyey back, and therefore were called [Trichorachatos.]

IN France, Ebroine Governour of the Palace, (Theodorick obtain-Ling even but in name, the Kingdom of France, which they called the Kingdom of Neuftria,) raged with cruel tyranny. In like manner the Kingdom of Austrafia obeyed the Governours of the Palace. Vulfoaldus being dead, Pipin the son of Anfegifus took that dignity, (d) in the year of Christ 687, who in the beginning joyning in battel with Theodorick and Ebroine, is overcome: and his Companion in office, Martin, against promise made, is killed by Ebroine. Ebroine himself in the year, as appeareth, 688, (e) that is, in the third after the death of Leodegar, was thrust thorow by Hermenfride. But then Pipin, Theodorick being overcome, held the mastership of both kingdoms(f) in the year 691, an excellent man, and most worthy of the command of the French; but that one stain of lust darkeneth this man's memory. For besides of the French Plearude a noble Wife, he had Elpais a Harlor, of whom was begotten Charls Martell: in which one man afterwards, the worthinesse of the French Nation stood. Acc. 2, day of March, as (a) Theophanes writeth, repulsed the (b) Saracens, Ajia being waited, and Pergamus vanquished, befieging Byzantium, with a great put down of them, about the very beginning of his reign. He quenched Tiberius a Tyrant in Sicily by his Captains, and made the West quiet in the year 719. At length he brought forth an impiety, in times patt conceived in his mind against holy Images, using a Jew his author, in the year 726; (c) in which by his guard-men he threw down the Image of our Saviour: Who being flain by the people, the Prince burning with wrath, most cruelly prosecuted their slaughter; and waxed cruel, especially on a Colledge of Learned men, gathered together out of the profesiours of all arts, when he had stirred them up in vain unto the fellowship of unfaithfulnesse. (d) Which wickednesse Niceph. Brev. of his, the falling away of Greece, and the Cycladians, and a profperous successe in suppressing it, made the sharper, in the year 727. Thereforethree years after, he set out a cruel Edict against worshipful images, (e) 13 Conft. Acc. 7th Jan. 7th holiday. That is, in the year of Christ 730. Germane the Bishop, in vain interposing his fury, refigned himself of his own accord; and on the 22 Jan. All the Temples of Brev. Theoph. Nicea besides one, went to decay. That misery yielded to the Diac. Zon. Emperour an occasion of a new tax. Of Affairs of the Western Empire under Copronymus, Leo, Constantine, and Irene. From the year 741. to 800.

Far more foul Of-spring succeeded an Heretical and wick-A ed father: who, from the dung which the Infant being moved into the water in Baptism, had dashed forth, deserved the name of Copronymus, (d) from the which, German the Patriarch who baptized him, took no vain guesse of his ungodlinesse. That happened in the third (e) year of Leo, of Christ 719. Octob. 25. Therefore, he began to reign in the 22, year of his age fliding, to wit, of Christ 741. To this man, Irene the daughter of Chagan King of the Avarians had married, in the year seven hundred thirty two, who, being a young beginner in Christian Ceremonies, constantly held fincere piety.

Constantine in the beginning had Artabasdus, the husband of his fifter Anne, corrival of the Empire, himself being hated by the commor people for Herefy, and a very bad disposition, found out by no obicure tokens. Therefore being expelled; and fled from Constantinople, Artabasdus is saluted Emperour; who straightway reflored Catholique worship. But in the year 743. (b) 12 Conft. (b) Theoph. The Normans, Charls Crassus being yet alive, contrary to their agreement of peace with him, being again returned against Paris, were at length hemmed in by the Parisians, and so being constrained to intreat pardon, they ingaged their faith never again to return to ir, being difmiffed upon thefe terms; yet foon after according to their custome, they returned and made great slaughter and robberies, at which the Parisians being exceedingly moved, they put to death as many of the Normans as they found (now there were about some five hundred). After this, when Charls Crassus was dispossessed, Odo having accepted the title of King, sought valiantly against the Normans, and routed 18 thousand of them upon Mount Faulcon, (which is a hill near the Suburbs of the Ci-

The Kings of Italy, and the tumult under Vido, Lambert, Berengarius, Radulphus, Hugo, and of the Germans first entrance into the Kingdome of Icaly.

From the year 900, or thereabouts, unto the 966.

Ficrwards there was a continual commotion of civil wars, A especially in Italy and France, the Kingdome sometimes being for these, and sometimes for those; of which vicissitudes and alterations, I shall observe the summe.

(c) Then Berengarius his competitor being cut off, he again obtained the Kingdom of Italy, and was anointed by John the 10th in September, Anno 915, as (1) Sigonius sheweth by his Bulls; but A'derbert Marquis of Eporedia, and some other Nobles of Italy (a) Luitle, 2. called (a) Rodulphus King of Burgundy at Berengarius's long delay, to take the Kingdom of Italy. And he not long delaying, he went thicher (b) in the year 922, as Flodoard faith, and having routed Berengarius's Army, he was called King of Italy. Berengarius is killed by the treachery of one Flambert () in the year 924, at Verona, whither he had fled from the snares that were laid for him, he had a daughter called Chifela, by whom Adelbert Marquefle of Eporedia begat Berengarius, who was afterward King of Italy.

Rodulphus kept not long the Kingdom of Italy after Berengarius's death, because it was conferred by the Italian's conspiration upon Hugo Earl of Provence (d) in the year 926. (e) Luitprandus faith, That he was a valuant man, lover of piety as well as of learning; but that waxing fomewhat lascivious, he had many Concubines, but that he begat of his lawful wife Alda, Lotharius, who afterward reigned with him; Rodulphus went into Burgundy, (f) where he dyed in the year 937, having reigned 48 years, begining at the 898 year of our Lord, at which time he put the crown upon his head, and was the first King of Burgundy, (as Sigebert faith) or rather of Gallia on this fide the Alps, as Flodoard in his Chronicles calls him in the year 937, who writes, that his fon Conradus fucceeded him.

Then in the year of Christ 926, Hugo began to reign in Italy, who was Earl of Arles, (g) and remained in that dignity about of Chrift, fome 20 years: At that time Marofia, Pope Sergin the third's Strum- to 566. per,oppressed Rome by her usurpation and tyranny; and of her he begat John, who also afterwards was Pope; And Adelbertus Mar- Onuf. quis of Tuscia, begat also Alberica by her: which after the had Lunb. z. married Vuido, Adalbertus's son by Bertha, he being dead, married 6, 13. with Hugo, bringing him for her dowry the Principality of Rome, in the year of Christ 928; but he was soon after ejected thence by Albericus, Marofia's son: Then he took for his co-partner in the Kingdom his fon Lotharius, in the year of our Lord 932 having given him to his wife Adeleidis, Rodulphus's daughter.

At length, Berengarius, the second Berengarius's Nephew, having plotted new practifes against Hugo, he fled to Otho King of Germany in the year 939, thence being returned into Italy fix years after, viz. (a) in the year 945, he thus covenanted with Hugo, (a) Flodoard. who then was forfaken of all, that he with his fon Lotharius should content themselves with the title of King, & that the management Berengarius of the Kingdom and of all things (hould be left to Berengarius; fo Hugo having left his fon Lotharius in Italy, he returned into Provence in the year 947, two years after Lothariu's being dead.

Berengarius took upon him the title of King (b) in the year 950, (b) Flod. together with his fon Adalbertus, to whom intending to give for wife Adaleidis, Lotharius's widow, the invited Otho King of Germany into Italy, (c) and married him in the year 951. Berenga- (c) Regin. rius, after petitions and requests made to Otho, obtained afterwards the kingdom of Italy for some 12 years, untill that all the Italians being offended at the Government of this Tyrant, fled again to Othe for ayd, who being gone into Italy, (d) in the year (d) Flod reg. 962, received the Crown of the Empire of Pope John, Alberseus's Lamb. fon, and was faluted the first Emperour of Germany; he two Villa 3. c.3. years after led away(e) Berengarius into Bavaria, who at last dyed (e) Lamb. (f) in the year 966 at Bamberg.

The most remarkable atchievement that Hugo did above others, Suppl. is his disturbing and dispossessing the Saracens of Fraxine's Castle, (g) which they had possessed for some years, situated in Cottia, (g) Luith, and strengthened by the natural situation of the Alps, and therefore inaccessible and impregnable, and thence sallying and making excursions into the neighbour-Provinces, had been a terrour to the Christians, endamaging them not a little; Hugo put them to flight, by casting artificial fire into it in the year 841, as Sigebert writes.

The Empire being established and strengthened with so many and so great defences, Romanus began to despise Constantinus, and to offer him place after himfelf, chiefly after he had concluded a league and friendship with Peter King of the Bulgarians, to whom he gave to wife his Neece Christopher's daughter; which impiety and unfaithfulnesse towards to his Prince, God punished also by his own fon's wickednesse towards him; for in the twenty sixth year of his affociation into the Empire, (b) the 16 of December, (b) Curep. in the year 944. He by the command of Polyeusius the Patriarch banished Theophanon, Nicephorus's wife and others, by whose help Nicephorus had been slain: he drove the Saracens back from Antioch, he overcame the Bulgarians and the Rossians, and forced them to a composition of peace; which war having ended, entring into Constantinople after the manner of a triumphant Conquerour, he caused the Virgin Mary's ces's Piety to- Image, to be carried before him by a Chariot that was adorned and enriched with other spoyls, which together with the Image he had got from the Bulgarians in folemn pomp and magnificence.

The Affairs of the Franks under their Kings, Charls the Simple, Rodulph, Lewis Transmarinus, Lotharius, and Lewis in whom Charls's i fue ended.

N this time Charls the Great his posterity did valiantly defend and keep the kingdom of the Franks in Gallia from the oppreffion of those Princes who possessed the Provinces; not by the will of the king, and for a time, but as their own proper right for ever. Among whom was most eminent Ruthert the son of that Ruthert who was killed in battle by the Normans in the year 867, who was brother to that Odo, or rather Eudo, who succeeded (a) Aimo. 5. Charls le Große, and Heribert Earl of Verone, (a) who had given his fifter to wife to Rothert, and had brought him forth Hugo. At this time Charls the Simple reigned in France, who after Eudo's death alone obtained the name of King from the year 898, he added to his Dominions Lotharius's kingdom, as appears by his 10,985. Edicts: (b) he concluded peace the same year with the Danes or (b) Dudo l.z. rather Normans, who then wasted and spoyled France, and made de mor. & a league of friendship with them, having given his daughter Att. North. Gyllu in Matrimony to Rollo their General, (c) as we have above (c) Chaptri. mentioned.

Cap. 16.

Then the regall authority growing out of date, the Princes by a consent at Soissons revolted from Charls in the (d) 920th year of (d) Flod. Christ, because he took into his private Councel Haganon, a man charls is forof mean fort, and raifed him up to high dignities, Heriveus Bi- faten. shop of Rhemes relieved and helped the King with his means after he was forfaken of all his Nobles, and reduced them all into the Kings favour; but this breach being but slightly made up, broke out again into a greater mischief two years after: (c) for in the (e) Flod. year 922 Robert is chosen King by the Princes faction, and is the Kingdom, consecrated by Herineux Rishon of Rhemes at the latter and of the Kingdom. consecrated by Heriveus Bishop of Rhemes at the latter end of June; but this rebellion did cost them their fatal undoing. Three years after this dyeth Heriveus, (f) and the year following Robert (f) Flod. with Heribert, whose sister he had married, and by whom he had Chr. Odoran. his fon Hugo, fighting against Charle, was slain at Soissons, (g) having 297. Aime 5. his mouth pierced with a lance, that it might appear that mem. c. 43. ber which had deceived his Prince, suffered condigne punishment (g) Regino, to his offence; yet as he dyed, he left his Army victorious. This bartel was fought (a) the 15 of June on a Sunday, as the old Chro- (a) Odorz. nicles do record, whence it's gathered, that it was in the year of ethior his Christ 923. Not long after, Rodulph Duke of Burgundy was call. treachery. ed to the possession of the kingdom as though it had been vacant, and was faluted king with all folemn ceremonies at Soiffons, (b) Charls under pretext of a treaty of peace is led by Heribert (b) Flo. Aim. into Theodorick's Castle near the River Marne, whence afterwards reg. Odoran. he is carried to Perone, where he dyed the (c) 929 year of Christ, (c) Flod. leaving his fon Lewis whom he had by Eadgina daughter to Alfamuking of the English Saxons, who when his father was taken prisoner fled into Britain to his Grandfather, and thence afterwards being returned, he reigned. So then Charls reigned after Odo's death 25 years, viz. from the 898 year, unto the 923; yet in his patents which are read in the first foundation of St. Denys's Monastery near the City, the beginning of his reign is taken from the year of Christ $93; at what time we have mentioned that he was created king by the Franks for to oppose Eudo. And in one of them is read this Subscription, The IV of Febr. Indie. I. of the V. year of the most gracious King Charls the first restored. This is that year 898, wherein Eudo dying the 3d of January, he began his new kingdom, having first began in the year 893. Again, in another Siebert's Patent, Given the V. of Jane, Inditt. monstrated to be the 917th of Christ, which is six years after his possession of the kingdom of Lorain, and the 20th from the year 898, and the 25th from the year of our Lord 893. Whence it appears, that he was 12 years older then Sigebert hath declared; we have afore thewed, that he first began to reign when he was yet in the cradle, in the year of our Lord 879. Charls being thus dethroned and degraded, Rudulph began to rule the kingdom of the Franks in the year 923, whom (d) Odo-

This man the Abbot of urfperg hath rashly confounded with the other Rodulph whom we have shewn before, being called unto the Kingdome by the Italians, and to have been driven away by Hugo. But there is no doubt that they were diverse, and that Flodoard sheweth in the year 923, 935, and 937. The climbing pride of Heribert, and Hugo, made the kingdome in nothing more quiet to this man than to his father Charls. (c) Ludovick dying without off-spring, the Kingdome did of right belong unto Charle, his Uncle, the son of Ludevick Transmarine; who was then Duke of Lotharingia, or Lorrain, from the year nine hundred seventy seven: therefore made, as Sigebert sheweth, that he might withstand the endeavours of his brother Lotharim, and toward him the defires of the French did bend. But whiles he by delaying, brought the matter unto Counsel or debate, as (f) Sigebert faith, the top of the affairs is passed over on Hugo (1) In the year Capet, who was the fon of Hugo the great Duke, by fyrname Abbot, of Hathuide the fifter of Otho the first Emperour of that name. ch. I. adoran. Unto which Authority of the Princes, the will of Ludovick the (h) Oder; fer last of the stock of Charls King of the French had come; who as (h) Odoran writeth, dying, had given the Kingdome unto Hugo. But being in (n) The same a short time after besieged by Hugo, (n) in the second Moneth of the fiege, a fudden breaking out of the gates being made, he kills not a few; he put the rest being much affrighted, with Hugo, to flight; he freeth the City from besieging. (b) But (c) Frag Hift. Hugb, a very great Army being drawn together, besiegeth Charls being fout up in Laudanum with his Wife Herbertes the daughter of the Duke of Trecaria. (c) Asceline, or (d) Anselm Bishop of Laudunum, (e) Frag. Hift of the nearest friendship to Charls, and being partaker of his Counsells, is said to have made a foul businesse : for he led, as they report, Hugo by night into the City, and betrayed Charls unto him, at or about the dayes of the Holyer week. There is among the Epistles of Gerbert, who being advanced to the Romane Bishoprick, was called Sylvester the second of that name, a certain letter unto Apollinus or Ascelinus Bishop of Laudunum, sult of sharpnesse and Romach, in which he upbraids his unfaithfullnesse towards his king, not as against Charls, whom he had as a Capitall enemy; but against Hugo, for the instruction or bringing up of whose son Robert, he had been chief. Also he calls forth Asceline to Rome, to declare the cause, that thereby there may be a conjecture; the same man who had once broken his trust with Charls, to have performed no greater afterwards to Hugo. (f) Although I find Adalbero at that time, wherein Charls was taken to have been Bithop of Laudunum.

(f) By chance the Empresse being taken with the love of an Earl no lesse chaste than beautifull, when she was by him beat off; accused this very man of that attempted wickednesse that the had defigned to her husband; who out of hand passed a sentence of his head on the young Earl. The Earl's wife, whom the man that was to dye, had made knowing of this thing, coming to the Emperour, declared right on the feat of Judgment, and opened before him both the innocency of her husband, and the wicked act of the Empresse: and to confirm the truth of both, she handled a bright burning plate of metal with an unhurt hand. By which token, the Emperour's wife being reproved both of unchastity, and reproach or false accusation, suffered punishment by the burning flame.

(a) There is a report, the fame man being Emperour, that Gregory the 5th tyed up the right of choosing the Emperour unto the voyces of cerrain Princes; whom either he himself, or some succeeder of him is believed to have appointed feven in number. Most holy men lived at that time, Romuald: Adalbert in Prussia having suffered Martyrdome: (c) Stephen King of Hungary; (d) Maiol Abbot of Cluniaca, from the year 943. Gerbert excelled in learning, being from the seat of Rhemes, and Ravenna, carried up unto the Roman seat by Otho in the year 999, a little after Silveffer the second by name. (e) Otho dyed in the year 1002, lanuary 23.

(f) Otho being dead without children, Henry the Bavarian, the second of that name from Auceps, the first of the Imperial title, reigned about 23 years; he took the honourable tokens of Rule, (g) in the year 1014, from Beneditt the eight; (h) at which time the Greeks with the Normans, and, with them both, the Saracens strove about the possession of Apulia. The Normans almost at the beginning of Henry the Emperour had begun to come into the coast of Italy. Which thing how it was carried on, shall not be from the matter to unfold.

(i) Leo Oftiensis writeth, in the 7th year of Arnulph Abbot of Casinum; whose third year he saith doth agree with the year of Christ 1014, that his first may be of Christ 1012, the Normans began to invade Apulia; (this shall be the 1018 year) when as almost fixteen years before they had first come thither. For about the year of Christ 1002, fourty Normans returning from a travel to Jerusalem, came to Salernum, of a great stature of body, and front in war. That Town was then befreged by the Saracens, and Gaimar a Prince was in it, who, as Pandulph Collenutius is Author in his third book, was of the Norman stock; who then already from the year of Christ 900, telleth, the Warrs of the Normans began to be brought on through Æmilia, Flaminia, Tuscia, and Campania. Therefore those fourty, when they had obtained weapons and horses by request from the Prince, brake our upon the enemies; and very many being killed, the rest put to flight,

Gaimar being bound by so great a benefit, great gifts being offered, and greater shewn, endeavoured to keep them with him. But when as he had obtained neither, (because they said also this acceptable work by them ordered was from the love of God alone) neither could they be absent any longer from their Countrey; he commanderh Embassadours to go along with them, who shewing in a bravery Citron-Apples, and other fruits of that fore of that Countrey, with precious garments, and horse-trappings, they stirred up the Normans to come to a Province fruitfull of such good things. By chance it fell out about that time, that Giflebert and Vuillelme Repostellus, born of the highest rank among the Normans, disagreed from each other: and Gistebert before Robert himself Duke of Normandy in hunring killed Repostell. Who fearing the anger of Robert, and the near friends of Repostell, with his four brethren Rainulph, Ascittine, Osmund, and Rodulph, and other Nobles, followed the Embassadours of Salerne into Apulia, (a) (a) book 7. But Vuillelme a Monk of Gemmeticum, named him who did the ch. 3. murder, Ofmund Drengore. When they came into Italy, they joyned themselves to Pandulf a Lord of great power at Capua, and under him and other Princes, receiving Souldiers payes, they undertook a profitable and glorious work against the Greeks and Saracens. Neither neglected they their own affairs in the mean time. For they having obtained some Towns, they made Dukes of their own Nation chief over them. Whereof the first is delivered by Vuillelme, to be Turstine, by sirname Scitell. Sigebert who gives that to the year 1034, faith Rodulph, being offended with the Burgundians, because they proceeded to be proudly bold against their King, to have passed over his kingdome unto Conrade, which from the time of Arnulph the Emperour had obtained Kings of their own Nation, more than an hundred and thirty years, and fo at last Burgundy to have been reduced into a Province. This is that kingdom of Burgundy, which Rodulph in the year 890, began to confult of, as we have mentioned above in the 13th Chapter out of Sigebert. The same Sigebert telleth, that Ode of Campania, Rodulph's fifters fon, bearing that grievously, when he could not obtain that Province by request from Conrade, warred against him, and to have befieged Lorain. with an Army of 50000, men, and Lewis with 30000 Horses, befiles an huge body of Foot Souldiers, as the Gemblacian Annalls do record. (2) This Expedition was in the year 1147; but being betrayed by the Greeks, they returned without any memorable advantage. Conrade died in the year (h) 1152. the 15th of March. (i) Gratianus, Fryer at Bononia, under this King, made the book of Canons in the year 1151. And St. Bernard died in the year 1152. being 63. years old having retired himself into the Ciftercian Moaftery, with divers others, as we read it in his life, and in Robert Montanus's works: for Sigebert ended his Chronicles in the year 1112; and Eugenius, Bernard's Disciple, died the eighth of July, in the year 1153. (k) Frederick Enobarbus, who succeeded his Uncle Conrade, was of an excellent nature, and disposition to all vertues: but his hatred against the Pope of Rome by breaking the peace of the Church, did much obscure it, (1) having been created King of Germany in the year 1152, he obtained the title of Empeperour, of Adrian the 4th at Rome, in the year 1155, but soon after, the Pope having been his opposite enemy, dyed in the year (4) 1160, and he preferred Villor to Alexander, (who had fucceded him) in the Councell held at Pavia. Then having taken war against the Ligurians, and Lombards, who fought for the Pope against him, he often defeated their Armies, and so defeated the Milanois, that he utterly destroyed and demolished their City (b) in the year 1162. But the Ligarians rebelling again, and suddenly falling on him unawares, defeated his Army, and brought him under the Popes subjection, and hereby did the Church recover her former peace, in the year 1177.

Frederick, for to blot out this his offence, hearing that Saladine had taken Jerusalem, in the year 1187, he went thither with an Army of Germans, bearing the Croffe in his Standard; and having performed divers gallant atchievements, both in Thracia and Afia against the Emperour of Constantinople, and the Saracenian Princes, refreshing his hot body on a Summers day in the cold River of Cydnum, in Tarsis, he died (c) in the year 1190, having been King thirty eight years, and Emperour 35.

Henrick, the fourth, fon to Enebarbus, is related to have been of a cruell and rath humour; being made co-partner of the Kingdome by his father, he married (d) Constantia, daughter to Roger, first King of Sicilia, being one and twenty years old, in the year 1168, upon the fixth of February, though fome (e) erronioufly fay that the was a Nun, and that the was 50 years old when the married him.

Frederick, his father being dead, he with his Wife received the Empires Crown of Celestinus the third, (f) in the year 1191. having first been forced to deliver up to the Romans(g) Tusculum, who being inveterate enemies to the Inhabitants of the Town, by whom they oftentimes had been beaten, put part of them to death and part of them they fent into banishment, and demolished their Town.

Town. Henrick (William, Roger's fon, being dead) received into his Dominion Apuleia, Calabria, and Sicilia; and afterwards he exercifed all manner of cruelty against them, but especially against the 1204.

Sicilians, in the year 1193, and following.

(h) Alexius Angelus Emperour of the East, threatning him out Chr. of his Kinddome, did cast him into such a fear, that he drove him to pay him tribute, which as he was gathering of his subjects in (1) Au&. Athe eighth year of his reign, and (') of Christ, 1199. he died at Mef fana, (k) being poysoned by his Wife, as some Authors do think, (a) Roger in leaving a young child called Frederick: he was excommunicated Annal. by the Pope; because he had cast in Prilon (a) Richard King of (b) Otho 25, England, ashe returned from the Holy Land, (b) in the year one thousand one hundred and ninety, and had constrained him to pay his ransome.

TN the year 1108, began Lewis the fixth, furnamed Le Große to reign in France, as (b) by his Pattents it appears, being but 12. or 13 years of age, as (c) Sugerius records, but rather 30 years, because he died the 60th year of his age, and of his reign the 30th. He was anointed at Orleans, and crowned by Dambertus of Soifons, moved unto it (d) by Ivon of Chartres, because that the Bishop of (d) Vide Ivon. Rheyms was then at variance neither is it so needfull that the Kings of France be all consecrated at Rheyms, saith the said Ivo Bithop of Chartres. Sugerius, Abbot of St. Denis, hath written the life of this Lewis. He died of a ficknesse (e) in the year of Christ 1137. (f) in August, having ruled 30. years.

During his reign, was held a Synod at Carevalentia, wherein St Bernard the Abbot was President, (g) in the year 1115. The Premonstratensian order began to be established in the year 1120, as St. Norbert faith. (h) At this time was in great fame, Hugo St. Vi-Bor, and Hugo the Grationopolitan Bishop, who died in (i) the year

(1) This is that william Earl of Poisters, and Duke of Aquitane, who adhering to Anacletus against Innocentius, was brought to a better mind by St. Bernard: Whom (a) Sugerius, who then was living, records to have died in Spain foon after, that is, at the end of Crassus his reign, and beginning of Lewis the younger, being gone thither to procession to St. James's. Robert Montanus afferts that he died in the year 1137. in St. James's Church, in the last Week of Lent, and that he was buried before the Altar. Hereby it appears that Theobaldus the Recorder of his life is mistaken, in faying that he died in the year 1156.

Lewis in the year 1147. after Whit-Sunday, ingaging himself for the Holy Wars, dispatches his expedition into Palestina with (b) 30000 Horsemen, and a great Army of Foot. But such a mighty Army perished there, more by the treachery of the Greeks then by the valour and power of the Saracens. Then (c) having stayed there a year, and being returned into France, in the year 1150.he divorced his Wife Alienora, and married the daughter of Alphonfus the 7th, who called himself Emperour of Spain, which is called by Tyrius, and Sugerius Mary, but the (d) Annalls of Spain call her Bearrix. at Aquisgranum (b) in the year 1198. Whereunto Otho foon after attained; and having gotten the kingdom into his hands, he warred against Philip for some time, (c) untill that they agreed; fo that, during Philip's life, Otho should abstain himself from the title of King; and after his death should lawfully enjoy it. (a) Philip reigned 10 years, and was flain the 23 of June in the year 1208, by one Otho a Palatine, whose wife the daughter of Isaac Emperour of Constantinople, having heard of her husband's death, ended also her life.

Otho entred into the possission of the Roman Empire, which then was void by the death of his competitor, and upon thefe conditions married Philip's daughter, (b) whom Innocent created Emperour with due rites and ceremonies, performed at Rome in the year 1209; but he rejected him afterwards from the communion of the Church, because that against his engagement he did violate and break the Romans rights and priviledges, in the Joan. Villa.5. year 1210. This is that Otho, who together with his Uncle Richard King of England, fighting against Philip of France, (c) near Bovina, was by him overcome and put to flight in the year 1214. Hence, the year following, was celebrated at Rome the Council of Rigor, Anton. Latrent, by Innocent the third; to which out of all the parts of Christendom reforted (a) 412 Bishops; in it was confirmed the Transubstantiation both in name and deed; and by it was condemned the book of Abbot Joachim, which he had composed Anton. Otho thus forfaken of all, and worn out with grief, dyed (e) in the year 1216; but some say the year following; and some others, (c) Chr. Col- in the year 1218. (f) Innocent dyed in the same year the 16th

In Pannonia and Albania, the undoubted virtue of these two Princes, John Corvinus Hunides, and Alexander king of Epirus, who ordinarily is called Scanderbeg, upheld the Christian interest in this age. Sconderbegs valour stopped that rod of the Christians, Amurath, who with his mighry power threatned and affrighted all Europe, and forced him upon very reasonable terms to conclude peace with Uladiflaus, king of Hungaria, but the Hungarians themselves broke it: when the Turks were engaged in Afia, but it was to the great detriment of the Christians, (t) for their Army was routed () Pius Popr. and defeated by the Turks at warna, in which battel both Wladif. the Emperour, (b) to whose trust his Mother had recommended the Crown of the kingdom, would not deliver him up to them; (c) At which Huniades being displeased, he over-run and wasted Austria and other Provinces belonging to Frederick, in the year 1445; he also fought often with great successe against Amurath; and, Amurath dying at Croia in Epitus, fought against his fon Mahomet, who took Constantinople (d) in the year of Christ, 1453, the 29 of May; (e) but three years after as he befieged Taurinum, which is called Alba, he drove him back with much difgrace, and great losse of his Army, in the year 1456, on Magdelene's day. Pope Califius decreed a holy-day to be celebrated in remembrance of this great victory. In the obtaining of this and other remarkable victories, appeared the piety and devotion of John Capistranus of the order of the Minimes; and as he thus behaved 5. 65. Ladiflaus being dead, the (h) 10th of December, in the year 1458, Matthias Corvinus, John's son, is elected King by the Hungarians: he was in nothing unlike his father, and by him were the Turks often beaten.

(k) Marin Barlet records, that he began to reign the 4th of December, in the year 1443; and having reigned 23 years, he dyed in the year 1466, in the 63 year of his life.

In Italy (1) Eugenius the Pope being dead the 23 of February, in the year 1447; after him was elected(a) Nicolas the 5th, a great lover of Sciences, and of learned men; he erected the Vatican Library, having fought Volumes and Writings from all the parts of the World, even from the East also: (b) he dyed the 8th year of his Pontificat the 25 of March, in the year 1455, whom Califus the third succeeded; and after him was elected Tim the second, a man of deep learning, who before was called Aneas Sylvins, in the year 1458, he wholly and unanimously aymed at the carrying on of the War against the Turks; (c) therefore did he conclude peace with Ferdinand King of Naples, Alphonfus's fon, (d) and ordered the Christian Princes to refort to Mantua to consult upon it; but nothing could be done, because all the Princes applyed their mind to domestical affairs, and were unwilling to engage in forreign wars; (e) therefore did this Princely affembly at Mantua break up in the eighth moneth of their fitting. Joan Durcia was a Maid, her father being a husbandman, in the Tullian field, a keeper of sheep: she being inwardly stirred by words from God, to loofe the siege of Orleans, and deliver Charls out of fo many straights, came of her own accord unto this King: And a promise being made, she being fent to Orleance with ayds, beat back the English broken in some (a) Alan. &c. bataels from the City, in (a) the year 1429, May 12. She brought the King to Durocottum of Rhemes, to take of right, the holy things or ceremonies of the kingdom. The enemy being often scattered, the was at length taken at Compendium in the year 1430; (b) whom after a long debate had concerning her, Peter Cauchonius, Bishop of Bellovacia, condemned. The English burnt her alive in the year 1431; at which time, (c) faith Manstrelett, an Asfembly began to be had at Bafil. Concerning this Virgin, who is commonly called, The Maid of Orleance, some reproachful things are falfly vaunted of by fome. But that the was innocent and dear to God, both many things do perswade, (d) which are read, delivered in full Volumes; and also a most prosperous issue of the thing having followed; as it may be right to ascribe it to none but God as the Author. For afterwards all things waxed worfe with the English. Charls (the Burgundian being reconciled unto him (c) in the year 1435) by degrees received his kingdom out of the hand of the enemies; (f) so that in the year 1453, Talbot, a man of great valour being flain, and Aquitane again taken away, he caused nothing to be left unto the English in France, beside Callice. After this manner the English tumult, after two and fourty years, took an end.

A civil disagreement at home followed the English, being beaten out of other mens borders. There were two Kingly Families amongst them; the one of York, the other of those of Lancaster. Henry of Lancaster, Richard the second being compelled to refign, and being flain, had usarped the Kingdom (g) in the year 1399; and being called the 4th of that name, departed in the (h) year of new things, ceased not to provoke his borderers: (b) but especially Renatus Duke of Lorain, and the Helvetians; with whom Ludovick had made a fellowship against the common enemy. As Charls eafily overcame Renatus, and being almost stripped of his dominion, he constrained him to fly into France: So a slaughter being twice received by the Helvetians, when Renatus had recovered his Province, he contended against him in Lorain. The chief of these was Frederick Duke of Saxony, who came under the power of the Conquerour; and being by him condemned of his head, a little after by the intreaty of the chief Governours, he fuffered a milder punishment: And with him was taken also Philip the Landgrave. By the punishment of these men, the tumults of Germany were a little allayed.

(a) This agreement, that fight went before, which was made at Mount Leherick, about eight miles from the City, in the year 1465, in which, a Victory sufficiently prosperous, was manifest to neither. Charls Earl of Carolesia was chief of the contrary party, the son of Philip Duke of Burgundy. He, when through the death of his father, which happened in the year 1467, June the 15th, the second day of the week, was in most large wealth and power; as he was by nature cruell, and defirous

It was the cu-fecond. stome then, to call men of any fort of herefie, Lutherans. And then a new errour of Calvin grew more and more through France; and mey who did spread it, had allured not a few under the colour and thew of a feigned integrity. But by reason of the Civil disagreements of Christians, drawn out for a long time, at last under Pius the 4th, took its end in the year 1563.

Between these things, Henry renewed war with Charls the Emperour, in the year 1551, and Towns being taken on both fides, the French made the Mediomatricans, and other Towns lying about them, subject to their power, in the year 1552. Charls befieged Diviodurum the head Town of the Mediomatricans, whom they call the Merians, with an hundred thousand armed men. But Francis of Guife defending it, he departed thence through a defpair of conquering it.

Then, being separated from the wearinesse and love of humane Affairs, (c) in the year 1555, casting off from him his Kingdome (c) Guice. and Empire at Bruxels, he passed over that unto Philip his son; the governing of this, unto Ferdinand his brother. Being as it were eased of this burthen, he sailed into Spain, and there enclosed

(e) In England the Catholike faith took a little breath in the year 1553, when as after the death of Edward, Mary the daughter of Henry the 8th, and Katherine, began to reign. But fhe being married to Philip Prince of Spain in the year 1554, Reginald Pool Cardinal, her kiniman, being called unto her, he reftored the whole Island to Roman faith and fellowship. But the fixth year after, which was of Christ 1558, Mary being dead, Elizabeth the daughter of Henry and Anne of Bulloign, called back the former unfaithfulnesse.

(a) In the mean time, the French not floathfully enforced the war with Philip his fon, which they had waged with Charls. Francis of Guise led an Army into Campania and the Neapolitan kingdome in the year 1557; in which year indeed the French were by Philip flain at the Town of Quintine in Veromandua, the 10th day of August, when they had run together to loose the siege. In that battle many Nobles being taken, the Townesmen yielded, But the Spaniards knew nor how to make use of a Victory. At last peace by both Kings was received with alike desire of them both, and was tyed together by a nuptial League, Elizabeth the daughter of Henry being given to Philip in wedlock, (b) in the year 1559, of June 29.

But, as humane affairs are, so great mirth is in a short time recompensed with great grief, through the death of Henry; who at a pastime horse-exercise, received a deadly wound in the head, and dyed July the 10th, of his age 43, of his reign 13.

(c) Francis the fon of Henry the second, who in the 17th year of his age was put in his father's place, had almost an year and halfs dominion. And that space was unquiet through the seditions of the Calvinifts, whom they call Hugonots: although there was a strict examination had concerning them; and Annas Burgius of the order of Senatours, who by the command of Henry had been cast into bonds, was openly hanged on a gibbet, and his dead carkass burnt, Decemb. 23, of the 1559 year. The Hugonots being stirred by these punishments, conspire against the King, and endeavour to draw him privily out of Ambasia, where he then was. But the thing, by certain that gave notice, being known; Ludovick Borbon Prince of Conde being brought under suspition, is delivered to custody: and while it is inquired against him concerning his life, at Orleans, wherein men, chosen of the ranks of the whole kingdom, had come together, Francis the King dyed of a disease in the year 1560, Decemb. 5.

fury of the Hugonotts, a greater boldnesse being taken, brake forth into open rebellion. To bring these into agreement, if upon any account it might be done, an Assembly is held at Tistiack, in the year 1561; in which, the Protestants came into contention concerning Controversies of Faith, with the Catholique Divines. Anno 1547 When as nothing could go forward, the matter is brought to arms. The Protestants were rather overcome in many battles, to 1589. than tamed; of which there were chiefly three. First, at the Town Drocas, wherein the Prince of Conde was taken by Francis of Guise, Captain of the Catholique parties in the year 1561. The fecond at Jarnacum, among the Santonians: in which, Henry the brother of Charls leading the Catholiques, the same Prince of Conde was flain, in the year 1569. The third battel was made among the Pistonians at Moncontorium, both the same year, and General. The stubborn enemies were slain in great number.

Two years after they were flain in greater number at Paris, when as they were come thither to folemnize the marriage of Henry Borbon King of Navarr, who was then of those parties, with Margaret the fifter of Charls. With the like slaughter they were killed in many Cities of France. That was begun on the 9th Kalends of September, of the year 1572, at Paris, on a day, holy to St. Barthelomen; from whom afterwards it found a

(a) Between these tumults of Christians in Europe, the Tur-Hift of Cyprus kish affairs grew up with great increases. Pialis the Bathaw returning from the besleging of Malta, which happened in the year 1565, the matter not ended, took away Chios the Island, the year following from the Genoans. After that, Mullapha took away Cyprus from the Venetians, in the year 1571, when as he had compassed Salamina with a siege of eleven Moneths. Which City having conquered, against a covenanted promise, he killed all the Christians; But Bragandine the Governour having his Nose and Ears cut short, was flayed alive. Pim the fifth, a most holy chief Bishop, being very much moved with that unworthinesse, (this man, the fourth of his furname having finished his life in the year 1565; was the year following choicn in his room) raifed a holy war against them. Therefore the chief bishops, the Spaniards and Venetians ships being drawn together into one Navy, a fight is made at Naupasium in the Sea-bosome of Corinth, in which the Barbarians being overcome, two hundred Galleys with Oars, partly taken, partly funk, there were flain or taken Captive, to the number of 25 thousand Turks: twenty thousand Christians being restored to liberty.

> The Covenanted Navy, a strife arising among the chief ones, wasted, without any price of their labour, which might have been very great. The day of the Victory was the feventh of October in the year 1571. Neither long, after this and other things well carried on in his Prelateship, survived Pope Pim. For in that year which followed, 1572. on the Calends of May he departed this life; The seventh Moneth before that, a new Star was seen in Heaven, which indeed having begun to be feen in Caffiopeia, and by degrees lessened, the 1574th year of Christ entring, ceased to appear. That year 1573 which was between, Henry the brother of Charls, belieged Rochell a very strong Castle among the Santonians, possessed by the Hugonots. But when at the same time, by the voices of the Polonian Princes, he was required to the Kingdome of that Nation, he departed from that City. Ludovick the 13th, laying up the honour of this City, being conquered; by whom the fix and fiftieth year after, being taken, it ceased to be a refuge of Rebellious Heretiques. Henry went into Polonia in January of the following year, 1574, and returning from thence the fixth Moneth after, he hastned into France to take the Kingdome; which the death of Charls had made void of a ruler, May the 30th, of his reign 14.

Francis Alenconius, his brother, a to 1589. Prince, fell off from him in the year one thousand five hundred seventy five, the Prison-keepers being cunningly deceived by the industry of his fifter Margaret, by whom he had been commanded to be kept by reason of suspicions. With this man, Henry Borbon King of the Vascoins, and Henry of Condy another of his fathers brothers fons, is joyned with no small company of Hagonots, the Germans being hired for aid. But by the interpoling of Katherine their mether, the brethren being reconciled among themselves, An assembly of the Kingdome of all ranks is gathered together at Blefa, in the year one thousand five hundred feventy and fix, in which the large edicts in favour of the Protefants, are revoked, which thing a little after stirred up greater troubles.

Faith, that I may let passe the rest, both for number, and constancy to be remembred. The year that went before this, one thoufand five hundred eighty two, was famous in amending of the Church Calender, the which Gregory the thirteenth, chief Bushop, appointed with the greatest praise and profit. Three years after, the same man, obedience being received of three Princes of Japamia, by Ambassadours of that Nation, he died the tenth of April, for whom Sixtus the fifth was chosen. And in the fame year, Civill storms being renewed in France, the Catholique Princes entred into a secret league among themselves, of putting the Protestants to flight, especially Henry of Guise, and Charls Borbon Cardinall, the Unkle of Henry of Navarre; which conspiracy we have wont to call [Liga] a bond, tye or League. Sixtus, chief Bishop, a curse being pronounced again the Henries, the Vasconian and the Condwan, he pronounced either of them unworthy the fuccession of the Kingdome, which next belonged unto them from the year one thousand five hundred eighty four, in which Francis Alenconius had yielded to nature's deffiny, the tenth of June, at the Camp of Theodoricum. Hence a most cruell war was largely fpread over all France. Henry King of the Navarrians had mufired the Germane fouldiers, Robert of Bullein being Captain, while he goeth to meet this man, refisting him, he overthrew Annas Joieulius meeting him with his Army at Curtalium in Aquitane, in which fight the Duke himfelf was dain, in the year one thoufand five hundred eighty, feven. Morcover the Germanes being flirred up in many battels by Henry of Guife, at last they are put to flight at Alucium in Belfia. The year after, which was eighty eight, Henry of Condy dyed the fifth of March, having left behind him an heir of the same name, who was born in the Moneth of September, who afterwards followed the communion of Rome, and obtaineth unto this day his father's and Grandfather's Nobility, increased with the praise of uncere piety.

The History of the World; or, Lib.9.

That same year was lamentable through the death of Henry of Guife, and Cardinall Ludovick his brother : who by the Blefenfian affemblies of the whole Kingdome, were, by the command of King Heary flain; chiefly for that thing incenfed, because when he had been at Paris a little before, in the Moneth of May, He being fuldenly moved at the comming of the Guifian. Duke, had made a fedition, and had forced the aftonished King to flight for fear. Henry of Guife on Decemb, 23 (the day after) his brother was thrust thorow by the Kings Guard.

Amongst these Tempests of France, Charle Emmanuel Duke of Savoy, possesseth the dominion of Saleucia of the French Title, in a Countrey under the Alps. The Spanish Navy with never fo much preparation carried into England, partly by shipwrack, partly by the Counfell and valour of Drake an English Captain, most knowing in Sea-affairs, perished;

Lastly, the death of Katherine, Mother of Kings, made the eighty ninth year of that age mournfull, on January the fifth.

But it happened much more forrowfull by the most unworthy murther of the King himfelf. Who, great envy being (through the death of the Guissans) contracted, when as the Cities here and to 1589. there fell off from him, and Paris it felf the head of the kingdome rebelled before the rest, this, Henry of Navarre being called to him for aid, he began to befiege, and this Camps being pitched against it, he is slain with a cruell parricide, a poysoned knife being thrust thorow his belly on the Calends of August. By whose death the stock of the Valesians, fit for a kingdome, ceafed. Therefore the top of affairs turned aside unto the Family of the Borbones, as the next in kindred. Whose beginning is derived from Robert Earl of Claromonta, the second son of Ludovick.

The plenty of famous wits through France, and other Countries, was never greater at any other time than these men reigning, whom I have reckoned up in that Chapter. All which if I would number up, it will be the matter of a full Volume. I will therefore touch at a few for the undertaken brevitie's fake.

New Family of Kings after the death of Henry the third, A fortunately began in the year 1589, Henry the 4th King of Navarr being taken to the Rule of the French; against whom the covenanted-Princes, because he was not as yet a Catholike, renewed war. The Captain of these was Charls of Medua, the brother of Henry of Guife, flain by Henry the 3d. A little after, a diffurbance of things followed through all France. When as parties striving with a killing hatred, and the agreement of Cities being rent asunder; as well the neighbouring Cities among themselves, as all people of the same Cities among each other, burned with inward discords. Charls Borbon, the Kings Uncle, who was as yet kept in custody, is saluted by a mock, the tenth King of that name, in the year 1590. Between these things, a noble victory being gotten at the Temple of Andrew, through which the Earl of Egmonda, a Leader of the Spanishayds, dyed; and which is wont to be called the Juriacan-battel. Henry compasseth Paris with a most firaight siege, when in the mean time, Charls Borbon paid his debt to Nature at Fontenaium: and the Duke of Parma coming out of Belgium to bring help to the Parisians, the King, the City being left, leadeth an Army against him, and maketh provision to fight. But at Paris, after the loofing of the fiege, affemblies are solemnized by the covenanted-Princes in the year 1593, for the choosing a new King. But those were made voyd by the ambition and disagreement of the Princes. Henry having professed the Catholique faith, July 25, sent the Duke of Niverna Embaf-Henry the 4th embraced the sadour to Rome, unto Clement chief Bishop, (who the former year had entred the Prelateship, Jan. 30,) to request pardon. The which when the Bishop deferred, Henry in the mean time is anointed at Autricum of the Carnutians, with holy oyl, Febr. 27, in the year 1594; because Durocottorum of Rhemes, where that thing according to the custome was wont to be performed, was in the power of the enemies. And then he is privily let into Paris, March 22, with armed Souldiers. At length, in the year 1595, the Bishop being intreated by James Perron the King's Embassadour, the fentence of condemnation being abolished, he wholly reflored the king. In which thing, Francis Tolett Cardinal of the Jesuites Society, performed a famous work for him, although by birth a Spaniard; and the king held himself to owe much unto him before those of that Nation. Burthen, the Governour and thence, dyed the 13th of September.

Cities returned, strivingly, unto the defence of Henry. At length, in the year 1598, at Vervin, May the 2d, a peace

(a) Whilest things are so carried on in France; in Belgium (a) Hist. of against the Spaniards, Muurice, Captain of the Covenanted Ranks, Flanders. or United Provinces, without delay moved War. Therefore through the absence of the Duke of Parma, who ever and anon ran out against Henry into France; he took some Cities by force and furrender. The Parmian Duke dyed at Atrebates, in the year 1592, in whose place first of all Ernest of Austria, the brother of Rodulph the Emperour, was: Then he being dead, Albert a Cardinal, the brother of them both was fent; unto whom Ifabel, the daughter of Philip the elder, being given in wedlock, the dominion of those Provinces chanced by lot in the year 1598. This man fetting upon Oftend a Sca-City of Flancers, in the year 1601, The fiege of the third year after by Ambrose Spinola of Genoa he received it on furrender; truly not worthy the price of fo many charges, and lives, which he is faid to have spent on that siege. (b) In the (b) Annals mean time, Elizabeth Queen of England in the year of her age 70, the 45 of her reign yielded to Nature's destiny, of Christ 1602, and had James king of Scotland her Successiour, (the which thing the had commanded by Will) born of Mary Stuart; whom I have mentioned above to have been flain by Elizabeth, against right. (c) Also in Swethland there was trouble: When as Charls the (c) spond. . Uncle of Sigifmund king of Poland had craftily taken away the Chron. kingdom committed to his trust, Sigismund being excluded; who of Smeibland therefore had contended out of Poland, that he might recover it, usurped by in the year 1599. That being taken away from the Catholique Charles. Prince, afterward the Protestant Governours passed it over by a publique decree, on Charls partaker of the same sect, in the year 1604. Furthermore, that Sigismund the onely son of John the third, king of Swethland, who dyed in the year 1592, in the same year was called King of the Swedes, the affairs of Swethland being brought into good order, two years after he had returned into Poland. In Hungary and Transylvania there were the like shakings for Religion's lake. Sigifmund Bathor Prince of Transylvania, using rash Counsel, in the year 1598 had departed from his dominion for the fake of Maximilian of Austria , Andrew Bathor the Cardinal, his father's brother's fon bare that thing grievously; and a little after Sigifmund himself changing his mind, brake his covenants. Thereby a War began to be waged between the Bathorians and Austrians; Transvivania remained in the power of these: Sigismund by the interpoling of Clement chief Bishop, returned into favour with the Emperour; and at length dyed at Prague in the year 1613. But the Protestants again, the Emperour being despised, choose Botsicaius a Hungarian, besmeared with the errours of Zuinglius, their Captain or Duke; who by the help of the Turks joyned unto him a great part of Dacia, and miserably vexed the Catholiques, in the year 1605. The fame man the following year maketh peace with the Emperour on these conditions, That for himfelf, and children, if he should leave any males, he should have Tranfylvania: At which time Rodulph the Emperour entred into a twenty years truce with the Turks. But in Moscoly the same year 1606, Demetrius the Prince, because he was of a more inclinable mind toward the Germans and Polonians, neither difagreed from the Bishop of Rome, by his own Subjects is most cruelly slain.

That I may bring back my Pen unto the Affairs on this fide Rhene, Henry King of France proclaimed war against Charls Duke of the Allobrogians, in the year 1600, that he might retake the dominion of Salussia, possessed by him through the Civil Troubles of France. At last they agree between themselves; and the Countrey of Salussia was repayed with the Province of the Sebu-sians on this side the Alps. Two years after Charls Gontald Duke of Bironia, being hitherto, for his warlike boldnesse, and undannted courage in dangers, very acceptable unto Henry, when as he defired greater matters, and privily conspired against the King's life, was beheaded the day before the Kalends of August, in the year 1602.

The Jesuit-Society being nine years before by the decree of the Senate, commanded to depart from Paris, and other Cities, is cal'd back again by the kings Proclamation, the year 1603 going out. Which Proclamation, the Senate of Paris, the 4th Nones of January, of the year following had confirmed. The fame fellowthip being much defired by many Ciries of the kingdome, through the most greatest will of the most courteous King, began to open or prepare Schools in many places.

Of defiring which, the King himfelf gave an example unto the people: Who likewise at his own charge appointed Schools for that fellowship at Flexia of the Andegavians; the Palace of the Vindocinian Dukes being ordained for them: in which first the Seminary was brought; and with a decree, that after death his heart should be fafely laid up there. Which thing indeed being fooner done, than was profitable for the kingdom and fociety, both grieved. My mind is agast to relate the most bitter death of the most valiant, and most courteous king after this inclosed dominion. Whom when all defired to be immortal, the parricide of one detertable privy murtherer took away, May the 14th, of the year 1610, the day after that he had taken care for Mary his wife to be anointed and crowned (as the manner of Queens is) at the Town of Dionysius. She was the daughter of Francis Medices the great Duke of Etruria; who in the year 1600, a marriage being entred into with Henry, brought forth the year following 1601, Ludovick, a Prince profitable unto France, Sept. 27.

While Henry reigned over France; what with holinefle, what with learning adorned, famoufly dyed, Philip Nevim a teacher of Latine Oratory, in the year 1595, March 26, who by Gregory the 14th, with four others, Isidore a Spaniard; Ignatim, builder of the Tesuites Society; Francis Xavery, the Apostle of the Indians, and Terefia, was registred among the number of Saints, March the 12th, of the year 1622. Francis Tolet of the fellowpfhip of Jefus, to 1632. Cardinal, in the year 1596. Cafar Baroniu, Cardinal, a noble writer of Church-Annals, or Yearly Accounts, in the year 1607, the day before the Kal. People bewailed, things were more quiet in France un Ludovici XIII. & and the form of the control of the cont der Lewis a child, than the hope of all men supposed: whose guar- nuis Comdianship, with the ordering of the kingdom is straightway granted ment, to his Mother. Some of the chief ones made a beginning of tumulting in the year 1614; who hated the too much power of the Florentine Concinus.

Between these stirs, Lewis went into Aquitane in the year 1616, that he might take Anne, the daughter of the Catholique King, Philip the second, (whom he before, by an Embaffadour, had elpoufed to himfelf,)unto a lawful wedlock; and at the fame time with the like good successe, he took his fister Elizabeth to be joyned with Philip the fon of Philip the third. So two most mighty Princes, with the greatest profit unto Christian affairs, more strictly bound the promise of peace between themselves by this nuprial exchange. Homebred agreement the year following, doubled the publique merriment; Henry Prince of Conde, and the other Covenanters being reconciled with Lewis. But fuddenly, new furpitions ariling, on the very Kal. Septemb. of the year 1616, the Condian is fent to prifon.

The Princes, who the former year had made a fellowfing with New Aire. him, depart from the Court. Against these, a war by the King's authority is proclaimed; which in the following year 1617 was ended. Concinus being in the very entrance of the King's Palace thrust thorow by the King's guard, on the 14th day of April, because being commanded by the King for certain tales to be laid hold of, he had tryed to defend himfelf by weapons. His death, a peace of the covenanted Governours, and a publike quietnesse,

Anno 1610 of Christ, to 1632. 5

The Queen-Mother, untill these Troubles were appealed, being in the mean time intreated to go apart, betook her felf to Blefa. From which time King Lewis began to carry on the Common-wealth by his own authority. The beginning of which to be managed, that he might take from Religion, in the moneth September, he by a publique Law decreed, That in the Province of Benearn, which is fituate at the Pyrenzan bottoms, the Catholique worthin should be every where restored; and also that the Protestants should restore the goods taken away about 50 years before, unto the Churches. 3

The fiege of the Juliacans.

Without France, these things happened worthy of memory almost at these same years. Juliack a Town of Lower-Germany was received upon furrender by Maurice of Naslaw, being holpen by the French ayds, September entring of the year 1610; concerning whose possession, some Princes strove amongst themselves; after that John william the Duke dyed without off spring.

The Moors driven out of Spain.

Philip King of Spain having gotten the most strong Tower of Alarach, built by the Moors at the Gaditane Sea, the keepers of it being corrupted by reward, commanded all the Moors to depare out of Spain. They are faid to have gone out to the number of ninery thousand heads, in the year 1610, and some years following after that.

Sigismund King of Poland, taketh Smolenskum, a most fortified Town of Roxolania or Muscovy, after two years besieging, in the year 1611. in the Moneth of July. Whose son uladistaus they chuse Duke of Mosch, although afterwards their Counsel or purpose being changed, they defire another: whereby a cruell war, after CHARLS, King of Swethland, dying through grief of an overthrow, brought on him by the Danish King, in the Moneth November, in the year 1611. Obtained his fon Gustavus successour of the Kingdome; others in vain defiring to bring it over unto Sigifmond King of Poland.

But the 1612th year entring, the twentieth of January, Rodulph the Emperour, died, the thirty fixth year from the departure of Maximilian his father. Whom his brother Matthias succeeded the same year.

The Venetians, after these things, being troubled by the inroads of the Croatians, encounter with arms, Ferdinand Arch-Duke of Austria, the son of Charls Arch-Duke, who was the brother of Maximilian the second, Emperour, in the year one thousand fix hundred and fifteen. Which War being waged on both fides, through mutual losses for three years space, the 1618 year entring, was laid down.

A greater war arose in Italy between the Mantuan and Subaudian Dukes, in the year 1613, over the Principality of Montfer-12, when as Francis of Mantua dying without iffue Male, Ferdinand his brother, of a Cardinal was chosen in his room. Who being defended by the Spaniards helps against Charls Philibert Duke of Subaudia, he strove some years, and Arms being laid down, and ever and anon taken up again. For the third year after, that is, of Christ 1615, peace being composed, in the year following the war was restored. Moreover Vercella was taken in the year 1617, the 25th of July, by the Vice-king of Mediolum; and a year almost turning about, by the endeavour of the most Christian King, was reftored in the year 1618, in the Moneth of June, and fothere was made an end of warring.

In Dacia, Gabriell Bathor, being put to flight by Bethleem Gabor, furnished with the aids of the Turks, most wretchedly perished. Gabor defended the Province possessed, against the Emperour, after that, by weapons and treachery.

Cap. 14.

A far most cruel War of all, was stirred up in Germany, in The German the year 1618; in which, Ferdinand Arch-Duke of Austria, and War in Bo-King of Bohemia, also the kingdom of Hungary he received on certain conditions from Matthias the Emperour. But then at Prague, the Protestants revolted from him, the Earl of Turra ftirring them up: who, the Magistrates being killed, and the Citizens compelled to swear in their words, he provoked all Bohemia, and the neighbouring Provinces unto arms. Unto this man, Ernest Mansfield a bastard, joyned himself. Between these things, Matthias dyeth in the year 1619, of March the 20th, the 62 year of his age turning, of his Empire 6 years, and nine moneths; in whose place Ferdinand king of Bohemia and Hungary, being chofen, not flowly profecuterh the war against the seditious, Bucquoim and Dampeter most valiant Captains, being opposed against them. But the Protestants make Frederick Elector Palatine, the son in The Palatilaw of the King of England, king of Bohemia; and he in the fame sate is made a year 1619, on the moneth November, with his wife, a woman king of Both coverous of a kingdom, received the Crown after the folemn custome at Prague. But truly so great successes had not a lasting gladnesse. For in that year which followed, 1620, the 8th day of November, under the very walls of Prague, a memorable battel being made, by Bacqueius Captain of the Emperour's Army, and the Bavarian, the Palatine is scattered; and being put to flight, and He is overbanished, the year following, he fleeth over unto the Baravians come and put or Dutch: where being private from that time with his wife and children, he led his life. Bohemia by and by with the other Provinces returned unto the obedience of the Emperour; who restored every where the Catholike protession; and the father's of the Jesuit-Society, by name, driven away from Prague, at the beginning of the troubles; the fame year he most honourably brought back. And unto this very fellowship, to the immortal praise of King Lewis toward it, it was granted to open Schools at Paris, in the fame year wherein Prague banished it, 1618.

Moreover Urbane the eighth registred the author of this famous instruction, eminent in the like praise of learning and Godlinesse, into the order of the most eminent Cardinalls in the year 1627. Who, two years after being increased with great deserts, and famous in a great off spring, died the fixth Nones of October in the year 1629. of his age the 55th.

The War in Valley.

At the same time, in which it was warred the Palatinate, (that the Telliaian was the year 1620) in the Valley of Telline: which at the command of the Rhetians or Canes, whom they call the Grifons; Civill troubles flamed. The Catholiques being provoked with the injuries of the Protestants, hidden Counsells being entred into among themselves, oppresse or come upon all the Calvinists: and the aid of Duke Ferias Governour of Mediolum being intreated, they get leave of him of enjoying Castles in some fit places. Moreover the Rhetian Nation being all troubled, and with them the Venetians: who believed these inclosures of Italy to be held by a continual possession by the Spaniards, was in no case making for their affairs, both defiring aid from him, Ludevick King of France was not wanting, and first of all, in the year 1620, he obtained by Embassadours from the King of Spain, that he should promise to restore all things wholly, while they consulted of the Catholique affairs. Which caution being approved by the most Christian King, when as neverthelesse the matter wanted an issue, it is brought to weapons. In the mean time a Civilbwar was renewed throughout France, fome Governours conspiring against Lewise, whose power had increased even unto envy, whom the secret slight of the Queen Mother, and her passage into the Castle of Andegavia, had enforced

In which war, Ludovick making use of the Faithfull endeavour and counsell of Henry Prince of Condy, who in the year one thoufand fix hundred and nineteen, in the Moneth of October, had been freed from Prison, in a shore rime he restored rest and quiernaffe to the French, in one fighe at Cafars bridge, the Armies of the adverfaries being flain. Which conquest made the Queen Mother, and others of chose parties, friends with the King in the year 1.620.

The Expedition of Benearn.

The same year, an expedition for Beneara followed : which being finished with incredible food incite, brought a fruit more welcome then could be expected v For the flubborn enemies being affeighted at the fudden comming, the King found there all things inclinable to obadience. Neither long time after, Lewine Master of both Souldiery deceased of a disease, the fifteenth of December, in the year 1621. Which same year was the last to Paul the fifth, chief Bishop. For he departed the eight and twentieth day of January, of his age the fixty ninth; of his Prelate ship the fixteenth. The Moneth following, and the ninth day thereof, Alexander Ludovisius of Bononia, is chosen, who would be called Gregory the fifteenth. And this man about two years and five Moneths being finished, in the year 1623, the eighth of July, gave place to Mapheus Barberine, who under the name of Urbane the eighth from a. d. 7. About the same time also Breda a Town of Brabant, Spinela The Rege of Captain of the Spanish Army, befieged; and in Aquitane, and Breda. the Province of Narbony, Rehanne, and Subizius, Protestant brethren, renewed a war against king Ludovick. Breda in the year 1624. in the Moneth of August, is begun to be Besieged: on June the thirteenth, of the following year, for want of Provision, made a furrender. With the Rebellious French it was fought by land, and Sea, and the same being every where overcome: but in this latter, in which Gauifius was Captain, the Navy of the Rochellanian Robbers being tamed, the Island Rhee was reduced into the power of Ludovick the King.

pany of robbers being gathered together. Who being put to flight by Tilly a most valiant commander, he fleeth unto Gabor the Transilvanian; and from thence striving to go to the Venerious, with an incredible profit and joy of the Catholique parties, he perished, in the year 1626. The Rochellers unmindfull of their fworn faith a little before, and of peace the same year received, call forth privily the English against the King. Who in the year 1627, being brought unto the Isle Rhea, or of Rhee, with a Navy of an hundred and twenty Ships, Buckingham being Captain, they possessed the whole, except the Castle; over which Toirase was goverhour, a flour man, and greatly skillful in warlike affairs. This man, although the works were new, nor as yet finished, shifted off the sharp and continuall forces of the enemies, untill now labouring with the want of all things, and being wearied, the industry of Ludovick the King came to help them. For this King using Ricelieu the Cardinall, a man flourishing in all praise, his helper and Minister; he sent over quickly Schonberg a famous Captain, indeed with no great number of fouldiers unto the fuccour of the belieged; who, Toirafe being joyned to him, drave out the English, being flain and chased out of all the Island.

The Isle of Ree taken away from the English.

The fiege of Rochell,

Nothing feemed to be done by so many wars and Victories, as long as that despiser Rochell, impatient of Kings, and all Rule, lifted up another Kingdome as it were in the middle of a Kingdome. Which Gity being scituate at the chinks, or overflowed places of the Ocean, it was fenced both with the nature of the place, and also with the hand, and Art, that it was commonly accounted invincible. This most fure City, Ludovick attempreth with a great courage and hope, which he had taken from the help of God, being made triall of in fo many affairs, in the year 1627. And the same Ricelieu the Cardinall, being partaker of the Counfells, by works and Fortifications, and, among other things, huge Bulwarks unmoveable, being finished by the Ocean side, he so held it that up a whole year, that the Citizens being killed up with hunger, and having suffered all extremity, yielded themselves unto the King. Therefore it, the walls being cast to the ground, was reduced almost into the form of a Village for a terrour and example to others, that the invincible might rather defire the defence and clemency of their Prince, then to attempt weapons. Rochell was taken in the eight and twentieth year of that age, October the 30th. After that, the Rebels returned wholly unto their duty, neither faw the year following, any thing of an enemy left in France.

Ludovick being bussed about Rochell, and the English: the Duke of Subaudia had stirred up the weapons of the Spaniards against Mantuan: with whom he had an old strife about the possession of Mounterrat. And also some Cities being already taken: and Cosal (that is, a Town, as least antient, so of that Province, as the report is, the most fortified of all Italy) Collatum had besieged. Ludovick, things being appeased in Italy, led his Army, being Conquerour, thither thorow the Alps, and the close places of the Mountains, being broken thorow, which also nature through the roughnesse of places, and most strong Garrisons of the enemy had made unpassible, he overcame Segusio, a City under the Alps, at the first onset, the three and twentieth of March, in the year 1629. The Spaniards having departed from Cassal, left it free for a military supply, and Provisions, our souldiers carrying on their Journey within the Town. After the departure of the French, they by and by returned unto the siege that was broken off for a time, with a greater provision then before

About the same time, Collabras Captain of the Emperours Army, very much wasted the land of Mantua: and Spinola chief Governour for the Spaniards from the Catholique king, a man of great same for warfare, besieged Casall with all his Forces. But the unconquered vertue of Toirase, who held that Town in Garrison, made all their endeavours void. At last, the French slee to Ricelieu the Cardinall, ordering the Warre with the greatest power, the second time beyond the Alps to bring help.

There, many Towns being conquered, while they extend their journey, stopped with many difficulties; Mantua, through the Plaguercceived within the walls by the Towns-men, and desendants, being wasted, is suddenly invaded by the Germans, on the Moneth of July, in the year one thousand six hundred and thirty.

The French being nothing affrighted with the misery of Parties, three Armies being in vain opposed, the victories repeated over the enemies, they through valour brought forth thither a passage for themselves whither they had intended. Then under the very sight of Casal, and the Spaniard pitching his Tents, when they were in readinesse to joyn battel, Mazarine running between, the matter is brought unto conditions of peace without arms, and bloud; by the highest providence toward both, yea toward all Christians: lest either through a great slaughter, victory should be manifest to either; or might yield to neither, a mutual slaughter being made. This was the end of the Italian Expedition, November going out, of the year 1630. When as now the labour of the steep bringing a continued disease, a disease brought a departure of lifeto Spinola.

After these things the name of Lewis was famous throughout all people; not more by the report of weapons, than equity, and faithfulnesse toward his fellowes, whose safety he held more beloved, than his own private profits and wealth. Also the excelling force and vertue of mind of the most eminent Cardinal Ricelian was for admiration; and in managing great affairs, a like industry of a diligent Wit.

In the year 1631, in the moneth of April, both Embassadours agrecing, a peace was established between the Emperour and Duke of Mantua, on equal terms; and also the possession of Mantha was confirmed to this man by the Emperour's decree, and of Montferrat, the second day of July. Thus all things being appealed, the ancient rest and quietnesse returned unto

French and German stirrs followed Italian peace. In France, or the Queen- the Queen-Mother, a grudge being taken up against Cardinal Ricelieu, the openly renounced her triendship from him; neither that she might receive him into favour, could she be intreated by any of his, or even by the intreaties of King Lewis her fon himfelf. Gasto the King's brother in a short time after followed his Mother's example, and his mind being estranged from the same Cardinal, he departed unto Orleance, which City belonged to his Title. Straightway the King, with all the Court, and likewise the Queen-Mother, go to Compendium: Who being there left, when as the king a little after had gone away, the privily escaped out of that Town into Flanders, July the 19th day; The Duke of Orleance now going afide from Orleance, from the moneth of March, into Burgundy, thence fleeing from the King, following after him, he also departed into Lorrain, and lastly into Flanders.

A Civil War, Kings Brother is evercome.

Then a tumultuous company being gathered together, he breaking out into France; the following year he fer upon Narbone in France, which they name Occitania. The Duke Montemorence was chief over this Province; who falling away unto him in the moneth of July, brought with him a great increase of Forces, and courage; That now the Army of the king, with Schonberg the Captain, affailing on him, he durft to resift, and encounter with it. Therefore on the very Kalends of September, of the year 1632, they met in a very short, but bloudy battel at Castlenaudar; in which, the Rebells were overcome, and not a few chief men were flain. Montemorence, some wounds being received, came under the power of his enemies; and being brought to Tolouse, a Sentence of his head being passed on him by the Senate, he submitted his neck to the sword or hatchet the third Kal. of November. Which highest chance not onely with a steadfast, but also godlily and religiously, as became a Christian, with a ready mind he underwent.

Troubles of Germany, and the King of Sweden's Expedition.

In Germany, Gustave king of Smethland, who from the year 1630, going out of his own borders, had east forth the Emperor's Armies out of Pomerania, and other neighbouring Provinces; in the following year 1631, he moved forward into more inward places, and, Towns without number being vanquished, he largely spread about his terrour. Tillie, the Captain of the Catholique party being in vain opposed against him: who also himself, from the year 1630, having in the mean time set upon Magdeburg, brake it thorow with the greatest force, and burned it the ninth of May, of the following year 1631. But the Lutheran Princes, an Assembly being had at Lipsia, they conspire against the Bm- to 1892. perour; and their forces being joyned with Guffave, they take up war. Against these Tillie is opposed; who in the moneth of September, another Captain, Papenheim, being joyned with hish, befiegeth Lipfia, and compelleth it to yield. A little after, the Covenanted-Princes, are present, and especially the king of Swethland, with the Duke of Saxony.

Tillie being overcome, withdrew himself by flight, and for the most part ten thousand beinglioff. Lipsia was retaken by the Saxons into possession. This Victory laid open to the king of Swethland that which was left of Germany, none hindring him. Herbipolis being taken, he subdued all Francony, and also Moguntia, and others: From that time forward, he passed thorow other Provinces in manner of an out-breaking flame, or Reep-running River: The Saxon in the mean time invading Bohemia, afterwards took Prague, the head City of that kingdom, by furrender. Some of the Princes of Germany, that they might turn away the storm invading them, implored the help of Lewis King of France, whom he by his weapons and authority defended fate from wrong; especially the Archbishop of Trevirs: the which in the year following 1632, was per-

Vualftine Lievtenant of the highest Catholique affairs, recovereth Prague against the Saxon and Swede. And then after many toffings, at length at Lutzen, which Town is not far distant from Lipsia, Valstein and Papenheim fight for two dayes space against the King of Swethland: In which battle Gustave the king and death of of Sweden dyed. The same year 1632, made Uladislaus king of Poland; who into the place of his father, by folemn Assemblies of the kingdom was chosen, according to the custome, in the moneth October; when as the nine and twentieth day before of April, Sigifmund had dyed, of his reign the 45.

Moreover, this year was memorable for the burning flame of the Mountain Vesuvium; the which being renewed on the moneth of February, brought a very large wasting, but a great affrightenent unto the Neapolitans: who, a solemn supplication being for that thing proclaimed, by the which, the head of Januarium the Patron or Defender of the City was carried about, they turned away the destruction hanging over their heads.

CHAP. I.

Of what things fell out in Germany, England, and other places worthy to be known.

From the year 1632, unto 1638.

Fter the death of Gustave King of Swethland, who (by the chance of War) was on the 6th of September 1632; slain in a set-battle, the Bavarian Duke being Commander in chief of the Emperour's Party: although he was constrained to quit the field in the same fight; Oxenstern Chancellor of Sweden undertook the government of the Warr; and in the year 1633, committed sixten thousand Souldiers into the hands of Lunaburgick and Kniphuse, to go into Westphalia; sends away Vinarien into Francony, and he himself goeth unto the Duke of Saxony to confult together with him. And, in the mean time, Altringe subdueth some Cities of Swethland: and Horn goeth thither, where 1600 Countrey-men were killed at Sundgove, and 130 at Brisgove hanged upon a gibber. In the mean time, as a slender reward of the cruelty, Hagene is destroyed, by laying in wait; and the Count of Rhene strives against the Lorrain Duke possessing the Cottages of Alfatia and Dachsteyn; and being increased in his Forces by Vinarien, he drives away the Bavarian, by punishing them of the Emperour's party, into Bavaria, when he had returned from Rayne unto his Lord the Emperour. But the City of Augusta is by a changeable condition, kept sometimes by the Swedes, fometimes by the Conquerours. And Craze being more than ordinarily displeased with Fridland, unto whom, the Emperour in the year before, 1632, had committed the chief com-

And indeed the good successe of War was at this time almost every where contrary unto the Emperour's forces. So that Vinarien, having vanquished Ratisbone, turns away the warlike weapons from Pomerania, and takes Chame and Straubinge into his possession. So, by Enhuse, in a hasty and disorderly Combat, in Alfaria, there are 400 of the Emperour's flain, and as many taken: And Fridland himself fights with the like losse at Olave in Silesia;

but at Oppele he loft no more than three hundred . And which is more than ordinary remarkable, Dellone in Swethland brings forth but an hundred and fifty, which was on the 4th of June 1633, and puts 600 of the Emperour's Souldiers to flight.

In the same year the Protestants of Germany hold an Assembly at Hailbrunne, where they renew their League and Covenant with the Swedes, & they, appoint a giver of instructions, and frame a Councel. All religious persons so called, that resused to take an oath from the Swedes; were commanded to depart. And afterwards they meet together at Frankford; where the fayling into both the Indies that had been begun fix years before, was enlarged with the priviledges of Gustaveburg. Yet the Emperians take this year Frankford into possession; And the Duke of Saxony endeavoured to recover it, but all in vain.

But in the year 1634, both parties feem to bestirr themselves, although not with a like successe; for the Swedes overcome Alfatia, and likewife the Bavarians that were about to help wiltzburg. Also the conspiracy of Selestade was discovered to the Swedes. And besieging Rheinsfield, they take it, putting the Emperians to the iword. Philippiburg is yielded to Smidberger on Janu. the 10th; which place, the French did much defire for himself. In the mean time, Horn is busied in Silesia, where the Emperour's forces take Wartenberg by surrender, but Namslave by force. But Drandorf is beaten. Altenburgick moveth into Alfatia, and vanquisherh Eudissine, Gorleie, and having the upper hand of Arnheim, he flew 4000, and took 1400; also Clogove, and other places, whose religious rices the Emperians do change. Frankford at Viader cometh into the power of the Swedes. Crossa, to Bannier being furnished with twenty thousand Souldiers. There- to 1638. upon there is peace infifted upon at Licomerice, but in vain. Hirsberg is for saken and burned by the Emperians in the moneth of July of this year. But the Swedes having the upper hand throughout Swethland and the upper Palatinate, Dubabell maketh the Bavarians flee out of Chame. In the same year also, Vinarien beflegeth Forcheym; and the Duke of Saxony, Sittave. Horn also taketh Aicha; also Bannier breaketh into Bohemia, though to no purpose, while both Vinarien and Horn hasten to secure Ratisbone. And about this time, the highest power of managing the War, was committed unto the Elector of Saxony throughout both his Circles. Steinford being subduced, Boninghause is put to flight, while as in the mean time, Gustave, kinsman of King Gustavus is made a powerful Lord of Osnabrugense, and there brings in the religious rites of the Protestants. Then also the lower Saxony held an Assembly at Halberstade, and decreeth to take up arms in their own defence. Then the Swedes crave ayd of the Hollander, and fo get the Masterdome. And among other tossings, Luna, (a Town in Herruria, so called from its marble Mines, shining like the Moon) was four times taken.

Moreover, the 14th of February, this year proved fatall unto Fridland the Emperour's Embassadour, and Captain of all his Souldiery, who (either undergoing envy, or through the malignity of a tongue at will, or too bitter and tharp a command, or through ambition of others, or through suspition of the Protestant Religion, not fincerely renounced) is, as it were, smelled out, and Galase put into his place, being about to passe over to the Protestant parties, is thrust thorow at Eger; in which day also Schafgetsch is laid hold of in Silesia, and in the year following beheaded, and Lamenburgick on the 16 day, who was ignorant of matters. But hereupon it came to passe, that the Emperour's warfare, untill that his fon the King of Hungary, the Captains requiring it, together with pay for the Souldiers, was put upon the Army, was but in an unfettled and floating condition.

So that the Count of Rhene in the beginning of March following kills 1500 of the Emperour's Souldiers in Alfatia: taketh Tanna Bellaford, and other places; and some surrender of their own accord: In the same Alsatia, the Argentines discovered Treason. And they burn the poylonsome person (if he were so) who did accuse the lefuites as the beginners of it in the year 1633. While the Swedes vanquish the Fort of Hunning, Horn as a Conquerour, subducth Bibrack, Campodune, and other places.

The King of Hungary, General of the Emperians, not idle, befiegeth Ratisbone, having stopped up the passages, whom Vinarien that was no body being turned from his Arms, vainly endeavoureth to break thorow: So that the City was yielded on the 16th of July following, unto him, and Kaufber a little after, whereby the Saxon is inclined unto a peace-making.

Anno 1632 of Christ, to 1633.

Vinarien was the author, that Philippiburg, which but lately was stoutly denyed, is delivered up to the French, whither he himfelf (having gathered together a scattered Souldiery at the lower Mænus, his other affairs being loft) came for help. The Spanish Oratour complaining to the Bishop of Rome concerning that furrender, having, it feemeth, an evil eye, as thinking it too good for him: received this answer, we must not envy a Brother., because a Stranger held it. Which words implyed a toleration of envy, even to a brother, in some cases. How far then was he from loving his enemies? Heidelberg is now yielded to the Em-

The Infanta of Spain at that time brought 6500 foot, and 1500 horse, at the intreaty of the King of Hungary; and besides many Towns taken through the Lower-Francony, got a victory at Nordlingon the 26 and 27 of August.

Oxienstern now seeing the fortunous hazard of the Swedes to be too largely spread, hath a meeting of the Protestants at Frankford in the moneth of March, and another at Worms, about the middle of November, where the Duke of Neoburg defireth to be excused as not to meddle with either party; and it is decreed amongst them, that Furstenberger and Geleene go unto Philip, (who in the Juliacan Mountain, and Berganian Field, mustred an Army) to defire ayds from the Hollanders: The while Herbipolis is made subject unto the Emperians, the City of Argentine resuseth the protection of the French, whether it were through fear of the one, or mistrust of the other's fidelity; The Landgrave of Hassia is put to Hight at Hirsfield; The Ligistians go into Wetterave. where they obtain Braunefelse, who yielded themselves willingly; but two Towns, Fridberg and Buding, they take by force.

But in Belgium also, or the Low-Countreys, there were no small preparations of War made, in the year 1632. For the Hollanders on the 21 of May take Venloe, and afterwards nearer places into their possession. They also confirm the continuance of the fiege of Trajectum, at Mole, and ftop 140 Waggons of provision of victual of the enemies. They give Papenheim the Emperian Commander, (who was flain, not long after Gustave) a valiant repulse, and after the surrender of the said Trajectum, they fubdue also Limburg and other places. Also the 15th of October following, Orfoy, when as in order to the work, william of Nassaw had from the beginning seised upon some Munitions between Answerp and Bergusbzome.

Moreover, the year after, which is 1633, while they contend with the Spaniard, Auriack or Orange besiegeth Rheinberck, and taketh it, the Spaniards fortifying the Island of St. Stephen so called; but in the mean time, william of Naslaw in lieu of it snatcheth away quickly Stellate and Philippine.

This year also the Hollanders make large progresses into the West-Indies, and suffer a most grievous overslowing of waters; but then again to make up their loffes, they fratch two ships out of the East, (were they not our Merchant-men coming Fome? wi.o. it's more than probable, were thrown over-board by them for the pelfs fake) with fixty Tuns of gold.

Also in the year 1644, these Hollanders they vanquished the Fortresse of great Rivum in the other Western World: They receive three thips from Guiny, bringing 1944 pound weight of gold, they possesse the head of Augustine; they chastize the Pyrates of Menaphis: They bring the Island called Paccuvia, Volbecce being their Leader, under the yoak. Then they receive seven ships out of the East-Indies, they possesse the Island where there is the best Indian salt, they quickly take Paraibas, a most famous place. And all this, to adde to a worldly treasure.

In Turky, the Sultan (Amurath, or Emperour of the Turks), Uzref the Bashaw being removed from his voyage, joyns in a Truce with the Persian, although young, he comming to reign after his Grandfather, and then brings back his torn Armies, in the year 1632, in which year also his American Navy is cast away, to the number of ten ships, with the High Admirall and Ammirall besides, he lost 1500 Sea-men of War. Also the unlimited power of this Tyrannicall Monarch, hanged with a Halter a Merchant of the Venetians, in the year 1634. who had (as it were) defiled his Concubines Pallace with a Prospective-Glasse; as also the Muphti, that is, the High-Priest, which was a very rare thing, he being accounted even his corrivall, giving no more honour to him then he to him: but his greatest brother flipt into Italy, and is made a young beginner in the Bishop of Romes devotions, although perhaps little the better for it, and fearfe worth the pains of his travell; for what difference is there (as to commend to God) between a Titular Christian, and a professed Mahometan ?

In Poland at affemblies held for divers matters in 1632. as beating back the Muscovite, restraining the Tartars, making a lasting peace with the Swede, for chusing a new king in the room of Sigifmund (who dying April the 9th, 1632, was buried the 14th of Jan. 1643. Uladiflaus who was chosen the year before, being crowned the 27 day of the same January 1643) the Emperour, defiring and from them, was denyed it, the States not confenting thereto. So good is a curb to unlimited power, that by the will and pleasure of one, a multitude may not suffer. And the Emperour the year following (being it seemeth put to his shifts) beheadeth eleven Captains, and hangs as many, because of a battle that they had lately deferted.

While these ruines were working abroad, some Great ones in England, who were then in peace, not foreseeing trouble, attempted divers matters as emblems of prosperity, amongst which, was the repair of Paul's Cathedral in London, which began in 1632, the chief author being william Laud then Bithop of London: wherein not onely vaste sums of money were exhausted; buralfo, through the toyliomnesse of the work, many poor men exhausted their strength in drawing up huge stones from the water side like horses: But before this magnificent Temple could be finished, the faying of Ecclefiastes overtook it, There is a time to build, and a time to plack down.

In this year also on the eleventh of February, happened that lamentable and grievous fire on London-Bridge, which (by the judgment of many) had not the hand of God been feen in the fudden turning of the wind, (which before drave it toward the City) when it came to the bottome of Fish-Street-hill, would have proved the desolation of London, there being so much fit suell in the adjacent ftreet for the fire to feed upon. As London then escaped agreat, and fince, no small dangers; so let her take heed of abusing too too much her breathing time, and day of Visitation: For though either Places, Person, or Persons, have been once and again delivered, yet they cannot fing a perpetuall safety unto themselves. For we see that Charls the late King, (who when he went, in his Princedome, with Buckingham into Spain, being in no small danger, is said to have kisfed English ground as a token of his fafe arrivall); and afterwards in the ninth year of his reign 1633. (in which year he went into scoiland and was Crowned) hardly escaped the hands of one Arthur a Dominican Frier of Spain, from being murthered by him) after many toffings and tumblings, hopes, and fears) went headleffe to his Grave, not dying a natural death.

Also in the year 1632, Lord Wentworth, afterwards Earl of Strafford, was made Deputy of Ireland, and the year following, 1633, September the ninetcenth, William Laud carried up from the London-See, to the Arch-bishoprick of Canterbury. But if the one had been then made but Justice of the Peace, (as he afterwards faid, when too late, he should defire to be no higher) and the other but Parson of some private Parish; whatever weight the lesse might have layen on their Souls, yet in regard of their bodies, an untimely death might have been prevented; for that of the Historian is many times verified. Ubi maxima fortuna, ibi minima licencia; That is, where there is the greatest worldly fortune, there is the least liberty.

The year following 1634. (besides divers Pattents and Monopolies of Commodities in the Land, that had been granted to divers particular men under the Kings broad Seal) Noy Atturney Generall to the faid King of England, fer on foot the Tax of Shipmoney, thinking thereby to do his matter good fervice; but the event proved quite contrary, for it being an unpresidented thing; Esquire Hambden, esteemed by many a good Common-Wealthsman, refused to pay, and maintained a fuit against the King, bringing the Case to Triall in Westminster Hall, whereby the people of the Nation were the more incited, as opportunity ferved, to vindicate what they believed to be their liberties. This Atturny Noy died the very same year, the ninth day of August, after.

An Account of Time. Cap. 1.

The King of France, in the year 1632, in his progresse from the Mountain Pessula, was afflicted with a Rormy Tempest of three dayes, and on the fourth of October, being almost under the 1638. open Ayre without covert, the waters of two Rivers meeting together, he was hardly pluckt out of them, but 116 persons of his company were loft, with the Kings houshold-stuffe: God is (we see) no respecter of persons.

Also the Duke of Lorrain this year, who was alwaies of the Austrian party, is beaten by the Argentines; he also (on fundry occasions) falls into the displeasure of the French King, and is oftentimes reconciled again. Things of light substance are soon hot, soon cold.

This year also in Gothe, 600 houses, with the Temple of the Lady Margaret, are destroyed by fire; And the Isle of Malta in 1634, is defaced by the flame; and the houses of the Venetians, with some Warehouses, or Corrages do burn.

But on the Tower of Stockholm, in Swethland, at the very same space of time that they fought the pitched battell at Luifa, and night now comming on, was feen two maids, the one bearing 2 burning Torch, the other a handkerchief, or neckerchief cast abroad. Likewise every one of the doors of the Tower, opened thrice of their own accord. A River of an indifferent eminency, for the space of a whole day was dry, that men might passe over dry-shod. And lastly, in Smaland, the bells of their own accord founded. All which things, the iffue proved to be fore-tokens of their Kings death.

That we may look a little back on the affairs of Germany, Vinarien in the year 1635, on the very beginning of January, passeth over the River Menus with 12000. Souldiers into Wetterave; then the Lievtenant of the Tower being besieged, delivereth up Herbipolie unto Gotze. But not long after, Bamberger of the Emperian party recovereth it again, and Philippiburg ( which the French had but the year before taken by a stratagem). Whereupon Oxenstern, and Vinarien, with Granse the French Ambassadour, do enter into new consultations about matters, at win begmes and in the mean time, by the law of requitall, they had news brought them, that Braunfelfe was come likewise under their power by a fratagem. The King of Hungary having gathered together no lesse then 23000, indeed suffered some losse at Altorp ; but yet Spira being surrendred, he makes a bridge over Rhene, and troubleth Heydelburg. Where the Swedes did recover (Oh the uncertainty of humane affairs!) Spira for the French; then the Emperians come in a hostile manner out of wetterave, and Hase, into Rhingare. And in the mean time the Count of Embden, by the help of Metternich, takes Trevire into possession. And Galasta Subdueth Augusta of the Vinbdolians by Starving it, but Lamboy, Coburge by force, and the French take for his part, the Telline Valley, (the place, whence Joane called the maid of Orleance, came to the relief of Orleance, when belieged by Henry of England, as was specified above in the Account) at unawares.

The Duke of Neoburg, whether through fear, or love of peace, carneftly defires, in the midst of these shakings, to stand as a Neuter, but it seemsthat would not be suffered; for Lunæburgick the Swedish Commander, at the Mountain of the Rape-roots, fets down with his befiegers on July the twentieth, before Neoburg; and on the 30th day of the same Moneth, it made surrender unto

But (neverthelesse) the affairs of the Swedes were to be bewailed, and fad; So that Oxenstern goeth away unto the French, and the Swedes had almost solemnized the Sicilian Vespers of Mentz, unto the French King. Banner (at this time) had perished or suffered loffe by the laying in wait of Stalman: notwithstanding the Legion of Deckenfield (which is a number of Souldiers confifting of 6200 foot, and 730. horse, is overthrown. Weide is taken, and Mansfield paffeth out of the Colonian field into Wetterave, yet not without Diminishment. So that by this means the Duke of Neoburg, as well by forces and strength, as words, recovereth his own again.

The Emperour also at or about the same time, in the year 1635, calls an assembly at Semprone. Where he requires a great sum of Money, under more then one pretence, for the carrying on his defigns and atchievements, and (either out of simple zeal and love to them, or mixed with Policy, the more easily to accomplish his desire) decreeth the Temples to be restored unto the Catholiques (so called) that were built by their Ancestors; and there receiveth Elfy, Fridlands Chancellour, (who it appears had been estranged before upon his masters account) into favour. He also strikes a peace (being first well weighed) of the Empire with the Duke of Saxony at Pirnedrefde, he garnisheth and strengthneth the same peace, the seditious rude ones of Styre being first appealed, and tamed by his Commander Swartzburg, on the twenty ninth and thirtieth of May, at Prague, (for all this fair weather of Imperiall correspondency in the forementioned particulars) he being inrereded with by the Saxon in the behalf of the Silesians, as touching a favourable toleration in their Religious Rites, (fuch is the obstinacy of blind devotion) remains unmoveable. Of which also the Pope was joyful, and had a defire to pacify the French.

This peace made, and confirmed at Prague, many or most of the States of Prague like of, and accept; Notwithstanding (old friends being loath to part) the Swedes cannot be fent away from the Saxon, even after a long disputation, and the endeavour of the Megapolitane, yea, although the Emperour had written an Order for the withdrawing of the Warfare. But is the Saxons were upon going, so other supplies came in the room: for Vinarien goes against Galase, beyond Sare, and being increased in number through fresh supplies of the French, had beat back Galasse, but that Landfall had afforded succour to this, and terrour to the other. However he freeth Mentz from besleging, and frames of Chest, a bridge, attempting some other matter. But in his return to 1638. through Wester unto Metis, Galasse following after him, although below him in forces, he gives him an overthrow, yet at Sare he passeth not over without slaughter, and in a French field, refresheth his tattered Army. To speak of all particular passages, would be too tedious, and not agreeable to the former Account. But then, above eighty thousand of the Emperians, under the command of three Captains, Galasse and Grane, with the Duke of Lorrain, were seen ready to invade France, and encamping at Mafer and Ramber vill of Lorrain, they, with the French, and also Vinarien, are tormented with hunger. And at that time the Lorrainer destroyeth no less than 400 Villages on the borders of Frances with Fire.

Craze also (who in the year 1633, was offended and offensive to Fridland) in this year 1635. in the Moneth of May followes him even in the same kind of death, with the Sword, (Thus death ends thefe Earthly Controversies). And one Scaffgith eight daies after, followed him, both at Vienne: where also in the same Moneth, a horrible Tempest with Lightning burnt the Scotch Tower unto the Stones, and with the fervency of the flame, melted the Bells. The Saxon (being of a friend become an enemy) about the same time. iovneth together with the Emperours forces at Sandave in Silefia.

So that in the year following 1636. in divers places there was cruell and raging war on both fides. For Kniphufe his weaponse the Swede, and the weapons of Ludersbeyme the Emperian, glittered, and made westphalis to shine; and on the very first day of 12nuary, do afflist one another with mutuall flaughter and defire-Ction. Then Cratesteyn of Kniphuse, and Geleen of Ludersbeyme, undergo the same changes, and take their warlike turn. Also one Klitfing was not wanting in his endeavours for the Emperours parry, who notwith standing being unprosperous in battel, leads away into Silefia, and was forced to deliver up the Province unto Gace.

Bannier, a loft, carrieth about the chief of the Swedish Arms, and fuddenly paffeth over the River Albis, and making four affaults on Barbye, at the fifth onset takes it; He subdueth Misne. Yet (that he might not boast too much) he yieldeth two Legions (no lesse) unto Baudiffine the Saxon (with whom Hatsfield, together with ulefield, had joyned the Emperian Auxiliaries) to be beaten. So allo Magdeburg is loft to him, with Bernburg, whilft that he overthroweth Isawlisk at Sandersleve, and takes the Fort of winfenne; But departing in a more calm manner through Marchia, at Wittiflock, he obtains a plentifull Victory of the Saxons and Emperians, or Saxons turned Emperians, where about the middle of September, he scattered them, took away all their Guns, Carriages, Bag, and Baggage, and quitted them of the field. From hence he goAnno 1632 of Chrift, to 1638.

eth away to scourge Thuringe, and at the length, in the heighth of December threatning Erford with fire and Sword, he obtains it. When as he besiegeth Mansfield, the which made not surrender untill the year 1639, in the Moneth of Aprill, he chafed the Saxons running thither to help it; and moreover he added Naumberg, and Torgave, with other places unto a heap of Victories.

The Duke of Saxony (to make yet hotter work) calls forth his Countreymen that stayed behind (by a publique Letter) out of the Swedish Camps, and together with the Emperians, he recovereth Havelberge, and Ratherave, and after the firengthening of the Garrisons of Pomerania, he calls away Marazine, and so granteth his Army and their enterprises unto the Emperour, to be pasfed over into the hand of Hatsfield. And then the Emperour thought a little after, in requitall of the French) as we may suppose) to invade France, and to extend the sear of war beyond the bounds of Germany, to which end he had proclaimed affemblies for Election of Officers. Wherefore the Lorrainer makes affault on Burgundy, where the Prince of Condy being at the fiege of Dole (at his approach) betakes himself unto a voluntary flight: and alfo four of the Emperours Commanders, Galaffe, Lamboy, Merce, and Isolane, trouble French-Burgundy, untill Vinarien, being joyned with Valettane, the French Commander, taking Rambervill, and fome other places first, scattered the Emperians, whereby they were called back again, without doing any thing that might be faid worth their labour, and fo fit down at Drufenheyme, at the lower Alfatia, which is on the left bank of Rhene, onely befieging Hagenoe by the way.

This year also the Emperour gave a Tartarian Embassadour a hearing, who promises him aids, though undetermined what; but he kept him from his Countrey, either as a sawcy Guest, or an enemy.

He alloweth also the Garrison of uraflave for desence unto our Earl of Arundell, going over this year, in the name of the Brittain King, to require a restoring of the Palfgrave: he had a courteous hearing at Lince, but more courteously sent away; words and complements are but Wind. Was he ere the sooner restored?

Geleen runs in the year 1637, with evil successe upon wrangle, and Funce bends into Silesia, that he might oppose wrangle, who endeavoured to compasse custime; and in the mean while Banier was necessive to forsake Lipsia, that was ready to yield, because Hatssield, Galasse, and Gaze being sent for, ran thither, out of the Jenian ground that had been laid waste. He takes a Fort that lay against Wittemberg-bridge, (although (the ball being so tessed on both sides) he held it scarce two moneths space) that he might draw back the Emperians from Ersord; the which the Saxon supposed was wholly besieged. But at Torgave he is encompassed compassed with no lesse than ninety five thousand Warriours; And yet, (see how discord weakeneth!) through the contention of the besiegers, he slips forth, even to Landsberg and Cultrine. The Saxon bestirring himself, makes (what by force and policy) a Fort and two other places his own, while the Emperians vanquiss three more, Wolgast, Damnine Town, and Luneburg, a Field-Commander; but Bannier stronger than he, retakes Werbene Fort from the Saxons, afterward being partaker of a supply from Wolline, he had escaped, drawing after him 30000, and at last goeth in an afflicted condition into Silessa. Thus the Proverb is sulfilled, Tours to day, and Ours to morrow.

Before I go any farther, let me take notice of a Comet that in 1633 hung over Barcelona's head, in shape like a Launce. If any thing of that kind fignifie, surely a sad token; especially being of such an unusual and warlike form; so that we may adde to that this, How much more, like a Launce when he doth spread?

Also of three Marriages solemnized, the one in 1634,by Christian the 5th of Denmark, King, with Magdalene Sybill daughter to the Duke Electour of Saxony, at Coppenhague, on the 5th of October; the other the year following 1635,atVienna, where Maximilian Duke, Elector of Bavaria took to wife, Marian of Austria, the Emperour's fister. Also uladistaus King of Poland in 1637, couples to himself Civill Renate the Arch-Dutchess, at Vienna, his brother representing him. In which year also a Plague passed through all Germany, with the United Provinces of the Low-Countreys. Hot Anger.

Which Polander had, on the third of January this year 1635, entred into Thuronia, and Gurde the Swede hath under his banners fixty thousand footmen, and four thousand horsemen, in Borussia, and was attentively heedful on his opportunity; but a peace comes in between them, in the height of July, for a league of twenty four years. But how I pray was this league kept? have they not fought since? What them was this great shew for? Nay, is not the Swede at this day preparing for fear of him, and the 24 years are not yet up? All this then was little better than

The King of France with fourty thousand men went up a bill, and so came down agen.

Yet this it appears, Polands peace, afforded a very ravenous mercenary homebred Souldier both to the Swede and Emperour, fome taking one fide, fome another, according to their loofe affections, or where was best pay; and hereupon the King of Hungary bekkk 2 bestiegeth Anne 1632 of Christ, to 1638.

fiegeth, Heidelberg, Hannove, and other places, his father the Emperour takes Lutrea by force and flaughter, Landstull by craft.

But the French King (great danger accompanying great worldly honour) was laid in wait for, in 1635, at three feveral places, Paris, Nance, and Abbevil, but the adversaries attempts were frustrated; whereupon three were committed to a flavish impriforment Pylaurence, Fargyfe, and Monpenfer: Having proclaimed war against the Spaniard, amongst other atchievements, he overcometh him at Hoy (Castilion being General there) with an extraordinary advantage, there being 5000 of the Spaniards, and but 100 of the French flain: there were also taken then by the French, three of great note, Ferian, Charls of Austria, and Ludro, besides twelve Captains, who afterwards, two of their keepers being by reward corrupted, made an elcape. And in the year 1637, they make great preparations against the triumphing scorn of their enemies; and the French King maintains the two lil inds of Margaret and Honoratus (being it feems of great concernment to his affairs) with great might and main. The Emperour's forces also invading Burgundy, he drives them out of that Province, where he vanquisheth the Temple of [Love] so called. Love indeed is alway conquered; but doth not conquer, where the fword bears fway. But from the Rhetians he heard no good news, for two reasons, because the Souldiery was not paid off; and (no wonder) because the Roman devotions were brought back again, with a suppression of those of a centrary opinion, the Duke of Rhoan much labouring therein.

The English King frames a huge Fleet in 1637, as it was then faid, for restraining, or subduing the Sea. But whether there might not be some other end in it; for he intercedes that year with the Empereur, in the behalf of the Palatinate; And (it feems the Spaniards were then in the English books ) makes a stop of the Hollanders at Plymouth, for spoyling the Spaniards. Again he trimms and prepares a Navy in 1637, and twas queftioned by fome, whether to restore the Paligrave by foul means, feeing fair would nordo? or to subdue his own subjects upon occasion at hand? We may think the latter; for after that Burton, Pryn, and Bastwick had received their last Centure from Archbishop Land in the Star-Chamber, (for the two last of these had been censured before in 1634, Febr. 12th.) on Jan. the 14th of this year 1637; (for writing against the pride and corruption of Prelates; scourging with a tharp Pen Stage-Players and their abettors; speaking against men given to change from better to worse, according to that expression in the Proverbs, by turning inward sincerity into outward Ceremonies : which word Ceremony, takes its derivation either from the Latine word Carendo, because they are least wanted; or from the Greek, its raigor pissers, that is, to

brought in place of the true worthip;) and on the 30th day of the fame January had stood in the Pillory and lost their ears, and afterward were sent away remote from London, and from each other, as was thought, unto perpetual imprisonment. And not onely in England, but about six moneths after sending a book of Liturgy, so called, into Scotland, to be imposed on them, that were generally less able to bear it: and thereupon the Scots sifts Petitioning the King against it in the October following, and the same moneth entring into a Covenant against that and such other things; the King (in whose name and authority all things were carried on) might well see a storm arising, and so make preparation; which, although, at first, it was but as Eliah's cloud, like a man's hand, yet it grew to such an over-flowing scourge, as both Nations have since most fadly experienced.

The Spaniard, amongst the rest, keeps doing; he besiegesth Philippine (that he had lost in 1633) in 1635, yet to no purpose; yet as he gets not that: So he renders the siege of Leody by Orange and Cassilion, void. He loseth of his Neapolitan Navy, by a tempost, sine Oar-Galleys, sisteen bigger ships, with fix thousand men of war, this year: and at Lisbone ten Gallies with Oars, and 30 sayling Vessels, with 6000 men of war.

The Dutch warr but flowly this year 1636; but in 1637, although they loft Greffling Fort by subtilty, it being, as it were, wrang out of their hands, yet they, after they had attempted Hulst, besiege Bredah with labour and difficulty, and constrain the Spaniards to yield, being nothing discouraged at the loss of Venlo. To cheer their hearts, they hear about this time good news from Nasave, that they had sent before into America, and receive great ships laden with Gold, Ivory, Copper, Pepper, Sugar, and Scarlet wood.

But the Turks and Persians also contend (in 1635) in battel; the Turks took the Town called Rava, from the Persians, not by storm, but surrender; and in the battel were slain 90000 Turks, 20000 Persians; and yet the Turk was the Conquerour, because the more numerous. Then he burns four Villages belonging to Buda, and kills fifty poor mortals, and carryeth away seventy into slavery; when as the moneth of August before he had almost burn'd down Buda it self with fire. Behold the desolations of the Earth, for want of the King of Peace to rule!

Before I conclude this Chapter, I cannot but take notice of fome remarkable Prodigies and Accidents that fell out in divers places in 1634, and 1635: An Eagle at Frankford of Menus, cast down in a leaden bowl. England shook and trembled, about London, a Marsh there beyling with black waters, &c. At Torrune, water turn'd into bloud. At witteberg it rained brimstone; with divers other like. There fell Hail of three pound weight in a field of Darmsade, in 1636. At Paris in their religious Pilgrimages, a bridge brake as they passed over, thirty were choaked, eighty hurt. At Dusselloop three hundred barrels of Gunpowder took fire in a house, and laid fifty adjacent houses level;

all the people thereof had almost somehurt: and a brasse Gun is cast abroad, off from a bullwark that was on the other side the River Rhene; in 1635, an Earthquake in Meffina, the Vesuvian Mountain is again in a flame; and at the latter end of this year the Swedes loft 30 ships by a storm. There was also great companies of forreign birds, and madnesse of dogs at Straubinge. And lastly, (which is almost incredible, yet all things are possible unto God) one Daniel Becker telleth of a man whose name was Andrew Grunheyd, living in a place called Grunevald, seven miles from the City Regiment, who on the 29th day of May, 1635, going about to cast out his nauseousnesse, or that which he had a desire to vomit up, before noon, lets a knife into his throat, to that end, above the breadth of ten fingers in length, and suffering it to slip out of the tops of his fingers, it flicking there fast, nor fliding back again, although he were lifted upright on his head; moved it forward by drinking Beer or Ale. The Physitians of Regiment come to this man on the 9th of July following, which was above five weeks after, and they open his skin, tieth, and stomach it felf, they draw out the knife, and restore the mangled, wounded man to health, who also afterwards married, and begat Children.

There is a time to live, and a time to dye; Death [aquo pede pulsat pauperum tabernas, Regumq; turres, knocks alike at Princes Pallaces, as Poor mens Cottages. There dyed in the year 1632, Maurice Lantgrave of Heffe, Sigismund the third, King of Poland, as abovefaid. Leopold Arch-Duke of Austria. Tilly, the Emperour's General at Ingolstade of a wound; also Papenheim, another of his Captains, in the battel at Lutzen, where the King of Sweden, Gustavus, was slain: As also Nicolas Horn one of his Captains dyed; the Durchess of Lorrain, Couzen-german to the Empresse; Charls Prince of Spain. Also Frederick Electour Palatine on the 19th of November, with others. John Casimir, Duke of Saxony, the 16th of July, 1633, departed from the living, whose brother John Ernest succeded him. Famous Isabel, called Governesse of Belgium, Novemb. 21. Ulrick fon of the Danish King, by lyings in wait in Silesia. Lunaburgick, at Cella, &c. James Dubald, who was a faithfull General of the Swedes, at Silefia. The Archbishop of Bremes. Otto Ludowick Count of Rhene, who fell fick through croffing a River, and fear of an approaching enemy; these three in 1634, with others. Moreover, two brothers of the King of Poland fulfilled their dayes in 1635. Casimir of Padua; and Alexander of Misse; Frederick Nisse Counfellour to the Emperour's Court, in 1636. But in the year 1637, on the Nones of Febr. Ferdinand the second, Emperour of Germany, being in the 59th year of his age, after all firings, dyed of a Dropsie, that is, a waterish disease, in the the 19th year of the Empire; in which year also danger of death, as he was going to Prague, is threatned to him by an Italian privy murtherer. November, as above in the Account; or on the 17th of October, as others, in 1632. Five Tribunes or Maiors, with other Governours, and eight Senatours were beheaded at Pilsene by the Emperour, in 1634, about the businesse of Fridland; but sour Maiors separated or pardoned by favour. Likewise this year the Governour of Fridberg was beheaded, for yielding up a Cattle. Also Schaffgotfeh (as abovefaid) and Schaffenberg were beheaded by the Emperour in 1635. Finally, at Rome, the Marquess of Bolognien was beheaded for Libels or little books spread abroad, and his houshold-servants hanged, in 1636.

CHAP. II.

Of warlique Pasages and other memorable things that fell out in Germany, Britain, and other parts; Ferdinand the third being Empercar, and Charls the first, King of England.

From the year of Christ 1638, to 1642.

 $\mathbf{F}^{\it Erdinand}$  the fecond being deceafed; the year following, 1638, The Swedish party (whether through the force of warlique valour, or partly occasioned by the Emperour's death) proceeded against their Adversaries with great successe. For both the Duke of Vinarien returning fuddenly and unthought of out of Burgundy, unto Rhene; and also a little after, the Swedish forces being brought back unto the Baltick Sea, performed divers noble Exploits.

The occasion of his sudden return thither, was the news that he heard, of about 14 Brigandines, or Coats of crust of clay made to cast off the water, that were placed in Rhenes banks, to have yielded through the power of werth. After his coming, he befieged Rheinfield, and fighting his enemies in two battels, being overcome, at length he overcometh, and took prisoners of war, werth, Enkford, Spereusea, Frustenberger, with other Captains, and Savell, who deceived his keepers, by flipping away in an old womans habit: unto this place, by incredible enforcement of endeavour, and conquest, he subdueth Fridburg, a Town or City of Brisgove, and he laid traps for Brifack Lord of the Rhene, to hinder it from provision, in as much as he knew the old store of victual was beflowed on the Army, and that himself might be able to stop the new. Whereupon two great Emperian Commanders, Gate, and the Duke of Lorrain run to help; but both with ill luck and flaughter:

flaughter: of which also Lamboy putting in for an opposer, made himself a partaker. And both parties (what about bringing in victual, destroying a bridge, and spoyling and overthrowing each others Camps) fought most sharply, for the space of 4 moneths, with a doubtful event of War and loffe; but the Vinurne Duke kept them folong in play, untill that most fortified place, through most cruel famine, of which one thing alone, (and that enough) it knew the force, came to yield. But this place cost hot water, confuming on both fides, above 80000 men: and fpent the Conquerour of the Imperialists 1100000 pounds; which charge or principal summe, neverthelesse, being taken, my author tells me, it restored with a most large usury. Then at the aforesaid Biltick Sea; these Swedes were altogether dreadful to their enemies, both defensively and offensively: For they couragiously defind Rugge against the Emperour's forces: and having increased their own forces, wring (as it were) Gartise out of the hand of the Duke of Brandenburg; and from the Saxon Warbnian, Wolgast, befides a Caftle: and being fuddenly overcharged in their most wary legions, they, in a military fury, rifle or cast to the ground, or both, Malchine and Bernave.

While, or a little after, that the Emperour courted the King of Poland with fumptuous entertainment at Vienna, and most courteously receiveth the Duke of Saxony, with his sons at Leutmerice, sends an Embassage by Eggenberg unto the Bishop of Rome; and on the day before the Ides of December, undergoeth perill in bunting the vehement force of a wind throwing down Trees; the Duke of Lorrain fights stoutly, throughout Burgundy, Alfatta, and Lorrain; but partly (as may be well supposed) through his bearing ill-will to Gace, by reason of emulous strife, the mother of confusion, he is often beaten; whereby also the said Gaze being disarmed, was by Mansfield brought before the Duke of Bavaria to render an account of his ordering the warfare; and in which he gave him satisfaction. But the said Duke of Lorrain, ( who although he held Espinal and other places, that were judged to be of great concernment, either to withdraw from or overcome Vinurn at Brifack, yet he prevailed nothing, as above mentioned; Being himself dispersed at Thanne, was constrained to betake himself into a Wood, out of which (by a witty device, to wit, small ropes being made of shrubs, and hung upon every fide, by the light of fire-balls when they are cast) he by night brought forth all, one by one. There being also some Eccle siasticall tumult (as I may fo speak) about this time at Bremes, about a Cathedral, which their new Archbishop had given unto the lovers of his fect.

But the Swedish forces, the year following also 1639, lustily act Mars his part, when as the Emperour's forces did but little execution; for atter the Duke of Viburn had Brisack surrendred unto him, he takes Landiscrone, and mustering 11000, goes away into Burgundy to winter: neither was he there idle, but by great endeayour endeavour subducth Pontarly, and almost all Eurgundy, he takes into possession the narrow passages, even unto Mortave, and obtaineth the Castle of Jaux, the losse of which the Lievtenant or to 1642. Governour purged away with the losse of his head; the Spaniard also a long time after besieging it, but in vain. And at length Thane, (with two Temples of Hippolytus and Claudius) where the Lorrainer had been scattered, being subdued, recruiting his Army, he fets foreward for upper Germany, but foon breathed his last, as is thought, by poylon. Whereupon the top of affairs was committed to the guidance of four persons, Erlach, Otto Earl of Nassaw, Rose, and Ocheme; whom, that the French King (who it feemeth stood in as much, or more need of the Swedes friendship and affistance, than the other did of his) might make his own, (whether they loved him not, or suspected him) he encounters them with a great summe of Money, and reneweth his League with the States of High-Germany, also a Generall of the Army being added in Vinurne's room. But in the mean time these four Directours draw down unto the lower parts, where they pofscfle Bungye, Oppenheyme, with other places, and passing over the River Rhene, meeting with Geleen the Emperian, are beaten by him in Rhingave; from whence going unto the land of the Archbishop of Triers, or Trevira, by reason of the enmittees of Capitulum, which being a City in Italy, I cannot learn what the ground of that enmity should be, they use it in a hostile man-

That I may not exceed the nature of this Account, let me include Bannier's, with other Swedilb exploits of this year 1639, in few words. Theone, not preferring Lipsia, takes Zwiccave Chemnice, and Altenburg into his possession, also attempting Freyburg again and again, to no purpose; but he subdueth Pirnave, Aufige, and Leutimerice, with Tetischine Castle. Then being increased by Tortenson, gets a victory at Chemnise, where he takes thirty foot, and twenty Horse Ensigns, besides Prisoners of War, and (pursuing his Victory) followes Frustenberger into Bohemia, he quickly inarcheth Melnise, and Brandife, he fights again, and takes EWO great Emperians, Hoffkirsh, and Montcucule. But withall he receiveth no small check, in seeing four legions (in snatching after all warlike necessaries) to be dispersed by the Hungarians; notwithstanding he conquers again at Johnsbrode; where, through lust or inordinate defire, his men had almost tumulted. While the other Swedish parties are bringing under wolflag, and Halle, wrangell a Major, comes to them with 300 men, having before fallen off unto the Duke of Brandenburg. Also Axel Lilly, subdueth Damnum, Hornburg, and Maurice his Caftle. Likewise other Captains take Burg dorffe, the Duke of Brandenberg his chief Captain, and Bernaue a Town, the second time. Then Koningsmart, conquering at Duderstade, makes that Town, together with Gleychensteyne, and Glettenburg, his own, yet being busied elsewhere, was thrown out of Bilefield. The Emperour performed little, therefore I will briefly recite his deeds. He calls Hatsfield into Bohemia, and conferreth the highest command on the Arch-Duke, he also encourageth the Saxon to subduc Pirnave, that Bannier had taken a little before, and he attempteth it often, but in vain, as also Alvville, yet, not unstoutly bestirring himself at Marburg, he brings his Grifons unto certain laws or conditions. The Emperour allo fends away the Duke of Brandenburg into Livonia, where his Men under the command of his Captain Hermanne Bottye are scattered, and Bottye himself taken. He commands George Duke of Lunaburg, to reftore him Hildesse; that Koningsmart had taken from him a little before. Being willing to be rid of Banniers company in Bohemia, he bids Ohre a Major to fet upon Oldendorp, that so the other might be necessificated to depart thence, for its relief. And lastly makes Leopold Willelme the Arch-Duke, chief Commander of his

'Tis high time to cast an eye upon the affairs of other Nations, and especially on Brittain, Brittain I say, which (being environed with the Sea, of to confiderable a bignesse, it being reputed, if not the greatest of all, yet save one, the greatest of lilands in the whole World, fo fertile for all kind of necessary fustenance, (with contentment) especially England, that its inhabitants may live of themselves, without the help of other Countries) is of a temperate climate, and to be accounted amongst the happiest of Regions; and which for a confiderable number of years, I do not find had been, to much as in any eminent perill of forreign enemies, unlesse'twere in 1588, by the Spanish Armado, nor but once in the jaws of death, by an undermining conspiracy of a Powder-Plot, in its own bowels, from both which it received a deliverance by a high hand of providence; Now about the year 1638, begins as was faid of Rome [ suis viribm ruere] to fall and undo it felf by its own strength : for (after the imposing of many Ceremonies by the English Bishops, the Book for sports, and the Pilloring and banishment of those three men, mentioned in the former Chapter, the Liturgy enjoyned to the Scottish Nation, and afterwards, on Aprill the eighth, 1638. John Lilburn aiyoung man fadly whipped at a Cartstail in London, and then pillored, chiefly for spreading books in Holland, or elsewhere in behalf of william Prin, and Doctor Baftwick, the Scots having first engaged themfelves by a Covenant, first are disturbed among themselves, (though with relation to what came from England) infomuch that the Marquesse Hamilton their own countreyman and very eminent amongst them, went into Scotland, on May the fixth, that by his personall presence, behaviour, threatning, or perswasion, he might appeale tumults that were there railed, and so prevent a

Hereupon without delay, the Englib King, who was King of all Britain and Ireland, refolving (with his nearest Counsellors, to affert and vindicate, what his Authority had before injoyned) raifeth an Army nearly proportionable unto the other, fortifying as well by Sea as land, and on the 27th of March, he Marched into the North against them. The Scots went forward to meet the King, though not with displayed banners, and comming in fight, as an humble token, that stubborn rebellion was not the cause of Arming, but rather a constrained necessity for defence and Vindication of their freedome, laid down their Arms on the ground before him. And when both fides were ready to joyn battell (Whether as not willing to frive with their fellow-subjects, or through a fear, at that time, pessessing them) the English denied to fight; fo that there was a necessity of a treaty with them, which began on the tenth of July following, and in eight dayes time was concluded, and the next day after, which was the 18th of July, the Armies began to be disbanded, the Scots had good conditions from the King, as with relation to their Covenant and charges, for such was the bent of their spirits in that businesse, that without those, they were refolvednot to retreat. When the cloud was over the King, foon returned to his house at Theobalds, for on the first of August following he came thither, and was at his Court at white-Hall, on the third day of the same Moneth. This year there were two Parliaments in Scotland, the one began on May the fifteenth, and diffolved by the King within a Moneths time; the other on August the one and thirtieth, which fate till Decemb, the 18th, and then was adjourned untill June the fecond following: I hear not of any great matter done by the first, the time was short; Nor by the second, unlesse it were to invade England the second time. There was alfo a Parliament summoned in Ireland this year, in the latter part of the year by the Earl of Strafford, upon his return into Ireland, who some few Moneths before, in August, had come into England, where he received that Title from the King. This Irifh Parliament, granted Strafford four subfidies indeed, but could do little good to that Common-Wealth, not being so happy, (through the cunning close concealment of the bloudily intended Irish) as to foresee and prevent that cruell and bloudy Tragedy, which in a Rebellion LII2

The French (Janus-like) in the year 1638, turn their faces with their weapons, two wayes; against the Spaniard, and also against the Lorrainer with the Emperour's forces. For the king of France fends the Prince of Conde with a great Army into Spain, who ferting upon a place called Fontarabe, is by the Spaniard beaten off from the fiege; yet fighting a hurtfull Sea-battel to both files, he gets the victory, at Genua in Italy; and then vanquitheth a small Castle of Piccardy. And in 1639, warring by land against the Spaniard, forceth Hefdin, a Town of theirs, to yield: but then Feekier besieging Theonsville, he is repaid with advantage, being Overthrown and taken by Piccolomine and Beckye. When he had besieged a fortified Temple of Audomare to no purpose 1638, he notwithstanding beat the Duke of Lorrain in Burgundy, the Duke of Longueville being chief Commander: Whereupon he vanquisheth two places, Polignye, and Arboese; And afterwards Danviller in the Territories of Lucemburg. Then there being a Conspiracy for the betraying, or at unawares taking the City of Metis or Metz in Gallo-Belgia, or French Germany (fo called, from Metim a Roman, who (this City being vanquished by Julim Cefar) enlarged and encompassed it with Walls; as the City Augusta, was named from Augustus that built it;) This French King fent Ayds so sufficiently scasonable (which is the chiefest of prudential time) unto the Duke of Vinum, that (before 'twas' too late) he hindred that from taking effect. And this year also France began to be too hot to hold the King's or Queen-Mother; King Lewis her fon not being pleased with her, the enmity against Ricelieu the Cardinal, it feems remaining; and the stir of her younger son the Duke of Orleance, she not disaffecting : So that the must return thorow Flanders, to the Hollanders, with much French suspition, and there not making much stay, came in the same year at the very latter end of October into England; which coming being even at the very time that the Scots began to arm, was judged by very many of the English, not a little to heighten, if not harden, Kingly opposition; which as it was increafed, so the animosity of many subjects there, having an antipathy against many things, was raised also: Contraries neven yielding willingly to contraries; but rather (as fire in the coldest weather which icorcheth most) take strength against each other. She staying about 9 or 10 moneths time here, returned (not into France) out of England, rather unto most more welcome, than when the came in; and not very long after departed life.

The young Palatinate this year 1638, obtaining some help from the English King his Uncle, musters a Souldiery, and gets to himfelf Meppene, a Town in weltphalia; but Hatsfield the great Imperial Commander, scatters and put him to flight; and withall, takes his brother Robert, who was in the engagement: but he obtaining his liberty from the Emperour in the year 1641, the King of England himself had employment for him and his younger brother Octaurice, in carrying on his War (as chief Commanders) to 1643. against the Parliament. And then (as an addition to the Actions of the Emperour's Forces this year) the faid Hatsfield subdueth

Vella, a strong place, with labour and toyl.

But the Spanish King also amongst the rest, strikes, this year, on both sides of him: for he on the one hand contends in Italy, and overcometh three places, Breme, Vercella, and Pomara; and in the I disean field, Kerper. On the other hand, he fights with the Duce, with the like overthrow; for he punishern them, most gricvoully at Antwerp, whither he defends the Calloane Fort, and Geldre most valiantly to their losse. And being some-body at Sea, as well as at Land, calls his Duke of Modena High-Admiral of three Scas. But (as a curb to a high spirit) the same year, in the very Haven of Texel, fourty of his thips perished by a tempest. But in the year following, 1639, Bellona or warlique affairs imiled upon him throughout Piedmont, a Province of the French: for the Spaniards make first of all the Camp of Gregui and Crescence their own; then after that, the French, to withstand them, joyning themselves together in the Suburbs of Taurine, fought the Spaniard; but although the bamle was doubtfull enough, yet the Spaniard added to the other two, the place called Villa Nova, or New Village, with three other Towns. And made Trine, a Town rich both in provision and plunder, yea and Taurine it felf, with its Castle, besides two other places, to obey him as a Conquerour. The French King on the contrary, left he should feem to do nothing against his enemy, by two Leaders posses seeing fleth four places, Chivaje, and Salfa in the County of Rossilion, by the Prince of Conde : Lared and Anthonie's Temple, at the Cantabrian Ocean in Bilcay, by the Bilhop of Burdegale, (whether through valour or policy) he overcometh; and also quickly snatcheth away two thips of Spain laden with great spoyls. At length both of them tafted the feat or state of warlique weapons in Italy, the which was so wearyed with toffings and tumblings to and fro, that at the latter end of the year Salfa was again yielded to the Spaniard, Who doing displeasure to the Trajectines of the River Mose by Sea, felt the force of the Dutch Fleet in a Sea-fight at Dankirk to his dammage, Martin Trump being Conquerour; and toward the end of this year 1639, in a far more fierce one, a far greater losse; the Spaniard of 50 ships saving but 15: The two Navies pitching on the English Coast, the English interrupted them.

While these things were acting in Europe, the Turks in Asia vanquithed Babylon in 1639, which was defended by the Persians untill the Besieger slew 40000 of the besieged, but who certainly knoweth what he himself lost? This grand Sultan Amurath appoints a Navy to go, as far as the red Sca, against the Coffacks, and runs toward Breger in Hungary, devouring the prey; notwithstanding the Plague being in the City Aleppo, makes

That I may infert a grain of Hony amongst so much Gall, we may take notice, that in the year 1638, in a piece of ground belonging to Hungary, at the greater Waradine, amongst the rubbish of a burying Chappell destroyed by Bethlem Prince of Tranfilvania, there was a treasure found, with a pert-mantle or some fuch thing, with a diamond in bigneffe of a hens egg. I find also three eminent marriages folemnized in these two years: one whereof was between Francis Charls Duke of Lawenburg, and the widow of Bethlem Gabor the foresaid Translovanian Prince, who dying in the year 1636, (I must recede a little) new troubles arose in Transylvania; after that, one Ragotzy enjoyed the affairs. Salymye of Bethlem's family gathering 2000 Souldiers and more, in opposition of him, &c. Thus much in the general. And it is credibly reported, that in the same Transylvania, there is a visible Church, who maintain their orderly succession of Ordinances from the Apostles times, by an administrator of baptism, withour intermission. Be it so: yet what is a succession of the form, without the life and power they lived in?

Also of two male-children born into the world; for which there is joy to the travailing mothers of the one to the Duke of Bavaria, Jerome by name, on the day before the Kal. of O&ob. 1638; the other to the Duke of Lorrain'sbrother, named Ferdinand born at Vienne in 1639. But then again, the Duke of Brandenburg passing by, if I mistake not, in Pareube, is smitten with a leaden buller out of a window, in 1638; the committer of which treacherous sack

By that time I have mentioned two or three things of note, it will be time to proceed unto the actions of the two other years, to be contained in this Chapter. At Vienna, the biggest Bell in the City sounded of his own accord, none enforcing it, which to me seemeth not the least of wonders. In the Prince's Court also of the same place, an Eagle of fifteen years old tell down dead; which seems not the least of tokens. And (which is among the greatest of wonderful things) a Chariot with 6 horses, and sive that were carried therein, was by the force of the wind cast off from long bridge into the River Danubius of the same Vienna. These three in one year, to wit, in 1639.

Money (which is accounted the finews of War) being wanting to the Emperour; himfelf, with the Electors, Embafladours, and the Deputies of other States came rogerher at Norimberg, in 1640; but there being nothing done at that meeting, there were the fame year Affemblies of all ranks fummoned at Ratisbone, where they recated both concerning raifing money for carrying on the Wars, and alfo, of reftoring the administration of Civil Justice in places where they could; which by reason of the wars, must needs have been either abolished, or neglected. For, where warlique weapons bear command, Lawes do hold their tongue in hand.

This Emperour, in a special manner, endeavours a peace with the Danish King this year; but lustily encounters the Swedish Forces: for (George Duke of Luneburg recovering Steynbruck, a Town before loft) the Imperialists having Spork for their Leader, perform two confiderable Services, by beating Ekard and Rofe, two Swedish Commanders; and which is more, by driving Bannier out of Bohemia: but being somewhat dispersed hereby, they gather their Army together, and fit down at Salfield, and with this fecond Army they recover Telchine Castle: Moreover, forcing Bannier to retire himself in the Lower-Hassia; but, following him thither, as it seemeth, too hotly, although they were joyned with Geleen, Haese, Gonzage, and Hatsfield, they are there scattered. These also vanquish three Towns more, and under the command of Golze, force Hirschberg in Silesia unto a demolishment ; the Saxon Duke, the Duke of Brandenburg, and Truckmuller, at three several places with like Martial force, in the mean time earneftly labouring, although in vain, and with flaughter of their men. The Pope amongst all this, being urgently busied to make peace between the Kings.

Those that had been under the command of the Duke of Vinurn, on the contrary, are not idle, but do, divide their company into three parts, possessing Wetterave, and spreading themselves in three enief places thereof. The Emperians assault Bingium, the which being a place fit for passage or conveyance; the other sharply defend against them; yet at last they lose it: and setting their warfare in order, a heap of battels imploying them, they joyn with Bannier; and at the latter end of the year, do scatter and beat the Baron of Bredah at Zigophayne: where also Rose, a Major, takes a French Earl (full of gold and Brigandines) unthought

But Bannier himself this year 1640, playes  $R^{\theta}\kappa$ ; he robbed and killed in Bohemia in the wayes as he went, and beheadeth the Consuls or chief Magistrates of two Towns, Saize and Cade, together with a Judge: after that, when the Emperour's forces had recovered two garrisons, he sleighting another place, takes speedily, although with some losse, Plane-Castle, very full of all fort of victual: thence, while the Emperians overcome Chemniee, he departed to Erford, and being increased by other Armies, he opposed himself against them, who going forward to Salsield, had there rested with 70 thousand men. His wife now dying, being grieved (when he had first taken Fulda, and had heard a voyce in the ayr, Be gone, Bannier, be gone, for now the time is,) he went away to Eschwege, and then joyns the forces of Durlace to himself.

Anno 163 of Christ, to 1642.

whereby he wrested that honorable Victory at Homburg in Hassia aforementioned, from the Imperialifts; which Conquest, the furrender of Amenoburg followed; then returning back to Erford, be belieged one place, and took another, now ready to strive, if he could, to break into Bavaria: Into which to come, he bends himfelf in the beginning of 1641, and therefore calling to him Guebrian, who was the French General of Vinuen's Army, breaks thorow by fighting, and takes Chamice, as also cloaths appointed for the Emperour's Souldiers. But then letting go Guebrian to another place, while he was more fecure than ordinary at a place ordained for hunting, that he had taken away from the Duke of Brandenburg, he is invaded by the Emperians; and unless Schlange of Neoburg had, before a Wood, valiantly refifted them, he had been quite overthrown. However, he was forced to redeem his escape into Bohemia with the losse of 26 Ensigns, and 1800 horsemen: yet perceiving the Conquerour to follow after him, he calls back Guebrian, and, at Zwiccave, is joyned with him.

Then again, at the River Sale, the chief of warlike matters (and the conclusion to Bannier) is joyned, where each party maintain a Bank; Bannier toughly, and (as I may fay) with his teeth defending his; yet at length being forced to yield, he goeth to Halberstade, where voyding much blood and matter, through an Imposshume, or breaking of a vein, he put an end to his life, and so to all his toyl and labours; the Voyce, as may be well supposed, that he heard in the Ayr the year before, having reference rather unto this time of his death, than unto the Victory that he got a little after, at Homburg. But the Swedish forces (what through this Arch-warriour's death, what through this last repulse at Sale were broken both in strength, and courage: yet not being wholly dismayed, they stand waiting upon the Senate of Stockholm for new orders, who commanded Torftenfolm to undergo, as General, Bannier's charge and burden, who having received his Commiffion, paffeth over the River Albis with a supply of his own, and joyns with the Bannerians; whereby they allayed the spirits of the Emperians that then were hot against them. Notwithstanding they having renewed their League with the Lantgrave of Hesse, and the Duke of Luneburg, break thorow Wolsebyte, and (being resolvedly bent) they beat and are beaten, untill the Duke of Luneburg could passe over unto the Emperour's party; which gave an occasion to the Bannerians of moving elfe-where.

Many places were yielded to the Emperour's Souldiers this year; first the Town Cracinack with its Cassle; then seven other considerable Cities and Town, with other places of less note. Dorfsene (somewhat remote) was after two moneths siegetaken. Einbeck and also Clive were forced to yield, and that with a flaughter of the Hassians who had come for relief; and in the mean time the Duke of Saxony, through very much labour and industry brings Garlice under his power. In which year also (being 1641) by the Emperour (at Assemblies held at Ratisbone concerning a right imanaging the War, and supplying the law War with ayds) Edward Duke of Bregance, the natural brother of the valiant and diligent King in Portugal, is committed to custody.

Anno 1638 of Christ, to 1642.

But in England, after Charls King of Britain was again estranged from the Scots a little after the pacification between them, and had disavowed that Paper which the Scots, avouched to contein the true conditions of the same, and in testimony of his indignation against it, had commanded it to be burnt by the common Executioner, in the year 1639, he told his Privy Councell about the beginning of December, the same year, that he intended to fummon a Parliament, or Kingdom's Representative in England, (which began on Aprill the thirteenth, in the year 1640) with which the subjects were even filled with hopes of redresses of many things amisse, and almost with wonder, at the having of that, the name of which seemed to be strange among st them; But their hopes were not answered herein; for the King being very urgent at the faid Parliament for money to War a fecond time with the Scots, and to pay the Army that he had already raised in order thereto, which was to be done by that which they call [ Subfidy ], some Members preferring a redresse of grievances before the other, made speeches to the same purpose; but yet they taking the faid Subfidies into confideration, while they were debating the businesse, the King thinking (it seems) they were not Cordiall therein, and did it with delay, brake them up, on the fifth of May following, which was in the space of three weeks. But after that, he continued the fitting of the Convocation of their Clergy untill May the twenty ninth, (a thing never known to before) who, by his Authority, made Canons, and put Oaths upon some. And on the eighth of July following, the faid King had a third fon born unto him, named Henry, and intituled Duke of Gloucester. But the Scots upon new discontents enter England the second time, on August the seventeenth, (their second Parliament now sitting again, June the second, that had been adjourned from December the eighteenth, 1639.) against whom the King (having had contributions from the Clergy and others) and issuing out Writs for Ship-money, and other waies undertaken for defraying the charges of the war) fet forward toward the North of England with an Army, on the twentieth day of the same August, under the command of the Deputy, Earl of Strafford (the Earl of Northumberland, who was appoynted as Generall, not being in health) where having a fight, or rather a skirmish, at Newburn, on the twenty eighth day, and at another place far North, the English fouldiers. not willing to engage in that cause, and many mutinying against their Officers; the King (who had on September the twentieth, fer up his Standard of War at the City of Tork, and his Councill meeting there on the twenty fourth day) by a choice of some Lords of both Kingdomes, to compose the matter, at length came to a ceffation of Arms with the Scots upon seven Articles on Oct. the twenty fixth of the same year, untill Decemb, the fixteenth Mmm following, following, which Armies were not disbanded until the beginning of August following, in the year 1641. In the mean time some English Peers and Barons, being somewhat sensible of the condition of their Nation, and what the confequence of this war with their fellow-subjects, might be; do Petition their King to call another Parliament with speed; who seeing a necessity thereof, as well as the Peritioners, acquainted his Councell at rork of his intentions for a Parliament, which should begin on Novemb. the third following, which Parliament (having the same year, Jan. the Eleventh, exhibited a Bill for one to be had every three years, and also May the tenth, in 1641, another bill for their own continuance, untill they were willing to diffelve, unto both which the King figned) fate from November the third, 1640, unto Aprill the 20th, 1653, almost thirteen years, and therefore was by the English called the [Long-winded] Parliament. One of the first things this great Councel set upon, was to impeach those whom they judged offenders against the Common-Wealth: the first of whom was the afore faid Deputy of Ireland, the Earl of Strafford, a deep Politician, who being committed to custody, on the Eleventh day of November 1640, and to the Tower of London, the two and twentieth of the fame, and began to be tryed in a Pompous and remarkable manner on March the two and twentieth following, upon nine Grand Articles, in the Hall of westminfler, whose triall ending April the fifteenth, 1641. was (being by his Judges, adjudged Guilty of High Treason) beheaded (the King having first signed to his Execution) on the 12th of May of the fame year.

Another was, to cenfure and remove divers Ministers of the Church that were feandalous, or superstitious, and to relieve and recompence those who had been diligent, and Conscientious suf-

The Parliament and people of England (at this time) loving the Scots, because they looked on them as instruments, (by opposing the King) of procuring this means of their redresse, Commissioners from Scotland, had acceptable residence in London on the 19th of November 1640, the Parliament on the twelfth day of the same Moneth, before their comming thither, having by Vote ordered the Scors, in part of 300000 fb. no leffe then 100000 fb. to be payed them, for supplying their losses and necessities. At the latter end of which Moneth, Pryn, and Burton, and within a Fortnights time, Ballwick, who had three years before, fuffered as abovefaid, were brought with triumph into the City from exile, about which time also there was Petitioning by the Londoners, against, not onely the misdemeanors, but the very standing of the Bishops of their Church; and william Laud, Arch-Bishop of Canterbury, was on the eighteenth day of December 1640. by the Great Councell of the Kingdome, sequestred from all his dignities, and (to the Kings grief) committed, first into the hands of the Usher of the upperhouse, which they call the black Rod, and on the eight and twentieth day of January following, unto a closer ~ confinement in the Tower of London: and afterwards in the Anno 1642 Moneth of November, 1641. there being tumults of the Citizens of London, in the midst of which, they declared against, and threatned the Bishops; twelve of whom (having protested against the validity of the Parliaments votes in their absence, the which, they faid, the danger of the tumultuous occasioned) were accused thereupon of High Treason; ten whereof were sent Prisoners to the Tower, the other two to the black Rod. Amongst these things the Brittish King espoused his eldest daughter Mary, unto William of Nassam, son of Henry Prince of Orange in the year 1640 and the faid young Prince comming to London on Aprill the twentieth 1641. (the Parliament being pleased with the marriage, the States of Holland's Ambassadours, make fair proposals to the King) was with great folemnity married unto her on the fecond of May, the same year, she being then not above ten years of age, and the Prince about fixteen.

The king also took a journey this year, on August the tenth, into Scotland (the Parliament intreating his longer stay, by reason of the kingdomes occasions). Which proved a hinderance unto Englands affairs. And although the kings end of going at that time, was not by the English understood, yet a Scottish Writer faith, (for it was about the time of the two Armies disbanding) It was fecretly to engage them against the English Parliament by large and fair promises, and also to take some Noble men of Scotland out of the way, whose willingnesse therein he suspected. But in the mean time, on October the three and twentieth, 1641, the conspiracy of the Irish in Ireland (so long kept close) broke forth in a most bloudy manner against the English, and Protestants there, so that in two Moneths space, (besides many great and grievous torments, and spoylings of worldly goods and estates) were murdered no lesse, (as is credibly reported) then 200000 Souls. Amongst other places of strength, the Castle of Dublin, Irelands Mother-City, and that kingdomes chief Magazine, was to be seized on this very day; but by a Countreyman of their own, servant to an English knight, through a providential relation over-night, by Mac-Mohone, of some passages unto him, it was discovered; whereby this Macmohone, and Maguire an Irifb Lord, were suddenly apprehended, who afterwards fuffered death in England for the fame, the Irilh being on the first of January following, openly proclaimed Rebells; and the English Parliament, taking what care they could (in so sudden a case) for supplies against them.

But on January the third (next after the said king returns from Scolland, which was on November the twenty fifth, on which day he was with pompous solemnity, and cossly equipage received into London by the Civizens) he exhibited seven Articles of High Treason against six Members of that representative, (chiefly moved hereto as some say, by his Queens being begun to be accused about the troubles of Ireland) and the day following came personal nally into the Lower-house, (two or three hundred armed men attending him) and fitting down in their Speaker's Chair, demanded five of their Members; but they having absented themfelves upon information, and that house judging the King to have broken their priviledge thereby, he being urged as for other things, fo for that he could not have his will on those men; the people also flocking to Westminster in great throngs, from discontent, took (as he thought) a just occasion to depart from the City unto an house of his about 12 miles from London, called Hampton-Court, on the very 10th day of the same Jan. 1641; Who (being petitioned for the Militia on the 27 day, to be put into the Parliaments hands, which he refused,) after divers movings from place to place, came, at length, on March 19th, unto York, where we found him, when he first divulged his intent of summoning this Parliament, with whom now he was discontented. Who also had this year published a Law for the restoring the Palatinate his Couzen, (in whole place, his father being dead, the Danish King is set) but to little or no purpose, beginning to have enough to do at home. nwales also, a dominion belonging unto England, being in the year 1640, what with Sea and rain waters, almost drowned, which may be accounted a presage of the misery, that for some few years overspread, and almost overwhelmed that Nation.

The History of the World; or, Lib.10.

The French King, in the mean time, minds his own affairs, taking care to have two places (concerning Germany) fortified, Brifack and Rheinfield; and gives increases unto Vinurn's Army un-. der the command of Guebrian; yet looseth Salse; these in 1641. But against the Spaniard the same year he prevails not a little; for they besieging Cafale, he beats them off, and stripping them of their Camps, obtains a prey to the value of 60 thouland Duckets, which was for the Souldiers pay; the other almost inestimable, for there was a lofty Charior that cost (it self) 8000 Duckers. They fight again at Pade, where the French had the masterdome, and gets Taurine by furrender. Morcover, he performed a notable piece of service in the Netherlands against him; for coming upon Airebate unthought of, he furrounds it, and within three moneths time subdueth it; which Town, had for the space of 148 years renounced the Rule of France, and therefore by the French King's Ancestors had been seven times besieged; yet all in vain. And whereas the Catalonians (who by reason of nearnesse of situation, are subject to Spanish Incursions) were dealt unworthily withall by them, they humbly craving ayd, the French begins this year by great Armies to fet them at liberty; and in the year 1641, goes about the businesse with the Spaniard, and gives him often overthrowes at Barcellona; and then besiegeth Tarragon of Catalonia; which the Spaniard (loath to lose) often attempts to beat them off, and as often frustrated by the French, untill at length being overpowred in number, he is forced to leave it. The Prince of Conde likewise robbing and killing in the Spaniard's County of Russilio. The King of Spain also having somewhat to fay unto John the 4th, King of Lusitaria or Portugal this year, by of Christ, distrasfory letters, he is not at all moved thereat, but sends his to 1642. Embassadours every way even to the Dutch and Swedes, endeavouring to get their favour. Discovering also, and quenching a most destructive Conspiracy against him at Lisbone.

Moreover, the Pope being a partisker against the French, occafions him to fight at Bulloign, and he seeth all the Dukes of Italy to take in hand that which they had made a common cause against him. But when as the Governour of Suesso, being supported by other helps, had made an inroad into France nigh the Wood or Forrest of Arduen, he turned thither all his power, overthrew the other, the Suessonian himself falling in battel, and who was the last of that stock and ambition. The French after this, subdued three Towns of their enemies, but were forced to restore Arre aster four moneths, by reason of other distractions.

The Dutch seems to be more enriched with Tunns of gold out of both the Indies this year 1640, than impoverished by battels; for they receive from thence 150 of them: yet they seel the force and damage of some great storms in their havens; and fight bloodily against the Spaniard at Hulf, attempting two places, Slufe, and Bruge in vain. But stoutly besieging the small Fottress of Gennepe in 1641, they constrain it to yield. Atming the year before by reason of the dashings begun in England; and being then also forbidden to ride on the Danish Sea.

Amurath, Emperour of the Turks (who had the report of a good Souldier, but a great Tyrant) dying in the year 1640, the 33d year, the flowr of his age, his brother Ibraim, in the 27th year of his age, fucceeded him; who continued his bufie endeavour of peace with the Persian: but calling the Tartarians into his fellowship, threatneth a most cruel War on Poland; whose Pyrats also of Argier take a Spanish ship, valued to be worth 300000 Florens.

Three or four strange and unusual things happened in divers places within two years space: The one was a Whale, which being (in a Province of France) left without water, on a place where the Tide ebbeth and floweth, was found to be 320 foot long, and 162 foot broad: This monstrous King of Fishes, was nine dayes in destroying with Guns, as if 'twere shooting against a Castle; afterwards being drawn to shoar by 500 strong armed men, opening his chaps, they faw them easily to receive a horse with his rider. Another was, a seven-fold off-spring brought forth at one birth in the Swedish Camps, in the year 1640, four whereof were male-children, three female; the last of which received a baptism, and then gave up the ghost. Also at Stockholm in Sweden, on the 4th of the Ides of January, 1641, the whole Princes Court feemed to be very bright and fhining with lights; and, which is the greatest thing, three great Guns were heard to be discharged, without the moving of any mans hand, or fire unto them. But throughout Bavaria, in 1640, was there a spatious hunting made, as they fay, by the Prince of darknesse, with howling cries, dogs, flesh, and a company of servants, and divers wild beasts; now ready after a while to go (as he faid) a fifthing. This being true, as it is related, furely a lively fign both of violence, by the hunting; and of deceit, by the fishing, in the earth,

Besides those mentioned in our discourse by the way, these may be taken notice of in their deaths both naturall and violent. Christian, Prince of Portugal; and Marodas Duke of Prague; Francis Jacinth, Prince of Subaudia, a child; which three departed life in the year 1638. And the same year, one Cyrila Patriarch, that is, a chief father of the Greek Church, through the instigations or movings of his adverfaries at Constantinople, was strangled with a rope. Columna, Master of the Stable, dyed at Rome in the year 1639; in which year the Emperour of Germany lost Philip and Augustine, his second and third sons, by death. And Lewis, son to the Prince of Orange, was almost born, and dead in a moment. Kirchban an Emperian Major, being taken among the Swedes, was beheaded at Vienna in this year 1639; and within the compasse of the same year the Earl of Buchaim being mortally wounded in a sporting-exercise, in a short time after exchanged life for death. In 1640, besides Amurath the Turk, dyed George Con, (one of the Pope's three Ambassadours, that (by the Queens prevalency with the English king her husband) had been lately sent unto him, and with great honour received by him, in his return out of England to Rome. Also George wilhelm, Duke Elector of Brandenburg; whom Frederick wilhelm succeeded. Which Frederick the year following began to diminish the Emperour, by little and little, making his Garrisons his own, and therefore is honourably and bountifully received in the Assemblies at warfove. But Christian Ulrick, a Prince of Denmark, departing from Colone, a City on this fide the River Rhene, by the hands of the provoked Hollanders (for this very year 1640, they were fordidden the Danish Sea) perished. Besides John Bannier the Swedish Champion, this year 1641, dved Arnheym, Chief Commander of the Duke of Saxony's Souldiery. John George, Duke of Brunswick, and Luneburg this year departed at Hildefe, who would have obtained his Wolfebyte; but died without what he fought after. Likewise Otto, a single man, Earl of Schaumburg, and the last of that Earldome. Amongst the rest Anthony Caraffa in the Province of Barryen, in the kingdome of Neapolis, is to be minded, who in 1641, for new burthens (a fair warning)imposed on the people, was by the common people flain. And to conclude this Chapter with a most sad accident that happened in the year 1640. At Forcheym of Francony, a Countreyman killing a Hog, went away about other occasions; in whose absence two little Boyes, one of fix, another of three years old, in imitation of their father, kill a little brother of theirs under three Moneths old; and as though they had well done, tell the horrid act to their father, being in the Garden. He beholding the busifinesse, chides them with harsh words. Whereupon the c ildren for fear of rods, hide the child in the oven. Their Mother, being about her work and knowing nothing, running from the cattle, to 1646. fers fire on dry wood to bake, and departs: when the came to draw out the coals, the feeth (as I may fay) her own bowels in her childs, burned: which caused her to rush head-long into a Well and drown her felf; and her Husband (through this double grief) to hang himfelf.

CHAP. III.

An account of what noted Passages happened in Germany, England, and other places.

From the year of Christ 1642, to 1646.

Lthough England might now begin to be the chief Subject of our furveying Account, her billowes of trouble and civil diffentions rifing high; yet fince Germanic's calamity was before her in order and continuance of time; it shall be also in order of Torsthenson therefore having taken on him Bannier's trust in behalf of the Swedes, playes Bannier's part; for, having condemned one Seckendorf(a Commander) to be beheaded, for treachery to the Army at the fiege of Wolfebyte; and by Koning mark raised the fiege of Mansfield; hearing that Stalbanse was overcharged by the Duke of Lawenburg throughout Silefia, he runs to him, and having reduced four places of strength; in the moneth of June 1642, featters the faid Lawenburg his forces, and at Swenice, takes him. with 38 Waggons. Thence (having fortified another place as a refuge in doubtfull cases) he goeth to Sittave, and undertaking to befiege Lipfie, the Emperians coming to oppose him, he goes to meet them, and gave them a great overthrow; there were flain to the number of 5000, he took 83 great and choyle Officers prifoners, and above 4000 and 400 common Souldiers, 122 Enfigns, 46 great guns, together with 69 Waggons: and when this was done, returns to Lipfie, and on the 24 of October the same year, receives it by furrender. And (that he might the better deal with the Emperour) perswades the Duke of Brandenburg to stand as a neuter; but the Duke of Saxony not fo.

Guebrian, likewise the French General, and Eberstein the Commander of the Hasians, by the sufferance of the Dutch, passe over the River Rhene unto Vefalia, where they fall upon and beat Lamboy, (who had affished the Duke of Suesso the year before in his in-breach into France) about to depart into his Winter-quarters, there are 3000 flain, and 4000 taken; amongst whom their chief Captain himself, with two others, 14 Colonels, nine Embassadours, eight chief men of the guard, 28 Masters of horse, 38 Centurions or Captains of foor; Rofe also the Tribune, scattering the refidue that gathered themselves together; four strong holds being afterwards vanquished and poss sled, and 500 wagons taken, that were carrying things of great value unto more secure pla-

But the Emperour (about to fet his Souldiery in order) exchanges Horn for werth, two grand Commanders that had been mutually taken: yet he is rather affected this year 1642, with grief and anger for the two overthrowes received (as above faid) at $1lefia, (whereby Moravia, the very Center of the Land is possessed by the Conquerour) and at Lipsia, which by reason of nearnesse made Prague to tremble; (This overthrow was by flight, whereupon he branded that Legion that chiefly fled, with difgrace, and cut off the head of Mandelloh the Major) than with any great joy for warlique successe; yet this supplyed the place of all comfort, that he recovereth Oelfa of Silefia, as also Marcodure in the Juliacan field, affording fuccour (by joyning with the Duke of Bavaria) unto the Province of Colone. About the beginning of this year, he confirms a peace with the Turk at Buda the chief City in Hungary, for 20 years. And, being now worsted, (through the labour and endeavour of the King of Denmark) toward the end of the year, he admits of a Treaty of peace with the Swedes; and to this end, are Assemblies gathered together at Frankford upon the River Mentz. Neverthelesse, the war going on, and being every where strove against; not forgetting the slaughter and overthrow at Lipsia, he beheadeth in 1643 more of the chief, and authors of that flight, publishing his Brigades to be infamous. And for his assistance, would have drawn forth the Hungarians without their Kingdom's bounds, but could not obtain them. This year also he grants Piccolominie to the King of Spain for a General: yet the faid Piccolominie in 1643, before that concession, hastening against Torshenson, makes him to quit Freyberg of Mifnia; but he scatters Bruoy, and fetting Olmuce at liberty, finding there a confiderable treasure, he sends it away into Swethland. Now also he receives bands of Souldiers from the Dacians, having taken Neostade and other places into possession. And having first redeemed fome Captains of three Legions (that were through floath furprized by the enemy) with money, he afterward hangs fome, and cashiereth others. But besieging Brunne, a strong place, to his great dammage, he over-recruited the faid loffe, by dispersing Bucheym an Emperian Commander, and vanquishing Eulenburg, a Town (in the borders of Moravia and Silefia) containing in it a million of gold. Yet while he most hastily leads away into Holfatia, and disperseth some Troops of horsementhat first came against him, he loseth Sittavia of Silesia, Lemberg, and other pla-

Horn leads an Army out of Swethland thorow the main Land, confisting of 20000 men, and a double Navy was trimmed up at Stockholm; for they fell out with the Dane this year, for three cau-fes; for hindering their passage by Sea, cleaving to the Muscovite and Polander, and for supplying Cracove in Pomerania (their enemies garrison) with money and Souldiers, against which to 1646. Koningsmark the same year 1643, opposed himself, who departing out of Hassia, imposeth tribute on the people, as he wandred up and down, intercepting two Towns, Halberstade, and Osterwick. But the French under the command of Guebrian, who in 1642 after the victory against Lamboy, had returned on this side Rhene again, and in 1643 had taken up their Winter-quarters in Francony, do fend the Forces of werth to crop them, and at Milteburg to beat them. Whereupon they flee to Brifack; but making no stay there, straightway return into the Badian field: And joyning battel at Ravensburg, they are Conquerours, two chief Commanders, Merce and Witgenstein, falling by their hands. They also receive supplyes from France, under the conduct of the Duke of Enquienne. Then they take the Town of Rothweile, but it cost them the losse of four Legions, and at Durling they are quite overwhelmed, three thouland being flain, and above four thoufand common Souldiers (besides chief Captains) taken. Eberstein the head of the Hassian Souldiery, having before left them, returning out of the Badian field unto Heydelberg, where he took the Duke of Lorrain's houtholdstuff at unawares, and had almost taken the Duke himself. Who also robbed and killed in the Colonian Land; and whereas there had been cruelty exercised in Gronsfeld, a place under the power of the Emperour, he from Novese, that was a Town yielded to him the year before, renders them like for like. Thus the Proverb is verified, Homo homini Lupus.

Man that should be a fellow brother, Prey's like the wolf upon each other.

The King of England, being at the City of York, whither he came toward the latter end of the year 1641, sent to the Parliament, Apr. 8. 1642, to acquaint them, that he would personally go over into Ireland to engage (as he faid) against those bloudy Rebels there; and therefore would arm a Life-guard (which he intended to raise about Westchester, a near and convenient place of passage into that Kingdom) for himself, of about 2000 and 200 horse and foot, out of the Magazine of Hull, a very strong Sea-Port Town in the North. But, there having been a letter not long before, of George Digbie's, a Lord, unto the Queen, out of Zealand intercepted, in which he spake of the King's declaring himself, and retiring to some safe place, &c. besides other grounds, this Court suspected his intentions, and appointed John Hotham, a Knight of that Countrey to prevent the King of taking that strong hold with its ammunition, into his possession. At which the King being greatly moved, and coming in person with some Soul-

~~ of Christ, to 1646. S diers in arms, besides some of the Nobility and Gentry, on the 23 day of the same moneth, to demand entrance into that Town; the faid Hotham denying him on his knees, upon the Town-wall, was proclaimed Traytor by the King: whose act neverthelesse the Parliament justified on the 25 day, and endeavoured to appeafe the King, but in vain. For the King daily summoning by Proclamations both the chief and common fort of those parts, to attend him as a Guard for his Person, who (said he) was in danger of the Parliament; (about which time also Thomas Roe Knight, was by him fent over as an Embaffadour to Vienna in Germany, to presse on the cause of the Palatinate,) the Parliament likewise declared, that fuch arming of men in an extraordinary way, was against the Lawes and Kingdom's Liberties. And when about the latter end of this moneth of April, 1642, 36 Lords, as also many of the Commons house, within a moneths time, went from the Parliament unto the King at York; then the Kingdom in generall feared a Civill War, which before was by many suspected; fo that on the fecond of July following, propositions being by that high Court, fent unto the King for his confent, and no conclufion made concerning them; It was ordered on June the 10th, by Parliament, That Money and Plate should be brought in, either by gift or loan, which they professed was to levy Forces for the maintaining the Protestant Religion, the King's Person, authority and dignity, the peace of the Kingdom, together with the Laws of the Land, and priviledges of the People's Representative, the Parliament. The King also did the like, inviting people to the fame thing in the fame words. And (toward the latter end of June) his Great Seal being conveyed unto him from the Lord Keeper of it, Littleton, he issued forth Proclamations, one whereof was, That the Parliaments Warrants about fettling the Militia in their hands should not be obeyed. And they (on the contrary) forbade raising arms by the King's Warrant, without their authority. The King also having pawned the Jewels of his Crown for 200000 l. sterling, (which his Queen had carried over into Holland, in the moneth of Febr. 1641, to that purpose, when she went over with her daughter the Princess of Orange ) at this time, received money, with Arms and Ammunition, fo that now he fent out Commissions of Array, for the arming men in all Counties; which Commission was proclaimed in London, for which the Lord Mayor of that City was turned out, and disabled of any Office, and committed prisoner to the Tower, July the 11th; and on the next day, the Earl of Effex was by the Parliament voted General of their Army. The Earl of warmick also, skillfull in Sea-Affairs, was by their Ordinance chosen Admiral of the Navy, who a little after took a confiderable ship coming out of the Netherlands, laden with Gun-powder for the King's fervice; which was not a small addition to his Sea-strength. The said Earl of Esex raising an Army upon the Parliaments Vote, on the first of August following, began to divide his men into Regiments, which in a short time amounted to nigh 14000 horse and foot; when in the mean time, the King with 3000 foot, and 1000 horsemen on the 15th of July began to befiege Hull; which fiege (what by to 1646. opening a fluce, and drowning the Countrey thereabour, what by two fallies made out of the Town, by one John Meldrum Knight; in the first of which, the besiegers were made to retreat with some small losse; and in the second, after the strengthening of the Town with more men, making them disorderly to retire, with the flaughter of 21 persons, and some taken prisoners, taking also the King's Ammunition, and firing the barn in which it was kept) was broken up. And now [furor arma ministrat] both sides beginning to affault one another with fury, divers places began to be taken and retaken. Amongst which, the strong Sea garrifon of Portsmouth was on Septemb. 7. 1642, surrendred to the Parliaments forces under the command of Sir william waller

The King on the 22 of August the same year sets up his Standard (which I may call an actual Marriage of that War, which was but before espoused) and the third day after sent to the Parliament to compose the difference between him and them by a Treaty. Of which that Court faid they were not in a condition to do, unlesse the Standard were taken down and Proclamations (wherein they were called Rebels and Traytors) were revoked. So that on the 9th of Septemb. General Effex departed from London towards his Army, who expected his coming unto them to their Rendezvouz at North-hampton; Unto whom also the Parliament fent a Petition, which he should present unto the King, to withdraw himself from those persons about him, &c. But he was too far prejudiced to grant the same; the Bishops, (to make the fore the wider, whom he loved, and without whom, he thought he could be no King,) being on Septemb. 1. 1642, voted powerleffe in Church-Government, who not long before had power both in Church and State. So, Effex attending the King's motion (after some skirmithes of parties) Octob. 23, on a Plain called, The Vale of Red-Horse, situate at the foot of a steep Hill, called Edge-Hill, near to a Village called Keynton, in the County of Warwick, joyned the first pitched battle with the King's Army, (the Earl of Lindsey being the king's General ) his Army confisting of about 11000 horse and foor, Esex(having, for haste of following them, left no small part of his forces and Artillery behind him) had scarce so many. This fight was bloudy and dubious; Robert the king's Couzen charging furiously on the Parliaments left wing, put both horse and foot to flight, seizing on his enemies Carriages and baggage. A valiant Knight on the other fide, brake the foot of the King's left wing, and seized on his Artillery; the King's Standard was taken, but soon retaken: both sides had Trophies of victory, Enfigns, prisoners, and great guns; so that neither party could much upbraid each other. Notwithstanding, of the 5000 and upwards that were flain in all, more of the King's fide Non 2 were flain; and besides, Lindsey his General was taken prifoner. and foon after dyed of wounds received.

The King, after the fight, marched to the City and University of Oxford; which place he took up, as it were, the Metropolis of his residence in the time of the War; and Essex unto Coventry for refreshment, who came Novemb. 7. to west minster, his Army quartering in Villages adjacent, by reason of the King's wide excursions out of Oxford, which put London in fear. At which time, (while the Parliament was petitioning him for an accommodation of peace, being but 15 miles from the City, and he had manifested a grief for the peoples sufferings, with a desire to treat with them near London upon Propositions) his forces fell unexpectedly upon a Parliament broken Regiment at Brainford, seven miles distance, killing many, on the 12th day of November; and the next day there was a bloody fight maintained by two other Regiments coming for affistance. Esex, soon hearing of it at Landon, came speedily with through for relief, with a great number of armed men out of London; So that, had there not been an overfight committed, in withdrawing 3000 men from Kingthone upon Thames, a Town 10 miles off, the King (being by a far greater number enclosed) would scarce have escaped; the which now he did, fafely returning to Oxford: But this action did not a little engage London against him.

Amongst divers besiegings, stormings, taking of places this year, that of Cyrencester, a Town of Gloucestershire, is remarkable, which being entred by the King's Forces, the relifters were very rigidly and too too cruelly dealt withall, many of them being brought (in the winter season) from that place to Oxford thorow mire and dirt barefoot; this was in the beginning of February; On the 22d day of which moneth, the Queen of England landed at Burlington, a Sca-Town in Yorkshire, with arms against the Parliament, whence the went to York on March the 7th; and was by the Parliament voted a Traytor to the Common-wealth, May the 23d, 1643. A little after whose landing, March the second, 1642, the Lord Brook, a Parliament Commander, who was accounted both valorous, learned, and virtuous, is by a Musket shot from the Minster of Lichfield in Leicestershire, stricken dead, as he looked out of a window toward the enclosed enemy, to the forrow and enragement of his Souldiery. About the middle of which moneth also, divers Capuchin-Fryers, that had before belonged unto the Queen, were by order of the faid Parliament sent away into France, from whence they came. And whereas now the Prince of Orange had begun to help the King, he is by the States of the United Provinces, either through good will, or Policy restrained.

But the year following 1643, (raging hatred and resolution now striving, as it were, to exceed) the kindled fire was broken forth into devouring flames in many or most Counties of the Land; fo that I shall not undertake here particularly to view the variety and multiplicity of actions, some following years in Brittain, especially in England; but shall confine my self unto fome few most remarkable things. Yet this I say, There were 1646. very few Wars in the World ever carried on with more vigour, enmity, and defire of conquest, than this, for the time: but, the greatest storms being usually soonest over, makes that naturall Axiome true in a moral fenfe,

Nullum Violentum est perpetuum,

No violent thing (but comes with blasting) Tet it is not alway lasting.

This Summer, the chief time for action, the Parliament went down the wind; for Ferdinand Lord Fairfax, with his fon, was routed by the Earl of New-castle on Barmtham Moor, March 29, 1643, and then by him befieged in Hull. The Earl of Esex indeed belieging Reading, April 16, had it furrendred unto him within 12 dayes after. But his Army, after that, what by reason of ficknesse, what through want of necessaries, for which many for sook their Colours, himself was forced to retreat to London, waiting for a recruit. About which time also, Sir william walter Knight (befieging the Town of Devizes Weltward, where the befieged were put to hard shifts) was by a party of the King's from Oxford, through viciflitude of fortune in July, rotally defeated; and loging his Army, came to London also; whereupon the City of Briftol was on the 24th day of the same moneth besieged by the King. and within four dayes time yielded up unto him, (which sudden furrender, many imputed unto the foftnesse of the Governour's spirit) strong holds now falling into the hands of his forces, as it were untimely fruit, or leafs thaken with the wind. Exeter, a strong City in the West, was begint by Prince Maurice, which was taken Sept. 3. following: Onely Gloucester (in which the Gover-. nour Massey's courage and resolution was famous) stood out nigh a monerns space, straightly besieged, and surrously assaulted, yet unconquered: the fuccessefull King, through his over-much emulousnesse of subduing that place, neglected (like Hannibal of old) to improve his victories to the best advantage, who (in all likelihood) if he had then come for London, might have been mafter of it; untill, Essex being well recruited, came, at the last pinch, for that Citie's relief, which was on September the 8th, fighting the King's Army on the 20th day in a fer-battel at Newberry in Barkshire, where they were vanquished; and so the Parliaments strength revived, and came even to an equal weight, who before were very much over-ballanced.

The Parliament wanting money to maintain their Armies, an Excise on Victual, and divers Commodities, was thought of, at the very beginning of the year, March 28, the first mover being Mr. william Pryn, one of the three Sufferers; which Excise, some in deteftation, called the Dutch-Devil, because it was an imitation of that people, and lay heavy upon the poorer fort. It was fertied by Ordinance, July 18 following,

This was the time also wherein a joynt Covenant was entred into by the English with the Scots, called a solemn vow and Covenant, one main head (as to maintain the King's Person and just dignity, whereof was, to endcavour the bringing of the three Nations into one-nefle of conformity in Religion and worthip according to the Word of God: which clause, word of God, being afterwards thought of by many, gave them (in their apprehensions) a liberty of differenting from any conformity, that they judged not agreeable thereto. Which Covenant, the Parliament (as an example to the rest) took, June 6. 1643:

About the same time there was a sad design against the Parliament and City of London discovered, which was for armed men to arife, killing and flaying, while the City was in divers places burning; for the which, two chiefly fuffered death before their own doors, Thompkins, who had fome relation to the Queen; and Challenour, a Citizen, on July the 5th. The books of the Archbishop of Canterbury being given unto another Doctor who was their friend, by the Parliament, Octob. 3. who also in the moneth November, had a new Great Seal made; against which, the King

(the same November 21,) openly declared.

The Bishop of Rome (who had excommunicated the Duke of Parma, whereupon he renounced the Protection of France in 1641) having fallen out with him, treats of a peace with the faid Duke in 1642; in which year also Rome is fortified, because they there feared the weapons of their Spanish Catholique King, who was offended with the Pope, for entertaining a Portugal Embassadour. But the year following, the Bishop and the Duke (not agreeing) wage a hot war; he demanding ayds (as his due) from the Viceroy of Naples, arming also the Princes of Italy against the Duke. And would have had Piccolominie for his General, but could not obtain him. But the Florentines this year, give him an overthrow, killing one thousand of his Souldiers, and taking another, with all his warlike provision: notwithstanding, within a little time, he revengeth himself upon him. So he that kills with the sword, shall be killed with the sword; Yet this did not Peter.

The French and Spaniard in 1642, affect one onother with mutuall overthrows, although the French exceed. The one in Catalonia, overcommeth the son of the Duke of Lordon a Spanish Commander, flaying 3000, taking many, and but few escaping; finding also among some of the prey, 60000 double Crowns. The Spaniard also conquers the French at Castellatum, killing 3000 and fix hundred, 3000 and 400 being taken. He recovered the Town Baffaa. But the French take from him Colibria and Argiller in Catalonia, besieging Perpinian, and by the extreamest hunger tames it, avoiding the treachery, and layings in wait of their enemics, in which fiege, 300 persons yielded to the hungry for the support of life; dispersing also the Spaniards, who by night set upon Exclusana. He obtains likewise this year, some Victory both of Choft. by Sea and land at Barcellona; by land, fnatching withall the enc- to 1646. mies victual; by Sea, in a Sea fight, though not without losse to himself, subduing two strong holds in Italy this year, and in 1643, as many; lengthening his league with the Swede for three years longer. The Spaniard indeed makes Tortone yield to him this year 1643. As allo vanquisheth Monsone in Catalonia, receiving most rich ships out of the Indies. But the French-man vanquitheth the Spaniards at Rocroy, where there was much bloud fpilt, 12000 being flain on both fides; so that, although the French had the day, taking many of the Conquered (which Captives they redeemed with 22000, 288 Florenes, as before 800 prifoners of war at Antwerp for 50000 Florenes) and 180 Enfigns, all their Guns, bag and baggage; yet they might fay with Livy the Historian concerning a Roman Victory.

Mulio sanguine ac vulneribus ea vistoria stetit.

That Victory (although the enemy lost) To get, yet us, much bloud and wound it cost.

He-alfo befregeth the Spanish in Theonsvile, and vanquisheth it, and joyning with the Portugall King, is prosperous at Sea. But the Dutch and he do not many great matters; the Spaniard vanquithing them at the River Mose in 1642. The Dutch the next year attempting the Garrison of Hulft in vain; but obtaining out of the Indies a Masse of Treasure, to wit, 200 Tuns of Gold. The King of Spain amidst all, affording help to his bloudy fellow-Catholiques, the Irish in 1642.

Now also the Queen of France being conscious of her vow made to the Lady of Luretta for health restored to the Dolphine, sent a Messenger thither with 1200 l. of Silver, and in his arm the Image of the child Irsus, of 250 pounds of Gold. This would stop a hole in the Pope's Coffers.

Cap. 3.

The Danish King, being at ods with the Swede, is the same year 1643, reconciled with them of Hamburg; whose naturall fon Voldamar yet illegitimate, goes now into Moscovia, to take in marriage their Great Duke's Daughter. In which year, the Governour of Sueinice, a Garrison of the Swedes, cscapes the subrile Devices of the Deputy, Senatours, and Jesuites against him. And Cardinall Mazerine in France, whose power is so large, as to be the orderer of the French affairs, is conspired against, and the confpiracours frustrated. And in the Moneth of Febr, a Councel (which the Germans call a Diet) is begun at Frankford at the River Ma-

The Emperour in 1644, (by reason of Torstensons absence, who was gone to fight with the Dane) recovereth (at length) the strong Garrison of wohlave; vanquishing also Sueinice, (where the year before, were defignes against the Governour, as was but now said) And who not long before, bruifed (though but lightly) his (houlder and leg, being shaken off his Horse, by a wild Boar overturning him. He likewise commands Galasse, a chieftain of his, to bring aid to the King of Denmark; the same Galasse takes quickly the Castle of Zeize, sending away the Souldiery by virtue of the Emperours Oath or promise made unto them; and fighting with the Swedes at Odesloe, there was little noise of that conflict. But laying fiege unto Pinneburg, he is by them beaten off thence, whom Torftenfon fuffers to return to Bernburg, and follows him thither, where he beateth 3000 Purveyors. And comming for relief to Eillebe that was befieged, Galaffe flips away, but other 2000 of his purveyors are beaten by him, with the Garrison Souldiers, he pursueth the Victory, following after Galase's last troop, the which he chafeth with Enkefort that was their leader, and takes the faid Enkefort in the narrow passages lying between Magdeburg and witteberg. Then by a fearfull affault, he winneth Tegave; and prevailing over the Castle of Zeize, that Galasse had but even now taken, he demolisheth it, and then like a carefull Commander, refresheth his souldiers, who were almost tired with these toils. Koning [mart (in the mean time) is busied in gathering contributions on every fide; who possesseth and destroyeth the Town of Langwele, that was subdued by the Archbishops Army. But he is beaten by the Emperians at Akerslebe, even as the Smedes that were too fecure, were at another place but a little before. But wrangel taketh three strongholds, under whose conduct, also the fiege of Pinneburg (above-mentioned) was quir.

Moreover, although Torstenson fought this year against the Dane; with equall successe of Victory, yet Horn, with the Army that the year before he led out of Swethland, invading Scandia, and the Fleming (who was also engaged against him) entring Norway; could not but much molest him. Whose King (although the Swedes were somewhat overcome at Colding, where, of four Legions, 34. men were flain, 137 taken, & 15 wounded) every where complains of breaking into his Dominions, as well as they of him, for stopping up the passage of his Sea from them, whereby they were hindered of their Northern Traffique. And although the Fleming gave place unto a greater number of the Danish troops this year then he had, yet it was celebrated by him with much bloud. The Swedes and he have a treble Sea-fight alfo; the first was doubtfull to either, the fecond was more acceptable to the Swedes: and the third most acceptable unto them, dispersing therein the Danilb Fleet, whose King committing himself in person to his Sea, is this year wounded. Who likewife recovered Breydenburg from the Swedes by land; and turns them out of the Castles of Ripe and Haderslebe, places within his command that they Garrisonned. And further, being offended with one Peter a French-man, his Vice-Admiral, for fuffering the enemy to flip out of the Chelonian Haven, where he had him at an advantage, he curs off his head. He

of Christ,

Lastly, his fon Voldamar, who is received by the white Russians or Muscovites (this year 1644) in a stately manner, as him that was to be the fon in Law, and heir of their Prince; When he refused to take on him their Mungrell-Religion, (there being not envy wanting to spurre it on) he is lessettimly observed, and being confined from his liberty in Muscovy (whether that were the sole cause of it, I know not) untill the Great Duke closed his last day, he neither by the craft or force of the Polanders, nor by the earnest intreaty of the King of Denmark his father, in 1644. could obtain the same.

Much was the action both in Germany and Britain, and not a little in some other places, in the year 1645. For the Emperour who had to deal with, as also fearing, an unwearied enemy, the Swede; having received unto him his Army (out of Holfatia) that was shattered, and greatly lessened, musters a new Army; and that he might have prosperous successe, appoints publick prayers to be made in his behalf, and withall, goeth to Brandise unto the Image of the Virgin Mary, which was there fet in its first state, for he had redeemed it out of the hands of the Smedes for 10000 Florenes. Nevertheleffe Torftenfon ( who thought to be at hand with the Emperour before he should renew his Army ) when he had in his march wasted Bruxy with fire, passing thorow Ottove, and Moldavia, stops at Jancoa, which place was between him and the Emperians, and for want of room, possessing a hill, he fights most stifly with Goce (who was chief Commander for the Emperour) for eight hours space (this battell was on the twenty fourth of February, 1645) and he vanquisheth the said Goce his Army, taking from the Emperour 289 Officers of note, even to the Trumpeters, 4000 common fouldiers were taken, besides 45 Wagons, 32 Ensignes, 26 Engines; with the losse of five Captains. These leaders of his thus taken, he redeems out of Torstensons hands with 80000 Royals, and so by force requires tribute from the people for this purpole. The Conquerour after this is not idle, he difperfed 2000 of many forts or companies, that had gathered themselves together after this rout, and besides, freeing Olmuce a Garrison that the enemy had possessed, he forced in eight or nine confiderable places, even to Vienna the Emperour's place of refidence, fo that that City it felf was mistrusted : but that he might not too much triumph in successe, he besiegeth Brunne in vain, with the great dammage of his foot fouldiery; yet the occasion of deserting that siege, was from one Gersdorf, being intercepted with Letters of great moment in Silesia; so that having fortified the Town of Cornuburg, he visiteth Moravia, and straightway after Bohemia, where he wipes their nose both of Gold and Bread-Corn, which being sent before into Silesia, he followeth; then vanquisheth other places, he puts the City Prague into a fright; and paffing over the River Albis that was frozen up with cold, he hastneth to win Tetchine Caftle by affault; but being fick of the Gout, he is brought to Lypfje; committing unto Wrangle the whole charge of his office: who had Bruxia now yielded up unto him, which Torftenfon, had hurt by fire before, as abovefaid."

The History of the World; or, Lib.10.

The Emperour also this year, being an enemy unto Ragotzy Prince of Transilvania, fends Bucheym a chieftain to oppose him, which Transitianian, Torstenson was busied in, infolding a continual War, as we may judge, to keep (fuch is the Policy of Warlike enemies) the Emperour the more in action; yet he comes to an agreement this year with the faid Ragotzy, fending Bucheyme with fix thouland men, and furniture to aid the Duke of Bavaria who was in danger, firiving also what he could to drive the Swedes out of Bohemia, whose Camps, (through the exceeding fiercenesse of the cold) were (at Glassove) in the latter end of the year, pitched one against the other for lodge-

The King of Denmark is this year beaten by Wrangle before he undertook Torftenfons truft; expecting nothing but war with the Dutch : He loft alfoa great Ship could the Sophia by Shipwrack, that his mother had beautified with the Charge of 120000 Royals, carrying fixty four pieces of Ordinance; and although he recovered Bremeroverd by craft, and took prisoner the Governour of wartisberg, with a company of 800 Collectours of money. Yet at length (fortune having forfaken him) and being bent thereto through the intreaties of his States, after a Negotiation sufficiently long, he enters a peace both with the Sweaes and Dutch, through the vehement labour of the French King therein. Whiles Wrangle was afflicting the Dane throughout Holfatia, Koning [mark subduct the Archbishoprick of Bremes, vanquishing five fire g holds there: then joyning their Forces together, they destroy Buchwald the Emperian, with a great slaughter. And about the middle of this Summer, wrangle himself overcomes an Island, called the Isle of Bornholm, Koning fmark departing from him into Hassia, that he might repair the French, that had been under Vinura, who were beaten by Werth, the General of the Bavarians, at Mergentheym; Where, the Vinurn-French, Koningfmark, Grece, and the General of the Hassians, joyning in one, they drive the Bavarians from Kirchain, and croffing the River Rhene, they win three places by affault, overflowing the Valley Tauber: and then Koning mark being called back into Saxony, the Duke of Enquien adding by a supply of strength, courage unto them, they fight most sharply July 24, at Albersheyme; in which conflict, the right Wing, in which the French were placed, is dispersed; bet the left Wing, in which the valour of the Hassians chiefly appeared, overcame; Geleene was here taken, and Merce flain, to the grief of the conquered. And then gathering themselves together from the chase, they drive the Bavarians over the River Danubius.

nubim. Hereupon two Garrisons, Nordlinge and Dunkelspule, are made the Conquerour's, Hailbrunne being besieged, but left, when as the Emperour had fent the Bavarian large affistance by Bu- to 1646. cheyme aforesaid, that they might make them rush, as it were, headlong, leaving their greater guns behind them, toward Philippiburg. Then the Bavarian recovered three places, whereof Dunkelspule is one. Koningsmark having (before this battle) taken three strong holds in Saxony, and brought the Electour thereof unto a truce for fix moneths. By all which may be gathered, what ground the Emperour loft this year.

Some other things were done, as Bugsdorff, possessing himself of Hornburg, and another place, &c. But I shall stop here with Germany for this year, when I have added these two things, That william of Bade undergoeth the protection of France, Halle admiting a garrifon of Swedes into it for defence. And Maurice of Naffaw is returned from exile out of Sigeum, a Town and Promontory near Troy, unto his own Countrey.

In Brittain, the English Parliament seeing a need of assistance from their Neighbour-Nation the Scots, in 1643, and fending Commissioners to Edinburg for the drawing of them into England; upon condition of a joynt-taking the Covenant aforesaid, and paying them 100000 l. towards raifing the Army, promifed them 21000 horse and foot. Which accordingly, either about the middle of January, or the beginning of March the same year, passed over the River Tyne, and came in; when as now, as I have faid the Parliament were in an indifferent equality of strength by their own Armics.

The King also, not to be wanting in the like kind of endeavour. grants a Ceffation of arms unto the Rebellious in Ireland, (the which was made Septemb. 15. 1643.) whereby he might have Forces out of Ireland for his help: and it being at that time not a discommodity, but a benefit unto them, the King received a pretty fum of money from them for it, to wit, 30000 l. (which Ceffation being against the Parliaments Act formerly figned unto by him, was much spoken against by many). The landing of which Irith forces in behalf of the King, being Novemb. 19 following at Moston, was two or three moneths before the Scots coming in behalf of the Parliament, in execution; although the other might be first in resolution.

Neither were these mutuall aids alike prosperous; for they that had victoriously fought against those that Rebelled in Ireland, now fighting against the Parliament, being but a little while arrived, were quite broken by forces under the command of Sir Thomas Fairfax, most or all their principall commanders, together with 1700 Common fouldiers being taken; when as it was not so with the Scottish Army. Who under the Earl of Leven their Generall, marching against the Earl of Newcastle, who had a great Army for the King in the North, took fome strong holds; and (though there was some heat of fighting) by enduring the great cold and hardnesse of weather at that season, weakned and lessened the faid Newcastles Army. And in the year 1644, two other Generalls, Earl of Manchester (where that stout, and I may fay, Iron fouldier Oliver Crommell commanded) and Lord Fairfan after their several services, joyning with the Scottish General, they went all fogether with concord (by the which, as Masinipa King of Numidia faid to his fons, dying; Resparve crescunt, Small matters gather strength, and increase) and then be fieged Tork, the second chief City in England, in which the Earl of Newcastle himself was inclosed; which place being of great moment, Prince Rupert the Kings Cousin came with great forces to relieve; whereby the three Generalls being engaged to draw off, the Earl of Newcaltle, having freedome to bring his forces out of York, joyned with Rupert, and so on a place called Marston Moor adjoyning, July the fecond 1644, was fought the greatest battell of that Civil war. In which battel, although (through some disadvantage of ground) the Parliaments right wing was put to flight; yet Crommell brake by a furious force the right wing of the King's, and put them to flight, and with Lefley the Scottish Lievtenant-General, pursued in chafe. Cromwell also coming about again with his horsemen, and relieving the other wing, whereby at length a full Victory was gotten, and all Ruperts great Guns, Carriages, Bag and Baggage, with above a hundred Enfigns, were in the Conquerours poffeffion. Who returned unto the fiege of York, and foon had it furrendred unto them upon conditions, Rupert being before gone or rather fled into the South, and the Earl of Newcastle passing into Germany. Leven, (the forces being parted assunder) a while after, taking (by his Scots) the Town of Memcastle, farther North, which by reason of the trade of Sea-col chiefly, is esteemed rich.

But although (by reason of divers, and not small Armies that were raised on both sides at the Spring of this year 1644, under feveral valiant Commanders, and their almost equal successe,) England seemed to be unhappy, yet about the latter end of the Summer, there was (as it were) a retaliation of this Northern Conquest, by the defeating the Parliaments General, Essex, in the West of the Land, (besides the prevailing of the King's Forces over the Parliaments, in the Southern and Midland parts,) who with Sir william waller, having begun to beliege or block up Oxford on both fides, the King escaping with a few horse out of the City, that design was left off; and (waller not being with him, but dividing their forces on May the 29th) the faid General & Rex marched into the West, even as far as Cornwall, (when at Eurford, he had appointed Waller to purfue the King on June the 6th, who had marched with his Army towards worcester from Oxford, June the third, who could not hinder the King of his defign, and resurned to encounter other forces;) where being environce, by the King's Army that came upon them (in Cornwall, the latter end of August, the farthest County Westward) he was dispersed, his whole Infantry

Infantry or foot submitting to the King, the horse escaping as well as they could, the Earl himself fleeing to Plymouth, Septemb. 1. After this, he being again recruited, on Octob. 27. following, there was a fecond battel fought near Newberry in Berkshire, where although there were losses on both sides, yet no great cause of triumph there was to cither.

The Queen in the moneth of April 1644, journeying Wellward, came to Exeter, where June the 16th, the was delivered of a daughter Princess Henrietta, and the 15th of the next moneth July, the arrived at the Sea-Port Town of Breft in Britany, 2 Dukedome of France. Who went over, to use (though fruitlesse) endeavours for ayd from the French King and the Catholiques; and some say, that Cardinal Mazarine was a great hinderer of French ayds against the Parliament. Likewise after much earnestnesse, the Duke of Lorrain gave King Charls hope of 10000 men. of those that he for some years had taken the Emperour's part with, against the Swede and the French. But although there were a Negotiatour fent into Holland about the business, and their conveyance; yet they never fet footing in England.

At the same time also the King sought affishance from the Rebels of Ireland, giving the Earl of Ormond the Lievtenant, power to make peace with them, as well as a Ceffation before made: (affuring them both of the free exercise of their Religion, and, when his War was ended, of an abrogation of all Laws made against Papists there,) which he wished them to hasten, for reasons in a Letter to Ormand. But when their demands were so high, that in many Treaties with them Ormand could effect nothing, He fully impowreth the Lord Herbert, whom he had made Earl of Glamorgan, being a strict Papist, to make peace with them, and indulge them, with as much feerefie as might be: which was concealed for a time both from Ormond, and Lord Digby the Secretary: which politique and cunning working afterwards between Dieby and Glamurgan, for fear of reflecting upon the King, who would not be seen to treat and make peace with them by a Papist; and also of displeasing the Protestants of Ireland: having a doubt, in the mean time, left they should offend the Irish Rebels, especially seeing all those devices for bringing an Army of those Irish into England, were frustrated, I shall forbear any further to mention:

Amongst all which miseries and doubtfull events of War this year 1644, Propositions being sent to Oxford in the moneth of November, the King and the Parliament came to a Treaty concerning three particulars; Of their Church-Government and Religion; of the Militia or standing Holds and Magazine of Englands and about profecuting the war of Ireland, where there had been nigh a year and half Cessation of arms. It began on Januar. 30 this year, by Commissioners from both, besides Commissioners from Scotland, and continued a little above three weeks, until February 22. None of the three being contented unto by the King, but the iffue of war was left to decide all.

The Parliament therefore, who, after debate between the Lords and Commons, wherein the Lords at first differted, on Decem. 31 foregoing, had voted Sir Thomas Fairfax, son of the Lord Fairfax, fole General of their Armies, who was highly effeemed both for Valour and Modesty. Which change, the emulation of great Commanders partly occasioned, whereby some good designs had not prospered; and the Earl of Essex, with two other Earls by Land, and the Earl of warwick by Sca, giving up their Commiffions; modelled a new Army, confifting of 21000 horse and foor. In which were many Colonels and Officers of full bent and active resolution to go thorow the businesse of War, that they had undertaken. The King also not wanting divers Commanders, and great forces under them which possessed their several Coasts, with many strong Garrisons that were in his hands. But before I speak of the archievements of that Fairfaxian Army, which were great and manifold in the year 1645, I shall take notice of some observable things in 1644. Which were, (besides divers Embassadours that came from France, from the Dutch, from Spain, to London, and so to Oxford, in 1643, and 1644, to mediate between the King and Parliament; which all took no effect; and Commissioners from the Irish Protestants to Oxford, Novem. 23.1644; as also Commissioners from the Romanists in Ireland, Decemb. 2. following, ) of a great fire that happened in the moneth October this year in Oxford, burning down a great deal of building from Carphux toward the Castle Yard. Of three Suns or Par-helii that were seen in London, Novemb. 19. two being made by the image or likenesse of the One Sun, in a thick and even, quiet and watery cloud, lively fer forth through the breaking in of the Sun brams. In which year also the two Hothams, father and son, who had Iuly the 15th, 1643, been brought prisoners out of the North to London, for conspiracy to betray Hull to the King, breaking their trust, &c. were on the very Kalends of January, 1644, beheaded. (A fad difaster, shewing, 'tis better never to engage in any thing, than not to be constant to what is undertaken.) On the third day of which January, the Common-Prayer-book (which before (together with Crosses and Images, in which number Cheap-side Croffe was demolished) Cathedral Service and Organs, &c. had been in most places taken away by Army-force, and Parliamentary-permission) yieldeth unto a Directory, made by an Assembly or Synod at westminster, which was established in its room, by Parliament-ordination. Within eight dayes after which, as though it had been on purpose, The Archbishop, william Land, after almost four years imprisonment in the Tower of London, was smirten with the Ax for Crimes of a various kind; who seemed to behave himfelf with confidence at the place of his execution, taking that place of Scripture, as a subject to speak on to the people, Let wrun with patience the race that is fet before m. The which matter he did read unto them; the which was printed. Mr. Burton also the suffering-Minister under him, soon after, setting forth something as to shew the salfe application of the same Scripture unto him self. Likewise the Anti-Parliament, which were the Members that went from tressmaller, who had assembled as a Parliament at Oxford, Jan. 22. 1643, were adjourned for seven moneths, from Mirch the total 1644, till Octob. 10th, 1643; whom also the King himself in a Letter to his Queen in France, called a Mangrel Parliament.

Charls also, Prince of miles, in the same moneth of March, departing into France. And (as though they would now make their King a Delinquent, the Commons house, on the 24th day of this moneth, as a conclusion of the year, voted, That that clause [For prefervation of his Majelies Person] which was before in Ester's, should be left out in them are General's Commission.

Who now being in a fit and throug posture, (although not seeming fo, either in the honourable worminesse of Commanders, or in the experienced antiquity of the Souldiers,) one of the first enterprizes that was undertaken by they new-modelled Army, was to beflege Oxford, which began on May 22, 1645; (the King about 15 dayes before marching out of the larne, who being joyned with his two Coulins, Rupert and Maurice, among to other intended defigns, in the mean time befieged Letteller, May 30, and the day following took it by storming; which place was considerable in regard of firength and fituation,) Cromwell, Fairfax his Lievtenant General, above a month before coing fome execution on a party of the Kings, at a place called Iflip-bridge, b. fi ging also Blechington .house, a Garrison, whit er some of them had ried, and had it furrendred unto him April 24; for which the Governor Colonel windebank was the next day that to death. While Oxford was befreged, there was an eminent falley made by the enclosed, which gave fome affront to the beliegers, June the 2d; and within a few dayes after, General Fairfax raised his siege, time having been lost by that unscasonable undertaking.

Time now drew nigh for a pitch'dbattle, the which in North-hamptonshire, in the sields of Naseby, was on the 14th day of the same June, joyned; many (as well they might) calling it, The Fatall battle of Naseby; because (like the Vertical point in the Zodiack) it made the King's successes, which were now raised high, to go, from that day, retrograde, and decay. In this sight, although at the sirst, through the routing of the left Wing of the Fatrfaxians, and Prince Ropert's pursuit thereof, the day of victory seemed to shine upon the King's Army; (For they were somewhat stronger in horse) yet Cromsell's force doing the like to the Royalists, together with Major General Skippon's magnanimeus-nesses and the stronger in horse, though much wounded, brought a night upon the former likelihoods; and gave both an absolute and happy victory to the Parliament: The horse sleening to the late taken Garrison of Leicester, by Cromsell's pursuit, no small number were taken prisoners; the Footmen (in general) defiring quarter for their lives, having first thrown down their Arms, were to the number of four or five thousand brought prisoners to London. Trophies also of this Conquest were the King's Standard of War, with 100 Colours, besides the King's Coach, with his Letters of Secresie; all their great Guns, bag and baggage, rich pillage, with much gold and filver; and (which made it more acceptable) it was, though not [ fine sudere] without pains; yet [ fine multo fanguine] it cost not much bloud, hardly 500 being slain in all; whereof almost 400 were of the conquered. Leicester hereupon (as Tork before, upon the like dyfaster) quickly yielding to this conquering Army. The which by diligence and courage, without delay defeated remaining Forces, relieved Taunton, took strong holds and Garrisons, faster than ever the other party had taken them before; amongst which, that tough and strong garrison of Basing-house, belonging to the Marquels of winebester, and by him defended, (that had been more than once attempted, but in vain, and with the losse of many lives, was on Septemb. 14 this year 1645, taken (under the Command of Lievtenant General Cromwell) by ftorm, in which the Marquesse himself was a Prisoner, and one Benjamin Johnson, a notable Stage-Player formerly at London, amongst the after-heat of the stormers, was by some Souldier slain.

The surprizal also of Hereford by Colonel Birch his stratagem, is remarkable, who under thew of bringing in Pioneers out of the Country in the night; the which the defendants for the King, had fent for, to strengthen their works, had the Draw-bridge pulled up unto a bold Souldier (with his company) that pretended the Constables Office, who stoutly kept up the bridge from being put down, untill the watchful approaching Souldiers came in, and with no fmall hurly-burly possessed that strong City. It happened on Decemb. 17th following, and amongst divers Sea transactions, five ships this year were taken by the Parliament at Sea, one whereof carried an Apostolique Messenger, so called, with 180000 Pistelets. The King now feeing unto what passe things were brought, and bringing against him, desired to treat in person with the Parliament, Jan. 13, which was denyed by them, chiefly (I understand) for fear lest his Personal presence in London, (where were a multitude affecting both his Cause and Person) should either cause disturbance, or incurr danger. They having also perceived from his letters that were taken in the aforefaid fight at Nafeby, which had been publiquely read in London, as divers things, so, that he treated not with them at Unbridge out of a candid mind, neither would he willingly have given the name of a Parliament unto them; faying, It was one thing to call them fo, and another thing fo to acknowledg them. After which refusal of the Parliament to treats amongst the rest, west-Chester (which the King was very loath to part with, it being fo convenient a landing place from Ireland, and would fain have had Irish to relieve it,) was in February surren -

dred. And at the closure of this year 1645, the Lord Hopton, on conditions granted him by General Fairfax, who had marched into the West parts, (which Hopson, had about the beginning of the to 1646. War divers encounters with Sir william waller, and was worsted by him, who was still on his legs, and did great and long fervice for the King) suffered all his forces to be disbanded, March the 14th.

Cap. 3.

Scotland also (who were helping their fellow-covenanters in England, and after a long fiege of 42 weeks, had the City and strong Garrison of Carlile delivered unto them June 28, 1645, who, garrisonning the same with their own men, caused the Parliament to write unto the Scottish Generall, to give it into English hands; Ordaining also thence-forward English Commissioners to reside in Scotland, as Scotch Commissioners did in England at this time felt the plaguing force of the Earl of Montrolle, who, from the time that his Countrey-men came into England in 1643, attempted to moleft Scotland in the Kings behalf. Who receiving about 1200 of the Rebellious in Ireland, with others added to them in Scotland, for almost a year and an halfs space, untill the battle of Killieth, by excursions, and retreats into craggy and disticult places, getting one Victory, and lofing two, lay like a gawling forc, or pestilentious discase in his Countrey. On whose successe the King having no fmall reliance, earnestly attempted to joyn, but could by no means accomplish it, being hindred by Parliament Commanders. (The Kirk of Scotland, in the mean time, having given a ferious admonition unto the King, shewing the danger of those courses; which he little or nothing regarded;) Neverthelesse, Montrosse, suddenly appearing, with scarce 4000, out of his retiring places, Aug. 17. 1645, in Kilfieth field, near the Town of Glascow, gave a great defeat and flaughter unto the Army of that State, by reason of ambushes laid in places that were there fit for them, killing above 5000 men; most of the Towns suddenly yielding unto him, and many persons, shewing their concealed good wills, now joyning with him; for which calamity of that Nation, the Englith sympathizing, kept a publique Fast. The English chief Army-Officers shewing also a freeness to adventure their lives for them, if domestique affairs would suffer. But David Lefley marching into Scotland out of England, to relieve his distreffed Countrey, with his horsemen, within a moneths time, Septemb. 13. at Selkirk or Philip-haugh, wholly ruined the fame Montroffe; and the changeable condition of this kingdom, was restored, as it were, into its former state: the King being at Routhen-Heath (by Major General Pointz) overcome with the loffe of 800 men, Sept. 24, defigning either to joyn with Montroffe, or to relieve besieged west-Chester. The Lord Digby being as unfortunate, who Octob. 15. following, was defeated at Sherburn in Yorkshire, and put to flight.

The French-man affailing Graveling, a strong Town that was Ppp garrisoned

Garrisonned by the Spaniard 1644, reduceth it under his power, by a short, yet labourlome, siege; but in Catalonia he was lesse prosperous, whereupon (as is usuall in bad successes of war) one Hodencurt a French-Commander there, returning home, is encompafsed in with a Prison. He possessed also two places in Italy, being angry with Cardinal Barbarine, (Cardinals being his choosers) about the Election of the new Pope. The Spaniard, who (in his Idolatry) committed both his fouldiers, and all his affairs unto the Patronage of the Virgin Mary, had (however) better success then the Emperour of Germany, in the same way, the year after; for he beat at Lerida 6000 French, and 2000 Portagals, forcing Lerida it felf unto a surrender : (as also the same year, the Castle of Astia in Italy, that the French had before possessed). But that he might have no cause to dote upon that imaginary protection; they repayed him again the fame with usury, the next year 1645. Who (besides taking the Town of Rosate, which it seems was so battered, that there were scarce ten whole houses remaining in it at the yielding; as also a strong hold called Trinity-Fort) beat the Spaniards at Balaquere, chasing them unto a place, called Cantelme. And by intercepting the provision that was for its relief. forces the Town to yield to him. And hangs some Catalonians, that were convicted of treachery against him. In Italy, he soatchethalfo (as it were) this year, the Town Vigenane, in which there was a Million of prey, yet lost it again. But in Flanders he overcame Mardike, two holds more, with a great Bulwark adjoyning to Dunkirk of the Spaniards, and also that notable Garrison of Motte of Lorrain, unto which no leffe then 1800 Country-Towns, and Villages belonging to the French-Title, were constrained to pay Tribute; carrying away unto Airebate a Town and Garrison of his, a prey with two hundred Wagons, 1200 head of Cattle, laying 200 Countrey Towns desolate. Yet losing Mardike again in Flanders, as he did Vigenane in It aly. And whereas Anthony Barbarine (whether through fear, jealoufy, or discontent) had departed out of Rome by night, he undertakes (this year) the cause of him and his, with the Bishop of Rome.

Which Bishop in 1644 had made peace with the Duke of Parma, and the Florentines, which was received with the great joy of all

Italy. The Emperour and his successiour setting the Arch-bishop of Triers at liberty the year following 1645, who being pompoufly received by Torstenson, enters into his Diocesse:

This year also the Maiden-Queen of Swethland, layer hold of the stern of Government in that Kingdome.

The Portugall also acting prosperously enough thorow the Ocean, the Spaniard being this year 1644, inferiour to him in Shipping.

The Tartars also making an inroad into Poland, are now beaten.

But in Turky, the Great Vizier presents himself armed before the Sultan, and reproveth evill affected persons. Who being received by the Emperour or Sultan's mother, an invective Woman, he to 1646. notwithstanding represset by laying to her charge, the unruly defire of Women to bear command, of which (it appears) she was guilty; for the which he is affaulted with a dagger, and striving to flip away is flain; this was in 1644. Now also the Offices or charges of the Turkish Court are changed. And Usur Piall the High Admirall at Sea, who was this yea, scattered by the Ships and people of Malta, where was a Ship taken by them, having in it many Concubines, descended of a Noble Pedigree, and likewife of a great value, esteemed at four Millions, which is 4000000 th. is (after some endeavour to escape) choaked by the command of the Great Turk; who in 1645, gave peace unto Ragorzy of Transilvania, through the earnestnesse of Tscherine his Embassadour pressing the same. Which Turk also, now arms himself by Sea and Land, as threatning the European world that own not his Mahomet : but, according to the Proverb, Threatned folks live long. However, he befiegeth and overcometh Canea. And deals injuriously with the French and Venetian Embassadours at Constantinople.

Bur the Dutch before peace made with the Danish King, passe thorow his Sea in 1645, whether he would or no; receiving also feven Ships of great value out of the Indies,. They take counfell likewise with the French, of setting upon Flanders on both sides of it. And themselves, who the year before attempted (as was said) Hulft in vain, do now make it yield by breaking thorow the fame, vanquishing also two other forcresses. But then, that they might not be too proud of their wealth; fourteen of their Ships, accounted to be worth four Millions of money, by reason of a Sea-Tower in the Danish-Sea, which (giving light unto Marriners to fee their fafe way into the Haven) was removed to another place, being dashed against the Rocks, were drowned. Memorable accidents in four years space, are these; A mischance happened at Vefalia, where hundreds of pounds of Gunpowder, being in the open Market-place laid into a Wagon by reason of the gaping chaps of the barrells, through the striking of a horses foot with his iron shooe against a flint stone, took fire; whereby, the adjoyning houses were cast down, and 30 people killed. L kewise at Vienna, out of a boat or Barque that was overwhelmed in the great River Danubius, one servant was saved from drowning, by vertue of two hunting dogs, that were ried together, by the which be held. At the City of Buda in Hungary, it rained lead and Tin. And at Strigone a Town schware on Danubius, the fishes flocking together, covered the River, shewing their heads above water, which thing the aged inhabitants, (it feems) from former observation, foretold to be a token of the change of their Lord and Master: these in 1642. But in the year 1644, in the Moneth of May, a great Wood (belonging to the Dukedome of Norimberg) of 8000 Acres of Land, burned in a flame, which is extraordinarily notable, if not ominous. The same year also Koning mark the Swedish Commander, had a strange and sad accident befell his children and houthold-fervants by lightning, at the folemnities of the Funeral of a Major, at Minda; flashing upon his fons: It defaced the first born's face, it smote the right side and arm of the fecond, and the right arm of his third born; yet the eldelt and youngest of his daughters had no hurr, but the servants, one and to' other were destroyed.

Chances by fire in 1645, amongst which these two were the faddest. At Vilna, 3000 houses burned : Bur at Constantinople, one thousand dwelling houses, and fifteen thousand Merchants Warehouses, two hundred Temples, sour consecrated places, and thirry flately dwellings or Palaces, were spoyled by the flame. The great winds at Balil in Germany, doing above 200000 Florenes damage; the Sea-coasts also of the Low-Countries and France feeling the fame thing.

These closed their last day. The Queen Mother of France, dyed at the City Agrippina in Germany 1642, having departed out of England the year before. Also Cardinal Cajetan, this year. Francis Albert Dake of Lamenburg, of a wound received, fighting against the Swedes; with others. In England, the Lord Brook, flain, as aforefaid.

The year following 1643, in France, dyed Lewis the 13th, King of France, fon to the deceased Mother the year before; as also Philip Landgrave of Hesse the Upper, in Germany, who deceased at Buisback. In England, Hambden a Colonel, one of the five accused Members by the English King, who was in June, 1643, at a place called Chalgrove field in a fight, mortally wounded, of which he dyed within fix dayes after: and on December the 8th, the same year, John Tym, another of those five Members; who was effeemed a great Statesman, gave up the ghost.

The Queen of Poland the following year, 1644, when the had brought forth a daughter named Claudia, breathed out her life in child-bed. Pope Urban the 8th, being above seventy years of age, and having been chief Bishop 21 years, now also deceased. Whence arose four Factions of Cardinals about the choyce of a new Pope, the Spanish, French, Roman, and Barbarine: but the Roman party prevailed, and chose John Baptista Pamphilim, named Innocent the 10th. Two this year dyed of an Apoplexy, the Duke of Bavaria his Embassadour, at the Council of Frankford; and Albert Duke of Saxony. One, with fuspition of drinking poyson, to wit, the Queen of Spain. But the Archbishop of Burgedale departing the World, left a yearly mustering of 4000 Target-men (as a Legacy to Cardinal Mazarine) in France, that King fo commanding

ir. And in England, belides the Hothams, and their Archbishop already mentioned by us, John Steward, Lord, of the King's party, of Cheift, and, I suppose, (by his name) his Kinsman, dyed naturally at to 1646. Albington five miles from Oxford at the beginning of April, and was interred at Oxford on the 5th day.

An Account of Time.

And Alexander Carem Knight, was beheaded five dayes before the Hothams, for crimes of the like nature objected against him, by the Parliament. Macquire also the Irish Baron, (who by pleading Peerage, protracted his life a little longer than Mahone, who dyed the same death a while before him ) was on February the 20th, 1644, hanged and quartered at London's Ty-

Amongst others, dyed Goce, a General of the Emperour's; in B hemia wolmar Rose a German, through a box of the ear given him by one widmare. The great Duke of Muscovy. These three

Of the English; Lord Littleton, Keeper of the Broad Seal at Oxford, August the 27th. And to conclude, one Dr. Featley, a man of much reading, and of a sharp Wir, who was chosen a Member of the Parliamentary Synod at WESTMINSTER, upon some secret compliance, or intelligence given to the King's party at Oxford, was committed a prisoner unto Peter-house in London, in 1643, or 1644; and at length writing a book in a tart manner against those called Baptists, or Anabaptists, had shortly after, a liberty granted of going abroad, yet still a prisoner at large, who a very little time enjoyed that freedom, dying on April 17, 1645.

CHAP. IV.

Of things which were done in divers parts of the World, Ferdinand the third being Emperour of Germany, and Charls the first, for a while, King of Britain.

From the year 1646, unto 1650, inclusively taken.

THe Emperour in 1646, who by the affent of the Duke of 1 Saxony, that had prolonged his Cessation of arms with the Swedes, quitting the garrison of Magdeburg, (Wrangle having departed unto Cremsie, a place out of the way) recovereth three Towns from the Swedes, and afterwards Cornuburg, a Garrison of great concernment. And then being increased in strength of Forces by the Bavarians, goeth down thorow Francony into Wetterave and Hasia, where he labours (though all in vain) to intercept or forestall both the Swedish Camps and provision of victual. For, he triumphing in his Camps for the joy of his fon Ferdinand the 4th, so called, who was chosen King of Bohemia, (whom toward the end of this year he so crowned) and also for the late return of Cornuburg into his hands. Wrangle flipping away, environeth the Emperour's Souldiers, and passing over the River Manu, he bends his march unto Danubiu. But Koning smark the Swedish Commander after one or two services, and estsoon subduing the Town of Breververd this year, doth joyn him felf with wrangle, when he had descended from Ilmene thorow Erford and Eichfield unto Vifurg. For he passed over the Mindean Foords, and had taken eight Towns, of which Paderborn was one. He fortifying his Camps at Amænoburg, withflood the Bavarians coming on with great force, and being by French Ayds made stronger, he presseth upon, and encompasseth them, that so they being kept apart from the River Mænus, he making haste, might come before them unto Danubita to hinder their passage over that River, and leaving Schorndorf to win Turain by affault, he himfelf takes Nordling and two other confiderable holds: which being done, he calls him unto him again, and fights against the City Augusta of the Vindelicians, but overcame it not. He also had almost made Lyce or Lycum his own, notwithstanding he intercepted warlique furniture, and large store of victuall of the enemics more than once. But more than this returning unto Memminge, he with the greatest boldnesse violently takes both the narrow passages that were between the Hills, and the Town of Brigant it felf, which is, as it were, the Key, opening unto, or shutting our of many Countreys, wherein was great spoyl and prey: as also Langenarch at the end of this year 1646, by surrender. In the mean time, the Castle of Marpurg being besieged, is yielded to the besiegers. But it cost one willick the Desender thereof, his head, at Gieffe. Two places foon after following that Castle's example, 479 example. Butsback (notwithstanding) being taken by Eberstein the Emperian. In the upper parts of the Country this year are subdued Smaleala, with four other places by the Emperour's Soul- to 1650. diers, of which two, Kirichain, and Rauschenburg, are lost, with no prosperous constict. Geise recovering Kirichain, demolisheth the same, and vanquisheth Alsfeld; getting also a victory over Eberstein, who was increased in number by Melander, carrying back eight Waggons, with 500 prisoners of War, and 700 horfes; but this was after that Rabenhaupt had returned from the fiege of Zonfe, and Melander had taken Euskirk and Flemburg; the which example Paderborn followed at the end of the year, taken before by Koningsmark. But the Duke of Wittemburg, bringing a supply unto the Swedish forces in Silesia, much troubleth or tvreth Montecucule the Emperian, who at the first of the year had the upper-hand, and followes him, going back into Bohemia; he takes also Haselcher, and two Towns more from the Emperians in the faid Silefia; but besieging Troppave a strong Garrison in Moravia, he lost his labour.

The year following 1647, when as wrangle had fortified the Island of Menave, together with the Castle of Lagenarch, and receiving Messengers from Helveria, had dismissed them with a friendly answer, he departs there-hence for lack of grasse or fodder; confirming also a cessation of arms at Monastere, and afterwards at Ulme, between the Swedish, French, the Hassians, and the Bavarian and Colonian. Then after some other passages of War, Koning mark having befieged Warendorf, there was a ftour fight at Sea, when their Ships were brought unto the Podanian Lake, at four places. The Novesians taking Nidek in the Juliacan field, and wrangle, receiving supply, by his Captain Lowenhaupt, Nordling, and Sweinfurt. The Duke of wittenberg also returnes itoutly into Silesia, and Dewage being cast out of two places betook himself to Breslave. Whose forces also taking the Town of Trautenave, take also the Glogavians therein, with 146 Horsemen, 40 Footmen, 270 Horses with bag and baggage. Bucheim and Spork Emperians make hast, who besieging Olave lose their labour. But Mortane is fent away unto Heffe of Caffella, who fubdued unto his power 9 Garrisons, whereof Fridberg, and a place called the Palatinate Fort, were two; but then besieging Rheinfelfe, he dyed with a mortall wound; whereupon there was a Truce made between the Haffians and Emperians. But the Emperour not only diffiking, but diffaining the conditions of the former Ceffation of Arms, most violently assaults the Town and Garrison of Weissenburg, and wins it from his enemies the defenders. Appointing alfo the Earl of Holifapfell, (who was of late known throughout Hassia, where he warred, by the name of Melander, General, in the room of Gallaste, who was by little & little in a decaying state of body, and thereupon repairing his Army, he fortifieth also three very confiderable places, to wit, Prague in Bohemia, Pilsene, & Vienna, the City of his Palace in Germany on Danubin; and having done this, (as thinking of Christ, to 1646.

thinking he had done fome great matter toward his protection and fuccesse) he bequeaths a Feast-day or holiday to be kept in remembrance of the Virgin Maries Conception, and so commits himself, his affairs, and Souldiers unto her Guardianship. Being impatient of a ceffation, he withdrawes werth and Spork, two chief Commanders of the Bavarian Army, from the faid Duke of Bavaria, (although they were condemned by him of treachery) and iovns them unto his new General Holisapfel; but he excused that deed unto the Swedes and French, it having been perfidiousnesse in him, to have voluntarily fent any of his, unto his affiftance, against those with whom he had a cessation from arms, within the limited time: He subdueth Falkenave, but going to hinder Egere from befieging, he flackened his pace, being often stopped by over or fool-hardy wrangle, (for that was his Epethite) in his very Camps, while he would break violently thorow unto a little bridge belonging unto a house of the Emperour's, for the entertainment of friends. He fights at Plane, and two other places, with a diverse issue, untill the Bavarian, the cessation of arms being ended, joyned himself unto him again; as also untill that wrangle (calling Koning mark unto him) should snatch away, as it were, his Army thorow Bohemia toward Anneberg, and should passe over unto Missia, Erford, and Visurge of Hoxtere, that he might refresh Souldiers at divers places, and then shew himself in Hassia: whither the Emperour's and Bavarian forces following him; (for a cause moving them thereunto) they were pleased to befrege the City Marpurg, where Holtfapfel, formerly Melander, the Emperour's General, through a Splinter of a beam (which was occasioned by the Castle's or Tower's Guns thundring into the place of his abode) breaking a vein of his neck, had almost breathed out his life, together with his bloud, by that open paffage. But (after one or two places vanquished by the Emperour, one whereof, to wit, Iglave, very hardly; and Nordling (that was taken this year, before, by Lamenhaupt the Swedish Captain; as faith Mercurius Gallobelgicus) wickedly or unhappily retaken by the Bavarian) the Swedish Novesians perform'd notable exploits, killing Goffe or Goce with 100 common Souldiers, and taking the faid Earl of Holtfapfell, some Majors, with 200 common Souldiers prisoners. Neverthelesse Lamboy (on the other side) watching his opportunity, vanquifacth windeke with three other strong holds in Colonia, and from thence goes into Westphalia, although he was commanded by the Emperour to come with his Brigade unto the chief of his warlique affairs.

Moreover, the same year, being 1647, the Souldiers of Turain are overcharged by Neighbouring garrisons of the Emperours, at Zwingenberg: and do affure the City Mentz, and worms, against the subrile devices of both Garner and Boninghause. But there was like to be a falling our with their own fellow. Souldiers, about Rose the Tribune, whom some Regiments required from the Army, to be restored their Captain; neither could they be brought to return to their duty by any means; but yet on some 🔨 certain conditions they do joyn to Koningsmark. Rose himself being brought to Paris, to declare the cause hereof. And when as to 1650. the Colonian, now renounceth his ceffation of arms made a while before, with the Swede, French, and Hassians, by reason of a Town that was taken of theirs, in the mean time, and some other unworthinesses received from the enemy; then Koningsmark, increasing his number with Rabenhaupt's Souldiers, (that prospered in some atchievements the year before) begirts Paderborn that had been taken and retaken in 1646, and ftoutly opposeth himfelf against Lamboy at Steynford, as he pierced into Ostro Frisia, or East-Friesland, and that, untill both Armies were summoned away unto the highest matters.

And truly, (as though things were now coming to the highest pitch) the Swedish Commanders and Armies do hotly encounter the Imperial Forces (in the year 1648) to their disadvantage. For Wrangle in the first place takes from the Duke of Luneburg 1400 horses, and the cloathing for his Army; and calling a Council of War at Stade, he moveth toward Paderborn, where he drives away the Emperians and Bavarians out of Hassia, where they wanted Victual, into Francony, having been fufficiently worn out at the fiege of Marpurg. Then increasing his Army, he palfeth over the River Manus at Asciburg, being 23000 strong, 15000 footmen, 8000 horfemen, 160 great Guns, and 200 waggons, and by force wrested 9 piece of Ordinance that were left by the Emperour's Army at Forcheym. And coming unto Feuchwange, he sets his Army in array; but the Emperour's forces do part asunder, the Emperians departing unto Ratisbone, and the Bavarians unto Eichstade; but wrangle himself sits down at Guntsburg; Koningsmark in the mean while wandring up and down, unto whom the abovefaid discontented Turanian Souldier then came. Then after three places yielded, possessed, and laid waste, and three others fortified: And the upper Palatinate pur to extream villany by the rude and cruel Souldiers, at length there was a conflict about croffing the River Lyce, (the French before that, coming to the Swedes, and covering Bavaria, upon which Bucheym and Spork are called out of Silefia) toward the City Augusta, and that, an unhappy one to the Emperians, Holt-Sapfell their General being in the very rear flain, also Konigsmark brings away their Secretary, with 200 and 70 Common men, and so opened their passage in Bavaria, whither it appeares they were tending. (Two reasons were given of this misfortune; either because Gronsfeld, Leader of the Bavarian Souldiery, had been Commanded (in imitation of the Hallians) to decline the Front of the Battle, and bring his Souldiers to defend rather the more found or strong parts thereof: or because he envyed Holtsapsell, the said Holtsapsell having his Chief Officers the lesse obedient unto him, both in regard of the Rigour of his Army discipline, and likewise, for that his Religious Rites were very much estranged from theirs. But Koningsmark breaking into Bohemia, and on July 16, making a free Egresse and Regresse unto the Town and Garison of Eger, that was shut up by the Enemy; on the 26 of the same moneth, he encompassing and taking 300 Scouts, or a party fent forth, by a cunning Stratagem, brought a greater mishap unto the Emperour, than the other: who fending forth by night as many of his own Souldiers unto Colored the Vice King of Bohemia, under a colour of being his party that was fent out, now returning, their Watch-word being first stollen; took by this disguise before day, that which is called Little Prague, with the Castle of Rets or Retise thereto belonging, with more than 200 men of a great fame, whom he made them to ranfom. A prev also of above seven millions value, fell hereby into his hands, the richer part of which he fends away in 60 Waggons unto Lipfia, Colored also the Vice-roy, hardly escaping from being seized on in his bed. Wrangle also croffing Lyce, confirmeth one garrison, and takes two into his possession; the Emperour's sliding away unto Viltshove, the Bavarians spreading themselves into Garrisons to defend those more strong places, who, upon the losing of Lyce, quitted or departed from Ifare, the which wrangle possesseth wholly: who belieging Wasserburg, was stuffrated of his attempt, and feeking a passage over the River Oene, could not obtain it, the Bavarian stoutly defending the right bank against him. Then he hath a conflict with the Emperians and Bavarians who revived again, at Dinckelfinge, and fits down at Landsbute, being repulsed by werth, who with great violence assailed them; the faid werth, having been newly received into favour by the Duke of Bavaria, who before had a prejudice against him.

Lest I should be too tedious, let me briefly run over some actions of two or three more chief Swedish Warriours this year. The Duke of Wittenberg (who was of that party, and was Lievrenant of the Ordnance, ) that he might make amends for some losse that Dewage had suffered through a mistake, which was 136 horsemen, and 336 horses, runs to him; demolishing Oelfa, and preying upon Silefia, and being increased with a supply of 6000 men from Pomerania and Moravia, breaks thorow into Bohemia, where, at Brandise, (the place where the image of the Virgin Mary trimly flood) he takes 600 of the enemics, and being put into the room of Koning mark, who was absent, he shews himself before old Prague: and then possesseth a Town, and a Castle in that Kingdom; after that, passing therew to Moldavia, about to come suddenly upon Missing of Crumavia, he, at Budovice, lights upon Bucheym, with three other of eminency, that were bring 120 Waggons unto places of more fafety; he takes them with their wagons, onely one Garner escaping, and so goes to meet their new General; who came out of Swethland amongst these clashings this year, with 8000 most choyse Souldiers: (This was Charls Gustave, who being begotten of his father John Cassimir, who was of the family of the Palatinates of Bipont, and his mother being the fister of Gustave Adolphus King of Smeden) was Couzen-german unto the Queen thereof; and unto whom she afterwards resigned that Kingdom;) leading them from several places, untill he brought them into Bohemia, where he is received by Koningsmark, and the Duke of Wittenberg aforesaid. His design was for the siege of Prague, unto which he breaks thorow: But of this by and by, when I have spoken a few things concerning fome others. Therefore Rabenhaupt the Hassian, together with Duglas the Swede, (while that those chiefest matters by the main Armics were tumbled out of Hasia thorow Francony, unto Lyce, and into Bohemia) recovereth some places that the enemy had possessed, taking Homburg by force, where were 20 Ordnance very well fitted, another place by a flight, but raced or spoyled Gleichenstein, and at length Geife is put in his place, with whom this year 1648, Lamboy contended : who closely befieging Geife at Gifeck; through the valour of Ernest the Lantgrave, who with 300 common Souldiers brake in upon the besiegers, sers the besieged at liberty, Lamboy losing some hundreds of his men, (yet Ernest himself was taken in the enterprize) who returning unto Bonne, and demolifiing another place, he presents himself at Grevenbruge before the Camps of Geise, and joyning battle, he routs the left wing of Geise his Army, taking prisoners the Earl of Weide, with 200 common men, and feven waggons. But while (as oft-times comes to passe) he the more sharply pursues the dispersed left wing, all his great guns were taken from his own right wing, and surned against him, so that he lost what he had gotten, Geife recovering the Captives of the left wing, and besides slew above a thousand of Lamboy's Army, took 500, above 13 Wagons, and 15 Enfignes, with the loffe of but 160 men. Lamboy being thus worsted, (whom the Emperour indeed had commanded (as in the year before, 1647,) to come to his main Army; but the Colonian prevented it by thewing him, how much it concerned, not to leave Westphalia destitute of strength) the Arch-Duke of Austria affords him money, and the garrifons of Westphalia supply of menmaking prayers to make God their friend. The first atchievement after this recruit and supplication was the surrender of Castoriam unto him: after which, he opposeth his Camps to the Hassian Army almost within sight of Agrippine a City of Colonia. Geise notwithstanding (especially when Frederick the Lantgrave had brought him 1500 horse)valiantly conquered the Town of Marcodure, Eamboy imploying his Auxiliaries in vain to hinder it : notwithstanding he stoutly looseth Paderborn from besieging : and then both parties fitting down over-against each other at Brakellin the faid Colonia; news is brought them of a concluded peace between them.

Which peace (without doubt) between such accustomed and stomachful enemies, the prevalency of the Swedish Forces this year, together with this new General's coming into Germany with fuch fresh supplyes, caused; who sets upon the City of Great Prague in good earnest, making Mines under the ground, whither Bucheym, lest it should be subdued, swiftly came, that he might manfully withstand the Forces of Charls, the said new Swedistr Commander. Yet furely it was forely endangered; for into both Pragues, are carried no leffe than 3286 stroaks of discharged Ordnance; the besieger likewise possessing two places of residence within the Territories of new Prague, whither also the concluded peace is (not forrowfully) brought tydings of. It was first concluded of by most noble Embassadours on all sides, in Westphalia, on the 14th and 24th day of October, 1648, whose Masters established it by their assent the two next moneths; the Emperour on the 13, and 23 of November, the French King on the 14, and 24 of the fame; by the Swedes on the 12 and 24 of December; in which peace, the Duke of Lorrain (whether through prejudice conceived against him for the notoriousnesse of his Armies villany in Germany and Flanders, besides spoyls done to the French) could not be included therein; and the King of Spain would not, whether out of enmity to the French, or hatred to the Protestants with whom it was concluded; for the Bishop of Rome his most Great father, pursued with a Protestation against it, because hereby his Church should lose both rich Territories and dignities. Yet the Spaniard the same year enters a peace with the United Provinces of the Low-Countries at Muniter, laying aside all authority and privilegious right over those Provinces, as also the lower Hassians with the Upper, on some hard conditions made betwixt them.

Thus (Reader) I have brought thee to the Walls of Prague, within which, the cause & soundation of nightwenty eight years cruell tedious and depopulating war, (to wit) by the choyce and Crowning of Frederick the Electour Palatine there, unto which he was pushed forward by some Germane Princes, was laid and given; and here now ends; expecting for the surret that brief saying to be sufflied, Pax invidium prossernit, Peaceprostrates or burieth envy; the which (questionlesse) was by long broils, slaughters, and cruelties much contracted,

In the mean time in England (after the defeating of Lord Afbly, a Royalist in a field battel, by Morgan a Parliament Colonell, himself with 1600 being taken Prisoners, which was on the very brim of the year 1646, March 21, of 1645, and some other strong holds, delivered into their hands, amongst which was Corf Castle in Dorset-shire, by storm, and a stratagem (not much unlike to that of Hereford) Aprill the eighth, 1646, Prince Ruperts Troops being also disbanded on the twenty sith day: and Oxford it self (wherein the King was) after a blocking up, was ready to be closely besieged by Generall Fairfax, the said King escaped out of the City (under colour of one of his favourites man, with whom he of Chrift, rode) unto the Scottish Army, who were encamped at Southwel to 1650. straightly besieging (with some Parliament English forces) that most strong and intesting Garrison of Newark, who having had a fore plague, together with hunger and straits, upon their Kings comming unto the besiegers, the Scots yielded the Town on conditions. He came thither May the fifth following; which comming, caused (there having newly been some jarring between the English and Scots about want of their pay, and neglect of Church-discipline according to the Covenant) no small differrious and divers harsh writings between the Scots and the English Parliament, about the disposall of his person (which the English, for divers the more just reasons, demanded out of their hands, whom they carried farther North) for some Moneths. Notwithstanding, in the very interim there was fuch a prudentiall management of things; that both the Nations friendlily conjoyned (amongst other tranjactions) in fending nineteen propositions, as was faid, for a fate and well-grounded peace, strained not very much higher than thoic of uxbridge, unto the King by English Commissioners, at Newcastle, Scotlands Parliament Commissioners being also there, and affenting; this was Jul. the 15th of this year, Unto which (after perswasions, and pressings, amongst which Lord Londens Oration the Scot was eminent) he would not agree. So that the English Parliament voting the Scots 400000 th for their affistance; of which, 200000 l.they were presently to receive, and accordingly, about the latter end of January they did. Upon which receipt (as they were to do) they delivered up three strong Garrisons that were in the North of England; Newcastle, Barwick, and Carlifle, into the Parliaments hand, and withall the King, (whom many fay they fold) for they would not carry him to Edenburgh, though they had free leave of the English fo to do, for fear of new disturbances) whom the English Commissioners brought into one of his Southern Pallaces, (Holmby, the 17th of February) according to his defire, with great honour and respect, in all this he not being used as a conquered Captive, but a King. The Scottish Army, on February the Eleventh following, marched over the River Tweed into their own Countrey, three Commissioners also (at the same time) being sent thither to the Scotch Parliament concerning publique matters. For they had begun to consult how to settle the affairs of both Nations without the King. Oxford the mean while, which on May the second, 1646. was Oxford the mean while, which on May the fecond, 1646. was by General Fairfax befieged, and summoned, was in about fix weeks time surrendred, for it was on June the twenty sourch after) the besieged having very fair and large conditions allowed them. (They treated above a Moneths space of the time, and the Parliament debated the businesse.) For they had sive thousand choyse souldiers in that strongly fortisted City, good store of provisions; the first day of opening, which was May the fixth, between sour

None except Rupert and Maurice, who were to depart the land, were forbidden to come to London, and the Kings son, the Duke of Tork, was with honour thither condusted. But the old Broad Seal which they left behind them, was August the eighteenth, (the Parliament having made a new one) broken and defaced ar London.

Five or fix other most strong places, foon yielding themselves after Oxford (of which the Island and Castle of Scilly, at the West end of the Land, was one Sept. 16. Which was a great harbourer of Men of War for the King by Sea, that took great spoil of Merchants Ships, and from whence Prince Charls had not long before fled into Jerfey) and Colonel Masseys brigade being by Fairfax quietly disbanded in the West, among whom (about the difference of Presbytery and Independency in Church-Government of which there were great factions then in England) a mutiny was feared, the war was even finished, and Generall Fairfax came Novemb. the 12th with triumph into London, where by both houses of Parliament, he was (in order) most amply and heartily congratulated, unto which he replyed with a short modest answer. The Earl of Elex their first Generall, that brake the Ice, dying (as is faid) of an Apoplexy, the 13th of Sept. aforegoing, who on the 22th of Octob. following, was most pompously (by the Parliament) inter-

But the next year 1647, was partly spent in the divisions of fellow-Conquerours, and many others, divided under the name of Presbyterians and Independants; the former complaining that the folema Covenant was not kept, the latter, that it was missinterpreted: the Royalists in the mean time ready to joyn with. cither for their own advantage, very many having out of taken-Garrisons resorted to Landon. These diffentions increasing, Petitions were both presented to the Parliament against the Army as Independents, and the Parliament themselves debated of disbanding them, against which (as wronged) they Petitioned the General, because they neither had their Arrears, nor the Laws and Liberties they had fought for, were obtained. And although the other party much stomached and complained of the faid Petition. yet on June the fourth, 1647, the King was by a party (under the command of one Cornet Joyce) taken from Holmby, and carried unto severall places, according to the removing of the Armies quar-Whereupon, the Parliament ordered where he should refide, which was at Richmond, but eight miles from London, and also who should attend and Guard him. But in stead of fullfilling the same order, there was sent from the Army an impeachment against eleven members of the Commons, as hinderers of right, doing something against the Army it self, and hindering Irelands relief, the which, had been, as was thought, too long obstructed already by reason of the Kings going to the Scots. This caused half a years separation of these members from the house, although voluntary. Notwithstanding through the affociating of many Citizens and Apprentices of London (that were for the refloring of the King and the Covenant) with some that had been to 1650. chief Officers of the Army, (as Sir william waller, Colonel Massey, Major Generall Pointz, after that the houses, through the violation of their fitting, and free voting, by some of the aforesaid Citizens and Apprentices, had adjourned for four dayes, and in the mean while many went from London to the Army) the matters fwelled up to that height, that on July the thirtieth, the City of London openly declared against the Army, (being strengthened on the very same day by three votes of the Members that remained at London, (two new speakers being chosen) choosing Makey Generall of their forces and Militia, that they then raised to oppose the Army: Which Army hereupon drawing nigh to London, did fomething allay the Citizens courage; fo that they both deserted the Parliament of July the 30th, with the eleven Members, difbanded and delivered up all Forces, Forts, and Militia into Fairfax his hand, recalling also their late Declaration. And on Aug. she fixth, the departed Members, were (by the Army) restored to their fitting. Who with a full body, the next day, Aug. 7. Marching thorow the City, flighting its Works and Forts, taking possession of the Tower, and confining its Militia to its own onely bounds, receiving also a Moneths pay from the Parliament in gratification, all this being to the gladding of some, and the grief and vexation of others.

This being done, the Army Aug. the 18th, 1647. remonstrated their defires for the Parliaments closing with the King, and that he might come to London upon that closure; Yet the Scotch Commissioners (who, before satisfaction given unto his people, had denied the justnesse of his accession thither) would have had him now our of the Armies hands, personally to treat at London; however to stay at Hampton Court, whither he came, Aug. 24. Propositions were fent him thither, unto which to confent he denied; More were again framed, and in the mean time, Nov. 11. he privily fled into the Isle of wight, leaving a Letter behind him, shewing, the end of it was, to preserve his own safety, against whose life some laid wait. About seven dayes after his comming thither from Carisbrook Castle, he sent to the Parliament a Letter, in which he was earnest for a personall treaty at London, that might be accompanied with three appendices, honour, freedome, and fafety; they voted, Novemb. 26; that upon figning four propositions, in order to security, which seemed not unreasonable, that should be admitted: who neverthelesse, the Scots being averse unto the said bills presenting, and people divided into parties in London, flatly refused to confirm the same, for which cause, they voted Jan. the third, that no further addresses should be made unto him, or mefluage received from him by themselves, or any other without their leave. Which Votes, the Generall, and Army-Councell on the eleventh day seconded with a Decla-

These Votes, and Army-Declaration, inflamed rather than appeafed the anger and fury of many people, who not onely longed for, but expected the King to be reftored unto his former dignity, although the Parliament fought by another Declaration, (thewing how often they had applyed themselves unto the King, yet all in vain) to asswage their disturbed minds : so that tumples and infurrections (the beginnings of a fecond war) were not onely feared, but raised; the first of which was that in the Isle of Wight it felf, near the very Castle in which the King was; for which, the principal Leader, Captain Burleigh, was at an Affizes, called at Winchester on purpose, condemned for Treason, and executed Febr. 10. 1647. Notwithstanding in the moneth of April 1648, London's Apprentices, and other young people, gave a notable example of war and fedition unto adjacent places, who faying they were for Charls their King, put the whole City in great fear, the Lord Maior being constrained to betake himself unto the Tower, who the next day by a party fent by General Fairfax, were vanquished and quieted, and a thousand pound given to the Souldiers for the service. The Duke of rork escaping (in the same April) from James his house near westminster, out of the Parliaments hands. And the Prince being as a banished man in the peoples eye, by private Commissions from his Father the King, raised war; which war seemed more formidable and dangerous unto the Parliament and Army than the former, both in regard of the Scots, who from affifting friends, were turned threatening enemies, and chiefly those that were called Presbyterians, fiding both in London and the Countrey with the Royalifts upon the Covenant-account.

Now divers strong holds were seized on for the King, as Barwick, April the 30th, by Sir Marmaduke Langdale; and Carlile about the beginning of May following; Pontfratt Cattle, (where alfo Colonel Rainsborough was treacherously by the enemy afterwards, Octob. 29, taken in his bed and flain, as he lay at the fiege thereof,) was June the third furprized by a Major and Captain of the King's, having first killed the Governour, Before which, on May the 12th, there was an Insurrection at St. Edmondsbury not far from London, and a seditious Petition by the Surreymen on the 16th day, the Peritioners besides hurting, killing one of the Parliament's guard; for which, themselves were by fome horse scattered, and some killed. A far greater on the 24th day was by the Men of Kent, with whom divers great ones of that Country joyned; Great toyl it cost Fairfax (who was with feven Regiments engaged against these rifers) to subdue them: the greatest conflict was at the Town of Maidstone, where with very much difficulty, and no small danger, with the losse of 40 men, the place was obtained, against about 2000 defendants, 200 being flain, most of them taken prisoners, besides horses and arms. Thousands of their Countrey-men of the same party, looking on, in the mean time, and not daring to oppose the General. A rem- to 1650. nant of this Kentish-Army under the Lord Goring's conduct, approached nigh London, to see the affections of the Citizens, who being pursued by some Horsemen of the Army, Goring with four or five hundred of them croffed the River into Effex, where the Lord Capell, and Sir Charls Lucas with forces joyned with them, who notwithstanding were soon afterwards driven into the City of Colchester (unto whom many from London reforted) by Fairfax, and after a pretty long fiege, the befieged having no hopes of relief, and being brought to great straights, horse-flesh being accounted good meat, Aug. 28. yielded themselves into the Conquerour's hands, two of whom were shot to death, to wit, Sir Charls Lucas, and Sit George Lifle.

But (to leave other rifings in the West and other places, because they were foon quelled) much danger threatened the Parliaments Caule in Wales, by Laughorn, Poyer, and Powell's conjoyning, who before had done the Parliament (especially Laughern) good service. The faid Laughorn with Powell having an Army of 8000 men in the field; unto the which one Colonel Horton with but 3000 gave a compleat overthrow, killing many, and taking about 3000 prisoners; this was in May. Those two flying unto Poyer in Pembrook-Caftle, a most strong place, (after that Chepston-Cafile was furrendred unto another Parliament Commander, whose chief Defendant Sir Nicholas Kemish, was after the yielding, May 25, flain,) Crommell after a while about July had it yielded unto him, with the opposers all prisoners; extremities within constraining them thereunto.

The Earl of Holland also (who before had played fast and loose) new taking his opportunity, with the Duke of Buckingham, was in arms at Kingston upon Thames with 500 horsemen, who was put to flight by Sir Michael Leveley, and afterwards taken and fent to Warnick Castle; the Lord Francis, the Duke's brother, being in the Combate flain.

The plundring forces also belonging unto Pomfret Castle were quite vanquished by Colonel Rossiter, who, in that action, was forely, though not mortally wounded.

But the greatest block to leap over, was a Scottish Army under Duke Hamilton's Command, who (though they were judged to be both that Kirks and Kingdoms enemies, and so had not their good wishes for their successe) invaded England about or in the moneth of June, and a little after being added unto by Langdale's forces, were strong in number, having no lesse than 25000, and cruel and terrible unto the Inhabitants where they came. This Army Major General Lambert kept in play, untill Lievtenant General Cromwell (Pembroke-Castle being scasonably delivered unto him) could come to joyn with him, who being in all not full ten shouland strong, Aug. 17. 1648, wholly vanquished and defeated $\sim$ ot Chrift, to 1650.  $\sim$  that Army, took the Lievtenant General, and foon after the Duke himself in flight with 3000 horse, 3000 having been before slain, and 9000 taken prisoners. The Conquerour, Cromwell, after this, entring Scotland with a happy successe, ayded that Nation against some enemies, that there stood up, (reducing also Barnick and Carlil.) and was by them both magnificently entertained, and ingenuously acknowledged (under God ) Scotland's Preferver, whose Army was before called by many of them, A company of Scharies.

The History of the World; or, Lib.10.

Divers ships likewise revolted from the Parliament unto the Prince by Sea, at the beginning of June, not suffering Rainsberough the Vice-Admiral to come aboard: fo that the Prince within two moneths after, was with near 20 fayl upon Thames, out-daring the Earl of warmick, who was too weak for him: But through the prudence of Sir George Asscough, the Portsmouth Fleet was brought by the Princes ships safe unto the Earl, and then they followed the Prince upon the coast of Holland, whither he was gone to victual.

In the midft of these ftirs, (whether in love or fear of the King and his Cause, the Parliament themselves altered their former Votes, nulling on June 30, 1648, those for no further Addresses to the King, Jan. 30. before, (having admitted the 11 impeached Members) And voted, (though not a Personal Treaty at London, yet an honourable one to be had with him, he first accepting thereof, upon Propositions, in the Isle of Wight, which began Septemb. 18 this year, 5 Lords, and 10 Commons being chosen as Commissioners to treat, and 10000 l. to defray the charges of the same. It lasted about 9 weeks, untill Novemb. 27.

But in the mean time, this new war being now over, and the Army at some leifure, its Councel of Officers altogether dishking that Treaty, gave a prevalency (by a Remonstrance of theirs unto the Parliament, Novemb. 20) unto divers County Petitions delivered in the moneths September and October, for the execution of impartial Justice upon some aforementioned, as Hamilton, &c. authors of much bloud and calamity, and especially on King Charls himself, as the raiser of the whole War, and that Goo's wrath might be feared to attend them, if he were unpunished. Whereupon, when as the King's Concessions in the Isle of Wight, were Decemb.5. following, voted fatisfactory by the Parliament; the next day, divers Members that had so voted, were both secluded from fitting, and confined, by the Army; and a little after, the King was brought out of the Island unto Hurst Castle, by a party of Horse, and so to wine for, Decemb. 23. And after the Supream authority voted to be in the House of Commons, Jan. 4. there was an Ordnance made for the King's Tryal on the 6th day; in order to which, an unufual Court, called, an High Court of Juflice, was erected, on the 9th day, before whom the King appeared Jan. 20, and when as he would not plead to his Accutation, as being unfatisfied in that Courts power to judge him, (but rather forbad the Clerk to ftop, and hold his peace, after his earnest defire to speak with the Houses in the Painted Chamber, which would not by the Prelident Bradshaw and the Court be suffered) to 1650. he was sentenced to be beheaded by the said President, the which was accordingly executed on Jan. 30, on a Scaffold erected before white-Hall, who there tellified unto the people, That he dyed a Protestant according to the Church of England's Doctrine, (delivering his George unto Dr. Juxda, who was his bolome-attendant, that, as was supposed, he might send it unto the Prince) and speaking not much in the vindication of his innocency. He was atterwards Febr. 9th, by 4 Lords, and Dr. Juxon weeping, inhumed at winafor in Georges Chappel, where Henry the eighth was formerly buried; after this, Proclamation was made, in Towns, That none should dare to proclaim Charls Stuart his fon, or any of that race or other, King of England, upon pain of death for Treason; for the which, one Beaumont a Minister, was on the 16th of February executed at Pontfrast; the Scotch Commissioners having before, Jan. 10. difavowed those proceedings of the English, and therefore, young Charls was on Febr. 5th proclaimed King in Scotland, and on the 16 day likewife proclaimed in Ireland. The house of Lords being on the 6 day of the same Feb. voted by the Commons, uselesse and dangerous, (a necessary consequence of the fall of Monarchy) and on the 17 day a Democratical Government of 40 chief ones, called a Committee or Councel of State, was by and under the Parliament Senate appointed. Amongst which actions, Duke Hamilton, Earl of Normich, who had likewife raifed Forces for the King in this last War, Earl of Holland, Lord Capell, and Sir John Owen, were all brought to a Tryall before a second High Court of Justice, which began Febr. 10, and after fentence of death passed on all five, March the 6th, two, to wir, Earl of Norwich, and Sir John Owen, were on March the 8th reprieved, and the next day the other three beheaded in the Palace-Yard of westminster, Lord Capell behaving himself the most considently, and undauntedly at the time of execution. And to close up this year in England, after the voting down of the Lords in Parliament, the Earl of warmick, a Peer, was removed from his Admiral(hip at Sea, Febr. 21; and the next day, a considerable thip called the Hart-Frigot revolted from this new State. But Pontfrast Castle, that tough relique of Garrisons, which all this time held out, was on March the 22, 1648, constrained to surrender.

In the mean time, the Frenchman by the Duke of Turain well handleth the League with the Swedes in 1646, and receiveth Anthony Barberine the Cardinal at Paris, endowing him with fome yearly profits belonging to Spain: and among other actions of this year, he fets his Army in Array at Genoa in Italy, against whom the Pope opposeth the Duke of Savile. He also fits a Navy, and takes possession of the Haven of Stephen and Telamon, besieging the Rrr 2

Sea-Town of Orbitell, and fighting prosperously enough in a Seabattel, though he lost Brefe his Sea-Commander, he gains the place: he was indeed by the Pope's forces cast out of Tuscia, yet he subdued Portologona, together with Plumbine, and so makes the agreement of the Barbarines to be easie, with the Pope. But there was a Conspiracy by the Spaniard against his Vice-Roy or King at Barcellona, the Spaniard proclaiming the Duke of Arcofe Vice-King of Naples: yet he vanquisheth the Fort of Arragon, and besiegeth Lerida; but he received after eight moneths siege, a most valiant repulse by two Spanish Commanders, 70 of his Ordnance being taken, the Spanish Souldiers being spread abroad for the prey. But it was otherwise in Flanders this year: for by his Captains, the Duke of Orleance and Enguenne, he first obtains the Town and garrison of Cortrack from the Spaniards, although they had a sharp conflict with him at Cuerne about it; and then wins Vinociberg and Mardike by affault, and at length that notable place for Pyrates, Dunkirk, a very great help and fafety to his affairs, if he could have kept it.

But the Dutch, who (as was faid) had consulted with the French. of affailing the Spaniard on both fides of Flanders, do intercept Tiene by the croffing passage of the River Mose, taking therewith many Captives of no imall name and fame; yet they vainly endeavour this year, 1646, to take Venloe by siege. Neither indeed is any thing performed by them besides, worth the price of their warfare, unleffe it were, that by bufying the Spaniard, they helped the French Expedition. They agree also to restore places that were possessed by them in the Juliacan field, unto the Electour of Brandenburg, who married Ludovica, daughter to the Prince of Orange.

The fame year the King of Poland having joyned himself in marriage to Nivernia at warfove, he gives a hearing unto an Embassadour of the great Duke of Moscovy, concerning a League to be mutually made against the Tartars. And searing war from both Turks and Tartars, he studies warfare; against which, the States (fearing an oppression of their Country thereby) do strongly endeavour. Whose brother Casimir is now counted or enrolled amongst the number of Cardinals: but being disappointed of the title of a Kingly brightnesse conferred on him, (such was his zeal) he quite left that pretended holy order. Now also the Turk and Venetian do struggle, John Capello being declared General for these, in the room of Francis Erizzo, who dyedthis year 1646, and Francis Molino chief Captain of the Dukes Navy, both aged men, the first above seventy years of age, the second one under. Degenfield commanding his forces throughout Dalmatia, the which, Turkish weapons made to tremble, for Noviograde is yielded unto him, and Zare is overcome; yet the Venetian recovered them both again, freeing another place from fiege, and flaying the Basham of Bosnia, the Turk vanquisheth Schiffanion Castle, but he is overcome at Dardanelly, and again by Sca, losing three Oar-Galleys; yet had the upper hand at Canea through the errour or obstinacy of the Commander Valettane. Capello alfo, craving excuse for his age, had John Baptista of Grimane 1650. for successiour in his General-ship, after which, they joyning a doubtfull battel with the Turks at Retime, a Town that yielded it felf unto their violence, the Venetians (who think their contention against the Turk a kind of holy War) run to three remedies; Prayers, Alms-Deeds, and Embaffages to other Princes to intreat their aid and affishance. The Jews also being taken in the very act in passing over or conveighing Weapons to the Turks.

Cap. 4.

Moreover the Moscovite the same year, sends an Embassadour into Swethland, being by all neighbourlinesse studious of peace. A Swedish Embassadour de la Garde going likewise to Paris, and another from the Transilvanian, comming unto Lypsia, the Hungarians at the same time, treating in their publique Assemblics about confirming peace with the faid Translvanian Prince, and likewise with their Emperour (who before had Crowned his fon their King) concerning rooting out the Jesuites from amongst them. This honour also (at Stockholm) the Swedes afford unto Gustave Gustavison the illegitimate son of their late King, to be reckoned among their Earls, although not capable of a Kingdome.

But the Bishop of Rome (who it seems is full of money) bestoweth 18000 Crowns on a Chain to shut up the Haven of Civita Vecchiain 1647. Yet (as not having enough) in 1649, he is at variance with the Duke of Parma about the Dutchy of Castro, whether it be the Fee-farm of the Church, They joyn battel about it, but the Duke hath the upper hand, and then the Bishop layes the blame of moving that war, on Godfride a Marquesse; but comes to an agreement with the Duke for a round fumme, paying him 300000 Crownes presently down, and 600000 Crowns to be told out to him a while after. Notwithstanding the Castro (which I understand to be the house or Pallace belonging to the land) is laid equall with the ground. And before the year was ended, a Jubilee or Feast of joy and rejoyeing is in a solemn (though Jewish) nanner opened or prepared at Rome.

The same year there is a new Governour for the Spaniard in the Netherlands, to wir, Leopold, Arch-Duke of Austria; he subdueth three Towns, Armentere that was laden with all kind of Victual, also Comene and Lense; and afterwards Landrese, the French (at the same time) quickly taking Basea and Dixmude, attempting also Newport, and at wawer at Bruxells, carrying all the spoil out of the place, turned 80 houses into ashes. Yet now as a forerunner of a league, there is a ceffation of arms beween the Spaniards and Dutch, but Chemleve returns with difgrace unto Dixmude, while Ranzove another French man retakes (with great pains) Lenfe from the Spaniard, losing fix eminent persons in the atchievement. unto this Countrey also are brought out of the Indies ten Millions and a half of Gold.

Somewhat there was to do likewife between the 17 nch and Spanish on the other side of France, this taking one place from the French, &c. But this was remarkable, that Lerida was now ftrongly defended against the Prince of Condee, who was General there in the room of Harcourt.

But the next year, 1648, the King of Spain (setting forth his Souldiers, and laying out his money at Oftend, brings an Army into the field of 27000, Subduing Cortrack, and yielding Tpre to the Prince of Condy, and afflicts Ranzove the French Commander, who was now gaping for O Hend it felf. Yet he suffers a notable slaughter and overthrow at Lense, for the French being increased by the Army of Erlack, beats the Spaniard grievously; Beck and his fon being both flain, and taking the Prince of Ligne, and the Marquesse of Grans, with twenty Captains, 6000 & 200 Commonfouldiers, fourty Great Gnns, 90 Enfignes. Through Italy the Spaniard takes Furn, but loseth it again, and receiveth losse by the Duke of Modena at Pade, who feattered 700 Spaniards, and again, kills 300 of them, taking 1000 and 300. The French King also sending the Duke of Guise privily among the seditions Neopolitans, was disappointed of betraying the Towre or Castle of Carmine; the Duke wastaken, and was not let go but with a ransome. Moreover homebred troubles arise now in France, (a chief cause being the oppression of the people, which is not small in that Kingdome) the Duke of Orleans, together with the Senato ftriking at the Court, yet there was a present quietnesse, when as the King had changed the Judges of criminall causes, and somewhat eased the people by Parliament. But (as a sore not healed to the bottome) the distemper grew fresh again, when as the Duke of Bruffells, more freely pleading the peoples cause, was cast into bonds, the King going afide unto the Temple of Saint Germanes. But at length, before this year's expiration, which is 1648, when the Captive Duke was restored, there is a second rest, the King returning unto Paris, though with very much intreaty. A homebred conspiracy (likewise) there was made at Madrid the chief City in Spain, for the which, two chief actours, Charls of Padigle, and Peter of Sylvapegme, Princes, lost their lives.

While these things were in action, the Tartars, and Cossacks offend Poland; the one wasting the Countrey, being instant for their tribute: and the other, for the reftraining their antient Religious rites, and the robberies of the Lievtenants of their Countries. They take two confiderable places of Poland this year 1648 into possession. And Dominick the Polanders General, despising the counsell of wiesnewick, a chief Officer of that Army, is by these Coffacks put to flight, lofing 72 piece of Ordnance, and 20000 Souldiers, requiring for the rensome of the Captive General, a great fum: this great losse caused great strife in their publick affemblies, so that they fought there about it. But Chmielinsky the leader of the Coffacks, will have it decreed amongst them concerning the Religious matters of his Countrey, and Family, and the next year the new King of Poland, John Cassimir who was chosen the year before 1648, and now in 1649 Crowned, (who also married his brothers Widow bound in her bed) moving against both 1650. the Cofacks and Tartars, the Cofacks by force obtain both their antient ceremonies of Religion, and an amendment of the Government of their Common-wealth. But the Cofacks flew in Peland in the year 1648 (So cruel were they) 8000 lews, and above 200000

Toward the latter end of this year, Frederick, who was of late Arch-bishop of Bremes, is Crowned King of Denmark, this Churchman could not fay, My Kingdome is not of this world. And Mary Ellenor the Queen Widow of Gultave Adolphus, is brought, (Peace being now concluded in Germany) from Wolgast with honour and folemnity unto Stockholm.

But the Venetians offliet the Turks both by Sea and land, in 1647 and 1648, for the Christian Navy under the Knights of Malta possessing places in their enemies Land, taking many Oar-galleys, their land Army doing the like throughout Dalmatia, which loffes made the Turkith Emperour gnash his teeth for anger, at his Captains. Preys also being taken from him in Hungary, where he keeps a Bashaw. And in 1648, Foscol the Land-Generall scourgeth them in Dalmatia, vanquishing three Towns, and then dispersing 4000 of these Insidels, two places more yielded themselves unto Foscol, yet he lost Licca, and elswhere the Turk had some Masterdome. But the Venetians get Mirabell in Creek or Candy, with the Victualling thips: and his loffe by thipwrack was great; Grimmane the High-Admirall with 1000 and 600 Souldiers, with the value of 14 Millions: the Venetian fights prosperously against him also at the Forts of Dardanell; for which businesse, the Governour and three Bashaws were flain at Constantinople, thirty Galleys come laden to Cannea with Souldiers and Victualls from the Turk this year, where two Forts are lost and recovered by the Venetians, and that with much bloud, the Earl of Solm falls in battel, with seventeen Captains of a hundred men. The Venetians maintaining also the Haven of the pleasant Vale of Suda in that fruitfull Island, against the opposing Turks, whose Emperour or Sultan Ibraim, is reported about the fame time, by reason of his Tyranny, to have given place unto his son, which if fo, must be, by the Timariots, and however the Janizaries willing it fo to be.

The year following, 1649, (which according to the Germane account, takes its beginning at January, but according to the English, not untill March 25.) the Swedish and Emperian-weapons are changed into confultations for establishing and confirming that peace, which was the year before agreed on. For the which, three Dukes come togethar at Norimberg, the Duke of Amalfe from the Emperour, of Ersken for Sweden, and of Vandort in the name of France; where they treat of four things, restitution of what was possessed, satisfaction for injuries, emptying or quitting of Garrisons, and paying of the Souldiers. Amongst other things, this was done. The Swedish Souldier was spread thorow seven Circles allotted them by the Emperour, untill the sinal confirmation of the peace. And five Millions are wrung out for discharging the said Swedish Souldiers. The emptying was begun at three several distances of time, by equal lestimations; so now, when at length he had the Articles of highest concernment confirmed, then Ludovick the Palatinate is suffered to return unto Heidleberg, the cause of whose Countries restoring we see, was not upon submission unto the Emperour, so much as upon conditions of Peace. This being done, the Emperour was present this year at Posone, among the publick Assemblies of the land, where he would not admit of the burdens of his Clergy, that had been tossed to and agen in debate since the year 1603. against the Protestants, whatever opposition the Arch-bishop made against the Palatinate.

Yet the Conditions of peace were not fully agreed on untill the next year, 1650; for they now also stoutly labour thereabout at Norimberg; but when as Hailbrunne, with 3000 Royals a month, out of the publique Treasury, were allowed for three moneths time unto the Palatinate, untill the matter could be otherwife composed, and four times five unto the Garrison of Francodale; there were three terms of time appointed, in which places that were kept of the Emperour's by others, (of whom, the Duke of Lorrain held three, Hammersteyn, Landstule, and Homburg) should be voyded: The French King lets go all Towns in the Coast of Rhene, besides the Cities of the Wood. The Emperour strengthens Prague and Eger, with the same frontier that lay against the Turks; he receiveth Olmuce, and other places, as the Duke of Luneburg did Nieburg at Visurge: and then the Souldier was payd off and discharged, who goes down by Companies unto the pay of the Spaniard: from whence fome fearful minds in Germany (the Spaniard being hereby ftrengthened, and the hired being Souldiers of fortune) foretold fome hurtfull and unhappy thing to

But to leave German-events, and return unto Brittains transactions; after that Charls the late King was taken out of the way, and other Capital enemies, amongst whom, Colonel Poyer was shot to death, April 25.1649, this second (though but short) War being over in England, that Common-wealth speedily set about the transporting a considerable part of their victorious Army into Ireland, that had been too long hindered of relief by domestique interruptions, whereby the united parties there (having proclaimed young Charls their King) had very much prevailed, as by and by we shall speak: But there was a present stop made hereto by parties in the Army it self, straamed, if not nick-named, Levellers, as that they should prosesse of lay every man's estate equal by force: Yet this I onely find, that those so called, refused to pass over into Ireland, untill they should see (the King being now gone, who was by them and his Judges accounted a Tyrant) some footsteps of reformation in the Common-wealth touching the Law, Tythes, &c. according to some former vows made both by Offi- to 1650. cers and Army; and chiefly according unto fomething not long before drawn up, which was called, An Agreement of the People, presented to the Parliament, Jan. 19. 1648. This refusal, or rather refistance of theirs, was at this time esteemed both unseasonable, and giving an ill example unto others; fo that April 27, 1649, one Lockier was shot to death in London (after some resistance made against his apprehenders) as an arch-stickler in this defign: whom that party openly carried to his grave, in a kind of stately affront (as was judged) with Sea-green colours, at that time, the badge of fuch. Then they gathered themselves together in arms at Burford in Oxfordshire, whither not a few of the Army were coming to joyn with them. But General Fairfax, and the Lievtenant General Crommell in heat and speed marched May the 9th against them, and an Officer being the day before sent unto them in way of treaty and affability; instead of what they expected, they were furprized on the 15th day by the General's parties, three of the chief actors being shot to death, and another (a preaching Cornet) upon recantation pardoned. But one Thompson, a stout-fellow, escaping, stood in his own defence, who being pursued, was at length flain in a place called wellingborough-Wood; their former fellow-Souldiers, now being enemies, behaving themselves siercely and roughly towards the surprized. And at the same time that this was doing, (which was on the 16th of May) England was voted a free-State. (General Fairfax returning from this reducement three dayes after, May 29, 1649) Whereupon an Act for abolishing Kingly Government was May the 30th, proclaimed in London by the Lord Mayor of that City.

The Impediments of Ireland being now removed, Crommell, now made Lord Deputy of that Kingdom, thought upon his march thitherward, the which he began July the 30th following: But the City of Dublin being hardly befieged by the Irish Marqueffe, Ormand, with an Army of 22000 men, which began June the 21, (and London-Derry by some of the rebellious there, for their two strong holds were onely left unto the Parliament) about 3000 horse and foot were posted away before-hand to Dublin, who joyning themselves with 6000 more at the most, under the Command of Colonel Jones, sallied out, and totally routed and defeated Ormand's besieging Army, killing nigh 2000, taking many, with all their great Guns, Ammunition, &c. as also a wealthy spoyl; This was on August 2: 1649, about 14 dayes before L. G. Cromwell's arriving there with his confiderable Army; who being come, lost no time, but soon after besieged Drogheda, a stubborn place, and, by storming, made it yield indeed, in a shore time, but not without tweat and bloud unto the Conquerour, who (for terrour's fake to others) killed with the fword nigh 3000 armed men after entrance therein; and then the confederates mouldred down apace, garrifons being taken and yielded, and field-parties routed, in great number. Nevertheless, the Natives being expert in the Bogs and Woods of that Country, whither they retired and sheltred themselves, made a perfect reducement thereof, much longer than otherwise it would have been.

In the mean time, the Covenant in England, was turned into an Engagement, for the which there was an Act made Jan. 2. 1649, by the Parliament for its subscription; it ran thus, I do hereby, promise and engage to be true and faithful unto this Common-wealth, as it is now established without King or house of Lords. Upon this, many were tryed and outed of their places and Offices, as in the Univerfities and elsewhere ; neither could any one have any publique imployment either in that National Church or State, that refused to subscribe; nor indeed could he challenge any protection from the faid Common-wealth.

A little before this, news was brought to England of some of their Plantations that fell off from obedience to this State, and either thinking or faying to themselves according to the Roman Proverb, [Antiquum volo,] I will have the old Law still, I will have no Innovations; punished divers with branding, fines, and banishment, for not conforming unto Monarchy, and the old Church-Liturgy: these were Virginia, and those called Carybe-Islands: who were notwithstanding (by a prohibition of all Traffigue with them, and the industry of Sir George Aylcue's Fleet, within not many moneths, themselves Nolens, volens, reduced to Conformity.

This year also 1649, toward the latter end of October, was John Lilburn (who had been an opposer of one and tother, most part of the Wars, and was committed to the Tower of London in July, 1646) brought to tryal for his life, (by a Sessions called on purpose) for invective books (that were generally believed to be of his penning) against both the Governours, and Government of England, who notwithstanding was, beyond expectation by a sury of 12 men, acquitted, and thereupon released.

We find the Scotch King about the end of 1649, March 16, at Bredagh in the Netherlands, with whom the Scots there treate d. and concluded, an utmost endeavour to re-instate him in his Father's Throne over the three Nations; in order to which, June 6, 1650, he fet forth from Holland, and landed in the North of Scotland, English ships lying in vain to intercept him. He was not crowned King of that Nation, untill Jan. 1. following. Fer he did not ascend that Throne with ease; (For first he took their Solemn League and Covenant, and then (which went against the hair) figned a Declaration framed by the Kirk, for abandoning his Fathers fins, and his Mothers Idolatry, &c.) And scarce at all might be faid to enjoy it. For England's Parliament (upon this agreement between the Scots and their King, resolved to prevent a War in their own bowels, by invading Scotland. To which end,

Cromwell,

Crommell was fent for out of Ireland, (things being now in a victorious condition there) who leaving Ireton his fon in law Deputy in his room, returned into England about the beginning of June, to 1650. 1650. Montrolle (the old Thorn in Scotland's fides) not long before, attempting to infest his Countrey with fresh supplies, was on March 29, defeated by a party of that Kirk's, and being difgracefully brought prisoner unto Edinburgh Caftle, May 18, was on May 21, barbarously hanged and quartered by his incensed Countreymen. After whom, some others were there executed, as Urrey, and Spotswood, &c. the faid Spotswood confessing he had a hand in the murther of one Dr. Dorislaus an English Agent, at the Hagnein Holland, May 3, 1649, who was about the middle of June interred at westminster.

And the year following, (fuch was the malice of some in other Nations against England) Mr. Anthony Ascham, (a man of accomplished abilities for such an undertaking) who was fent from the Parliamenta publique Minister into Spain, was June 6, 1650, cruelly stabbed in the head at Madrid, by one of the fix that had casic admittance into the room, his interpreter Riba a Spaniard, being also kil'd in the place. Weh persons all (save one) being carried to prison from the Sanduary, by the King of Spain's Command, occationed a difference between the faid King and that Church, its priviledges being, as the Church-men pleaded, hereby infringed.

But General Fairfax being now voted by the Parliament to march with an Army against the Scots, (for Reasons best known to himself) laid down his Commission, whereupon it was immediately conferred on Oliver Cromwell, June 26, 1650, who two dayes after advancing Northwards, (The Parliament also publishing a Declaration of the grounds and reasons of that advance, which was afterwards fent unto Edenburgh from the new General, by a blinded Trumpeter) the Scots expostulated the businesse in Papers fent to the Governour of New-Castle, putting the English in mind both of the Covenant, (which the Engagement had now buried) and also of a large Treaty and Union between England and Scotland; The which their Overtures with young Charls had dissolved: So that the English Army entred Scotland July 22, and on the 26th day came to Dunbar, where they were refreshed with provisions by their ships: but afterwards, for five or fix weeks space, endured no small discouraging hardships by sicknesse of Souldiers watchings, wetnesse, and coldnesse enough of the weather, together with want of drink, (having in the mean time had some particular skirmishes with the enemy; untill at last, near the same Dunbar, (whither they were marching from Haddington, the Scors Army following them apace, and hindring them at a Passe) they being environed, and, as it were, in a pound, were constrained to break thorow without delay, who after a vigorous and unanimous preffing forward, and but an hours tharp conflict, routed and put to flight the Scottish Army consisting of 20000 horse and foor; the English being scarcely 12000 in number.

of Chrift,

The foot were generally flain and taken, many Colours, all their Ordnance, with 15000 Arms, as also many Colonels, and other inferiour Officers. This was on Septemb. 3. 1650. For which victory, a day of Thanksgiving being solemnized throughour England, as before a Fast, many Ministers (upon the former Covenant-account) were averse and backward in the observation thereof; at which time also there were dayes of Humiliation kept both by the English and Scots (of the Kirk-party) in Scotland: among st whom there were no leffe than three divisions of parties.

A fair entrance being now made into Scotland's bowels, by this overthrow in the fields of Dunbar, divers ftrong holds were fucceffively delivered into the Conquerour's hands, (as also Colonel Kerr with his party were defeated by Major General Lambert. taking Kerr himself, and some other chief Officers; Colonel Straughan himself, with others hereupon, (who before were stiff and zealous for the Kirk) voluntarily came in to Lambert; ) who lying at Edenburgh before that Castle, both published and put in execution a strict Proclamation, for prevention of surprizals and murthers daily committed on the English Souldiers by firaggling Scots: and on Decemb. 24. 1650, Edenburgh-Castle it felf, an impregnable place, and of very great importance unto the English affairs, was surrendred unto General Crommell, with all the Magazine and furniture thereunto belonging, the Souldiers of the Castle being to march away with their Arms, in a flourishing manner. The foregoer of this furrender, was a Battery raised, on which a great Canon and Motter-piece was planted, and began to play: yet many were of opinion, that Money carried it, according to that old Verse, with after meapons do encounter. All things and places thou shalt conquer.

Little was done for a while after, by reason of the Winters sharp colducile.

But in the interval of these actions in Scotland, these things were done at home by Parliamentary authority in England; After the covning of new moneys, (in which the King's Arms and Picture was left out, and the Common-wealth's stamp in the room thereof, with this circumfcription, God with su, on the one fide; and, The Common-wealth of England, on the other; for which there was an Act made July 17, 1649) the King's Statue, that among st other Kings and Queens fince the Conquest, was erected in the circumference of the Royal-Exchange in London, was on Aug. 10, 1650, broken and defaced, with these words written over the head, Exit Tyrannus Regum ultimus, Anno libertatis Anglia restituta primo, Anno 1648, Jan. 30. That is, The last Tyrant King (or Ruler) goes out, on the 30th day of January, 1648, in the first year of Liberty restored to England.

An Account of Time. Cap. 4.

England. Which if to, is a happy year for that Nation indeed; His Statue was also overthrown at the end of Pauls the Cathedral, on the same day, and within few dayes after, quite removed to 1650. from the Exchange, and broken to pieces.

Also one Colonel Andrews a Royalist, was underfelt and detected by one Bernard, (who for his pains was rewarded with a Troop of horse) in conspiring by Charls Stuart's Commission, King of Scots, against England's Government, which being accounted (at this time) of dangerous consequence, he was by the High Court of Justice tryed, and beheaded, Aug. 22. 1650. One Benson being for the same Conspiracy hanged, Octob. 7. following. A rising in the County of Norfolk began likewise in the same moneth October, to the same purpose; which being soon allayed, divers to about the number of 20, suffered death.

This year also were the King's and Bishops Lands, together with the Estates of banished offenders, set to sale.

Now also the Seas were every where troublesome unto Merchants, by reason of the English and French ships (besides Pyrats) that were at the utmost variance; and especially Robert the Palatinate, who of a Land-General, was now become a Sea-Admiral, by divers preys greatly endammaging the English Merchants, (who was abetted by the King of Portugal therein, for the which he lost no small prizes by the hand of General Blake's Fleet. But at length Robert spoyling and burning divers of the said Merchants ships at Malaga in Spain, in the necessitated absence of the said Blake, he was pursued by this valiant Admiral, who took and destroyed seven of his ships, two being onely left, that fled to corners; one of which a while after suffered a sad dysaster in the Straights, Robert himfelf being in great danger.

And that it might be known abroad, that by their Embassadours, Englands Common-wealth, like the Tribe of Judah over the Ifraelites, were fiercer and more prevalent than Charls Stuart, who claims that Crown, and had fent divers unto severall Princes for supply in recovering the same, a notable example in Turky at Conffantinople, about this time made manifest; where two meeting together in Ambassage, (to wir, Sir Henry Hide from the King of Scots, and Sir Thomas Bendish for the English Parliament) unto the Sultan; Hyde, as thinking his Commission the strongest, stood up against Bendish for Preheminency of place, (comming thither with intent to destroy the Turkish companies Trade, and to seize on the Merchants goods, and null the Parliaments interest in those parts) Bendish hercupon obtained a hearing of the state of matters before a Vizier Bashaw there, who (like a crafty Polititian, as the Turks are, fiding (although for most absolute Monarchy in their own practife) with the strongest side in possession) delivered up Hide unto Bendish his disposure; who sent him into England, where he (his ach being judged not onely an affront, but a deniall of the Government in the eyes of other Nations) was, March the fourth 1650. beheaded before the Exchange for Treason, the place of Merchants meeting for forreign News.

Anno 1646 of Christ, to 1650.

But there was a more remarkable deliverance from death of one whose name was Anne Green, innocently condemned to dye, as for murder of an abortive Infant, at Oxford Affizes in 1650, through a too harsh prosecution of her potent Master Sir Tho. Reed, by one of whose men or friends in that house she affirmed to be with child : the overstraining of whose body by working, caused this abortion to be made in a house of easement: who hanging by the neck about half an hours space, together with stroaks and tuggings by her feet of fouldiers, and other standers by, must needs in the judgment of all, be fully dead : Yet being brought into a house for anatomizing fake, (as in the University is wont to be done) her throat seemed to rattle; whereupon one Doctor Petty and Baffock; Physicians, with some others, used speedy waies to recover her life, both by breathing a vein to give a vent to suppressed nature; and also other good means to comfort natural hear, To that the foon spake, and was restored, and still maintaining her integrity, (as well the might) had her pardon. This I inferr here amongst the number of memorable accidents, because it was Gods speciall finger in discovering mans rigour, and a poor crearures innocency. The faid Sir Thomas Reed, within a short time after, being choaked out-right at his own Table, confirming that moral and true faying of Cato the wife.

> Esto animo forti, cum sis damnatus Inique, Nemo diu gaudet qui judice vincit iniquo.

See that thy heart nor courage fails, when thou unjustly art condemn'd; For who by wrongfull Judge prevails, His joy shall quickly have an end,

The King of Portugall, having many places and Parishes within his dominions void of Pricsts, treats with the Bishop of Nome in 1649, concerning receiving an Embassadour, and the supplying mose empty charges with Church-men: publishing withall, a book, that unlesse the Bishop did cure that neglect, he would take that right to himself. The desect was not supplyed by the Bishop, and yet notwithstanding, he doth not allow or indulge the said King, in taking to himself the priviledg of appointing Bishops &cc. in the year 1650.

But the United Provinces of the Netherlands have no great joy for the peace made in 1648 with the King of Spain, because they found it more profitable for the people, when the war was vigorous amongst them, which must needs be by the Souldiers spending their pay there, and taking of spoil, which (its like) they sold to the inhabitants at a mean rate. But as he that liveth by Physick, may truly be said to live miserably; so that is but a wretched peit, that's gotten by bloud, ruines, and desolations. Yet the Prince of Orange had almost the same year 1650, found them fome work among themselves who finding not such entertainment (as his now alpiring loveraignty, beyond his Predecessours expected, at Ansterdam in the Province of Holland; Bicard, or Bicher, to 1650. a Confull or Lord of that City, having without the advice of the other Provinces, commanded, for keeping the peace-fake, the fouldiers that were spread through the Garrisons to be discharged) he attempted secretly and politickly to seize upon the City of Amsterdam at unawares, by Horse and Foot under the command of Count william, who were comming in the night, and were to be at the Town-Ports, at an appointed time, the Foot that went before being to make entrance for the Horse. If this had taken effcct, that huge masse of treasure, that was banked up there, had fallen into his hands, with which he might have helped the Scotch King, his brother in Law; in whose fathers Throne, the faid Prince had a vehement desire to see him established. But the design was frustrate, by intelligence given before-hand, by the Post comming from Hamborough, wherear all warlike preparations were made to defend the City against the assaylant, and the sluces opened. The Prince hereupon made conditions of peace with the Lords of the City, on no low terms, and had two of the Bicards removed from Government, the chief of whom being Andrew, was distasted by the Commonalty, as for other reasons, so for dammage received by drowning of their fields. This was in Summer, and in Octob. following (Man being but as the flower of the field) he died, whose Princesse was about ten daies after delivered of a Posthume son. He was buried in Pomp and State, before this years expiration, (according to the English account) March 15. 1650. whose young son, did allay the States grief for their (although before not loved, yet now lamented) General.

The French King had but bad successe in Italy, in the year 1649. for Ceva, Biella, and the Temple of Damian, fell from him into the Spaniards hands; as also in Catalonia, where he lost Sapirce: so that the Duke of Modena being afflicted, was constrained to a reconciliation with the Spaniard, whose Arch-Duke that is now the Governour of Belgium, takes also Ipra from them there, besides two other places, and fends 4000 robbers of the prey into Campania. Yet the next year, 1650, the Spaniard had greater advantageson the French, by reason of that Nation's Civill discords and troubles, which in a greater measure again brake out; for three of the chief subjects of that King being imprisoned by an arrest from the Queen Mother and Cardinal Mazarine, that great Church-States-man, and the Queens huge favourite (in whose hands the management of State-affairs were in the Nonage of the young King Lews, whose Father died as was said in 1643,) to wit the Prince of Condy, of Conti, brethren of the Royall bloud, and the duke of Longville their fifters fon, for that upon this discontent, they took fome firong holds of the Kingdome into poffession, the which were (after their imprisonment, reduced by force, threatnings, and favour) yet now the people (wanting not leaders) and being enraged at the Duke of Esperaon, but in general against Mazarine) a civill war universally overspread the whole Land; the Duke of Bullein stirring up the people of Aquitane, who as well as the Princefle of Condy, and the Dutchefle of Longville, defired aid, both by money and Souldiers from the Spaniard, who supplyed them therewith. After much bloud spilt, the liberty of those Princes was procured, Espernon was withdrawn from Burdeaux, and from Government in the Common-Wealth, but the Cardinal with all his kindred were banished, yet he soon returned when the storm was a little over, with a kind of triumph, both to the grief of the emulating Princes, and to the grievance of a servile Commonalty, who labour with continued troubles. The Spaniard laughing as it were, at these things; possesseth Garrisons, and spoils some French Provinces with much more ease. The French loseth in Italy the Haven of Plombine, and Portologone; and is beaten off from the fiege of Lions in Catalonia. In Picardy, he beholds Castelletum, and Capella to be wrung out of his hands, notwithstanding he valiantly defended Guise. Yet in Flanders, he opposeth three Armies against three Spanish, under the command of three Dukes, of Villequier, Hockineurt, and Villareg; The Spanish King Sending the Arch-Duke and two others in the mean while, into the borders of France, who, in 1650, lord it over Picardy. Yet himself was not without some trouble, for the sedition of Naples, that began again to bud forth in 1649, upon which, the heads of divers were cut off, and was not quenched the year following, although he had filled Prifons with the peoples Governours. He also wanting money, requires filver from the Clergy of Naples, (for the which his Grandfather the Pope was angry ) and fold the Dutchy of Pontremole for five hundred thousand Crowns, in the year 1650.

But the Bishop of Rome now grants eight years time to the Duke of Parma to restore the Castrum, that the year before 1649, was equalled with the ground, and that he might feem to be Servus Servorum, a servant of servants, washeth the seet of some Religious Pilgrims, at Rome; whose Cardinal, Ludovise, scasts 9000 of them at one time.

Smethland having now little to do, arms again in 1650, the defigne was uncertain, whether for England, or against the Muscovite, or to fettle Germany, which before they had unfetled. Two Embassadours likewise come unto Stockholm at the same time, one from Portugal, another from the Netherlands; and by the mediation of Contarine the Venetian, are the former conditions confirmed with the King of Poland. With which Polonian, Chmielinsky Captain of the Collacks, is the same year reconciled, having received the liberty of their Churches: yet the tumults of the Provinces do not altogether cease, the Embassadours of the Muscovite bring themselves with Pride and disdain, into three Provinces, of which

The faid Cham also tames and brings under the Cercassians, a people within his dominions that rebelled against him. But breaking into the Kingdome of China, because a Tyrant had now taken possession of that industrious Kingdome, as going beyond his bounds, he is fent forth (as we say) with a Flea in his Ear, being wholly expelled thence.

But the War between the Venetians and the Turks waxeth hot in the year 1649. Two overthrows the Venetian gave him; one in the Haven of Foggio, where 72 Oar Galleys perished, 18 bigger ships, 60 ships laden, 6000 Turks were shin together with the Bashaw, taking as many more Prisoners. And this with the losse of but 90 Venetians, and 40 wounded.

This made the Sultan mad with rage, and he changes the Purple Garments of Saranzone, his Embassadour with others, into a mourning weed; he casts the Christians into chains, and falls upon them with whips, but by the perswasion of the French Oratour, he is appealed. He also makes stop of the English Ships, and so returns unto his force against the Venetians: Who slew 1500 Turks at the Haven of Suda, drowning fix Galleys, with the Bashaw that was their chief Captain. They contend vehemently for Mocenige, 4000 Sacks stuffed with Wooll, and 33000 Scaling Ladders being brought thither for storming, 'tis twice lost, and as often recovered again, but at the third attempt, a Mine is made underground that confumed 3000 Turks, and 200 Christians. Twice were the Alps of Italy croffed, into the lower Hungary, for prey.

And when Haafe had given place unto Colorede, and had gone into Dalmatia, 2000@ Turks were there confumed with the Plague. The Sultan could willingly have laid afide Creet this year, but, yet he could not do it, because of a Moschee or Temple of M.homet, that he undertook there to confecrate. However, more than fifty thousand Christians (so called) were Captivated by

He likewise reduceth the irregular Cyprians, and the Bashaw of Cagre into order and obedience.

But in Candy, the Venetian affects him divers times with loffe in the Gulph Del Fole: four times he was preyed upon, and the Haven of Maluase was stopt, together with victuall. Whereupon he moves in war by ufas his batham, and that chiefly, because his Navy at Dardanelle was penne o. Other Havens were also poffeffed by the Venetians, that provision could not be brought into the Island for relief of his garratons; fo that we will now leave the Venetians in their hopes, of having a most large surrender of that whole Island unto them.

In the year 1646, it was disputed at Paris by Sarbona, Whether there ought to be one head of the Church, or whether indeed there may be more; (this being a rare Controversic among Catholiques, I here infert it) which little book that reasoned of the Point, the Pope whom it neerly touched, gives to be examined by his Cardinals. The same year is also a book of one Oftermanne concerning Government, publiquely burnt at Agrippina of Colone; but in wallersdorf at Glace, 109 persons, with a noble woman with child, are strangled by fire. In 1647, there was a kind of miraculous thing befell one James (a child of 7 years old) that was born at Modena, by reason of the tender greennesse of his years, who at that age disputed, and that learnedly, of all faculties. This youngling was more than

Also the Sultan, had 7 sons born to him in one month this year. But the Swedes had the treasure, digging, at Meynave, out of the earth, the value of five millions. Outlandish birds were seen at the meetings of the Rivers Mofella and Rhene, returning about the evening beyond the bank of France in 1648. In which year the Gate of Lubeck opened of its own accord. CHAP. V.

An Account of what happened in divers places worth remembrance: from the 1650, to 1653 inclusive, the year wherein General Cromwell was sworn Lord Protector of England, Scotland, and Ireland.

Frer that (through Ferdinand's, the German Emperour, at the beginning of 1651, marrying Elenor Dutchesse of Mantua at Neostade, and Wolfgang Palatine of Neoburg, taking his third Wife Francisca, daughter of Ego Earl of Furstenburg) (all Germany being now pacified) the Courts and minds of the Princes were poured forth into Nuprial merriments, and by the late pacification, it was thought to be provided for the rest and quiet of Germany; the beginning of a new War (by the Electour of Brandenburg entring into the Montian Dominion in hostile manner) suddenly arose: of which, though it were sudden and straightway composed, yet this was the occasion. william Duke of Julia, Clivia, and Montia, &c. marrying, in 1546, Mary the daughter of Ferdinand the first, Emperour, obtained two priviledges of Charls the fifth, Emperour; which were afterwards also confirmed by his successours: First, That if Duke William should beget no heirs male of Mary, or being begotten, they should depart life; all the right of the Dominions and Provinces, should be devolved on the daughters begotten of them; or if none of them should survive, to the lawfull heirs male of the same. And then, that all those said Dominions should remain undivided, with one onely univerfal Lord and Successour: a custome hitherto observed by the Princes of Germany, and many of other Countries, to confirm the strength of power.

william therefore, begetting two fons, and four daughters; Charls Frederick, the elder, a Prince of great hope, dyed in 1577, in the flower of his age, at Rome. John the other fon, (his father dying 1592) fucceeded in his dominions. But being fickly, and begetting no children of two wives, in 1599 left them (being dead) to be of divers Princes defired. But by the Emperour's authority, the inheritance had regard to his fifters: the eldeft of whom (married to the Duke of Borussia) dyed in 1608, before John, leaving one onely daughter, Anne, who afterward married Sigismund Electour of Brandenburg, which is the Grandsather of the late Electour Frederick: whence the Brandenburgians derive their right to those Provinces. The second fister marrying Philip Count Palatine, the out-living her brother, and beautified with wolfgang an heir male, seemed to be nearest of all unto these dominions. The third was given in marriage to John of Bipont, having also fons. The fourth marrying Charls Marquelle of Burgovia, the Palatine of Neoburg, passed over her right to himself by certain agreements. Therefore John dying, and others afferting their right by writing: Wolfgang the Neoburgian Palatinate, in his Mothers name; Erneft Marquels of Brandenburg in the name of Christ, of his brother the Electour Sign mund and his Wife, possessed those to 1653. empty Provinces: making an agreement at Tremonia the last of May, equally to govern the faid Province, till it should be friendly by judgment decided of every one's right.

Then was it provided by the States of the Country, concerning Religion, and the exercise thereof, That the Roman Catholique, and other Christian Religions, as spread abroad thorow the Roman Empire; so also in these Provinces, as to their publique exercife, they be continued, and defended, nor that any one be troubled therefore. But when as at that time, there was almost onely the exercise of the Catholique Religion, in all places of the Dominions, except a few, into which, about the last time of Duke william, and his fon, against the Commands of the Princes, Masters of new Religions had creeped: it came to passe, that by the winking and emulation of the new Princes of different Religion, new masters were strivingly brought in against the former Covenants and promifes. But, the Neoburgian Palatine, leaving the Augustane, acknowledged the Roman Church openly in 1614. He professed it at Dusseldorp, marrying Magdalene the Duke of Bavaria's daughter; beginning also to be much more diligently intent than before; that, what was agreed on in the beginning, the exercise of the Catholique Religion thould be observed in those places, where it had been before; those being sent away and cast our, who had been hitherto brought in against the Covenant, or hence following endeavoured to creep in. And that the rather, because it was expresly agreed in the Borussian and Neoburgian marriages; that if the inheritance of these dominions should chance to come to the above mentioned daughters: there should be no innovation: but the Catholique Religion retained without any obstacle. But the Brandenburgians thought it neither hindered the nuptial Covenants, nor the State's promise, if the followers of other Religions, than what was usual, was brought in; so it might be done withour wronging the Catholiques, and they among these do live quietly and peaceably: moreover, it made for the no leffe quiet of the conscience, than of the Common-wealth, seeing 'tis a thing uncomely, and diverse from the worthinesse of a Prince, That no exercise of his own Religion, should be lawfull in his own Provinces, (which Religion is onely one) whose likenesse and agreement may breed love to them, and the reverence of their Subjects. This diversenesse of opinions increased, after they divided the Provinces betwixt them, and the contention came even fo far, that the States of Holland intermingled them; and to affright the Neoburgian from his purpose, what they could, (by their Garrifons of the neighbouring Cities of R beinberck and Orfoy, led captives the parilh Priests, and religious persons out of the Dukedomes of Montia and Julia; and held them some years in hard custody; in which also, some were consumed with grief and miAnno 1650 of Chrift, to 1653.

tery, plainly harmlefle, and without the like game, danger, and controversie: whence it came to passe, that many Catholique pawith priests fleeing for fear, their subjects long wanted the exercise of divine worship: and many Infants departed this life withour baptism; persons of riper age without Confession and the Eucharist. Therefore, the Neoburgian, that he might deliver himself and subjects from these difficulties: after letters sent, and Embasfages to and from Camerarius Burgstors, chief man with the Elector of Brandenburg, in the year 1647, he thus concluded Apr. 8, about Religion, and its exercise, at Dusseldorp: That the Churches, and their goods and revenues should be restored to those that possessed them in the year 1609; but both the publique and private exercise of Religion without the Churches, should be in that manner as it had been in any part of the year 1612. Moreover, it was confirmed by the Electour; and Deputies fent from either Prince, who begin the execution of the faid transaction. But here again the action fluck. The Brandenburgians would not go back from a promiscuous use of Religion, and that in the strength of the first Reverfals. The Neeburgians contended (on the contrary) that they must of necessity infist on this transaction, which had been taken up as a moderating of the faid Reverfals, of whose meaning hitherto the Princes could not agree. So they departed, the matter un-ended. But the Neoburgian, when as not long after, a whole pacification was ended in Germany, because the particular transactions did not proceed, he fleeth to the observance of that; and for refloring Religion and its exercise, he took the year 1624 generally prescribed in that pacification, in example of the other Princes, who now began to confult of that in many places throughout the Empire. Amongst these things, the Electour of Brandenburg in this year 1651, talking with the Electour of Saxony a few dayes in Liechtenburgh Castle, went to Clive, sending some Armies before, which he had drawn out of his garrifons, and others to follow after; over all which he had placed Otto Sparrist, they being in all, almost 4000. A Command was published at Clive, June the 15th, in the Electour's name, and straightway fastened on fore places, in the Dukedoms of Montia and Julia, to their States and Inhabitants; The Electour first fignifying, he came inte those Provinces, that he might restore their liberty and priviledges, into the ancient place and vigour, according to the Covepants and promifes entred into by their Ancestors, against the divers injuries of the Palatine of Neoburg; and in order hereto it was needful, that one place or other be possessed where he might fasten his foot. Where none ought to interpret that thing otherwife than he thinketh, fince it is not his purpose, to seek any other than the glory of God, the fafety of his Countrey, and Justice, which he would have imparted to all and every one, without refrect of their Religion, according to the Covenants and transactions of former years. And then, he commanded all Governours and Inhabitants of these Dukedomes, that hence-forward they decree decree or pay not any contributions to the Palatine of Nachurg, afford him no ayd, by counsel or deed, but that they respect and observe him and his neits onely. At last he threateneth, if any 1652, one shall go on to refist this Edict, or shall help the Neoburgian by any means, he (taking away all his priviledges) shall hold him for an enemy and Rebel. The same day of his Edicts divulging, the Electour's Souldiers attempted A germond Caftle, by ftorming, and casting in many granadoes, some Citizens and ctilers being flain at the first onser, and then, when the Castle made stronger resistance than they had hoped, the street being plundred, and the adjacent Temple, the spoylers go thorow the neighbouring places with the fame force. And in the Temple of the Village Multhem, not being content to have robbed that, they flay an Infant in its Mother's arms, by cleaving its head. Thence to the Village Pempelfurt, in the fight of Difseldorp, and the very Foris, coming to the Village, driving away all the Princes herds, and leffer cattel, they fpoyl as much as they might for the time, adding threatnings of speedy coming with a greater Army and forces. In the mean time, the Electour had fent to the Emperour to purge or acquir himfelf, explaining the causes of this his action against the Palatine, which for brevity fake I forbear here particularly to fet down. But the Palatine openly protesting by a writing of the force and wrong brought on nim: refuted also what things were published against nim in the Electour's name, by a contrary writing: and then fent to folicite Leopold the Arch-Duke, and Charls Duke of Lorrain for ayd, to repell the unthought-of war: fending allo to Vienna, perfectly to inform the Emperour of all things, and require help against unjust force. And having first purged himself to Casar of Brandenburg his accusation, he confuted it by a divulged writing. And (the while) musters Souldiers throughout all his Dominions, over whom he placed John Baro of Reaschenberg, and Philip returning out of Brabant, brought a part of the Lorrain Army.

They pitching their Tents, fate down between Ratinge and Duffeldorp against the Brandenburgians, who had taken up their place not far from thence, at the mouth of Auger flowing into Rhene. There, among often skirmifnes made; at length by the Princes tilking together, a pacification began, and then by the Emperours Embassadours, it was brought to an issue at Clive, October the eleventh, that the controverfy of Religion and its exercise, be examined and decided by the Emperours Commissioners long since named; to wit, the Bithop of Munster, and the Duke of Brunfwick, and that to those two may be joyned, to wit, Augustus Duke of Anhault, and Ludowick Earl of Naffam, for the Electour, and the Bishops of Paderborn, and Osnabruge for the Neoburgian; who confulting among themselves, and both parties reasons being heard, shall enquire whether the state of Religion in these dominions, be to be reduced to the observance of 1624, according to the peace at Munster; or to 1609, according to the Covenants and agreements (Provincial) of the Princes, and if indeed, it shall seem to be this lait; how those Covenants are to be understood and explained. But if (for the equalnesse of voices) the Commissioners can determine nothing; The Emperour, some head men of the Empire being taken into counfell, alike in number, of either Religion, or in the next affembly for Election, shall decide and determine the whole controverty by the fame; and they shall stand to that judgment without further contradiction, by force of the late publick pacification; but (the mean time) all things shall be restored into that state in which they were before these shakings, nor shall any one be troubled for Religion. And then, shall neither, for the future, wage war on other, even under any pretence, and that under penalty, of violating the peace, and the loffe of all rights, which any one pretendeth to these dominions; but shall let go controversies hence-forward to arile, to a friendly composure, and judiciall sentence.

Lastly, Prisoners on both sides shall be let go, and Armies, except those which are needfull to the guarding of the body, or Garrisons of places, neither shall it be for any one by deceit of either party, to be present by counsell or help at these shakings. But other things which concern the state-Politick, shall so remain, as it bath been agreed in divers transactions between the Princes, yer without prejudice and deceit of all, who pretend to the Juliacan succession. These things being thus sinished, and sealed to, they straight way depart from Arms.

But after that Charls Stuart was at or about the beginning of Jan. 1650 Crowned King of Scotland, at Shoone, the usuall place of former Coronations, (which Moneth, as I have said, beginneth the 1651 year of the Germane Account) in a folemn affembly of the heads of that Kingdome, among which ceremonies; Robert Duglasse gratifying him with a prepared Oration or speech; exherted him (from the opinion of them all, to revenge his fathers death) he spent all his time in warlike preparations; and, as soon as the feason of the year permitted, came into the field against General Cromwell. The Scots began to be both powerfull and numerous by reason of an agreement now pieced up of many parties and factions there, and having compleated their levies to 15000 foot, and 6000 Horse, they faced the English at Tormood, but would not engage them, encamping behind inaccessible places to delay the same. Wherefore the English landing 1600 Foot, and sour Troops of Horse, at Queens Ferry, into Fife (losing but about fix men) July the 17th 1651; the Scots sent four thousand to drive them out of Fife. Whereupon the Generall, sending four Regiments of Horse and Foot to joyn with the other, the English attempted the enemy by ascending the Hill, routed the Scots, slaying about 2000, and taking 1400, Brown the chief Commander being one few of the English were flain, though many wounded. Then was there an additional strength sent into Fife, and strong Inchigarney Castle there, surrendred, July the 25th after, and foon after that, Brunt-Island (with all its Provisions &c. onely the fouldiers to march away with Colours flying, &c.) was delivered to the English Army; of much concerament, as storing them with all necessarily of much concerament, as foring them with all necessarily of much concerament, as foring them with all necessarily of much concerament, as foring them with all necessarily of great strength, it was also soon yielded unto them. But the Scotch King (fearing least his Army should moulder away with daily detriments, and rather willing to transfer the War into England, ship in thither by the way of Carlishe, comming to Worcesser, Aug. the 22th with about 16000 Horse and Foot; (an undertaking rather from necessity and despair, then mature deliberation, as appeared by a brief letter of Duke Hamiltons, taken amongst other Papers) yet animated thereto by a notable design of English Covenanters with the Scots; who being offended with the new Commonwealth, now savoured the Kings cause.

This defign was for a generall rifing in Lancashire, and adjacent parts, the Earl of Darby to come out of the Isle of Man, and raise the Countrey, who joyning with the Scotch forces, thould confront the Parliaments greatest power. The chief promoters hereof in England, were severall persons (now too tedious to relate particularly) meeting at Christopher Love's house, a Presbyterian Minister, who (by his own Narrative) was privy thereto after the breaking off of the Treaty between the King and the Scots at Jersey, which being seasonably discovered, and the grand Agent Thomas Cook, apprehended, and after escape, retaken, March 30. 1651. Major General Harrison (after the leizing of one Birkenhead another Agent) was by the Parliament ordered to March Northward with Horse and Foot, to prevent risings, and oppose the Scotch Army if they should enter England: Love himself with others being anprehended; he was arraigned before Englands High-Court of Juflice, June 21. 1651, sentenced July the fifth, and on the 15th day being reprieved for 28 dayes, was with one Gibbons) another actour therein) beheaded on Tower-Hill, August the 22th sollow-

The King comming to Worcester was proclaimed King of Great Brittain and Ireland, thought to take his journey straight to London; which made the City tremble. But while he stayeth there to refresh his souldiers (a few daies) wearied with their journeys toyl, Cromwells speedy expedition, prevented his counsell; who leaving Moak with 7000 in Scotland (who took in fix strong holds there, with severall others) came to Worcester before he was expected of his adversaries, and after about an hours sharp dispute of the Kings party, in opposing the English passage over Severn, they giving ground, maintained with about three Regiments, another hot dispute at Powick bridge: but at length ran into Worcester: whom the English, as Conquerours, sollowing, they drew out what they could, making a resolute sally: where after a little retiring of the Generalls men, the enemy was totally routed, their works taken, the Town entred and sacked, about 10000 were taken and the sale and the s ken in all, and about 3000 were flain.

This defeat was on Sept. the third, 1651. when as a little before, Aug. 23, the faid Earl of Derby landing with about 300 in Lancalhire, had foon encreased them to 1500, he was by Colonel Lilburn, with his onely Regiment in an hours time routed; many of note taken and flain, with all their baggage, &c. the Earl himfelt recovering worcester, but was afterwards taken by the said Lilburn, and Octob. 15. following, beheaded at Bolton, as was also Sir Tho. Fethersonhaugh at Chester, on the 22th day, with others executed at Chester, Shrewsbury, &c, Gen. Cromwell returning to London in triumph, Sept. 12, was loaded with famous gifts from the new Common-wealths Governours.

The Captives, whom for number the Prifons would not contain, being diverfly disposed of, a great part were sent away into America.

In Scotland also were apprehended most of the Nobility and Gentry of that Nation, as they were affembled to propagate their King', interest. So that Scotland being after the English Armies passage into Fife, with little disficulty subdued : Commissioners were fent from the Parliament at London into Scotland, to receive those that had yielded themselves into their defence and protecti-

Four very confiderable places fell this year 1651. into the Parliament of Englands power, as additionalls to their successe. The one was Scilly Islands, a great annoyance to Merchant-men of the Common-wealth, for reducing whereof, Gen. Blake fer fail. Apr. 18. which were furrendred Jun. 2. following. Anotherwas the Isle of Man, for which end, three Foot Regiments were shipped at Cheffer and Lever pool, Octob. 16. who although they were on the eighteenth day driven into Beumorris by contrary winds: Yet, fayling thence the 28th day, they had affurance by an Islander, of landing without any opposition, (which facility recompenfed their former difficulty) all being fecured for them but two Castles, Rushen, and Peel, which (they besieging) were delivered on low terms without any bloud-fred Oct. 26. Colonel Hain alfo. fetting fail for Fersey, Octob. 19. and after some difficulty, and opposition received in landing, all was soon reduced but Elizabeth Castle, which held out till the middle of December, whose Governour, Sir George Carteret, had large conditions, for the wonderfull strength and sciruation thereof.

The last was Cornet-Castle in the Isle of Guernsey, even an impregnable pregnable place; which although being before attempted by ftorm, divers were flain, and some drowned in getting off, yet of Christ, in the Moneth of November, was furrendred on compositi- to 1653.

The Parliament about this time, fetting forth an Act for increase of Shipping, and encouragement of Navigation; to the perplexing of the Hollanders, which was conteined in four particulars, they fent their Embassadours to London, who came thither Decemb. the 17th and had audience the nineteenth. But because they could not procure the repealing of that Act especially; they affayed to do it by force. Two Embaffadours were likewise sent 13to Holland out of England March 11. who though they were teceived at Roterdam, yet were severall times affronted.

On lan. 11. this year, was the Barbado's furrendred to Sir George Aylcough, in the Parliaments behalf. And John Lilburn |an 15. was fentenced to banishment about the businesse of Sir Ar, bur Haflerie, which was executed on him by an act made to that purpose on the thirtieth day of the fame Month. 1651.

And to conclude this year in England, an Act of general Pardon and Oblivion came forth from the Parliament, Febr. 24. 1651, that ill-will and rancour might be buried as to former differences and offences before Sept. 3. of the fame year; and although many were thereby (at the prefent) cleared at Affizes, &c. for divers offences; yet many things be fides murther were left unpardoned: neither was the stomach of many in that Common-wealth thereby allayed, as afterwards appeared.

But in France, after that the Princes were fet at liberty, ( and the banished Cardinal, after some movings, came into the Archbishoprick of Colonia, seating his dwelling at Brule in the Archbishop's Castle) they coming to the King and Queen; that there finght be a greater confidence of a reconciliation, the Lievtenantthip of Aguitane is offered to the Prince of Condy, (this in 1651,) the Duke of Espernon renouncing it of his own accord: whose Government the Burgedalians, obstinately enough, spake ill of; and unlesse he laid down his Lievtenantship, they threatned new

The King, in the mean time, entring into the 14th year of his age, came forth from under the tuition of the Queen his Mother, in the moneth Septemb. of the same year: where (in the highest Court of the chief ones of all ranks or states affembled, with all the King's Senate; likewise the Duke of Orleance, Andegave, York, and the Queen of England, the King's Aunt) the King having given brief thanks to the Queen his Mother, in that for fo many years the had governed the Kingdom with great care and pains, is placed in a Chair of Estare, and begins his Kingly functions. First of all the Prince of Conde was quitted, (being absent); for, that he might not be present at this action, he had few dayes before departed from Paris. Then was confirmed the Senate's decree for the Cardinal's departure. Some favours (also) being con-V v v 2

ferred among the Peers: amongst other things, the care of the King's Seal was committed to the chief Man of the Senate, the Archbithop of Tholoufe. Moreover, the Prince of Conde going into his own Province of Aquitane, the minds of the Burdegalians being in friendship with him, musters new Armies; many of the Court and Nobility following him; by whose favour and wealth, when he had drawn both all Aquitane, and Santonie, with the neighbouring Cities, it appeared, that he undoubtedly attempted a new War. The King endeavoureth, with the Duke of Orleance and the Senate of Paris, to appeale Conde, that laying down his arms, he might fit down quiet in his own Province. When that could not be obtained, he also preparing arms, condemns Conde of Treafon; and leaving Paris, speedily goes to Pillave, speedily calling back the Cardinal, who, the while, had enrolled fome forces for this event. Therefore about the end of the year, the Cardinal returns into France with an Army; the Senate of Paris much befeeching, That the decree against the Cardinal might be continucd.

Thus that most flourishing Kingdom being divided into factions, destroyes its felf with its own forces; and the next year 1652, Civil discords more cruelly burned out, Condy and Orleance, with the Parliament of Paris, urging by force of arms the Cardinal's passe-port, and the Decree's execution against him. He being supported (on the contrary) by the King and Queens defence ft ffly defends by arms, the dignity of the King's authority against the force and power of the alike contenders. But, what will at length be the iffue hercof, following years will make manifest.

This year also 1651, brought forth a notable Victory to the Po-Landers against the Cossacks and Tartars. For the Cossacks not being contented with the peace made a year or two before, kept an Army in the field; and not containing themselves within their appointed bounds, they hindered not the Taurican Tartars going into Halachia; but defended them with all their ayd, against which, the agreement was. But when the Polonians in fo doubtful affairs. fate down with part of their Army, beneath Camenece in Podolia, to defend their own borders: nor could bring help to the Duke of walachia their confederate, for fear of the Cossacks: yet they blamed the Polonians, as if they provided arms against them, and mustered the whole Souldiery of their Kingdom, onely utterly to destroy and blot out them. Therefore Chimelinsky sending Embassadours, first to Potoccie the Lievtenant General, who was at Camenece, and afterwards to the King: They required, that the Army might be led out of Podolia and their borders: who anfwered them, They should return to their own, and leave the Tartars and walashia; that there was no evill to be feared from them, while they stood to their Covenants, and maintained the peace. But they continued holding up arms, and to help Polana's enemies: the cause was, That being careful of their own defence, they might look to their own affairs, and fee that the Common. wealth took no damage. Then at Aflemblies which the King had of Chrift. fumoned about the end of the former year, an Embassage was de- to 1653. creed to the Cofsacks, to denounce peace, if they obeyed; but contrarily, war: and also for that war, if there were need, to advance the Charges and common Customs, and that 36000 forraign Souldiers should be entertained, besides those Armies that were in the Kingdom, and that it should be in the King's power, when there was need, to call all the Nobility to arms, and fo to meet the enemy with all the forces of the Kingdom. The Affemblies ended, the King defigned fix Poland Peers to go to Kiove in Embassage to the Cossacks; and that being in vain, he bent his mind to provide for Arms; fending away those thorow Poland and Prussia, who should muster what Army they could, and at first of the Spring, should bring them to him beneath Lubline, with his whole Nobility which he was speedily to call forth, ready furnished and provided. Chimelensky hearing of the iffue of the Asfemblies, prepared himfelf no leffe flowly for an imminent war. Neither onely entring into fellowship with the Tartars; but also he had fent dispatched Messengers to Constantinople, and to the neighbouring Turkith Governours, and into Transplvania for ayd. Some of whom being intercepted, discovered his wonderful counsels and cruel attempts against Poland. Therefore in the beginning of the Spring, Chimilensky, passing over Borysthenes, led 140000 (among whom were 12000 Taurican Tartars, whom as yet 40000 others were to follow) into Volynia, and there, possessing some places, pirched his Camps. The Polanders in the mean time, Calinovius being their Leader, take Vinnicia, a famous City of Podolia, and kill all the Cossacks therein. Which flaughter hastened Chimeliaskies coming out of Volynia, where he had also forcibly taken by the way Bialak ercave, so that he moved with his whole Army against Calinoviss: who being unequall to so great forces, recovered Camenece; and leaving a sufficient Garrison there, berook himself to the King, who having passed over the River Bugmat Socale, expected the Polonian Nobility, and the Lithuanian Army. Chmielensky having endeavoured in vain to stay Calinovina going back, with small fights, attempted Camenece with some onfers; but being alwayes repulsed with the great slaughter of his Soldiers, he at length fate down pitching his tents at Conftantinovia: which place is distant almost 15 miles from Camenece, between the borders of Volynia and Podelia. Morcover, the King, after that his Nobility and the other Armies came together, his Army being increased to almost 100000; moving from Socale, he led it against the enemy. Neither did Chmielensky shift off the fight, new more fierce, because the Emperour of Tartars himself had a little before, entred in his Camp with the most choyle of his Souldiers. And then he far exceeded the Polonians in number t for if credit be to be given to those who have written of his Camp, it was to the number of 300000. Therefore both Armies moAnno 1650 of Chrift, EO 1653.

ving forward, they came together at the Town Berelieck. The first onset on the Polander's Camp was made by 10000 Tartars, June 28, who being repulsed with slaughter, the Emperour himself next day, with all his Tartars, and part of the Cofsacks, affaulted the Polander's Army with great force: and that battle endured, untill night withdrew the fighters. This two dayes battle was a flourishing skirmish before the general fight; and as yet, their forces were in danger of departing from each other with a mutual fear. On the third day therefore, which was the last of June, the whole Army met, and that with fuch force and stiffnesse on both fides, that it long remained doubtful which fide should have the victory. At last, the Polanders strength overcame, who, when they had made their first assault on the Tartars, and had driven them from their standing, their flight very much troubled the Cossacks Army. So the most numerous Army being scattered and put to flight, left a most ample victory to the Pelonians. The King a little before evening, in the very place where the battle was fought, gave thanks to God, the Conquerour of enemics, finging a folemn hymn of thanks: which, a mixt found (with terrour) of great Guns and Trumpets, did distinguish with an acceptable

The day after, it is told the King, a very great multitude of enemies, which escaped in flight, as yet flood, and fenced themfelves in a fit and fenny place, fetting their Carts and baggage on the fides of them, of which they had a great number. Chimielensky was in that place, waiting for an occasion to be given him, of revenging himself. The King, seeing he could not (by reason of the place) drive them out thence by force; he appointed, that (all wayes being stopped up) no provision might be brought unto them: which thing, drave the befreged almost to desperation, but that they had as yet one passage: thorow which, when (all their victuals being spent) on the 10th day after, they had disorderly poured forth themselves, many of them were slain by the Polanders following on them: Some also were suprup in the Fens and Pools, the bridges breaking which they (in this necessity, and want of matter) had fewed together of skins. In this flight, there perished to the number of 20000; and amongst them, the Greek Patriarch fent from Constantinople to encourage the Cosacks to this war. This victory being gotten, the Poland Nobility, although the King very much exhorted them to profecute the victory, taking (at length) their leave, departed home. The other Souldiers that were hired for reward, were fent to follow after them that fled. Janus Ratzvil, Captain of the Lithuanian Souldiery, following with his men to Bory thenes, took in Kiove, once the Mother-City of all Russia, and Monilove, with other Cities situated on this fide and beyond Borysthenes, by force or furrender. Chmielensky therefore being afflicted with fo many discommodities, and fearing greater, is again compelled to defire peace. Which was granted him by the chief Governours of the Polonian warfare,

(their Armies daily diminishing with infection) on these conditions: First of all, a common toleration of Religion is granted, a of Christ, return of them that were expelled, into their countrey, and a to 1653. granting them their goods; pardon was granted to all that followed this war, and to Chmielensky himself; yet so, that comming to the next publique affemblies, he should in humble manner befeech the King: neither henceforward should have more then 20000 Coffacks under his banners, with whom he being tied by oath to the King of Poland, he should defend the borders of his Kingdome against the inroads of the Tartars, Turks, and Muscovites, and to diffolic what leagues he had with the Polanders enemies; and hereafter perform faith and obedience to the King and King-

In the beginning of the year 1652, (which with the Germans, is in January) Maximilian Henry, Arch-bishop and Electour of Colonia, having a little before entred into the Priesthood, and receiving it at the hands of George Paul Stravius, Bishop of Joppa, and the Bishops Vice-gerent of Colonia, entred into Colonia with the Arch-bishops Pall, on the fourth day of the faid January, and the day following, (the Clergy and Magistracy of the City being called together to the Metropolitans house; the Princes, Philip Palatine of Neeburg, and Ernelt Lantgrave of Helse being prefent, the Canons according to the custome, standing by and waiting, with the Bishop of Joppa, and six mitted Abbots) he began the solemn evening duty of the Lords Epiphany, which being finished in a Pontificall manner, the next day, the day of Epiphany it felf, in the same assembly having performed rites at an Altar built in the same place, he bestowed his Archiepiscopal bleffing, with a most full pardon of sies, on a multitude of people gathered about him. To the making famous this act, which Colonia had not feen a hundred years before, and the more fitly to behold the Majesty of the Rites of the Romane Church, there was prepared in the middle of the Cathedrall, a place made of boards between the chief Pillars, and fenced with wooden railes, and on every fide adorned with most pretious Arras-hangings, which the Guard men with Launces encompassed to restrain the multitude; in the former part of that place was built a Theatre on high with three steps, embracing almost the space of two Pillars, and spread with red cloath, for the chief Altar which was feen in its front towards the East: the Altar also being higher then the Theatre by three steps, Silver Images of the twelve Apostles, and in the midst of the same, a very great Silver Crosse (once the gift of Pilgrime Arch-Bishop) beautified it. At the right part of the Altar towards the North, was raifed up the Arch-Bishops chair, and a little beneath it, four seats for the Princes, the Neoburgian, Lantgrave and his Wife, and the Earl of Furstemburg his Widow, &c. Bur the publick confession of Ernest the Lantgrave, and Eleanor his Wife, of the Romane Catholique Faith, much encreased the folemnity and joy of this first Liturgy. Who, before it began, when at the Arch-bishops feet, before the Altar, their face turned toward the people, on bended knees, they had defired to be received into the lap of their mother the Church, he confenting, they approved of the form of faith before read, and touching the book of the Gospells, they confirmed it by a solemn oath. Many hardly withheld from tears, when they faw, these Princes to be returned to that Church, as it were after banishment, over which, a 150 years before, Arch-Bishop Hermanne Lant grave of Hesse, (of the same house) was chief, most famous for his many and great deferts toward the Church of Colonia. And then (after a little time) the Electour went to Hildefe, and comming to the possesfion of that Bishoprick, he there finished what belonged to a Bishop, with the accustomed Ceremonies, even as he had also done before at Leodium.

The same year 1652, produced a bloudy Sca-war between Englands Republick, and the states of the United Provinces; for these (through divers years prosperity and industry in Maritime affairs, although it was truly observed by Keckerman in his time : Hoc certumest omnibus hodie gentibus navigandi industria et peritia, Superiores effe Anglos, post Anglos Belgas, et inter hos, Flandros, Hollandos, Zelandos. This is fure (faith he) that of all Nations at this day, the English are chief in the diligence and skillfulnesse of Navigation; after them, the Belgians; and amongst thefe, the Flandrians, Hollanders, and Zelanders) so increased in strength at Sea, that they durst dispute their quarrel in divers bloudy encounters with the English, refusing to strike their top-sail in the narrow Seas, Englands right of Soveraignty there; as also denying to pay the tenth Herring (caught by them in the English Seas) to the new Commonwealth, refusing also not to afford refuge or help to the house of the Stewards in their Provinces as was demanded; and to give fatisfaction for dammage brought by them on the English in the Indies, which amounted to above 1000000 th sterling, and for hereafter to be cautious of not offending, and also to suffer the English to fail freely and fafely on the Danish Sea, with some other luch like. An Embaffadour indeed from Holland had audience, but departed out of England without any composure of differences June 30. For while they were upon a Treaty, Vantrump the Dutch Admiral comming with 42 Sail of Ships (nigh the Brittain (hore, towards Dover road) to view, refused to firike his Sail, and hung out a Red flag, the fignal of his Fleet, giving the English Generall Blake a broad fide; Whose Navies encountring each other about four hours space; one Dutch Ship was funk, and another taken, with their Captains, and about 150 Prisoners. The English Fleet having about ten slain, and fourty wounded, and receiving little hurt, but in the Admirals Masts, Sails, and rigging, with many fhot in her Hull. This was May 19, 1652, and was the beginning of almost two years War, in which, the first fight after was made by Sir George Ayfcough (returning fome Weeks before from reducing the English Plantations) in July, who with his Squadron of Ships, took, burnt and dispersed 30 or 36 Dutch this squatton of straps, cook, putting and dispersion 30 of 30 Dutch Anno 1850 fhips, and August 16 following, fought them near Plymouth. But of Chrift, three terrible Sea fights were betwixt the two Nations (besides to 1653. others) in that space of time. The one, Febr. 18, 1652, near the Isle of Wight and Portland, wherein the Dutch were worsted. Another was June 2, and 3, 1653, where they were also worsted; but with the loffe of the English General, Dean: who was afterwards pompoufly buried at Westminster. The third and last, and saddest conflict, but most seasonable victory to the English, was July 29, and 30, 1653, wherein their Admiral Vantrump was flain, and their Fleet also worsted, about 30 Men of War being funk and fired, and about 1000 prisoners, with 6 Captains taken out of their finking ships. Yet Gen. Blake himself was somewhat put to the worst in Decemb. 1652, which made the Dutch rejoyce and infult; and in the Levant Seas, toward the latter end of the same year, five considerable English ships were taken and blown up by the Dutch alfo.

There was also several Transactions between the English and the Danish King; who resused to deliver some Merchants ships, that (to avoid the danger of the Dutch then in the Sound) had put themselves under his protection; 18 sayl set forth from North-Yarmouth Sept. 19. 1652, to convoy them home; and on the 26 day received a Letter from the King, That he would fecure them for the Merchants as he had done; but would not deliver them unto them: whereupon they (as destitute of hope) left their Ships and came home with this Fleet. And although in Octob. following, one Bradshaw was sent as an Agent to the King of Denmark, on the Merchants behalf; yet he both detained the ships, and (at length) fold the goods.

The French Fleet also this year, consisting of seven considerable Ships, one small Frigot, and fix fire-ships, and going Septem. 5: from Calice-Road for the relief of Dunkirk (then hardly befieged by the Spaniard), were chased by Gen. Blake, and most of them taken: whereby the besieged in Dunkirk despairing of relief, yielded it to the Spaniards, Sept. 6. Graveling also did the Agents likewise (now about) came to the English out of France; the one from the King, defiring a release of his aforesaid ships going to relieve Dunkirk, and for a right understanding between them. Dutch; as Sweden, the Switzers, the Citics Lubeck, Hamburgh, &c. but with as little effect (at that time) as the other.

But General Cromwell perceiving the corruptions and dilatory proceedings of England's long-fitting Parliament, to perpetuate their Session; entred the House April 20, 1653, with some of his principal Officers, and (some reasons thereof being given) dissolved that Parliament : the Members departing, some by force, some for fear, others with murmuring. Then he with his Council of Officers set sorth a Declaration for satisfaction of the Nation, declaring the grounds of its Diffolution. Which had the confent both of the Officers of the Land-forces in Scotland and Ireland, and also of the Generals and Captains of the Fleet. And left publike Officers of the Nation should decline from their duties; or others make disturbances hercupon; he published another brief Declaration April 30, That all persons should demean themselves peaceably, and obey the former Laws, under a Council of State then declared, till approved persons should be called from several parts of the Common-wealth, to the Supream Authority: Which new Parliament being fummoned (by Warrants from the General and his Officers, to each Member pitched upon throughout the three Nations) to appear July 4. 1653; they accordingly met in the Council-Chamber; where the General (after a seafonable (peech unto them) devolved on them, or any 40 of them, the Supream Authority and Government, by an Instrument under his own hand and Seal; not to fit longer than Novemb. 3. 1654: who, though they made some laudable Acts, whereof one was, for relief of Creditors and poor prisoners; yet in other things, there being no small confusion and disagreement amongst them; as about Ministers and Tythes; For continuance of which, Londoners had petitioned Sept. 2. One among them moved, That their fiting as then constituted, was not for the peace of the Commonwealth, and therefore it was requifite to deliver up the powers they received from the General, unto him: which motion being feconded by feveralMembers, the Speaker with the greater number going towhite-Hall, by a writing under their hands, refigned up the same unto the General accordingly. This was on December the 12th, 1653. On which day, the General and his Councel of Officers meeting, and a wife speech made to them by him, some things were transacted in order to a settlement and composure: advising also with other persons of interest, how the burthen of governing England, Scotland, and Ireland, with the Armies and Navies, should be born, and by whom; who at length resolved, That a discreet Councel consisting of 21 persons should be nominated. And that the General himself should be chesen Protestor of the three Nations; which was done accordingly in westminster-Hall, Decemb. 16. 1653, the Commissioners of the great Seal, Judges, Councel of State, called the Keepers of England's Liberties, Mayor and Aldermon of London, and most of the Armie's chief Officers being present; where Rules and Articles (called an Instrument of Government) being first read; he foleranly took Oath to perform the fame; and returning to white-Hall in state as he came, he met with his Council: by whom a  $\sim$ Proclamation was ordered to be published, strictly to charge and command all persons whatsoever in the three Nations, to take notice of Oliver Cromwell's being declared Protector of the faid Nations, and to conform and submit to the Government so esta-

Two Ordinances in the moneth of January following were made by the Protector and Council; the one, declaring what offences should be adjudged Treason, that persons might know the nature and danger of their offence: The other, for repealing the Acts and Refolves of Parliament, touching subscription to the Engagement: which (indeed) must necessarily follow upon the change of the Government, now become even Monarchicall again. The faid Protector was Febr. 8. following (riding triumphantly into the City of London) magnificently feathed by the Lord Mayor, Aldermen, and several Companies thereof.

Bur some moneths before, June 10, 1653, John Lilburn, before banished by the Parliament, hearing of its dissolution, and so change in Government, returned into England without license, craving General Crommel's Protection: who notwithstanding, being left to the Law, was fent prisoner to Newgate, June 16; and being brought to the City-Seffions July 13 after; and again on the 16 day, his Tryal was deferred till the next Sessions: at which he appearing August 16, was (on the 20th day of the same month, after severall hours spent in examination of Witnesses for and against him the prisoner, and in making his defence) acquitted by the Verdict of his Jury about 12 at night. Yet on the 27 day after, was fent from Newgate to the Tower of London. Also on the fame 20th day, a General Affembly of the Kirk of Scotland (not judged, it appears, tending to peace) was dispersed by the English Forces kept in that Nation for quietnesse fake.

Two things were this year observable; the one in England, which was warm bloud, Jan. 20, rained at the Country Town of Pool in Dorfetsbire: fo that some there thought (at first) it was bloud ran from their nofes. The other in Ireland, March 15, on which day three Suns were feen at Dublin, the Mother-City of that Nation.

The fame moneth that the Archbishop of Coloria was (as abovefaid) invested into his Bishoprick, Philip Elector of Trezira, and Bithop of Spire dying after long languishings of old age, Charls Caspar, who had been long before appointed his tellow-helper, firaightway fucceeded him; and was inaugurated few dayes after according to the wonted cuftome, by the Metropolisan Colledg. The mean while, the bufmefle of quitting Franckendale, (, which was as yet held by a Spanish garrison) after many debates, was brought fo far, that the King of Spain having his money paid him, the garrilon should depart in the moneth of April. 1652, and the place should be restored to the Elector of Heidelburg, by vertue of the German Pacification. And after these things, the Empereur about the end of this year summoned publique. Assembles of the Empire, at Ratisbone; inviting in the mean time, the Electours to him, to Prague, unto a very triendly Discourse, whitner he first went in July, with his son the King of Hungary, and all the

But in Poland things were now no leffe quiet than in France. For there, publique Affemblies being fummoned at the beginning of this year 1652, and almost brought to an end, the interceding of one Provincial Messenger dispersed them; the Under Chancellor of the Kingdom, having lost the King's friendthip, the Nobility disdaining him, and being condemned by the King and Senate of Treason, he fled first to Petricore, and thence in o Smeilland. The Cossacks the while, and the Tartars, being stirred up by these troubles, making slaughter of the Polonian Army (that defended the strontiers sat Boryshenes, break again out of their dens into Valuchia: and sining that Prince a great summe of proney, are now said to assault Camenece in Podolia, the strongest Cassle of that Province, with the greatest force. Which things so pierced the Polanders, that the King calling his Nobility again to arms, summoned new general Assembles of the Kingdom.

An Account of what memorable things happened both in England and other Paris, from about the latter end of the Year, 1653, unto this present Year 1658.

IN England, (after that (the form of Government being now Lchanged) Oliver Cromwell took upon him the Supream Magistracy as Protector of the three Nations, and he fitting with his Councel at white-Hall, (being 13 in number) Decemb. 21, 1653, and a Declaration from them came forth, That instead of the Name, Style, Title and Tefte of the Keepers of the Liberties of England by Authority of Parliament, used in all Courts, Writs, &c. from Decemb. 26. 1653, the Name, Style, Title and Tefte of the Lord Protector for the time being, of the Common-wealth of England, Scotland, and Ireland, and the Dominions thereunto belonging, thould be used, and no other: also the Government of the faid Common-wealth under the faid Protectorthip, containing 42 particular heads, was published,) there was discovered a fecret Conspiracy on the behalf of Charls Stuart, Feb. 18 following; whereupon eleven of the Conspirators being committed to the Tower of London, were after a short time set at liberty : About which time, (on the contrary) as a testimony of affection to the Protector's Government, there appeared Addresses and Congratulations, from many parts of the three Nations. Then was there a main businesse in agitation, to wir, peace with the Dutch, and about this time well nigh finished: and after that, two of the Durch Embasidours, Newport and Youngstall, had gone over for full power from their superiours, and returned into England, March the 3d. 1653. defiring a speedy Cessation of Arms on both sides, as being fully impowred to ratific the late concluded peace. April 5. following, 1654, the Articles of Peace betwixt both S ares were figured and fealed by Loth parties; and on the 26 day of the same moneth in England proclaimed; (the day after which, the Protectour feathed the faid Embaffadours at White-Hall, himfelt first lodging there on the 15th of the same April, 1654.) also in the Netherlands about the fame time. And on May 30. following, the Lord Ambassadour whitlock arrived from Snethland, having finished his Embassage, which was to make an intimate peace and alliance between Sweden and England: For when the faid Embestadeur had understood, that the Treaty with the Dutch could have no reflexion upon the Swedish affairs, (for before, that Queen would give nim no disparch) he putting on the business more than formerly; in 14 dayes after they came to a full agreement: and April 28, 1654, the Articles of Alliance with the Swedish Nation were interchangeably figured and sealed alfo. Then on May 12 following, he having his last-audience in the same order and state as at his first receiving: after a brief speech made unto the Queen, and the likewife fignifying her high contentment taken, that the Lord Protector should at such a season fend so honourable an Embassic entrusted to the management of fo worthy a person: and that she accounted it a very great addition of happinesse to her Reign, that she had made so in mate an Alliance, &c. And that although the was about to quit her Government, yet she should remain a perfect friend to the Protector: not doubting, but that the Prince her Coufin, and all others who should succeed, would be careful inviolably to maintain the frien ship of that Common-wealth. This transaction being performed at upfall, a Town and University there.

A little before which time, were the spirits and expectations of some stots heightned, partly through promises which their King made them by his Agents; and partly through the discontent of divers persons in England; so that under the command of the Earls of Glencarn and Kenmore, was an Army raised in Scotland of 4000 note and soot, who Rendezvouzing at the Lough, Colonel Morgan with about 1500 horse and toot there wholly round them, Febr. 17. 1653, and slew about 1500 of them. But then did the affairs of Ireland tend more and more towards perfect settlement, by reason of the vigilant care which the Lord Deputy Fleetwood and the Councel bad in transplanting the Irish Natives into the Province of Connaught, whereby the English there were in all likelihood secured both in life and estate, from

In the moneth of May following, 1654, a discovery being made of a second Conspiracy against the Lord Protector's life; and to be put in execution on a prefixed day, as he should go betwixt London and Hampton-Court: also to seize on all guards about the City of London, the City it self, and also the Tower thereof; to proclaim Charls Stuart King of England, Scotland, and Ireland, &c. a High-Court of Justice (so called) was creeked in Wessiand.

Hall, Jul. 1. before whom, three of the apprehended Conspirators being brought, to wit, John Grard, Peter Vowell, and Semerfer of Christ, Fox: they were charged of High-Treason; and upon proof thereof, were condemned to dye: one whereof, to wit, Fox; being reprieved for his free and ingenuous contession: the other two (wno denyed the knowledge of any such design) suffering according to the Sentence, Jul. 10. Vonell being hanged; but Gerard, upon petition, beheaded on Tower-Hill: on which sad Theatre, one Don Pantalion Sa, brother to the Portugal Embassiadour then in England, for a murder by him (with his companions) a good while before committed on a man at the New-Exchange. And on the very morning of this execution-day, were the Articles of Peace (now fully concluded betwixt England and the Kingdom of Portugal) signed by the same Embassadour; who immediately withdrew out of the City.

But those in the Highlands of Scotland (being not as yet discouraged, and receiving some additionall strength from Middleton who had landed there out of Holland, as chief Generall for the young King) were quickly again reputed an Army, against whem Generall Monk being sent, and in those High-lands attending their motions in severall Marches from June the nints, 1654, unto July 29 following, he by degrees totally deseated them: Middleton himself being nee-sticated to see and take thipping out of Scotland; and his scattered sorces daily repairing unto the Garrisons of Englands Common-Wealth for mercy. On Sept. the ...ird following 1654, (the Protection thinking it meet to fummon a Parliament, two Indentures being first made, one between the Sheriffs of particular Counties, and the choosers of Members, and another between the Sheriffs and the Burgeffes (with the Ishabitans of Burroughs, fo chofen) that they for themselves, and people of the said Burroughs, have full power to act and confent to those things which in Parliament shall happen, so they alter not the Government from one single person and a Parli ment, as then fetled. They met at westminster Abbey, then repairing to the in use, and beginning to question the lawfullnesse of that power which called them together; a recognition of the Government was to be figured by them before their entrance into the House again; which most of them signing, they sate five Moneths, according to the time allotted by the inftrument of Government; and January the two; and twentieth following, were diffolved by the Protestour.

But (whether for glory sake, or revenge of an injury) an Army under the command of Generall Venables, was conveighed by a Fleet of Ships, set forth out of England under the conduct of Generall Pen, towards the Island of Hipaniola, (the fift place in America, that Columbus discovered for the King of Spain, and by the Spainards not a little set by) who setting sail from Porismouth, Decem. 27, were at Barbadoes January the twenty eight after, where the whole Fleet being certified to be in a good condition, March 19.

1654, and having feized on eighteen Dutch Merchants Ships, for trading there contrary to an Act of the long fitting Parliament, they thence failed for Hispaniola, on the thirtieth day of the same Moreth; where landing (though not all at once) in Aprill following; they (through the climates unkindnesse, want of water, and other necessaries, and their enemies expertnesse of the Counir y) received no very small repulle, not a few perishing in that action; Wherefore (that the honour of that defign might not w solly be loft) they about the third of May re-embarqued themfelves for Jamaica Island, in whose Harbour they Anchoring iome dayes after, with imall refiftance were Masters of the

In the mean time, the Protectour, his Councill, and Army Officers, were imployed at home, in suppressing a discovered Plot, and infurrections in divers places; for it was certified from York unto London, March 26, 1655, that one Sir Richard Maliverer, inviting his Tenants a few nights before, unto a Supper, incited them to joyn in Arms with him; who (with others) intended to feize on the City of York the same night for King Charls, appointing them a Gate where he would meet them: and going with four of them unto Heffay Moor, divers chief of the Country met them, with Carts laden with Arms; yet the appearance being too small, they dispersed again. Wherefore, the said Maliverer was necessitated to flee beyond the Seas. There were some said to be risen about Merioneth shire, and other parts of wales: against whom, some other Inhabitants rose to joyn in opposing them. Another party reported 500, (though not fo many) rofe in Nottingham hire; whom from Colonel Hacker, a party marched out of Leicestershire, to suppresse. Shrewsbury Castle was to be possessed by a stratagem of two men going into the Castle in womens apparrell, and two other as their men to wait on them, &c. of which the Governour having notice, prevented the defign. The City of Chefter being likewise intended to be seized on. But that of most dangerous confequence to the peace of the Common-wealth was, the infurrection at and about Salisbury in wiltsbire, beginning March 12. for the Judges coming into Salifbury on Saturday night from winchefter Affizes; some (for King Charls) came into the Town also, as being a time of leaft fulpition: and rendezvouzing the next day, in the night were above an hundred; the chief Commander being one Sir Joseph wagstaffe: who on Munday morning early, feizing all hories, feized also on the Sheriff the same morning, endeavouring to force him to proclaim Charls Stuart King; and wounding and knocking him over the head with a piltol for refusal of the fame; and carrying him away. They plundred also both the Judges, Sheriff, Justices, and others, of all that was fit to carry away: yet did the Judges no harm in their persons; but, taking away their Paroll, they let out both prisoners for debt, and also malefactors with their irons on them, mounting those who would joyn with them; and after they had proclaimed Charls Stuart King) departed (in number about 200) out of the City towards Blanford in Dorfetsbire, encouraging their followers, That their chief Leader was coming from France to nead them with to 1658. 10000 men, (for the Country joyned not with them, as was expected). But toon after, came news, fignifying the totall defeat of those under Wagftaffe, Jones, Penruddock, and Groves; for Unton Crook, a Captain, pursuing them out of Wiltshire into Devonshire, with his own onely Troop, fell in among it them at South-Molton: where after a few hours dispute, he took Jones, Penruddock, and Groves, (with about 60 other pritoners, and nigh 140 horse and arms, wagstaffe himself cicaping) who being committed to Exeter Goal, a Commission soon came forth for the tryall of the rifers, at Salifbury, Exeter, and Chard in Somerseisbire, and 14 of 30 being condemned at Salifbury, three of them, to wit, Lucas, Thorp, and Kenfer, were on May 3. 1655, executed, with feven others on the 7th day; and on May the 9th, 14 of the condemned persons at Exeter, were there also executed, (most being reprieved) amongst whom, Penruddock and Groves were beheaded: but Jones (by order) likewise reprieved. Likewise at Chard were divers persons executed, May 17, one Major Hunt escaping in his fisters habit. After which, divers prisoners in the Tower of London, who had a former hand in conspiring against the Protector's Person, as alfo most of them, who for this infurrection were imprisoned in the West of England, were ordered to be sent away into forreign Plantations.

But one effect which these Insurrections produced, was infiru-Gions given to the Major Generals of Counties, to endeavour the suppression of all Tumules, &c. as also all forreign Invasions, by drawing Forces and Troops into all convenient places upon occafion: and also by disarming Papists and others, who had been in arms against the Parliament, and all others dangerously suspected. Other orders were likewise given them, both to have a strict eye upon the carriage of all disaffected persons within their Counties; and likewise to endeavour the apprehending of Theeves, Robbers, High-way-men, &c. with some other particulars. And all those hereupon, who had any way affifted the King, were also to pay the roth part of their chates, to the bearing of the charges of the Army.

The English Fleet having landed their Countrymen at Jamaica, and left a Squadron of Ships there, were now bound homeward for England; wherefore fetting fayl from thence, June 25, 1655, they anchored at the Spit-head near Portsmouth, Aug. 13 following. General Venables also arriving in another ship, Sept. 9. weak of body, and having been near death: who together with General Pen, either upon suspition of his fidelity, were committed to the Tower of London, Sept. 20th after; but soon after set at liberty

Anno 1653 of Christ, to 1658.

America, behaved himself valiantly in Africa against the Turkish Pyrats of Tunis; (toward which parts he fee lay) from Plymouth, Oct. 6, 1654,) for having demanded fatistaction of the Dye or Governour of Tunis, for certain thips they had taken: and also the Captives of the English Nation, April 18, 1655; and being not onely denyed either, but had also some kind of provoking or daring terms given him; he calling a Councel of War, retolved (if possible) to burn their ships which lay in Porto Ferino: within musket shot of which Castle, the English Admiral, Vice-Admiral, and Rear-Admiral lying, played on it and their Forts with 20 great guns; the wind also favouring them; so that although there were 120 guns planted on the shoat and Castle against them; they couragiously in their long boats, burnt 9 thips down to the water in the space of 4 hours; with the loffe of onely 25 men, and 48 wounded. Moreover, a breach of mu.ual amity between England and Spain being now begun, an Ambassadour extraordinary was fent from the King of Spain into England; where he arriving May 2. 1655, came in a stately manner thorow London to westminster; and having publique audience given him by the Lord Protector on the 8th day of the fame moneth, with other audiences, nothing as to an agreement between the two Nations, was concluded; fo that June 12 following, he parted from the Protector onely with mutual complements, and fo returned into Spain. For a league between the English and French Nation, began new to be thought of; and an Embassadour from France, refiding a while in London to that end: at length, Peace between England and France was ratified Novemb. 19. 1655; and on the 28th day proclaimed (one effect of which league, was the exiling of the house of the Stuarts out of the French Dominions). Before which, there was certain intelligence from Bayonne and S. Sebaflian, Sept. 5th, that the King of Spain had made a seizure of the persons and goods of the English within his power; and on Febr. 16th following, War with England was openly proclaimed by the Spaniards at Dunkirk.

The History of the World; or, Lib.10.

But as to France it felf, the Prince of Conde, with the other difcontented ones against Cardinal Mazarine and his party, being allayed there, as having no considerable party within the bowels of that Nation: the said Prince sent one General Marsin into Spain, to negotiate in his behalf; (for upon the Spainard was all his dependance) and going with his Troops in the Country and Bishoprick of Liege or Luyck in Flanders, he there waged (about the moneths of December and January.) 1653 a little new War, to get Winter-quarters: the Inhabitants every where standing to defend and maintain their priviledges and freedom; but the Prince's forces took from them by force, the little Town of Foses, (which is serivated between the rivers of Sambre and Mense) mazeching also against the Town Chasselet, seated on the river Sambre, owhich (at that time) there was no doubt but they would be soon masters of, Their design likewise being to take Dinant and Chi-

vai; which were to be for a Principality to the faid Prince; intending Rocroy (of which, his fon the Duke of Anguien was Governour, and who having there a very strong garrison, forced the to 1658. Country round about to pay him Contribution) for his Head-City: fo that the Court-party of France quite gave him over, suppoling him not to be brought back by any tolerable means of accommodation: wherefore they at Paris about the same time raifed a suspition (out of policy) among the Spaniards, as if he had intended to make his peace with the King and Court of France, giving it out, That a Treaty to that end was actually fer on foot: which doing him some present wrong among the Spanish party, he went to Bruffels to Leopold the Arch-Duke, principally to give affurances of his resolution against the Court of France, and all Mazarine's party; and to procure moneys and recruits, that at Spring (for it was now Winter) he might be in some indifferent capacity to infest that Kingdom. It was also then presaged in France, (by many) that some strange turn of affairs was yet to be expected there, from the Duke of Orleance, the Kings Uncle, being more than usually hardy, in refusing to come to that Court; although strongly solicited thereunto. The people also of that Nation being deceived in their expectations of golden dayes, which they thought to have feen upon the Court's return to Paris, and the composure of their last tumults; instead whereof they were both impolitickly and tyrannically dealt withall, that it was certainly believed, That if ever the Princes make up a confiderable party again in France, the people would turn to them; most of the good Towns flood for them; and the Parifians themselves were as high for them as ever. Then were the Court of France drawing up a Declaration against the Prince of Conde; having also had lately good successe against the Spaniards in Catalonia. And about the same time arrived an extraordinary Courrier from Rome unto the French Court, with letters, pressing the King to hearken unto a Pacification with Spain, and give way to a general Peace: wherein also the Pope promised to contribute his best assistance. The Messenger departing likewise in haste for Spain, Jan. 21.1653, with Letters of the same nature, to that King; which intervening, produced no effect: however, it hath been observed, these two Monarchies have been like the Sea, losing at one place and time, what they gain in another; fo vexing themselves and Europe also to no purpose. The Pope also sent order to his Nuntio refiding at Paris, to make enquiry what Irish Bishops and Priests were in that City, with their names and firnames, and how they then lived.

The Portugal Embassadour at Paris also about the same time, making several instances to advance the alliance of a League offensive and defensive, between his Master the King of Portugal, and the French King, offered withall a marriage between the said young King, and the King of Portugal's daughter, with a Dowry of four millions of gold.

But on June 7th 1654, the young King of France was crowned at Rheimes with a great acclamation of the Inhabitants and Souldiers of that City, who met him half a mile out of the Town, crying, Vive le Roy, or, Let the King live. The Ministers of Rheims also highly applauding the Cardinal in their Orations upon the anounting of the King, looking on him as the onely means that hath kept up the Scepter from falling into the hands of an ambitious Prince, that is, Conde, who feeks more his own greatneffe, than the welfare of the Nation. The Cardinal of Retz, being kept confined by Mazarine, one pretence whereof was, the not furrendring up of the Archbishoprick of Paris; he sent about this time, the Master of his horse to Rome, to pray the Pope to give his confent unto the same surrender, that Muzarine might have no farther pretence for keeping him fo confined.

Now also was there preparation made in France for the siege of Stenay, by the King and Cardinal, the onely place that the Prince of Conde had at his Command; and at which siege, the King intended to affift in Person: and the Cardinal resolved to take that strong place, though with length of time, and vast expences: wherefore fetting about it, and the young King couragiously and industriously visiting that Leaguer, and animating the Souldiery, after a great Battery raised, he summoned the place: which the Governour refusing to surrender, without Condee's consent, they applyed themselves to carry the Cittadel first: whereupon the befieged made a resolute salley of above 200 men; but they sallying upon the Smitzers quarter, were by them valiantly repulled: the Governour after a fecond fummons, fending answer back, he was refolved to live and die in the place; they drew together more Forces to reinforce the King's Camp: the befieged having by a fally killed between 3 and 400 of the befiegers; yet shortly after (for that was in July 1654) in August, they having made a very great breach with their Mine, they came to a Capitulation for furrender, which was made with a Spanish Commander, the Earl of Chamilly accepting of the King's pardon in furrendring it, and the garrison retreating to Montmedy.

In the mean time, the Spaniard, to divert the French Forces that had befieged Stenay, closely befieged Arras, a confiderable Frontier Town belonging to the French King: whose Governour was no leffe couragious than that of Stenay; and the management of the fiege being (by the Spaniard) faid to be folely committed unto the Prince of Condee; who had full power to fight as he should see occasion. The Spaniards were in great want of provision; the French having so secured the passages, that none could be brought unto them: yet a Convoy of 1000 Wagons being fent from Dowsy to victual the Camp, and through some opposition, retreating to Aire, from thence got fafe within the lines of the Spanish Camp; whereby they were supplyed for 3 weeks: which was longer than (at that time) the Town was (in the eyes of many) likely to hold our: The Spaniards, Aug. 14, affaulting a half Moen of Arras, were beaten off with the loffe of 400 men. But Marthal Turein, with divers other forces from all parts, hattening to the relief of the belieged, (fo that they had no leffe than to 1858; et ,40000 mall), the Spaniard alfolurking too long in his Trenches, and not engaging the French Army at the first, (as the Prince of Condee is reported to lave advised them) they having hereby the more opportunity to circumvent them in all passages, and hinder the accolle of provisions, they forrounded the Spanish Army, and actually hindred all provisions for their relief: wherefore the Spamards being reduced so this firait, were necessirated to withdraw from before the Town, on the first hopeful opportunity, and that in the night, leaving their Ordnance and baggage behind them; yet the French having notice by their Scouts, of their first motion. the grand Army under Marshal D. Hoquincourt Enorwithstanding all the Prince of Conde sould do by perswation of example) comming on, amain upon them, routed the Arch-Duke's horle, leaving most of their foot to their enemie's mercy; with their Commanders, bag and baggage. But the Governout of Arras himfelf (knowing the time of the Spaniards intended retreat) fallying our with about 1500 or 2000 men at the instant of their moving, did much facilitate the bulingfle; smost of the Spanish foot being flain or taken, to the number of 600g priloners; and the first Onfett being made upon the Larrainer's trenches; the worst storm fell on them; and many almost starved for lack of food i This happened in August, 1654. Which succoffe rendred Cardinal Mazarine impregnable; whereas; if he had been put to the like retreat, it was supposed he must have shortly retired out of France again: for those of Burdeaux were then discontented by reason of some new imposts lately imposed on some Commodities there, by means of Trompette Castle serving to keep that Town in awe : the discontented also scattering several papers up and down, against tyranny, and the oppression which they lay under; and it was then verily believed, if Arras, had been taken by the Spaniard; more places would have shewn their discontent by reason of the

But the Country of Liege was about the moneths of January and Febr. 1653, in a sad condition; both by the Duke of Lorrain; who quartered his Troops there, partly by confent, and partly by force, pretending, the States of the Country did invite him this ther, because their Prince and Bithop governed altogether absolutely, and against their Laws and priviledges; so that he was come to redresse their grievances, and beget a good understanding between the Bishop and his people. The Prince of Condee's Troops: (on the other hand) pretending that those of Liege were affected to, and held correspondence; with, the French: also that it was the Lorrainers which betrayed them, doing them all poffible mischief they can contrive whereever they come : wherefore they were come to fecure them and their Country, from being preyed on by the Lorrainers. The Troops likewise of the King of heavy imposts laid on them.

France and the Empire were then marching towards Liege, pretending also, they came to relieve the afflicted, and to assit a Prince of the Empire, who was quarrell'd with, and abused in his rights and prerogatives. Wherefore, all these caused the Spanish Troops, and those of the United Provinces to march also towards the same Country; both to hinder the French Troops from entring into Liege, and to secure their Frontiers. Thus although neither of thele ought to have come there, the Country being Neutral; yet, through these quarrels and debates, the inhabitants were in ferably used like enemies on all sides.

But these thus forcially quartering in the Country, occasioned the Prince or Bishop of Liege, and the Archbishop of Collen, to make a league offensive and defensive with the two Electours of Triers and Mentz, mutually to assist each other against all manner of forreign forces under what pretence foever; and in March following, the Marquels of Faber feeing the conclusion of peace between the Prince of Liege, and the Electour of Collen, and Leopold the Arch-Duke, (whereby the first was obliged unto the fecond, by the article of the Treaty, to endeavour what he could to cause the French Army to remove out of his Territories, being (if gentle periwations would not prevail) to joyn his forces with the Arch Duke's, and force there, if they conceived it advantagious fo to do; prefently removing from Limbourg, marcht out of the Country of Liege the same way he came, towards the Woods of Ardenne; yet having first the Paroll of the Prince Electour, that neither the Spaniards, Lorrainers, or Prince of Condee's forces, thould attempt any thing against them by vertue of the faid peace, And in the moseth of Febr, after, the Arch Duke by speciall order of the King of Spain, (whose Lievtenant he is in Flanders) exemplarily proceeded against Charls Duke of Lorrain, not onely by imprisoning his person in the Castle of Antwerp, (though he were nobly intreated in his imprisonment) but by taking from him the command of his Army, Dukedome, and Estate, and conferring it on Francis his brother, who as foon as he was come from Vienna, was to have the Command of his brother's Forces, and was called Duke Francis of Lorrain. The cause whereof was, the thefts, robberies, rapes, &c. committed under the conduct of his Army, the wracks of which destructions and devastations he himfelf gathered up; and also his inconstancies, and pretended change of judgment in refolves of warlique matters, and the alterations and delayes he gave in things, which (having been debated) were even at the very point of execution; and which being important fervices, might (in all likelihood) have had a happy iffue: which tricks and artificies were at length grown to notorious, that the Masters of the Camp, and all other Officers could point at them, &c. The faid Duke Charls (being now forconfined) feeing no remedy, refigned up unto the King of Spain and the Arch-Duke, both his Person, his Estare, and Army ? Which the Earl of Lignevill was to command, till the arrival of the faid Duke Francis at Bruffels.

A little before the same time, the Spaniard received a check from the Portugals by Land; for the Earl of Almarantio, Lievtenant General of the Spanish horse, sending forth some of his to 1672. Troops, Novemb. 6. 1653, to pillage between the Towns Aronteum and Megretum, and to expect a conjunction of other forces: Andrew Albaquercio, General of the Portugal horse, marching towards them, the Spaniards feemed to retreat, that uniting with their main body, they might fall on the Portugals : which thefe perceiving, a Portugal Governour speeded with about 250 horsemen towards the enemies frontiers, not far from Valentia, where after a thorrecombat, ne put 300 Spanish horsemen to flight; and in the pursue coming in fight of 400 other horse of the enemies, he being over-numbred, and his Souldiers disordered in the pursuit, he was repulled, with the loffe of fome few; yet many wounded, and the Governous himself, with two Entigns taken : one Captain of the Spaniards being flain, and divers mortally wounded. Whereupon Albuquercio following the Spaniards betimes the next morning, found them not far from drantium very numerous, driving away 1200 head of Cattle. The Spaniards being 1500, the Portugals but 950 horfe: where after valour on both fides thewn, the Portugals being conquerours, they purfued them untill night; many Spanish Commanders falling; among whom, was Almarantem their Major General, 17 Colonels, and many wounded. There were flain in all 300 Spaniards, 400 taken prisoners. The Portugals having divers wounded ; but no confiderable loffe.

But the Great Duke of M footy decreeing notility against the kingdom of Poland about the tatter and of 1653, refolving also to invade the fame with three Armles, in three fundry places; and waging aftual war accordingly, wrote Letters about April 1644 unto the Queen of Sweden, fignifying the two reasons of his faid War with the Polander: which feem not to be of weight fufficient for such an attempt; the one being, because a certain Polander writing a Narration of former Wars between them, wherein the Polanders had the better, faid onely, They had beaten the Muscovite; without adding his Title. The other, because, he, in quoting fomething touching the Genealogy of the Mafcovite's Ancestors, named one as the father, which was the fon. Wherefore, he demanding the offender's head of the King; and it being denyed, he warred on them, having taken one of their Cities already, and befieged another of their most considerable ones. But the Queen politickly answered, She neither approved, nor disapproved his reasons, withing he might have good satisfaction from the Polarder, and being troubled (the faid) that Christian Princes should fall our. But the Mafcovite proceeding in his enterprize with a great power, after this; took in the Polith. Country even without resistance, the people where they came seeking to fave themselves by flight, and notwithflanding the great contributions there granted, they had no confiderable Army to stop them: fo that that Country was then look ton as deplorable. following, the Mascouites whole body falling upon Duke Radzivil's Army, (for he was the Poland General) which consisted of about 15000 men; they totally routed the same, Radzivil himself very hardly eleaping... and so mysteriously were things carried by the chief ones of that kingdom, at that time, that it was thought by some (for they sate still) that certain of those prime ones were not much discontented thereat; however, by this overthrow they whole Dukedome of Litton was exposed to ruine and destruction; But Vitopits a little after, beating off the Moscouite's three storms; took in Milossa. Town scituated on the River Drina, where he per side of the storms of th

About November following, the Town of Smolensko, accounted one of the best fortified places in Europe, was after an indifferent long fiege; furrendred unto the grand Duke of Muferdy; and that through the Enemies policy, who perswading the Palatine, that all Poland was loft, and that that place onely made refiflance; the Palatine being fleicken with a panick fear, and feeing! no leffe than an Army of 5 or 6 bodies encompaffing thim, was eafily perswaded, yet on as honourable terms as he could defire; bur, immediately hereupon, no lesse than 5000 of his men listed themselves under the Muscovite, and taking an oath to be true unto him. Wherefore, feeing the place was both provided with necessaries for a years fiege, nor any powder wanting unto the befieged, the King of Poland required the faid Palatine to come unto him to Grodnasto give him an account of his proceedings. The Muscoviter pur a garrison of 10000 men into the City. And indeed, fuch then was the successe and progresse of the Muscovites also in Lithuania, that it raised such a jealousie in the king of Sweden; that he fent to the City of Kaningsberg, to demand passage for some forces, that he might put his Frontiers thereabouts in a posture of defence, as he had done in the Province of Liefland; for they so miscrably wasted all those quarters held by the Polanders in Lithuania, that for 40 leagues round Smelensko, there was not to be discovered the least mark of any Town or Village, they being all laid in afthes; whereby above 30000 families being turned to the wide world, went for refuge toward wild a, to avoid the Mufcovite's cruckies, three other Towns, after the taking of Smolensko, likewise yielded themselves, to wit, Skla, Horey, and Dabrowna. But Poland having made a league with the grand Cham of Tartarie; he prepared them a relief of 40000 men, who were to march under the Conduct of Sultan Kafy Galga, brother to the then Cham Mehemet Gerey: and he fent Kaya Begio to go and relieve Jurlenbeck & Murza,two places, which were then very much distressed by the Cossacks also: who taking part with the Muscovites, and Chimelinsky, fending Embassadours to Court the Cham, he immediately taxing them of breach of faith in taking the Mufravites part against Poland; commanded their Noses and Ears to be cut off, and fent them thus back to their Master to tell him,

That he was for ever refolved against any reconcilement with him. Then also the Poland King sent into Sweden to renew a Treatry for a perpetual peace between the two Crowns of Poland and Smethland; according to a Treaty begun before at Lubeck, proposing also to lay down all future claims of that Crown. Unto which the Swedish King signified his inclination; and was daily in Counsel with his Senators, about the Poland affairs, as being much inclined to an Alliance offensive and defensive with that Crown, by reason of the progress which the extraordinary numerous forces of the Muscovites made in Lithuania; and who not onely kept his frontiers well guarded with sorces; but sent others into the Arch-bishoptick of Bremen, both to make good his pretensions there, and to threaten war upon the Dukeof Numburg.

At or about the same time, while the King of Poland lay at Grodna, the Emperour of Germany sent him an Envoy, to demand a restoring of certain Towns, which he held in Hungary, which were pawned unto Poland about 200 years before; offering to reimburse the money for their redemption. But the King put him off for an answer, to the next Diet or Assembly of the Kingdom, shewing not much disposure to yield thereunto. But about the moneth of August, 1654, the Kingdom of Sweden dispatched Forces to besiege the City of Bremen, for some insolence committed against that Grown: whom it was thought, (by the Swedes) that the Emperour and German Princes did privately stir up against him; who else could not have been believed, to be so bold, as (of themselves) to provoke against them so considerable an enemy. Koning mark had the managing of that fiege; who about the beginning of September, making shew as if he intended to go over to Vegefak, drew a great party of the Bremers thither; and after Sun-fet, taking a quite contrary march, he caused a bridg to be made over the water called the Ham, and passed over it in the night; and so over the Moors, (though with great difficulty, by reason of the extream deep and muddy ground) wherein, although feveral horses were smothered, yet not one man lost; and this (notwithstanding they played with their Canon out of the City) to the Bremers great admiration. As foon as he was got over with about 100 men, (for the rest were necessitated to follow one by one) the Bremers placing themselves with a considerable number not far from the Swdes, yet beyond a deep Moor, fo that they could onely charge each upon other, not come together. The Swedes growing stronger and stronger; the Bremers were forced with the leffe of a good many of their men, to retreat towards the City. And foon after, some Troops of Bremish horse appearing, they were also beaten by the Swedes to the very gates of the City, about 20 of them being flain. In all which the Swedes are faid to have loft but two men. This unexpected enterprize put the City into a great firaight and perplexity; which being likewise increased by a Letter from the Emperour, (admonishing them to make their composition as soon, and as good as they could; be-

Three or four moneths before which time, Christina Queen of Sweden, (for reasons either voluntary, or constrained) religned her Crown unto Charls: Guftave, her Cousen. After which, she undertook (having first fecured her yearly maintenance in Pomerania) feverall Percerinations: among which, that to Inspruck (a City in the Arch-Dutchy of Tirol, and feated among the Alps, overlooking it on every fide; and where the report of a Musket is faid to be as great as that of a piece of Ordnance) is most remarkable. Where being entertained in an extraordinary manner by that Arch Duke, too large here particularly to relate, and which was in or about the moneth October, 1655, the next day but one after her arrivall there, the made an open profession of the Romish Catholique faith, in fix heads or Sections; where Holftenius, Pope Alexander the 7th his Nuntio (in presence of the Arch-Duke, his Lady and brother, and Spanish Ambassadour, &c.) standing at the right fide of the Altar, (and the on the left) faid, Pope Alexander understanding that Christina Queen of Sweden being enlightned by the Holy Ghost, intended to put her self into the bosome of the Church, had fent his Letters, testifying his Approbation of her defires; and to receive her with his Apostolical Benediction, he being there to know the truth thereof. Unto which the answering, It was fo; Holftenim giving the Pope's Letter to a Prieft who read it aloud, defired the would make profession of the faid faith, and fwear upon the hely Evangelist, to keep it, before the Arch Duke, and the Spanish Ambassadour. Which she doing, and kissing the book, a Chair was fet for Holftenim, and a Cushion laid at his feet, upon which the Queen kneeling, he making the fign of the Crosse over her head, and embracing her shoulders, said, He did receive her into the Catholike Church, and by virtue of an order from the Holy Father Pope Alexander the 7th, and from the power given him by Christ, whose Vicar he was, he did absolve her from all her fins the had committed, In the Name of the Father, Go. This being done, their Te Deum, &c. was fung with most melodious voices, and all forts of Instruments, and Drums, in the very Chappel of the Franciscans or Arch-Duke where it was done; then 50 pieces of Ordnance being discharged, she returned as she came. Charls Gustave not long after his Coronation, was married with great Pomp and Solemnity unto the daughter of the Duke of Holsein, at Stockholm.

But about the moneth of June, 1654, there was sent over from England into Holland, a Copy of the fecret Articles agreed on by the States of Holland alone in the Dutch Treaty, to the prejudice of the Prince of Orange: the effect whereof was, That the Pretector of England having often represented, That in case the Prince of Orange or Posterity of the house of Stuart, should command the Militia of that State, they might occasion great differences, or at least great jealousies between the two Nations. The States of Holland, to remove that apprehension, first debating the matter, concluded, That for the future, the Prince of Orange, and all of his line, should be excluded from the Government and Admiralthip of the Province of Helland: and if the other Provinces would choose him for Captain and Admiral-General, they would never consent to the same. Which causing a great disturbance in the Affembly of the States General, they ordered Copies thereof to be sent to the other Provinces, before they resolved on any thing. The Commissioners of Holland in the mean time excusing the business unto the Princess Dowager, telling her, They were constrained to do what they did; hoping notwithstanding, that before the Prince were of age, the affairs of that State might be subject to some alteration, which might to establish him into what they had then taken from him. But this action of theirs produced divers paper-combats from the other Provinces, who were again his feclution.

About the same time, the Venetian Obtained a great Victory over the Turk, having sought: them two dayes together in the Archipelago or Bardanelles; wherein they slew 6000 Turks, wounded the General, Amurath Baska, to death; taking also four Men of War, and 16 Galleys; yet not without the losse (on their own part) of many brave ones, one Galliot, and 5 Gallies. The Turks also the same year, in or about December, making an attempt by night upon the Fortresse of Vesprin in Hungary, as thinking to surprize it; sound such resistance, that they were forced to retire; with the losse of 900 kill'd and taken.

Not long before which, the Grand Seignior of the Turks being advertised, that the Vizier Basia had long projected to make himself Emperour, through the assistance of the Greeks who were to have rebelled also, by the straight correspondence he held (for that purpose) with the Musicovites and Cosacks, whom he promised to embrace the Greek Religion; he conventing him before a private Councel, and upbraiding him of his Treason, after so many benefits done him; he was condemned to death, and strangled within five or six hours; imprisoning also the Patriarch of Jerusalem.

Toward the latter end of this year alfo, through the Leavies continuing and increasing in Germany, some rupture was feared in the that Empire; for the Bishop of Munster having a quarrel with the great Dean of his Diocess, was back'd by the Canons, yet residing without the City; but the Dean had the affection of the Citizens, and was within the City: wherefore the Bishop armed against the City, and they against him; who designing to take it by a furprizall, with 200 horse, and 400 foot, at the opening of the gates; the Ambuscado was discovered, and the design fru-

The Prince Electour Palatine, had then also two quarrels with two German Prelates: one with the Electour Archbishop of Ments, which was for the jurisdiction of a Place, into which, the last would fettle some Priests, as belonging to him; but the Prince would have fettled there Ministers of the reformed Religion; faying, He ought to dispose theteof, as having been so many years in possession; but the people the while remained unprovided of either. The other was against the Bishop of Spiers; because those of that City (werms also seconding them) had both yielded (in all probability) upon the account of Religion, themselves into the Palatine's Protection. But the Emperour, who himself was likewife then very bufie in making great levies; forbade them to proceed any further in their contention: but admonifhing them to plead their causes in Courts of Justice. The said Emperour, Jan. 2. 1654, commanding all the chiefest of the Protestant Families of Vienna, and round about it, to meet together at an appointed place; but, they not meeting, a new command came, for them to meet at the place appointed; who then coming in great numbers, and most of them 50 and 80 years old : they first were checked for not coming at the first summons; and then had passports given them to departout of his hereditary dominions, and to retire to fome other place than Hungary:

The same year the Duke of Pomerania (who was the last of that house) dying, and his body being with great solemnity interred; his whole Effate was divided betwixt Smeden and the Electour of Brandenburgh: the Commissioners of the former, and the Elector, equally parting his broken Seal, and equally defraying the charges of his Funeral. Moreover, it may not be frivolous, to relate one treachery (among others) which was discovered in Flanders about January, 1653; it was to betray and deliver Armentiers, one of the chief Frontier Garrisons of that Country into the French their hands for a fumm of money: which defign was on this manner laid; some of a Regiment of Irish there in garrison (knowing there were some of their own Nation in the French garrisons of Baffee and Bethune, not far from Armentiers, which is scituated on the River Lifle,) running away discontented, joyned to the aforesaid garrisons of French; some lrish also of the other side, came over to the Spamards in Armentiers, and there lifted themselves, speaking very ill of the French Officers. These Runnagadoes agreed together at last to deliver Armentiers into the hands of the Duke of Elbeuf; who being to possesse or the Gates (when these were upon the guard) with 4 or 5000 men, which were in a readiness at Beverie, a Village on this fide Bethune; on the night of execution hereof, one of the Irish Plotters being troubled about the horriblenesse of the defign, to put fo many innocent creatures to the fword, discovered the same to the Governour; who while he was talking with him of it, a Sergeant brings him word, the enemy was near the Town: Whereupon, the Governour doubling his guards; and the Duke perceiving the design was frustrate, retreated. The contrivers (who were 4 Captains, 5 other Officers, and 9 Souldiers, all Irish) being presently seized on to receive reward according to their deferts.

But at Delph, a City scituated between Roterdam and the Hague in Holland, and 3 miles from the Hague, happened a most sad and lamentable dysaster by an unexpected blowing up the Gun-powder of its Magazine, Octob. 12. 1654, between the hours of To and II in the forenoon; which containing 6 or 700 barrels of powder; (which was supposed, to be casually fired by the Keeper thereof, who was feen to go in with another man about 10, ftriking open a barrell) so levelled the Tower, that there was nothing to be feen of it; yea, not the very place where it flood, it being changed into water; 300 houles were blown up and utterly destroyed; the other houses and fine gardens very much damnified and spoyled, and above 800 persons killed and wounded; besides many that might be imagined to have been blown all to pieces, fo that no account could be taken of them: it shook the houses in the Hague, breaking their windows, and did some spoyl at Roterdam: yet one Child about 18 moneths old, lying 24 hours under the ruines, was taken up, and not hurt at all.

Also at a Diet or general Affembly of the States of Poland at warfovia, in June 1655, a Senatour striking one of his fellow-Members on the face in the open Assembly, and who was according to the Laws of that Land, to have both his right hand and head struck off: through the Queens intercession, the punishment was moderated, that asking pardon of the King, Affembly, and Pope's Nuntio, he was to remain close prisoner in a dungeon, one year and 6 moneths: but he representing this penalty to be worse than death, he onely was to pay a confiderable fum of money towards the charges of the Wars. The Swedish Queen Christina, a little before the same time, having sent into Swethland, to demand the Arrears of the Pension there affigned to her; The Chancellor of that Kingdom returned answer, That if she intended to receive any, she might do well to return thither; the States being unwilling to suffer any money to go out of the Kingdom.

But the Duke of Sazony was leffe just, and yet much more cruel unto a man in his Country, (who killed a Dear) in the moneth of Febr. 1655, condemning him to be bound with chains upon a Stag, his feet fast under the beast's belly, with an iron chain fol-dered, and his hands also (in the same manner) chained to the homs: and so let loose to run away with him. The Stag having run (as was computed) near 100 English miles (upon a direct line) in 26 hours time, coming near some Wagoners who came out of Silesia, sell down; wherefore the poor man sitting on his back, told them the businesse: and earnessly begged of them to shoot him, to put him out of his pain; but they durst not, searing the Duke. In the mean time, the Stag getting up, ran away with all his might: so that the miseries that poor creature had undergone, and must undergo, if the Stag killed him not in the running, cannot be expressed.

In the Isle of Malta, toward the latter end of 1655, Mman the great Turk's brother, (who some years before, with the Sultat.'s Wives Mother, their family and treasury, was taken at Sea, coming from Mecca, by those Knights, and brought into the Island) made profession of Christianism, being christned with great ceremonies, and rejoycing of the City, in the Dominicans Cloister; who retaining his former name of Mman, was stranged Dominicus.

But in England, in July 1656, Writs being issued forth for fummoning another Parliament, and a general clection of the Members thereof, being made in August following; they assembled at westminster-Abbey, whither the Protector coming in stately equipage, after their Sermon ended, and a speech made unto them by the faid Protectour, they fate, electing Sir Tho: widdrington for their Speaker: this was on Sept. 17th, 1656; they fate from the time aforefaid, untill about the latter end of June, 1657, and then were adjourned untill Jan. 20th following. The chief matters done by this Grand Councel, I find to be an Act for Renouncing and difannulling the title of Charls Stuart unto the Nations of England, Scotland, and Ireland. Then, an endeavour to settle the Titleof King, with a Crown the Emblem thereof, on the head of the Protestour; which he, after time of deliberation, positively refused: and openly declaring May the 8th, 1657, That he could not undertake the Government with the Title of King: Wherefore laying afide the Title, the Parliament folemnly (by A&) invested him into the power thereof, June 26 following, under the Name and Title of Protectour: the Speaker of the Parliament presenting unto him, in westminster-Hall, (being attired in his Robes) four Emblems of Government; a Purple Velvet Robe lined with Ermine; a large Bible with rich gilt and Bosses; a Scepter of Gold, and a Sword, which he girt about him, descanting (by a speech) upon all of them at the delivery thereof: also he taking an Oath. Then while he thus fate, holding the Scepter in his hand, after the thrice founding of a Trumpet, a Herald standing alost, proclaimed his Highness Lord Protectour of the Common-wealth of England, Scotland, and Ireland, requiring all to yield him due obedience. And then an Officer of Arms did the like. Soon after which, he was fo proclaimed proclaimed in the three principal Cities of London, Edenburgh, and Dublin.

Anno 1653 of Christ, to 1658.

The Peace of this Common wealth, with the Kingdom of Fortugal being ratified July 10th of the same year, was (notwithstanding) not proclaimed untill Jan, 17 following: within which space of time, some English Ships performed no small service against the Spaniard's West-India Fleet within 4 leagues of the Bay of Cadiz; they being 8 in number; whereof two were funk, (one being the Vice-Admiral, containing in her a great quantity of filver) and two burnt; two were likewise taken, the one, a very rich ship, but little filver therein; but the other (according to the Spanish Captain's own relation who was taken) having in her two millions of filver; the other two escaping into Cadiz: this was in the moneth September; the filver of the Spanish Gallien being brought into the Tower of London, Novemb. 1. after, 1656. The young Marquels of Baden or Baydex, (whose father the Marquess of Baydex Governour of Lima in Peru, with his Wife, Children, and Family (except another fon and two daughters) were burnt in the Vice-Admiral: for that Ship being taken by the English, the Spaniards themselves firing her, the burnt down and funk) with his younger brother, being also brought into London prisoner, about or at the same time : who having been examined, faid; That presently after his father and family departed out of Lima in Peru; which was above 5 moneths before the time of that examination, the whole City of Lima was swallowed up and destroyed, and also the City Calas, by a fearful Earthquake, and most miraculous Rain of fire from Hoaven: there perishing in both places above 11000 Spaniards; but not above 100 Indians with them. The Spanish King lofing also in Lima 100 millions of filver (ready wrought up) thereby. Also the Mountainous Mines of Potofi (out of which they digged their filver) were wonderfully destroyed, being become a Plain, nor any possibility of having more filver or gold in Peru. And some of the prisoners themselves who were taken in this archievement did acknowledg, that this desolation and destruction befell the Spaniards for the eruelty which they acted on the poor Indians, (they not sparing even those Indians who among them professed the Roman Catholique Religion) fo that they being beyond measure oppressed and grieved with their sufferings, cryed to Heaven for vengeance against them.

But the following year 1657, produced a greater execution from the Navy under General Blake against the Spaniard's West-India Fleet before Santa Cruze, at one of the Canarie Islands called Tenerisse, on April 20th. The Spaniards had 5 or 6 Galleons, (three whereof were Admiral, Vice-Admiral, and Rear-Admiral) with other considerable ships, to the number of 16. The English came so near (to do their work) to the Casse, and shoar, that many Spaniards were shot from the shear by their own Musqueteers; yet in 4 hours they bearing the men out of their ships, and the thips all put on thoar, except the Admiral, and Vice-Admiral, who made most resistance; one whereof was fer on fire, and the Admiral blown up: and before evening came, (except two that funk down-right) all the rest were fired. They beat them likewise out of some of their Forts, from their great guns. Neither was there, in this action, above 50 English flain out-right, and 120 wounded. Their ships also, by about 7 at night, got safe out of the enemies command: although they supplyed their Forts with fresh men, for those that were killed, and beaten out in heat of the action. And their ships damage received herein, was indifferently well repaired in two dayes time; which as foon as they had done, the wind vecting to the South-west, (which is rare among those Islands) lasted to bring them just to their former station, near Cape Maries, where they arrived the second of May tollowing.

In the year 1656, while the Parliament was fitting, was there another Plot and Conspiracy discovered against the Protectour's life; the chief Actor wherein, was one Miles Sindercomb, that had been one of the Army; who with one Cecill, (others being also engaged therein) held correspondence with some in Flanders; and for whose encouragement, Don Alonso (the late Embassadour of Spain in England) returned them over lums of money, whereby they were enabled to proceed: who hiring a house at Hammerfmith (three miles from wellminster) standing upon the Road in a narrow durry passage, where Coaches go but softly, they by planting an Engine in a little banquetting room of the house, intended by discharging of the same, when the Protectour had passed by. going to, or returning from Hampton-Court, to have taken his life away. They fought also other opportunities to shoot him, taking the ayr in Hide-Park, &c. And to give a proof of their resolution beyond the Seas; they attempted to fire white. Hall, by placing a basker of combustible stuffe (with two lighted matches aprly placed) in the Chappel: But through the discovery of one of the Life guard, to whom Sindercomb had revealed his secrets for his affiltance in the thing, (giving him 10 l. in hand, and promifing him 1500 more), these two were apprehended. Cecill casting himself on the Lord Protector's mercy; Sindercomb otherwise called Fish, was brought to his Tryall in Westminster-Hall Febr. 9. following; who pleading, Not Guilty, and all points of his Indictment being proved by two Witnesses the least, with aggravating circumstances, he was sentenced to be hanged and quartered at Tyburn as a Traytor: but he to avert so great open shame of the World, the night before his execution, Febr. 13, fnuffing up some poysonous powder into his head, within three hours after dyed. Wherefore on the 17th day of the same moneth, he was as a felon against himself, drawn at a horse's tail to Tower-Hill; where, under the Scaffold, he was turned into a hole naked, and a stake spiked with iron driven thorow him into the Earth.

Peace having been concluded between England and France;

but open War with Spain, as aforcfaid; the Protectour joyned in hostility with the French against the Spaniards in Flanders, sending over thither 6000 Foot under the Command of Sir John Reynolds their General, who on the 8th, 9th, and 16th of May 1657, were wholly embarqued for France; the General following after on the 17th day. These Forces, being joyned with the French, (after they had taken Montmedy and St. Venant) took the strong Fort of Mardike (not far from Dunkirk) from the Spaniard: which being afterwards maintained by English; in the moneth October of the same year 1657, the Spanish forces attempting to storm it; among whom; 2000 of the Scottish and Irish Reformadocs under the Scottish King, (who, with his brother the Duke of Tork being excluded France, joyned with the Spaniard) made the first onfert, and that in three feveral places at once, getting into the ditches, and ready for scaling: the English behaved themselves fo couragiously all the time, (which continued 6 hours) that they were repulsed with the losse of about 600 men. And more supplyes going out of England, there was a field-battle fought between the French and English with the Spanish forces (being berween 6 and 7000 foot, and 9000 horse) who came to relieve Dunkirk, besieged by the English and French: in which (after some disputes) both their wings being foyled, they fled the English foot pursuing them about two miles and an half; and the French horse down from the hill as far as Fern, from whose Fort they were drawn. It was a great Victory; for most of the Spanish foot were either flain or taken; all their guns, 6 in number, with the baggage of the field; as also all the Officers of Charls Stuart's Regiment, (with many more Officers of quality) with his own Coach; and about 17 colours: (the Marshal of Hocquincourt (who had been the chief instrument in the revolt of Hesdin) being slain as he was pickqueering a day or two before the battle) the loss of the English being 80 flain, and about 300 wounded: this was in June 1658. After which, they returning with all diligence to the fiege of Dunkirk, which was environed both by Land and Sea, and now reduced to straits, and the besieged fallying out June 23 after; in which therp encounter with the befiegers, the Marquels of Leyde: the Governour of Dunkirk, received his deaths wound; and several terrifying Granadoes being that into the Town, (one whereof lighted into the Market-place) they foon came to a furrender upon 4 Articles; marching out on the 25th day of the same month with 1000 horse and foot, and 700 more wounded, with Drums beating, Colours flying, two pieces of Ordnance, and their baggage: Into which strong Sea-Port Town, the King of France, (who figned the Articles) with the Cardinal, personally entring, put the possession rhereof into the hands of the Lord General Lockhart. (on the Protectour's behalf, according to the conditions so made before the English Armie's first going over) who garrisoned it with English Souldiers. After this, the French possessed Fern, (a place which the Spaniards had quitted) and foon after became Masters of two other Garrisons, Winoxbergen, and Dixmude. And not long after, Graveline, another strong Sea-Town, having been befieged about three weeks, and a Mine ready to fpring under three Bastions of that Town; Marshal de la Ferte Aug. 27, summoned the Spaniards to furrender, telling them, If they delayed till the foringing of the Mines, the utmest rigour of War was to be expected. Wherefore they having time given them till the 29th day of the same moneth, to send to Don John the Spanish General, (if he did not relieve them in that time) they Capitulated with the Cardinal, to depart the Town on the 30th day of the same, much according to the conditions of Dunkirk; which they did accordingly, as not being relieved; although Don John, the Prince of Conde, and the Marquels of Caracene, joyned with refolution to have attempted it: who were prevented by Marshal Turein his advance to lye betwixt Fern and Bergen. Then was a Councel of War called, wherein the Cardinal, Turein, and La Ferte (whose Armies, after the taking of Graveline, were united) were present: and where they resolved what Town next to befiege; which was believed to be Tpre.

But upon another dangerous Plot reported to be discovered, Apr. 9. 1657, four persons of Note, to wit, M. General Harrison, Colonel Rich, Major Danvers, and Captain Lawfon, were secured

A little after, to wit, July 24, 1657, Colonel Edward Sexby, (who was a principal man in promoting Miles Sindercomb's defign, as above faid; and who came into England in a disguised habit the better to effect it) was committed to the Tower of London for high Treason; But within 10 dayes after his commitment, he falling fick of an Ague and Vomiting, which turned into a violent Feaver, he dyed Jan. 13th after in the Tower; found by the Coroner's Jury to be by Gods visitation, and by no other waves or means.

But the year following, which is this present year 1658, about the moneth of May, was discovered another great and general Plot to embroyl England in new Wars and Seditions, by levying war, betraying of the strong garrison of Hull; promoting Charls Stuart to be King of England, Scotland, and Ireland, securing the City of London, &c. For which, many were committed to the Tower and Newgare; and a High Court of Juffice being erected (who fate May 25) in Westminster-Hall, Sir Henry Slingsby on the fame day, and Doctor Henet, a Divine, on June 1. following, were brought to their tryall before them; the Knight pleading, Not Guilty, was proved guilty by evidence. The Doctor refusing to plead to his charge, and choosing rather to die, than own the Authority 5 wherefore June 2d, they were adjudged to be hanged and quartered at Tyburn as Traytors; but being (by the clemency of the Protectour) to be beheaded, execution was done on them accordingly on the 8th day of the same June 1658. After which, one Sumner, and 6 others of the City of London, were tryed upon

Moreover, three or four more than ordinary things happened in England within two or three years last past. One was, Octob.3. 1656, when as the River of Thames, which usually ebbeth about 7 or 8 hours, and floweth about 4 or 5, now cobed and flowed twice in 3 hours space. A lamentable accident by Gunpowder in a Ship-Chandler's store house near the Hermitage in Ratcliff, July 3. 1657. Also at Bickley in Cheshire, the ground funk, July 8th, 1657, And on the first or second of June, 1658, a Whale of about 58 or 59 foot in length, and of a bulk proportionable, coming up the River of Thames, was taken and flain, a little beyoud Greenwich 4 miles from London : some of the multitude that went to fee this young Monster or King of Fishes, presaging (as it were) the death of a great Person to ensue; for that in King James his time a little before the death of Queen Anne, there was one, not so big, but seen about Blackwall, on the said River. In France, in Jan. 1654, there was an Affembly called of Prelates & other Church-men at the Louvresin Cardinal Mazarine's Lougings; himself being present, and also the King's Deputy, with the Archbishop of Roven as the President, upon occasion of a Brief received by that King from the Pope, relating to a Bull of condemnation, fer forth against the dostrine of Janfenus, who was Bishop of Tpre in Flanders: which doctrine very nearly agreed with the Protestants, touching Works, Free-Will, &c. which the Author substantially proving out of Augustine, it got no small ground both in France and the Notherlands; fo that it was conceived, the division thereupon made among the Papifts, had given a great wound unto the Papal interest: Wherefore the Pope not being able to contain any longer, let loofe his Bull in France, The Archbishop declared the necessity of fetting forth a Contession of Faith according to the Roman Catholick Religion; yet notwithstanding, nothing was concluded. The Cardinal also and the Archbishop fell out theres about the Cardinal's imprisonment of Cardinal de Retz; he wondring how Mazarine durst proceed so far against him, who was both a Priest, and Archbishop of Para, the head City of the Kingdome, &c. after words passing between them, they parted in difcontent at each other. The King of France about the same time fetting forth a general Declaration, That no other Religion be there entertained, besides the Roman, and that called the Resormed: of which there had been a toleration in times past.

were forely vexed and perfecuted by the Duke of Savey, whose Subjects they were, through the infligation of Priefts and Jefuits, having fetup a new Inquisition at Turin; who first affrightning them with great threatenings, then proceeding to take away their goods and chares, imprisoning them, and using all violence to make them forfake their Religion; and perceiving they could avail nothing thereby; the Duke was perswaded to send an Army of about 8000 under the Marquels de Pianella, and the Earl of Quince, one of the French Lievtenant Generals; these setting upon this poor people living quietly at home: They feeing themfelves thus affaulted, flood in their defence, making what refiflance they could against them : many of whom were flain, (and fome of the enemy) many carried away prisoners, on whom they used all manner of invented cruelties, and in many corners. they shamefully abusing and tormenting many women, with their young children, afterwards cut off their heads; dashing also those children of 15 years old (that would not go to Mass) against the rocks; hanging others with their feet upwards, and nailing them to Trees: which they were faid to endure with a most invincible resolution. A residue which escaped the slaughter, got into the Mountains with their Wives and Children, enduring there much hunger and cold; (some dying therewith) the enemy (the while) fet fire on their Temples, plundered their houses, and then fired them : 'a very small number, with their samilies, got into Daufine in the French Dominions, and some others into Switzertand. These are of those, who about 500 years ago being then called Vaudois and Albigois, were cruelly perfecuted by the Papilts. Their fad condition being represented abroad, the States of Holland, and Protestour of England, &cc. feemed to be much affeeled therewith: there was also sending to the King of France about the businesse, (Collections for their relief being likewise made among the Protestants abroad) who having then a Treaty of Peace in hand with England, not a little concerning his interest, became a Mediatour by his Ambassadour Monsieur de Servient, (also four Ambassadours of Switzerland as Mediatours ) in their behalf to the Duke: who in or about August following, came to Articles of Agreement, for restoring the said Protestants to live in his Dominions as formerly; with the same free exercise of their Religion: yet were in many things cut short, and firatined more than before; as to have no dwelling beyond the River Pelice, and fome other places, except to the Vineyards of Lucerna towards Rorata: and also to live at St. Johns, but not to have any publique affembling place or preaching as before, &c. But one who wrote (from Pigneroll) observations upon those Articles, calls the peace made with his brethren of the Valleys and the Duke, to be fer worle than the worst of War; and that it was forced on them by the threatnings of the French Ambassadour, and the falshood of others entrusted on their behalf in the Treaty; saying also, That had they flayed to long, as to admit of any interpoter in the name of the Lord Protestor, the matter would never have been founded. A little after, or about which time of agreement, the French befieging the Spaniards in Fauia; the Marquels of Caracene came to 1638. 01 near the City with his Auxiliary Spanish Forces to relieve it sand the befieged making a very flout fally, and then joyning with the Marquels, they fell upon the besiegers within the lines of Circumvallation, and purrhem to the rout and flight: the flam of whom, were most of the Bavoy forces Wamong Whom, were those bloody ones who acted the cruelties on the Protestants of Piedmont. They were also so soundly beaten at there time, that they were constrained to a shameful retreat; not having of 24000; above 8000 left in a body of all the united forces of the French and Savoyards, who were under Prince Thomas his Conduct of Favoy, and of the Duke of Modera, who commanded his own. It was also certified about the same time, that the Governour of San Domingo in Hispaniola, sending his Son into Spainto the King, to make a relation of his Father's Services and Successes in opposing the English there; the King made the Father a Marques, giving him a Pension of 5000 Duckats a year s and rewarded the Son with ា្ត្រូក ាស្ត្រាំងនេះការក្រុមមេ 1500 Duckats a year.

But in Sweden, after that Charls Guffave was crowned and ellablished in that Kingdom, and peace concluded with the Civizens of Bremen, great preparations for War were making in divers places of that Kingdom, and also in the Archbirhoprick of hremen, against the grand Duke of Mostovie : yet, in the mean time, the King (for as much as the Great Duke, notwithflanding their refusal in Sweden to give him his pretended Titles, had nor as yet declared any defiguupon that Crown) being unwilling to engage fo far, if it might be avoided, in a matter of fo great importance, fent to the faid Duke, to addresse unto him, and feel what his purposes were toward his Frontiers of Ingermerland and Liefland, and how he determined concerning them: who about the fame time taking the confiderable Fort of Dunenbergh, 25 miles from Riga, from the Poles, was grown to high, as to demand from the Swede; or Duke of Carland, a passe for 50000 men therow Liefland, or the others Dominions: whereby the Poles were not a little animated, it being the onely hopes they had, that, that proud enemy by fuch infolent demeaneur, would provoke the Crown of Sweden, or some other considerable State, to come upon him, whereby he might be diverted from bringing them to utter rulne and destruction; for the State of Foliand was, by midans of that tyrannical enemy, then looked on as in a very fad and ill condition: (whose Army although it were made up to a good number in Lithuania, (wholly laid waste) yet were their divisions among its Commanders, which might hinder them from doing their any great matter;) for the Muscovite taking (among other miseries and mischiefs) the Town of Vitebsko, after a furious assault, (having loft many Commenders and Souldiers during the fiege, and in the Gorming) in a rage, when he corred the Town, put all in the Dddd 2 fword.

These transactions were toward the latter end of 1654; at which time, 40000 Tartars arrived from the grand Cham for Poland's affiltance; he fending also a new assurance with them, punctually to perform whatever he had promifed: and that because the Rivers were not frozen for passage, therefore the Troops came no sooner; with which Tartarian succours, the Poland forces (marching toward the City of Breslavia, to joyn) had a stiff encounter with 13000 Collacks, which lay there for defence of that place; but they being forced to retreat in great disorder, the Capital City of that Province returned to the obedience of their Soveraign; and foon after, the Polish Army in Ukrain, prosecuting their advantages with resolution, gave a defeat to another body of 6000 Coffacks; which fo took down Chmielniskie's ftomach, that he being now inclined to terms of submission, sought by all means to induce the King of Poland to a renewing of the Treaty for peace. About which time, 4 Tartarian Lotds arrived at warfovia, bringing with them a ratification of the Alliance made with the new Cham: who were to flay in that City in hollage for the observation of the Treaty: whereby the King of Poland was likewise obliged to fend 4 Lords to reside with the Tartar in the City of Crim, who also out of affection to Poland at that time, fet at liberty all imprifoned Polanders within his Dominions: And foon after these succours fent by the Tartar, the Polish Generals in the Ukrain, passed over the River Bog with the Tartars, with defign to beliege the City Uman; that Chmielnitki might thereby be forced to take the field, and endeavour to relieve the fame: wherefore they fitting down before "man, Febr. 19, 1654, they role again on the 21 day, being informed, that Chmielmski was coming with 40000 Colfacks, and 20000 Aufcovites, to raife the fiege; and preparing to meet them, the next day being the 22, towards the Evening the battle began; wherein Chmielniskie's forces were routed, and retreating with speed unto their strong holds; so that, the Polanders and Tartars having purfued them all night, they retired to take care of their wounded, and refresh themselves, being very much discommodated by the frosty weather's extremity.

Prince Radzivil had likewise (about that time) no lesse successes with his forces in Lithuania: where he took the Town of Bithom by Assault, although defended by about 20000 Coffacts; most of which were slain and taken prisoners. About the same time also, the petitience raging in the Royall City of Moses, hindered the grand Duke's retreat; so that he encamped near Smolensko with

But the expectation of a perpetual Peace, and a League offenfive and defensive between smeden and reland, (whose King by his Envoy declared his readinesse to renounce all Titles and Pretensions, claimed by his Predecessor, to the Crown of smeden) being (after more than one Ambassadour sem from reland to smeden to that purpose) frustrated: the King of Smeden (who a few moneths before had ordered 12 Regiments towards the borders of Livenia, to defend them from an Invasion of the Muscovites: against whom also a War was (at Stockholm) resolved to be declared, in case the League forementioned, had (between the two Kingdoms) been contiuded: unto which also (upon the Polish Envoy's Proposals) the Swedish King shewed himself to be so much inclined, that, (the Mulcovins giving him fresh occasions of jealouse and discontent) he drew together 24,000 men, who were to march into Livenia (as foon as the frozen passages were more open) to attaque them by Land, whileft the Ships of Sweden should go round about on purpole to obstruct the Mofcovy Merchants; and diffurb their Commerce. The grand Duke also, by Merchants at Hamburgh (refolving on War with those two Kings; who were then upon entring on a League offenfive and defenfive against him) buying up no lesse than 40000 Muskets) makes great preparations both by Sea and Land, traving now his defign bent both against Peland on the one hand, and the Dukedome of Juliers and Bergh on the other; that which Countries he had pretences ; and drawing 8 Regiments of herfe and foot roward Pomerania, the Duke of Brandenburgh atmed for defence; as well as the Dantziekers put in great fear, that the Sarde designed upon Prasin or some part near to it under the Poles. But the King of Sweden coming to a Treaty with the Electour of Brandenburgh, they (ar length ) joyned in an offenfive and defenfive league about the moneth of June, 1656; and meeting at the Town called Holfand in Prufsia, where they passed three dayes in most amicable conference; the Brandenburgian being to furnish the Sneds with 2000 armed men, with whom they were to joyn.

But about the moneth of May 1855, mole that was to do in Poland, was to make preparations against the Speede, whom they believed, if he came into Prufice, 8ct. would spoyl them, and do what he pleased: the Majeroite making (so increase Poland's mi-fery) also great preparation. A consultation was also held by the Polanders in this moneth of May, when they should be in action, for defence of the Kingdom, and supplying the Frontiers with necessaries; but in the mean time all Trading was there laid aside.

The King of Swellen fending an Army of 16 or 17000 harfe and foot into the Polander's Country near Kron, which lyes next to Germany, about the latter end of June, or the beginning of July, 1655; (as it appears) under the command of General wittenberg, they foon took divers Castles and Gatrisons in that Country, and making progress as far as wife, in the Province of Polen; both the two Palatinates of Polen and Califen, together with the 4 Cities of Polen, Califern, Lipha, and Alidesieves, with an Army of 15000 men, renounced allegiance to the King of Poland, came under the Protection of the King of Sweden; and all this before July 15th, 1655, and without one blow struck; the Articles between Radzeleionski Vice-Chancellet of Poland, and General wittenberg, for furrender and agreement of and about the aforefaid two Palatinates and Cities, being figured in the Camp at wifee, in the fame moneth of July 1655. And for which, Infructions were fent to: the Bishops and Superintendents in Sweden, to give thanks for the fame, and observe a day of supplication for surere successes. About which time, there was a Declaration fet forth in Sweden, forbidding the Calvinifis publickly to exercise their Religion : which norwithflanding they then forbare to execute, out of respect (as was then reperted) to the English; for the Swedes had then an Ambassadour in England, toget men to carry on their War in Poland, or elsewhere; together with the procuring of a more intimate alliance with the ProteSour. Soon after this, two Waywoods more submitted themselves to the Swedesytaking Lifta and Fraverstudt. From Stetin, the King of Sweden (who was expected to follow General wittenberg with his Army) marched with 10000 men, and a notable Artillery for Pofen, and to for Warfevia and Thorne; entring Aug. 4. into that part of the Polish Kingdome, properly called Paland. Then also Young Tromp being fent into the Sound by the States of the United Provinces, Admiral wrangle had orders from the King of Sweden to fail thither with 9 flout Men of War, to require a positive answer of him, whether he intended Peace or War, (for these States began to engage, for tradings take, in the baffueffed and what the Swedes might exproft from him. i) About the lame time the King of Poland fee up his Smuderd atcherious whither having summoned in the Country, he made but 1,6000 men at the most, and fuch, as never faw the face of an enemy.

But the Duke of Mulcoury (the while); with the Cofsacks, not onely rook in Minit as being forfaken by the Polish Garrison, (who finding themselves too weak, quitted the place) but also beat the Lithwifh Armyoont of the field, and possessing himself of that populous City; canfed Prince Radzivil to flee for his life; who norwithflanding advanced ap farther, the King of Smeden fending to let him know. That Lathuania was now under the Swedish protection, baving submitted to that Crown, by virtue of an agreement lately made; for all Aithumen, and the remainder of Liffland had submitted to the said King. Many also of the Polish Mobility rock an oath of fidelity to the Swedish King. The Mufcautes notwithstanding, went and burnt Count, and so retired again to the wild. And there arose some grudg between the Swedes and Muscovites, about the devastration, speyl, and burning of the fine Palaces, Temples, and Works of Vilna by the faid Muscowites; whose Inhabitants they were reported likewise to have put persons of note.

The King of Sweden going in August 1655, from Turpitz with a frong party of horse, and 4 pieces of Ordnance, came to Klezki near Guefna, on the 20th, being expected on the 21 day by General wittenberg; that he might joyntly march with both Armies to Lowicks, and fight the Polish Army; which fell out accordingly in Septemb. following: In which battle the Victory falling to the Swedes, the King of Poland fled to Cracovia: wherefore, the King of Sweden marching thither, drew near the City Sept. 15, where the Polish king stood with three Brigades; but the Swedes Sudden-Ty and unexpectedly approaching, the Poles quitting their Camp, betook themselves to flight in great terrour and confusion, setting part of the Suburbs on fire: whereupon the king of Sweden advancing to the City, took his Head quarter within a quarter of a mile thereof at a Convent belonging to the Dominicans, the Subbures burning all night: and next day, Septemb. 16, the Swedish king fending a party, they possessed themselves of the Bridg over the River weifsell; so entring the Suburbs, and that with little appolition, but no losse, although the enemy playing on them from the Castle, set some adjacent houses on fire thereby; and within two dayes after, he giving order to frame a fiege before both Castle and City, assigned his Forces to their several Posts, plyed the Castle with Granadoes: which the enemy answering with Granadoes back again from the Callle, they fet the Cloylter of Menes on fire, which taking hold of many other houses, reduced them to Cinders: and being in great hope of a furrender of that chief City, they made batteries, which the Poles both by faot and fallies, endeavoured to hinder. The King of Sweden then also proclaimed unto all Provinces and Palarinares of that kingdome, That the Effates of the Realm might not onely freely meet togither at warfow, either in person, or by their Deputies; but he required them also speedily to assemble, promising them his Royal favour, and a free exercise of their Religion.

Calimir the king of Poland being fled, a Polish servant who was brought in prisoner, informed the Swedes, that Casimir was retreated from Tarnaw to Thonfick, to the very borders of Hungary, having no more than a few German herse with him: Wherefore the Swedish king thought to have pursued him; but his Counsels altering on the 25 day, he returned the same night unto before Cracovia: but fending General Douglus (upon the prisoner's information) to fee what was become of king Casimir, he returning the Same night, brought news, that the faid King was also fled from Thonfick with a few towards Hungarie's borders: onely, that in

of Christ, to 1658.  and about the same Town of Thorpick, lay about 8000 Gentlemen, who expecting the event of the bufineffe, were supposed no longer to stand our, than a strong Parry should be sent against them. In the mean time, the Lord Leskynski, the Polish Ambaffadour, was bufie in acquainting his friends in Cracovia with the notable Successes the Swedish King had about that City, taking in divers Castles and smaller fortified Towns round about, and reducing divers Parties to Submission, perswading them to be wife, in furrendring the City, and fave themselves; but Czarnecky the Governour being obstinate, refusing to surrender, and continuing shooting and fallying, the King making speedy preparation for a florm, fent in word to the faid Czarnecky the Governour, That if he would not yield unto an accommodation, but proceed in his obstinacy; as soon as he should get him into his power, (which he doubted not shortly to effect ) he would give order to hang him up. Wherefore the befieged fuing to the King for their Commisfioners to have letters of Conduct to come and treat, in the moneth Octob. following Cracevia was furrendred; there marching out the Garrison, being 3000 men, (with 600 Carr-loads of rich moveables, most part of which belonged to the Jews) who were conducted to the Frontiers of Silesia, where having leave for a moneth to refresh themselves, they might go to the King of Poland (then in Silesia) if they pleased; or else list themselves in the Swedish Army: the Citizens also agreed to pay 300000 Rixdollars in a moneths time, to the Swedish King; who for the maintaining of these new acquests, was very diligent in fortifying all parts, and particularly, the two head Cities of warfow and Cracovia, the King of Smeden giving order to bring the River weysel round about Cracovia, whereby it should become very strong.

But while Crasovia was befieging, an Envoy from Koniecpolski, Standard-bearer to the Crown of Poland, came both to Congratulate (in his Master's name) the Swedish King, and also to let him know, That fince their King Casimir was fled out of the borders of the kingdom, without their privity or confent, they had in conscience good reason to provide them of another King, under whose protection they might secure themselves; wherefore his Master, both for himself, and in behalf of the Guarcian Militia, and Pospelitans, and States, did willingly submit unto his Majesty, to acknowledg him for their Lord and Master; and that to the fame purpose, they would send Commissioners to any place he fhould appoint: Which he very favourably accepting of, determined to fend notice of the time and place to the faid Standardbearer. After which, came news from warfovia, from the Chancellor Oxienstern, that the Lord Steinbock General of the Artillery, had subdued the rebellious Massovians. Also another Messenger came from the Lord Debicky Palatine of Sendecki, offering to embrace the King's protection; desiring thereupon, that he would order no more waste to be made in the kingdom; for seeing their King, whom they had flood to for the prefervation of their privitheir Commissioners in the name of the whole Nobility, unto his to 1658. Majesty, to treat about the peace and safety of the Commonwealth. Wherefore the King granted to Leszinski the great Treafurer, and the Palatine Sandomirienfis, Letters of fate conduct for their free accesse unto him for that purpose. Who after the reducement of Cracovia, bent his march towards Lublin, where the Cofsacks with their General, lay encamped: wherein he had a double defign, partly to make an agreement with them (who now professed a great willingnesse to submit unto him); the Muscovites also being content to retain onely the 3 Palatinates of Smolensko, Vitebsko, and Polosko, on the other fide of the River Boristhenes, and to abandon the rest of the great Dukedome of Lithuania to the Swedes, whereby they would become Masters of all Poland; and partly to be nigh Prustia, the better to feel the Duke of Brandenburg, (for he had not as yet joyned in the above-mentioned league with the King) who (he was advised) had been under hand solicited by the Emperour, to make a strong League with the Estates of the same Province of Prussia, and some others of Poland, that had not as yet absolutely declared themselves for the Swedes: he being likewise advised, the Duke had sent a distinct body of an Army towards Thoren, to hinder there the Smedes irruption; and another body towards Memmel, upon the frontiers of Lithuania, while the remainder of his Army continued in the heart of Pruffis. And indeed, before this time, the great progress of the Swedes in this kingdom, did so startle all the Ministers of the Emperour, that thereupon he (for a time) deferred his journey to Proque: and in the mean time, to give fatisfaction to the King of Smeden's Demands, which were held to be just. For it was a most remarkable providence, that this King should in two or three moneths time even over-run fo vast and warlique a kingdom as Poland: but he had as well great policy as valour in the defign; for when he marched from Comin to Colo, Aug. 17th; whence he fent parties to get intelligence of the enemies station and posture, expecting to meet with the general Leavies at Piantek: a certain Colonel coming in the mean time as an Envoy from the King of Poland, with Credentials from him; and audience being given him on the 18th of the same, he offered certain Propositions in order to a Treaty, using these expressions, (among other formalities)

commands, &c. having also quitted Camietz Podolsky, as foon as he had notice of the king's march into Poland, and advancing towards Reush Lomberg, he beat Podotsky, a Polonian, expecting also rhe King's coming at Samoisky; all which, the King of Sweden himself certified one of his chief Officers of, by a letter from the Camp before Cracovia, Octob. 14th, the king went towards him, as aforefaid, who was (after his encamping before Lublin) to repair to warfow, to affift at a general Dyct of the Palatines and other Lords of the kingdom of Poland, which was summoned by the king, who appointed Count Erick Oxienstern his grand Chancellour, with Count Benedict Oxienstern, and the Lord Berenklow, to be present therein as his Commissioners. But in the mean time, the Cossacks (of whom, he was General) coming before the said Lublin, Octob. 15. with a huge Army, reported to be 160000 men, hewed down the Jews, plundring out their houses, fired the fore-Town, and compounded with the Town it felf, to have all the Priests goods, and those that were fled from Poland, and had brought their goods thither; and a ransome for themselves; taking also an oath of them to be true to the Muscoviter, and io departed on the 20th day.

Then were the Swedes busic in dispersing Polish parties that got together: as Major General Steinbock, who understanding that some numbers of Massovians had recollected themselves, he seathering them, they sent Deputies unto him for a finall accommodation. Also Lovenhaupt, another Major General, passed the River weystel to encounter some Polish Troops that were again got together near Lowick. Likewis 500 Polish horse under the command of one Jalouskie, being at the small Town of weatlassiste, and doing some hurt to the Inhabitants, the Duke of Saxon Lawenburg meeting with them, took Jalouskie and the chief of them, dispersions

The King of Sweden coming to Warfovia, Octob. 30, continued not long there; for understanding that the States and chief Cities of Prusia, not onely remained obstinate, but were making a strict League and Combination with the Duke of Brandenburg against him, he committing the management of the businesse of Poland with the States there present, unto the Rix-Chancellor and some others, departed with some Regiments and the Quartians, unto his Army. At which Warfovia, was a dangerous Conspiracy detected, which was to have poysoned the King and his Nobles, with the whole Garrison, by infecting all the Conduits and Fountains; for which, some great ones, engaged in the Plot, were apprehended, and committed to Custody.

But the businesse of Prussia occasioned blowes in a sharp conflict between the Swedes and Duke of Brandenburg, whit rein about 5 or 800 of the Brandenburgers were slain. And which Quarrel, although it was looked on as ominous, it being betwixt two Princes of the Reformed Religion, at such a time as that, because it might have induced the Electour to some compliance or consederation with the Polith King and the Emperour; yet the Swedith King proceeded with great refolution, marching to Prufsia, with whom also one Mr. Role came along, who being sent from the English Protestour, was received by the King very honourably. Who sending Steinbock before him with his Army, he marching thorow Marzuria, with great celerity possess the very Key of Prufsia, and of very great advantage to the Swedes. After which, Radziesky was sent with 3000 horse for Thoren; who when he came near the place, sinding no Brandenburgish sorces thereabouts, sent back half his men to the Army, and went with the rest before Thoren, admonishing them to obedience: who pre-fently sent Deputies to treat for an accommodation.

The Miscovites and Coffacks (in the mean time doing what they could to maintain a good intelligence with the Swedish King) helped not a little to the cstablishing and securing his new Conquests: most also of the Polish Lords who fled with their King into Silesia; now returning to live under the Swedish protection. About which time, to wit, about December, the King sent a Letter to the Emperour, complaining, That he had under-hand applyed himself to divers Princes of the Empire, for engaging them in a League to his prejudice. The Emperour dismissed the Messenger with a very civill answer, giving him a large assurance of holding a good correspondence with the Crown of Sweden, &c: And a Colonel being at that time fent from the king of Poland to raife men in the Imperial Territories, the Emperour gave him (for that present) very strict order against proceeding any further in making leavies. The City of Elbing in Prussia was also yielded to the Swedes, without any refistance; for the King of Sweden having given audience to the Imperial and Transylvanian Ambasiadours at the City of Theren, went towards the Town of Margenfeldt: where the Deputies of Elbing attending him, and craving some time, the better to consult with the other Cities in so weighty an affair, he flatly denying them, they treated with the Rix-Chancellor on the 9th of December; the agreement of whose submission did much satisfie the King: who made the said Chancellour Governour of Prusia; and General Linde Governour of Elbing, and the Militia of Prussia, who Decemb. 12th, placed a confiderable Garrison therein. On the 4th day of which moneth at midnight, the King of Sweden had a lufty young Prince born unto him at Stockholm: which was the day of his agreement with the City of Thoren; whereinto he entred the day following.

But the City of Dantzick in Prufis being united in it self, in Decemb. 1655, resolved upon a desence, in case the Swede should make any Attempt that way: sending also Instructions to their President with the Elector of Brandenburg; by all means to make an Agreement with him, thereby to oblige him to relieve them, if assaulted, and to assist them with some Troops for the present; in order to which desence, they burnt all their Suburbs. And them alsows the Polish King (who had some new design on foor for

S recovery of his kingdom) encreasing his forces which he had on Silesia's borders : unto whom Czarneski the Governour of Cracowia, went with some Troops to his service, contrary to the agreement made with the King of Sweden, upon the furrender of the City. But the great Cham of Tartary, who was thought would have affished him to the same purpose, wrote a Letter to the King of Sweden, affuring him, That not any attempt should be made by him or his Souldiers, against his progresse; but that he was rather willing to help and defiroy his enemies, and especially King Casimir of Poland.

About the same time, a Proclamation was published in Denmark, against all private meetings of all persons of any other Religion than what was publiquely professed in that kingdom. And the Pope's power of condemning doctrines, received a deep wound in France, by the Sorbonne Doctors disputing with the Jefuirs in a publique Affembly, (where the Chancellour of France fate as Prefident on behalf of the King) in defence of the doctrine of Jansenu, at Panis, about January, 1655; which doctrine spread it felt very much in that kingdom among moderate Papists: although the then late deceased Pope had openly damned it. After much disputation, though the authority of the See of Rome was much preffed; yet when they come to give their Votes, the Sor-Loune Doctors alledged, That the Pope was not to be credited in any thing not agreeable to the Scriptures and antient Fathers: standing all, with one Doctour Arnaud, for the Jansenian tenents, except two or three: fo that the Assembly being put off, the disadvantage remained on the Jefnits fide.

General Steinbock being countermanded by his King toward Bremberg with 4000 men, Petocky and another Polife General (with part of the Quartians) revolting in Poland, he upon his march thitherward, commanding Colonel Fabian against a part of the enemy; he, after a het dispute within a mile of Putske, put them to Hight, flaying and taking divers prisoners, and furiously pursuing the Poles to the very Walls of Tutske. The Swedes being now become Mafters of all Prussia, except the four Cities of Dantzick, Marienburg, Putzke, and Schlocow; Oxiensfern the Governour sent to weger, who held those places for the Polish king, offering him a Treaty in order to a surrender, or else there would be proceeding to extremity.

But, great was the tyranny used in great Poland, and about Gracovia, about this time, by the Poles; both when they lighted on the Swedish Souldiers, as also dividing and cutting children asunder like sheep, cutting off womens breasts, then dissecting them into four quarters; cutting off the hands and feet of Protestant Ministers, then chopping off their heads, and dividing the body into feverall quarters, and the hoggs dragging the bowels along the firects; flinging corn also upon the flain mens flesh, so letting the hoggs run unto it, for increasing the pleasure of the tragedy. Many of Steinbock's Regiment being so served by this Tragicomedy at wielun. Yet while this cruelty was acting, Colonel uxkell and another coming to their relief with 800 horse, cut down above 300 Poles, and fired many of their Villages : after which, they began to invite back the Inhabitants, who were fled towards Silefia, as being treated in like pitiful manner.

of Christs

In the moneth of February, the King of Sweden passed by warfouia with three confiderable Armies towards the Ukrain against the Polanders, having a little before proclaimed, That who loever should protect King Casimir, or knowing where he was, would give no notice thereof, thould fuffer death like a Rebel. And on the 21 day of the same moneth, the Town of Marienburg was delivered up to the Swedes; and the Castle (which holding our, thought to have burnt the City, but was prevented by the Inhabitants) was after some dayes playing upon it, surrendred likewife to the Swedes, the befreged understanding that an Inhabitant of the City had discovered unto them those private wayes and passages, whereby they might easily make an approach; and also that the Swedes had two Mines ready to fpring. On the fame day, Febr. 21, the Swedes obtained no fmall Victory, whose King with 5000 men fighting the Poles near Lublin and the River Westfel, routed them, although they fought resolutely, engaging also Poles against Poles in the action; Czarnecki, Cracovia's late Governour, commanded the Polanders, a great number of whom were flain upon the place, and many taken prisoners; with 12 or 12 Standards: the King also pursuing them av re two miles, killing feveral in the pursuit, and many of them were drowned in the Rivers of weysel and wyppera, and other waters whither they retreated. Others report, that the Swedes had but fad work of it; for that, 8000 Swedes encountred 20000 Poles. And that, as foon as the Cossacks (who beheld these Combatants afar off) saw the Victory to incline to the Swedes, they helped to pursue and cut the fugitive Poles down. After this, the King advanced to Lublin, to take that City; thence presently towards Zamosse, instantly getting that strong and fortified City upon accord: and being advanced not far from Zamosse, they again meeting with a strong party of Polanders, beat them back, dispersing them, and taking 7 Standards from them. Of which, Casimir hearing, being at Really Lemberg, about 8 miles of, and that the King of Sweden himfelf was not far off, he hastened away with 1500 horsemen from Leopolis to Kamieniec Poloski: about which time, there was published a Proclamation in Silesia, that no Polander should come in fight there upon pain of death. While the King kept his Headquarters in and about Jariffan, much refreshing his Souldiery thereby, he fent parties to fee if the enemies any where did gather a head again; who bringing intelligence, that the Foles were every where turned perjured Rebels, endeavouring to hinder him in his march, cut off all passes, and striving by private intelligence with Priests and Jesuits, to reduce the Swedish Garrisons in great Poland, warfovia, and Sandomiria, unto King Cafimir's obedience agains

the King resolved to draw back with his Army to a place where they might the better discover the enemies plots, and invite him to venture a head battle : and fending two Commanders, March 21, 1,655, with orders unto some following Troops, to march back towards warfovia, there to remain till his return; himfelf arrived the same day before Sandomir: but hearing that some Polish Commanders were the night before become Masters of the City Sandomir; though they could not obtain the Castle: whose Governour (a Swede) afterwards (in revenge) fetting the Jesuits Colledg on fire; the whole Town was thereby burnt to afhes. Yet it feems the truer relation, That the Poles themselves firing some houses near the Castle; the fire taking hold of the Jesuits Colledg, seized on the City. Wherefore the King sending order to the faid Governour to leave the Castle and crosse the River westfel with his men, he obeyed; but put a good quantity of Powder and Ammunition (which he could not carry with him) into a Vault locked up, applying thereto a burning match, which might take fire half an hour after, his departure. The Poles prefently entring the Castle, displayed their Colours, reviling the Governour; and fearthing into all corners, they found this Vault: which the chief Commander would attribute to himfelf; and being in hot dispute, the powder firing, blew 1200 Polanders, (some Swedes also perishing), with the Castle roofs, into the ayr; the King on the other fide of the River being a spectator: who under-Randing on the 23 c , that Keniecpoliski shewed himself with about 12000 Quartians betwirt Landsbut and the King's Camp, drew out 16 Regiments of horse, and 14 Companies of Dragoons, to meet the enemy, and charging them home, dispersed the whole Army, taking many colours from them, beating also witepski, who disputed the Passe over San, to the King : after which, he purposed to passe the river westsel 10 miles beyond warfouia, to have a third bout with the Crown Marshal Lubomirski. There having been two Embassadours at Jarislam from Chmielniski General of the Cossacks, who arrived there the 8th of the fame moneth, affuring the King by letters, that as foon as the earth was endued withher green robes, he would attend him with 50 thousand men.

April 11. following, 1656, the Marquesse of Baden going from warfovia with his Troops to joyn with the King, he chanced to meet with about 12000 Poles under Lubomirski's Banner, about 8. miles from the City, they were 10 for one; yet the Marquesses men maintaining the fight above two hours before they quitted the field, killed above 2000 Poles: then faving themselves by flight, Field-Marshall wrangle's Troops meeting with them, and fecuring them, they faved likewife a good part of their baggage; yet these few were most cut in pieces in the action, the Marquess himself very narrowly escaping.

The fame moneth of April, the King beating and fubduing the rebellious Masures, with all that adhered to them, arrived toward the end of the moneth, at Thoren: about which time, the Prince of Transylvania fent the King a letter by an Envoy, affuring of Chrift, him of his reall friendship, having 16000 men ready upon the 101658. borders under Backos G.bor's command, who were at his fer-

Then also in France, false newes being there spread of the total defeat of the Swedes, and the King himself being flain by the Polanders, the people of Orleance were fo transported with joy thereat's that they made folemn Feaths, distributing a good sum of mony to the poor on that account, whereby the vulgar were emboluened to fay, They must even take the same course with the Hereticks in France. But when through the Messenger's lamenesse in affirming they were somewhat cooled, they were madly incented again through the spreading of a rumour, that the English had leave, and did begin to build a place of publique affembly at Rochel, faying, That they ever forefaw, if a peace were concluded once with the Protectour in England, it would tend to encourage and firengthen the Hugonois; making them foon dare to attempt any thing that might subvere the Catholique profession and interest: se that the Governour of Orleance was fain (at the Protestants request) to appoint a guard; they not being fafe in repairing to the publique affembly, by reason of the peoples tury. The new Pope, Alexander the 7th, having also about the same time (for it was dated at Rome, March 20th) fent a Brief or Letter to the general Assembly of the French Clergy, exhorting them to ftirr up the King to a general Peace: which was judged to be but as a fire-ball thrown into France, under that pretence, to put the Clergy and people into combustion: which by prudence was broken, and did no hurr.

But the Caftle of Branbergh in Poland being surrendred by the Swedes at discretion, the Polanders branded them all with a mark on their fore-heads; which indignity was much referred by their party. The King of Smeden coming into Elbing, May 28; and his Queen coming thirher also the next day, after lome moneths safe delivery of a young Prince, the great Guns proclaimed great joy at this meeting throughout the Swedish Garrisons in Prussia.

Prince Adilph, the King of Swede's Brother, and the Generalissimo of his Armies, marching to Znin and Kizin, (having defeated (by his Quarter-Master General, sent thither aforehand) most of those Citizens and Inhabitants who presented themselves in field against him) marched on to Malgasin, where hearing that Ime Gentry and Poalants were in Arms in the Castle of Golensb, he commanded the faid Quarter-master General thither with fome Companies, who demanding their furrender, they found a hostile opposition, many of his men being forely wounded; wherefore through Ordnance playing hard upon the gate, and the Swede's hard preffing on, they could not cast off their draw-bridg; so that the Swedes coming on in the storming, to the very Palisadoes, utting down some, made entrance for the rest to let down the bridg, over which they preffing furiously, killed all they found in arms, Anno 1653 of Christ, to 165%.

and utterly demolished the Cattle. Thence marching to Godzier Castle, the Gentry and Pealants therein, after firing on those who were fent afore, left the Castle. The enemy turning towards Guelen, after an intent to turprize Polen, (in which they were prevented by the Citie's being well provided, and the Suburbs burnt down) Staroffa Braflowsky fent a Messenger to Wrsezemiz, whom Prince Adolph had fent with a party towards Gnefen, that expecting the Swedish Army, they would stand and give them battel. Wherefore A lolph fending the forlorn-hope to get fome prisoners, (though they were repulfed) marching with his Army over a paffage unrefifted, put his men into aBattalia; himfelf commanding the right wing, Field-Marthal Wrangle the left; who at the advance approaching fo nigh the enemy, because the Princes not being able to come in at the fide for the moor illiness of the place, the foremost fquadrons were prefently scattered: which the enemie's Avant-Troops (too deeply engaged with the Swedish Avant-Troops) perceiving, and being luftily plaid on by the Dragoons in amouth, they beginning to retreat, came so directly between born the Swcdish wings, that most of them were destroyed: the right wing thereupon advancing, (and because the enemy still retreated over a water to a Village called Gietzmarky, where he rallyed again together with the Postpolitans) some Ordnance being planted on a high ground, were discharged against the enemy, whilest the Swedes getting over the water, came to a full Front; whereupon, the enemy coming furiously on with a great thour, attempted fundry wayes to disorder the Swedish Army. But the Polanders (after several hot charges, and losse of many men) confusedly fled, the main Body of the Swedes pursuing them a league; in which flight, many were cut off also, the Swedes in their hot blood, giving no quarter. This Action fell out, May the 8th, new Stile, 1656, lasting 5 hours, from 3 in the afternoon, till 8 at night: Czarnecky, Lubomirski, and Saphia, were the three chief Commanders for the King of Poland in this engagement: the prisoners confessing, that great execution was done by shot, both great and small, among them; 3 Starofties being flain, and Saphia shot thorow the arm: the Poles likewise carrying away many of their flain. The Prince after this on the 10th day followed them to Uzefvie, they being but three leagues afunder, where more action was expected.

A little before or about which time, the Waywood at Newgard caused some Russians to be whipt to death; who divulged, that the great Duke resolved for War against the Swedes.

The City of Elbing in Prussia being become as it were a Dantzick, Commodities being now transported thither; for that Dantzick flood out against the Swedes: some English Merchants of Dantzick desiring (about the moneth of May) in the name of the English Nation, leave of the Electour of Brandenburg, to transport their goods thence to Elbing thorow his Port of the Pil-Law, he condescended thereunto; giving leave also, that what goods the Englith did fend nome out of their Pack-Chambers, should paffe Custome-free; faying, That he yielded them that, of Cheff, in honour of the English Protectour, and in favour of the English to 1658. Nation.

It shall not be amisse here briefly to give an account of the reported Revolt of the Lithuanians from the Swedish obedience; unto the jurisdiction of whose King, when the Principality of Samaiten, with the Provinces belonging, had yielded; King Casimir highly endeavoured both by publique Edicts, and fecretly with Priests and Jesuits, to involve peaceable minds against their new chosen King: whereby some dwelling in the Bishoprick, in the beginning of the Spring lurking in Forrests together, by night, surprized a Company newly raised by Rose, murchering some of them: and the Lievtenant who was fick and bed-rid. Wherefore Colonel Rebinder having order to persecute these Rebells, destroyed some hundreds of them, by lying in wait with 400 horse; but the chief escaping by flight, and closing with the Forrest lurkers, surprised some new leavied forces of Col. Igelstrome, destroying them (here and there quartered) in the night; divulging also at the first, as if all Samatten had been in rebellion. But the Field-Marshal, learning that all Forces in that Principality were fafe, not so much as knowing of these rebels, he marching out of Janisky with 400 horse, encountred them, putting some hundreds to the fword; but the Bishop of Samaiten and the chiefest of the States, severally intimated, that they were ignorant thereof, giving sufficient security of their constant obedience : the Rix-Treasurer and general Governour calling and citing also the States to come to Byrfen, and to go with some commanded Souldiers, to try whether the rest could be appealed by fair means; or to keep them in obedience by a Military compulsion; so that it was certain, the Swedes loffe in that stir, was not of above 200

The Swedish forces appearing (in the moneth of May) about Dantzick for a Leaguer: fell upon the Fort in Gothland, hard by Dirlbam, (which I understand another to call a Sconce lying by the river Vifula's fide, otherwise called Dantzickers Leaguer) the King, with his Artillery-General Steinbock, appearing before it, and fending word to the Garrison, that they should presently yield; and so should depart with their arms: but the Governour having 400 men with him, refused, unlesse they might carry away their goods, and march with Drums beating, and Colours flying which being denyed, they began within the Fort to defend themfelves. But two Swedes who ferved in that place; having raifed a party therein of 50 Souldiers, forced the Governour to an agreement: which being confirmed, the King advanced near the place to speak with him; but a certain Dragooner knowing the King, let fly his Musket at him, fo that the Bullet came by his hat, falling a little further; who thereupon commanded to put all to the sword, with the Governour himself, so that very few escaped.

Ffff

Anno 165 of Chrift, to 1658. On the 23 day of which May, there happened a strange accident in the City of Dartzick it sell; for a Citizen striking with his Partislan at a Boy, missing him; the seed of the Partislan salling into the earth with the point upwards, and he at the same time falling with his right side upon the point, which piercing him unto the very back-bone, he dyed lamentably.

But the King of Smeden ordering the Marquess of Baden, his Lievtenant General, to march with his men from Conitz to Button, and leaving Steinbock before Dantzick, with an Army in a very good posture, himself intended to go to his kead-Army; where arriving, and hearing that Czarnecki stood 6 miles from Bramberg with 12 Regiments; he hastening after him, met accidentally with him, yet successfully; pursuing him above two miles, killing many of his men, with two Waywods, and some other chief Officers being taken prisoners.

But the King of Poland (who not long before had fent to the Emperour of Germany to be a Mediatour for him to the King of Sweden; the which he shewed a readinesse to do) having gotten together a numerous Army about this time, belieged the City of was fovia, although himself in person came not near it; for which canfe the King of Sweden went not perfonally to its relief, but returned to Marienburg; ordering his Brother Adolph, and Field-Marshal wrangell to go for warfovia, and oblige Czarnecky to a field battle; but the Poles finding the whole Swedish Army there, withdrew themselves from before the City, about 3 miles from the place, having made feven attempts to take it by florm; but being repelled with the loffe of 3000 of his best Souldiers, and two pieces of Ordnance in the encounters, the King could not perswade them to come on the 8th time, although he promised each man 5 Duckars. And a little before this time, the Swedes found a very great treasure in a Vault of warfovia's Castle, there being the Popish Images of Christ and the 12 Apostles, all of Maffie filver double gilt, ( and other Reliques very pretious) amounting in value to betwixt 4 and 500000 Dollars, besides the reliques. This was the time wherein the forementioned Arich League between the King and Duke of Brandenburg was concluded: who having a supply of 6 or 8000 men from the Duke to march along with him, he was enabled to continue Steinbock's ficge before Danazick, to their trouble and discontent; the Swedes having before taken not onely Dantzicker Leaguer, but possessed themselves also of the Castle of Greppin and the Hoff: about which time, to wit, in May, 1656, the faid Dantzickers sending an Embaffie to the King, they could obtain no answer, but to be gone; for he having fent those Citizens a Letter about submission, they returned a resolute answer; the King of Poland having commended them for their constancy, and encouraged them to continue. After which, the Duke of Croy (one of that Citie's neighbour-Princes) writing a Letter to perswade them to a compliance with the King of Sweden; wishing they had contented themselves with a timple a fimple self-defence, and not took upon them to have hindered his progress; (for they, whatever elfe, had endeavoured to relieve Marienburgh Castle) also telling them, after divers confide- to 1658. rations laid down, If they could reap no other benefit by the expected successe, in their designs, than the rooting out of the Goipel of truth; and that, by the bringing in of the superstitious Roman Religion again; might not onely be feared the loffe of their own fouls, but also a total ruine of their Trade, and the Citie's welfare; wherefore he could not conjecture how they might excuse fuch dangerous enterprises and defigns to posterity. They returned divers, not unfober, expressions in answer; saying, They were asfured in their consciences, that they have not afforded the least occasion to that miserable War, &c. also mentioning 5 principall Maxims which their Predecessours, and they, in imitation of them, had alway made their chiefest work to consider; I. To maintain the Gospel of Truth. 2. To be faithful to their King. 3. To keep firm to the Crown of Poland. 4. To defend their Laws, Liberties, &c. 5. To preserve and increase the welfare of that City. They faid, they did confidently believe, that none could impute it to them, as if God took pleasure in Apostates and Hypocrites, and as if he would have Religion promoted in casting off the lawful Magistrate, and in the slender esteem of a wellgrounded Government; and that according to their judgments, there was nothing more wholesome and prosperous than Peace, to preferve and propagate Religion, which the Prince of Peace had so carnestly recommended to all those who would truly follow him. They adding moreover, That the Duke himself (being perfectly well verfed in History) would be pleased to call to mind, how that at all times, by Wars, the spirits of men grew more barbarous and inhumane; and how, the Wars for Religion, used commonly to extinguish Religion. Concluding with a hope, that the Duke would be pleased, from their abovesaid reasons, and his own interest, to co-operate to the mitigation of the Swede's great spirits: and that they would do their best endeavours humbly to perswade their King of Polonia, and the Nobles of that Kingdom; not to refuse reasonable means to attain peace; but rather to find out all possible means to compasse it; and not doubting, but their King and the States would be very inclinable thereunto.

This Summer, 1656, there was fuch a mortal Peffilence in the City of Naples, that fome dayes 6000 people were faid to dye of it therein. The Peffilence was then also for aging in all places possessed by the Turks in the Island of Candid that they were forced to abandon divers Towns which they there held, and to leave them defolate.

About the fame time, July 16, the French received a great loss before Valenchienne, which they had beforged; for the Spaniards frequently thewing as if they would fall upon Marshal Turein's and the Lorraine's quarter; at last fell in good earnest upon Marshall de la Ferte's quarter; who coming resolutely on, had three or four repulses by the French their notable refillance; and when the Spaniard afterwards had fallen in among them, they fo fought it out, that of 1200 in Du Plesis Regiment, there remained but 30 men. The whole Regiments of Le Ferte and Piedmont; ten Companies of the King's guards, and the Cardinai's guards, with La Ferte's Dragoons also which were near 800, and his Regiment of horse, 1200, were all cut in pieces. Likewise the Switzers Regiments, 800 of whom escaping the sword, were drowned by water coming into their Trenches at the fudden opening of the fluces: and whereby, all commerce betwixt the two bodies of the French Army was intercepted: fo that Turein being forced to stand all the while a Spectatour, at length drew off all his (being about 12000) men to Quefkoy, a garrison about two leagues from Valenchienne, where next morning came to him betwixt fix and feven thousand recruits, who had thought to have united with him at the siege. The Marquels of Estree was slain in this overthrow, and the Count his brother taken prisoner, besides many Marquesses, Counts, and other great persons, and Officers killed or taken : and La Ferte himfelf, being wounded in the thigh, was taken prisoner.

Things in Germany went then worse with the Protestants than formerly; for at Collen, in the same month of July, several families of them were distrained, because that after three summons, they resulted to pay their sine, for not strewing Flowers before their houses on the Sacrament day, when the Hoss was carried thorow the street; which had not been exacted in 30 years. It was likewise moved and deliberated in the Council of that City, to turn all the said Protestants after a years warning, out of the City, so soon as the Treaty of Mussifier was expired.

But the Dane and the States of the United Provinces now understood each other, as to providing that the Smede grew not too potent in or near the Baltick Seas: and that King standing in very good terms with those States, gave their Embassadurs hopes, that 10 of his Men of War should joyn with theirs upon occafion.

In August following, against the Duke of Brandenburg, (who had a little before declared to an Envoy, (sent unto him from the grand Cham of Tartarie, to perswade him from any agreement with the Swedish King) that since he was totally abandoned by the King of Poland, he thought himself concerned to take a ceurse for conservation of his Estates held in Prussia) a Sentence was pronounced from a Verdish of the Imperiall Chamber in Gernany, in reference to the War made in 1653, (as we have declared in the foregoing Chapter) against the Duke of Newburgh; who being judged guilty of giving the first occasion thereof, was condemned to pay towards the charges, 200000 Rixdollars to the said Duke of Newburgh; and in default of payment, his Land of Murch should be mortgaged.

But the King of Poland coming afterh upon the City of warfo-

via after its relief; it was yielded up to him July the first; the Swedes being to leave their booties and plunder behind them, with of Christ, the Artillery, and what belonged thereunto; Gen. Wittenberg to 1618. marching out with 4000 Swedes: the women were civilly used, and had some inferiour Officers granted them to bring them to the Swedish Camp: yet all the conditions were not kept: which was to be attributed to the roughnesse of the Polish Souldiery, rather than to King Casimir. At the same time Cracovia also was beleagured and hardly put to it by the Queen of Poland's Army; unto whose Camp the King her husband had fent 8000 men; and whom to meet at Warfovia, the personally departed from before Cracovia. The King of Sweden being still encamped at Nowedwor, (from whence came intelligence into England, of some particular Successes against Polish parties, obtained by that Army who marched from Theren May 30th, to relieve Warfevia) where the Ele-Ctour of Brandenburg joyned his Forces to his, July 7th; they refolving to fall suddenly into King Casimer's Camp, although he gave out to be above 100000 men. Who because of his great numbers, not much regarding the forces of the King of Sweden and the Electour, on July 27, 1656, sent a Body of Tartars ( for these were united with him) to besiege Poltonsko: whereupon the Swedes seeing an opportunity of action, drew out their forces to relieve the City: which was performed with flaughter among the befieging Tartars. July 28, the King and the Electour croffing the River Buck, drew up their Army in Battalia, advancing towards the Poles: King Casimir standing (with 150000 or 120000) to receive them: where, after some light skirmishes betwixt their forlorns, and more engagements, till night parted them, and in which first encounters the Swedes had the worst; (though they valiantly repulsed a body of Tartars sent to fall on their rear) next day, July 29, a grand battle beginning, one of the Swedish Wings at first, seemed to be declining; but recovering their wonted courage by others fent to fuccour them, (though the Poles came on very numeroully and furiously) they kept their ground. The Battle continuing all this day, untill the next, July 30th, in the conclufion, the King and the Electour (who behaved himself valiantly) had a marvellous Victory; for the Poland King losing a great part of his foot, all his Ordnance and baggage, and leaving the City of warfovia open to the Swedes, fled after his horse, with a few in his company, into Podlachia.

In August following, that strong and important Garrison of Conde in Flanders was yielded up by the French to the Spaniard upon Articles after no short siege.

News being come to Stockholm, in July, that the Muscovites had broken into the Province of Ingermanland, the Estates of Sweden here assembling, ordered all Governours to provide, and speedily fend all sorts of Ammunition into that Province, as also into Finland and Liesland; and although they resolved not to proceed against the Muscovite, before they saw he was become an absolute enemy; yet in the mean time, they affured themselves of the Muscovites living in Stockholm, beginning to fize all their Effaces and Merchandizes, and imprisoning some, for impezilling part of their goods: and hearing foon after, that the Muscovite was entred into Liefland, and whathe had done upon it, they laboured with all possible diligence to take some course for rescuing that Province out of the Jawes of those devouring enemies; not onely fending forces to firengthen he most important Towns, but raifing men in feveral parts of Sneden: the Nobility and Citizens with great cheerfulnesse agreeing to contribute twice as much (upon this occasion) as they were wont to do in the foregoing years. And indeed, thirgs went but ill with the Swedes in Poland now, because (for that present) the King was constrained to draw away the main of his forces with speed into Liefland; though he lest sufficient to maintain all their Garrisons except warfovia, which they flighted, demolishing its fortifications; fo, forfaking all on this fide the River Weysell. The Electour of Brandenburgh was to secure Prusia; but Puland was left to the disposure of providence: fo that it was observed, that the Polish King had been (in all probability) foon driven out of his Dominion, or forced to acceptConditions of peace, had not this fierce invalion of the great Duke fallen out: who toward the latter end of August, 1656, fate down before Riga, (the chief City of the Province of Lief and) but about a stones cast from it, (and with an Army so numerous, that the Conful of the City having gone up to the loftiest Tower thereof, to view them at their approach beheld them with admiration, as exceeding (he certified in his letter) the Grashoppers in number) who fent in a Trumpeter to the Citizens with a proud Meffage, That if they would submit and supplicate for clemency, they might have it; but if obstinately standing out, they must expect nothing but ruine and destruction. The Swedish Souldiers there in Garrison were but 1500; but the Citizens bei g refolved men, lifted 4000, and perfons of good estate, who were in arms: the City being also well provided with necessaries, and their Fortifications compleated, they faid, they feared no force; yet they expected relief from the King of Sweden; which the Muscovites laboured to prevent, by intending to build Forts between the City and the mouth of the River Duna. And amongst other barbarous proceedings of the Muscovite, taken for certain, the Count of Thurne (who married Bannier's Widow, the great Swedish General in the German Wars, and fister to the Marqueis of Baden) being abroad out of Riga with a party of 300 horse, was at their first coming thicher met with; who being defeated and taken, they cut off his head, and fixed it on a Spear to shew it the befieged; though the trunk of his body was by the enemies connivance conveyed into the City.

On the very same day, August 28, was the City and Castle of Cracovia said to be surrendred to the Polish and Austrian forces; but on very good terms: as not onely for the Swedes to carry away what they could upon all the horses in the City; but to be supplyed with 200 more by the Polanders, to carry their baggage, of Chilis. and to be conveyed with 1200 horse and foot to Cressen, &c. But to 1653. as for the Arians and Jews that were in the City, the former were to perition for pardon, and having their goods exempted from confiscation, their persons to be banished; but the latter were to be left to the King of Polana's mercy.

But about the beginning of Sept. following, Prince A holph with his forces successfully encountred 2000 fallyers out of Dintzick, (who had a defign uyon the Bridg under Dirsham) with a small losse: the Dantzick horse and Dragoons timely running, but the party of foot fighting stoutly: who notwithstanding, had been all loft, if they had not met with a Marsh, to which they retreated; five Colours, seven pieces of Ordnance, with all their Wa-

were expected foon to yield.

But that the King of Sweden (who had sufficiently engaged himfelf in undertaking forgreat a Conquest as the Kingdom of Poland) might be deeper engaged; the King of Denmark, who had before made preparations, was ere this, as a third enemy, come upon his back both by Sea and Land: so that, before the middle of September there was a great fight at Sea between the Danish and Swedish. Fleets: the Swedes having 44 ships in all, to wit, 33 great Men of War, the other somewhat leffe, with two fire ships. Of the Danish Fleet I am not certain of their number, (but 22 favl were seen not far from the Island Mone before the fight began) who when they saw the Swedish about the Hilden Sea, began to retreat, secring for Coppenhaguen; but being pursued by the Swedes, they were forced to engage; the fight beginning about two of the clock in the afternoon, and continuing till night, and a good while with much resolution on each side; four thips being related to be blown up into the ayr, and the Swedes getting the day.

The King of Poland poffessing Cracovia, presently sent a Courrier or Post to Dantzick, as to give them an account thereof, so promifing them, that Czarnecky (hould with his choycest horse, faortly finke into Pomerania, and Lubermisky should with the Au-Arian forces fall into Prussia; to divert the King of Smeden, and call him ont of the Danish Dominions; wherefore the Swedish King hastening to wismar in Pomerania, to put all things there in a poflure of defence, came thither Sept. 14, he leaving his Army to carry on the War against Denmark, under the Command of General wrangell. And to restore life and spiritto the Swedish affairs then doubtful, if not drooping one Father Daniel, an Ambassadour of the Cossacks, came from their General Chmielniski to the King of Smeden some dayes before, to assure him, that the said General was upon his march with 24000 men for his assistance, as was certified by a Post from Elbing in Prassia to the City of Bremen, Sept. the 7th; who also brought news, that the Prince of

About or in the moneth of April, 1656, there were great diforders and rumults (railed by 20000 Janizaries and Saphies) at Constantinople, (faid to be occasioned through want of pay, and the obtruding on them a new Coyn of a very base Allay) who proceeded to far as to massacre divers of the grand Seignier's Divan or Councel, and to depose and strangle the Visier Bassa, whose carkafe they with scorn exposed in the Market-place: forcing alto the Sultana, Mother of the grand Signior, to fly to the old Seraglio for fecurity: the Mufri or chief Priest being fain likewise to fave himself by flight; not daring to trust the words of those Mutineers, whose design was to have dethroned the grand Seignior, and to have established his brother in his place. They laying aside also all other principal Officers of the Empire, to secure themfelves against a deserved punishment, chose others in their places who were at their devotion: and fearched diligently after fuch great Officers who escaped their hands: and all things there were then in so great confusion, that some strange alteration of affairs among them was expected; fo that although this might have been enough to give a stop to the Turk's proceedings against the Venetians; yet the new ones in power went on with their preparations against their interest in Candia with more vigour than before; fo that the Republique of Venice was fain to fend speedily away Prince Horatio Farnese, and other chief Commanders with good numbers of men, and store of Ammunition for maintaining of what they held in that Isle. The Turks also then coming together at Bagnalush, making great Magazines at Clivano, with eight great Artillery pieces, and 1000 yeaks of Oxen to draw them for the besieging of Sebenico, they ordered Antonio Bernardo to go with all speed into Dalmatia, as Commissary General, to affish the General Zeno.

But within two or three moneths after, those Tumults in Constantinople being appealed, the Grand Seignior making a stately Cavalcate throughout the City, at that time, gave order, for executing divers of the Ring-leaders in the faid diforders, for greater terrour to the people in time to come: dispatching also away a Courrier in all haste to the Bashaw of Damasco, requiring him speedily to come away and take on him the slain grand Visier's Office; which great place was conferred on him, although but 24 years of age, because of his great abilities already shewn in the places of his Government. Who about the moneth of June, being fetcht into Constantinople with great pomp and solemnities made at his installing into the said Office; presently after, that Turkish Fleet was recruited with men, money, and other necesfaries; over which the Venetian Fleet obtained a great and notable Victory, June 26, 1656, who having made one moneths stay in the mouth of the Dardanelles, to wait for, and fight the enemy, (feven Galleys of Malia arriving in the mean time) the Turk's Captain Bassa appeared in sight of the Castles, his Fleet consisting of 28 great ships, 60 Galleys, 9 Galeasses, and other small Vessels. to 1658. The Venetian Navy had 28 great Ships, 24 Galleys, 7 Galeafles, (befides these of Malia aforesaid) commanded by the Prior of Roccelia; who keeping in the narrowest part of the Channell, the Turks could not come forth without accepting the offered battely The Biffa (at first) had raised two Batteries on Land on both sides the River, one on Natolia fide, the other on the fide of Greece, as thinking to facilitate their own going forth, by obliging the other to forfake their flation: yet the Venetians undauntedly refifting their thor, rendred that advantage of theirs unprofitable: wherefore the Baffa (being exprelly ordered to attempt going out) on the 26th day in the morning, through a pleasant North-wind advanced all his great Ships, who withdrew notwithstanding behind the Point of Barbiers; whither the Bassa himself repaired with his Galleys: a few hours after, through a small North-west wind, the Venetian Navy moving, Eleazar Moccenigo, now a Volunteer, and commanding the left Wing, advancing and passing beyond the Turkifb Fleet, fought valiantly, endeavouring to hinder its retreat. The battel being begun, Laurence Marcello the Venetian General, with him of Malta, intermingling with the other Venetian Vessels, fell to it Pell-mell; fo that the Torks being hemmed in, and no place to escape, were forced to fight with the more eagernels: but they were wholly routed by fword, fire, and water, the Captain Bassa saving himself with onely 14 Galleys; 40 Galleys were taken in the fight, 10 funk and burnt; also 9 Mahones were taken; but the 28 great Ships were (for the most) burnt. The number of the Turks flain could hardly be discovered: yet 5000 were judged to be killed; 4 or 5000 Christian flaves being released, and 4000 Turks made flaves. The Venetian's loss being their chief Captain Marcello, 300 Souldiers and Marriners; 3 Ships of theirs likewise were burnt, two in fight, and one by an accident. After an extraordinary joy manifested by the Duke and City of Venice, the Senate ordered for releafing of all prisoners for debt; some of the Banditi being freed also: and Moccenigo; who had contributed much to the gaining of the Victory, was the first that was Knighted by the Senate, with a chain of gold of 2000 Crowns conferred on him; and then was declared Generalissimo in the room of flain Marcello; in remembrance of whom, a publique service was ordered to be celebrated at the publique charge.

About the moneths of July and August, the Emperour of Germany (whose Son, the King of Hungary, affished the Pole at the taking of Cracovia) was very strong in forces, as if he intended some great defign: the number of whole Regiments of horse were 9550 mun; of his foot 25300; and in the several places within his Dominions which were Garrisoned, or to be made Garrisons, (to wit, in Bohemia, Moravia, the Upper and Nether Silefia, and Hungary, there disposed in divers places, and upon the Turk's borders) were appointed Anno 1653 of Chrift, to 1658.

appointed to defend them, 19750 men: who also about Sept. following fent 11 Regiments of Horse and soot out of his Regiments, yet levying 10 new ones in his hereditary Countries in their stead; 44 Troops of the one, and 66 Companies of the other, under General Enkenford, to ayd the Spaniard in Millain of Italy, against the French and Duke of Modena; resolving to set out a Manifesto concerning that design: The French having lustily fruggled against the Spaniards besieged by them, in the City of Valentia, and the Duke of Modena preparing to meet the Emperour's forces with great courage and refolution. A little before which, the faid Emperour fending an Expresse to demand of the King of France, the payment of three millions of Crowns, which he was obliged to do by the Treaty of Munster, or else to surrender . up Brifac and all Alfatia, it occasioned the enemies of France to raife rumours, that the Emperour intended to fend an Army for recovery of Alfatia.

About the same time, some Theeves in the Turkish Dominions set fire on the Seraglio of Bosnia, 4000 houses, 4 Dovens of Custome houses, and 3 Mosquees being burned down to the ground, and the Jews quarter was plundred. And at the City of Luca in Italy, one Pisania Traytour was executed to death, for attempting to kill all the Nobility, and change the Government of that little Common-wealth.

But the Princes of the Empire were not well pleased with this so haky undertaking of the Emperour in Italy, and without demanding their advice in a business so important, and prejudicials to the Empire; also so contrary to the Treavy of Munster, and expressly mentioning, That the Dukes of Mantua and Modena, shall be free to make War, the Emperour not to send any forces against them, without the Princes Electours their consent: who were so far from that, that they protested against this sending, as a manifest violation of that Treavy of peace so solemnly sworn, and that which could have no other effect than the troubling of Germany, and reviving of War: neither (it appears) were (whatever the cause was) some of the Souldiers well pleased with their going; for two Regiments at a general Muster of them, mutined and disbanded; although some of them were therefore taken and hanged.

In the year 1655, Septemb. 20, Pope Alexander the 7th (who had lately entred into the Popedome, endeavoured to bring about a general Peace among the Princes addicted to him; writing Letters allo to the Kings of Frame and Spain to that end) wrote a Letter to all the Popish Clergy throughout Christendom, to stir them up to use all means for procurement of a settlement of the said Peace.

But in Helvetia or Switzerland, (which Country being governed after a Democratical form, is divided into 13 Cantons or Bailywicks, five of whom have been efteemed wholly Papifts, fix wholly Protestants, and the other two mixt of both: which division began about or in the year 1519, when Zuinglim, Minister of Zurich of Tigurum, seconded Luther's beginning: which the rest of this people not liking, moved War with them of Zurich, and to 1658. the rest of the Protestants, in which, Zuinglin himself was slain, (for it was the custome of the place, for the Ministers to go in the Front of their Armies, and he also of a bold spirit) and the Tigurines discomfitted; yet in the year 1531, an absolute Peace was concluded betwixt them: whereby notwithstanding the diversity of Religion, they lived in unity )the Protestant professours there. being first offended, began to arm themselves against the Popish Cantons in 1655; for besides the differences which the Capuchins there excited, and which every where increased, divers in the Popish Canton of Switz, as also some in Lucerne, (who were called Nicodemites, because they at first secretly owned the Protestant Articles of faith; yet afterwards openly professed the fame) were imprisoned, (the Popish Cantons also solemnly swearing their religious alliance against those in Lucerne) and by those of Smitz very cruelly handled: some of whom escaping out of the prisons, detested their cruelties and idolatry; which confirmed the rest; the other yet in prison being also very constant in their faith: one of the notablest young men named Sebastian Anna Mousnier, a prisoner in the Town of Smitz, escaping out at one of the Water-passages, as the Popish were in the midst of their Bacchanalian revels, on the Sunday, after many tortures and miferies undergone. The Nicodemites so called, coming out of Switz into Zurick, made their profession very distinctly (about the beginning of October there, 1655,) upon all the Articles of faith, and so labouring to confirm them by Texts of Scripture. About the same time, those of Lucerne released them that they had in prison; though upon what conditions was not then known: yet those who were set at liberty, continued as firm and fervent as ever: one was likewise laid hold on for reading the Bible.

Neither were the Papists themselves free from differences amongst each other; for when the foresaid League was sworn against those at Lucerne, the sweaters chose one Charls Boromeo a Milanois, to be their Advocate and Patron, publishing a Patent to purpose, that declaring the reasons of that their new idolatry: at which, many of their Popish brethren were so oftended, that they entred into an oath and combination against that new Italian Patron, resolving to adhere to the old. But the Popish Cantons (at first) arming themselves insensibly, sought every way for friends and afsistance; sending Deputies to the Bishop of Basile, to procure him to swear their League against the Protestants: Milain offering them men to the last, and Rome money; but the rest of their friends would do but little.

About November following, the Zurickers had intelligence that fome of the Nicodemites were at Switz, to be executed to death, if the prefence of the Protestant Cantons Deputies did not hinder the fame; wherefore they were wonderoufly refolved to oppose that Fury: the mixt Canton of Appenzel, who were then 5000 strong, and the Papifts but 1500, refolving to turn out the Nuns, which made the Monks to mourn, as to be deprived of their wonted vifits. The second Deputies being sent to Smiz, had indeed a favourable Audience; But they proposing restitution to be made of the goods of those departed from Switz, for Religion sake, as it had been formerly done by the Protestant party, towards all such as had relinquished the Protestant profession, whom they treated with all civility when they were imprisoned on the like occasion: the Town of Switz denied them, faying, They being in Soveraign State, had a right to proceed as they judged meet against their Subjects; because those who deserted them were perjured and Apostates, &c. and being legally cited, had refused to appear; wherefore their goods were justly confiscated : and that with those whom they had in prison for the same sault, they would proceed according to the nature of their offences. The Protestant Deputies being aftonished hereat, after some conference, propounded, that fince they would not condifcend in a friendly way, they would referre the whole matter for determination, to the Law of all Smitzer-land: which they likewise previshly and scornfully enough refusing, the Deputies departed, but ill satisfied: and not onely the other Protestant Cantons, with no small regreat observed, but even 3. Popish ones did not approve of the violence, wherewith the Switzers mindes were possessed, and what troubles they of Zurick endured from them, for above 2 years before, yet they thought fit to own them in the quarrel of Religion: who then all armed apace, and had done some affronts and injuries to the Protestant Cantons in a very particular manner, (though their Magistrates offered Chastisement, seeming to be displeased thereat) wherefore the Protestants putting themselves into a posture, observed all their proceedings, and on the 14th of the said November, appointed an Affembly to begin, to deliberate touching that great affaire, and also of the other grievances and oppressions. Also on of the 12th of this month, most of the Deputies of the Cantons meeting at Baden, (divers Papists being absent, because of some Holidays by them observed) the French Ambassadour, De la Barde came thither from Salotarne, where, in a speech, he earneftly exhorting them to union, afterwards entertained them at a banquer. But the Deputies of Zurick having declared their Complaints against Suitz: they could get no other answer from them, but, that they were Soveraigns in their own Country, and if they roafted their Subjects they needed not to give any account of their Actions. The Zurickers replied, if ye give us not a better answer, we shall be constrained to use such meanes as God hath given us: So offering to leave Baden, and go home to order their Army presently, to march out of Zurick into the Field; but she other Protestant Deputies, and some also of the more moderate

Popish ones, prevailed with them to tarrie: promising their endeavour to draw Switz to some reason. Austria threatned the Protestants; but their Neighbour-friends were very cold.

On the 16th day they had a hot dispute also at Baden: wherein, them of Switz alleadging the National peace formed in 1531; the Zurickers called for the Records, and the inftrument being distinctly read, one waser a Burgomaster largely declaring, Demonstrated that the Ropish Cantons had never observed the Principal Articles of that peace; but had fince made allyances against them, more accounting of those latter Covenants, than of their Antient general treaties: and that it deserved no better name then meer Conjuration, and fworne Conspiracy against them: which they must no longer endure; Wherefore Zurick standing to their first proposal, required the other Cantons to do justice against switz. About the same time (though all the Popish Cantons drew in one ftring) (but some of the other Popish Deputies pretended an approving of Zuricks demands, &cc.) the Zurickers had intelligence, that Lucerne ( which was faved by Zurick from utter ruine in the last Rebellion) took notice of the horrible flanders begun, to be spread concerning those of the Protestant Religion; and had published an Edict, Commanding all their Subjects to abstaine from those slanders on pain of death, also they heard, that the Popish Deputies offered to let, all these Controversies be determined, by an equal number of judges, of either Religion; but it was thought by some, to be but to gain time, becauje the Protestants were a great deal more ready for the Field; then the other thought they could be.

About January following, it was certified out of Switzer-Land into Engand, that it clearly appeared, the Pope and his Emissaries to have been the instruments of raising that quarrel among the Cantons:exasperating his Catholiques, to act such cruelties and injustice, as had dissolved the general league of union that was between them: and promiting supplies to carry on that War, which was waging meerly upon the account of Religion: wherefore the Popith Cantons endeavoured by Agents to estrange the feemingly neutral Cantons, from the Potestants, and to drawn them over to their own party : But the Protestants being before them in preparations, and exceeding them in number, they intended through the mountainoulnesse of their Country, to stand on the defensive, so to linger out time till spring, when as they expected help trom their Popish friends; but the Protestants were then beginning to March with a fair train of Artillery, to provoke, or, if possible, to force the enemy to an open engage-

About the same time, was seen a declaration in England, of the judgment of the Ministers of Cafelsth'e Court of the Lantgrave of Heffe, approving that work of John Dury, a Scotish Mnister, who had renewed again his endeavours, for procuring Concord among all of the reformed Religion, who had Cast off Romish superstition:

perstition: wherein among other things, they declared, that as manifold experience had shewn, all the Miseries of War, Perils of treachery, Dreadful mischiefs, by Commotions of States and Kingdoms, do proceed from differtions and divisions in Religion as out of Pandora's bex; fo from religious and true concord do spring all heavenly bleffings, tranquillity, and all kind of advantages: and that, although it had been openly maintained by some men, That Agreement in Religion could not be pleasing to God; yet it was past all question, That peace conjoyned with truth, was most acceptable to God the Author of both, &c. and as the wifer fort anciently held, That the best remedy in case of Invasion by a common enemy, was to unite all parties, and take away all enmitties and divisions in the Common-wealth: Why then should it not be thought the most adviscable course to take the same care in Religious matters, (seeing the common enemy, that is, the Pope, became more and more raging every day) that all animofities and emulations being extinguished, and all controversies and disputes about matters lesse necessary and weighty being removed, a mutual Concord might be established by the common consent of all Calvin and Lutheran Professours, as very little differing in the main things; lest their diffentions should become their enemie's advantage, prejudice to their friends, and open provocations of God's wrath: in order to which, and the like, they shewed, That whereas the resolution of the Estates of the Empire convened at Franckfort in 1634, might serve to point out a way: a Conference at Leipfick would be a means to give light in things of truth.

The Affairs of Switzerland being now in a very broken condition, the Protestant Cantons had three dayes Assembly at Brugg, unanimously resolving peremptorily to insift, at the next Diett to be held at Baden, on the right of Alliance and agreement betwixt all the Cantons; and if reason were not done, then to take the field immediately. Which they did; for in the very fame January, the Forces fet out by Zurick, (Werdmuller being their General) marched abroad in feveral bodies, to the number of 10000 men: Werdmuller's first booty was of the plunder of a very rich Cloyster in Rynam, a strong place and passage which he took: then he took in Keyferstuel, a strong Passe upon the Rhine: where fome Zurickers were wounded : in the mean time, Ulrich the Lievtenant General going into Turgon, took Fauchfield and its Castle, with the Popith Bayliff and his Officers; but the people presently submitted. After that, werdmaller went toward Rapersmill; which place being very well provided, and the bridge so defended, he made fome attempts to come near it, and the enemies fome salleys; yet both without effect. But departing thence to the other fide of the Lake, he took in the Island of uffnam, assaulting also the very strong Castle of Pfefikan. Berne being likewise marching to divide towards Lucerne, (Geneva having fent them three good Companies of Souldiers) the Cantons of Friburg and Soleure had endeavoured by their Deputies to keep them therefrom; but they came too late. Rappeswill being still befreged, and they Anno 1573 within thooting off many chained bullets, flints, and pieces of to 1658. ficel, wounding and killing some Zurickers, they were mightily incenfed: whose from resolution and courage was admired; who although the like cold weather had not been feen in that Country for a long time, the horse and Ordance being scarce able to passe: yet they would go on (to get as many places as they could) without delay. At Zurick also came forth a Manifesto, concerning the Subject of that War, whereby might be seen the great injustice, tyranny, and violence of the Papists, and chiefly of the Canton of Switz.

In February following, Arnaud, one of the Sorbonne Doctors before mentioned, was with his opinion, condemned and cenfured by the Molinists or Jesuits, and numerous party of Monks, who had both written and disputed in defence of the Dostrine of Jansewww: (which matter had took up the observation and expectations of the whole Kingdom of France concerning its event and iffue) it being put to the question, they damned his Propositions; the one as rash, scandalous, and injurious to the See of Rome and the Bishops; the other, as wicked, blasphemous and heretical; thereupon sentencing him to be rased out of the number of Doctors, and degraded from all the functions and priviledges of a Doctor: and further concluding, That for the future, none should proceed Doctour, who did not subscribe to the Censure. On the 13th of which February, was the opening of the general Assembly of the Clergy of France.

The Protestants of Switzerland successfully proceeding in revenge of the innocent bloud of their maffacred brethren, exceedingly strengthened themselves. Some in that Country were Neutral, although Catholiques; Bafile also being more inclined to peace than war, whose Ambassadours were then at Berne; which Berners took Zug and befet it; so causing great perplexity in the Switz, where, and in divers places, divers Popish families (apprehending the Jesuits cruelty in egging them on, and pressing the Magistrate to hang, burn, and quarter those that turn to the Protestant Religion) publiquely professed the same in the streets, and in great number daily flocked to the Protestants, submitting to their protection. Zurfach and Clognam did now homage to the Zurickers who had affured the Ame: these of Genff 6000 strong, joyning to the Berners; who were now 20000 ftrong, and expecting 3000 more to come unto them out of Vaud. There being likewife at Bunthen 6000 Protestants ready to maintain the Passes towards Tyroll and Italy. The Popish Canton Forces of Uri, Schaye, and underwalden, kept in a body, where they might have access at pleasure into Rappeswill by the bridge: the besieged of which Town, very furiously fallying out Jan. 16, with 1000 the choisest men as far as warmspach Convent, were chased in again by the Zurickers with great loffe; werdmuller raifing the spirits of his men by his valiant example: and Captain Eldibach, who kept warm(pach, flaying a great number of them. Among them that were taken, were two brothers, held as Goliahs among the Papists, and being the chief persecutors of the Nicodemites: their father being one who passed sentence on a Widow, one of them that were executed for Religion, (the Protestant Deputie's presence at Smitz, it feems, not faving them) and one to whom he owed a great fumme of money. Another of their most valiant Martial men who was fhot and taken, dyed about three dayes after, raging against the Zurick Army; who in that engagement had but 10 men flain, and 40 wounded.

The Deputies of the Neuter Cantons having been at Zug, gave their judgment in the Councel of War belonging to the 4 Cantons, who refolved to make no agreement, tarrying in Zurick, exe pecting their answer, that they might govern themselves accordingly: the Deputies of the Protestant Cantons meeting at Aram, to consult upon the whole; and the Papias at Mellinguen, who were not then willing to meet with the Protestants. The Berners receiving a fall through the imprudence of their Officers, took warning thereby, maintaining all places upon the Lake very well, bestirring themselves also with a Galley upon it: But the Souldiers of Ergon performing their duties very well, flew 500 of the enemies: and the Zurickers before Rappenswill having now getten near the Town on the Land fide, shooting Cannon at the wall towards the Starr, a great breach was made, the day following made an affault, 50 getting into the Town; but the enemy retrenching themselves on the other side of the breach, they were beaten back, about 20 being killed, and 20 wounded.

At the same time, an Ambassadour of Savey having been at Araw, arrived at Zurick; where he protested, That his Master the Duke would never take part with the injustices of the Town of Switz; (yethimself could massacre his own Subjects) saying also, That if the peace were not made, his Master would be obliged to ayd his Allies: the French Ambassadour (who would willingly have quickly seen an assembly of all the Cautons of Switzerland) faying just fo. Hereupon, there was a Truce betwixt the Cantons: which having been prolonged for three dayes more than was at first appointed, was to end Febr. 20 after: during which Truce, the Popish Cantons (about 3000) invading the Territory of Zurick, there acted all manner of cruelties, by burning, Rapes, plunderings, and flaying many both old and young: whereof General wardmuller being advertised, immediately crofting the Lake with some Troops, and charging them, forced them to retire into the Territory of Smitz and Zug, where they presently falling to commit the like cruelties as before, Colonel Swyer (who commanded the Popish forces) sent a Messenger to wardmaller, desiring him to forbear; pretending, what his men had done, was without his order: a thing hardly by the Protestants to be believed.

be one and the same) is thus; Febr. 1, the Generals of the forces of Switz, Uri, Underwald, and Zug, hearing there would be a Celfation of arms, (which begun the second of February): as also to 1658. the Conference of the Canton's Deputies at Baden, and whither the Deputies of Zurick and Berne would not come, till the Papist and Italian Garrison were thence removed; the French Ambasiadour mainly ftirring to find out fome way of accommodation) refolved next day (being the fame Febr. 2.) to fall on the quarters of the Zurickers in five several places, picking out, for that purpole, 4000 of their best men. The chiefest assault was made on the fide of Ritchtenschwild Orgen. The Zurickers forlorn guards ftopt the affaulters; but being overpowred by their number, they retired towards the body of the Army, whither the other pursuing them, yet ran away at the first discharge upon them; and in their retreat plundred some scattered houses in the Mountains, burnt a small Village, carried away the Cattle, and practifed severall great cruelties upon the men, women, and children, cutting off their nofes and privy parts, and after killing them. Another affault was made on Wadischwill fide : the horse of Schaff house, and fome foot there in garrison defending the place very well. A third was about Phirzel, nighthe river Sile: whom Captain Lochman floutly refifted; but they going about to shut him up, he withdrew with his Cannon into a Wood: the enemy there plundring and burning some houses, specially the Minister's. The fourth was about Cappel, where the enemies were repulsed. The fifth was about the Cloyster of Gnadenthall, which was burnt down by the Zurickers. In all which, those of Zurich had the best, losing but few men, in comparison of the assaulter's losse. The Zurickers turned the fiege of Rappeswill onely into a blocking up, which was to be maintained with some Regiments: in which Town, he that held Pavis against the French the year before, (with many Spa-miards) was. But the Conference at Baden, and Ceffation of Arms, ended in a peace; fo that in March following they began to disband forces, put the Counties of Turgow and Baden again under the Government of the Cantons, and to restore prisoners: on some of whom, the Papists had committed some unworthy actions: and on the 21 of March, a day of fasting and prayer was kept in Zuricks Canton, for a bleffing on their State: their forces having been all kept in health and union, God having abundantly supplyed them with Victuals, and preserved them from so many thousand shots before Rapperswill, where they lost but sew, and few wounded, notwithstanding their many skirmishes. The Zurickers having also but 150 wounded, and 100 flain in all that

Yet some Officers and Souldiers were not very well pleased at the news of the peace; and the people would willingly have continued the War, to have suppressed the Monks and Priests sury; but others thanked God for it, because the Trade began to decay, Hhhh

But the Zurick Forces, in all 19000, were in a posture to be up again at any time, and the Berners resolved to have some forceign forces ready, that (with their own) they might ad more powerfully on all occasions; for all the Cantons were to meet March 22 at Baden, where the Mediatours were to go about the fettling of the Amnestie or act of oblivion, and the deciding the grievances both Ecelefiastical, Political, and Oeconomical, upon which great debates were expected, there being above 200 Articles to be determined onely about grievances in Religion: upon which, the Monks and Priests ('swas thought) would hardly agree; fo that the Country might be fet on fire again. But whereas some (through wrong information) being much displeased, spread a report, That the two Protestant Cantons of Zurick and Berne, had made a most disadvantagious peace with the five Popish Cantons, not only prejudicial to themselves, but to all the Protestants and their Cause; there was about the fame time, a publique Monition there fet forth for better information therein: declaring, That both the obstinacy of the papists was much abated, and they willing to submit to the Right, whereby all that was defired, might be determined without bloudfied: and also, that the Pope was wroth against the Protestants, and generally the whole Italian Clergy had their purses open for the Popish Cantons: that the Forces of Italy, Naples, and Spain, were marching to their assistance, and to master Switzerland: Also, that the Emperour had great forces on foor to trouble and undo their Country; which confidering the feafon of that last Winter, he might have easily done. And that the Protestants were far from any affistance; which though it might have been procured, yet would have come too late. By all which, every one might judge how the Protestant Cantons were necessitated to accept of that peace: which notwithflanding was not (faid the Monition) quite decided, but wanted femething; and men might believe, the Protestant Cantons would not relent, or abate any thing of redressment of their grievances, whether Ecclefiastical or Political. After this, Jan. 30th, 1657, the Arbitrators of the two common or mixt Bayliwicks of Basile and Appenzel, where both Religions are professed, gave a deciding Sentence in fundry heads, both as touching themselves, and also that the charges of the War between the other Cantons, ought to be laid on that party who was the cause of it; which they judged to be Switz. And as for taking of goods, burning of houses, barns, &c. by either party, these (and other fuch things ) should be buried in the Amnestie or Oblivion.

In France, about the beginning of 1656, a little after the peace ratified between that Kingdom and England, the Archbishop of Narbonne President of the Clergie's Assembly there, went as Deputy, with some other Deputies, to the Court; and not finding the King, (for he absented himself) they addressing themselves to the Queen, desired among other things, that the Protestant's publications lique affembling-places, built by them fince the last troubles and tumults of Paris, might be demolithed: Also, that they might not be put into Offices and Employments, nor admitted to the to 1658. governing of Cities and Provinces, nor to Commands in Armies: defiring moreover, that the King would mind an establishing of peace with Spain, rather than with England or Sweden. She anfwered, That the King above all things defired and fought to maintain peace at home in his Kingdom, and therefore expected that his Subjects of both Religions (bould live in amity and union one with another; he intending the Protestants should enjoy the exercise of their Religion in such places as had been allowed them: and that he had no better or faithfuller Subjects and Servants than those. And as to England, and other Allies of the Crown of France, the King had done, and would do therein as he should judg most convenient, and would advise with his Council touching such matters, in due season.

Asto the King of Sweden's Affairs, there having been a Treaty between him and the Hollandifth Ambassadours; it was fully concluded and confirmed by subscription at Elbing, Sept. 12, 1656, the City of Dantzick being so far comprehended therein, that they were to agree with the King by themselves: they not having then resolved touching the Neutrality upon the Articles that had

Cap,6.

In the same moneth and year, the City of Valentia in Italy was surrendred up to the French, by the Spaniards: the Governour capitulating to have leave to send to the Count of Fuenfaldagae, That unless relief came within two dayes, he must surrender; and no relief coming, he marched out thence on the 16th day, with 800 horse and foot, six having Vizzards, that they might not be known, who with their baggage and two Cannons, were conducted to Alexandria. The taking of that City-enabling the French to establish their Winter-quarters in the State of Milan, to the great prejudice and indignation of the Spaniards.

A little before the same time, the Venetians took that confiderable and important Isle and Fort of Tenedos, about the mouth of the Dardanelles, from the Turk; who not onely vexing the Inhabitants of the Island with 26 Ordnance, and 5 Morter-pieces; but also firing all their Munitions, and spoyling their Wells, they furrendred; 800 men, and 300 women, Turks and Grecians, comming out of it. The Turks being set ashoar upon the Continent, and the Greeks remaining in the Island: and through the fear and confusion which was then great among the Turks, chiefly in Constantinople, they doubted not but foon to take the Isle of Lemnos; besides divers other places like to fall into their hands: the Inhabitants of Scio fending Deputies at the fame time to the Venetian Forces, inviting them to draw near their Island, affuring them of an easic entrance through the divisions of the Turkish Commanders there, who were by their oppressions and cruelties become Hhhhh 2 to insupportable to the Inhabitants, that they alwayes lay in hope of an opportunity of cutting the throats of their oppressours.

But upon the retiring of the Swedith and Electoral Armies, the Poles getting together, came on again in great numbers, cutting down what imaller Swedish Troops they met with in the Country. And Aug. 24, 1656, Czarnecki meeting with 600 Swedish horse, and 300 Dragoons, cut them all down; they all dying manfully in the field. This falling out after some overtures for peace had passed between the two Kings. Neither were there those wanting (about that time) at Vienna, who preffed the Emperour by all means to afford the Polifb King that affiltance which he had fo long demanded; but he would not then give ear thereto.

The Muscovites who entred (as was said before) into Liefland with a great Army, having layn some time before Dunenbourg, took ir, and put all the Swedes there in garrison (who were about 2000) to the fword. Thence encamping before Riga, by a fally out of the City, he was repelled, and retired at some distance; General Douglas being fent thither with ships and supplyes. The Muscovite, being in despair of taking Riga, caused him to carry away his greateft guns the fooner; which the befieged perceiving, they fallyed out Octob. 2d. about 5 in the morning, being 650 men, horse and foot: and falling on a place called S. George, where the enemy was strongly entrenched, they destroyed above 1000 of them; taking also 17 Colours, and some prisoners, among whom was Col. Sencler, who through a shot received, dyed prefently after. The night following, he forfook S. George, and on the 5th of October, he quitted the fiege, leaving 17 Iron Ordnance, and 16 Lubish Gunpowder barrels (which he buried under ground) behind him. And on the 17th of the same moneth, a Greek, who was the Keeper of the great Duke's Wardrobe, comming over to those of Rigs, related, that his Master was mightily terrified by news brought him, That Field Marshall Lowenhaupt the Swede did great mischief in Muscovie, having defeated two Armies, and taken two Generals of his prisoners. There being alfo a Mutiny in the City of Mosco, which forced both the Patriarch, and the great Duke's Lady to flee thence, who were arrived at Polosko in white-Rufia. And Novemb. 5th following there were folemn Thanksgivings at Stockholm, with discharging all their great Guns, for joy of the Muscovite's quitting the fiege of Riga, and the Fortrelles of Kakenhowen and Notembeurg; of whose irruption into Liefland there was then no farther appearance, than the visible remainders in those desolations and spoyls which they had made in the Country. The reason likewise which induced the Muscovite to that hostile attempt against the Swedes, was suppoled to be this, because it was concluded in the Treaty made between him and Poland, That the Polanders, after King Casimir's decease, should freely choose, not onely the son of the Muscovite; but himself also to be next Successour to the Crown.

B: fore

Before the middle of Novemb, the Polish Army being in three Bodies, one body of them confishing of 30000 Poles and Tartars, Anno 1653 Scensky being General, coming to Prufie's borders near the City to 1678. Leik, surprised the Electour of Brandenburgh his Army under the Command of Count Waldek: the Tartars also croffing the River, came behind them: there was indeed a sharp fight betwixt them; but the Pole's forces being far greater in number, the Earl was forced to retreat as far as Angerbourg, 1500 of his men being cut off, with the loffe of fix great Guns, and all their baggage. Yet the King of Sweden nothing daunted herewith, speedily collecting his Troops together, went and confirmed the rest of the Brandenburgers, by uniting them to himfelf; which the enemy perceiving, durit not come on to profecute their successe, but retreated into Podlachia. The Electour himself being awakened by this great loss, (in which Prince Radzivil was taken priloner, M. G. Ritterhelm, Col. Rofe, Col. Brunnel, with other chief Officers, being flain.) called upon the Nobility of Prussia to arm for desence of their Country: who turning their backs, faid, They durst not bear arms against the King of Poland.

But M. G. Golts at the fame time (atriving at Tille) fell upon the Samaytes, standing in battalia two miles beyond, with very good fucces: who thinking at first, that they were all well mounted and armed, encouraged his men to stand to it; but when he perceived their fubrilty, that they had no Musquets, but long picces of wood coloured black, except a few who having Musquets, fired immediately, he fer on them to eagerly, that he got the Victory, flaving 1500 of them, and taking as many more prifoners, whereof was Crifpin the General himfelf, and 60 other noted ones, the rest being scattered and routed. Crifpin being brought to Tille, was to be fent to Koningsberg. The King of Denmark complaining of gricvances from the Snediff King, (who had concluded with the States of the Netherlands) having his Resident at the Hague in the same Octob. 1656. obtained an answer of his businesse; which was, That the States would not be wanting to recommend his Master's interest to the King of Sweden, that he might receive fatisfaction touching all the faid grievances of which he complained: and that they had written about the same to their Ambassadours in Prufsia. The same year, before this time, even an unheard of mischievous invention to destroy the lives of people, was practifed in the Lower Silefia; for some buriers of people seeing they had but little work, plotted regether, That one of them should (by some fellow(hip with the evil one) learn to make a powder, which he difiributing, and they throwing in publique affembling places, and Fountains, caused great insection; so that at Krapis 2500 dyed thereby. Whereupon the chiefest Families withdrawing into the Country; it afterwards chanced, that a bogg of one of the buriers getting out, ran to the Country where the people was rekired, where being thot, the faid Burier becoming mad, threat-ned all his men, that they thould die very fuddenly: who also told one that lamented his lately dead Wife, that he wondred at him, fo to lament, fince he was within a day to go the fame way. The Magistrate being advised of all those; this burier was apprehended, who upon the rack confessed his crime and all his Complices, who according to defert, were put to death with great tor-

About the moneth November following: the Princes in Germany being jealous of each other, every one of them levied Souldiers; for they all feared a new War, which the French were like to make against the Empire; because there was no satisfaction given at Franckford for breaking of the peace; for France pretended, That the Emperour did contrary to the Peace made at Munfter, in fending Armies into Italy and the Netherlands; yet the Germans sent into Italy, committing great insolencies there, above what the French did, plundring many Monasteries, and chielly twe, hard by Milane; burning down a Village, and plundring the guards of the Milannis Governours; not sparing also the Churchmen, but committing great violences on them, which forced many families to leave their houses and goods, and to flee from that uplucky supply: the affairs of that State could not be then in a worse condition. And then were the Trained Bands, and some new levied Souldiers of the two Electours of Mentz and Heydelburg in the field, marching one against another. Neither of the Princes then yielding to other about the matter of the Customes; but it was believed that some of their Neighbours would interpofe.

But the King of Poland arrived Nov. 15: at the City of Dantzick, with his Chancellor and Vice-Chancellour, (being fetcht in by 48 Companies of Cicizens) whose Army being 30000 strong, (12000 of whom were lufty fighting men) were to be entrenched about that City; who foon telt the inconvenience of that numerous Army, to their no small discontent, by reason of their plundring and stealing, spoyling and ruinating all the Champion Country round about it, which was expected to prove very chargeable to the Dantzickers, and breed great and many inconveniences: they being likely to continue their Quarters under the Cannons of their City, and King Casimir intending to stay there himself awhile: Parties, in the mean time, of the Poles and Swedes every day meeting and skirmishing. The Dutch Embasfadours having also conferred with the Poland King at Dantzick, (for both they and the French Ambassadours were very serious and diligent in mediating with him for an accommodation) preffed him to hard, that they defired him to nominate a day to begin a Treaty of peace. Who answered, He thought it needfull, first to know whether the Swedish King would admit of the Emperour and Danish King to be Mediatours; otherwise all would be to little purpose. Next day, those Ambassadours addressing themfelves to the Chancellonr of Poland, he gave them the like answer, affuring them, They should find the King and Estates very much inclined to an accommodation; but, he telling them in conclufion, That before any Treaty began, it would be expected, the to 1618. King of Sweden should restore all places which he held in Prusia, in the same condition as they were before (which was not so be fo much as propounded to the Swede) both the Ambassadout's endeavours, and the Pole's fair shews, vanished in an instant.

The King of Poland being very earnest by his Ambassadours, for the Emperour of Germany his affiftance, had proposed the acceptance of the Polish Crown unto him, (that is, after Casimir's decease) which, both the Emperour and his Councel, absolutely concluded to wave; they finding it then much more convenient and conducible for the Empire, first to make fure of the Crown of the Romans, and those hereditarily due unto the House of Austria, than to cover after more forreign Crowns. And one of the gravest Imperial Counsellours being asked his advice also, what anfwer was to be returned, he is reported to have answered, Quarite primo Regnum Romanorum, et catera adjicientur vobis; that is, Seek ye first the Kingdome of the Romans, and others shall be added unto you. Whose opinion all the rest did approve of, and agree unto.

On the 29 of October the same year, those of the Inquisition in Portugal burnt four persons alive, who were accused and condemned of Judaism and Sodomie. And Novemb. 6. following, the King of Portugal departing this World, (through obstruction of the Stone and gravel in his Kidneys) left his Queen, Regent of the Kingdom, during the minority of her fon Don Alfonso the first, who was crowned the 15th of the same Novemb. 1656.

Novemb. 20th after, in a Treaty between the King of Sweden, and the Electour of Brandenburg at Taplan, a perpetual League and Confederacy was anew transacted and agreed on; to which effect; the Earl of Slippenback, and Prefident Borenclaw departed from Koningsberg with the Instrument of that League, to have it ratified by the King.

This year 1656, the Plague forely afflicted Italy, fo that not onely at Naples, but at Rome and Genoa it raged much: and at Benevento, in Novemb. of 9000 people, there were not above 500 remaining.

But the Venetians after Tenedos, foon took Stalimene Island also from the Turks: and having furnished the Fortresse there, with all necessaries for defence, their Proveditor General set sail with the Fleet towards Scio and Zia, to refresh his mon: about which time, the Turk cast away all thoughts of peace with the Venetians, having wholly broken the Treaty that had been begun at Conftantinople by their Secretary Bellarini.

The King of Sweden (finding his Souldiers exceeding defirous to encounter with the Polanders, before a greater Frost came, forcing them to take their Winter-quarters) toward the latter end of November breaking up from Hone, he croffed the River with his Army, confifting of 16000 choyle Souldiers: a little after which, of Christ, to 1558. 5 the Polonian Camp under Lubermiski was totally defeated before Cracovia, which they had befieged; and the City relieved, which was brought to great extremity.

About or in Decemb. following, the once Polish Vice-Chancellour Radziecouski was brought (by the King of Sweden's command) a differed prisoner to Marienburg Castle, upon the discovery of his treacherous carriages to the Swedes: who (fo foon as the rumour brake out, that the Swedish King had forced War upon the King of Poland, under his pretence of a better Title, and nearer Succession to the Crown of Swethland, and that the said King had passed with all his Army in the Baltick Sea, landing in Pomerania) addressed himself unto him, with great promise of his sidelity in all actions wherein he should be imployed; and having given at that very instant a great testimony of the reality of his promises, when he had perswaded Posen and Califsen to accept of Swedish protection, the King might in reason put no small trust and confidence in him: he being a Counsellour in all the principal Councels, and the chief interpreter when the King's occasion required it. But it was then by his own confession known; First, That he had been the onely cause, why the Cossacks (according to their offfers) did never appear with any reality in the Polish War, and chiefly against the Muscovite. Secondly, That the Quartians and the rest of the Polanders left the King of Sweden at his perswasion. Thirdly, That he engaged himself to the Jesuits, that he would then have delivered the King of Sweden into their hands. Fourthly, That he had an intimate correspondency with the City of Dantzick, affuring them, that within a little time, he should shew himself a faithful Son of his Native Country. It was believed also, that he had a design to betray Elbing and Hoft into King Casimir's hands. But then it was hoped, their Affairs would take another face, and chiefly by the approaching of Ragotai Prince of Transylvania, at that time : as also the constant desire that the Muscovite had for a peace with the Swedish King; for which cause theking intended to fend one Coyes with Instructions to make an overture of the faid peace. The faid Radziecouski in or about June following, 1657, was imbarqued at Elbing to be transported into Sweden, there to be imprisoned during his life.

A little after, the Chancellour of Poland had given the aforcfaid answer to the Dutch Ambassadours: the King of Poland and the City of Dantzick resolved, that overtures of peace should be made with Sweden: whereupon, the French Ambassadour went instantly to the Swedish King, the Holland Ambassadour being to follow, the King being then at Marienburg to receive them, with their Propositions from the Polish King: although it appears, that Negotiation was to little or no purpole,

On May 18 following, 1657, the King of Sweden (whose Headquarters was at Quavichest intended to go to the Hungarian Leaguer under Ragotsky Prince of Transylvania, (who was now come to his affistance) upon the transaction and agreement made touching the evacuation of the Garrison of Cracovia, which was to be furrendred to the Hungarians: on the 16 day of which moneth, a of Chrift, Pole escaping from Samoisci, brought Letters, that Marshal wit- to 1658. tenburg and the other Swedish Lords there protoners, were not transported from thence, as a rumour was spread: he relating alfo, That there was then a great mutiny and diffention among the Poles, divers having torn their Standards in pieces, and run away, yet the Polonish Generals kept the rest together, and were gone with them into Lithuania. He likewise related, That Chmielniski, the Cossacks General, was gone into Lithuania with great forces, taking divers Towns by Artisko, Arvilef, and Bobrosko, and putting to the fword all the Muscovites and Lithuanian Gentry therein.

But the Swedish Army being joyned with Prince Regotzi's Army, and paffing the River Bug into Lithuania, not far from Krzemein, and finding no forces of the enemies, marched towards the firong City called Bizefcie Litenky; who at his approach fummoning it with a sharp commination of total ruine upon not surrendring, Zawicky the Governour auswered, He intended to defend it to the uttermoft. The Earl of Waldek and Earl Jacob de la Gardie, drew near the Town with fome forces, and that off two pieces of Canon, (the Swedith figual) which passing into the Governour's Lodgings, he, terrified, and forgetting his former refolution, next day fumbly offered to parley, and yielded on compofition: and that, before the King and Ragotzi arrived there. So that, that firong and important place was fundued without the losse of one man, and garrisoned by Prince Ragotzi, to whom the King absolutely refigned the disposing thereof; although the befieged withed to live alwayes under the Swedish protection : most of which Garrison having been in the service of the King of Sweden, the Electour of Brandenburg, and Prince Radzvill, betaking themselves again to the King's service : others Ragotzi got to his fide, being raifed by him: but the Governour and some others, with some Artillery, were conducted to Stuzana. After which, both Armies departed one from another, the King returning whence he came; and the Prince croffing Bug, not far from Bizefeie, where he a while continued.

The Polonish and Lithuanian Armies under Lubermiski, Czarnecki, and Saphia, till they were joyned, were chased by the King of Sweden and the Transilvanians; fo that Czarnecki swimming over Weisel with 10000 horse, passed into great Poland, summoning up every where the Pospolite to make a diversion into Pomerania; whereof 11 Colours appeared (June 10th) thereabouts on the other fide of Thorne bridge with usuall bravadoes. The rest marching towards Bizefcie with 2000 Germans and Poles: but as foon as the King drew nigh them, they fled in such haste toward Volumen, that the pursuing parties for 20 miles could not hear of them. In the mean time, the Poles intreating the Muscovites for affistance out of Lithuania, they were flatly denyed, with this reproach, Thut the Poles had basely deceived the great Duke, by carrying carrying the Polonish Ctown, which they offered to him, to Vienna; which affront they would be revenged of: fo that they must not expect help from them. Ragotzi marched towards Samoife, whither Steinbock with 7000 Brandenburgian forces was drawing, to visite the same strong Fortresse, thereby to establish the Ragotzian line to the very borders of Transylvania, and to stand firmly in Poland. But the King keeping with him a body of 8000 men, intended to march into great Poland, to scatter the forces brought thither by Czarneski, and to draw fomewhat nearer to Pomerania's borders, to joyn with wrangle's 6000 men in Pomerania, in case the Danes should do their worst: For in or about the same June, 1657, the King of Denmark proclaiming VV ar against Sweden, in Coppenhaguen, disparcht also a Herauld to Stockholm, to intimate there the War, or to the Swedish borders to denounce it; setting forth also a large Declaration of the motives thereof; Because the Swedes had by fraud and violence taken from him his Archbishopricks of Bremen and Verden, and his Towns and Territories, plundring him of his moveables, and denying to give him any satisfaction herein; detaining likewise from him, Irne and Zerne in Norway by force, and defrauding him feveral wayes of his Custome and Toll in the Ore Sound, and prejudicing him most highly in his Prerogatives also, because the Swedes had taken away from him the whole Trading by Sea, from Dantzick into Denmark: and instead of making reparation of all those, the late appointed Treaty was broken off: the Danish King protesting against the Calamitics which that ensuing War might cause.

About the beginning of May, 1657, the Venetian Generalissimo Moccenigo, burned to Turkish Ships, and 14 Saiques, taking the Tribute of Rhodes to 200000 Crowns: yet losing 100 men, and 300 wounded; who afterwards joyning with the Pope's Galleys, and those of Malta, they went again to the Dardanelles, to hinder all Vessels carrying provision to Constantinople, and resolving to fight the great Turkish Fleet, who intended to Rendez-vouz at Scio.

On the other hand, Monsseur Dureel, the Swedish Plenipotentiary, having used all means to bring the Danish King to a fair accommodation with the Swedish, and that proving vain, he left a Manifesso at Coppenhaguen, May 13, 1657, containing a state of the differences betwixt them. The Swedish Plenipotentiary protessing, That no occasion had been given on the Swedish fide, to dissolve and break off that Treaty.

War being thus begun in good earnest by the Danes, their Camp began to march for the Archbishoptick of Bremen, entring therein in June; in order to which, they went to the Elbe, whose high waters, and tempessuous winds crossed their transportation; yet some of their forces passing the Elbe above Hamborough, through the Dominion of Linnenburg: in their going over, they gave the other signs, burning pitch'd barrels; whereupon 3000 of the Danillo Forces were transported to the High-land, where they took a Fort, called the East-Scource.

On the 9th day of the same lune, the Smedish Camp in Liefland under Major General Lowen; and the Muscovian Army under the of Clerift. Waywood of Pleskow, and the General Szaremietow, had a great 10 1618. fight near the Town walke; the Swedes having the day, put four Companies of Dragoons to the fword which guarded some passages. On the place of fighting, 1500 common Souldiers were flain, besides many eminent ones; the rest being pursued; many of whom were knockt down by the Pealants among the bushes : they took from them 4 Enfigns, 26 Cornets, 5 pair of Kettle Drums, all their Artillery and baggage; Szaremietow the General wastaken prisoner, being wounded; also their Quarter-master General, with seven eminent Boyars more from Pleskow, and many others. The remnant of the defeated Muscovites rallying their forces about fix miles from Adzell, Count Magnus departed from Rigato the Swedish Army, (recruited with 800 brave Souldiers sent from Prince Adolph out of Prussia, after the action) with full intent to encounter them; who were before the 19th of the same again totally routed and destroyed: upon which, those of the besieged Castle of Adzell despairing of succour, blowing the same up, fled away; the which caused great perplexity thereabouts, especially at Dorpt, which was faid to expect no other but the same destiny. Then also the Cossacks under Chmielnisky fell into Russia, making great havock there, taking all before them, withoutrefistance.

But the Danes in Bremen having belieged Bremerford, the befiegers approaching to the very Walls; and Stade being by them begirs, the King of Smeden made toward them, coming July 10, to Stetin in Pomerania; and next day the Prince Palatine of Saltzbach his Regiments of horle and foot being 5000 choyfe men, paffed over the River of Oder, to Stetin fide. Upon the third day, there being a folemn Fast, with prayers throughout all that Landy
On the 4th day many Standards and Colours, both horse and Dragoons marched thorow that City; the King's own Army of 10 or 12000 men, with a brave Train of Artillery, being to follow after within few dayes: Which march and Expedition was onely intended against the King of Dermark.

About the fame time, 12000, Polanders invaded that part of Hungary belonging to Ragotzi Prince of Transstania, burning down 36 Villages, giving quarter to none. Then also (there having, at length, been an agreement of the Imperial Court with Poland, upon fix Articles) the Army appointed by the King of Hungary and Bohemia marched for Silesia, and was advancing towards Cracovia. Three of the Articles being, That betwirk the two Crowns, there should be an everyal Friendship and Covenant, offensive and defensive. That the King of Hungary and Bohemia should keep on soot for Poland 16000 men, (10000 foot, and 6000 horse) and a sufficient Artillery: for which the Polish King was to provide necessaries, provided, that the King of Hungary take from the Revenues of the Folonian Salt-Mines 50000 Gilders; besides which, the King of Paland was to pay that present moneth I i i i 2

Anno 1653 of Christ, to 1658. of June, 300000 Duckats in ready money: that, in that Covenant, were comprehended the German and Spamil Houses of Auftria, Denmark, Musicovia, and the Tartars; as also, all such Electoral Princes of the Empire which were desirous to be received into it, chiefly Brandenburg, in case he left the Swedish party.

A little after, the King of Sweden marched from Stetin in Pomerania with 10000 men against the Danish forces. And the Polonian and Austrian forces being mustred, the former were 24000 frong, the latter 20000; a party whereof marching against Prince Ragotski's Army, who having layn at Pintzam, were now advancing to the Town Opatawa: Prince Ragotski then seeming inclinable to peace, sending an Ambassadur to the King of Poland, soliciting for it; and prosfering, That upon conditions, he would quit Peland. The King answering, He would send to the King of Hungary with all speed concerning it, to hear his good intention therein.

About the same time, Bremeruerden in Bremen (after the decease of the chief Commander) was surrendred to the Danes upon Articles. The Leaguer-Sconce, a considerable place, being subdued by them also: The Dane lying likewise before Borgh; and keeping Staden blockt up.

In the same moneth of July, 1657, Venice had bad news, to wit, That the Turks having taken the Fort Bosina in Dalmatia, put Soo Christians to the sword. And 6000 Turks coming nigh to Spalatro, turned immediately to the passage of S. Franchois, intending there to raise Forts: but Possidario fallying out, and fighting a while floutly, at last drave them quite away, with the losse of many great Commanders: who in their retreat went to Salona, lying between Spalatro and Clifsa, where they were recruited with 6000 foot, and 4000 horse. But the Turks under Usaim Bassa's Command, having prepared for War a good while, came on July 2d, in the night with storming Ladders, &cc. pressing on the City of Candia furiously to surprize it; but 500 of those in the City crying out, Turks, Turks, the chains were thereupon drawn, and the Souldiers and Citizens coming to a Body, fell on the Turks, and drave them out. Also issuing forth, they disordering the Turks, put many of them to the fword; who left behind them 29 Enfigns, and 5 Cornets, which they had put up on the wall; 1400 Turks were flain, and 2100 (with a great booty) taken.

There was also a fight toward the latter end of July, on the frontiers of Schoneland, between the Danilb forces and the Swedes, under the Command of Horn, Douglas, and Gustave Oxienstern, raifed to engage the Dane on the other side next to Swethland: wherein the Danes had the worst.

But in Bremen, the Danish Army had almost no sooner post sted themselves of divers places there, but they began to be disposses again by the Swedes: for the Swedish Armies coming on, made (in the very moneth of July) the Danish forces to withdraw from Staden: time being then to show whether they would quite for sake

it, or keep it onely blockt up: who fent then alfo a part of their forces over the Elbe, to go into Holfatta: and the Swedish Field-Marshal wrangle (who Commanded in Bremen Dukedome) with to 1658. his forces (onely affilted with one Regiment of Finlanders, whom he borrowed of the garrison of Staden) recovered the two Forts of Butzflit and Swings, putting most of the Danes therein to the fword: whereby he encouraged, with all speed and care purfued the other Danes in those parts, who were retreating in all haste to ship themselves out of the Dutchy of Bremen; and ov. r. taking them at the bank of the River Ofte, took most of them prifoners; but their Officers being gotten aboard, fet fayl towards Gluckflad, leaving some of the imaller Vessels (which should have transported the common fort) a prey to their enemy. But the Danes then held Bremerwerden, and also a Fort scated at the mouth of the wefer : but from the King of Smeden's coming thither, unto that time, the Danes had loft 2000 men. But at the King's entrance into Holftein, he pitched his Camp at three feveral places. and finding the Danes did not stand, but still retreated, he falling on the two Fores Krucker and Niestader, which protected those parts, prefently took them, killing and taking about 500, among whom was Col. Benefield, a Germane. In the mean while, about 2000 Danish horse lightly armed, and 800 Dragoons, who were quartered hard by, never came on, but retreated in hafte and diforder (before the Swedes coming) towards Gluckflad. While the King of Sweden advanced towards Itzshow, most of the Danes horse galloped into Jutland.

About the same time, the Emperour being deceased, there were differences in Germany about the Vicariat of Vice-gerency of the Empire: which having been transferred in the late Wars there, and since by the Pacification at Munster lettled on the House of Bavaria, that house pretended as if it were a Prerogative inseparably annexed and belonging to their Electorate: when as the Golden Bull, the stundamentall Sanction of the Empire plainly confirmed it to the House Palatine: which was invested and actually possessed in that dignity, before ever there were Electours constituted in the Empire: and which the Golden Bull of Charls the 5th did not bestow on the Electours Palatine, but onely farther ratified the same unto their House; solemnly declaring to the whole Empire and posterity, that it did belong unto them, by reason of their Hereditary possession of the Principality or

County Palatine of the Rhine,

Gestendors Fort being likewise soon after taken from the Danes in Bremen, that Dukedome was almost freed from them; so that in August, 1657, there was no place (except Bremtwerden) which sood out against the Swedes. Wherefore wrangle leaving behind him a convenient force to secure that Country, and earry on the reducement of Bremerwerden, he departed thence, to follow the Ring into Holstein, where the Swedes had taken three Sconces from the Danes, and so got into the Moorish Land of Holstein; which the Dines could not free from hostile Invasions. Also, the King of Denmark arriving at Julland, leavying forces for the reinforcement of his Camp; and his Rix-Marshall Bille marching thither to him with 2000 foot from Gluckstad, with other forces brought in from other parts, his Army was look'd on to be very confiderable; and which, the Danish Officers were then putting in a posture fit for battel : And they might expect it, because the King of Sweden with the rest of his Army, advanced after the Prince of Sulizbach, whom he had fent before towards Jutland with a strong

About or in the same moneth of August, the Venetians obtained another fignal Victory against the Turkish Fleet, at the mouth of the Dardanelles, and that in the fight of the great Turk himfelf, who was faid to have come down thither to fee the fight. But that which fowred that great Successe unto them, was the losse of their General Moccenigo, who being in profecution of the Victory, and afterwards endeavouring to return to the attaquing of the Isle of Scio, a tire of great guns being discharged from the Castles of the Dardanelles; one of them lighted into the Magazine of powder in his own Galley, and blew him (with many more Nobles) up into the Ayr.

On the 9th of September following, Rosenwing, Envoy from the King of Denmark, arrived at Amsterdam: whole businesse was to folicite the States for affiftance both by men and money: he relating alfo. That his King was affuredly with his Army refolving to bid the Swedes battel; but he intended not to engage, till the Poles should make their premised Invasion into Pomeranta to divert the Swedish forces.

About the beginning of July before, 1657, one Colonel Doyley Governour in Jamaica Island for the English, wrote into England, concerning the good condition the English were then in.

But there having been a difference rifen in Germany between the City of Munster and their Bishop: the Bishop besieged that City, (500 Souldiers of the forces levied by the Ecclefiasticall Electours, going to help their fellow Bishop in that siege; and the Duke of Bavaria had fent thither 4000 men) but (the Gitizens continuing couragious, and refolving to abide the utmost extremities, rather than to submit to such conditions as their Bishop would have imposed upon them) it proved a very difficult siege; for the befreged fallying forth norably, more than once, they flew a great number of the Pealants which came thither to do lervice. They also finding their Governour to be one holding correspondence with the enemy, brought him to Tryall, and put him to death; hanging and quartering four persons more upon the same account, who had undertaken to fet divers of the chief firects of the City on fire. At length by help of the States General of the United Provinces, (whose forces were advancing toward the relief and vindication of the befieged Citizens) the Bishop no sooner heard the news of the faid forces advance, but he presently began to give ear to the Citizens just demands, permitting unto them their ancient Priviledges, rights and immunities. Whereupon they immediately suffered him to enter into Munster very honourably: the Garrison being disposed under Gen. Remona's Command, he rook an Oath of fidelity to the City; (for by a fure agreement with the Bishop, the Garrison was wholly at the Citic's devotion). The Bishop loft 1500 men during the siege; the Citizens not above 30, and about 200 wounded. This was in Octob. 1657. After which, the States General's forces retired into their

Garrisons from whence they came.

But the King of Sweden pailing out of the Dukedome of Holftein, into Julland, (taking upon the way those that were willing into his protection, and dealing with others as he faw meet) there was great perplexity among the Danes, because of his so soon coming thither, and arriving at Alborgh, which is but 12 or 14 leagues on the other fide of the Sea from Gottenburgh in Sweden; this was in August; about which time, a Danish Major General having cast up a Sconce three leagues from the said Gottenburgh on an Island called Tiurholmen, fortifying the same with some Guns, and inferiour Officers and Souldiers: the Earl Douglas just then being coming thither, 400 of his Souldiers fo faluted them, that they prefently left the same, leaving behind them a great quantity of provision. Douglas advancing to Wennersborg, gathered his Troops together, intending to continue his Expedition in Norway; but he was stayed there-from by a Letter from Vice-Roy Brahe, (out of Schonen) then Generalissimo by Land and Sea, that he should transport himself into Prussia, to assist Duke Adolph, and command the Army left there.

The Danes (the while) reinforcing themselves in Schonen, Victuals there growing scant, the Vice-Roy with his 5000 men was constrained to retire to Helmstadt: the Danes passing safely thorow the Wood Hallanfoos into Laholm, gave out, that they were 8 or 9000 men: wherefore Douglas received another Order from Brahe, to take 1800 horse, and Col. Swynehead's foot, and to march thither; Steinbock also having a few dayes before come out of Prussia to encounter and endeavour to force them back into their own Country. But they having affaulted Laholm Castle in Halland, and being thrice repulsed with the losse of 500 men, retreated again into their Country Schoneland, because they heard Earl Douglas was to joyn with the Swedish Army there.

Czarneski with his flying Army going into Pomerania, the King of Sweden was thereby called away out of Jutland in haste; so that the Ambassadours of the States General of the United Provinces going (after a fumptuous entertainment by the Duke of Holftein in the Castle of Gottorf ) Sept. 13. towards Flensbourg, to meet with him,; he was gone ere they were aware: (the King of Denmark arriving about the same time, from Jutland, at Coppenbaguen, having left Fredericks-Ode and Fuenen in a good posture of defence) but the Swedish King left his affairs in Julland to be carried on by Wrangle; who commanding his forces there, kept Fredericks-Ode still blockt up by Land: our of which, the Danes having made feverall falleys; on Sept. 20th, they made two notable ones with two whole Regiments; but they being repulled by the Swedes, they purfued them till they came under the Canon of the place, killing many, and taking divers prisoners. But the King of Sweden having fent wrangle a Rectuit of Foot under Colonel Ferfens Command (with an Order to try if possible he might carry that Famous and firong Town & Forreste of Fredericks-Ode, fituated on the water towards the Sound) of 5000 men, thereby to overthrow the Danes defigne, as also to confider which way he might fuccessfully profecute their expedition into the Isle Fuenen, or give the Enemy a blow fomewhere elfe; He, on October 23, (having first caused divers experienced Corporalls, by night to crawle upon their hands and feet, observing with all diligence, all particulars needfull to be known about the faid place) calling a Council of War, and propounding the Kings intention, after many discourses of pre and con, they generally Resolved to make onset upon it (the Danes then not dreaming of such a thing) in 3 feveral places at once in the morning before break of day: which they doing, and all the Officers and Souldiers behaving themselves with fingular Courage, it was in a short time, by that one affault (although the Danes disputed one Bullwark after another with flour opposition, and making the greatest resistance on those who gave the Onser on the Gate, in their Posts toward it) reduced to the Swedish King's obedience, with the Garrison, 6 Lieut. Colonels, 8 Majors, 26 Captains, 27 Lieutenants, 26 Ensigns, 2 Engineers, 56 inferiour Officers, 13 Constables, &c. being killed and taken; above 2000 common Souldiers were alfo taken prisoners, besides those that escaped into the Bores; and 1100 of the inferiour Officers and common Souldiers flain; 33 Colours, with 6 Standards of Dragoons, being likewife taken. The Swedes had killed in the action, I Adjutant Gen. I Capt. of horse, I Corporal, 19 Troopers: and of the soot, I Lieut, Cel, 4 Capt. 1 Lieutenant, 2 inferiour Officers, 44 common Souldiers, with a great many wounded. Rix Marshall Bille the Dane carried himself so valiantly in that assault, that he had divers wounds in his head; but feeing all to be loft, he retreated with the Lord Hocke, a Danish Privy Councillour, into the little Sconce, whither also most of the Officers were gone, hoping to get over the water to Fuenen; but the contrary wind blowing hard, he was forced to yield himself up like the rest, at discretion.

The History of the World; or, Lib.10.

After this, the King of Sweden thinking it expedient and needfull to undertake a design suitable to the present Necessities, calling his chief Officers to Kiel to confer with them there; himself departing from wismer in Pomerania, Jan. 5.1657, arriving at Kiel on the 9th day: the refult of whole ferious deliberation with wrangle the Rix Admiral, and others, was, That a tryall should be made to get over into the Island of Fuenen one way or other,

whether the Frost held or not. Wherefore the frost holding, he fent the Admiral to Fredericks-Ode, to order those Regiments in of Christ Julland to draw together thither on the 26 day: After the fending fome to view the Ice beyond Fredericks Ode, and nigh Fuenen, and over against the Island of Brosoe, (where the Swedish set foot, for the better performance of their design) whose horses of the third party fent, (the Ice breaking) were drowned, they with much ado faving their lives: and after the King's ordering both Wings, and all things accordingly, after some disputes, (this dysafter alfo happening unto the Swedes, that the two Regiments of waldek and Koning mark fanck into the Ice; fo that Col. Boreman came tono action: and two Companies of waldek's Regiment were drowned, with some Troopers of Koning (mark and Boreman) the Danes were totally routed and put to flight, Col. Jens, a valiant and experienced Souldier, defiring quarter of the Rix-Admiral; those that were not put to the sword, being immediately taken prisoners: only some few retreating upon the Ice, (some of whom were drowned) (and of all the Danes forces not 200 escaping) were purfued at the heels by some commanded forces. Whereupon M. G. Berendts was commanded towards Langland and Swineburg to encounter 500 horse, who were to come from thence to affift Col. Jens; and Col. Asbenberg had order to go to Middlefort to beat up Col. Bilde with his 600 horfe, but he was retreated before to Odenfes. Jens confested, That the Dane's forces confisted in all of 3000 horse, besides 700 Germans, and 1500 Landforces, whereof all the Superiour Officers (except one Capt. Rumor, who was killed in the beginning) were taken prisoners: and among these chief and publique Officers, were five Senatours; as alfo L. G. Guldenlew, who all had fled to Odenfes: there were likewife taken in divers places, about 60 pieces of Ordnance, with a great quantity of ammunition, and a Magazine well furnished: and when the King of Sweden had fent the Rix Admiral to Newburg, to seize on four Danish Men of War there, (a great number of small Vessels and Boats being likewise seized on) he presently came unto Odensea. This Island was taken Jan. 30, 1657.

But in or about October before, the Venetians loft again the Isle of Tenedos to the Turks, though not without ruine to the Conquerour. The Venetian Fleet being gone from the faid Island to take in fresh water; the Turk's Fleet took opportunity to land there a great body of men, who prefently fetting upon the Fort of Tenedos by ftorm, were in the first attempt repulsed; but they prepaparing for a new Onfet, and being numerous, the Venetian Garrifon working a Mine under the Fort, disposed their powder therein with a match fitted to it, and then quitting the place, the Turks taking possession thereof, were (Fort and all) blown up into the Ayr. The Venetian Fleet returning, and perceiving what had happened, and the Turks Fleet being at hand, they prepared for an encounter; which being performed resolutely on both sides; (for the Grand Visier encouraged the Turks, he having come purpolely from Constantinople, to see that Island regained, whose posfession is of so great concernment to the Commerce of that City) in the conclusion, the Venetians got a new notable Victory, finking 16 of the Turk's Men of War, with sour that came from Tripolit to serve the Grand Seignior; taking also four of their Galleys.

About the same time, 1500 Danes made an Incursion into Bremerwerden, hoping thereby to have relieved Bremerwerden; but the Swedes resolutely playing their parts thereabouts, made good the siege, rendring all the Danes enterprise fruitlesse, both touching Bremerwerden, and other places in that Country. Eggerick the Governour of Bremerwerden keeping in very elose, after the attempt made upon the Behlemer Sconce; from whence they were repelled by the Swedish Garrison, with great losse.

But while the King of Sweden was thus struggling with the Dane, most inhumane cruckies and persecutions were acted by the Papists and their party in Poland, against the Protestants: The first City which they set upon being Lesna, whither many Protestants had come for shelter; there being three Congregations of them, to wit, the Polonian, Rolemian, and German. They intended to have put all to the swordtherein; but the Citizens having notice of their coming, less the City and all their wealth behind them, sleeing thorow Woods and boggs into Silesia. The enemy entring the City, sound none but aged and bed-rid person, whem they barbarously slew, and after plundring the City, burned it to assess in other places also they cruelly murdered divers Ministers, and people of all ages and sexes.

Before the taking of Fuenes, the Swedish King being in Pomerania, he was intent upon making new leavies to oppose the proceedings of the Poles under Czarneski, who had then removed the War our of Poland, to their doors; for 400 Poland Troopers fording the River Oder, and plundring Domes, not far from Stettin, set it on fire. Part of the forces in Holstein being also sent for by the King to oppose the Polanders.

The King of Poland having had a Treaty with the Electour of Brandenburg, it was brought to an issue; which was, That he could be no further prevailed with by the King, than to stand Neutral betwixt the Poles and Swedes.

About the moneth of December, an Ambassadour coming to Constantinople, from the King of Persia, with a gallant Train, he presently went to his audience; and at the making of his Proposition, he drew out his Shabel, saying, That in case the Grand Seignior would not restore the lesser Babylon, and make satisfaction for the Merchants goods which the Turks robb'd, and the captivated Persians, which (during the Treaty of peace) were carried away into slavery by his Subjects; then in his King's Name he declated War. There was no answer followed hereupon, but both the Ambassadour and the chiefest of his Train being cast into prison; his head was presently after severed from his body. So that the Turks being sure of War with the Perstans, there was to be but one Camp fet out with the Turk's great Ensign, against the Venetian Republique: The great Prince being to stay at home to supply recruites, and to have a watchfull eye upon the Museovites, who then spake in Thunder to the Turkish Monarchy by their warlique threatenings. Before which time, the son of the Grand Visiter being enraged at the death of his stather, sware, He would be revenged on the grand Signier himself, and all that counselled him to put his Father to death. Wherefore he rising up in rebellion, and making no small disturbance, some advited, that he might be endeavoured to be appeased by favourable promotions; but others liked not that, because of giving encouragement to others in the like case.

But the Jefuits who had been expelled from the City and Territories of Venice the space of 50 years, were re-admitted again by the Senate's authority, upon the Pope's solicitation; for which he thanked them by his Muntio.

The Poles having taken the City of Conitz from the Swedes, the King of Sweden about this time retook it again.

In the moneth of January, the English surprized 600 Spaniards in Jamaica Island, who had hid themselves among the Thickets and bushes, some whereof were slain, some taken prisoners; and some other Spaniards sleeing away in a small Vessell towards Cuba.

About February, wrangle was appointed Protectour of the Dukedome of Bremen.

And about the moneth of April, the King of Spain bent his mind above all other affairs, upon the attaquing of Portugal, which he intended to fet upon with an Army in four Bodies. And to this end, the Nobility were preparing to attend him. The grand Standard which used to be kept in the City of Soria, being brought forth for that Expedition: which was principally undertaken, upon a supposal (their King being deceased) of discontents and divisions in Portugal.

But Count Magnus de la Gardie (who governed the Province of Liefland for the King of Sweden) being desirous to revenge the invafion which the Muscovites had made the year before into that Country, cauled 3000 men to be drawn out of the Army there; and entring into the Muscovite's Country, laid near 100 Villages in afthes, put 2000 men to the fword, took Befur, a place betwirt Dorpt and Plotzko, which was the place of the Magazine for Arms and Ammunition, and fet fire on the Town, Whereupon the Muscovites being provoked, a body of them pursued the Swedish as they were returning with their booty, which being re-inforced by an addition of 2000 Germans, it came to an Encounter; but the Swedes being strengthened by some forces, sent them by the Governour of Revell, got the better, forcing the enemy to retire in diforder, leaving 600 men dead on the place, and 400 raken prisoners. horse to the Swedes. This fell out in April, 1657. About which time, the mouth of Mount Leta in Strille (now called Mangital) seamed up an unheard of, and most supendious quantity of fire, covering the Island with ashes.

But that which in Octob. 1657, made things run to an extremity in Portugal, was the excessive Demands of the States General of the United Provinces, by their Commissioners, from that Kingdom: who in their Treaty at Lisbone, (demanding possible of the Realm of Angola, and the Isle of S. Thomas; also free Commerce in and with Brasile; some millions of money, and 13000 Chests of Sugar, to be delivered in Ansterdam at the King of Portugal's charge) set an end to all hope of any good by treating: For those particulars being denyed them, a War was begun with Portugal, the Dutch Fleet i en lying thereabout to watch for their Brasile Fleet: whose Commissioners returned to make report unto their Superiours.

But Czarneski with 8000 Polifh horse entring in the same October into Pomerania, washed that part of it which belonged to the Swede; and advancing as sar as betwirt Stetin and Anklam, they dealt most barbarously with the Inhabitants: yea they came to Anklam it self, where they burnt the Horse-Mills, (also a second time before Stettin, consuming and burning down all to the ground thereabouts) and had not the overslowing of the River Pein hindred, they would have made a farther spoyl and progresse; whereupon they returned back again into the Marck; and the King of Sweden being then thereabouts, collecting his forces to oppose them; (his men being mightily encouraged by the unexpected news of the taking Fredericks Ode) they hearing the King was drawing an Army together, went back again over the Oder.

Czarneski afterwards returning into Poland.

About November, the Portugal Forces having rendezvouzed at Elvas, not onely passed the River of Guadiana; but coming before Moron, after four dayes stege, constrained the Governour to surrender it upon Capitulation: which news moved the King of Spain, in regard it was provided with all necessaries for a long stege, and might have held out, till relief had been brought by the Duke of San Germano, the Spanish General.

But at Conflantinople all means was used to intercede for the Coffacks, that they might be reconciled to the Crown of Poland; where likewife warlique preparations both for Sea and Land were then cagerly followed. Then were the Perfians also stirring against the Turks; whose Land-forces were to act against them; (if they could not either make a cessation of arms with them, or find out some other way for accommodation, which they desired) wherefore they then blockt up Lemnos, which being reduced, their Land-forces might be employed either against the Persians, or some other parts. But the Venetian Commander in Lemnos stoutly behaving himself, repulsed the Turks in 15 assaults; yet the Turks at last taking the said stand of Stalimene or Lemnos, sent thicher a Garrison of 10000 mean.

A little after which, the Austrian Court at Vienna resolved to proclaim the King of Sweden for an open enemy, and to publish open war against him.

Philip the 4th King of Spain being aged, and almost beyond expectation, having a young Prince, his Son and Heir, born unto him in November, 1657. Bonefires were caused to be made throughout all the Spains Dominions: all Officers being to perform that folemnity in the most magnificent manner.

But the Poles continuing their Leaguer before Riga, the Governour Helmsteld, Jan. 12. 1657, affaulted the besieger's well fortified Leaguer with about 6000 men on the other side of the Duna; and successfully sealing it, he took 20 Colours, with all the Artillery and baggage, and 200 prisoners; among whom were many Polish Lords, and persons of note; Col. wigand their Commander was slain, with divers other Colonels, and 1800 common Souldiers also killed on the place. The Conquerours sincing such store of provisions and victuals there, that the Inhabitatis of the City were two dayes in carrying of it away; so that the Pole's Leaguer was wholly ruined, and those of Riga set stree again.

In or about February after, the Austrians and Poles going up further into the Country of Prussis, committed great outrages and infolencies in the Bishoprick of Ermland. They seized on Newark by treachery of a Popish Burgomaster; and afterwards the Castle Brazian. But those of Thoren having a design, fallyed out upon the Piles, killing many, and taking a number of prisoners, with 4 field-pieces, and much Ammunition.

A little before which time, all the people of Naples being difcontented, as not liking the Spanish Government, 8000 Bandits were on foot in that Kingdom, their Leaders being of great Families: fo that, the Tower of Annunciado was faid to be taken, and three garrisons put to the sword. But the Vice-Roy took two Bishops which were among the Bandits, as also a man disguised in womans cloaths, who privately carrying a Poniard to flab the faid Vice-Roy, intended thereupon to have raifed a Tumult. And thele Bandits continuing their rebellion, one Capr. Martelli about Ian, meeting with a party of them, purfued and took 20 of them, cutting off their heads; the rest taking Sanctuary in a house at Pazano, long defended themselves: but at length they being constrained to yield, were sent prisoners to Raia Castile. After which, the Vice-Roy sent a Body of forces toward Salerne and La Poville, to endeavour the hindering of the faid Bandits from encreasing their Troops that way; for they were grown very infolent and audacious, being encouraged by hopes of fuccour the next Spring out of France.

But the Swedes having taken not onely Fuenen, but Langland, Laland, Phalster, and Zealand, from the Danes; infomuch, that their forces were every where descated and reduced under the Swedish power; the two Kings came unto a Treaty of Peace; in Anno 1653 of Christ. to 1658.

which, English Agents (the Danish King having accepted of the Protectour's mediation) and French, with some Plenipotentiaries of the Danish Rix-Senatours, (all others being excluded) were to mediate. But the Danish King being reduced to a desperate condition, the agreement was made by the mediation of an English Envoy, whom the faid King prevailed with to interpole: the King of Sweden giving but 24 hours parley; and it was done, upon very advantagious conditions on the Swedish King's fide; as also fomewhat for his Father in law, the Duke of Holftein. This Peace was concluded betwixt them, on Febr. 27. 1657.

On Febr. 20th, there began a Polish Convocation in Warfovia, where many Senators appeared. A main Proposition there made, being concerning a Treaty of Peace with Smeden; which if it could not be obtained, then means was to be resolved on for purfuance of the War, and to make a League with the United Netherland Provinces; and an agreement with the Coffacks, for a ceffation of Arms. The Senators then took an Oath, not to reyeal any of their Consultations. The Gentry likewise complained much against the quartering of the Austrian forces, and the maintaining of their own Souldiers: for whom moneys were to be raifed. There was also another Proposition concerning the toleration of the Protestant Religion; which the Gentry admitted, (though the Clergy accepted not of it) declaring, That the Augustine and Reformed Religion should be tolerated, but not the Socinian. They also resolved against the Clergies Protestation, which would have no peace with Sweden, accepting of the French mediation therein. Then also the Commander of the Austrian forces desiring an Oath of fidelity to be made to him in the King of Hungary's name, in the City of Cracon, the States of Poland were much offended.

There was likewise about this time, a meeting of the Clergy in Flanders, to raise money for the King of Spain: The Bishop exhorting them, faid, There was great necessity, that a sum should be yearly raised to prosecute the War against the English and French; alledging, that the Enemies aymed chiefly at the Clergie's revenues; they being then upon the hazard of lofing all: all which might be prevented. Their Assembly brake up divers times; at whose first meeting, many of them declared, they being poor, had nothing to give; which being known to the contrary, they afterward contributed, and subscribed large

But something not altogether inconsiderable, comes to be related out of the East-Indies, the state of the great Mogol; who there deceafing, in 1657, the Indians loft such a pretious treasure in him that was so wise and fortunate, that they despaired of ever feeing a Successour to his Virtues; yet he lived to the age of 73 years: who leaving behind him four fons, (and being by every one a grandfather) they were all somewhat equally ballanced in power, (by a division of that vaste Empire, into a kind of Terrar-

chy) being onely fubordinate to their father while he lived: Neither could the right of primogeniture extend the eldest his Dominions any farther, than by the fword, which was then like to be to 1658. the Arbitrator: fo that whatever was done by the three Elder brothers, the distance of the place, and disficulty of passage had then denyed intelligence to those of Surrat: but Morat Bux, the younger, having crowned himself king of Guzarat, his Seat being at Abmadwad, (a great City 100 miles from Surrat) fent in October, or about the beginning of Novemb. 1657, an Army under an Eunuch's command to reduce Surrat Castle, it being of very considerable strength, and commanding the best Port of his Dominions, besides a treasure of above 200000 l. sterling therein; but the Governour refusing to deliver it to any but Dorroskokore the Eldeft, who was King of Delly, the Eunuch close befieging the same, and working three Mines under the brink of the Moat, he sprang one of them, Decemb. 20, blowing up 60 yards of the outward wall; which although it would have little advantaged him, (had the Souldiers continued resolute) yet the frights of danger, and promised indempnity, made them constrain the said Governour to furrender it, Decemb. the 4th after, (though on honourable terms, and after much losse to the besiegers) That division having almost put an end to the Trade of Surrat.

About the latter end of 1657, the Muscovites remaining about Jemma, which they had besieged from the middle of Febr. before, with between 5 and 6000 men; M. G. Horn, Governour of Ingermanland, approaching with but 800 men, and four pieces of Cannon, took from them the Fort of Kakelwerck, putting 100 Mufcovites to the fword therein: whereupon, the main body drawing off from before Jemma, he had opportunity to put Ammunition, Victuals, and freih men into that Town, without any opposition

The Coffacks and Tartars about the same time made an agreement. Peace also between the Houses of Ottoman and Austria was confirmed: and it was hoped the Cofsacks and Poland would agree alfo. And likewise that a Peace would be made between Poland and Sweden: For the Treaty in order to a composure went on in April, 1658, betwixt their Commissioners; the successe of a fair conclusion being very probable: which thing not a little alarmed the great Duke of Muscovy, who was very active to prosecute his design, fearing those two Kings reconciliation might prove prejudiciall to him; who fent an Expresse to the Polish King, to demand an execution of the Treaty heretofere made at Vilna betwixt them, particularly that point respecting the Muscovite's eldest son's succession to the Crown of Poland: whereby the Polish king apprehending, that the Muscovite did but seek a pretext for War, he therefore ordered one part of his forces to observe the motion of the Muscovites.

But Czarneski, (who was then made Cracovian Palatine in the toom of Miskowsky deceased) was to have his Rendezvouz Apr. 20, Anno 1673 of Christ, to 1678: at Meyeritz it great Poland with 10000 men, with whom the Austrian forces joyning, they were to march joyntly into Pomerania, if Sweden and Poland did not agree.

Two or three moneths before this, the Turks were more enraged against Christians in the City of Jerusalem, than formerly, demanding of them and their Merchants double Custome; threatning to turn them out, and lead them Caprive, if they would not pay, and not suffering any Christians to come thister; which perplexed the poor Christians there very much; the Guardian having desired 20 moneths time to fend the religious people into Christendom to gather Alms.

But in the same moneth of April, 1658, 800 foot Souldiers out of Polonish Regiments passing over the River Weyssel about Dir-(ban, with intent to take post in a Sconce not far from the Village Lissam, and so to invade the great Werder: Prince Adolph summoning all the horse and foot to be had in Elbing and Hooft, would forthwith have encountred them: But the Bridg being somewhat damnified by the high water, he was hindered; fo that the enemy had time to fortifie themselves with some Palisadoes: but as foon as the Swedish got over, they advanced before the said Sconce of Lifsam, which the Polish (though they made strong opposition, after L. Col. Plan the Governour was killed, his forces that entred therein 126 files, being diminished to 65, and all provision cut off from the other fide) within few dayes were forced to furrender it, Apr. 21, upon discretion, with all the Men, Canons, and Ammunition that was left. Saphia was coming to relieve the same, but hearing it was yielded, he retreated back again.

May 4th after, 1658, the French, with some English affisting them, had a defeat in attempting to surprize Ostend in Flanders, by a Plot laid with two Burgomasters, and some others within the Town, one Spindeler, a Colonel, banished formerly out of Flanders, being to be a chief actor in the businesse, who was indeed their betrayer. The time being come, and all signs of a surrender given, the Governour being pretended to be slain, &c. between 9 and 10 in the morning, the new Tide serving, Marshal D'Aumont going in, in Vessels, with between 6 and 700 men, the small shot and great guns also now fixing apace, they were constrained to yield themselves prisoners: some, endeavouring to run associated to the Contribution side, being killed by the horse there on purpose placed. Of the English that went to ayd the Marshal in his landing, were taken prisoners 110 men; of the Sea-men that went afhoar there being but four wanting.

A little before the same time, the King of Sweden summoning an Assembly of all the Provinciall Governours of Sweden, with most of the Bishops, and a Deputy from each City to Gottenburgh; Rosenham (they being met) Commander of Stockholm, opened the Assembly

Affembly with an elegant Oration, being followed therein by the other Deputies, congratulating the King touching the prosperous of China fuce fe of his Arms: and before May 17, we find him gone from to 1678. Gottenburgh, having obtained of the Estates of his Realmall that he demanded of them: particularly, a Levie of 14000 men for securing of Pomerania. In the mean time, M. G. Jephson the English Envoy, arrived at Berlin, where was the Electour of Brandenburg his Court, as also an Ambassadour from the Lantgrave of Heffen: The first intimating thus much, That he who should be an enemy to the King of Sweden, should also be so to the Lord Protector. The other's Commission seeming to tend to the same effect; which was, To endeavour a hinderance of Jealousie and difference (crept in between the faid King and Electour) from breaking outs and that a good understanding and constant friendship might be on both sides preserved. For then in the faid Electour's Dominions, divers Magazines were to be ereced, a great quantity of provision being to be brought together to that effect : he also leavied great forces, his design being not at first known; but in July after, it was apparent, That between the King of Sweden and the Electour, was nothing intended but open hostility: this last, publishing a Manifesto of the grounds of his proceedings, in keeping his Army together, and levying more forces, &c. who having defired the Swedish King both by Writing and Ambassages, That the pretended Quarrell betwirt the King of Poland and Sweden might be by fair means laid afide; proffering on his part all poffible means conducing thereunto : Alfo he earnestly endeavouring to procure just fatisfaction from the Polich King, who thereupon shewed himself inclinable and desirous of peace, (the Ambassadours of the Electoral Colledg at Frankford being, at the time of his Manifesters publishing, with the Swedish King, about laying afide of Controversies, and observing the Instrument of Peace, and other wayes by him used: Yet his Ambassadours were coorsly used, contrary to the Laws and Customs of Nations, not being admitted to audience, though they had his Letters of Credence but rather were bid to be gone, to his great difgrace; adding thereto great threatenings; for execution whereof, an Army then stood on his Frontiers; and that, unlesse God turn'd it away, he must look either for a sudden surprize, or a most destructive hoftile march through the Empire and his Territories. The faid Duke of Brandenburg therein also charging strictly all his Subjects to quit their warlique service out of the Empire, and to return either to their own homes, or come to him or his Army without delay, upon forfeiture of all that ever they had, whether moveables or unmoveables.

But before this time it was perceived by prudent men, that the Austrians used all manner of promises and shifts to the King of Poland, to continue the division between Sweden and Poland, doing what they could to obstruct the mediation of Prance for an accommodation; whereupon most of the Polish Estates, chiefly the Prasfian, appeared foill fatisfied, that most of them were on the point to endeavour the summoning a Diett to Dantzick, to consider of wayes and means most advantageous for their affairs; and the rather, because Brandenburg had then sent new assurances to the Swedes, that he would do nothing to their prejudice. But we fee afterwards there was a manifest breach.

> As concerning evacuation and restitution of places between the Dane and Swede, the King of Drimark was to repossesse Fredericks-Ode, when the Castle of Bremerwerden should be restored to the King of Sweden; and about the beginning of May this prefent year, 1658, all Regiments of Sweden were transported out of Zealand; but these in Fuenen were not to be removed till the Treaty of the Danish King with the Duke of Holstein, (wherein there were some tergiversations used on the Danish side) was brought to a final upthor.

But on July 18, 1658, Leopoldus King of Hungary and Bohemia (the former Emperour deceasing April 2, 1657,) was chosen Emperour of Germany by the seven Electours at the Imperial City of Franckford.

And Septemb. 3d following, (the very day on which the two memorable Victories of Dunbar in Scotland, and worcester in England against the Scottish King were by him obtained) Oliver Cromwell, Lord Protector of the three Nations, after about 14 dayes sicknesse, like an Ague in the beginning, about the hour of three in the afternoon, departed from the living, having born that Supream Office almost five years. And the next day, Sept. 4. Richard, the eldest Son of the said Oliver, was by the Privy Council's Command proclaimed Lord Protector of England, Scotland, and Ireland, in his Father's stead. Which on the same day was performed, first near the Council-Window in white-Hall; then in the Palace-Yard at westminster; and after that in the City of Lon-

But about the middle of July, the Swedish forces invading Electoral Profile, and plundring some Villages, they killed the Duke of Brandendurg his fafe-guards which they there found, but one Col. Shoneck lying in wait for them, met at last with a Swedish party of 200, near Rosenberg, bringing some of them prisoners to Kingsberg.

Then also the Treaty between Sweden and the Muscovite successfully going on, the Governour of Riga wrote to the Swedish king, That he noped there would be no occasion to fend force against him. But the Cham of Toxtary fent to the king of Poland, and congratulating him, proffered him affiftance against all his enc-

This prefent year also, 1658, came intelligence into England, of the great successe which the English forces had in Jamaica Island against the Spaniards landing there; as also, that the Spaniards Plate-Galleons which were bound from Carthagena for Spain, were cak away by a Hirrecane; the Bermudans bringing into Jamaioa Cap.6. An Account of Time.

20000 pieces of eight which they had taken in the Rack, But Prince Ragotsky being returned out of Poland into Transilvamia, the Great Turk (having before commanded him in 1657, up. to 1658, on great penalty, not to proceed in his march against Poland) fent to him, to refign his Principality of Transylvania to his Cousen Reada; he at that present yielded thereto; (although to resign up any of his Forts into the Turks hands, he utterly denyed) and reassuming his Principality again, without the said Turk's consent, he being enraged against him, would try his utmost to devest him; and dispossessalso the Princes of Moldavia and Wallachia: wherefore, he ordering great forces against him, about the latter end of April, 1658, the Turks totally defeated the Prince of wallachia, who was marching to Prince Ragotzi's ayd, (who had also sent to Vienna, to demand the promised and by the King of Hungary against those Turks) 8000 being slain upon the place, and a great number of prisoners taken; among whom, were divers Boyars, the principal Officers of that Prince: who thereupon fleeing into Transilvania, the Turks forced another to accept his Principality. And the Grand Signior being still bent to dethrone the said Ragotzi, fent about July rigorous Orders to the Moldavian and wallachian Princes, That they should endeavour to invade him. But to the Bashaw of Buda, he sent more severe order for the same effect, with a threatning; That if he did not his duty; he should be flead alive, and his skin placed on one of Buda's Towers: Wherefore the Bathaw advancing about the beginning of July, Prince Ragetski challenged him to a fight: who thereupon breaking up from Lippa, and marching towards Arad Castle, the Tran-Sylvanians fired the Suburbs near that Cafile. The Turk's Officers who led the Avant, seeing the smoke and fire, hastened directly to the Castle, whom the Hungarians following, put them to flight, taking and putting many to the fword; Mustapha Beg being taken prisoner. Wherefore the Transylvanians encouraged, drew near the Turks main Army; the Turks thereupon discharged 3 great Guns as a warning, that their men should retire within the Waggons placed fo as to ferve for a fafeguard: but the Tranfylvanians fo roundly plyed them with their great Guns, that they being brought into confusion, fled into a Valley: whom the Transylvanians pursuing, drave them into the River Mor, where they were drowned: and the whole Turkish Army became a prey; this was on July 4th, 1658. The chief prisoners being besides Mustapha, wounded, the Bassa of Agria, the Col. Aga of the Janizaries, Col. Grenely Aga at Buds, and the Beg of Lipps: Alai Beg of Waitzen being trodden to death by the horse; the Bashaw was likewise so put to it in the flight, that he was forced to run into the water: whom notwithstanding, a Hussar pursued, catching him by the garment to take him; but he was rescued, and the Hussar slain. The Prince's men pursuing them above 30 leagues to one of their chief Cities, they returned with rich beories. The news of this rour caused such an alteration at Constantinople, that Lilla (violating (violating the Law of Nations, and growing in a rage against the Christians) they imprisoned the Imperialland French Ambassadours, charging the French of being complice with his Son in his Letter in Cyphers, which they intercepted: and the other, That his Master had suffered some German Companies to serve under Ragotski, although the Emperour's Deputies had demonstrated, it was without his consent; and that the Turk for his money might have as many of them as he would).

In August following, the Austrians forces being apprehended to be on their march towards the Frontiers of the Turks, to oppose their power, it was wished, they might deal better with the Protestants in those parts, than the forces under the Count of Dhona had done, who used them no otherwise, than the Turks were used when over-powred.

But the Portugal having this Summer taken the field against the Spaniard, about Elvas, they befreged and took the Fort of St. Christopher, before, Badaiox, and passing the River Guadiana, their General lune 22, affaulted another very firong Fort which the Spaniards had builded: and ordering the General of horse to get between the Fort and City to demolish the Spaniards lines, he put to the fword two. Troops of horse, and two Companies of foot, whom they had left behind, except two taken. There was 400 well armed in the Fort with an Irish Commander, who couragiously behaving themselves, and the enemy coming (the mean time) out of the Town to hinder their defign, 300 appeinted against the Portugals right VVing, were every man killed on the place ; and the like happening to them that were commanded for the left: thus after three hours they were totally defeated and driven back, leaving 1200 on the place. Whereupon the Fort was furrenared at the Portugals mercy; the Irish being permitted onely to come forth with (words; but all the Spaniards without arms. The Portugals loffe being of no confequence; onely fome Commanders wounded, among whom was the Duke of Cadaval. After this, the Spaniard for fook another great Fort made on the River, leaving all in it behind them; which these taking, ftrongly garrifoned them both; and advancing to Badaiox, they wholly belieged it.

The King of Smeden in or about the same August, embarquing 4000 horse, and 6000 foot, was found in that design to return again upon Denmark: The reason whereof was variously centured, some being induced to believe, That some under hand provocation had been given to that magnanimous King by some in Denmark; for he landing at Corfoer a Port of Zealand, marched directly towards Coppenbagen; and meeting (by the way) some Danish horse, they were content to serve under him: who was generally believed to take that opportunity to do himself right, and ensure all believed him; that he might safely return into Prussia and Pomerania against the Poles and other his enemies. But since this his invasion of Denmark, many stately Houses and Farms were seen on fire as well sowards Coppenhagen, as the Sound. The King of Sweden being at Ringstead, the Danish King sent two Privy Coun- Anno 1653 fellours from Coppenhagen, about or on Aug. 10th, to demand the of Chrift, to 1678. reason of that sudden alteration, who being admitted to his prefence, he with such grounded reasons demonstrated unto them the cause of that his action, that they could not answer a word against it, but returned back with tears in their eyes. On the 11th day, the King advancing about half a league from Coppenhagen, from the hill on the left hand, they perceived the Danith refolved to fland upon their defence, having fet all the Suburbs on fire. The King approaching the City, Aug. 13, faluted the fame with two pieces of Cannon; which being answered out of the Town with three, they fired without intermission, to hinder their begun approaches; who had taken the Hospital on one side; salleys being made without any great damage to either. Cronenburgh Castile being likewise beleagured with three Regiments under Admiral Count Wrangle. The Danes also designing to fire Helfener, some Swedish horse being sent to defend it, hindered the same. And Sept. 7. 1658, Cronenburgh Caltle was furrendred to the Swedish King, with a gallant Artillery, and good flore of Ammunition: the King presently going to prosecute the siege against Coppenhagen with greater vigour, resolving not to ftir till it were brought to an issue : And as a help therein, a Dutch Fleet being designed to succour the Dane, was no sooner out at Sea, but it being furprized by a ftorm, which spoyled most of their Sailes and Tackie; it gave some impediment to their Voyage, till they could repair.

But the great Prince of Turkey proffering to the Cham of Tartary, Transluania, if he could win it, he resolved to that end to joyn his forces with the Turks; but wyhofsky General of the Coflacks, requesting him to and him against the Cossacks siding with the Muscovites; he ordered Kaaraih Beg his Kiniman to march to Ukrain with 20000 Tartats; with whom Wyhofsky joyning with 20000 Coffacks, they should go against those in the Muscovite's fervice. But being come over Boristhenes, the Cossecks under the Muscovites sent them Commissioners, perswading them that through great scannesse of provision and forrage, they were forced to separate from the Tartars, and to encamp themselves aparti they Jissemblingly treating with the Tartars; these two parties of Cossacks uniting, fell on the Tartars Camp, slaving 15000 of them, among whom Kaarath Beg was one. And then invading Nahazish Tartary, they made all havock they could, and were like fo to proceed. Thus the Coffacks (against the Polanders and wihofsky's will) became open enemies to the Tartars; which is not cafie to be reconciled with Poland and its confederates. Neither could the Tartars be taken for trusty friends to Poland, because they strove, or are still striving, to make peace with the Muscovites, whole Dake is an Arch-enemy to the Tartars.

for a body of Spaniards (betwixe 4 and 5000 mem) under the Prince of Ligne marching to joyn with their other forces, thought to have visited Tpre by the way, and to put succour therein; but they being engaged by the French, were wholly routed, the Prince of Ligne having his arm flor off, 1200 being taken prisoners, the rest slain and put to light. Oudenard and Meenen was likewife about this time taken from the Spaniard, and Armentiers likewife closely begirt. But on the 26 day of the faid Septemb the Town of Tpre was delivered into the possession of Marshal Turein: the · Spaniards marching forth in the morning, about 7 or 800 men, with their Arms, Baggage, and two pieces of Cannon, with three Princes, besides the Governour. That City being one of the greatest and fairest of Flanders, was quickly carried, by the valiant and resolute Onsets which the English forces made upon their Contericarps, and other Out-works; shewing the like Courage there, as they had done before at feveral other Towns.

The Brandenburgish, Austrian, and Polonian forces toward the latter end of this last September, were drawing near the Swedish forces in Holftein; having then already encountred with some Swedish parties: the Duke of Holftein going to Tonningen, where the Swedes were drawing into a body. Of the Enemies, Spork led the Avant confifting of 3000 Austrian horse; the Brandenburgish forces being 10000 horse, and 200 Dragoons; Czarneski being with the Pelish foot, and 6000 horse commanded by the two Fieldmarshalls, who marched with the Artillery, marching very flowly by reason of the bad wayes: this Army was thus marching in the beginning of this present moneth Octob. 1658: the Elector of Brandenburg having published a Manifesto, afturing the Nobility of Holftein, That his Souldiers should not be troubled in their houses, nor be damnified by them, desiring onely their Contribution, whereby the Souldiers might have some accommoda-

Moreover, on the 4th of this present October, came an Account from Col. Doyley Governour of Jamaica, of the prosperous successe of the English against the Spaniards there, who being 30 Foot-Companies landed at Rio Nova, a place in the North of that Island: and being 12 dayes there before they were discovered, the faid Governour fetting fayl with 750 Officers and Souldiers, after a valorous landing, June 22, he summoned the Fort; but the Governour Don Arnoldo & Safi sending a confident denyall, the English, next morning, marching toward the Fort, and climbing up an high Hill, advanced in fight of the faid Rio Nova Fort : where finding the Work on the Land fide not finished to that heighth, as to the Sea-ward, they receiving their shot, ran up the Flankers with their forlorn, having hand-Granadoes, and gained it in a quarter of an hour; many of the Spaniards running out of the Works, the English followed the chase about 3 or 4 miles, doing execution: the Sea-men also seeing them run along the rocks, coming out with their boats, killed many: fo that above 200 persons were slain, divers Captains, two Priests, and their Anno 1653 Serieant Major: about 100 ordinary prisoners being taken, and of Choft 6 Captains, whom they fent home, the King of Spain's Standard, to 1658. and 10 Colours: the rest, especially the strangers in the Woods, being liable to perish. In that Fort was taken 10 barrels of powder, great store of shor, 6 pieces of Ordnance, and great store of provisions.

In the same moneth October, the King of Sweden still lying before Coppenhagen, and going in a Galliot to find out the passages to the Island of Amak, (joyned to that City by a bridge) it being fomewhat groundy near the shoar, he embarqued himself with the Rix-Admiral in a small Shallop of the Gallior, which through the highnesse of the wind, and force of the stream, over-ran and overwhelmed the Shallop; the Master being drowned, the King and the rest narrowly escaping. And the King resolving to attaque the said Island, a Danish Captain pretending a zeal to him, he entrusted him for his guide to the best passages leading to the Town; but (as foon as he arrived there) the Captain ran away, giving notice to the Danish King, that the King of Sweden being in Amak with a small number, might be easily taken: Wherefore they fallying out, had not the Rix-Admiral observed the Danish Troopers coming on the bridg, he had narrowly escaped: whereas now, retiring a little, he kill'd, took, and dispersed 1500 Danes: And the Island not being of strength for advantage, he carried away on ship-board, and destroyed, all the Cattle and Viauals which he found, that Copenhagen might have no supplies from thence.

Also Fieldmarshall Douglas retreating to the borders of Curland, expecting a supply from that Duke, (who before had supplyed the Muscovites and Lithuanians) according to an agreement, A party of Lithuanians routed almost 600 of his Rear-guard: wherefore the Duke, now (feeming a neuter) brake down all bridges to his Town of Mittam, fummoning his Subjects against the Swedes: whereupon, Douglas (left the Lithuanians and Curlanders should joyn) fent 600 Souldiers by night, down the river in 24 fmall Veffels, which he took, instructing the chief Captain (speaking the Lithuanian tongue) how to proceed; who telling the first Sentinel, that they were Lithuanians much wounded, (coming in the night, (fearing the Swedes) for cure, passing by him, slew him; the second Sentinel running away, without giving notice; but the third crying out, the Captain had leifure to enter, and discharge two great Guns as a fignal to Douglas: who getting also in with little refistance, rook the Duke and Dutchesse, (the Elector of Brandenburgh his fifter) with the other Courtiers, prisoners. The cause hereof was, for that there were Letters of the Duke of Curland's, fent (contrary to his Neutrality) both to the Polifb King, the Lithuanian General, the Muscovian Governour of Kaken-housen, and also to the Duke of Brandenburg, inviting them against the King of Sweden in Liefland, and ellewhere.

Anno 165 of Chrift, to 1658.

The Dutch Fleet having a defign to bring relief into Coppenhagen; Octob. 29 coming almost within Cannon shot of Helsinge-Castle, fearing its reach, held the Coast of Schonen, and being come up together with a favourable wind, went by the Castle, being saluted from thence with two Cannons, and the Swedish Fleet gaining up to them, after eight in the morning the Fight began, and continued three hours. Admiral wrangell for some time defending himself against six Dutch ships, at length (with a little damage) bearing towards the shoar: the other Swedish ships (the while) endeavouring to the utmost. The Dutch, to avoid the brunt (from the beginning) giving the Swedes way, and gave place when they strove to board them. The Dutch lest nine ships in all, the Swedes but two. De witt, the Dutch Admiral, his Ship being taken and spoyled, with himself, who afterwards dyed of a wound in his thigh; 210 prisoners taken, 100 slain, and 60 maimed in the same ship. No Swedish persons of quality were then known to be mortally wounded. Yet whileft the fight lasted, the Dutch Merchant-men passing therow the Zound, put the designed Relief into Coppenhagen; but the King of Sweden, who with his Queen were Spectators (from Cronenburgh Castle) of the Fight, it being ended, presently hasted to see to his Leaguer before Coppenhagen.

About the same time the Poles who had besieged Thoren in Prassia, after a near approach, and some thousands lost before it, (their King and Queen residing also in the Leaguer) deserted the ficge.

But in Flanders the French General, Marshal Turein, transporting his Army over the Scheld, took (in his march) and plundred the two Towns of Geerdberge and Grammont; and afterwards be took the small Town of Ales, between Brussels and Gaunt, it being but meanly fortissed; yet very remarkable for the abundance of Hops growing about it.

I shall now insert 2. or 3. remarkable things, and so draw to 2 conclusion of this our Appendice. The one, being a strange Apparition in Cornwall in the West of England, about the moneth of August, 1657; it was of Hurlers, as they are there called; and were feen by many in a field of standing Corn, about Boffe-Castle; they being innumerable, and in white apparrel; and at last they hurled themselves into the Sea. Some of the Spectators going afterwards into the field, found the Corn no whit damnified; contrary to their expectation. Another was, of a very firange Monfter-Child or Children, (for it feemed to be two) born (though living but few dayes) of a Souldier's Wife at weerted on the Elder-Sconce near Ardemburg: it was so strange, both for outward and inward parts, as scarce bath been heard of the like; for besides the two heads and two necks, and four arms, the eyes of the female flood where the mouth flould be; and above the eyes, flood in the middle, a masculine member or Genital of an ordinary bignesse, hanging down to the right eye, &c. And for the male, there were (when dissected) found therein, two Heatts, two Lungs, one great Liver, and one Gall; two Stothachs, the biggest whereof had joyned unto it a Mile and two Kidneys, the right being bigger than the lest; the semale having onely the genitall parts: which had two firm teeth in its mouth under the chin, like a sundament; but the male-body had a very little hole instead of a mouth, but without a chin; the skin of which Monstrous body, both behind as well as before, being found to be interlarded with Anine 1673, of Chirle, to 1673.

But in the Gulph of Venice, in a Ship fayling to Venice, wherein were Turkilb and Armenian paffengers; the envy of the Gaptain and the reft increasing against two Englishmen, Pebr. 28 and 29, because they complyed not with them in their words and example, so that they were denyed the Cook-Room to dresse their provision, and threatned to be fer ashoar on some Island; and one of them by the Captain threatned, when they cause to Venice, to be burnt; the next day early in the morning, March 1. 1857, sire was rained down into the ship; which not onely split part of the top-Maß, burning holes in the sayls; but slew three on the Deck (besides divers wounded): then it went down twice under Deck like the noise of a Cannon, the Scuttles being shut, and (as if the ship was fired) slew one Turk, and an Armenian; wounding others: Great was the peoples cry; it being observable, That of five Nations, one of a fort was cut off.

In France divers Protestants of eminency returning from Charenton to Paris, the Boat-breaking in two, were drowned; most of 60 being loft, of whom was the Chancellour's fon of Poland, and both the fons of the Marquels de Clerambant, in 1653. There dyed also in France, the Archbishop of Paris, about the end of 1653, being 70 years of age. The King of the Romans, son to the German Emperour, in 1654, June 29, about midnight. Also the Grand Cham of Tartary the same year. The Duke of Jojeuse, dyed at Paris of his wounds received before Arras, in or about Sept. 1654, to the King of France his great forrow. Also the Duke of Monthazon, who lived in four King's Reigns, being an old Souldier, and aged $7 years of age, dyed in or about October following. # Geographicall Description

VVORLD

He ancient Geographers; and Poets, Orators, and Hillorians (who learned the parts of the World's fituation from them) have described onely those Lands which they knew, and which they judged habitable. We professe, that many places were to them unknown: and those which they besieved were forsaken either through heat or cold, we know are inhabited in many places. There are six general Parts of the World: the Artique or North; Antartique or South; Europe, Africa, Asia, called the old parts, because they were known to the Antizets, and America, (comprehending under it Magellanica) called the New World, because newly discovered within this two hundred years.

To the Ardique belong, 1. The Countrey under the North Pole, unknown. 2. Greenland, which lying at 80 degrees of Latitude, bears graffle and green hetbs, from whence also it took its name. 3. Newland. 4. Iceland, which is now subject to the King of Denmark. 5. Nava Zemla, (which though it be four degrees more Southerly than Greenland; yet it is altogether naked, and without passure, an Island stinking with sless-devouring beasts) with the Hyperborean Sea, and two Narrow Seas. Wayaz and Davis, whereof the one is more Easterly, the other bending more to the West.

To the Antar Eigue are to be referred those vast Countries, which lying under the South Pole, are longly and largely extended through the cold, temperate, and torrid Zone'; where not onely A a a a a Peter

Peter Ferdinand & Spaniard preached; but also are commendable for the constitution of the Ayre and foyl, and largenesse of the Countries; equalizing Europe and Africa taken both together.

But the disposure and order of the other four parts is on this wife; Alia is to the East, to which Africa is joyned from the South, and partly also to the West. Europe is joyned to Asia from the West and North. America, a little farther toward the West; and lastly, Magellanica, directly toward the South. In all parts of the World are to be confidered, first, their bounds towards the climates, and fo a diffinction from other neighbouring parts; after that, their chief accidents: And lastly, their natural portions, to wir, the cnief Mountains, Seas and Riverse

UROPE (which is thought to have taken its name from Euro-Lpa a Tyrian; whom some make the daughter of Agenor; others of Phanix; others, a Nymph of the Ocean, as the Poets in their fables) is reckoned the first among the parts of the World, both because we inhabit it, and some chief Geographers have inhabired therein; a so because it is more manured than other parts, and because it is more famous for the warlike deeds of the Macedonians and Romans. It is partly Northern, partly Western, between the Tropick of Cancer and the Pole Artique. Its lo gi ude begins from the utmost part of Spain and the Atlantick Ocean, and ends at the River Thanais, now called Affam. But that length of Europe is limited by some to 60 degrees, to one of which (passing thorow the midst of Europe) do answer almost 10 German miles. Others have computed Europe's longitude from the River Thanais to Hercules strait, to continue 760 German miles. But others measure the length thereof by fewer miles, to wir, from the City Compostella to Constantinople, which is 600 German miles. But from its latitude, that is, from South to North, according to most, is con ained onely 44 degrees, beginning from Sicilie, where the Elevation of the Pole is 80 degrees, even to that region of the North in which the elevation of the Pole is 80 degrees: fo that Europe hath 660 German miles in breadth; and so it is longer than broader. But others extend its breadth to 54 degrees, to wit, from Sicilie even to the very North Pole it self. It is also bounded almost on every side with the Sea. From the East which lyeth to Affa, it is bounded with the Ægean Sea, likewise with the Euxine Sca, with Moeotis fenne, and the River Thanais. From the West it is terminated with the Atlantick strait or narrow Sea. From the South, with the Mediterranean and Hercules Grait. From the North it is bounded with the Brittain Sea; but now others thur up Europe with the utmost bounds of the Icie Sea. Europe falls into the 4th and 9th Climate, between 10 and 20 Parallels. It is the least of all parts of the World; yet the most worthy part: which its excellency depends, 1. On the temperature of the ayr. 2. On the fruitfulnesse of all things. 3. From the endeavour of tillage,

Tillage, which is here greater then in others. 4. From its populouinefle. 5. From the study of Mechanick Arts: for there are more cunning Workmen and Architects in Europe, than in any other part of the World. 6. From the study of liberall Arts, which both in respect of Languages, and also of Disciplines, do more flourish in Europe; so that in no part of the World more famous books are written and fet forth, Schools do no where more flourish, than in Europe. Seventhly, From its Empires, which are no where greater and famouser than in EUROPE; and fo from its Justice or Right, Discipline or Government, and Laws. Eighthly and lastly, from Christ's Religion, which is no where more frequently and freely preached and professed than there. And Pliny long ago faid, Europe was the nourisher of the Conquering people of all Nations, notto be compared to Afia, and Africa in bignesse, but in vertue: It's Countries are partly Continents, partly Pen-infulæ or almost Islands, and Islands. The Countries that are Continents, are Spain, France, Germany, Italy, Sclavonia, Greece, Hungary, Polandy with Lituania, and Boruscia, Russia, under which is contained Muscovy, or white Rusia. It's Peninsulæ are chiefly Norway, Swethland, Gothland. The Islands in the Ocean, are England and Scotland, Ireland. In the Mediterranean Sca; Sicily, Sardinia; Corfica, Creet, at this day called Candy, Majorica Island, and Minorica. Kingdomes in Europe, are chiefly Ten, 1. The Spanish. 2. The English, under which are the Scottish and Irifb; now having changed the name of Kingdome into a Prote-Rourship. 3. The Danish, under which is Norway. 4. The Swedish, under which is the Gothish. 5. The Polonian. 6. The Hungarian. 7. The Bohemian. 8. The German. 9. The French. To which may be added the Italian, although (at this day) it fall not under the name of a Kingdome. But the head of Europe was once called Rome toward the West, but Constantinople toward the East: whence some think the Romane Emperour sets a two headed Eagle in his Arms; to wir, that one may look toward the East, to Constantinople; the other toward the West, to Rome. Tongues throughout Europe are especially three. The Roman with the Italians, French, and Spaniards. The Teutonick, among the Helvetians, Germans, Bavarians, Swedes, Norwegians, Danes, English, and most of the Belgians or Low-Countries. The Sclavenian in Scla-Vonia, Polonia, Behemia, Hungary. But all particular Countries have divers Dialects in their own Tongue, and in some places Languages are heard, whereof there is no commerce or agreement with others; as in Britain, Armorica, Navarre, &c. The Seas of Europe are three. 1. The Ocean. 2. The Mediterranean Sca, which beginning from the outmost part of Spain, about the Islands Gades, is carried from the West, through the South into the North, where afterward it is called the Euxine-Sea, although fome may think the Mediterranean to flow from the Euxine-Sca. Lastly, the third Sea of Europe, is the Baltick, which beginning from the Danish Hellespont, and the City Lubeck, is extended about an hundred and fifty Miles between Saxony, Pomerania, Swethland, Borustia, Livonia, and the opposite shores of Deamark, and Finland, even to Wiburg toward the East. The chief Rivers of Europe, are Danubius, which extends it self to 300 Germane Miles, and rising fix Miles above Tubinge, receiving fixty small Rivers into it, poures forth it self through Germany, Hungary, Bulgaria, Servia, Thrace, with seven Mouths into the Euxine Sea Another River is Rhene (separating France from Germany): after that follows Albis, Islula, Boryshenes, Thamis. The principall Mountains in Europe, are the Alps, which seperate Germany, and Spain, from Italy; then follow the Pyrenean Mountains, which seperate France from Spain, likewise the Carpathian Mountains. And let these things suffice of Europe in generall: The seituation, Riches, and commodities of whose severall Countries, together with their Religion, I shall (for brevity sake) but onely name.

BRITTAIN (which was once called Albion, not so much from the fabulous reports of the Grecians, from Albion the Ion of Neptune; butsaccording to the Latines, ab albis rupibus, its white rocks feen on the shoar) is, though not the King, yet Queen of Islands, being the very biggest in the World, except Java, being 1835 miles about; and is bounded on the South with France, on the North with the Northern Ocean: it was called . Brittain, from Brit, fignitying coloured or painted; and Tayn, a Nation: ( for the Inhabitants were wont to paint their bodies, to appear the more fearful to their enemies): Brutus the Trojan's coming thither, and denominating the same, being not so well grounded on true History. It is divided into three parts in general; England, Scotland, and wales. England (so named, from the Augles, or English Saxons enjoying it) is the chief Country of the three, whose head-City, London, is both ancient, as being built by Lud divers years before Rome, and also populous, and very Merchantable by reason of the fair and sweet fresh River Thames: which by the Seas force ebbeth and floweth above 60 miles into the Land, more than any in Europe: of whose beautifull Towns, stately Buildings and Gardens about it, a German said, > we faw so many woods and Princely Bowers, Sweet fields, brave Palaces, and stately Towers: So many Gardens drest with curious care, That Thamcs with Royall Tiber may compare.

SCOTLAND (sometimes called Albania, and whose Scottish-men which keep their ancient speech still, call it Albain) is the Northern part of Brittain: which the two Rivers Tneed and Solvay divide from England toward the South. It was named Scotland, from Scoti, Scitti, or Scythi, a people of Germany, unto whose Northern parts, even the name of Scythia was given: which people seizing on a part of Spain, and then on Ireland, possessed the West part of this Country in the year 424. The people are divided into Highlanders and Lowlanders, according to the Countrie's scituation: many of the former being uncivil, if not barbarous. Among the many Provinces herein, is Louden, (once called PiBland, or a Country, hilly, and without trees) in which stands Edenborough, the Mother City, the abode of the Scottish Kings, before that, after the death of England's Queen, Elizabeth, all Brittain was (by King James of Scotland, who was next heir to England's Crown) united under one King: and since more than that, made one Common-wealth, under a Protectour, through the Conquest of Scotland by the English. It is 480 miles in length, (though narrow) and 160 longer than England, which yet is much broader than it.

WALES (separated from England on the East; whose most certain limit, is a great Ditch reaching from the River Wie's flowing into Severn unto Chefter, where Dee runs into the Sea; and called Claudh Offa, or Offa's Ditch, King of the Mercians, by whom it was made,) is generally conceived to be fo named, from the Brittains fleeing thither from the Saxons, who had seizure of England: Walls or wellbmen, importing Aliens. Some derive it from Idivallo, Cadwallader's fon, who retired hither with his few Brittains. But the Brittons bringing their pedegree from the Gaules, whom the French still call Galloys, and the Country, Galles, (thence Saxon-like, G. being changed into w, is wallows or walles, and so wales, (some also of France being called walloons) makes some to be of this opinion. It is the least of the three Countries, containing four Cities: and was called a dominion or Princedome, a Title given to the English Kings eldest son: by means of Edward the tirst, who caused his Wife to be delivered at Carnarvon of a young fon Edward; whom the Brittish Lords fware to obey; when as before they mainly with stood to have a general English Vice-gerent over them.

The chief Merchandises are, Wool, Englands staple commodity, whose Cloath divers Nations buy before any other; Tin, Lead, Beer; (Gold and Silver Mines there are none); besides plenty of Corn and Cattle, especially in England and Wales, for Scotland is in some places lean and barren; Wolves also the whole Island is free of. Their Religion, since deserting Rome, is Calvinism generally; Yet England (in its Bishops times) had the doctrine of Geneva, but the Ceremonies of Rome; from which (then) there were some dissenters. Scotland came nearer to Geneva in both. But of late years, though the Ceremonies be laid aside also; yet are there many who make separation both in doctrine and discipline, from that Church.

There are also many lesser Islands belonging to Brittain, as the thirty two Isles of Orkney, or Oreades, Northward of Scotland, whose chief is Pomonia; whose head town is Kirkwall; who in latter times were held by the Normans, or Normegians, till that

King in 1266, surrendred them to Alexander King of Scotland, one of whose liles, Hethy, use the Gothish tongue from the Norwegians: North of these is Shetland, supposed by many to be Thule, the utmost Island known to the antients, by reason of its scituation, and for that Marriners call it Thylersfell, under which Thule is couched: Yet Iteland (of which hereafter) is generally conceived to be Thule, it being the remotest part of the Northern World: but weightier reason out of Solinus and Tacitus, are against it. Likewise there are 44 Hebrides or Western Islands, on the West of Scotland, bought also of Magnus of Norway, by Alexander, whose Inhabitants called Red-Ibanks, are like the wild Irish in behaviour and speech; in one of which, (to wit) Jona, is the chief Town Sodore, notable for the Scottish Kings Sepulchres. Scilly Islands scituated 24 miles from the West of Cornwall in England, are 145 in all, ten whereof are onely effeemed, as Scilly; the others Denominater, Armath, &c. Whither also the Romans banished condemned men, to work in their Mines. The Dutch call them Sorlings. Other Islands lie dispersed, and belong to Englands Common-Wealth; whereof the chief are five; two whereof, Jersey, and Guarnsey, are the onely remainders of France to the English. Jersey being the bigger and fruitfuller, containing twelve Towns or Villages; the other, 10 Parishes. They are 20 Miles assurder, lying nigh to Normandy and Britain in France, and using the French tongue. Wight Island (which being severed from the main Land by a narrow strait of the Sea, and but a mile over in one place, may well be faid to be of England, though not in England) lyeth Southward from thence, being 20. or 21 miles long, and 12 broad, and is ftrongly feated and ftrengthened, whose chief Town at this day is Newport, a small mile from whence is Carisbrook Cafile, very strongly scituated: there was wont to be arms therein for 5000 men: and in every Village a piece of Ordnance for defence. It belongs to Hamp bire; and did (it feems) appertain to the Britains, from whom it was taken by Wolphar King of Mercia. Anglefey (once the leat of the Druides, and bordering on Carnarvonfhire of Wales) is accounted a shire thereof: which containing formerly a multitude of Towns and Villages in fo little room, being but 20 miles long, and seventeen broad, hath now the chief, Newburg, Beaumorris, and Aberfraw on its South-fide. Man-Island, scituated 25 miles from the South of Cumberland, the North of England, is thirty miles long, and fifteen broad in the broadest place: and whose chief Towns are Russin, or Castle Town: and Balacuri. It hath seventeen Parishes. Their Language is Norwegian and Irish, mixt; they are said to have two good properties; to hate thieving and begging. On a Hill herein called Sceafull, both England, Ireland, and Scotland, may (in clear weather) be feen. This Countrey preferving venemous creatures alive brought into it, ended the controverfy between England and Ireland concerning it. And here also is that wonderfull thing wherewith Gerard the Herbarist ends his book, to wit, Geefebred of rotten Wood, falling (from Trees) into the Water. It belonged (after divers seizures, sale, and gift) unto the Stanlies, Earls of Darby, called Kings of Man, the last of whom, being beheaded (a few years fince) for engaging against Englands Commonwealth: the power they there had, was lost, if not the very title, together with his life.

There are (moreover) Northern Islands lying in the Scythick Sea or Icy Ocean fo called: by the Cymbrians, the dead; by Tacitus, the dull or flow Sea: the chief whereof are Greenland under the cold Zone; yet known to have graffe; and they fay, there are people that dwell in Caves, delighting in witchcraft. Iceland, to be mentioned elsewhere. Freezland, not Frizia in Belgium, almost as big as Ireland. Nova Zemla: And lastly, that which Sir Hugh willoughly discovered in 1553; whereabouts, he was with his men trozen to death, going to find out a new way towards Cathaia and China: which defign, others profecuting, have gone to the River Oli, the Eastern Confines of Muscovie, which is notwithstanding, but half way to China.

These Islands have their several Commodities even as Brittain to whom they appertain. The Oreades are in a measure populous and fertile, and Pomonia is well stored with Tin and Lead. Scilly Islands are flored with Grasse, Grain, and Lead. St. Muries being sufficiently fruitful. Man hath not onely enough Corn, Cattle and Fish for it self, but sends good store into other Countries. Anglesey, for its abundance of necessaries for man's life, is called Mam Cymry, that is, the Mother of wales. wight hath plenty of all fustenance, whose sheep bear fine Wooll, and Trees, store of fruit. Jarfey abounds in grain; and of theep, most, with 4 horns, of whose Wooll they make Jarsey-stockings. Garnsey (formerly Sarnia) is well enough, though inferiour (as was faid) to Jarfey in truitfulnesse. As for their Religion, 'tis according to that of the main Island, onely Jarfey and Garnfey have long followed Geneva's Church Discipline: which is much affected by the Protestant Ministers of France.

TRELAND (called by some Antients, Hibernia, also Juer-1 nia, Jerne, Ogygia, &c. and by the Irilb, Erin. Yet it hath (by fome) been termed Scotia, because the Scotti came from Spain, and dwelthere) lyeth between great Britain (for Ptolomy calls it little Britain) and Spain, having England on the East, divided by a Tempestuous Sea, of about a dayes sayling. Cambden saith its 400 miles long, and 200 broad. And some do affirm; that from Knockbrandon unto Carnagh in the North of Ulfter (which is the length) is 320 Irish miles: and from Dublin to Crough Patrick, by West of Galloway (which is the breadth) is 200 Miles. It hath five principal Provinces, Lemster on the East, in whose County of Dublin, stands Dublin, the Mother City of that Nation; built by Harald Hasager; the first King of Norway: Which was (after the English Conquest) peopled by Bristoll-men; here the Deputy of Ireland resides: where is also an University. Asunster, on the South: Conaught on the West, Allter on the North, and Aleath in the Mid-land. John of England, was first intituled Lord of Ireland; Henry the eighth, in 1542 was in an Irish Parliament declared King hereof: yet Ireland flood in terms of wildnesse and nonsubjection, (too tedious here particularly to expresse) till the Rebellion of Tirone, towards the end of the Reign of Queen Elizabeth: which ending in his own overthrow, crushed the Irilb Nobilities over-power, and made a full conquest of the whole land. But it of late years bloudily breaking out again, occasioned a second Conquest of that people, and a confinement of them unto one Province. Some are conformable to civility, but the Kerns or wild Irilb exceeding barbarous. They are generally strong and nimble: and will skip over the bogs (of which there are many) without finking, whereas others cannot do fo. The Ayre being Rainy, is moilt and Rheumatick; fo that both inhabitants, as well as firangers, are much troubled with Catarrhs, and the Bloudy Flux: It is hilly, Moorish, and full of Woods, exposed to Winds, and many pools, even in the top of the highest Mountains. There is much Cattle, wherefore they abound in Milk, Cheefe, and Butter; their Corn is but short and small; and through the cold winds there blowing, and the Suns want of force in Autumn, the Grapes do not very well Ripen. Yet they neither much feek shade in Summer, nor fire through Winters rigour. There are good Horses, and light, for that Countries journies, called Hobbeys. They abound in fish, both of Sea and fresh Water; The chief River being Shennin, Sinei, or Shannon, which runs from ulfter, two hundred miles, to the Vergivian Sea, and is Navigable fixty miles. Much Fowl there is, but no Storks, Pies, or Nightingales. No hurtfull beafts are there, besides Wolves and Foxes. But there is no venemous beaft or Serpent at all. Whence one hath truly spoken in her behalf, although somewhat Heathennifhly----

> I am that Island, which in times of old, The Greeks did call, Hibernia, Icie cold, Secur'd by God and Nature from this fear, which gift was given to Creet, Jove's Mother dear, That possonous Snakes should never here be bred, Or dare to hisse, or hurtfull venome shed.

From the time that this Island received an outward profession of Christianity, which was in 335, by means of a woman among the Pists, (when Fincomare reigned in Scotland) who preached to its Queen, being samiliar with her, who winning the King, the people were thereby disposed to receive a baptism; who lived in the Romish Religion till Henry the eighth his time: for then Protestant Religion began to be preached; and since, there planted by Queen Elizabeth: who notwithstanding being generally addicted to the former, have made that the subject of two notable Rebellions. Now there is the fame teleration as to seeks and opinions as in England; it having renewed its Plantations by Englis; (onely the most exact and innocent ones still suffer in both) for 'its all but one Common-wealth.

RANCE (called at first Gallia, whose ancient Inhabitants were called Gaules, from Yana, milk, they being of a white colour,) is of large extent, according to the old division of Gaule Cifalpine, and Transalpine. Casar in his Commentaries divideth it into Gaule Belgick, Celtick, and Aquitanick. But to take the whole Realm of France as it is now taken; and measuring it from East to Well directly, that is, from the Isle of Heifant, unto the Banks of Rhine which divides from Germany, it is little more in length, than 300 French leagues, that is, 600 English miles. On the East lye the Alps, dividing it from Italy; as doth Mount Jura, separating it from the Suiffes. On the South where it joyns to Spain, it hath the Pyrenean Mountains; and in more large places, the Mediterranean Sea: on the North, the Brittish Ocean: on the West, the Aquitane Sea. To say little or nothing of the warlike offfpring of Japhet, whose fixth fon, Mefech, is reported to have first peopled it in the year of the World, 1806, (and who were then very sparing in their diet: with whom, the Romans at first fought rather to preserve themselves, than in hope of conquest: and who under the conduct of Brennus, (365 years after the building of Rome) discomfiting the Romans at the River Allia, sacked the City, and besieged the Capitol: so that for terrour of them, after their expulsion by Camillus, they made a Law, That if ever the Gaules came again, the very Priests should be forced to war, and their (afterwards) spoyling and ransancking the Temple at Dela phos, where the Pestilence visiting the survivers going into Asia, gave name to the Countrey called Gallatia. It was called France. from the Francones, a people of Germany, who with the Burgundians and Goths, wrested it from the Roman Monarchy in its declining state: (Cafar after 40 years resistance, having by valour and fortune (but more through their own divisions) brought them under tribute) and dividing it into three parts amongst them, Charlemain King of the Francones, or Franks, quite ruining the Goths Kingdom: his successours by degrees, almost nullified the Burgundian also; who are now a very populous Nation: over-much headlong and rash in both Martial and Civil affairs, as was obferved also in Cafar's time. Florus saying, That their first onsett was greater or fiercer than of men, but the second lesse than of women. It is divided into many Provinces, the chief whereof are 24, (leaving out Lorrain, Savey, and Geneva's Signiory) as Aquitane, Anjou, Normandy, Burgundy, the Isle of France, &c. in which stands the Metropolis Paris, called of old Lutetia, from its clayeyfoyl, said to be to miles in compasse, and to be built in Anaziah's time, King of Judah; the Provinces are governed by eight principal Parliaments. They are given very much to Tennis, and exceedingly to dancing; whose poor Peasants are kept as low in slavery, as their Gentry exalted in pride and vanity; inventing and following abundance of fashions in their apparrel, to please their giddy phansies: and of which the English are too much their imitators: between whom at this day, there is a solemn League, joyning against the Spaniard vi & armis, with might and main. Amongst all the battles that this Nation hath fought both with the English, Spaniard, and others: they never had any very famous Captains besides Charls the Great; who was (by the Pope's Donative) the founder of the Western Empire, and called, One of the three Christian Worthies: and also Henry the 4th, their

King, in whose modern valour France glorieth.

France, its Riches (besides Paris the Metropolis, which draws to it most of the Silver of France, and also much from Italy, Spain, England, Germany, and almost all Europe) are various, according to the divers Provinces thereof; fine Flax, linnen Cloath, Wines, Iron, Steel, Serges, Hair-cloath, Chamlets, Tapestries, oyl of Walnuts, Corn, Cheefe, Woad, Parchment, enamel'd works, Hoggs, Horses, and other Cattle, Hemp, &c. All the soyl of France being good for somewhat. Their Religion is of two forts, the Romisb and Calvinist; they of the latter being called Hugonotts, from Hugo's gate in Tours, where they first began, and at which they went out to private assemblies; at whose first rise the Romanists began to root them out by the sword, as they did them; (And they maffacring these Protestants three times, at Merindoll in 1545. Chabriers, with whose young Women and Maids they so inhumanely dealt, that most dyed suddenly after. At Paris in 1572, more closely contrived : for, a marriage being solemnized between Henry of Navarre chief of the Protestant party, and the King's fifter Margaret, as an affurance of peace made with the Protestants: at which, the Prince of Conde, Admiral Coligni, &c. were present. At midnight, the bell ringing out, the King of Nawarre and Conde were taken prisoners, the Admiral villanously flain in his bed, with 30000 and upward, of the chief of that Religion;) but for one head cut off, there coming up seven; and the King confidering they were all his Subjects, in the end renewed his predecessour's Edict of Pacification, allowing that called the Reformed Religion, where it had been formerly practifed; and the Masse to be restored, from whence the enemies had banished

CPAIN (the most Western Countrey of Europe's Continent, Dlying near Africk) is compassed on all sides with the Sea, except wwards France, and hath been diversly named; as Hesperia, either from Hesperss supposed to have been a King hereof; or from Hesperu the Evening Star, as being the farthest Countrey Westward then known. And Hispania, (according to the best judgments) from Panu an Iberian Captain. Iberia, from the River Iberim ;

Iver 124 ; or Iberi, who are the Georgians in Asia. This People being in old time governed by Kings, Lords, yea and by Themselves, lived to a while honourably and peaceably, till the Carthaginians. (mattering much of Africk) came into this Country; and joyning with some of those divided people to the others ruine, they forced a great part of the Country to submit to Carthage Commonwealth; Against whom, the Romans opposing divers Armies, after longand bloody wars, the Carthaginians were expelled, the Romans enjoying it. But in Honorius his time, the African-Vandals chased away the Romans; whom notwithstanding, the Goths dispossessed; peaceably reigning over it all for many years. But in the end the Moors and Stracens mightly invading Spain out of Africk, they runed the Gothish Kingdom; some remainders of whom, norwithitaiding, retiring into the Mountains, made head, and fo prevailed, that in time they have driven the Moors quite out of the Country: yet they are faid to be a mixt people descending from Guths, Saracens, and Jews: they are great braggers, and very proud, in the lowest ebbe of fortune: and they say, The Spaniard never had footing of any place or strong hold, that ever he yielded on Composition,

It fell into a division of 12 Kingdoms and proprietary Estates, as Leon and Ousedo, having Bifcay on the East, and called anciently Afturia, from its Inhabitants the Asturs: whose small and swife horses the Romans called Asturcones. Two chief Towns of which are Oviedo and Leon. Navarre, having the Pyrenean Mountains on the East, on the South Arragon; so named either from Navarrin, a Town among the Mountains, or from Navois, a Champian Country: the old Inhabitants being called Vascones. Its Mother-City is Pampelune, a Town (as one faith) bandied by the racket of fortune into the hazard of Goths, Moors, Navarrois, French, and now Caftilians. Corduba, comprehending Andaluzia, Granada, and Estremadura. Andalusia, quasi Vandalusia, from the Vandals long. possessing it, is the fruitfullest Country of Spain, in whose City Corduba, the feat of the Moorish Kings, was born Lucan, and both the Seneca's, hence is the true Cordovan Leather: not far from whose Wood 30 miles long, being nothing but Olive Trees, was fought a notable battle between Cafar and Pompey's fons : who (having the day, though not without great loffe) was not long after murthered in the Senate-house. Medina, another City, whose Duke was General of the Great Armado in 1588: Sevill, whence come the Sevill (not civil) Oranges, and where the dead body of Christopher Columbus lyeth. Granada, having Andalusia on the West, whose fine and stately City Granada is replenished with pleafant Springs; That, and Valadolitis being the ordinary Courts of Justice for the South and North parts of Spain. That of Madrid being the highest Parliament, receiving Appeals from both Malaga or Malaca, a great Port-Town, facked by Crassus the Roman: where is a cruel torturing Inquisition, where Lithgow was miserably tormented in King James his time : and from which, Bbbbb 2

two harmlesse women of the English Nation, called Quakers, were delivered within this few moneths, by a high hand. Hence comes the Malaga Sack. Estremedura, having Portugal on the West, once called Betwia, from the River Batis therein, nigh whole City Merida, Vallia King of the Goths vanquishing Aiace King of the Alanes and Vandals, these left their first footing in Spain. Gallicia, having on the East the Afturia's and Mountainous places like unto them. Whose Cities are Compostella, an Archbishop's fear, and a University, called St. Jago, in honour of S. James, whose reliques are in a Temple, here worshipped and visited with incredible zeal and concourfe. Bifeays to named from the Vafcones, who coming hither, named it Vascaia, then Viscaia, now Biscaia, was formerly called Cantabria, and lyeth betwixt Castile, Navarre, and Leon 3 whose ancient Cantabrians desended their liberty, when the Romans had subdued the rest of Spain; being at last vanquished by Augustus not without much bloudshed: for such Mountainous Countries are alway last conquered. They differ from the rest of Spain, both in language and customes, yielding their bodies, but not their purses to the King, nor suffering any Bishop to come amongst them, and causing their women alway (in meetings) to drink first, because Ogno a Countesse, would have poysoned her fon Sancho. In this Prevince, flands the City Tholoufe: Alfo Bilbo. two miles from the Main, (once Flavionavia) a Town of great Traffique. Out of the hills of this Country arise the two chief Rivers, Iberus and Duerus; they have excellent Timber for thips; and for its much Iron, called, The Armory of Spain. Toledo the ancient feat of the Carpentani, is now accounted a part of New Caftile, and extends over the South-East of Castele toward Murcia: whose chief City is Toledo, seated on the River Tagus, and almost in the Center of Spain, inhabited by Nobles, Merchants, and men of war. It was the feat of the Gothifh Kings, which their King Bamba walled: then the Moorish Princes seats; now of the Spanish Archaishop's, the chief Prelates of Spain, and most times Presidents of the bloudy Inquifition. Murcia, environed with New Castile on the West, whose chief River is Guadalaquir, and whose three chief Towns are Murcia or Murgis, whence the Country is named Alicante : whence is true Alicant Wine made of the juice of Mulberries. plentifully growing here; it's also a fair harbour. Cartagens or new Carthage, built by Asdruball of Carthage, but ruined in the fecond Punick, war by Scipio Africanus.

ded into old and new. The old, scituated on the North of the new, hath the City Salamanca, for its chiefest University; built by King Ferdinand the second, in 1240, and by Popes edicts, with Oxford, paris, and Bononia, ordained a place of general study. Another I cannot passe by, which is Mamantia or Soria, where 4000 with standing 40000 Romans: 140 years; and at last, laying all their Armour goods and money upon a pile, burnt it with themselves in the stance. Here is also Valadolit, one of Spains seven University.

ties; and the birth-place of Philip the second, who restoring it, built a Colledge for English sugitives. Duerm the violentest River of Spain, runs in this Province. The new Casile, on South of the other, hath the River Tagus in its bowells, whose chief City is Madrid, the King and Councels seat; which by the Kings residence there, is become of a Village, the most populous of Spain; (yet the Countrey is neither fruitfull nor pleasant) whose upper stories of houses without composition, belong to the King. Here is also Guenca, whose Monastery of Laurence built by Philip the II, is of that magnificence, that no building past or present, is comparable thereunto. The name of Casile cannot be fetched from the old inhabitants, the Vaccai, &c. but either from the Castellani, once the inhabitants of Catelogne; or from some fortised Castle thereabouts.

PORTUGAL bounded on the East with the Castiles, is so called from the Haven Town Porto, and the Gauls, who landed there with their Merchandise. It was formerly named Luss. tania: whose antient inhabitants were the Oritani, Veliones, &c. whose chief City for traffique, is Lisbon, from whence all the Partugalls set to Sea. It's said to be seven miles in compasse, having above 20000 neathouses, fixty seven Towers and Turrets upon the walls, twenty two Gates on the Sea-side, and sixteen toward the continent; but Braga is it's Metropolis; and Conimbra the University; whose Masters made the Commentary on the most of Aristotle. Philip the second of Spain, pretended a right to this Crown; and by main force took it and kept it, till the Portugalls killing or driving thence the Vice-roy, fer up a King of their own, as formerly; forhat, although the Spaniards call (in their Proverb) the Portugals, Pocos y locos, that is, Few and Foolish, yet they were wife enough to free themselves from under that Kings power.

Valentia, lying between Castile, Arragon, and Murcia, had its former inhabitants the Eliani, and Bastiani, &c. in which stands the City Saguntum, but now Movedre; whose people being besieged by Hanniball, chose rather to burn themselves, than yield; out of faithfullnesse to the Romans. Valentia the denominating City of the whole Province, heretofore (they fay) named Roma, fignifying strength, which the Romans conquering, called Valentia, to distinguish it from Rome, a word equivalent in the Latine to Pour in Greek. Herein also is the Promontory of Terraria the refuge of Sertoriu in his wars against the old and young Souldiers, Metellus and Pompey. Catelogne or Catalomia, having Arragon on the West, hath its name diverfly and equally probably derived from Gothalonia, Castellani, or Cattalones who dwelt here. Achief City whereof is Barcellona a strong Sca-Town, and Ancient. Perpigna, in the County of Rofillon, which Town and Country was engaged by John of Arragon, to the French, for a great masse of money; and then reflored to the King of Spain by Charle the eighth, promiting not to hinder his enterprise of Naples. Girone is another City scated on the River Batulus, and the Title of the Arragonian Prince, Lastly, Arragon, limitted Southward with Valentia, Northward with Navarre, thorow the very middest whereof, Iberus runs; whose old inhabitants were the Lucenses, Jaccetani, and Celtiberi, these last descending from the Iberians, and the Celia mixt, who were the most puissant of all Gaule: whence this Nation was called the Celtiberi according to the Poet Lucan. Its present name is from Tarragon, a City confined with Catalonia, on the borders hereof. Herein is the City Lerida, dividing Catelogne from Ar gon, festuare on the River Cinga, and an University. The City Huesca called of old Ofca, may not be forgotten, an antient University. whither Sertorius causing all the Noblemens Children of Spain to be brought, and providing them Greek and Latine School-Maiters, pretended he did it onely to fit them for charge in the Common-wealth; but indeed it was that they might be his hostages, for their fathers faith and loyalty towards him. All Spain is divided at this day into three Governments; Arragon, Castile, and Portugall; and is a Monarchy of a great revenue.

Spain, whose wealth confists in VVine, Oyl, VVax, Hony, Sugar, Saffron, fruits of all forts; in a manner, furnishing all the Northern Regions, especially with Olives, Oranges, Lemmons, Figs, &c. Silk, Spanish-wool, (sheep being at first fent thither. . out of Glocestersbire in England) Quickfilver. Portugall also fends forth Silk, Salt and Tonny, which they fish there, most comming out of the Country of Algarb, whose chief City and Port Lisbon is, the aboard of all the Merchandise, &c. Naples also (belonging to Spain, which might hold themselves as happy as any in Europe, if they were not fo oppreffed by Officers) hath abundance of all things; felling to strangers great store of Nuts, and Aimonds: vending Saffron, Silks, Oyl, Wines, Horses, Lambs, Sheep: Poville furnishing Venice, Sclavonia, and Tuscain, with fleih: Calabria fends forth Corall, and the best esteemed Manna. called in Apothecaries shops, Manna Calabria. The Island of Sicily (being a hundred miles, or after Strabo, and Ptolomy, a 180) miles long) though full of fire, casting it out abundantly; yet yields store of all forts of fruits, in old time called the Garner of Italy, chiefly of Rome, as many times at this day; fothat the Sicilians make much money of Corn, also of Oyls and Silk, whereof they have great quantity. Sardinia, (almost like Sicily) makes store of money of Wine to Rome, and of couragious Horses to strangers. They also carry some Muscrions skins into Italy. The Dutchy of Milane (about three hundred Miles in compasse) being full of Artizans of all forts, whatfoever goes from that City (as Harquebusses, all forts of Arms, Hilts of Swords, Girdles and Hangets, Lace Emboideries) is greatly esteemed: as also their Silk Stockings, Rice, store of Cheele; furnishing the Grifons, and Sunffer with much of her fruit's Yet the King drawing as much as poffible from this Eftate; it's a Proverb in Italy, that The Officer of Sicily

Sicily doth gnaw, he of Naples doth eat, but he of Millan doth devour. Laftly, the Canaries, or fortunate Islands (reckoned seven in number, others adding fix more thereto) do vent their excellent Wines into all Europe; also Sugars, transported by the Spanish and Talian Merchant, from the Stapela, into other places. All Spain follow the Romish Church (with those particular Provinces and Islands he possesseth, or claimeth) and the Protestant Religion is so hated there, that they have set up cruell Inquisitions, lest it should get any belief among them; (for which cause, as not the least, the King of Spain perhaps is called by the Pope, the Catholick King) yea, the people of the Canaries, who formerly worshipped the Sun, Moon, and Stars, (which though in Africa, yet here I mention) the Spaniards mastering it in 1404, settled there their Faith with their dominion; fo that the Bishop thereof residing in the great Canaria, hath his Inquisitors of the Faith.

ORRAIN, or Lotharingia, (so called from Lothaire eldest In of Lewis the Gentle) and is a Dukedome distinct from France in Government: whose Religion being according to France; Yer it makes great profit of Azure-ftones, and of Pearls fished at the Mountain Vogefe, it's foot; also of a matter to make Lookingglasses, and others : Cassidonie stones for Cups ; Horses, besides Linnen Cloath, and transported works: Mines of Silver likewise are beneficial thereto: It's Duke also hath fix Salt pans, yielding him 200000 Crowns yearly.

He Low-Countries, or Lower Germany, is encompassed with Alfaria, Burgundy, and Champagne, (called by Julius Cafar, Gaul-Belgick) is bounded on the North with East-Friezland, on the South with Lorrain, &c. and containing feventeen Provinces. Those, and the parts thereof that are under the command of the Arch-Duke, or house of Austria; their commodities are Silks, Serges, Tapestry-work, Porpasses, and Salmons, barrelled and Salted, with abundance of Herring and barrel Cod. Throughout all these estates, there is none but the Romish Religion; yet are there a few Towns (chiefly those formerly revolted) where there are not many Protestants, and those not daring to make open profession thereof; being restrained, and ready to be punished if it be known.

THE NITED. PROVINCES of the NETHER-LANDS, being a kind of Common-Weal, (with whose Generall Estates the King of Spain, and Arch-Dukes have treated as with Soveraignes) are, Zeland, Holland, Frifeland, Utrecht, Groningue, and thereabouts, Overy Sell, Drent, the County of Zatphen, and three parts of Gueldres, with forme of Brabant, and Flanders; all which heretofore contributed to the Wars; whose Riches are very great through Sea-traffique, and great customes of fishingerade. But their natural wealth is in Horses, Oxen, and Kine, yielding abundance of Milk for Butter and Cheefe, Meederap or red Madder. They have also an excellent Art to boil Bay-salt as white as Snow: putting Salt water to the Bay-Salt of Spain and France, and refining it with greater encrease, which they fend into all parts of Europe. In all these Countries, they suffering no exercise of the Romish Religion, but the Protestant onely in their Temples, if any be found exercifing it in fecret (which daily happens in Mirecht) they are fined. The Protestant Religion entred when Luther, about 1521, preaching against the Pope and his doctrine; Charls the fifth, Emperour, to root Luther's doctrine out of the Netherlands, (having taken good footing) would (after many put to death for small causes) have brought in the Spanish inquisition; whose son Philip, the better to ftrengthen an Inquisition, procured the Pope to creet 14 new Bishopricks there: against which the Provinces opposing; the King of Spain in 1565, made known his pleasure touching Religion: and after the Duke of Alwaes comming thither with an Army, and beheading the Earls of Egmont and Horn; also in 1570, feeking to exact the tenth, 20th and 100th penny, he made himself odious to the people: whereby the Prince of Orange, (who before was forced to leave the Countrey, by the Duke with a great Army) now being invited by some inhabitans, surprised Flushing, Briele, &c. and afterward the Estates declaring against Philip the second of Spain, and taking all the Government on themselves, and amazed at their favourable successe: they put themselves under Queen Elizabeth of England, her Protection; Whereby they took many places of consequence; and in the end, recovered their Soveraign Authority: who (fince) have (for Policy-fake) given liberty to other Professions of Religion: as those of the Separation, Baptists, Jews, &c.

TENEVA (pleasantly scituated within the limits of Savoy towards La Brefe, and being as it were two Towns, thorow which the River Rhefne doth paffe) hath the foyl near it fruitful, yielding Corn, Wine, Turneps, and other roots, Melons, all pulse, Barley, Oats, Hay, Apples, Pears, &c. taking goodly fish in the Lake, especially Salmons, Trouts, which they carry to other places. Yet the Inhabitants of Geneva are not very rich, and have enough to do (by toyl) to preferve an honest liberty: taking great pains in printing all forts of books, making Silks, using (withall) temperance; for sparingnesse is in a manner their greatest revenue: So that they fend Cheefes, Capons, and good gold thred into other parts. It makes profession of the Protestant Religion, wherein they were instructed and confirmed by John Calvin and others: Yet their Town is a retrait to all Rome's opposers. They banished the Masse about 1539. Their Ministers being not maintained by Tythes, but a common Treasury.

HELFETIA,

T TELVETIA, or SWITZERLAND, (a Province of Germany, bounded on the West with France, on the North with Lorrein, 15 fo named from one of the 13 Cantons therein, cal-Icd Switz) is a Nation even united into one body by confederation and intelligence, whom none hath attempted to invade; or if he hath, without effect: To whom also the three leagues of the Grifons are allied. Its scituation hinders it from being a rich Country; yet it nouritheth all the Inhabitants, whose sparing is a good revenue; they also sometimes make much money of feeding their cattle, and pasture; and Wheat is fold at Zurich in great abundance; the River Rhyne is commodious for Basil's concourse of Merchants, from whence many printed books are earried into all parts of Europe. Of these Cantons, some are in Religion wholly Romanists, others altogether Protestants; fome mixt. The first that received the Protestant Religion, was the Canton of Zurich, which they fay, was through discontentment for want of pay, pretended due to them from Pope Julius the second, (for Nature and necessity having fashioned and applyed the Swifses to arms, neighbour Princes pay dear for their alliance,) incited thereto by Zwinglius: So that in 1526, they abolished the Masse there; and in 1528, it extending it felf to the Cantons of Fribourg and Bafil, after long dispute before the Senate at Bearn; they overthrew their Images, and rooted out the Masse of the Grisons: they of Grife are most Catholiques, the rest almost all Protestants. But its lawful for every one among them to follow what Religion he please; yet many times the Protestants insult over the Papists: for though themselves have; yet they will not suffer Papills to have any strangers, Priests: they of the Country being alfo lusject to outrages.

CAVOY (confined on Breffe and Switzerland, the chief City Whereof is Chamberie, the Seat of the Duke when fojourning here,) being a Dutchy, contains under it the Earldom and Country of Maurienne, with the Marquilate of Suse; Piedmont, and the County of Nizze; it confines upon the North with the Swiffes of Bearn and Fribourg. Savoy hath great store of Corn in the Valleys, and much pasture in the Mountains, which are many and great; in some places very good wine, and some Lakes abounding with fith: yet it makes little money of any thing fent to forreign parts. But Piedmont sends forth Corn, Cattle, much Hemp, store of Rice, Cheese, Wine, Paper, Fustian, and raw Silk. In which, the Armies of France and Spain continuing 23 years with great garrisons of either side, they never wanted victuals. In the Valley of Oft, are Mines of gold and filver. They of Saluffes, trade with Provence in Iron and Cattle. There is also within the Provinces trade of Cloath, Arms which they make, Hides, Oyl, Wine, all forts of Fruits, Pulles, store of Thred, coorse cloats of many kinds, faltfish, some small excellent Honey, Firr-Trees for Maits. Their Religion is generally Romish: for from this Duke's obedience, Geneva retired in the year 1535. Yet there are Protestants in his Dominion, on whom he ravened cruelly like a Wolf, in 1645.

A Geographical Description

ROME (the Metropolis of Italy, built on seven hills, and the Pope's Sout) hath belonging to the Churche's estate, (so called) the Countries of Ferrara, Bolognia, Romagnia, Ancona, Umbria, Sabina Perugia, part of Tuscanie, the Patrimony, Latium or Campania of Rome; which abound so in Corn, and all Commodities, as any want scarce happens through defect of the soyl; it being divided into Plains and Mountains. It furnisheth other Countries with Corn, Wine, and Oyl. Its Religion is known, for it is the head of the Papacie.

FLORENCE; whose Dukes (having united the Commonwealth of Pisa and Syena with that, into one) do possesse the greatest and goodliest part of Tuscanie: in which though the State of Florence want VVheat, (otherwise very fruitsul in wine, flesh, and other necessaries) yet that of Syena, not onely supplyeth Florence its necessity, but sometimes relieveth other places: so that Syena's Inhabitants are rich in rents: and that of Florence, through industry, whose City is full of Artificers of all forts, making diligently and workmanly, Serges, Silks, and cloath of gold and filver; they exercise chiefly the art of Silk and Wooll. All the Inhabitants of this Stateare Romaich Catholiques; they of Syena being the more devout.

He Dukedome of URBIN (about 60 miles long, and 35 broad) confines, yea intermixes with the estate of the Church; which City Urbin, is one of the ancientest of Italy, about which the Territory is exceeding good, and generally fertile. This Estate having plenty of all things needful for the life of Man, a good part whereof lying on the Adriatique shoar, is of great profit for bringing many things thither from all parts. Their Religion is undoubtedly Romifb.

THe Dukedome of MANTOVA or MANTUA, is A all that which antiently belonged to the Duke of Tuscanie; with the Marquesdome of Montferrat, greater than that. Its City Mantua in Lombardy beyond the River Po, being built 60 years before the Trojan War. Manteva yields all forts of Fruits. Montferrate is uneven, but yields all necessaries, and in some places store of Wheat, Wines, and other Fruits: yet this Dukedome is not able to make any great Traffique, or grow by their Commodities. Its Religion is Romifb.

THe Dukedome of FERRARA or MODENA, (out of which, the Pope (pretending the City Ferrara to be a fee of the Church) thrust Don Cafar Alphonso (the Duke thereof, his bafe son, after his Father's death) hath the Territory about Modena abounding with Corn, Beans, and other necessaries, with excellent wine. Reggium's foil is also exceeding fertile of Wheat, Barley, Beans, &c. with white wines: which two Towns are reasonably rich.

UCA (scituate in Tuscanie, and so called of Lucumon King of the Tuscanes) is a Common-wealth, whose Territory, although of small extent, yet the foyl is good, and yields much to the owners. The Citizens of Luca using great Traffique, chiefly in Silk, excelling also in making cloath of gold, many private men are exceeding rich. The Common-wealth being but small, is not rich: The foundation whereof is the Councel of 160, and (most commonly) 120 Citizens.

He Common wealth of GENOA (properly called Lugu. I ria beyond Po, to distinguish it from Liguria on this side Po, which is Montferrat,) extends about 160 miles: for the most part rough and hilly, and (as Strabofaith) in old time very barren. But being now better manured, there is great store of very good Wine and Oyl, some years 20000 barrels. The whole Country is pleasant by reason of Citrons, Oranges, Palmes, Lemons, and other Trees: which Citrons, &c. with their oyl, yield them much profit. There were huge Trees, as at this day, which they (making ships of) robbed and speyled to Gibralter straits. But now (shaking off their brutishness) they are very industrious, quick-witted, and lubtile. The Conficans which belong to the Genevois, carry wine to Rome, and being much esteemed, they receive great lums for it. There growes in this Island and Genoa little grain. Yet Corfica abounds in honey, wax, rofin, oyl, and figgs; store of Box. It breeds strong horses, full of courage. There are also Salt-pits. A kind of Ramthere is also called Muffolt, haired like a Goat instead of Wooll. The Genevois and Corficans are all Romish Catholiques, as the other forementioned,

THe Common-wealth of VENICE (whose chief Magi-A strate is called Duke, admirable among all the Towns of Europe, whose City is strangely and securely scituated in the most inward part of the Gulph of the Adriatick,) doth hold in Lombardy and the Marquisate, besides Venice, 6 great, rich, and populous Towns, befides many goodly places and Castles. They are Masters almost, of all Friuli and Istria, the last Province of the North raide of Italy. They command also, almost all the shoar and Island of Dalmatia and Sclavonia. In the mouth of the Adriatick-Sea, (likewile) the Isle of Corfeu, and the Islands of Cefalonia, Zante, Ce19

rigo, and Lucerigo; the Isle of Zarra in the Archipelago; and beyond these, Candie. There are within the verge of this Signiory, all necessaries for sustenance, as well as barrennesse. Candie's fruitful Valleys, and goodly Cyprus Trees, with other Timber for ships, are known. It drawes yearly in time of peace from the Estates subject unto it, two millions of gold. The Venetians, with all their Subjects in Italy, are firm Romith Catholiques; but Corfou's Inhabitants follow the religion of the Greeks, accounted Schismaticks, whom they impeach not therein, for fear of a mutiny: yet the Signiory hath curbed them by a Fort and Garrison. In Candie also the people do wonderfully hate the Latines name and religion; yet some of them are affected to the Roman Church.

THe Common-wealth of RAGOUSE (being a City sci-L tuated on the Gulph of Venice in Sclavonia, the ancient Dalmatia, and called in old time Epidaurum, of which name, there were three Towns along the Sea, between Venice and Corinth,) maintains it felf in liberty, paying 14000 Zequins yearly to the Turk; and as much more in Presents and lodging of Turks. It hath a small Territory on the firm Land; but some small Islands reasonably good, lying betwixt Curzole and the gulph of Catarro. The foyl is barren; but the Ragoufans through much labour bestowed, have oyl, wine, and excellent fruits. They have a Valley, that makes a Lake at Winter, which nourisheth fish so fat, as to fry without oyl: wherein at Spring, the waters drying up, they fow Corn, growing abundantly: so one place yields them fish and corn in one year. And among divers Sea-industries, they make their Trees bring them Oysters, by bending down their boughs, and staying them under water with stones: fo that in two years time, there are a multitude fastened thereto: yet but in a manner good to eat the third year. In their Island Gravofa, are many gardens of Orange, Lemon, and Pomgranate-Trees. The Country about Ragouse is scarce able to maintain them, though they live sparingly; their greatest wealth growes by great Traffique. They are in Religion all Romanists. The City hath a Bishop ordinarily there residing. Also three Overseers of the Cathedral, who continue therein during life, and may be Rectors, Counsellors, Treasurers, and other Officers.

ERMANT the Great, Upper, or that scituate beyond Rhene, is called by the French at this day Almanie or Almaine: one Nation thereof, who being scituated at the Fountains of Danubim, have their name from the word man, as in Norman, Herman, 8cc. or from the River Alemon. It was included under the Roman Empire, which extended it self far and near, till Leo the third (the Empire being before translated from Rome to Constantinoples, by Constantine the Great, the Mahometan's sect and arms afficking it on every side; the West part being ruined, and the East so weakened, weakened, as hardly could defend it felf,) well confidering, (befides the Emperours of Greece nourishing impieties, and accounted herefies) gave the Empire of the West to Charlemain. King of France, in the year 800, (the Venetians being free) who, some lay, transported the Empire to the Germans, Charls being a German by bloud and Nation, as all the Francks which came into Gaul, were of Francony a Province thereof. The Countries which acknowledge this Emperour, are Aisatia, High and Low; Wittemberg, Francony, Suevia, or Suaube, the highest part of all Germany, in which Country the spring or head of Danubius is, Bohemia, which lies within Germanies limits; Moravia, Bavaria, commonly called Bayerne; Austria, or Osterland, that is, the East Countrey, (whose chief City is Vienna) the Country of Tirol, Stiria, antiently Valeria, Carinihia, commonly called Kaerndren, two Carnioles the one called Drie, vulgarly, Underkrain: the other, Oderkrain, Westphalia taken by some for the true and ancient Saxony. The Dutchy of Cleves, the Country of Juliers or Gulish; the Lantgrave of Hegen, Turinge, the Palatinate, containing 48 Towns, whereof Heidelberg is the chief; High Saxony, whose chief Town is wittemberg on the River Elb; base or low Saxony, whose chief Town is Alba. The Marquifate of Brandenburg divided into two parts; the Marquess residing at Berlin; the County of Mansfield a part of old Saxony, Lufatta, Silesia, Misnia, the Dutchy and Bishoprick of Liege, the Archbishoprick of Treves, commonly called Trier. whose chief Town Treves, is one of the most ancient in the world. Holfatia, (which belonging to the King of Denmark, must be particularly discoursed of ) also Bescancon, an Imperial Town in Burgundy, sometime called Chrysopolis, that is, a golden City. Although Tacitus writes, the ayr is troublesome; and Seneca, that it is alway winter: yet the ayr is reasonably mild and temperate, somewhat cold, making them healthy and firong. Its foyl bears wheat, barley, rye, oats, and all kind of grain and pulse in abundance; the fields fertile, and the Meadowes bearing much graffe. Also there is many filver, copper, iron, lead, and other Mines; yea, of gold in some places. Also fair Gardens, and Orchards very pleafing; Wines also, called High-Country Wine, very good and choyfe. Germany must needs be rich, who, besides these, are given much to the trade of Merchandise, and giving themselves to divers Arts and Trades, whereby they make wonderful and rare works, They have great and Navigable Rivers; likewise Fountains and Pits of falt-water, whereof they make excellent Salt. Unto their Fairs (especially those of Franckford) Merchants come from all parts of Europe, and sometimes out of Asia and Africa. Through the late divers years depopulating-wars, their Country in many places was ruined, and much spoyled, and trade hindered. But now there is opportunity (through a concluded peace) of restoring and enjoying both. It's much divided in Religion, some are Papilts, some Lutherant, others Calvinifts. Pope Lee sending forth his Pardons and Indulgencies about 1517, Luther, an Augustine gustine Frier exclaimed against the Clergies dissolutenesse and excesse: writing also books against the Masse, and the Church of Romes superstitions, and against the disordered life of the Pope and his Clergy, against justification by works, as being by Faith onely, whose doctrine was soon embraced and followed by divers Princes, and free Townes of Germany; Most of whose Princes follow Calvin or Luthers protession, (differing in some points, not here to be named particularly) Calvin being followed by the Palatinates of Rhine, those of Strasburg, and most Sea-Townes. Munfier had many called Anabaptists, who were extines, and the Town as formerly.

INGARY, (fo named from the Huns or Hongres, a Scythian II people that dwelt there, and divided upon the North from Polonia and Rusia, by the Mountain of Carpatia) is a Realm embracing also that part of Dacia, called Transilvania, it being environed with high Hills and Woods, as with Walls, which notwithstanding hath Vayuods, or Princes of its own, not obeying Hungaries King. It's chief City is Buda, in the Turks possession, with the best part thereof. It is (by nature) provided for of all things, for there grows all forts of grain, and divers fruits, in abundance: it brings forth Corn (in a manner) without tillage, and the Wheat changeth every third year to a better kind. It yields also divers torts of VVines, some whereof are very wholesome, and excellent as them of Candy. It so abounds in Oxen and Sheep as is admirable : alfo great store of Hares, Fallow Deer, Goats, &c. Likewise divers forts of birds, as Goshauks, Partridges, and Pheasants, flore of Fish in Rivers, Veins of Gold, Silver, Copper, Steel, and Iron, also they find Gold in the fand of Rivers; there is a little Tin and Lead. It abounds in Mineral Salt at Maromars [ia, and other places, they cutting it like a stone: there is a Fountain whose water falling on the ground, turns into a stone. Yet we cannot fay this Realm is very rich, as not much given to Arts and Trades, but practifing Arms, and strong in war. That great part of the Country which the Turks are Masters of, is not so well-manured, nor yielding so plentifully as formerly. As to Religion besides Mahometanisme, which by reason of the Turks, is much dispersed, there are many opinions; all those that are in Germany, and also Arrianism hath got footing, and Atheism crept in. The Towns under the Turk have little of that accounted Herefy: the Christians much, for those called Hereticks are in fear of being impaled by the Barbarians, if too insolent, DOLONIA, or POLAND, (fo called from its Plains, in their Language named Poles, scituate from Moravia toward the East, and in a manner separated from Silesia, by the River Odera, and whose chief City is Cracovia) is at this day bigger then ever: Lituania, and Livonia, having been added to that Kingdome 3 so as from Silesia to Muscovy, it contains almost 120 Geral mane Leagues, and as much from Livenia to Hungary. Its climate being cold, they have neither Olives nor Vines; but it abounds in all other things which the Earth is accustomed to bring forth; also in all forts of Cattle, and in Fish; so that remore Countries tast of her fruitsulnesse. It conteins great Provinces, Poland, High, and Low, Livonia, Lituania, Samogithia, Mafovia, Volhinia, Podolia, Rußia the black, and according to fome, the Red, or Southern, Podlagia, Pomerania, Prufiia, which some call Borugia now divided into two parts, one belonging to the Duke or Marquesse of Brandenburg, Albert being the first thereof; the other to the King of Poland; of whose part, Mariemburg is the chief Town: a little above which, the River Viftula dividing it felf, makes an Island excellent for fertility, and a great number of Villages and houses. Some place Dantzick in Prussia, much esteemed for shipping, and abundance of all Merchandise brought by Sca from the West and North parts, and by land, and by Vistula, running thorow the midft thereof. They make much money of their Honey, Wax, Flax, Hemp, Beeves, Sheep, Horses, and Bugles. But their greatest profit grows by the Salt-pits of Ocen, Viliguse, and divers parts of Russia; likewise of Azure, and of Mines, of Amber gathered on the shoar with little Nets, by men going naked into the Sea. John Huß, his opinion began at the first to disperse it self thorow the Countries subject to this Crown, which Ladislaus violently opposed; For, refusing the offered Crown of Bohemia, and making a decree in a general Diet against it, he stopped its passage out of Bohemia into Poland, Sigismund also forbidding young men to go and study at Lipsie, and Wittemberg, in the time of Luthers doctrine, somewhat stayed the course thereof. But the Provinces near the Baltick Sca, participate much with the opinions of Germany: those confining with Silefia, Moravia, and Hungary, of their neighbours herefies: those advancing towards South and East, for the most part of the Grecians, and are not free from the opinions of the times.

ENMARK, or Danemark, or the Danes Country (so called from Dan, the first Lord thereof, long before Christ, which is bounded on the West by the Germane-Sca, towards the North by Norway; and whose Kings seat, and chief City is reckned Hassine or Copenhagen) consists of many parts, besides the Islands near them; Juita, or Juliand, is called the Cimbrick-Chersonesse, or almost an Island, first inhabited by the Cimbrians, the Bishaprick of Rip, Arrhus, Vandalia: Weynsselled, or Vensilia; that is, the land or seat of the Vandalls, South Juita, called Nordalbinge, comprehending, the Dukedome of Schleswick, (taking its name from the chief Town) and the Dukedome of Holsatia, so named from abundance of Wood, (therein) called Holt in the Germane tongue: Scania, a great Province, and joyning to Denmark by an Arm of land onely, which some call Scandanavia, instead of Ssondania, that is, the pleasant Dania; The Islands of Secland, or Sialand, the greatest of those of Denmark, in which Copenhagen stands: Fiona commonly Fuynen, taking its name of its beauty, and for what it yields, ninety Islands being comprehended under it, lying Southward, and most habitable; Tassing, or Tossing, a chief one among others; Aroe with divers Islands neer it; Also the Island of Huene, in which is the Castle of Uranibourg, full of Mathematicall instruments, very admirable and fure. The little Isle Malmogie, but very good. Norway, (which is subject also to the King of Denmark, though once a flourishing Realm) and borders on Denmark upon the South; upon the North, Lapland; its Metropolis was in old time called Trondon, now Trundtheim, and reduced to a Burrough, the chief Town now of traffique, and where the Governour and Bishop remain, is Berg, or Bergue. Iceland (which some taking for .Thule, are contradicted by divers others) is scituate not under the first Meridian, but eight degrees beyond it; It's a hundred Germane leagues long, and 65 broad, whose inhabitants have Mountains instead of Towns, exceedingly cold, and mostly unmanured. especially toward the North; whose vehement winds suffer nought to grow. It's frozen eight Moneths, yet many places full of hear and fire underground, by an Antiperistasis of cold stopping the pores of the Earth. Julia fends much Cattle, Butter, Cheefe, Tallow, Hides, and many Horses into other parts, making much money of Fish, especially Herrings. Holfatia sends forth many Horfes. Fionia makes great profit of Fish, and Wheat, chiefly Rye and Barley, also they fend forth many Horses, and Oxen. Scania vents store of Fish, Silver, Copper, and Lead; Gothland, much Wheat, Cheefe, Butter, Skins, Firre-Trees for Masts, and much Lime. Norway hath much money for the Fish Berg, very delicate; alfo for Cod, goodly skins, Butter, Tallow, Hides, fat of Whales, Tarre, Rafters, Masts, and boards. The King of Denmark maintains Luthers Doctrine throughout his Dominions, for Christiern the second, giving passage thereto into Swetbland, caused it to be dispersed over all Denmark, being soon discovered after his return from Sweden, to be a Lutheran; but was expelled by his Subicts, with his Wife and three Children in 1523. Yet Christiern who succeeded him, marrying the Duke of Saxonies Sifter, Luther's favourer, gave himfelf wholly to root out the Romish Religion, which he cafily effected.

He Realm of SWEDEN, (belonging formerly to Sigif-I moud King of Poland, having Norway for its bounds on the West, whose chief City is Stockholm) comprehends the Dutchy of Finland, Gothland, Boddia, Or Bothnia, a part of Lapland, Stricfinia, a part of Corelia, the Islands Alandes, and some others of small esteem, so that those that have gone the length and bredth of Sweden, hold it much greater then all Italy and France, Lapland, and Finland being added. Sweden it self is the most fertile Province of all those of the North, bearing great store of grain; there is much Honey, Silver, Copper, Lead, Steel, and Iron, abounding wonderfully fully in fish; feldome any beggars feen among them. Yet in many places (through the craggineffe of the Mountains, moistnesse, and moorishnesse, it is more barren. The Ayre is commonly pure, nor the cold fo violent as fome perswade themselves; they live (most commonly) long, attaining an hundred and thirty, and an hundred and fourty years, especially on the Mountains, and places more toward the Northern winds. They take store of very great Bugles. Gothland abounds in Corn, Cattle, pasture, horses, Fifth, Lead, Iron, and Silver, Latten, and in one place good Iron. Finland is more pleasing then Sweden, and yields more Corn, being mostly in plains. Bothnia is not very fruitful, having many beasts with excellent skins, and much Fish. Lipland hath no Corn, but White Bears, and Ermines: Raine-Deer, for Horses, as big as a Mule; who will draw little Carts an hundred and fifty Miles in a day and night: they have night three Moneths together in winter, with a few hours little light. King Gustave brought Luthers Doctrine into Sweden, feizing upon what goods of the Church he pleased. Yet Calvinssm was received by Charls his third ion, who was Duke of Vermeland, Sudermania, and Nericia: Heary, Guftaves fucceflour, opposed not himfelf. John his brother fucceeding him, was of another opinion, but durst not discover himself. Yet his Wife Katherine the King of Polands daughter, made him observe many Catholique customes. Yea the Queen (who had free exercise of her Religion) obtained some seluites for the people, in credit till her death, in one thousand five hundred eighty three. But they being foon after expelled, few remain of the Romish Religion. Charls uncle to Sigismund, John, and Katherine's son, uturping his Nephews Realm of Sweden, wholly advanced Calvin s Doctrine; yet there are many of the Lutheran's remaining.

Muscovr (lying in the midft of Russia the White) from whence all the Estates of this Empire draw their name, and are confined by Lithuania on the South, Livonia and Finland on the West; its chief City as of the whole Empire is called Muskuva or Mosko, whose houses are most of wood; it's great, but very myrie. The length of this Empire is 3000 miles, the breadth 1500; the longest day in the most Southerly part being but 16 hours and a half: but in the most Northerly 22 hours and a half; it's part in Europe, part in Asia. So that considering what it contains, he might have a higher style than they commonly give him, which is, The great Duke or Knez of Muscovie: yet when they are fufficiently informed of the Countrie's yielding him obedience, they term him Emperour, and give him as much honour as ever was done to any Prince. The Provinces besides Muscowia it felf, are the Dutchy of Folodimer, and Base Novograd, in which are two Towns of wood, of the same names: the Province of Rezan, the Dutchy of Varotina; the Province of Severe, very great, containing many Towns: the Province of Smolensko, (scituate on the river Neper or Borysthenes) taken from Poland's King by Basilius the great Duke, whole chief Town is Smolensko. Mosaiski, taken from King Alexander of Poland, by John Basilim his predecessour. Biele or Bielski, with a Town of the same name upon the River Opske: the Dutchy of Roschove, whole Town stands upon the famous river Volgas. Twver, one of the greatest in Russia, whose Town Tuverde is greater and statelier than Mosko. Plescovia or Pleskonia, its chief Town being Pleskouu, powerful and walled, which the other Towns want. Novogrod the great, the greatest Dutchy of Russia, taking its name from Novogrod, the greatest and richest Town of all towards the North. The Country of Volske or Votske, the Province of Corelle, extending to the frozen Sea, fo as they have not any dark night. Bieleiezioro or Biolifero, having a Town so called, in whose impregnable Fort the great Duke commonly lodges his Treasure, and whither he retires, when preffed by enemies. Volokde, the Dutchy of Jaroflave, with a Town and Castle so called, on the river Volga; also the Principality of Rostonu; the Province of Duvine, to called from the river watering it, which comes from two rivers, Duvine in the tongue fignifying two. The Sun in the Summer Solftice shines there 21 hours and a half, but two hours and a half in the winter folftice. The Province of Susdali, having a Bishop's See; but now (through the Tartars incursions) in a manner defart. The province of Vuiatl.ka, which was taken from the Tartars by the great Duke Basilius. Permia, having a Town of the same name on the river Vischore. Jugre or Jugaria, from whence the Hungarians coming, seized on Pannonia, calling it from Jugaria, Hungarie. Petzore, very long bending to the frozen Sea, whose longest day is 22 hours. The Cneremisses are also under him, and Nordues; other Northern Countries acknowledg him, as Obdore, Condore, Culomorie, and Lappia; likewise certain Hoords of Tartarians, as Casan, &c. They have great store of skins of Elks, Staggs, Bears, Wolves, and Sables, which they fell into Europe, also Flax and Hemp. They fend great store of Corn towards the Caspian and Euxine Seas, besides Iron, Wax, Tallow, Wood, Ashes, whereof they sell abundance to strangers. Nicholas Port is of great Traffique, whither the English trade much. They exchange the Commodities of their Country for cloath, which the Armenians bring to Astracan, and the English to Nicholas Port. The Knez his riches may cafily be conjectured great, he being Lord and absolute Master of all things. They received Religion from the Greeks in 987, or 942, in the which although perfifting, yet they have added (in time) many fuperstirions. They say, themselves and the Greeks are onely true Christians: that the Romans and others are fallen from the primitive Church: They celebrate their Masse and ceremonies in their own language, which is the Sclavonian tongue; they fuffer not Jews to live among them. Processions are very frequent there, and though it be exceeding cold, yet they go far. They never passe before a Monastery, Temple, or Crosse, (whereof the fircets are full) but horsemen (alighting) and footmen also, kneel down, making the sign of the Grosse, saying thrice, Miloy Hospodi, or Lord have mercy upon m. It's lawful for Prics to marry out once. They deny Purgatory, yet pray for the deceased faithful. They hold it not lawful to celebrate any Councels, but the first seven, whence growes their discord with the See of Rome. They have a Metropolitan, to whom they attribute as much as Papilis do to the Pope: and without whole advice, the Prince determines not of any important thing; yet they say, the Metropolitan should depend on the Patriarch of Constantinople. The Prince strictly observes all Ceremonics of their religion: for when they change a dish at Table, or give him drink, he makes many signs of the cross. He fails not at any sast, and beats the ground with his fore-head through devotion, as the rest do, especially at the elevation of the Sacrament.

Ddddd

The Nordovois on Muscovie's frontiers use circumcision; worshipping no Idols, as the Pagans, nor are they baprized; worshiping one onely God Creator of all; going into the field, (which is seldome) they eating and drinking together, offer to God the first of all, cashing it against Heaven, as of any thing they gather.

ACIA (bounded on the West with Hungary, and so named from the Daci sirst inhabiting it after the Moess, who gave them place) is divided into Transylvania, Moldavia, Walachia, Servia, Rascia, Bulgaria, Bosnia.

TRANSILVANIA (of which before in Hungary) whose chief Town is Alba Julia, was committed unto Bethlem-gabor by the Sultan Achmet, after the death of Gabriel Basour, who succeeded Justine Bosseay, in 1609.

NOLDAVIA (scienated on the North end of Transstvaria, whose chief City is Occazonia) was utterly subjected (in 1574) to the Turks by Selimus the second; which revolting and combining with the Transstvarian and Walachian, they have since prosecuted it with great alteration. To this belongs little Bestarbia, between Mount Hoemus South, and Lithuanta North; so called from the Bests; whose chief Town is Kilim, made a Turkish Province, in 1485.

WALACHIA, to be called Flaccia, from Flaccia, who planted here a Roman Colonie, seated between Traissivania and Danubius: The chief City being Sabinium. It abounds in all necessaries for the life of man: Mines of gold, silver, and iron; Salt-pits, wines, Cattle, chiefly a number of good and great horses, pure refined brienstone; it joyned with Moldavia, upon Amurath the third's requiring the tribute of 60000 Ducats to be doubled, in 1594.

SERVIA (lying between Bosnia and Rascia) whose chief Ciy is Stoniburg, once the Despoi's seat distinct from Rascia, lying between Servia and Bulgaria, which had also a Despot of its own. But one George, a Christian by protession, and Turk by affection, being Despot of both, and the Turks tributary, after his son Lazaria his death, who succeeded him, Mahomet united them to his Empire in 1454.

Bulgaria (having on the West, Rascia; on the South, Ibrace; whose Mother-City is Sophia, now the Turkish Beglerbeg's seat of Greece) is so called from the Scythians of Eulgar, who conquered it; who were bitter enemies to the Christians, till the King thereof, with all his people; were baptized in 868; over which Theophylaid was chief Bishop. It was of a Kingdom made a province by the Turk in 1396.

Dos NIA, so called of the Bossi of Bulgaria, and bounded on the East with Servia, its chief City is Cazachium. It was crected a Kingdom in 1420, and not long after, Stephen the King, being taken and flayed alive, by Mahomet the great, it was turned into a Mahometan Province in 1464.

SCLAFONIA (having Hungary on the North; on the West, part of Italy; so called from the Sclavi; before, Illyricum, a couragious, proud, and stubborn people) is now divided into Illiris, Dalmatia, and Croatia.

Illiris (whose general name is now given to one part thereof, and commonly called windismarch) is bounded on the East with Danubiu, whose chief City is Zatha on Danubius, and now a member of Hungary.

Dalmatia, having on the East the River Drinus; on the West, Croatta, (for whose Town Zara or Jadara (standing on the Seashore) there hath been great Wars betwixt the Hungarians and Venetians) (as of great importance) its Inhabitants were the Dalmatia, whose Metropolis was Dalminium on Drinus. It was made ribusary to the Venetians, upon their new Lords the Hungarians ravishing some Venetian Damosels. But now is divided between the Turk and Venetian who yet hath the greatest part.

Croatia, called antiently Liburnia and Valeria, and having on the East Dalmatia, whose chief City is Gardiska, on the River Savus. The Croatians are certuptly called Corbats; it is entituled a Dukedome; but subject both to the Austrians and Venetians, who entred it in 1007. These three Countries thus called Sclavonia, use their own Sclavonian tongue, and is observed to be used by all the Turkish Emperours, Captains and Souldiers. The Country is most fit for grazing; whose Sheep and other Cattle bring forth young twice a year, the sheep being shorn four times. They are by outward profession of Religion, Christians, following the Greek Church.

REECE (so called from Gracus, who founded Athens, and Taccounted the Mother of Arts and Sciences, except the Mathematiques) was given a name onely to the Country about Attica, till the Macedonian Empire had swallowed up the other Common-wealths; but now including Peloponnesus, Achaia, Epirm, Albania, Macedonia and Thefsalie, Migdonia, and Thrace, beholds Italy on the West; the Agean-Sca, &c. on the East. The Greeks were diverfly called, A:bivi, Myrmidones, &c. They were once brave men for war, learning, virtue, government and behaviour; for which, they scornfully called other Nations Barbarians; now most fit for the Gracians themselves, being unconstant, illiterate, uncivil, riorous, and lazie. They spake Greek, whereof there were 5 diale as. The Common, Atrick, Dorick, Æolick, Ionick. Peloponnefus is a Peninfula, tyed to the main land, but with an Illbmus of 6 miles broad, so called of Pelops, and Nicos, which fignifies an Island. It contains 6 Provinces; Elis, having Arcadia on the East, whose chief City is Elis; another is Olympia, where was the Statue of Jupiter Olympicsus 60 cubits high; in honour of whom, the Olympick games were begun by Hercules. M Senia, having Elis on the North, whose Metropolis is Messene, wherein Menelaus (Helena's husband, who occasioned Troy's destruction) reigned. Areadia, (lo named from Areas, formerly Pelafeia) which hath Elis and Messenia on the West; Its chief City being Psophis. Lacenia, on the West of which Iyeth Arcadia; whose chief City is Lacedemon, once a famous Common wealth by means of the Laws of Lycurgus, which being kept almost 700 years, it flourished all the while. They were accounted the chief of all the Gracians: But the Athenians beginning to eclipse their glory by conquest in Asia, they warred against them, and after many loss sook and dismantled the City. Argolis, denominated from its chief City Argos, built by King Argus, and bounded on the South with Laconia; in which was born Agamemnon, Captain of the Greck Army before Troy, in which Army were 69 Kings carried over by 1224 ships. Achaia Propria, having Elis, Arcadia, and Argolis on the South. Its chief City is Corinth, at the foot of the Acro-Corinthran hills, built and named by Corinthus the fon of Pelops; which flourishing by reason of its commodious situation, (the Sea washing its walls on both fides) abused some Roman Embassadours fent them: for which, Lucius Mummius (taking it) burnt it to the ground: and now is of small note, and called Crato. Peloponnesus was conquered by the Turk in 1460.

A CHAIA (once named Hellas, from Helles, Deucalion's son) is divided into Attica, which hath on the West, Megaris, whote chief City Athens being built by Cecrops, was called Cecrepia, but took its name from Athena, which is Minerva, fameus for three special things: the Citizens inviolable faith, and unfained affection: for Schollars, from whose University learning

ing dyed in banishment, or violently at home.

Megaris, (having on the South Baotia) whose chief City is Megara of Megra, where Euclide the Geometrician taught. This Country having shaken off the Cretans, came to a height of prosperity: which lasted not long in that degree; yet were a free people till the coming of the Macedonians.

Brotia, which hath Attica on the East, taking its name from Brotian, which hath Attica on the East, taking its name from Brotian; in which Town dwelt Pelopidas and Epaminondas, who so crushed the Lacedemonians in two battles, that they never reobtained their former puissance. Philip of Macedon first got sociating in Greece, by making this flourishing Common-wealth submit to his mercy.

Phocos, having Bootia on the East, (whose chief Town is Cyrra, as also Autycira, famous for its Ellebore very Medicinal for madnesse); in it is, Mount Helicon confectated to the Muses, also the hill Citheron, both striving with Parnassus, whose two tops even kisse the Clouds.

Locris, bounded on the East with Etolia, whose chief City is Naupastum, now called Lepanto.

£tolia, (bounded on the West with Epirus) its chief Town is Chalcis: The £tolians were the most turbulent people of Greece, never at peace with their Neighbours, seldom with themselves.

Doris, which hath Bæotia on the East; its chief City is Amphissa. This people causing Philip to return into Greece: Demosthenes whetting on the Ashenians by his biting Philippica against him:
their Armies meeting, and the Ashenians being vanquished, Philip was made Captain of all Greece.

Epirus, bounded on the North with Macedon, whose Eastern part is called Acarnania; its western, Chaonia; and in which Country Olympias (Alexander the Great his Mother) was born, as also Pyrrhus, who warring with the Romans, it was after his death subdued by Paulus Amilius, who destroyed 70 Cities thereof in one day; in which is the City Nicopolis, built by Augustus, and Asium, nigh which, he and Anthony sought for the World's Empire.

Albania, bounded on the South with Epirus; in which is the City Albanopolis; and Durazzo at first called Epidamnum, and then Dyrrhachium, under whose Walls was the first bickering between Casar and Pompey's Souldiers. Its chief City was Crois in George Castrior's time, named Scanderbeg; under whose walls Amurath the second, having with very great losse besseged it, forrowfully and wretchedly dyed.

MACEDONIA

ACE DONIA (whose Southern part is The faly) is bounded on the East with Migdonia, and called Amathia from King Amathus; Hamonia, from Mount Hamus; Macedonia, from King Macedo: the first City whereof is Soydra, another is Pella, where Alexander the Great was born. It was never very famous, till King Philip and his son Alexander's dayes.

THESSALIE, (wherein is the exceeding high Hill Olympus, being by Poets taken for Heaven) in which pleasant and fruitful Country, was scituate the delightful Valley, Tempe, five titles broad, and fix long, whose chief City is Tricca, where Heliodorus was Bishop: another is Pharsalis, nigh which, Casar and Pompey sought for the Lordship of the World, Casar being Conquerour.

IGDONIA, (having on the North Thrace, and in which is he Hill Athos, 75 miles about; and so high, that its shadow reacheth to Lemnos, 40 miles) its chief City is Stagira, where famous Aristotle was born.

THRACE, now called Romeli or Romania, from Roman Colo-I nies there planted, and Constantinople's being called New Rome; (bounded on the East with Macedons wherein stands Constantinople, which being built by Pausanias a Lacedemonian Captain 663 years before Christ, was by him called Byzantium; it's in compasse 18 miles, most fiely seated for an Empire; as overlooking Europe and Asia, and commanding the Euxine-Sea, Propontis, and Hellespont. It was taken by Mahomet the Great Turk, in 1453. Being re-built by a Constantine, called the Great, (therefore called Constantinople) the son of a Helena, a Gregory being Patriarch thereof; and it was lost by a Constantine, sirnamed Paleologus, the son of a Helena, a Gregory being also Patriarch. Its people were accounted very bold and valiant, who were called by some 'Autoropois because every one was a law to himself; which had they been of one mind, and under one King, Herodotus faith, they had been invincible; but two brothers striving for the Kingdome, and at last appealing to Philip of Macedon; he taking an advantage, seized on it, and kept it. The Town of Sestes on Hellespont was also in this Country, right over against Abydos, on Asia fide, which two places were famous for the love of Here and Leansier; in whose room stands two Castles, who examine all ships passing that way, and receiving the grand Signior's customs.

In the ÆGEAN Sea (which receiveth Hellespont's waters after 40 miles course) also (whether so called from Ægeus, Theseus his stather, who here drowned himself; or from Æge, once a chief City in Euboa Island; or that the Islands lye scattering like the scape of a Goat, from Arychos, so signifying,) are divers Greek Islands, Islands, the chief whereof are, Samothracia, where Pythagoras, and Samo a Sybill were born, whose chief Town is Samia.

Lemnos, once called Diospolis, from its two chief Cities Hephefiia, wholly decayed; and Lemnos or Myrina yet continuing; where also the soveraign Mineral called Terra Lemnia is digged.

Lesbos, so called of Lesbos, who married Mitylene; of which name is a chief City therein. In this Island, Sappho, who invented the Sapphick verse, Pittacus a wise man of Greece, and Theophrastus a notable Physician, were born.

Chios, (whether so named from Chione a Nymph, or from xion; snow; or from Chio (now called Sio) the chief City; so called from the Greek letter xi in whose fashion it was built. Herein

Euboa, now Nigropont, which was tent from Achaia's Continent by an Earthquake, between which, is but a little Euripus: the cause of whose cbbing and flowing seven times a day, Aristotle not sinding, is said to throw himself into the Sea, with these words;
Because I cannot comprehend thee, thou shalt comprehend me. Its chief Cities are Chalcis, once joyned by a bridge to the Continent. Seyros, Achilles his lurking place, sent thicker by his Mother, being forewarned he should be slain in the Trojan war.

Salamis, nigh Megaris, noted for Xerxes his numerous Navy; overthrown by the Athenians and their Allies. For which Isle alfo, there was much contending between the Athenians and Megarenses.

The Sporades, so called from and to disperse, because they are featured about the Sea; their number is 12, The principall of which is named Melos, from its much honey.

The Cyclades (so denominated, because they lay in a circle about Delos, the chief of them, noted for the Temple of Apollo, and for nor suffering any to die or be born therein) are 53 in number, whereof (besides Delos) these four are remarkable, Samos, where the Tyrant Polycrates lived without any mischauce, till (at last) he was miserably put to death by Orontes.

Coos, (but now Lange) in which Hippocrates the reviver of Phyfick was born; where also Asculapius was worshipped: Its chief Town is Coos.

Glaros, but small, whither the Romans were wont to banish delinquents. The 69 Kings at Troy's siege, were Kings but of these small slands: which stand so close together, that 20 may be seen (in a clear day) at one time; yet are they part in Europe, part in Asia; called also the Islands of the Arches, as being in the sea called Archi-pelagus.

Creet or Candie, (once called Hecatompolis, as having 100 Cities therein, whose Metropolis Candie is much inhabited by the Venetians) which is scituate in the mouth of the Legan Sca, (in length 270 miles, in breadth 50) was above mentioned in the Venetians Common-wealth, to whom it is subject; whose ancient Inhabitants were much addicted to lying, as appears by Paul's citing Epimenides

Epimenides words, Tu. 1. v., 12. yet were excellent failers. The Island is very populous, and fruitfull of Wines, together with Gum, Honey, Sugar, Olives, Dates, Apples, Orenges, Lemmons, Raifins, Mellons, Citrons, Pomegranats; but, through its heat, deficient in Corn; other Islands there are also in this Sea, as Claudi, Dio, and Ægilia.

The chief Islands of the Ionian Sea (named either from Ionius; whom Hercules killing, here drowned, or from the Region Iona, in the utmost part of Calabria, or from Io daughter of Inachus) are, Cithera, now Cerigo, (mentioned before). It was formerly called Porphyria, from abundance of Marble therein, and hath a Town of the same with the Island, our of whose Temple dedicated to Venus, Helena was willingly ravished by Paris, it's also environed with Rocks.

Strophades, being two Islands lying against Meßenia, whose ravenous birds, the Harpies, were driven away by Zethus and Calanus. They are now inhabited onely by Greek Friers, called Caloyres, that is, good Priess.

Zacinthus or Zant, so called of Zacinthus, son to Dardanus; whose chief City is called also Zant, so miles from Peloponness, for the Cuftome of whose very Currans they pay 18000 yearly Dollars to the Venetians. They being very frequently troubled with Earthquakes, build their houses very low. Over the judgment Hall door of whose City Zant; there are written Latine Verses to this purport.

This place doth hate, love, punish, keep, requite; Voluptuouriot, peace, crimes, Laws th' upright.

The ECHINADES, little Isles, five in number, onely famous for the battle of Lepanto. Cephalenia over against Acharnania, called at first Melena, then Teleboas; but Cephalenia, from Cephalus. Corcyra, now Corfu, so called from the Virgin Corfu; it's but twelve miles from Epirus; whose chief City Corfu, the Turks have found impregnable through two unaccessible Fortresses on its top, esteemed the chief Bulwarks of Venice, whose two Captains are sworn during their two years command, to have no converse or intelligence with each other. Ithaca, now Val de Campare, on the North-East of Cephaloria, in which Ulysses was born, Leucadia, of the white Rocks between it and Cephalonia, its chief City is Saint Maure, most inhabited by Jens. All these Islands (bessides this Leucadia, lost to the Turks) have been defended by the Venetians.

The MEDITERRANEAN Isles, (from the Mediterranean Sea, so called, because it runs in the middle of the Earth, and called by late Writers, the Levant-Seas, (because they are toward the East of France, Spain, &c. Levant, in French signifying the Sun-rising) are; Sicily (of which before in Spain) called at Ecce e first Trinacria, for being triangular, it butteth into the Sea with three Promontories. Its narrow Scas between it and Italy, being but a mile and half broad, on each fide of which are Scylla, and Charibdis: Scylla being a dangerous Rock on Italy fide, and Charibdie a devouring Gulfon Sicily fide; It is seven hundred miles in compasse, and had seventy two Cities therein, now but twelve. The chief being Palermo, where the Spanish Vice Roy refides, which stands in Mazara, the Western Province of the three, (in one of whose Cities the Tyrant Phalaris lived, that tortured Perillus another Tyrant, in his own Brazen Bull which he had made to torment others in) the other two being Vallis de Noto, and Mona, Milta, (formerly Melita, where Paul shook off the Viper without hure) is but fixry miles from Sicilia, and as much in Circuit, barren, as being scituate on a Rock, covered but with three foot of earth; yet there is abundance of Cotton Wooll, and store of Pomegranates, Citrons, &c. It was given to the Knights of the Rhodes, being expelled thence by the Turk, in 1522, who now being called Knights of Malta, have ever fince defended it against the faid Turk. They are 1000 in number, and at their admirtance into that order, are fworn to defend the Church of Rome, to obey their superiours, live on their Orders revenues, and live chastly. Their great Master, though a Frier, bath a high stile; who is chosen out of the fixteen called Crosses, who are of great authority among them.

Corfica, of which in the state of Genoa, was first called Cyrnss, (now Corfica from a Woman of that name) its chief City being Bastia, on the North East, upon a commodious Haven, where Genoa's Governour resides, with a strong Garrison. It's 120 miles

Sardinia, (lying South from Corfica, and but feven miles from it) is divided into Cape Lugadory towards Corfica, mountainous and barren, belonging to the Genoans, and Cape Caligary toward Africk, larger and fruitfull, appertaining to the Fifans, who disagreeing about their bounds, Pope Boniface the eighth, giving it to James King of Arragon, and his successours they drove them thenee, and made themselves Lords thereof in 1324. Its chief City is Caliaria, built by the Pifans, where the Spanish Vice-Roy hath his residence. Yet this City is governed by a Councell of its own Citizens.

The Baleares, (so called from the Greek word Bánne to cass, because they were very excellent slingers) are two; Majorea or the greater, which is fixty miles from Spain, and 300 miles in compasse, whose chief Cities are, Majorea, a University, and Palma, in which Raymundus Lullius was born.

Minorca, or the less, is nine miles from the other; and 150 miles about; whose chief Town is Minorca: both which Islands, (through the Romans teaching them the use of Ferrets) destroyed the multitude of Conjes, who undermined their Houses and Walls,

Nigh

Nigh these are two small ones; Ebuisia, whose chief Ciry is Trica: Salt is its chief commodity; and Olbiusa, called Frumentania; Both whose men and women, as of an adjoyning Isler, are very good swimmers: Pedro the fourth King of Arragon, united all these sour to his Crown, in 1343.

There are also lesse Islands hereabouts; The Valcanian or Lolian, being eleven in number; the two chief of whom, are Lipara,

Vulcania, where Vulcan was worshipped: near these, was the first Seasight between the Romans and Carthaginians.

The Isles of Naples, being eighteen, the chief whereof are Islehia, whose chief Town is so called: Caprea, and Anaria.

The Ligurian Isles; whereof the principall are Elba, or Ilva; whose chief City Cosmopolis, Cosmi of Medices builded.

Gallinaria, from its many wild Hens, and Giglio.

Gades, or Cales, scituate without the Mouth of the strait of Gibralter (called of old Fretum Herculeum, on whose South-side upon Moust Abiba, Hercules placed his Pillars, on which he inscribed Wilultra, or no farther) as being from Gibal Tariss, a chief leader of the Moors into Spain, then the Western bound of the World; and in which there was a Temple consecrated to Hercules, that great traveller. The English took it (in 1596) in one day.

The Brittish Isles (with those of Zealand, and Denmark) are cal-

Little is to be said of the riches or fruitfullnesse of either Bosnia, Bulgaria, Servia, or Roscia, as being for the most part full of Mountains, yielding little; and most of the plains and valleys in Bulgaria, arefull of thick Woods, and its middle part more stony and rough then the rest; but Bosnia hath much Silver Mine, and Servia Mines of Gold. They were of the Religion of the Greeks, in which Countries now Mahometism bears most sway, they being subjected to the Turk.

As for Greece, it formerly exceeded all others in Europe, both for the Ayr's temperature, and goodnesse, and the soils delight-some fertility, bringing forth all sorts of sruits, and nourishing muchCattle; also Fish abounded in its Sea's and Rivers; with all Plenty and Wealth, for that it was so easily to be arrived at, through its Gulfs, Ports, Isles, Demy siles and Rivers; and questionlesse, would still yield great profit to the Husbandman, if pains were taken in the tillage thereof: but the Greeks (knowing nothing certainly to be their own, but all subject to the Great Turk and his souldiers) omit the same; yet they transport and send into other parts, Wines, Oyl, Copper, Vitriol, some Gold and silver, Damasks, Velvets, Grograms, &c.

Pliny conamends Thrace for fertility, and its Corn for weight and fubliance, of which they reap flore in divers goodly plains; but it is mostly cold, and in the dayes of Copronymus the Emperour, Thracius Bosphorus (by which Constantinople is scituated, and which comprehends thirty good Ports in Alia and Europe (though most on Europe side) was (with a part of the great Sca) soirozen, that the Ice was twenty five Cubits thick, (with a great quantity of Snow thereon) and being increased 20 Cubits above the face of the Sea, men might travail, and Waggons laden, out of Europe into Alia, and from Constantinople, to the entry of Danubiu, as on dry land) whereby it is not (of it felf) a rich foil, nor of a pleasant Ayre, the feeds ripening leiturely, and the Vines and Trees yielding more Icaves then juice and fruit. To leave the antient Religion of the Greeks (when, notwithstanding all their humane wisdome) they in a Pagan manner worshipped an unknown God, in various manners, and under the name of divers gods; the Faith of Christ was received in some part thereof (as in The Balonica) soon after the departure of Christ to the Father, and the spirits Baptism given, as it was in Rome, to which Church Paul wrote also an Epistle; but degenerating from the power into the form of R ligion; all the Grecks became Christians in name and protession; who withdrawing themselves long ago from the Courch of Rome, upon some points, as the manner of the administring the Supper, &c. (some of which were mentioned in Muscovy) and not acknowledging the absolute supremacy of the Romane Bishops, fet up Patriarcus, that is, chief fathers of their own, whom they acknowledged for their heads, and spiritual Governours: of which there are four. The Patriarch of Frusalem over the Greeks of Palestina; of Alexandria, over Arabia and Agypt: of Antioch prefiding over Syria, Armenia, and Cilicia; of Constantinople, whom the Country and territory of Greece acknowledge, together with Sclavonia, Dacia, part of Poland, the Adriatique and Ægean Isles, as also Creet, and Cyprus, and Rhodes, of whom in Asia. There are many Caloyers or Greek Pricks or Monks, dispersed over all Greece, where (for a tribute to the Turk) they are permitted free exercise of Religion; yet not without 1000 indignities from the domineering Turks. Abour 6000 of these Caloyers inhabite Mount Athos, a priviledg formerly granted to them of Bafils Order, onely to dwell in; where are Monasteries and Reliques, visited from all parts, also stately and adorned Temples, which Mountain the Greeks as much effeem as the Latines do Rome. They all do something, or exercise some Mechanick Trade, labouring to maintain the whole family, by going out of the Monastery to work. They wear woollen shirts which they make themselves; being apparelled almost like Hermites. They are so little given to Learning, that many of them can neither write nor read. If any passe over the Mountain on any occasion, they furnish him with victualls without any money; These the Turks hold in such esteem, that they are very charitable towards them.

A Description of ASIA.

SIA, which is also called (by the Poets) Lydia, by a Synechdoche of a part for the whole; according to 1 me, takes its name from the Fenne Asia; after others, from Asia the Mother of Prometheus: according to Hippius with Eustathius, from Asius a certain Noble-man: after others, from Asia the fabulous Daughter of the Ocean and Thetys. It is the greatest among all the parts of the world known to the Antients, containing from East to West, 130 degrees of the great Circle, taking its beginning from that Meridian, whose distance from the Fortunate or Canary Islands is 70 degrees, even to that Meridian which is distant from the Fortunate Islands 200 degrees: which 130 degrees being numbred in the 30th Parallell, which cuts almost thorow the midst of Asia, do make above 1300 German miles. It is the East part of the World, both in respect of Africa and Europe; whence perhaps it is called Natolia, from the Greek word dieron, which fignifies the East. It is disjoyned from Europe by the River Tanais, and also by the Euxine and Agean Sea: but it is disbounded from Africa (not according to some) with the River Nilus: but with the Sinus Arabicus, or bosome of Arabia, and by a line which is brought out from thence into the Mediterranean Sea. It cleaves to Africa by an Ishmus or a piece of land of 18 German miles; and is washed towards the West with the Mediterranean Sea, and is compassed in its other parts with the Evan, Seythick, and Indian Ocean. It is also divided into the greater and leffe; the leffer is next to Europe; and by a special name called Natolia, and likewise Turcomania, because the Turks hold it all at this day; whose Countries are, Cilicia, Pamphilia, Caria, Lycia, Ionia, (which with Strabo is Strictly called Alia, Lydia. Lolia, both Mylia's, Phrygia the leffe, and greater, Bithynia and Pontus, Paphlagonia, Cappadocia, Galatia, Lycaonia, Pifidia, and Armenia minor; Greater Afia, is that which is more remote from Europe toward the Eath, whose chief parts are, I. Syria, Palestina. 2. Armenia the greater. 3. Chaldea. 4. Arabia, which is threefold, Petraa, or the flony; Deferta, or the wildernesse; and Falix, or the happy Arabia. 5. Persia; and then Tartaria, Hyrcania, Bastriana, Parthia, and lastly, India; which India is divided into the Old and New. The bound of Old India in the East, was the Country of the Sinans; and is divided into that which is within the River Ganges, or the Western: Whose chief or greatest City is Calicut: and into that which is without Ganges, or the Eastern, which is extended even to the golden Cherfone fe or Malaqua. The Eastern part of New India, is the Kingdom of Catay or Cathaia, which is called Upper India: but the Southern part is the Country of the Chinoss, and likewife Japonia, with other parts found out by the Portugals, which embrace the Lower India.

But Alia is divided into five Empires; the Moscovite, part whereof is onely therein as aforefaid: the Ottoman or Turkish: the Persian, the Tartarian; and the Indian. Its Seas are, the Mediterranean, and the Ocean; and its chiefRivers, Euphrates, Ganges, and Indus. The greatest Mountain of Asia, and as it were the father of the other Mountains there, is Taurus: which reckoning his bendings and windings, is 6250 miles long, and 375 broad; having divers names in diversity of places, as Caucasus, Sarpedon, &c. and according to some, Imaus: yet Imaus may be accounted a second distinct Mountain in Asia; for although it crosse Taurus even (as it were) with right angles; yet as Taurus divideth (beginning about Caria and Cilicia) the North of Asia from the South: so Imaus (beginning in the North shoar) doth the East from the West: so making Scythia within Imaus, and Scythia without Imaus. Asa (from the beginning) was the most excellent part of the world: both in regard (as is believed by most) of the Creation of mankind there; and also, for all the matter of history of the Old and New Testament there done, except a few histories of the Apostles: and so because there the true Church was first gathered; because Christ (whose light and life is the Saviour of Mankind) there preached, dyed, and rose again. Likewise for that in the same place, were established the Monarchies of the Astrians, Persians, Babylonians and Medes. And lasly, because in Asia was the first original of all Nations, as also of all tongues and arts. This indeed was, once its dignity and prerogative, but at this day it is a fold for Turks, and other blasphemous and very wicked Gentiles. Its head or chief City was once called Troy; but now the Cities therein are not so fair and decked, unlesse for the astonishing things related of the City Quinsay; which may be reckoned the greatest in the World. And thus much of Asia in general.

NATOLIA, or Natolia, (called Asia the Lesse, in which were John's seven Churches, to wit, Ephesus, Smyrna, Thyatira, Laodicea, Pergamus, Philadelphia, and Sardis) its sirst Country to be mentioned is CILICIA, on the South-East; whose chief Cities are, Nicopalis, built by Alexander the Great, for his victory over Darius of Persia, (its name signifying a City of victory) night the straights of Antitaurus, called Pila Cilicia; wherein with 30000 he slew 110000 of Dariu his men, who were in all 600000. Pompeiopolis, built by Pompey after vanquishing the Pyrats, who spoyled even Italy's Villages it self: Alexandria, built also by Alexander, distinct from that in Egypt, therefore named Alexandretta. And Tarsus or Tarshish, where Paul was born, and whither Jonah would have fied when sent to Nineveb. In the waters also of this Countrie's River, Cidmus, was the Emperour Frederick the First, drowned, when bathing himself.

PAMPHILIA, frontier's on the East by Cilicia, and part of Cappadocia; called (saith one) by the Arabians, Zina. A chief Town thereof is Perga, in the midst of the Country, where Diana was worshipped. Phaselis, Ætalia is the greatest and strongest of its Towns, being Maritime; and is now called Satalia, giving also her name to the adjoyning gulph. Nigh the River Eurymedon herein, Cymon the Athenian Captain overthrew, first the Sea-forces of the Persians, then their Land-forces, (by attiring his men in the Persians habit, stowed in their taken ships, and waving their colours) in one day.

TCIA, watered with the River Xanthus, (whence they thereabout were called Xanthi) bordereth on the West of Ramphilia; afterwards called Lycii, from Pandion's son, Lycus, whose chief Town now is Patras: also Phaselis, formerly as much enriched and haunted by Pyrats, as Algiers is now. Basore the Romans conquered this Province, they were governed by 23 men chosen out of their 23 Cities.

ARIA (denominated from Cara its King, who invented Augury or divination by birds flying) is on the West of Lycia; whose chief Cities are Mindum, which though but small, had wide gates. Halicarnassus, where Doonssus (who wrote Rame's first 300 years history) was born: also Magnessa, which Xerxes assigned to Themssuches, (when banished) to whom he field for entertainment: for joy of whom, Xerxes cryed out oft-times in his sleep, Habeo Themssuchem Atheniensem, I have Themssuches the Athenian on my side. All which Countries are now called Caramania, from one Caramon, Aladine's Captain, the Zelzuccian. Now a Sanzackship of the Oguzian Turk.

TONIA (which hath been taken for Asia Propria, alone, al-I though that include likewise, Caria, Lydia, Æolia, and both Phrygia's, and of which Afia, Acts 19.10, 27, must be understood) lyeth on the North of Caria; in which, seven Cities (whereof Smyrna was one) strove for the birth-place of Homer. Ephefus (standing by the Sea-Coast, and said to be now called Figena or Fiena) is also a principall City hereof, to whose Gospel-Church, Paul wrote a lively Epistle: it's accounted also John the Evangelist's buriall place; wherein also was Diana's Temple, which being contrived by Cteliphon, and 200 years in building, was for its largenesse, turniture, and workmanship numbred among the Seven Wonders of the World, and was set on fire by Erostratus, (the night that Alexander was born, after 6 times firing before) who did it to make himfelf famous by doing evil, fince he could not by good. These lonians rebesting against Darius Hystaspis, baving before been subdued by Harpagus, Cyrus his Lievtenant, and the Athenians affifting them therein, chiefly moved Darius to invade Greece. Little Doris borders on its South-fide; whole chief Towns are Cnidis and Ceraunus. Ionia is now called Sarachan from one of Aladine's successours, of that name.

A Geographical Description

TDIA (which was also called Meonia) took its name either from Lydus a Nobleman, or from Lud, who was Sem's fon, and bordereth on the North-East of Ionia, wherein stand the Cities of Sardis, (which being ruined by an Earthquake, was rebuilt by Tiberius); Pergamus, where parchment called Pergamenum, was invented; where also Galen was born, who lived in health 140 years. Landicea, Thyatira, and Philadelphia; of which Sardie was the strongest. It was a Kingdom before Rome's building, whose last King was Cræsus, one of the richest of old; who after fubduing Doris and Lolis, was with his Kingdom fubdued by Cyrus. But the Lydians rebelling afterwards, he subduing them, dispoyled them of all instruments of war, training that powerfull Nation in all loofe and effeminate living. In this Country runs the River Maander with his winding banks. They are faid to be the arst coyners of money, and inventers of dice, ball, and Chefs, &c. to beguile hunger (for 22 years) every fecond day; Till they being more fruitful than the foyl, fent a Colony under Tyrrhenus into Italy, which their plantation is called, not now Tyrrhenia, but Tuscanie.

EOLIS (South from Lydia, and lying on the Ægean Coast, whose people together with the Dorians and Ionians of Asia, were of old onely accounted Greeks: the other Afians, Barbarians) hath three Maritine Towns; Myrina, and Cuma, now called Castri; and Focea, now named Foglia Vecchia, that is, the old leaf.

Igh unto Aolis, are the high and low MrSIA; whose chief City was of old called Lampfaca, in which Priapus a god was worshipped in a beastly manner and form. Cyzicus also was another City therein. The River Granica, called also Lascara, is in this Country where Alexander vanquished Darius his Lievtenants. There was also formerly the Town of Adramittium an Athenian Colonie, now named Landermitti. This people are faid to be so base of condition, that one of no worth was called Mysiorum postremus, or the worst of Mysians.

THEYGIA minor or the leffe (called Phrygia from Phryxus, who I fleeing from his Mother Ino Queen of Thebes her treacheries, feated himself here; and now called, they say, Sarcum) lyeth on the North East of Eolia; whose chief City was Troy, (called Ilium) fo named from Tros the third King thereof; but it was built by Dardanus, (who fled into this Country out of Corinth, having killed his brother Jaseus) and called Dardania, in the year of the World 2487; for in the once-famousnesse of this people, many or most Nations would from them draw their original. There are yet (as some say) the admirable ruines of great and old Troy to be feen: whose length may be discerned (by the walls foundations yet extant) to have been about 20 Italian miles in length, reckoned 15 of English, yet but two miles in breadth, lying along the Sca-fide between the three Papes of Mount Ida, (here scituated, and now called Gargara) and the farthest end, Eastward, of the River Simois; whose delightful and fruitful plain, abounding in Corn, fruits, and delicate wines, may be called the garden of Natolia: the Inhabitants of whose 5 scattered Villages, are most Greeks, the other Jews and Turks. Priamus the 6th King thereof, giving leave to his fon Paris to ravish Helena Wife of Menelaus King of Sparta, made the Greeks renew a former quarrel, who after ten years fiege, possessed the Town, and burned it with fire; having lost in that time the best part of a million of men: and the Trojans even (as is reported) an incredible multitude more. Some place the City Adramittium, mentioned in Alls 17.2. and also Pergama or Pergamus, in Phrygia the leffe: the one whereof we have placed in Mylia, the other in Lydia. This Province (with Aolis, and a part of Lydia) are named Caraufia from Carafus, one of Aladine's sharers; and have a long time been subjected to the Ottoman Turk.

TO HRYGIA Major, or the Greater, lyeth on the East of Phrygia L minor, whose City Appamia, called formerly Sibotis, was the greatest of the Country. Midaia, or Midaium, the seat of King Midis the fon of Gordius, whose feat was the City Gordion: he being of a Plow-man chosen King of this kingdom. Also the City Colo se was here, to whose Colossians Paul wrote an Epistle. Pesisus, where Cibele their goddesse was worthipped, and thence called Dea Pesinuntia. Psamneticus king of Egypt gave verdict of this peoples greatest antiquity, by shutting up two children, who were fuckled by Goats, and all humane company forbidden them: who learned onely the word Bee of the Goats cry; which in the Phrygians language fignifyeth bread, and nothing at all in any other tongue. This with the other part of Lydia was called Aidinia, from Aidin, another of Aladine's fuccessours. The River Sangarius runs near the City Mfaia, and in Bythinia.

TTHINIA (nigh whose River Granvicus, Alexander ob-Drained his first victory over the Persians, slaying 20000) is on the North fide of Phrygia, and bounded on the West by the mouth of Pontus; whose famous Towns were Nicomedia, founded by Nicomedes King hercof, an ancient Town pleasantly seated on a little hill, with many springs of water, (though it be ruined) where many Turks and Greeks inhabit. Chalcedon, where was the 4th General Councel against Nestorius his heretic. Nice, now called Nichia, or as others Ifnich, where was held the first General Councel in 314 against the Arrians; as also another by Irene the Empresse, wherein the lawfulnesse of worshipping Images was established: and (as was thought) by substantiall Arguments. Prusa, new Burse; a great City near Mount Olympus, a long time the seat of the Othoman Kings, till Mahomet the First removed it to Hadrianople in Thrace. Herein also is Mount Stella; both where Pompey the Roman General overthrew Mithridates; and also where Tamerlain the Tartar vanquished Bajazet the Turk, who being taken, after two years close confinement, ended his dayes by breaking out his brains against an iron Cage, wherein he was enclosed.

ONTUS (on whose South-East Bythinia is sciruate) and I which (being divided from Bythinia by the River Sangar) was a distinct Province from it: but they being afterwards reduced into one, are now called Burlia, as one faith; or Bechfangiall, as another. Its principal Towns are Tomos, whither Ovid was banished by Augustus Casar, of which (whatever was the true) the cause pretended was his lascivious books, of the Art of Loving. Claudiopolis, Flaviopolis, and Pithim, where John Chrysoftome remained, when he was banished. The King of this Country was Mithridates; wito being once a friend, and Allie of the Roman Commonwealth, (in hope of the Monarchy of Asia) wrought (by a plot) tie death of 150000 Roman Souldiers, scattered thorow Anatolia, in a night: dispossessing two or three Neighbour-Princes of their estates, for their faithfulnesse to the Romans; and stirring up the Greeks with all the Islands, (but Rhodes) to rebell. So that after 40 years much shaking their estate, he was with much ado conquered. But when his fon Pharnaces rebelled against him, he killed nimfelf, having first (as is reported) attempted to poylon himself, which he could not do, for the Electuary called Muhridate, which he invented, and long used. The River Parthus watereth this Country.

Ext is PAPHLAGONIA, (on the East of Pontus: and which small Country heretofore contained four different Nations; one of whom never warred, but they certified their enemy first of the time and place of sight) whose chief City is Pompeiopolis, as being built by Pompey. Sinope is also there noted for store of Brasse, Lead, &c. Likewise Citros, built by Citorus the son of Phryxus. It is called Paphlagonia, stom Paphlago, the son of Phineus; and in whose bowels runs the River Parthenius.

ALATIA or Gallogracia, (wherein in Paul's time was a gamered Church) is bounded with Paphlagonia on the North, and was fo called from the Gaules, who came nither under Brennus, three of whose Towns are remarkable for somewhat: Anoya, for a Synod there holden; and now for making Chamlets, and is called Angouri. Tavium, in which Jupiter's Temple was a priviledged Sanctuary. And Pifius, a place of great Trassique. This valorous people were by degrees weakened by Asian pleasures; who (as one observeth) were so far from affailing the Romans in the Capitol, that they less their own Country to Manlius a Roman General; Deiotarus being their King.

F LUCOSY RIA, or CAPPADOCIA, stands on the East side of Galatia; about the banks of whose River Thermodon, dwelt the Amazons, Women of Scythia, who came from thence hither with their Husbands, in Sefofiris his time, King of Egypt. But the men being treacheroufly murdered by the inhabitants, called Themiscyrii, whom they held a strict hand over: they (through desperatenesse) both overthrew the Conquerours, and greatly enlarged their dominions; and going to men their neighbours thrice a year : they fent the Males to their Fathers, keeping and trayning up the Females in warlike Discipline; whose right breasts (it is said) they cut off, that they might not be hindred in fighting. Six Cities are here of note; Amalia, whither the Turkish Emperours send their eldest sons (after Circumcision) till their death. Mazaca or Neo-cafarea, where Basil the Author of Monasticall lives lived; Nazianzum, where Gregory Nazienzen was Bishop; Erzyrum on great Armenia's confines, and fo the Turks randevouz in their Persian expedition, when Constantinople was possessed by the Latines, which Mahomet the great took from David, the last Emperour in 1461. Sebastia, where Tamerlane is faid to have buried 12000 alive. Trapezond the Comnens Imperial feat.

whose most eminent Cities are Iconium, where the Selzuccian Aladine Kings formerly kept their Court; Derbe mentioned in the Ass, together with Lystra; by whose inhabitants, Paul and Barnabas curing a Criple, were admired as gods. This Province is watered with the River Lycus: and in whose Southpart is the Hill Chimera; on whose top, Lions roaring; in whose middle, Goats grazing; and in whose lower part, Serpents lurking: Poets have feigned it to be a Monster.

PISIDIA hath Lycanoia on the West. Its Cities are Lyfamis, and Antiochia, called in the Ass, Antiochia of Pisidia, Xenophon, the Greek Historian aiding Cyrus in war (against his brother Actaxerxes Memnon, with 12000 Grecians) who was by him overcome and stain; Xenophon retired home, the best of them being lost; yet by this example, he animated the Spartans, and afterwards the Macedonians to attempt Persia's Conquest.

RMENIA Minor, or the leffe, (to which Pifidia is joyned Westward, and whose Eastern bounds is the River Euphrates) is thought to be the land of the Mountains of Ararat, where the Ark rested; the territory of whose chief Town Malexona abounds in Wine and Oyl; and which Province long remained Fffff 2 under under the Romans, they having forced Antiochus the Great out of Asia by Scipio, and possessied the same: But the Turks at length wrested it (as they did all lesser Asia) by degrees from the Greek Empire.

S for ASIA - Major, or the greater; Syria therein, which hath on the East Euphrates, is first to be briefly surveyed; which some divide into five Provinces, Palestina, Phanicia, Calofyria, Suria, and Camogena. We will contein under it onely three, (to wit) Phanicia, Calofyria, and Syra, Phanicia; speaking of Palestina as a distinct Countrey. In Syria is Mount Libanus, 10 famous for Cedars. But by one that travelled to the place where the Cedars formerly grew, there was but 24 to be feen, and feventeen more nine miles Westward, on the Mountain. Phanicia (which lyeth all upon the Sea, South towards Judea) her chief Towns were Tyre, now called Sait, an Island indeed; but so near the main land, that Alexander filled up the Sea-passage with earth when he besieged the Town; at last taking it, though with extraordinary expence of men, Money, and toil: it was once famous for her Purples and Merchandise; whose Kingdome was very ancient, and of long continuance; dispersing also many Colonies over the World; and whose two Kings of most note, were, Hiram, Solomons strict consederate, and Pigmaleon, Dido's brother, who built Carthage. Siden, now Sur, in a manner, equall in beauty and power to Tyre, and both so noted for dying of Purple, that the Poets sometimes call it Tyrien, fometimes Sydonien. It is now governed by an Emir or Prince of the Drusians; the off-spring of the Christians under Godfrey of Bullein, who though they have (as it were) forgot their Religion, do still maintain their freedome against the Turks. Ptolemais or Acon, or Acre: a place almost invincible, when besieged by so many Christian Princes, in the time of the holy War, so called: two of whom were Richard the first, and Edward the first, Kings of England. Joppa, whence Peter was fent for, by Cornelius: which still retaineth its name, of which Cities, (saith one) scarce any remainders are to be seen at this day, more than of Joppa and Acre. Sarepta also was here, whose Widows son Eliab raised from the dead, having been sustained by her in famine; the lower part of which Country was Ashers seat; it abounding with Wheat, Oyl, Honey, and Balm.

OELOSTRIA, (which, some say, is properly the Countries between Libanon, and Anti-Libanon, whence springs the River Orontes, now called Farsara) Its head or chief City is Damasem; which being so pleasantly and fruitfully scituated, Mahomet would not enter therein, lest being carried away with its pleasures, he should forget the businesse whereabout he was sent. Abraham's servants sounded it, and Paul was convinced night; and converted and comforted in it. Benhadad, &c. were Kings of this Syria; also the City Hieropolis was herein, where was the Heathenish thenith Temple of the Syrian Goddesse: whose Pricsts used jugling tricks to deceive the people.

CYROPHEONICIA, is the third of Syria, whose Metropolis Dof all Syria, was Antioch, where the converted Gentiles were first called Christians; which name and profession, the Heathen so hated; that in fourty years time, there being a great number of that name, they were afflicted with ten persecutions; which were so cruell, that (except on Jan. the first) there were some thousands put to death every day: But Constantine the great, (not onely favouring them, but becomming of the fame profession) put an end to all their perfecutions. Antioch is now rather a heap of ruines than any thing else. Aleppo, so called from abundance of milk thereabouts, a place now of wonderfull traffique from all parts; in the Scripture it is called Aram Sobab. Tripolis, fo called for that it was thrice built, (standing a mile from the Seafide, near the foot of Mount Libanus) and removed into three fundry places. The Town and Province of Palmyra, was likewise in Syria, the which Zenobia a worthy Woman governed: who sway. ing those Eastern parts, and standing in opposition with Gallien for the Empire; Aurelian the Emperour taking her, led her triumphantly through Rome, and that in fuch pomp, as never was (in triumphs) greater to be seen. The Syrians were called Aramites; whose King Tigranes, by Election, (Seleucus his stock failing through civill wars) joyning with Mithridates against the Romans, was vanquished by Lucullus, an 100000 being said to be flain, but with the loffe of five Romans, and an hundred wounded. Then again, by the fame Lucullus; and at length; yielded to Pompey, leaving all Syria to the Romans, and contenting himself with Armenia, and Media onely. But it was wrenched by the Saracens out of the Romans hands.

DALESTINA, which lyeth between the Mediterranean Sea on the West, and Arabia on the South, and being scituated between the third and fourth climates; its longest day is fourteen hours and a quarter) is divided into two parts by the River Jordan, which rifeth at Mount Libanus foot, from two fountains called Jor, and Dan. Where, of the Israelites, Reuben, and half of Manasseh dwelt beyond it, the other on this side thereof; which latter part is subdivided into Judea, properly so called, Samaria, and Galilee, and Idumea; for when the men of Judah returned from captivity out of Babylon, then began they first to be called Jews (even as the new commers out of Affria, at the Ifraelites first transportation, were called Samaritanes from Samaria the chief City) and then this Country was first divided into the four Provinces abovefaid. It hath had divers names, as Canaan from Cham's fon so called; the promised land from Gods promise to Abraham; of Ifrael, from Jacob furnamed Ifrael for his faith. Judes, from the Jens, or Tribe of Judah, the chief of the twelve; and Pslestine from the Philistines a powerful Nation therein; and fince Christ it hath been called the Holy Land. Here are two Lakes by which Jordan passeth, of Galike the Lesse, and of Tiberias or Genezareth the Greater; also the dead Sea (into which Jordan falls at last) called by the Greeks the Lake of Asphalites, and the dead Sea, because no living creature can endure its bituminous or slimy savour; night which once stood Sodom and Gomerrah; where (as some have written) a Tree groweth with Apples very fair to behold; but being touched, they moulder to nothing.

O begin with GALILEE, for that it is the very North part of Palestine, it is divided into the upper and lower. In the upper were the two Tribes of Asher and Napthali (with a part of Dan) seated, four of Albers chief Cities were mentioned in Phenicia; another was Aphek, by whose Wall falling, were 27000 of Benhadads men flain; when as Abab had flain (in battel) 100000 of them before; also Giscala. The Cities of note in Napthali, were Capernaum by the Sea of Galilee, which (Christ faid) though lifted up to Heaven, should be brought down to Hell. Cinnereth, then Genefareth, whose Lake was so called, Jabin, at which Joshua met twenty four Kings in battel. Leshem being understood of Lassh; which the Danites took, losb. 19.47. proves that a part of Dan were here feated also. This was called Galilee of the Gentiles, cither as being the nearest to the Gentiles of Palestina, or because Solomon gave it to King Hiram. The Lower, which beginning at the Sea of Tiberiades, is but twelve miles long, and five broad, in whose center, Nazareth (from which City Christ was called Jesus of Nazareth, and where Mary was faluted by the Angell) almost standeth; from the several miraculous removes and transportations of which Chamber of Mary there, is begun that deceivful imposture of the Lady of Loretto; over which they would have to be believed, Paul the second built a most stately Temple; Here was also, Cana, Bethsaida, Tiberias, Gaba, fince Hippopolis, from Herods Garrisonning horse therein: Enhadda, nigh which Saul slew himself; Daberoth, in the Valley of Israel, samous for many battels fought in it; which two last Cities were in I fachars Tribe; the rest were in Zabulon, both which possessed this Country, in which allo was Mount Tabor, where Christ was transfigured, and the brook or River Chifon; Julian the Apostate called Christ a Galilean in contempt, because of his much conversing in this Lower Galilee.

SAMARIA (taken here for the Province of Samaria, lying between Galilee and Judea, not for all the ten Tribes) containeth Ephraim, Gad, Reuben, and the Tribe of Manaffeh, one half whereof was seituate beyond Jordan, as was said, the other on the Mediterranean Seaschief Cities of which latter, were Bethsan, on whose walls, Sauss acad body was hung; and which (being long after rebuilt by the Seythians) was named Seythopolia; Cesarea, Talestina before, before, Straton: Herod repairing it and calling it by Cafars name, where Herod Agrippa was for his rhetoricall pride, caren of worms; and where Paul made defence against the Oratour Tertullus. Jezreel, where Nalouh was stoned. Thebes, from whose wall, Atimelech (who nigh the City Ephra, had before slain seventy of his brethren) was mortally wounded with a stone. Here stood also Endor, where Saul asked counsel of a Witch in his distresse.

The Metropolis of Ephraim was called Samaria, a stately City. It flood on a Hill, built by Omri King of Israel, and denominated from Shemer, of whom the Hill was bought. It being afterward razed, was repaired by Herod, and called Sebaste from Sebastos, the Greeks word for Augustus. Bethel was another of its Cities, which fignifying the house of God, was by Jeroboams Calves there erected and the Idolatry there committed, called by the Prophet Bethaven, that is, the house of vanity. Sichem, nigh which Judas Maccabaus overturew Lysias. Lydda, fince Diospolis; where George for England was faid to be beheaded. Here was also Ramatha, Joseph of Arimathea's City: and Shiloh, or Silo, (on a hill) where the Ark was, till taken by the Philistines. Gad, beyond Jordan, conteined the chief Towns, Gadara, and Gergefa, two diffinct neighbouring Cities; but both one in desiring Christ to depart their coasts; also Ramoth Giliad fatall to wicked and wilful Ahab, seeking to recover it from the Syrians. Here stood also Succoth, and Gabosh Gilead, where Saul and his fons were buried, and Rabba, where Uriah was flain; likewise Betharam, which Herod rebuilding also, called Julia in honour of Augustus Wife, now of the Julian family. In the other half of Manasteh; (which Countrey was called Bafan, Og the Gyant being its last King) and also part of that countrey called Decapolis (divers times mentioned in Matthew, Mark, &c. from its ten chief Cities) some of whose principal Towns were Edrey, Ogs feat, Ashtaroth, where the Goddesse Ashtaroth was worshipped in form of a theep; and Hus, or Jobs birth-place. In the Tribe of Reuben, was strong Micherus, (on a Rock) where John Baptist was beneaded, Bethbara where Moses exhorted the Israelites, and John long after baptized. Ramath Baal, whither Balaam was brought to curse the people, and whose god Baal (some have said) was beaftly Priapus aforementioned, finally Abel, Sittim, in Moabs plains, where the Ifra-lites last encamped, and where the wood grew whereof the Ark was made. The S.maritanes were (after the ten Tribes carried away) Afyrians fent thither by Salmanaßer, who being deceitfull, were deadly enemies to the Jews in distresse, but in their rest and prosperity, they would be their Coufins; to that they were for their mungrel Religion, not onely accounted Schismatiques, but also reprobates, with whom the lews converfed not; and accounted the word Samaritane among the worst they could give to Christ.

I U D E A contained the Tribes of Judah and Benjamin, and is I now accounted as large as them; all the remarkable Cities of which two great Tribes, to speak of particularly, would be too tedious. In Judah was Jethir; near which, King Afa (by his God's help) overthrew Zerah King (not of the Æthiopians beyond Egypt, but) of the Arabians nearer home, having 1000000 men. Hebron, a very ancient Seat of the fons of Anak; which Anak (the word fignifying a chain for ornament) it appears, wore such a chain; the Gyant being enriched with his enemie's spoyls. Near this Town was also the Plain of Mamre; whither the Angels came to Abraham: here also was David anointed King by the Tribes; and kept his Regal Seat before the taking of Jebus, afterwards called Jerusalem. Tekoa, where the Prophet Amos dwelt; in whose wildernesse, the Lord destroyed the Moabites, Ammonites, and men of Mount-Seir, in Jehosophat's time, by setting the two former against the latter: and then against each other. Bethlem-Judah (for there was another Bethlem in Zabulon) where Christ was born; and the Infants suffered by Herod: amongst whom, Herod's own son, ar nurse, being slain, Augustus Cafar said, He had rather be Heroa's hogg, than his fon. Emaus, (afterwards Nicopolis) where Christ made himself known to two disciples; when their hearts had burned within them, as they travelled reasoning with him. Herein likewise, are the hills of Engedi, at whose feet were Gardens of Balfamum or Opobalfamum: for whose Trees, Cleopatra sending to Herod to plant them in Egypt, he, as not daring to refuse, pluckt rhem up and fent them. In a Cave of these hills also David cutting off the lap of Saul's garment, his heart (by God's witnesse in his conscience) smore him for it.

Benjamin's Cities were Gileal, where Joshua, after Moses'sdeath performed feveral acts as preparatories to his fuccesse and conquest of Canaan; as, circumcifing the people, keeping the Passeover; pitching 12 stones near it; a memorial of dividing Jordan to give them passage; eating of the fruits of the land; and where Agag was hewen in pieces by Samuel. Strong Ai, where the Israclites (purging the Camp of Achan the thief) feized the City by a stratagem, having been first discomfited- Mispeh, even in the midft of the Land and peoples common affembling place, was with Gilgal, made the Judgment-Seat, whither Samuel went yearly for that purpose. Gibbah, where, in the quarrel of the Priest's daughter being forced, that Tribe was almost extirpated. Gibon, whole Gibeonites obtaining peace of Joshua, and Saul afterwards killing fome of them, a famine came on the Land, and was not appeafed but with the hanging of his seven sons by them. Jericho, whole Walls falling down at the found of rams-horns, it was razed, and a curse denounced on the builder thereof; which being attempted in Ahab's time by Hiel a Bethelite, for the pleasantnesse of the place, he lost his eldest son at the foundation of its Walls;

and his youngest at the setting up it's Gates. On the other side Iordan against this scricho, is Mount-Nebo, where God having shewn Moses the promised Land, took him away, not suffering him to enter therein. Laftly, Jerufalem; built by Melchizedeck, that is, a King of righteousnesse in spirit and figure; and King of Salem, that is, King of peace, the effect of the former: which standing among the Jebusites, was named Jebusalem; and, a letter being altered, Hierusalem, or a City of peace. It was built on Moune Sion, having a ditch about it cut out of a rock: which was not conquered, till David (by Joab) took it, although the Citizens covertly and presumptuously said, their blind and same could defend it. Then was this the Royal Seat; In which Solomon built the magnificent Temple, the place of general worship: which being destroyed by Nebuchadnezzar King of Babylon in the 1350th year of the World, was (after the Jews return from Captivity) rebuilts the Workmen holding their fwords in one hand, and tools in the other, through the great opposition of the Samaritans. Yet was it not outwardly in divers respects so glorious as the former: But the Lord promised (by the Prophet) it should be more glorious: which was fulfilled not onely by Christ the light of the World, his personal preaching glad tydings therein; but especially by dwelling in his Saints, of whose bodies (which are his Temple) that was but a type. Herod the Ascalonite, in favour of the Jews, plucking it down, made it much exceed the fecond, though fomewhat inferious to the first. But it was again destroyed by Titus, Vespasian's son, Aug. 10. (on which very day, Nebushadnezzar burnt the first with fire) which City, to be besieged, the lewes their rebellion and obstinacy against the Roman Emperour, (under whose power they were) to fulfill their own wish in crucifying Christ, that his blood might be upon them and their children, after some years, caused; and at the time whereof, there dyed by sword and famine above a million of people in the City it felf, besides near 100000 taken prisoners at the taking it, and in other Cities well nigh a million more; and all this from the 12th year of Nero, unto the second of Vespasian, which was within 4 years time. And in the 136 year of Christ, (through 2 rebellions bythem raifed)they were by Adrian the Emperour, in general banished never there to inhabit but as strangers: since which they being dispersed over the Earth, have been banished out of England first; then out of France, Spain, Portugal, Naples, & Sicily. Yet are there many in Germany, Poland, Amsterdam in Holland, (where they have a Synagogue) Italy, and chiefly Rome it self, with the Pope's jurisdiction of Avignion: which permission of them under the Pope, although an expectation of their conversion be the declared reason; yet considering the Papists Image-worship, whereby they are stumbled: and they also not being suffered to see so much as the New Testament: as also, that at their conversion, they must likewise convert all their goods to the Church, as ill-gotten; it may be rather judged to be from profit hereby arifing. When Julian the Apostate would (to increase the Jews number, and diminish the Christians) have re-Ggggg buils built this Temple; an Earthquake casting up the foundations, and fire from Heaven confuming the timber-work, hindered that defign. Yet the City was re-edified by the Emperour Alius Adriazus, (who calling it after his own name Ælia, gave it to the Chrithians) though not in the very place of the old, every way: for, according to the relation of an eye-witnesse, on its South-side, much of Mount-Sion is left without the walls, which was anciently the heart of the old City; taking in also now, both Mount-Calvary, and Christ's Sepulchre, called the holy grave, within those Walls that were built by Selimus the Turk: fo that (faith he) a man may boldly affirm, the most part to be built on that place, where the first Jerusalem was; as appears by the Mountains mentioned in Scripture, whereon Jerusalem is both scituated and environed; who referve their same names to this day; as Mount Sion, Calvary, Moriah, and Olivet, which last Mountain the Valley of Jehosaphat divideth from the Cify. There is in it also the Temple of the Sepulchre built by Helena, (Mother to Constantine the Great) with a little Chappel over it: and in the place of the Temple, burnt by Titus, is another great Temple builded by Sultan Selim Seliman, reserved and highly regarded by the Turks out of their respect to Solomon: near which, or within whose Courts, none (called a Christian) may enter, under pain of losing his head. The Temple of the Sepulchre, hath been, and is much reverenced and resorted unto; for the sight of which every one payeth 9 Crowns tribute to the Turk, or (as a Traveller thither faith) 12 chickens of gold, was dispatched from each of them for the Turk, as tribute for going into the holy grave.

The Levites (of whom there were four forts, Punies or younglings till 25 years old; Graduates, who after 4 years fludy might oppose and answer in the Law; Licenciates, who exercised the Pricst's Office; And Rabbins or Doctors, the highest, who expounded the Law) had 48 Cities allotted them, out of every Tribe, and were reckoned of that Tribe where their City was. Simeon also inhabited onely a part of Judah's portion; according to their father's prophesie, That he would divide them in Jacob, and scatter them in Ifrael: fo that Joseph's sons, Ephraim and Manafes, made up the 12 Tribes. They were called Hebrews from Heber, who was before Abraham: and of 70 fouls when Jacob went down into Egypt, grew a multitude in 215 years space, notwithstanding their oppression. Neither was any Province thought to be so proportionably peopled, as Palestina; in which (being not above 160 miles long, and 60 broad, the length being reckoned from Dan to Beersheba) when David numbred the people, they found a million and 300000 fighting men, besides Benjamin; but now stript even of all ornaments, except the beauty and bounty of the foyl, which is defective also. The Jews had 16 Judges, 415 years; Moses being the first, and Samuel the last: who having judged them four years; in the year of the World 2873, they defired a King like other Nations. They had three Kings before the kingdom was divided, Saul, David, and Solomon. There were 17 Kings of Ifrael, Jeroboam the fon of Nebar being the first, and Hose the last; who being overcome by Salmanasar, the Ifraelites were carried captive into Asyria in 3232; whence those ten Tribes never (as we find) returned. The Kings of Judah were 20. Rehoboam, Solomon's son, was the first, from whom the ten Tribes rent; Zedekias was the last, in whose reign, Nebuchadnezzar the Proud, destroying Jerusalem, captivated the people into Babylon his kingdom; (two Kings having reigned in Judah after Israel's captivity). Who so remaining 70 years, Cyrus King of Persia (to whom the Babylonians were now subject) gave them liberty to return, and build the City and Temple: which finished, they chose them Governours of the chief of David's house; whereof Zorobabel was the first of the 15, Johannes Hircanus the last, of them them that were of David's stock.

But the Dominion of Jewry being vexed by the Egyptians on one fide, and the Syrians on the other, during their governments; compelling them withall, to cat Swines-flesh, &c; Muttathias and his five tons were thirred up to refift Antiochus Epiphanes, and the Syrians; who having been very victorious over them, Judas Macchabem (reckoned one of the Nine Worthies) was chosen Captain of the Jews; in the year of the World 3799; who vanquished three of Antiochus his great Captains, with their three numerous Armies. Three Princes of Judea there were after him, Johannes Hircanus being the last, in 3831. Then were there four Macchabean Kings of Judah : Ariflobulm, the first, who starving his Mother, flew his brother. Alexander was the second; abloudy Tyrant both to subjects and enemies. Then a woman, Alexandra or Solome, the Tyrant's wife. Lastly, Hircanus, who being disturbed by his younger brother Aristobulus, was established by Pompey the Roman, in his Throne, he with his fons being imprifoned at Rome; one of whom (Alexander) escaping and disquieting his Country, was seized on and flain. But Julius Cafar (Pompey's victorious competitor) freeing the other brother Antigonus. he deposing Hircanus, cut off his ears; who suddenly after, was flain by Mark-Anthony, and a stranger had the kingdom in 3930. Or which strangers, there were five Kings. Herod the Ascalonite an Idumean, being the first, made so by Augustus: and at which time Christ was born; and Agrippa minor, or the Lesse, who was the last: before whom with Festus, Paul pleaded, and in whose time Jerusalem was destroyed; and the kingdonie made a Roman Province, in the year 73 after the birth of Christ; which being re-edified (as was faid) by Alius Adrianus, and given to the Christians: Cofroes King of Persia took it from them in 615; from whom the Saracens wresting it in 637; and the Turks from them in 1009, one Peter a French Hermite ftirred up the Princes of the West to relieve the oppressed Christians; who came at last to Jerulalem, and took it. Godfrey Duke of Bulloign for his merits therein, was faluted the first King of Jerusalem and Palestine, in Ggggg 2 1099, 1099, of which (though he would not in that place where Christ wore a Crown of Thorns, be Crowned with Gold, yet (for the common goods fake, he took the title; there was nine of these Kings whereof Guy of Lufignan was the last; for in his time, Saladine Sultan of Agypt in 1187, won that Kingdome, which his successours defended, untill that in 1517, Selimus the first, Turkish Emperour. added both Palestine and Ægypt also to his Empire. Yet after that Saladine had taken Jerufalem; the Christians retiring into some Towns thereof, made them good against the Turk; under Conrade of Montferrat, Henry Earl of Champaigne, and John di Brenne, who was the last Christian King that possessed any thing in Palefine or Syria; yet Yoland, Brenn his daughter, marrying Frederick King of Naples, he intituled himself King of Jerusalem in her right; whereupon the Kings of Spain, being heirs and possessiours of Naples, do now assume that empty title. Three Orders of Knighthood were also erected for defence of the Holy land so called, against infidells. The first, by Helena, Constantine the Great his Mother, and called Knights of the Sepulchre. The second by one Gerard in 1124. named Knights of Saint John of Jerusalem, (which was also confirmed by the Pope) who being expelled Palestine, seized on Rhodes, and being forced thence also (at length) by the Turk, are now in the Isle of Malta, and called Knights thereof. The third were Templers by Hugh of Pagennes in 1113, confirmed also by the Pope: who possessing very many Lordships, even in all Provinces of Europe; their great revenue was not the least cause of their dissolving; yet were there crimes proved against this order, as revolting from obedience to the Patriarch of Jerufalem, their visitour, unspeakable pride, and also fins against nature; so that, being dissolved, their lands were given to the Hospitallers, or Knight of St. John.

A Geographical Description

TPUMEA, (which the Edomites, Efau's off-spring once inhabited, as also Mount Seir, or wildernesse of Edom, counted part of stony Arabia, where the Israelites were stung with fiery Serpents) was in part possessed by the Philistines; who very much vexed the Ifraelites: and although they, with the Edomites were made subject by David, yet could not be expelled the land. The Edomites revolting in Jorans time, and remaining free, till the time of Hircanus the High Priest after the Captivity, he subjecting them, forced them to be circumcifed, and so were accounted as Jews. In Idumea were Dan and Simeons Tribes. Dan's chief Cities were Kiriathjearim, where the Ark was kept in Aminadabs house 20 years; Eckron where they worshipped Baalzebub, or the god of flies; Afotos, Azotus, or Afdad, where was Dagons sumptuous Temple: and near which Judas Macchabam was flain in hard fight. Gath, Goliahs City: and Joppa, or as some now, Jaffa, reported to have been built before the floud; whence Jonah took , shipping to flee to Tarsus, where Peter raised Dorcas, and where he saw a Vision of the Gentiles conversion in Simon the Tanners houle. house. Simeon's principal Cities are, strong Gaza, which from the Persians laying their Western tributes and customes there, all Riches are called Gaza; Ascalon, where Queen Semiramis who built Babylon; and also long after, Herod that slew the Infants was born. Beerspeba, which was the Southern limit of Palestine, as Dan, or Lailb, was the North, and was well fortifyed by the Warring Christians, as bounding on Arabia. Abraham and Abimelech here fware to each other. Hagar wandred hither with Ishmael, and Haac there long dwelt. Cariathfepher, whose name fignifying a City of books; some would have it to be antiently Palestine's Univer-

RMENIA Major, or the greater, which bath on the North, Tartary, and on the South, Mesopotamia, called at this day Mingrelia, hath Mountains lying on the East of Euphrates, vehich divide it from Anaiolia, called Scodrifei, Periadres, and Amamus, volvose Inhabitants having want of all things, are stout, cruell and Warlike, living (in that so barren soys) by hunting and stealing. It is divided into three Provinces; whereof the first to be mentioned is Colchis, now called Diarbee, scituate North and West on the Euxine Sea, two of whose chief Towns are Phasis, or Fassum, on the River Phasis its banks; and Dioscurius, vvhere the Romans (in their time) kept 30 Interpreters to stand between the Governour and people, because of 30 languages there spoken, through the Merchants of all Nations. In Colchis also Atas was King, from whom Jason is said to have stollen the golden Fleece by Medea's and forceries. Georgia (otherwise called Gurgestan, and formerly Iberia; for it comprehends the aucient Iberia with a part of high Armenia) was not so named from St. George, (although they highly efteem him) but from the Georgi inhabiting long before George, the adjoyning Countries. It is scituated on the East of Colchis, and on the North of Turcomania. This people being good Souldiers, have alwayes maintained their liberty, by joyning sometimes with the Persians, and sometimes with the Turks; of whose Country also there have been many Lords: but now 'tis mostly under the Turk, and hath many good and strong Towns: (one whereof is called Teflis, exceedingly fortified by the Turks, to defend their new Conquests against the Persians) also Loca, Toman, &c. Hence the Sultans of Egypt choofing their Mamalucks; they at length proudly assumed, and long defended that Kingdom.

TURCOMANIA (formerly and properly called Armenia the greater, to distinguish it from the lesser in Natolia) is confined upon the North with Colchis; on the West with Euphrates, and the leffer Armenia, and took this name from the Turks, (in the Hebrew figuifying, banished men) who breaking thorow the Caspian straights out of barren and cold Scythia, seated themfelves in this Country in 844, where reaming up and down after the manner of the Scythian Nomades, and being an unregarded people; at length, Mahomet the Persian Sultan, a Saracen, sending for some of them to and him against the Caliph of Babylon, (by whose valour he got the victory) and hindring their return home; they first retiring into the Woods, by open arms fought the Persians: where Mahomet by unadvised riding to and fro to encourage his Souldiers, breaking his neck with a fall from his horse: Trangolipix the Turks Leader, was (by common confent of both Armies) proclaimed Sultan of Persia, whereby, at first, by the Zelzaccian family, and then by the Ottoman swallowing up the other, the large Turkish Monarchy hath been (by degrees) crected both in Europe, Asa, and Africa: So that as 'twas faid of the people of Rome, that of a small beginning, they grew up to such a greatnesse; so may it be said of these Scythian Turks : but as it is with the Moon her felf, which increaseth, and again diminisheth; so also is it with all Empires placed under her, which have their time to rife, and must have their time to fall. The Metropolis or Mother-City of Turcomania was once Artaxata, denominated either from the River Araxis, (which divideth Armenia and Persia) as being scated thereon, or rather from Artaxes before Tigranes who founded it; then Esechia, and now called Coy: nigh which Lucullus the Roman overcame Mithridates and Tigranes his fon in law; and Selimus the Turk, Hifmael the Persian Sophie, in 1514, though with the loffe of 30000 choise men, and fuch a general terrour, that they still call it, The day of Doom. Arminig is now its chief City. There is also Tigranocerta built by Tigranes, one of the mightieft Kings of this Armenia; whose new City, Lucullus taking by fiege, found beside other wealth therein, 3000 talents in money. Van, which both by Nature and Art is a ftrong Bulwark against Invasions of the Persians. Lastly, Sabaflia, where the Parriarch of Armenia resides.

RABIA (taking it altogether) is a very spatious Country, and is shut up on the West with the Arabian Gulph, or the Red-Sea; on the East with the Persan Gulph; on the South with the Ocean; and on the North with Palestine, and famous Euphrates: So that it is in the form of a Peninsula, and is divided into three parts, Arabia Deserta, or the Wildernesse, Petrosa, or the Stony; and Fælix, or the Happy. Though the Arabians are very much given to thest, and hate all Science; yet they boast much of their Nobility. They of Arabia Fælix, the civillest of the three, had many barbarous customs. The Arabick tongue which they all use, extends also thorow Syria, Palestine, Ægypt, Mesopotamia, and (Morocco excepted) all Barbary: which language the Mahometans account sacred.

Arabia

Rabia the Defart (which hath three several Epithites given to it by Aristides, Servius, and Lucian) is called by the Hebrews Kedar, and is the Wildernesse wherein the Israelites comming out of Egypt, wandred 40 years under Moses. It is bounded on the East with the Mountains of Babylon. It being covered with a dry andthick sand, is not fit for herbage or tillage; the chief City of whose sew Inhabitants is called Bassora. Their travelling beats here are Carnels, whom little food sufficeth; yet will they carry 600, and sometimes 1000 weight.

DETROSA, or the Stony, (which confines with the Defart on the East, and on the South with the Happy) is so called either from its rockinesse, or from Petra the chief Town thereof, though nownamed Rathalalah: which having been straightly befreed by the Roman Emperours Severus and Trajan, they were in all attempts worsted. Trajan being glad to slee for his life, and the man next him being slain with a dart. Yet this Arabia was subdued by Palma Lievtenant of Syria under the said Trajan:

Here is also Ezion-Geber on the Red-Sea, where Solomon's ships stayed both before and after their sayling to Ophir. This Country was called by Pliny and others, Nabathea; (for it contains the two Regions of Nabathea, and Agara, so called, because the Savarens or Hagarens of Hagar possessed it: where also dwelt the Elims and Zanzummims, as also the Madianites, to whom Moses fled) now it is called either Barra, as one; Bangaucal, as another: or Battha, as a third. The two Mountains of Sinay and Horeb are herein; of which, Sinay is the highest, which being very troublesome to ascend, stairs are cut in the rock, that beasts might more easily passe. There is also in this Mountain, a Covent of Monks, 50 in number, called Maronites, living after the Gracian manner; and who receive Christian Pilgrims (so called) who go thirher for devotion. Many would have Petra to be the very Mecca where Mahomet was born: but it is rather that which (in Mapps) is called Petra of Est: for Mecca is reckoned to be in Arabia the Happy. Of all Vegetables, the Palm-Tree onely growes in this barren Province. Store of Dromedaries there are, which, they fay, will (through swiftnesse) bear a man 1000 miles in one day. The Offrich also (who is said to digest Iron) is plenty. here.

TOELIX or the Happy, joyns to the other two like a Peninsula, betwixt the Arabian and Persian Gulph, and bordering with the Indian Sea; and is so called, (I may well suppose) for that it is the most pleasant and fruitful Country of Asia, abounding with Balsome, Myrrhe, and Frankincense, Gold and Pearls, especially (saith a Traveller) about Medina the second City to Mecha; now it carries the name of Taman or Gyamen. Some will have Saba the principal City: but however, hence were the Sabcans that afflicted Job. Medina Tanalbi, that is, the Prophet's City is icituated near Arabia Petrea, and well peopled, and was the first Town that yielded to Mahomet, when by arms he began to establish his Religion; in or nigh which he composed the model thereof: here the Iron-Coffin of this false prophet, with his inclosed body, is faid to hang, being held by an Adamant up to the roof of the Temple, near which they also say are alwayes about 3000 burning lamps. Mecha is the chief City; wherein Mahomet was born: which two Cities are remarkable places for Mahometan Pilgrims: there coming also three Caravans or Captains yearly, which part from Cair, Damas, and the Indies, and go to Mecha for devotion, in honour of Mahometes birth; thence to Medina, in honour of his Sepulchre; and into which no Christian is suffered to enter. The other Towns of note are Horan, the chief Port of the South Ocean; and Alteroch or Elier, the onely Town in that Country where Christians, so called are in greatest number. There is Zidon, a Sea-Town 40 miles from Metha, without walls, but indifferent fair houses: also Aden seated on the borders of the Red-Sea, near the strait of Batel Mandel; and said to be the fairest Town of Arabia, strong by scituation, as well as Art: which Town the Turks took, and the whole Realm by policy, in 1538, and they loft their King. Zebeth or Zibit also is a good Town standing in a Plain between two Mountains, and on a River of the same name half a dayes journey from the Red-Sea; which being taken by the Turk after Aden, he fent thither a Begliarbey with great forces. One barbarous custome which they had formerly in this Arabia, was the community of one Wife alone among a whole kindred, and if the accompanied any other man, they both dyed. The Turkish Alcoran composed by Ofmen the 4th Caliph, and commanded by him to be only received as Canonical throughout his Dominions, is an exposition on Mahomet's eight Commandements: which are, 1. Every one ought to believe that God is a great God, and one onely God, and Mahomet to be his Prophet. 2. Every one must marry to increase Mahomet's followers. 3. Every one must give of his wealth to the poor. 4. Every one must make his prayers five times a day. 5. Every one must keep a Lent one moneth in a year. 6. Be obedient to thy Parents. 7. Thou shalt not kill. 8. Do unto others, as thou wouldst be done unto thy felf. Which Religion of his (he promising a carnal and voluptuous Paradife to those that kept these Lawes) was greedily received by the Saracens, (of Arabia the Defart) fo called (not of Sara, but) either of Saharra, which fignifies a Wilderneffe, and Saken, to inhabit; or from Sarak, theeves, a name agreeable to their natures. Mahomet was born in 572, and some say not at Mecha, but in a Village of Arabia called Itrarip; his father was a Pagan, and his mother a Jew; he was married to his Mistris at 25 years old, and began to affect the name of a Prophet at 38 years of age; and by policies strengthening himself with the Arabians, who freed themselves from obedience to the Greek Empire: he was driven driven from Mecha's Territories by their Nobility; the which he (cre long) subduing, expelled thence the Greek Officers. From whose flight from Mecha, the Saracen's Hegira, or computation of years (so called from Hegirathi, which (from the Arabick) is rendred, a persecution raised about Religion) began; which was about the year of Christ 617. Although Selimus the First, subdued the Arabians to the Turk; yet are they rather tributaries than provinces of that Empire; for they have two Kings of their own, one whereof liveth on Euphrates, the defarts of Mesopotamia; fometimes in Arabia Foelix, and in some parts of Syria: the other wandreth with his tribes or wild theevish Arabs, tents, and Bestial. one while in Petraa and Deferta; sometimes in Palestine, as he findeth good pattorage and fresh fountains; which makes the travail to and in Palestine, so dangerous. These two Kings are mortal enemies; and if by chance they meet, they bring damage, rapine, and destruction to themselves and their followers: for being untamed Savages, they cannot bridle their inordinate paffions.

These Countries are all subject to the Turkish Empire, which did also possesse part of Media, with its chief City Taurus: but fome think the Sophi of Persia hath recovered the greatest part thereof. The Turk also holds almost all Mesopotamia and Diarbeck; being Master of Chalden, and part of Asyria: But since the Persian Sophi hath daily won from him, recovering his estate by little and little, as also that many of these Countries do (hereby) change their masters daily.

We will briefly mention the Riches, Fruitfulnefle and Religion of the forementioned places: and then (that we run not into a labarinth) in brief furvey the other Countries also.

Anatolia, or Lester Asia enjoying a sweet and temperate Ayr, did abound likewise with grain, having store of good passures for Cattle; and had more than sufficiency for the life of man. But now it is not fo fruitfull, as not fo well manured; yet it is more fertile in places near the Sea; and as the land is better husbanded, fo it yields the more. In the great Plains within the heart of the Country, they fow Wheat, Barley, and Cotton. Natolia hath the benefit of many Rivers watering it; whereof five of the principal discharge themselves into the Euxine Sea; three into the Propontides ; one into Hellespont; four into the Archipelago ; one runs into Euphrates; and divers others into the Mediterranean Sea. But the chief revenue of Natolia is by Cotton, whereof there growes abundance.

Bythinia imparts its Orpiment to other Nations. Galatia hath great yearly profit by Copper-Mines. Caria a good revenue by the Adamant stone. The Pamphilians make the best of Chamlets; and have great sums of money for them. Cappadocia is enriched by Silver, Iron, Allom, Jasper, Crystal, Alabaster, and the Onyx Rone. And Cilicia receives much money for its fore of Chamlets made of Goars-hair, which is there very foft, and delicate as filk: Judea reaps much profit by Pilgrims going yearly to the Holy Se-

Hhhhh pulchre: pulchre. Phanicia is much frequented for its great traffique: But Arabia the Happy exceeds them all in Merchandise, and by reason of the Spices, precious stones, and Pearls there sold to strange Merchants, is exceeding rich; and it yields Incense for all the World. Mecha hath great traffique, unto which Ethiopian, Indian, and other Merchants come; and (together with Medina) is coricht yearly by Pilgrimages. Aden exceeds any other in traffigue for the abundance of Commodities brought thither from India, Persia, and Æthiopia, which are setcht and sold from thence at a dear rate; for they are a witty people in Merchandizing matters. As touching Religion, there are many of divers Religions and fects in these Countries besides the Mahometans. Iews are dispersed all over them: and those that professe themfelves Christians, some obey, and others are divided from the Church of Rome. The first fort, are great numbers of Merchants of Venice, Ragouse, France, &c. trading to Tripoli, Damasco, Aleppo, &c. being affisted by them of the Order of Francis who dwell in Terusalem and Bethelem: and a few among the Armenians also, are found following the Latine Church. There was 25 Villages under the jurisdiction of Alangiacana-Castle, two dayes journey from Tauris, who (though they spake the Armenian tongue) acknowledged Rome. This was in 1337; which Inhabitants are faid to be then converted by one Bartholomen a Dominican, who was made Bishop of Armenia (I suppose the lesser); but now 12 only do perfist in obedience thereunto: some of the other 13 having Submitted to the Patriarch of the greater Armenia, and the others being ruined during the Turkish and Persian Wars. The 12 Villages are assisted in religious matters by the Dominicans under an Archbishop of that order, who being made by their Chapiter, and the chief of the Villages, is confirmed by the Pope. The Latines had also Synagogues at Bursia and Trebysond or Trapezond; but they with the Latine Ceremonies being lost for lack of Priests to officiate, either the Grecian or Armenian Religion hath fucceeded. For the Armenians differ from them, i. In receiving Infants to the Supper immediately after Baptism. 2. In abstinence from unclean beafts. 3. In fasting on Christmas-day so called. 4. In holding their children over the fire in Baptism, as a needful circumstance, because John told the people, That Christ should baptize them with the holy Spirit and fire. The other forts are divided into three scets, Melchites, so named from Melech, that is, a King or Prince, as following the Emperour's of Constantinople's example: Such are all they of the Greeks religion in Asia under the four fore-mentioned Patriarchs of Constantinople, Jerusalem, Alexandria, and Antioch; this last residing at Damasco: who being chosen by the Country Bishops, seek not now the Pope's confirmation, (as formerly) but a liberty to choose, from the Turkish Bashaw, and the Turks own confirming, exercising their power under his authority. These choose and consecrate the Archbishops and Bishops under them: some of whom have recourse to the Pope for confirmation. They are all Monks of Bafil; the famousest of which many Covents throughout the Levant, are those in Jerusalem, on Mount Sinai, and the holy Mountain upon the Archipelago. These hold all that the Greeks of old condemned as erroneous at the Councel of Florence; and are thought to be more than all the rest, Natolia and Syria being full of them; they extending also into Egypt, and Corazzan of Persia. Some also place the Georgians among them: who (as one) acknowledg the Patriarch of Constantinople's authority: yet some say, they agree in most doctrinal points with the Greeks, but not acknowledging the faid Patriarch; but have one of their own: who being mostly refident on Mount Sinai, hath 18 Bishops under him. They call ('tis faid) on St. George as their Advocate: But take not their name from him, as was before shewn. Some of them have turned Mahometans. Nestorians are also in these Countries, so called from Nefforium the Leader of their formerly condemned herefie: who speaking the languages of the places where they live, do notwithstanding celebrate their Liturgie in the Chaldean tongue. The third feet are Dioscoriens, which are likewise divided into three Armenians, who although they give the title of Patriarch to many of their Prelates who farm the Turk's Armenian tributes, and are made partly by his favour; yet call but two Universal Patriarchs, the one being over the high, the other over the Low-Armenia. They are not much leffe in number than the Melchites; who have great liberty in all the Turk's chate, both for their policy in Trade, and for some testimonies of their predecessour's affection to Mahomet: who passionately recommended them to his succeffours. They have no Images, but croffes of braffe and iron, yet have they divers reliques in shrines of silver; they say Service in their own language. Those things wherein they differ from the other Dioscoriens are, 1. Celebrating their Sacrament with unleavened bread, therein being conformable to Rome beyond all the Eastern Sectaries: they put also no water in their wine, saying, the Latine Church used anciently the same; they ear signs and milk on Saturday night before Easter; eating also flesh every Friday from Easter to the Ascension. They differ in the time of celebrating the Annunciation and Nativity. They fay, Christ was exempt from passions, and necessities of humane nature. They make the fign of the Crosse with two fingers, first on the right fide, then on the left, contrary to the Jacobites.

For their killing nor buying any flesh five Saturdayes of the year, in remembrance of the Idolaters sacrificing their children to Idols, and in a different ordering the Lamb in their Mass for the dead before they kill it; some call them Sabbatins and Julianists. Yet they remember their first union with Rome's Church, in Pope Silvester, and Constantine the Great's time. Jacobies, denominated from one Jacob, a Syrian, a follower of Diofeores and Eutyches; the chief of whom are in Aleppo, Caramit, and Tur, a Mountain of Mcsopotamia. They had two Patriatchs;

now but one; which is he of the Monastery of Gifran, yet living at Caramit: who hath under him two Metropolitans, one being in Icrusalem; divers Arch-bishops, and many Monasteries of Anthomie's Order. They celebrate in the Chaldean tongue, and differ from the Armenians; in making the fign of the croffe with the tore-finger onely; to fignifie a oneneffe of nature, will, and operation in Christ. They eat also milk and flesh on Wednesday and Friday night after Sun-fet, faying, Then the term of abitinence is past: cating flesh all the year long but in Lent. Some Arabians living among them, have joyned to them, who are called Solares, because they worship (among other superstitions) the Sun. The Maronites (some think) are a branch of the Jacobites; for they were both (of old) subject to the Antiochian Patriarch; the which Pairiarchship, both pretend; though it be now in the hands of the Melchites: they both use the Chaldean tongue, and had the same opinion of the unity of will, nature and operation of Christ. It is the least of all the Eastern sects, there being not above 12000 housholds, most of whom are poor; yet they are the most affected to the See of Rome, whose Patriarch being of Anthonies Order, and chosen by their Bishops and Religious ones. is confirmed by the Pope, and refides at Tripoli of Syria, the Towns of Syria and Villages of Mount Libanon being the abode of the Maronites. Yet are there some convents of Anthony, and a few Bishops, who having no certain abode, are as it were his affiftants. They pray to Maron, not (fay they) the Arch heretique, (from whom, tis generally held, they derive their name) but an Abbot of a very holy life; or elfe are fo called from Marona a Village of Mount Libanon. Some are found among these, called White: who not being baptized, and in outward shew Mahometans, do call themselves Christians, confessing and communicating in secrer. The third fort of Dioscorians, are Costes or Curdes: who being wonderful ignorant, are mostly Nestorians and Jacobites; but have divers other opinions: many Mahometans being also among them.

Before I passe to Asyria, &c. I shall strike in with those two noted Islands of the Mediterranean Sea, Rhodes and Cyprus. Rhodes lying in the Carpathian Sea over-against Caria, had of old divers names, as Ithrea, Trinacria, &c. But (according to Pliny) called Rhodes, from the fields of Roses therein, from follow, signifying a Rose; nigh whose chief City Rhodes (which stands on the East part of the Isle, the fide of a hill, and part on the Sea-shore, enjoying a fair and fafe Haven, having also two or three Walls. five Castles, 13 high Towers, and some other Forts, making it even impregnable) at the entry of the Haven; stood that huge Idol of braffe, (in a man's image) called Colossu, one of the world's feven Wonders: whose thumb was so big, that no man could embrace it with both arms; and its little finger as big as an ordinary man. Some fay it was built by Canete Lindo in 12 years space; others, by Callasses Lysippus his Schollar, taking the name Colo Su

Colo flus of him. It was 80 cubits high, and erected in honour of the Sun; (which is faid, once a day to thine on this Island, though never so cloudy in other places) between whose leggs, (it standing in the Harbour's mouth) ships with sails were wont to passe under. Whether the people were hence called Colo fians, is uncertain; but those Cologians to whom Paul wrote, were dwellers in Anatolia, of which mention hath been made. Mnavi Caliph, Ofman's General, uniting this Isle to the Mahometan Empire, he brake down most of this Image, the brasse whereof is said to have loaded 900 Camels: yet its reliques were seen within this 60 or 80 years by a travailler into Rhodes. When the Knights of John of Jerusalem were driven out of Palestine by the Turks, this Island was given by the Constantinopolitan Emperour unto them, who expelled the Saracens from thence in 1308, who formerly took it from the divided Greeks; who having forely infested the Turks nigh 200 years, Solyman the magnificent invading it, and beficging Lilladamus Villiers (with about 500 of his Knights, 5000 Rhodians affilting them) by an Army of 200000 Turks, and 300 Galleys, 6 moneths; in one of the two strong Fortresles of the City, they resolutely desended it to the utmost of valour or warlike policy, till multitude over-mastering both, Solyman entred the Town on Christmas day so called, in 1522: the Knights vielding it on condition to depart, with liberty, goods, and transportations and the Countrie's Inhabitants to continue there still if they would: yet the Turk loft to many of his best Souldiers, and brave Commanders, that (as one faith) he might have faid with Pyrrhus, Such another Victory would have utterly undone him. They remained long after without a habitation; till the King of Spain gave them the barren Isle of Malta. Rhodes hath been much subject to overflowing of waters, wherewith in 25 years space it was three times afflicted, and mightily indangered by continuall storms of rain; the last of which beginning (when Antigonus vanquished Eumenes ) with hail at the entrance of the foring, the whole Island was covered with water, and the inhabitants drowned; many houses were beaten down, many killed, and the Town in a manner ruined thereby, but they fince labouring to drain the waters, and dry up the moors, the Country hath been fruitfull, and not subject to such inundations. It abounds in pastures, great store of Olive-Trees, Olives, and Citrons, with other Trees, continually green, and near the Town it felf, there are many Valleys and small hills, with store of Fruit-Trees and Vines; but they grow all by industry, not naturally. These Islanders were so expert in Sea-affairs, that Flores calls them Populus Nauticus, or a Sea-people; they made couragious defence against the Romans, before subjected unto them; but then ever faithfull, who (of all the Mediterranean Isles, that revolted in Mithridates his time) stood onely fast to the Romans, so that Velleius Paterculus makes it almost a miracle, that (in the Romans hard wars with Perfeus King of Macedon) the very Rhodians that before were most -

faithfuil to the Romans, now (by a doubtfull faith) feemed to be more inclinable to the Kings part. The Town is onely inhabited by Turks, and Jews; Christians may not abide therein in the night on pain of death, for fear of fedition or Treason; by day, they may either continue, or trade there without exception. But those in the Villages are most Christians, and those Greeks who manure their fields, and dresse their Vines and Gardens; and whose manner of living is mostly like other Greeians; I suppose the Authors meaning is, both in Religion and behaviour. Rodes was an old Academy of the Roman Monarchy, on the West side of which Isle (which is 120 miles in circuit) lieth Carpathos, now Scarpanto, 70 miles in compasse; eminent onely for giving the name of the Carpathian Sea to the adjoyning waters.

TPRUS (scituated according to Ptolom), in the midst of the I Bick-bay, called the Gulf of Laiazza) lies between Cilicia, and Syria's Coasts, and is about an 100 miles from Syria Southward, baving Egypt on the West, and Cilicia on the East. It's length extending from East to West, is (by a traveller thither) reputed 210 miles, 60 broad, and 600 in circuit. It fell into the Romans hands, after the Afgrian Monarchies extinguishment, (which before was under the dominion of Greek Tyrants) by whose means the Ptolomies of Agypt commanded it. Then returning again under the Romans by M. Cato, who conquered it, and found therein 7000 Talents in money and goods; which summe, fearing to lose, in bringing it to Rome by Sea, he put it into several boxes, to wit, two Talents and fifty drachms in a box : at the end whereof, he fastening a long rope, with a piece of Cork at the end, that, if it suffered shipwrack, it might be espied. Upon the division of the Roman Empire, the Emperours of Constantinople possessed it; whither Ifaze Comnen (fleeing from Andronicus Comnen, the ufurper of the Greek Empire, ruled as its King till 1191, when as Richard the first, of England, going to the Holy War (so called) against the Turks, his fouldiers being by the Islanders, some slain, and some taken Prisoners, who in two ships were there driven on ground, having hardly escaped the Sea's danger: and the rest of his fleer there arriving, being forbidden to land also; he moved therewith, and by force landing his men, took Isaac Comnen Prifoner, (whom he fent bound in Silver Chains into Syria) and speedily over-ran and subdued the whole Island; exchanging it afterwards with Guy of France, of the Family of Lufignan, for the loft and titulary kingdome of Jerusalem; in whose posterity it remained till 1423. Then the Sultan of Agypt invading it, and taking John its King Prisoner, yet restored him (after a round ransome) for 40000. Crowns yearly Tribute. Then it came under the Venetians subjection in 1473, by means of James an illegitimate son, who having dispossessed his sister Carlotte of the Crown, married one Catherina adopted daughter of the Senate of Venice, whom he leaving his heir, the refigued her Scepter to the Senate, which which defended it (onely paying the Tribute) till Mustapha, Selimus the Second, his General, wrested it in 1570 out of their hands, Bragadino their Governour making good to the utmost the Town of Famagusta (the which and Rhodes are said to be the two strongest holds in all the Turks Empire) yielding at last on honourable conditions: which Mustapha kept not; but murdering the chiefest men of the Town, he cut off Bragadines ears, fleaing him alive, &c. and fending the chief prisoners and spoils unto Selim: A Cyprian Lady appointed for his luft, firing Gun-powder, partly burnt and partly drowned the two Vessels, and booty, fo that he never faw them. Yer the next year the Venetians won the battle of Lepanto. This Island was formerly called Achamantis or Achametide, Macaria, that is, bleffed or happy, from its fruitfulnesse; Cerastis, either for the many Mountains therein, whose tops are sharp like horns: or because it butted toward the East with one horn; and one faith, it was named Crypta; that is hidden; lying fo low as if the waves of the Sea did cover it. But Cyprus, from its abundance of Cyprus Trees. There are fix Capital Cities or Towns therein; Paphos, said to be built by Cineras, who called it after his fathers name, wherein (of old) was the Temple of Venus; for the Gentiles confecraced this Island to that imagined Goddesse of beauty. Famagusta (formerly Salamus) on the South-Sea: at whose siege the Turks spent 1 18000 great Bullets. Nicosia, in the plain of Massara, 34 miles from Famagusta, and of old called Fremitus, and Leucetum. Ceraunea, now Certenes; which Cyrus built after vanquishing the nine petty Kings, into which it was once divided. Amathu, whence the Island was called Amathusia, where Venus was also worshipped. Lescare, antiently Arsinoe, highly noted for Jupiters Groves. Here was born five noted Gentiles; Xenophon the Historian, Zeno, Appollonius the Philosopler, Ascelepiades, whence the Æsclepiad Verses, and Solon, one of the seven wise men of Greece, who gave laws to the Athenians. The Cypriots are very courteous and affable to all strangers, except Jews, of whom (because in Trajane his time, they under Artemio their Captain, desolated this Island, killing 240000 therein (who yet were quickly overcome and slain by the Romans Lievtenant) if any come, or are forced in thither, ('tis faid) they execute him. Their greatest want is of water, but too much plenty of fcorching heat (the longest day there, being about fourteen hours and an half) and fabulous grounds, (whose heat notwithstanding the Northern winds strongly blowing in Cerines Burrough, doth moderate; the Ayr also on the Mountains being very subtile) and it is recorded, that the Isle was utterly abandoned in Constantine the Great his dayes, for that it rained not in thirty fix years. It was formerly (as Ptolomy teacheth) divided into four parts; Salaminia, Paphia, Amathusia, Lapathia; but now into twelve parts, called Provinces or Countries, Strabo faith, Cyprus in his time yielded abundance of Wine, and Oyl, and Wheat enough to feed the Inhabitants. At this day it is exceeding fertile, having all things needfull for mans life, their Wine

Wine is excellent, keeping 80 years, of a pleating taft, and of black (in that time) becoming white; but a travailer faith, they having no barrels, but keeping it in great Earthen jars inclosed all (fave their open mouths) within the ground, and interlarded with pitch within, to preferve them from breaking by the Wines force; it savours of the Pitch, and makes it too heady for the brain. The black great Rayfin called Zibile, comes here hence; they gather all kinds of fruit (except Chemuts, Services, and Cherries) especially Oranges, Lemons, and Citrons, excelling all others in tast. They have Dates, Saffron, abundance of Corianderfeed, also Mastick. It yields medicinable things, as Rubarb, Turpentine the best of all; and some say Coloquintida, and Scammony. Here are also Mines of Gold, Chrysocolla, Calthante, Allome, Iron, and exceeding good Copper, Besides which, are pretious stones found, as Diamonds, Emeraulds, Crystall, white and red Corall, and the Amiant stone, of which they making Linnen Cloath; the fire will not burn it (though cast into it) but purifies and whitens it. They have Goats hair, wherewith they make Chamlets. There is a Lake not far from the Sea, 12 miles about, into which runs a small River falling from Mount Olympus, out of which they draw store of salt; excellent and white Honey have they, also Wool; But it appears, their chief commodities are Sugar, which they draw out of Canes, and Cotton, for, as one faith, Cyprus, Candy, and Sicily, are the Monarchall Isles of the Mediterranean Sea; resembling each other in length; breadth, circuit and fertility, onely Candy is somewhat narrower than the other two, and more fassinous and hilly; yet for Oyles' and Wines, thee is the Mother of both the other, Sicily being for Grain and Silks the Empresse of all, and Cyprus for Sugar and Cotton-wool, a darling fifter to both, giving likewife this Character of their Inhabitants; they of Sicily Isle are the most civill; the Cypriots indifferent, the Candiots rudest of all, Besides the Latine and Greek Churches, whereof there are 4 Bishopricks, yet double, the one Greek, the other Latine; of Nicofia, Papkee, Famagusta, and Limißa; there are other feets in this Island, as Armenians, Coftes, Maronites, Indians, Nestorians, Georgians, and Jacobites; every one having their Bishop, and were expelled by Saladine (after the taking of Jerusalem) for the Turkshere (as in other Countries) give liberty of Conscience, onely for a yearly exacted Tribute. There are many Monasteries on the chiefest and highest Mountain in this Isle, called Trohodos, 8 miles high, and 48 in compass, whose people are of Basil's Order, and called Colieros, or rather Caloires, that is, good Priests. The Latine Bishops have their burroughs, and Tithes; but the Greek, a yearly lum of the Priests and Deacons under them, as in other Provinces. Also the Greek did acknowledge the Latine Bishops for their superiours, &c. But the Latine Arch-bishop of Nicofia (called Archbishop of Cyprus) depended immediately of the Pope, not on any Patriarch, untill the Signiors of Venice, under Pope Pius the 4th, becomming Patrons of this Arch bishoprick, chose 4, one whereof the Pope named Archbishop. A Syrie

SSTRIA (so called from Assur, one of Sem's five sons who peopled it) is by divers, diversly named; as Adrinfa, or Adrise, Azemie, Mosul, Sarh, Arzerum, and by some, Cusestanand lyes between Armenia Major on the North, and Susiana, in Persia, on the South. This Country was of old in reputation, for the Empire there ferled, whose King Salmana far carried away the ten Tribes : and of the chief City Nineveh (built by Ninus the third Afgrian Monarch): whither Jonah was sent to preach repentance; it was 60 miles about, whose walls were 100 foot high, 200 foot high was every Tower in the walls, whereof there were 1500, and the walls were so broad, that three Carts might be conteined a breast; it was seated near the River Tigris, and bigger than Babylon; but is now almost quite ruined. Here is also the City Arzeri, whence the whole Region is denominated, and Arvela, nigh which Alexander in his third and last battle with Darim, having 800000, got a great Victory, and was installed in the Monarchy of Persia. Darius dying not long after. It formerly conteined the Provinces of Arapachit, Adiaben, and Sittacen, which fome (saith one) at this day call Botan, Sarca, and Rabia. Thorow Nineveh also ran Euphrates.

MESO POTAMIA, (so called because it is scituated be-twixt the two famous Rivers, Euphrates and Tigru) is in Scripture called Padan Aram, now Diarbech, according to Mercator, and bath toward the West Syria, toward the East Asyria, divided by Tigris; which for its swiftnesse, is so called, Tigris in the Medes language fignifying an Arrow. Whose chief Towns were Ede Ba, now (they lay) called Rechau; whole Governour Agbaru, wiiting an Epistle to Christ, received an answer from him, whereof Eusebius hath set down the Coppies. Near which also Caracalla, Severus the Emperour his son, was slain by Macrinus his appointment, Captain of the Guard, who intended to have took off his head, for that the Magicians returned their answer, that Macrinus should succeed him. And 'tis observed by history, that all or most of the 40 Emperours between Juliu Cafar, and Constantine, dyed unnatural deaths. either killing themselves, or being killed. When the Christians had recovered this Country and Palestine from the Turks, they divided their whole conquest into four Tetrarchies, Jerusalem, Antioch, Tripolis, and Edessa: every one whereof had subordinate Lords, and were all subject to the Kings of Jerusalem. Carra, in Scripture Haran, where Abrabam dwelt, when he left ur of the Chaldeans: this Town is now called Caramit, that is, a black Town, where refides a Turkish Bassa of great power: it was of old named Amida, and stands in the chief Country of Mesopotamia, called Alech, and was taken by Selimus the Turk. The Pagans here once worshipped the Moon, some as a Female; others as a Male. Orfe, said to be seven miles in compasse, and famous by the death Iiiii of Crassus the Roman Lieutenant, who was worth 7100 talents, when he had offered the 10th to Hercules, and given three moneths corn to the poor. But he was vanquished by King Herodes and his Parthians nigh unto Carra. Herein also stands Merdin the Chaldean Pattiarch's Seat: and Mosus the Nessorian Patriarch's residing place, whose authority extends even to Cathaia, and the Indies. Here was Abraham born; whither also he sen his servant so choose Isacca Wise: unto whose brother Laban in this Country, Jacob sted from his brother Esau: The earthly Paradise is judged to have been in an Island of this Region made by Tigris and Euphrates, and branches running from them: whose uppermost is said to be Pison, watering Havilah, now Susiana, the lowermost Gihon, running thorow Athiopia, Asiatica, Chaldea, (whose siri Inhabitants descended from Arphaxad, Sem's third son, according to Dubartus---

And Chaldee fell to learned Arphanad) is scituated on the West of Assyria, and on the East of Syria; two of whose principal Cities were #r; yet now called Horrea.

Babylon, whose Tower of Babel, that is, confusion, (begun by Nimred the fon of Chus foon after the flood, to secure themselves from a fecond deluge) (though Heber and his family contradicted it) is faid to have been raifed 5164 paces from the ground, whose circumference was equal to its height, &c. which God beholding, made of one language, 72; so hindring the proceedings of that proud and fond attempt; who being about 24000 men, befides women and children: 27 of those languages, Sem's posterity, dispersed themselves over Asia; 15, being Japhet's issue, went towards Europe and Afia the Leffe: the other 30, of Cham's loyns, peopled Africk) which was neverthelesse finished by Semiramis, a woman of infatiable lufts, born at Afralon a Town of Syria, and the 4th Chaldean Monarch, who being taken to Ninus's bed, who granted her the Empires command for five dayes: the putting on the Royal robes, commanded the King to be flain. And whose walls being in circuit 60 miles, were also 200 foot high, and 50 Cubits in breadth. News being brought to this Semiramis, of this Citie's revolt; she, leaving her head half undrest, never platted the rest of her hair, till she by siege had recovered it. Cyrus took this Town, by cutting many deep channels; fo emptying Euphrates that ran thorowit, and conveying his forces along the emptied River into the Town. Which revolting from the Persians in Darim Histafpis his time ; Zopirm, Darim bis Captain, (after twenty moneths fiege, and fill leffe hope to prevail) cutting off his note and ears, and mangling his body, fled in policy to the Babylonians, complaining of his King's tyranny: who crediting his words, and committing to him their whole Army, he delivered Souldiers and Town into his Severaign's hands. Here Alexander the Great ended his dayes; by whose Greek Army it being taken, one part onely took cognizance thereof in three dayes space. Bugiafer Caliph of the Saracens, rebuilt this City, expending 18 millions of gold therein, calling it Bagdet from Baga, the Arabick word for a a garden; of which it contained many. Between this Town and Aleppo is still a great Trade of Carriers with laden Camels . between which also they are wont to fend letters in haste by post-Pidgeons. In Chaldea flourished many and the first Astronomers: whose two helps herein, were, the Countrie's plainnesse affording a fair Horizon: and a long life, with sufficient experience of all the Stars and Planets motions; and the three Wise men of the East, who worshipped and presented gifts to Christ, are thought to have come from hence. Belochus Priscue, the 10th Afgrian King, was the first author of divination by birds flying, called Auspicium: besides which, the Gentiles had three other kinds; Araspicium, or a looking on or into beasts that came to be facrificed. Tripudium or by the rebounding of crums caft to chickens. Augurium, or by the chirping or chattering of birds: as also from unknown sounds and voyces. Sardanapalus the 38th Monarch, for his effeminacy, being befieged in Nineveh by Arbaces, Governour of Media; and Belochus, of Babylon: he burned himself with all his riches. Justine saying, that by this deed onely he imitated a man. After whose death, Arbaces taking Media and Persia with the confining Provinces; Belochus seized on Asyria, Chaldea, and the Countries adjacent; whose Kingdome was called the new Kingdom of Assyria: the 9th of which new Monarchs was Nebuchadonofer, who conquering Egypt, destroying Nineveh, repairing Babylon, and in the 18th year of his reign destroying Jerusalem, and captivating the Jews to Babylon, was called commonly, The Hercules of the East. But toward his latter end was distracted seven years, living like a beast: and being restored to his fenses, and thereby somewhat humbled, he dyed, having reigned 44 years; whose grandchild Balthasar, (the son of Evilmerodach, who was flain by Astrages King of the Medes) a diffolute and cruel Prince, had his Kingdom taken from him, and himself slain by Darim and Cyrm, Astyages's successours: after which, it was subject to the Persians, Gracians, Romans, (who yet hardly extended their borders beyond Euphrates) Parthians, Saracens, Persian Sophies; and last of all to the Turk, by Solyman the magnificent, who in 1545, caused the titulary Caliph of Bagdet to crown him King thereof.

of the World.

EDIA (now called Servan or Shirvan) confines towards the South with Persia, on the West with high Armenia and Assyria; to the North with the Caspian Sea, so called from the Caspii, a people of Seythia Southerly bordering herein. Its people were formerly the most powerful of all Asia: and it was divided into high Media, and Atropatia, the most Northerly part of Media. The chief Cities are Servan, whence the whole Region is denominated. Tauris or Tabris, which some be ieve to be Echatane, and is scated at the foot of Mount Oronte about eight dayes journey from the Sea of Bacu or Caspian Sea: whose ayr being very wholsome, though cold and windie, it contained in its 16 miles

compasse about 200000 Inhabitants: but Amurath the Third, taking it in 1585, (for it was thrice taken by the Turk) some hold, that fince it is much decayed: Here was formerly the Persian Sophie's Seat, (in Summer) till Tamas transported it to Tasbin their last abode, which lyes more Southerly than Tauris. Sultania, where is the fairest Mosque or Mahometan Temple of the East. Also Nassivan, which some think to be the ancient Artaxata or Nafuana. Ardoville, in which Guinet and Sederdin, (whom some call Bunie and Aider )the first authors of the Sophie's Sect and Empire, with some other authors of that seet, have reigned. Some also make reckoning of Marant in high Media, noted for the war that hath been between Amurath the Turk, and the Perfian Sophies. And (as one faith) although the Turk hath held part of this Country fornewhat long, yet it may well be attributed to the Persian King, seeing he hath of late recovered almost all from the Turk. Symmachia, or Sumaquie in Atropatia, said to be the strongest place in Media, taken by the Turk in 1578, and made the Seat of a Turkish Bassa. Here stand also the Towns of Sechi on the frontiers of Gurgestan: Javat on the confines of high Media; and Eres, famous formerly, for the great store of filk coming thence. They once made a liquor in Media, called oyl of Media, with which they envenoming their arrowes, and shooting them, not in a strong, but slacker bow, it burnt the flesh with such violence, that water allayed not, but rather increased, the torment : onely dust could mitigate it. There is also Derbent (anciently named Caucasiæ Portæ, built hard by the hill Caucasu, called by Plinie, a great miracle of nature, as being environed with two walls, and having gates of iron, the chief City in Albania, but now called Zuiria, a Country lying on the North of Media: a chief River whereof Arafse; and an ancient City whereof was called Laodicea.

The particular Province of PERSIA (in old time called Panchaia, from King Panchee; then, from the Greeks, Cephene: but Persia, from King Perseus, (changing the name of Elamites into Persians) who passing over from Greece into Asia, there tamed the barbarous Nations by a great and daily war, and gave the Conquerour's name to this subdued Country) is bounded on the North with Media, on the South with the Persian gulph; which takes its name of this Province; and runs along 600 miles: The two chief Cities are Siras, in antient time, Perfepolis, built by Perfes, Perfeus his fon; fome fay, that it was named Cyropolis, and was the abode of the wife Kings of the East; it is feated on the River Bindimir, and is now one of the beautifullest Towns of the East, being (with the Suburbs, 20 miles about, and containing 60000 houses. Alexander at the request of his lewd Lais, set it on fire; but repenting his folly, he afterwards rebuilt it. Cashin or Tashin, whither Tamas ( as was faid) brought the Sophie's residence from Tauris; it's called also Hispian, and said to be a dayes journey about on horseback. This is well walled, (though (though Tauris hath none) and is beautified with two Seraglio's, whose Walls are of red Marble, and paved with Mosaique work; where also doth the Sophie sometime personally administer Justice.

USIANA (called Chus and Cufiftan, hath for bounds on the West, Chaldea; on the South, the Persian gulph. It (faith one) sook this name from its famous City Sules, called Chus and Suffre; but it may be called Susiana (as if to say, Chustana) from Chus, Ham's fon, who first peopling here, withdrew to the three Arabia's, calling them after his own name, the Land of Chus, which is . Ethiopia, (not of Africa, but of Afia) which the River Gibon is faid to encompasse. Chus leaving this Country to his son Havilah: it is called in Scriptures, the Land of Havilah, where is gold; which Pison (the Southern branch of the River Tigris or Hiddekel, as Gihon is the most Western branch of Euphrates) is said to compasse. For it is evident from I Sam. 15.7. that there was another Land of Havilah, besides that of India. Suses the chief City is built upon the River Enele, now called Tirtir: being of a long form, and 15 miles in compasse: where the Persian Kings also (of old) kept Court in Winter; for that it stood more Southerly than Tauris or Echatane.

TARMANIA, now called CHIRMAN, hath been divided into two parts; the one called by fome at this day. Dulcinde, or Carmania the Defart; whose limits are on the North Parthia, towards the South, the other Carmania: it hath no Towns, but onely some scattering Villages. The other lying betwixt Gedrosia the Desart, part of Persia, and the Indian-Sea, and is called high or great Carmania. Whose chief City is Chirman, famous for its cloath of Gold, and making of the best Scimitars; which the Mahometans fo prize, that those who were taken at their overthrow of Lepanto, cast them into the Sea, that the Christians might not have such weapons. This Province extends 200 leagues, and is near the Sea; but (they fay) there is no fafe Port. or comming for thips, for the fands and Rocks. Yet the more Westerly, hath the more commodious Ports and many Towns, but the Easterly is ill inhabited. Here Alexander returning our of India, kept his feasts in imitation of Bacchu, who first conquered that Nation. They continued seven dayes, night and day in a fortish, drunken, and foolish manner, as they marched thorow it. In the Army was no weapon to be feen, but Cups, Barrels, and Flagons; and cating, drinking, laughing, and finging, inficad of skirmishing, &c. so that the Historian observes, a 1000 sober Persians, (if their courage had been according to the occasion offered them by this drunken army) might have defeated them, and recovered the Countries freedome.

EDROSIA, now CHARMAN, Circan, and Gest, hath toward the East the Realm of Camboy, or part of the Indies, on the West Carmania, from which it is parted by the River Ilment: whose chief City is called Gedroson, or Gest. Alexander here (to immortalize his fame) making all the Monuments of his Indian conquest larger and bigger than what they represented, occasioned many to suspect, his actions were lesse than is thought, since (hereby) he would have them thought more then they were.

RANGIANA, (divided by the River Drangie, called in new Maps Ilment) is now called SIGESTAN; yet Niger faith, that Drangiana with Arachofia is fo called. Some will have this to be Cabul on the Sophies frontiers Westward, having a particular Mahometan King. It is bounded on the North and West with Aria, under the Mountain Bagoe, and on the East with Aracosia, and is so inclosed with Mountains, that the River scarce finds passage; two Cities hereof are, Sige, whence it is named Sigeftan, and Mulebet, where Aladine a feditious Persian. promised an eternal earthly sools Paradise to all that took his part, who fwearing to venture their lives in his quarrells, he appointed them to Massacre such neighbour Princes as probably might prove bad to him, which thing they did; whom the Italians calling Agasines, that is, theires, and cut-throats, we use the word to Affasinate. Some indeed attribute this unto Aladeules, King of Antitaurus, whom Selym the first vanquished; but Paulus Venetus relates the full story concerning Aladine.

RIA (by others, Eri, Sablestam, Sargutzar, Corfan, and Semere) hath on the West Parthia, and Carmania the Desart, on the East the Country of Parapomism. Here are three principal Rivers Aria, Arapen, and Tonelet; also the Marish of Arien, now called the Burgian Lake. Its chief City is Eri, or Aria, thirteen miles about; Sartibarzanes was once Governour of this Country; who revolting from, and joyning battell with Alexander, challenged to fight hand to hand with any of his commanders: the which one Eriguis an aged, but mettalfome fouldier, undertaking, and having cried aloud, I will shew what souldiers Alexander had, came on, and at the second onset, slew Sartibarzanes; and then the Arians re-obeyed Alexander; who at another time having rebelled; and being by Alexander forced to hide in a Cave, on the top of an inaccessible Rock, he piling up wood eeven with the Cavesmouth, fer it on fire with the wind; whereby, some, by the heat and imoak, being half burnt and Rifled, the rest yielded to his mercy.

RACHOSIA, (which hath on the West Drangiana, on the East, Inaia) is, they say, called (of it self) Cabult; whose chief City is Cabult, formerly called Alexandria of Arachosia; Alexandre built it at the foot of the Hill Caucasu, (Taurus taking this name here) and left 7000 Macedonian souldiers to people the same. On this Mount the Tragedy of Prometheus is said to be asted, which is sar diversly related by Augustine, then according to the vulgar Fable.

ARATO MISUS, so called for that it is sashioned like an Island, with Rivers running almost about it, is named Dache by one, but by another Candahar; yet others will have this called Sablestan. It is bounded on the South with Arachosta, on the North with the Mountains of Tauru, dividing it from Tartary; there called the Mountain of Parapomise. It is so mountainous, that in Alexanders times, it was scarse known to its neighbour Countries, and the people being so barbarous that they were not held worthy of acquaintance; whose Valleys (though said to be indifferent stuitfull) were so shadowed with the high hills; that it much Eclipsed their clearest day. Their chief Town, and a frequented Market is Candahar, or rather now called Condatura.

SACA, whose people Saca, seating themselves North in amber and valour. They are reported still to live here barbarously in Caves, living mostly by thest. The Country is scituated more Northerly than Parapomism, on the borders of Scylbia, or Tartary.

TIRCANIA hath divers names, as Girgiam, Corcam, Me-[ ] Sandre, Hyrach, Strave, Diargument; and hath on the North the Hircanian, or Caspian Sea, and on the South, Aria, and Parthia. its chief City is Hircan, very strongly scituated, and called by the Scythians, Charizat. In it also is the Town Nobarca, once famous for an Oracle therein, When Alexander conquered this country, (it being in a manner a Forrest) the Hircanians tying the boughs together, he could not come at them. But causing his Souldiers to cut down the Wood, which they thought his affairs would not have permitted him to do, they yielded. Abundance of fierce Tygers lurking in these Forrests, occasioned that Proverb of cruell men; That they had sucked an Hircanian Tiger. There are Rivers in these forementioned Provinces, some whereof (they say) have even an incredible fleep fall into the Sea, and the River Zioberis in this Hircania, in his course out of the Hills, is hid 38. miles under-ground, rifing again into another river, the which, Alexander, by casting two Oxen therein, the stream casting them up at its rifing, made tryall of.

There is also included within the Realm of PERSIA, the Island OR MUS (for Persa conteined the eleven mentioned Provinces, bounded in the generall with the Main Ocean on the South, and the Caspian Sea, with the River Oxus, on the North, which Oxus, (as may be shewn hereafter, is a bound stall to Monarchies) about twelve miles from the continent, not great, and yet barren. They say it is tributary to the Portugalls ever since 1506. But its convenient scituation, for the Trade both of Arabia, Persa, and India: occasioned these Verses by the Arabians

If all the world should be a Ring; the stone, And Gemme thereof, were Ormus Isle alone.

So that, the Customes of its Merchandise affords a great Sum to the Mahometan Vice, or under King thereof, unto whose Crown the Isle Bolfaria not far off, and also some of Arabia the happy, is said to belong.

His is the ordinary and received Description, and Division of Persia, but one that hath written a brief relation of the chief Provinces thereof, and which have continued longest under the Persians command, saith, that Persia, which those born in the Country call Pare, or Agem, and whose inhabitants are named Pary, or Agemy, being one of the greatest Monarchies (for before the renting Media, and Armenia from it, it was 4560 miles in compasse) and the most famous and best people in the World, cannot be discovered, or have any certain bounds given unto it for the variety found in that Kings dominions, the Realms, and Provinces whereof, have been sometimes very great, sometimes of small extent.

After Sardanapalus his death, the Empire was divided into the Afgrian, Chaldean, and Median Monarchy, of which last the founder was Arbases, in the year of the World 3146, the seventh of which Monarchs of the Medes, was Phraortes, who being of great proweffe, and reigning 22 years, compelled the Persians to be his Tributaries. But Cyrus Aftiages his Grandchild, having no quarrellatall against Cyaxares his Uncle (who is plainly Darius the Mede with Daniel,) left him the Kingdome of Media, and himself took Persia; yet so, that Cyrus marrying Cyazares his onely daughter, should be his heir both of what he then had, and what they should mutually win in Cyanares his life time. So that although the Greeks attribute the taking of Babylon, and flaying of Baltazzar unto Cyrm onely; yet the Scripture gives it wholly to Darius; as being the elder, the Medes Empire the more famous of the two; and the Uncle being before the Nephew, unto whom also what they both won, was to belong, till after death; Cyrm fucceeding him, and incorporating thereby, the Medes and Persians into one, joyned

Joyaed also the Affyrian Monarchy, besides Armenia and three other Countries to his Empire: whole successour Cambyfes (a cruell tyrant making an expedition into Egypt, in which he dyed; although he subdued Pfamniticus the last King thereof, uniting it to his Empire ) the Vice-Roy, a Magus, fet up his own fon, the falle Smerdis as Cambyfes his brother; till Otanes a Nobleman, being informed by his daughter the King's Concubine, that he had no care, the deceit being discovered, this false Smerdis was flain in the 8th moneth of his reign; and the seven Nobles chose one among them to be King, whose horse first neighed in the Palace-Green before Sun-rising : which by the sleight of his Groom fell to Darine called Hyftaspes; whose two immediate Successours were Xerxes, who to his own overthrow, attempted to subdue the Greeks; and Artaxerxes Longimanus, who is called in Scripture Arasuerosb: The 5th after whom, being Davins Governour of Media, he was vanquished by Alexander the Great in three battles, whereby the Median and Persian Empire was pasted over to the Macedonian. which was in the year of the World 3635. At which Conquests Alexander is reported to have loaded 10000 Mules, and 5000 Camels, with the gold and wealth taken therein, beside what every Souldier particularly had. Hereupon, the Perfian Monarchy was obscured, till the year of Christ 228, that is, 535 years; 83 years under Alexander's successours of Syria; 452 under the Parthian kings: for A faces a Parthian Noble perswading the Eastern people with the Persians, to break the Greek yoak, took the Diadem: although in that they changed onely the Tyrant, not the tyranny. But at length Artaxerxes a Persian taking an opportunity, by the massacring and breaking of the Parihians by Caracalla and Macrimus, flaying Artabanus the last Parthian King, he raised again the royal Seat of Persia, though not without three dayes cruel fight: Artaxerxes hereupon, Sending to Severus the Roman Emperour, for all the Provinces of Asia belonging to the Persian Monarchy, to be delivered him, Severus went against him with an Army, dividing it into three parts; two whereof the Persians breaking, he hastily and dangerously retired with the third. So that, Valerianus being after this overce me and taken by Sapores the second of that Persian race: their name growing terrible, Constantine the Great, brought both the Garrilons and Colonies of the North-West into the East, removing also the Empire's Seat from Rome to Constantinople, lest the Persians should intrench too far on the Roman Provinces. They continued in Soveraignty under 28 Kings, till the year 634, in which, Haumar the Saracen vanquishing Hormifda the fecond, the Persians were buried under intamy by the Saracens; who gave to their Deputies here kept, the name of Sultan or Soldan, who remained till the year 1030; in which Tangrolipix the Turk coming out of Armenia for affiftance to Mahomet the Persian Sultan, was invested King of Persia through the faid Mahomet's unhappy death. The third that is read of, from Kkkkk Tangrolipix,

Tangrolipix, was Cuffanes; who being conquered by the great Cham of Tartarie in the year 1202, Haalon was ordained the first Tartarian King of Persia; the 9th from whom was abuzaid: who dying, the Tartarian Princes civilly differring about feizures on several parts thereof; Gempfas a Parthian took occasion to free both his own subjects and the Persians from their bondage: which he effecting, was chosen Sultan or King of Persia; whose Issue not long enjoyed it; Violent Tamerlane the Tartar dispossessing that race; whose iffue also, after his death soon lost this kingdom: for Usun Caffanes the Armenian rooted out Malaeneres the last of his line, in 1431, and possessed the kingdom; during whose reign, he gave his daughter in marriage to one Aider Sophie, the son of Guine Sophie; who (in 1360) deriving his birth from Musa Ceresin one of the twelve fons of Ocen Halies fon, (who marrying their prophet Mahomei's daughter, he bequeathed to the faid Hali all his estate; with the title of Caliph or Emperour) contrived an establishment of the Caliphateship in his own family. Jacup Usun Castanes his fon fearing Aider's glory, had him flain, carting his fons Isbmael and Solyman into prison; who notwith standing being well educated, and having liberry afforded them by Amazar to whom they were delivered, I hmael vanquishing and killing Jacup, with his fon Eluan, was both crowned King of Persia, and as to religion, made Hali and himself Mahomet's true successours : rejecting Abubequer of Abuzezer, Ormar or Haumar, and Odman or Ofmen, together with the Turks who followed them, (for being powerful men, and great affiltants to Mahomet, they all pretended themselves his true successours) as schismatical Rebels: whence hath proceeded those mortal jarrs between the Turks and them, though to their loffe, who have (fince I bmael Sophie, who began the 7th race of the Persian Kings in 1495) successively maintained wars with the Turk; unto whom they loft Babylen, with a great flaughtor of the defendants in 1639. The contention between Hali and the three above-mentioned, about the succession, was the rise of four fects; The Persians having the best reason for their claim; and by Ishmael Sophie's valour, challenging the race of Hali, he brought his seet into credit, proclaiming war against his neighbours that would not embrace the same. He wore a red Turban with twelve points, in remembrance of Ocen or Ossan's twelve fons, the fon of Hali, and commanding all his followers to wear the like. Many Nations followed him and his feet, and all people between Euphrates and Abian, the Caspian Sea and Persian gulph, are fettled in this opinion, differing also in some other ceremonies or circumstances from the Turkish Mahometans. In the Sophie's Dominions are likewise seme Jews, of these that remained in Affyria, when Nebemiah and &zra led back the rest into Palestine; who choosing a head of David's house, called him, The Head of the banssbed, and built a Town on Euphrates banks, which they named Neardon, or a floud of Sciences. In the Province Corafan, there are Melchites

Melchites (aforementioned) who obey the Patriarch of Antioch, Cofroes also the Persian King chasing away those called Catholiques, in despight of the Emperour Heraclim, who had deseated him, planted Negorians in Persia, who (they say) live mixt among the Agyrians, Medes, Mesopotamians, and Parthians, of whom we arenext to speak. Many Armenians have also passed into Persia for fear of the Turk's cruelty, acknowledging two Patriarchs: the Superiour being in the greater Armenia, near Ervan in Persia; the other in the lesser Armenia in Sis of Caramania. As to the Quality and Riches of these Countries, there is found great difference in the foyl. Asyria is a plain Country abounding in Rivers, and exceeding fruitfull. Mesopotamia is wondrous fertile in some parts; yielding (if it may be credited) 200, and in some places 300 fold, and fit for breeding of Cattle: but in some others is so subject to hear, as many beafts cannot endure its extremity. Here being few Fountains, which the Inhabitants either out of malice or subtilty do hide; but the fertile places are overflown with Tigris and Euphrates, as Egypt is with Nilus. Its very miry here in Winter. Herein also are great Desart places, all sandy, without fruit: yet even there is gathered the sweet Ammomum, and store of Naphre or liquid Birumen; and about the Town Merdin is abundance of Cotton. Media is generally hilly and cold, especially toward the North, and therefore barren; and little Corn growing, making their bread mostly of dryed Almonds, and their drink of the roots of some herbs; cating ordinarily Venison, for they have here scarce any thing but fruit-Trees, and wild beafts. tame beafts none: but the South part abounds both in Wheat, Wine, and tame beafts; and the foyl about Tauris is fruitfull in all things. So that of this part of Media, he may be understood, who faith, There be some grassie Plains so big, that 50000 horses may pasture on them. Atropatia is very fruitful by reason of the Rivers Araxe or Arasse, and Cire or Ciro which water it; wherein (in old time) was great store of Silks: and it appears to be the same, that another calls Zuiria, as abovefaid, whose Country he saith is little beholding to the Husband-man's industry; yielding for one fowing, most times two, sometimes three reapings. Susiana hath in it many Serpents, doing men much harm; it being (towards the Persian gulph) very Moorish; and exceeding hot, by reason of some high Mountains keeping off the Northerly winds. Yet it yields store of Wheat, and abundance of Barley; but some places having much Bitumen or fulphurous flime; the waters both favour thereof, causing a pain in the bowels; and so shortening mens lives; and also Plants grow with difficulty. Near the Town Sufe, is digged much Naphre. Persis, or the Province particularly named Persia, hath its North part cold and hilly, not fit for fruits. They have here Emeraulds, though not the clearest; and some say it hath much gold and silver mine. But its middle part is plain, having many Lakes and Rivers, and yielding abun-Kkkkk 2 dance of all things; whose Southern part, towards the Persian gulph, being windy, hot and moorish, bears no fruit besides Palmtrees yielding Dates. Hircania toward the North, being full of great Forrests, hath store of Tygers; also Panthers and Leopards: but the other part is faid to be plain and fruitful in Wheat, Winc, Figgs, and other fruits, having Trees from whence honey diffilleth; and that part near the Caspian Sea, through the fresh water, from rocks, is alwayes full of graffe and flowers. Much filk is also made here. Carmania in the middle part thereof is indifferent good, bearing much fruit, and good wine. But the Defart is hot and barren: and in the Maritine parts of the upper there is no Trees, besides Bushes and some Palms. Gedrosia affords Nard and Myrrhe; but being full of fand, it is mostly a defart: and through the Sun's heat greatly wants water, though it hath rain in Summer. Aria hath some fields bearing fruit; but they are near the Mountains, defending them from the Sun's heat: wherein also there growes Vines yielding wine, which is reported to keep 90 years. Here are also black, and some yellowish Saphires, and a drugg like Myrrhe. But this Province is greatly subject to heat, and environed with Mountains, Forrests, and Desarts. Whence it appears, that the Provinces of Persia, their Trade and Riches is from Silks, (of which they fell and carry much into all the Eastern Countries; yea, as far as Syria) also from Pearls and pretious stones. Chirman in Carmania venting likewise great ftore of cloath of gold and filver, which the Inhabitants there make.

A Geographical Description

DARTHIA (called Charassen from the Town Charas, also Arach, and Jex.) confineth on the East with Aria, and on the West with Media. Chief Towns whereof are Cassan, very rich. Tigranocerta, from Tigranes the Armenian King who built it. Ctefiphon, once the royal Sear, which was divers times besieged by the Roman Emperours, though mostly without successe: before which, Julian (called the Apostate) ended his dayes. There are also divers other Towns of note. But the principal City is Hispaham or Hispaan, which some say, was the ancient Hecatompylis, and is so beautiful and great, that the Persians term it half the World. The Parthians are said to have their descent from the Scythians, whose language they keep, though with some mixture of the Median: their name implyeth as much as Exiles; they were accounted the expertest Archers in the World; and in their difmal retreats, would shoot sometimes from between their leggs, and sometimes backward. They were likewise skillfull horsemen: for the ayr's drynesse seasoned their bow-strings; and the Countrie's plainnesse exercised their horse. The first King was Arfaces, beginning his reign in the year of the World 3718, who brought them into conformity and discipline; before, a base and rude people. The 9th King was Herodes; who overcoming Crafsus, cau-led molten gold to be powred down his throat, for his coverousness. The 10th was Phraortes, who having greatly worsted Antonius: yet submitted to Augustus Cafar, restoring the Captives and Enfigns taken at the victory over Crassus: which fign of subjection being a receiving the Parthian Kings by the Emperour's and Senate's appointment, continued but till Tiridates the 4th, from the faid Phraortes; for Artabanus a stranger took away his life and kingdom: the 11th from which Artabanus was the very last Parthian King; who in the year of Christ 228, was conquered by Artaxerxes ti e first of the second race of the Kings of Persia, Parthia continuing a member of that Monarchy: till that under the Saracen Caliphs, they had Sultans of their own; one of which, Gempfas, fubdued the Persians, and are now (both Persia and Parthia) under the command of the Sophies. This Country is subject to great heat, yet beareth (faith one) all things, especially great Trees; for it is full of Woods, but without any Olives. It is encompassed with very high Mountains, and watered with many ftreams. I refer its Relion to that of Persia.

TARTARIA (known of old by the name of Scythia, from their first King Scythus; and who were at first called Magogins, from Magog, Japhet's fon: whose posterity its Inhabitants were) is called by the Inhabitants Mongul: but Tartaria, from the River Tartar, watering a great part of it. It is a great Empire, (not yielding to any other in largenesse of Countries, but to the King of Spain's Dominions: whom also it exceeds, in that it is all united by some bond: whereas the other are very much disjoyned) extending 5400 miles from East to West, and 3600 from North to South; so that the great Cham or Emperour hereof, hath many great Realms and Provinces under him, containing a great number of good Towns. It is bounded on the East with China, the Sea of Cinor Eastern Ocean, and the strait of Anian: on the West with the Mountain Imaus; (yet there are some Hordes of Tartars on this fide of it, who acknowledge the great Cham) on the South with the River Ganges and Oxus (now Abiam) Indostan, and the upper part of China: or (according to some) with the hill Taurus, the Caspian Sca, and the wall of China; on the North with the Scythick or fre zen Ocean; the Country of whose shoar is so cold, that it is held unhabited. Besides the rich and great Kingdom of Cathaia, (in whose center, the City Cambala or Cambula (24 Italian miles in circuit on the river Polifangi) is, as it were, seated) there are the Realms of Tangut, Tenduc, Camul, Tainfur, and Thebet, with the Town and Province of Caindo. But Tartaria is now commonly distributed into five Provinces.

I. Precopensis, containing the Asiatican banks of the River Tanais with all Taurica Che sonesus, two of whose chief Civies are Crim: whence the Rulers there feated, were called Crim Tartais: and Precops, which denominates the Country. These Tartars are 77 to and the Turk with 60000 men, without pay, upon any occasion: for which, the Tartar (the Turk's issue male failing) is to succeed in his Empire.

2. Asiatica, called also Muscovitica, and the Desart Tartaria. scituated about Volga's banks; whose people living mostly in Tents, are in Troops, called Hordes; who stay no longer in a place, than there is pasture for their Cattle; and in their removes, observe the Pole-Star. These are now united under one Prince, who is the Muscowite's tributary. Here are the Citie's, Astrachan; (near which, Selimus the second, Turk, was vanquished by Basiliades the Muscovite) and Noyhan, whose most Northerly Horde, the Noyacenfes, hath the most warlique people.

3. The ancient Tartaria, their old habitation; from whence, they violently forced themselves over Asia and Europe. It butts upon the frozen Ocean: the common fort lying in Tents of skin, or under their Carts; yet are there 4 Cities therein, one whereof is Choras, noted for the Tartarian Cham's Sepulchres. The Wildernesse of Lop is in this Province, whence King Tabor comming, and perswading the people to Judaism; Charls the 5th burnt

4. Zagathai, which is subdivided into Bastria, bounded on the North and East with Sogdiana, near the river Oxas; on the South with Aria, in which were anciently goodly Towns, some being built, and others ruined by Alexander; three of whose Cities, at this day, are Chorazzan, whence the whole Country is named Chorazzan or Charassan. Bastra denominated from a river now called Bochara, in which Avicen the Physitian was born; and also Zoroastes, who in Ninus his time reigned the first King of this Country: unto whom, some have imputed the invention of Astronomy. Istigias, which some say is the chief City of this Province, and one of the pleafantest of the East. Margiana, having on the East Bastria, on the West Hircania; (yet some say it lyeth North to Hircania). It is called Tremigan and Jeselbas, frem the peoples great turbants; whose chief City is Antioch; (for Antiochus Soter King of Syria did fortific it with a ftrong wall) the which at this day some name Indioy or Indion, and was once called Alexandria Margiana. Here is also Maran, near which Ilhmael the Sophie overcame the great Cham. The Marishes of Oxiane, now called the Lake of Barbacamber, or of Maru, are placed in this Country. Sogdiana, scituate on the West side of Baltria; two of whose Citics are Oxiana, standing on the River Oxus; and Alexandria Sogdiana, which Alexander built when he went to India; in which also was Cyropolis, a strong City built by Cyrus; under whose walls Alexander, with a blow on his neck with a stone, fell to the ground, his Army giving him for dead. Turchestan, where the Turks inhabited before they brake into Armenia in 844, barrennesse and want enforcing them thereunto. Here are two Cities, Galba and Ocerra; of whose eminency or fame, I find nothing reported. Laftly,

Lastly, Zagataie, lying Northward of all the other four; fo named, from one Suchetaie, a Tartarian Noble; and now gives name to all the Provinces. Ogg, Tamerlane's father, was Sachetaie's fucceffour: which Tamerlane, (called, Gods Wrath, and the Worlds Terrour) by marrying Gino, Cham's daughter and heir, had the Tartarian Empire: which he dividing among his fons, they (after his death) foon lost all that he conquered. A chief City hereof is Sarmachand, Tamerlane's place of residence: the which he enriched with the spoyls of his manifold victories; as also Bochara, where the Governour of the Province (under the Cham) refides.

5. Cathaia (which was, of old, called Scythia without the Mountain Imam, as Zagataie, Scythia within Imam) took its name from the Cathey, whom Strabo here placeth; and hath for bounds, China on the South, the Scythick Sea on the North, lying also Eastward from the Tartarian Provinces. The Seres were thought antiently to inhabit here, who being very expert in weaving filks made of a fine wooll, on the leaves of Trees, caused filk to be called (in Latine) Serica. The Cathaians and Zagataians are the Noblest and Civillest among the Tartars, and lovers of all arts. Herein are divers fair Cities; whereof Cambalu 28 miles about, besides the Suburbs, as some say, (though others say, about 24 Italian miles, as aforesaid) is the chief: here the great Cham resides. But in Xaindu he hath a Palace almost of incredible largenesse and statelinesse. The first of the great Chams or Emperours of Tartarie was Cingis or Zingis in 1162, who subduing uncham the last King of Tenduch and Catheia, changed the name of Scythia into Tartaria: the 5th from whom was Tamerlane or Tamir Cham, in whose time this Monarchy was at the height: the 9th was Tamor, fince whom it is not known amongst us who have reigned, or what memorable things have been acted among them : for (they fay) that neither the Tartar, Muscovite, or King of China, will suffer any besides Merchants or Embassadors to enter their Dominions, nor their own Subjects to travel forth of them. But it is known, that this Government is tyrannical: life and death confifting in the Emperour's word; whom some of the simple fort call, The shadow of Spirits, and son of the immertal God. Amongst the divers Rivers of note therein, is Oxus in Zagataie, arising out of Mount Taurus; which the Persians never passed over to enlarge their Dominions, but were notably overthrown; and so was it with the Tartars in attempting the same thing. The Soythians were a valorous, populous, and antient people, being never subdued, and but seldom affaulted to be subdued; and when there had been a long controversie between the Egyptians and these for antiquity; it was at last pronounced, The Scythian Nation was alwayes the ancientest. And for their populouinefic, fome have called them, The Mother of all inundations, &c. Anacharfis the Philosopher was born in this Country; which extends also to the Regions North of Danubius, named Sarmatia and Scythia

Scythia of Europe. As to the quality, terrility and rienes nercof, it is faid to have been (through its many rivers) very much abounding in graffe; but so deficient in fuel, that they burnt bones inficad of wood : they have stones also in Cathaie, which burn : which Country is faid to abound in Rice, Wheat, &c. though the ayr be cold; having likewise great store of Wooll, Silk, Hemp, Rhubarb, Musk, fine Chamlets, Gold, Beafts, and all necessaries, not onely barely to live, but with delight; there Tounder and Lightning is very strange and terrible. It is sometimes extream hot, and juddenly very cold, much fnow falling; their winds also most strong and violent. In the Realm of Tangut growes much Raubarb transported thorow the World. In Tenduch are found rich golden Mines, and Azure. But Tainfur being better manureds abounds in Vines. Theket is Moorish, full of Forrests and wild beafts, yet abounding in Corel; where is also much Musk, Cynamon, and on er Spices; so that (this Countrie's Merchandize being Rice, Wooll, Silk, Hemp, Rhubarb, Musk, and excellent Chamlers of Camels hair, belides their Countrie's commodious scituation for Traffique of one Town with another, (there being also sent to Cambalu trom China 10000 Carts yearly, laden with Silk, besides other merchandiles) to which may be added, their many incursions into Europe and Asia, their great spoyls carried out of Muscovie and other parts, especially from China, of a long time,) we cannot conclude, but that the Tartars are very rich, Yet those who live towards the North, want many necessaries for man's life, whereas their neighbours (and all fubicat to one Prince) have plenty. As for the Tartarian's Religion, some are Mahometons, crying daily, there is but one God. In Cathay there are many more grofie Idolaters than Mahometans; who hold two gods; one of Heaven, of whom they defire health and understanding : the other of Earth ; whom they fay hath a Wife and Children caring for their cattel, corn, &c. and therefore they ask fuch things of him: rubbing his Idol's mouth with the fattest of the meat when they eat, and of the wife and children, (which are the little Images in their houses) but cast the broth out of the house to the spirits. Keeping also their god of Heaven in a high place, and that of the earth in a low. They believe mens fouls are immortal; but passing from one body to another, according to Pythagoras. They worthip also the Sun, Moon, and four Elements; calling the Pope and all Christians, Pagans, Infidels, Dogs, and Idolaters. They never fast in, or solcmnize, one day more than another. There are likewise some Jews and Christians, although but few: these being Nestarians, wno differ from the Romish and Greek Church, in putting Christ in two persons; in saying, that May the Virgin is not God's mother; in that their Priests may marry as often as they will. They fay also, 'tis one thing to be God the Word, and another thing to be Christ; neither own they the two Councels of Ephelius. Their Patriarch allo who refides at Mufal in Mesopotamia is not elected, but the son succeeds the father, being first created Arch-bishop. They have one sore and unnatural practise among them: seeding their old parents, with more fat than enough to dispatch them out of the World, and burning their dead bodies, they carefully gather and keep the ashes as precious, putting it on their meat when they eat. Preser Jean King of Hatay or Tendue, was ruined by the great Tartar Chingis, in 1162, 40 years after he received the Nestorian opinion: yet was still Lord of a small estate. These Christian Nestorians so called, extend unto the Town of Campion, some of whom remain at Tangut, Sucvir, Cambalu, and in other Towns:

NDIA (whose ancient Inhabitants were the Dedale, Mazaall of whom, Malli, Oxydracæ, Gangarides, and divers others, (all of whom Alexander is faid to have conquered in his Expedition hither) is so called from the river Indus, which it hath on its West side, as China on the East, and Tartaria on the South; whose longest day in the North is 15 hours and a half; but in the South, but 12 hours, for it is 3600 miles long: whose chief river is Ganges, tifing in the Scythian hills, of a great depth and breadth, and dividing India into two parts; the Western part whereof next the Persians, is called India within Ganges; the other part, India without Ganges. This river overflowing the Country, enricheth it as Nilus doth Egypt: and is not that which the Scripture calls Pilon. compassing the Land of Havilah; for there were two Havilah's: the one inhabited by Havilah, Ophir, and Jobab, Jostan's fons, which is this India, or part thereof: the other, denominated from Havilah, Chush his fon; of which before. That India within Gauges wnich (at this day) they call Indoftan, is that part contained between Mount Caucasus, now Dallenquer or Naugrocot, and the Sea, and between the rivers Ganges and Indus or Inder; the greatest part whereof, the great Mogor Mogal or Mogall commandeth; reckoned by some to be 47 Provinces or Realms, (although there are two lately credted Princes here, to wit, of Ni Samaluc and Idalcan, (one whereof refides in Danager, the other in Visapore, who hold the Country of Decan, being 250 miles long, on the Sea-coast) whose second Town of note, Decan (next to the chief Town of the Realm, Bider) denominates the whole Country: and of which two Princes, near the Moger, there can be no particular relation) five whereof are (by fome) reckoned for the chief; to wit, Cambaia, Dely or Dellie, Sangue, Mandao, and Bengala. Cambaia (called also Guzarate) bath on the East Mandao, on the West the Nautaces or Gedrosians, extending it self 500 miles upon the Seacoast; and is so full of Towns, Villages, and Inhabitants, that 60000 places are said to be peopled: five of whose chief Towns are Campanel, the King's ancient residing place, seated on the top of a high Mountain, and encompassed with seven walls. Daman and Bandere, sometimes ruined by the Portugalls. Dia, held by the Portugalls, as also is Daman. Cambaia, the Realms denominator.

nominator, a goodly City of nigh 130000 families, and therefore called Cair of the Indies. Mandao, so named from its chief City Mandao, twelve miles about, which was not furrendred unto Merhumed, the Mogul of Zagatai till after a fiege of twelve years, which Kingdome the faid Mogul took occasion to seize on, by Badurius King of Cambaia, his unjustly warring on it; subduing also Badurius his Kingdome therewith, although he had in his Army 500000 foot, 150000 horle, 1000 pieces of Ordnance, 500 Wagons of Gunpowder, and bullets, 200 Elephants, and 500 Chefts of Gold and Silver. Dellie, scituated betwixt the Realms of Decan, and Narfingia, and divided from Cambaia, by the Mountains; which (the Mogulls taking from the Saracens, who had also fubdued Canora, or Decan, they made Dellie the chief City thereof their place of residence, another City is Chesmer, where Magick is much studied. The Amazons which were valiant women formerly, here dwelt, there being also some who yet ride on horseback in manner of men; and a Mahometan King lately here reigning, had a Wife which marched commonly with 2000 women on Florschack. Bengala, a great realm of twelve leagues in length, and also breadth, having many, both land and Sca-Towns. It's City Gauro was the aboad of its Kings, as also Bengala the Provincial Town, reckoned one of the greatest and fairest of all in the Indies. Sangue which some call Citor, and whose chief City is Citor, twelve miles in compasse, seated in an advantagious place, and very strongly fortified. This Province was (but lately) subiect unto a fair and couragious woman named Crementina, yet a Tributary to Baduriss of Cambaia, from whom the revolting, he dispossessed her of the Town, where she had fortified her self with no leffe then 30000 foot and 2000 horse. There is also the Kingdome of Bocan, or Balassia, which hath two Cities of the lame names; and which conteineth inexhaustible Mines of Gold and Silver. This Empire hath been conquered and contracted into one, by the great Mogulls, about 120 years or more: who were fo called from the Mongull Tartars, from whom they descended by cutting off a Letter, and so likewise (I suppose) Mogors. This Countrey bath been notable, for abundance of, both necessaries for life, and also of pleasure; likewise for fundry beasts, as Apes, Dragons, Camells, Serpents, Rhicinerots; and Elephants. Cambais abounds in Wheat, Rice, Sugar, all forts of fruits. Spices, and Incense, fraughting also sometimes 40 or 50 ships (to transport into other parts) with their great store of Cotton, and Silk. Here is also found the Onyx stone, called Cornallina, many Diamonds and Chalcedonies; it abounds also in liquid Storax. It is watered chiefly with the River Indus, comming from Mount Caucafus. Bengale also hath great store of Rice, Wheat, Sugar, very good Ginger, and long Pepper, no Countrey having more fleth or Fifth, or more Silk and Cotton, besides its sweet and temperate Ayre, attracking many people thither. And the Jews and Mahometans there dwelling, believe that the fweet and pleasant fruit of their

Trees called Moses, was that which tempted Adam. Here are Canes fo big, that they ferve for barrels, &c. Dellie also abounds in Horses, Dromedaries, which some call Abades, twice as big as a Bull, and Elephants, besides the commodities of other Realms; So that the enriching Merchandises of this Empire, which they fend into remote Countries, are, abundance of Cotton and Silks, Spices and precious stones; their Mogor also having undoubtedly vast treasures, as having conquered Badurius (who brought 500 Chests or Tuns of Gold and Silver, as was said, to pay his Army) and a great number of other Provinces. As to Religion, the Mogors Empire is for the most part Mahometans; also there are many groffe idolaters, as may straightway be declared. There are also many Jews, and some called Christians, Abyssius, whom traffique and gain draw hither. There are also within Ganges, the two Kingdomes of Narfinge and Calicute, governed by their own Princes. The first whereof, Narfinge, lyeth between the Guif of Bengala on the East, and the Mountains of Gate on the West; and is in length 600 miles, wherein are two royall Towns, Narlinge, and Bisnagar, or Besenagal (having three walls, and famous for traffique, yet it was burnt by Saracenicall confiderates in 1567) by reason whereof, they call this Prince sometimes King of Narfinge, sometimes of Bisnagar. The City of Tanagar (some fay) belongs to this Kingdome, though the King of Barma now holds it. The Portugals have seized on one principall sca-Town hereof; namely Onor, and made another (to wis) Batticale their tributary, but these are in the Province of Canara, or Concan, being some part of Decan, which the King of Narfinge doth enjoy; who hath (likewise) the King of Travancor, in the Province of Malabar, subjed unto him. But two Sea-Towns in Narfinge it felf, Coromandel and Malipur are inhabited by Christians, the Portugalls holding them also. This King led an Army against Idalcan (a neighbour Prince) of 31690 horse, 558 Elephants, and 60000 foor, and vanquished him. In this Country is great plenty of Corn, Sugar, Ginger, and other spices; no place abounding more in Silk and Cotten than it. Canara, yields Rico, Sugar, Nuts, and Figs; but no Wheat, Barley, nor Pulse. Bisnagars Territory is very fruitfull, nigh which are very pleasant Forrests. But Travancors soil is lean. This King hath twelve Millions of Gold or Duckets yearly. For in this Countrey (as in most of the East) all the lands Forrests, Mines, yea, and the Water of some Rivers are the Princes: fo that every one washing himself in Ganges, running thorow Bengala, or that of Ganque flowing thorow Oriffa, must pay a sum to their Kings. This people do believe, first in one God; then in Devills, the Authors of all evill, whom they most honouring, build stately Pagodes, or Temples unto them: and two forts of people, to wit, the Banean, and Bramans; or Bramins do govern in a manner the Idolatrous Religion throughout the Indies. To speak of all whose vanities and foolish superstitions, might seem as superfluous, as tedious. The Bramans are much more esteemed LIIII 2 than

than the other, and are of two fects, either those who marry, and live in Towns, called Bramanes; or those who never marry, living on Alms, and going up and down like Pilgrims, &c. for a time, till becomming Abduts, that is, men exempt from Laws. they commit all beaftlinesse, and villany, and take all kind of pleasures, and these are called Joques, whose Commander distributes sometimes a great revenue, sending them up and down to preach their folly. They worship and esteem of Oxen and Kine more than any beafts, because they think dead mens Souls passe rather into them than into any other. They hold God to be black, as the goodlieft colour; wherefore their Idols are black, and fo deformed, that they affright the beholders, perswading the people, they are great eaters; by which lying, they get much money and meat to make good chear withall, they know the explication of the 10 Commandements: and the first thing they enjoyn their received Disciples; is never to publish, one God Creator of all things to be worshipped. In their Sabbath's service, their Doctors repeat often these words, I worship thee, O God, with thy grace and succours eternally. Also to receive meat from Christians, they account it facriledge.

YALICUTE is the chief Realm of the Country of Malabar, which is the Western part of Aurea Chersonessu of old, which is 900 miles long, from the Mountain Guate on the East, to the Indian Ocean East; yet narrow. It contains seven Provinces; two of whom to wit, Cononor and Calicute, obey the King of Calicute, a Prince so powerful, that they call him Zamorim or Emperour; although the Realm be but 25 leagues long, and 10 broad: for Pereimall King of Malabar going to a Mahometan Mecha, to finish his dayes, divided his effate into as many parts as Provinces, leaving this name to this King of Calcute. Its denominating City Calicute reacheth three miles along the Sea-fide, without walls, the houses being some distance from each other; yet the staple-Town of all the Indian Traffique. Cononor is a City also, having a fase and large Harbour, and so fit for treffique 30 miles from Calicute: But Cochin is 30 leagues from the same, whence are the best scarlet dies; whose Governour is the High Pricst of the Brachmanes or Bramins: unto whom, they fay, the King uses to grant the hanfel of his marriage-bed, wherefore his fifter's fons fucceed him, as being more certainly of the royal bloud. The houses of Calicute are built low, equal to a man on horseback, because soon finding water, they cannot lay deep foundations. This foyl yields much Pepper and Ginger: in the Plains, is a fruit like the Myrobolan; but in the reddiff foiles, are gathered all forts thereof. They have divers furubs and fruits, among which tome (unknown to us) tafte like Peaches, Damask-Prunes, Figgs, and Melons. Aloes called Succo-citrini, growes here, and is a gumme gathered from a fluub, having but one root, like a flaffe. They have a Tree yielding Dates like the Palm, wood for fuel, nuts well-well-taffed: ropes and fine cloath are made of it; Wine, Sugar, and oyl are drawn from it. Another Tree bears Cotton, Cypres or Cobweb-lawn, of whose leaves they make stuffe somewhat like au Sartin or Taffata; making ropes of its bark being spun, under whose latter bark, is a nut as big as ones little finger, in whose inward part, water growing, not much unlike Rofe-water: they make fat ovl thereof. They draw mornings and evenings a liquer from this Tree by incision, which is to them as sweet wines. The whole year feems alwayes here as a Spring, through the avr its temperatenesse and sweetnesse. Here are likewise many beasts, as Lyons, Bugles, Elephants, Bears, Wolves, Stags, Goats, Oxen, though some say they breed not here. Parrots there are of divers colours, and the bird Saran somewhat lesse than Parrots. Store of Apes and Monkeys, who running up those Trees (like Nut-trees) spoyl the liquor whereof the Indians make drink, overthrowing the veil-ls in which they receive it. Three forts of Serpents are in this Country, two whereof are poyfonfome in their bitings: but the other which are very great, living in Moorish places; having very long feet, are faid to have no poylon in them. The falicutes felling not enely their own Pepper and Ginger to Merchants: but Spices, Musk, Incenfe, Aloes, and Camphir, Brafil, Posts, and Cassia, which come to this City from other places, makes it one of the richeft in the Indies. They believe one God the Creator and firthcause of all: but they say, He, to rest himself hatis committed the Earth's Government, Judgment, and Punishment unto the Devil, whom they call Deume, or the god Tameran, holding him to be coeleftial. "The King harh many figures of Devils in a place of his Palace; and in his Chappel a gaping ghally brizen Devil is fet on a Throne of braffe; who holds the foul of a man in his throat, and another in his hand to devour him. Their facrificers are called Bramins, who (to let paffe their many fuperflittons) promise a general pardon to the people of their faults once a year, in December; which continuing for three dayes, their Idol-Temple (whither they refort from all neighbouring Provinces: and into which none may enter, to worlhip or be sprinkled with the lampsoyl by the Bramins, till he hath washed himself in the Lake in which the Temple (tands) is as a Sanctuary for all, fo that none dare either purfue an offender, do wrong, or revenge for wrong done.

India without Ganges, is scituated between the other India Westward, and China on the East, and was formerly divided between 12 rich and puissant Princes; but now they are all subjected to the King of Brama or Barma, or of Pegu: some reckoning up 14 Realms which he possesses this day: But the most remarkable of the 12, into which it was once divided, are seven; I. Siam, or the King dome of Sorna, made subject to the King of Barma in 1565; three of whose chief Cities are, Siam, seared on the bank of the broad and deep river Menam, a stately and pleasing City, also very populous; and wherein nigh 30000 families of Moors, Merchants, are estimated to dwell: the River overflowes the Country 120 miles every year; whereby the King of Pegu befieging it in 1567, brought but 70000 of 900000 Souldiers with him out of the waters. Odie, bigger than Siam, for they reckon therein near 400000 houses; and 200000 boats are said to be there, in which they may passe thorow every street, as in Venice. Malacca. subject to the Portugals, who have here an Archbishop, with a Colledg of Jesuits: it is eminent for the Trade of Spices, and 20 miles about. 2. Barma, whose Kings were but Lievtenants to the Kings of Pegu, till about 100 years fince, or more: when as a Barmian Prince seized on four Kingdoms; and since, these Barmians have won the City Pegu, forced Odie, and totally fubdued Siam, making all the rest do them homage. 3. Pegu, so called from the river Pegurunning thorow the midst of the Country, and on which, the most fair and elegant City of India of the same name, standeth, distant 25 miles from the Sea. In this Country, by means of the ritulary King of Siam his coming and burning up corn, graffe, and fruits, a most insupportable samine consumed all the Inhabitants of this kingdom; except those that were preserved by the store-houses of the City in 1598. 4. Macin, whose chief City is Macin; which Country also is notable for the sweet wood Aloes; held by the Indians a most excellent remedy for many grievous maladies. 5. Aracham or Arrachan, scituated North from Bengala near the River Chabery, on which the chief Town Arrachan standerh, and is 45 miles from the Sea. Ava is also another City hercof, remarkable for its many Gems. 6. Cambore, which takes its name from the principal City to called, which standeth on the river Menon: which receiving into it many rivers, in its flowing out of China where it ariseth, makes 100 Islands; and a Lake about 200 miles in compasse. y. Canchin China, a few of whose people are faid to be Man-eaters: Its chief City of the same name being scituate on the Sea, is much frequented for China dishes, or Proceline. In the several Provinces are to be found several Commedities; great store of Rice, Elephants, little horses, Parrots, Civet-Catts, huge Canes, many Rubies, much Lacca, (which some say is the Gum of a Tree; others, that they gather it upon leaves? Corn, Pepper, Benjoyn, Gold, Silver, Tinn, and other metals. plenty of Musk; in some places great Forrests, where live many Tygres, Lyons, and wild beafts. There is both flesh and fish, and in one place or other all things needful for the life of man: for the Country being plain, and watered with many goodly Rivers, all things abound beyond what is spoken. Merchants coming thither from all parts, do carry many Commodities forementioned into feveral parts: fo that the wealth of these Realms may easily be conceived by their fruitfulnesse; and that the King of Barma hath store of treasure. From the false and foolish principles of those of Pegu, spring so many vain opinions and ceremonies, that they are hardly to be expressed. They have Convents of Priests near their Idol-Temples above 300 in a place; who have head and chin shaven, wearing long Gowns with sleeves hanging to the ground. Those of Siam are held, as it were, authors of all superititions in these Countries; yet hold God for the Creator of all things, who shall recompence the good, and punish the evil: believing also, a man to have about him, both a good Spirit guiding him to good, and keeping him; and another tempting, and afflicting him. They much honour their Priests, who are attired in yellow cloath; for all of that colour (it resembling the Sun and gold) is dedicated to God. Many are the number of their Idols; worthipping also the four Elements: so that he who in his life-time adored the earth, chooses to be buried; he that homoured fire, to be burnt: who the ayr, to be hung, and devoured by birds: and who the water, to be drowned. We should exceed our present purpose of brevity, if we should repeat all their vanity.

HINA, so called, by corruption of the word Sina (whose people, the Sinois, here inhabited) is a very great and ancient Realm; for (according to the Chiner's own account in their books, and by the computation of an excellent Geometrician and Cofmographer, it hath 3000 leagues in circuit, and 1800 in length : and if we credit their own relations, their Kings from the first ealled Vitei, have successively reigned above 4000 years, being never conquered, till that in Farfar's time, the 242 King, Chifanbaan the Tartar's Lievtenant (his name signifying 100 eyes) deprived him of his kingdome, according to a foretold Prophesie; yer by one Combu chosen their 251 King, after 93 years, they were delivered from the Tartar's Government. China lyes the most Eastward of any Continent in Asia, having the Ocean Del Zur, the Isles Corea and Japon on the East; on the West India, and part of Tartarie: on the North Tartarie onely, from which it is divided, partly by Mountains, partly by a Wall; which being 500 leagues long, was made by King Tzainton, and begins in Canton, but ends in Susuan Province; 100 leagues whereof lying quite open betwixt the Mountains? the wall is there of free-stone, feven fathom broad from bottom to top. Almost the third part of China's Inhabitants dyed in this toyl; for which proud work, the whole kingdom revolting, they flew the King, and also his fon Agntzi. It is distributed also into 15 Provinces; to wit, Pasquia or Pagnia, Fuquien or Feguien, Canton, Olam, Tolanchia, Sifnam or Sufuam, Canfay, Oquiam, Honam, Sincay, Ancheo, Quicheu or Quinchen, Chequeam or Chequian, Xanton and Quinfay; every one of which, is bigger than the biggest Realm in Europe: in two whereof, Pafquia and Tolanchia, the King and his Councel do alwayes reside, not onely because they are the greatest and best peopled; but by reason also of the Tartarian's Neighbourhood, with whom the Chinois are in continual war. In all these Countries are many Towns and Cities: (Every Town of note being built after one manner, manner, to wit, two great, broad and straight streets crossing each other, which end at four Gates equally distant, all garnished with iron, and stately, besides other smaller streets with publique and private buildings) and the Villages are so many and near each other, that their number is unknown; so that here are judged to inhabit 70 millions of people: for they are bern, and do die, buy and fell in thips, as if in a City. The two chief Rivers of this Country, are Polylango and Cacamacan; on which are 12000 stately bridges, under whose arches ships top and top gallant, do miually passe. The principal Cities are, Quinsay or Suntien, in their language an Ecclesiastical City, which is so large, that a horseman must make speed to ride, from one gate to another in a day, the Suburbs being also almost as great as the City. The King hath here three Palaces; whereof that which standeth toward the East at the Chie's entry is so big and full of fingularities, that fome report, it cannot be exactly viewed under four dayes time. It is encompassed with seven Walls, of a great space asunder; it hath 79 starely and admirable artificial Halls, four whereof are the principal, in which Embassadours have audience; (and likewife his Lords and Governours, when he keeps his Court; yet he feldom shewshimself to his people out of his ledging, and is scarce ever feen, but through a glaffe). The first is of mettall curionly cast, with a many figures. The second hath a floor of Silver of great value. The third of pure enameld Gold. The fourth far exceeds the other three, wherefore they call it the Hall of the Kings treasure; in which are also many inestimable lewels and the Kings Chair made of Marble, and let with many pretious Rones, and Carbuncles fo rich, that by night they shine as if there were Candles; and indeed this Hall conteins whatever is rich and rare. Paquin where the King also resideth, either for the health of the Ayre, or nearnesse to the Tartars, whose Pallace, though compassed with a triple Wall, within which, besides lodgings, are Hills, Groves, Rivers, Fountains, yet is it not equall in workmanthip to the European Pallaces. Nanquin, in Circuit thirty miles, and is seated twenty seven miles from the Sea, on a fair Navigable River; on which, besides private mens, ride 10000 of the Kings Ships for the most part. Colim, famous for Porceline, Xaiton, alwaies harbouring 500 thips. Suchean, a goodly City, and of great traffique, whose scituation is in the Marishes, like unto Vewice. There are no leffe than 160000 Eunuchs, gelded in their infancy by their Parents belonging to this Prince as his chiefest Courtiers. For that they have had Printing (which is from the top to the bottom of the leaf ) and Guns also, long before known in Europe, they fay in conceit of themselves, they have two eyes; the Europeans one; and others none: They are faid to be both Politick, ingenuous, and excellent Artificers; for the fon is bound not to rove idly, but to follow his fathers occupation. This Empire once commanded all the Eastern Islands, But receiving a great loffe and overthrow nigh Zeilan, of 800 thips, they freed them all from their obedience, as being contented with natures bounds. Those of Canton, and on all that coast, are black like those in Barbary, as being with them in the same Parallel; but the other within the land are mostly white, yet some more than others according as they advance into the cold Countrey; yet China cannot be faid to be either hot or cold, as lying within the temperate Zone, and extending towards the same climate with Italy. There are but few Mountains, but Plains 300 miles about, (their Seas also being very calm); in which, being tilled, and sowed with all kind of fruit, of excellent perfection, do grow not onely sufficient for themselves, but wherewith to furnish neighbours, and remote Countries; so that they carry out of China from their many good and commodious Ports and Havens, Flax, Wool, Cotton, Silk, and all forts of stuffe; much Sugar, Honey, Wax, Rubarb, Camphir, Vermilion, Diers Wood, and abundance of Musk; besides, plenty of Rice and Barley for themselves. They dig store of Gold; Silver, and other Mettalls out of their Mines, carrying forth much Pearl, Porcelain Veffels, and rich Furs. They have likewife (they say) Wood, and all kinds of spices; and Salt, whose custome in one onely Town, amounts to very much. They presse a delicate juice out of an hearb, serving them for VVine, and preferving their health; whose Kings revenues are averred to be 120 Millions of Gold yearly, confidering the spatiousnesse of so many Provinces, the multitude of people, contributions for every head, Customes of Merchandise, Tenths of all fruits, revenues of Mines, with all other Taxes, aids, imposts, and subventions. Wherefore this Countrey is believed to be one of the richest and greatest, if not the very richest and greatest in the whole World. Yet are they all groffe and fottish Idolaters, (except a very few that Icluites have turned to the Romish Religion) believing the Heaven to be the Creator of all things, visible and invisible, which hath a Governour uncreated who is a spirit, him they call Laacon Txantey, that is, The Governour of the great God; faying, there is another spirit which they call Canfay, who hath charge of things on carth, and the power of life and death, and that he hath three Affilting spirits under him, Tanquam, Teiquam, and Tzuiquam, who have their distinct charges. They worthip severall Idolls, one with three heads, others marked for the twelve Apostles, who they fay were great Philosophers, vertuous livers, and were made Angells in Heaven. They have also the picture of an exceeding fair Woman, with a child in her Arms; of which, they faid, she was delivered, being a Virgin, and a great King's daughter. They account many for Saints, who have exceeded in valour, Knowledg, Industry, or Austerity of life. They use several loss, and when any affliction befalls them, have recourse unto the Devill in an abfurd manner. Tain (they fay) first created Panzon, and Panzona, whose Posterity being after many thousands of years destroyed for wickednesse, Tain created Lutitzam, from whose right-Horn came men, and from the left, Women. The immortality Mmmm

of the Soul is generally believed by them, and the reward or punishment in another life for ever; holding also a place for Souls who shall be Angels, to purge themselves in from all evill. There are in their Towns and Burroughs many places in which men and Women live together as in Monasteries, of whom there are four Orders, every one having his General, called Tricon; who refide commonly in Suntien, who provide a Provinciall in every Province, who visits all covents, correcting misdemeaners, and appointing a Prior in every covent, whom they are all bound to obey. The King and his Councell nominate the Generalls, who hold their place during life, unlessethey deserve to be deprived. The eldeft fon of a Family can be no Religious man by their law, because bound to feed his Parents when old. They offer Incense, Benjoin, and the Wood Alloes, with other odoriferous things and pasts, morning and evening, to their Idols. When any Vessell is put to Sca, their Religious mendo facrifices in the poop, and perform other fopperies before their Idols, supposing that hereby the Ship is fanctified, and that those who go in her shall have good fuccesse. And when any of them pray, they speak to heaven as their God, and to one whom they call Sinquian, faying, he is a Saint, and invented this their manner of life.

TExt are those called the Orientall or Eastern Islands to be I voriefly surveyed; the first whereof is JAPON, or Japan, called in old time CHRISE, and Zipangry. It is a Kingdome composed of many Islands, divided by many small Gulfs, and narrow turnings of the Sca. It looks Eastward toward that called New-Spain. On the West it hath China, on the North Tartaria, with other unknown Savage people, and to the South certain unknown lands, between which a spations Sea runneth. All the Country is near 600 miles long; but thirty miles, in some places, at the most but ninety broad. There are in it fixty six small Realms, whereof the first called chief Japon, contains fifty three of them; another called Ximo, includes nine, a third called Xicoum, four. He that hath made himself Lord of Coquina, the most famous Principality of them all, and is called Prince of Tenze (in which are five Realms about the City Meaco) styles himself soveraign of Japon, as was Taicofama some years since, who to assure his new Conquest of fifty Realms, transported the vanquished kings from one Country to another. Meaco is the principal City hereof, standing in Coquina, which was 21 miles in compasse; but now much leffe through civil wars. Here the three Soveraign Magistrates remain. Bandum is another City, a University, and said to be bigger then Paris. Offacaye also is a great City, and some hold it the richest of the East. This Island was discovered by the Portugalls in 1542. It hath two Mountains in it, one whereof transcends the Clouds, and is named Figenoiama, the other burns casting forth flames continually. It abounds in Rice, fo that they fraught many strange ships therewith; and the king hath two Millions of Gold yearly rent for Rice gathered out of his own possessions. Also store of round, great, and red Pearl; which is as much or more effeemed than the white; and their abundance of Gold and pretious stones, do enrich this Realm. They are given to all kind of impiety. Their Bonzes or Priests and Doctours are divided into eleven fects, yet all deny the providence of God, and Soul's immortality, communicating the same onely to noble men, but treating with the vulgar, of the other life and pains of Hell. Their Gods most esteemed are the Fotogues for their do-Grine, and ftrict life, who were for the most part Bonzes, wherefore they defire of them goods of the other World; and Cames, who were Princes and great persons, accounted Gods for their exploits, and fingular inventions; of whom they require earthly bleffings. But some of the Japonites adorealso the Sun and Stars, others the Heavens, and some Stags and wild beafts. The Devill (likewise) useth divers wayes, too tedious here to set down, that he may be adored by these Infidells. This Island, fince discovered (as was faid) by the Portugalls, is much frequented by Jefuites, one Xavier, and also Turian first labouring there to turn many to an outward profession of Christianity, who are said to be more zealous than those in Europe : fo that many Neophyts, or new Converts, being brought over (as also some kings) in divers places, from the year 1556, unto 1590, there have been fince, great Wars and Persecutions against them by Taycofama, and the kings of Tenze, putting many to death, and inflicting torments and punishments on them, many of whom notwithstanding, would not abandon their embraced Religion; but their belief is faid to flourish still, and enlarge it self in many places.

of the World

There are also two Islands called JAVA; the greater of whom is the biggest in the World, for it 3000 miles in Circuit, the leffer is 2000. The chief Cities of the greater Java are four, Paliban, Agacin, Ballambua, and Megapeger. The barbarous Indians of this Country (they fay) use to eat the dead bodies of their friends; as also do many of the other Indians; yet is it so wondrous fruitfull, that it is called the Worlds Epitome, Eight Kings rule in the Leffer Java, whose chief Cities are Samara, Lambri, and Bafnia, These are good Scamen, but great Pirates.

FILAN is an Isle lying in the Gulf of Bengala, 250 miles ong, 140 broad; whose six Kings are Tributaries to the Great Moguli. Its chief Cities are Zeilan, and Columbus. The inhabitants are skillfull juglers, by which, and the hobby horfe, they get money in all India's continent. It is very fruitfull; for Trees do bear fruit, and Graffe groweth all the year long.

DORNEO is an Island containing two Kingdomes or dominions; of Borney on the North, and of Lass on the South, the which the Equinoctial line divideth asunder. They worship the Sin when he rifeth, (repeating certain Verses) with great reverence; the Moon also and Stars whom they account for his Wife and Children. Their Counsellours of state consult not of publick affairs but in the night; and before their sixting, they go up a Treesbeholding the Heavens till the rising of the Moon.

Su MMATRA is a great Island, 700 miles long, and 200 proad, but not the biggest in the World, as Arisale then thought, he calls it Taprobane. Its principal Cities are Pazzen, Androgeda, and Daren. The subjects of whose twenty nine Kings do cat their enemies, using their skulls instead of money. It abounds in Gold, Silver, and Silk, Ginger, Pepper, Alocs, and Cassia.

The MOLUCCOES are in number five; three of the chief, to wit, Terenate and two others, are 18 miles in circuit: which King of Terenate hath 70 Islands under him, bearing pleasant Commodities. There is also the adjoyning Isle Bantan or Banda, much visited for its Nutmegs, wherewith it more aboundeth than any Island of India. These Moluccoes abound in all forts of Spices; and both in Banda; and the Moluccoes, the Romish Religion hath for some years begun to take deep root.

Lastly, the PHILIPPIN & or Philip's Islands, because they were discovered by a Spaniard in 1564, Philip the Second reigning in Spain. The Chivoys were Lords of them, till they abandoned them. They are said to be no lesse in all than 110000 30 whereof being subject to the King of Spain, have embraced whether voluntarily or foreibly, his Religion. Mariners say, there are besides these 127000 lites about India: and 7448 which lay against China; all pagans; which stand so neer together, that they seem afar off to be one Continent. Of which and the other Indian Isles, Travellers have related many fables. The Spaniards hold many Castles, Towns and Islands, in the Eastern Countries, whereby although they are a terrour to the Native and Neighbouring Princes; yet the English and Datch are not hereby hindred of trassiquing with the Indians.

A Description of AFRICA.

FRICA (which some will have so called, from one Afrus, a Companion of Hercules against Gerion; others from Africus, a King of the Arabians; whence it is by the Arabians at this day called Africia. But others from the Greek privative particle [ & [ opini, ] fignifying cold; as much as to fay, A Country without cold. Laftly, Josephus faith, it was so named from Afrus, one of Abraham's posterity, who leading an Army into Lybia, and overcoming his enemies, there fate down: and Africa by the Greeks is called Lybia) bends partly to the South, partly to the West; and is a Peninsula shut up from the North with the Mediterranean Sea; from the West with the Atlantick and Æthiopick Ocean; from the South with the Indian Ocean; from the East with the red-Sea: fo that in this part which bends toward the East, it is knit to Asa by an Istnmus or narrow tract of land, but 60 miles over; fo that it is separated from Asia by a bosome of the red Sea, a line being thence drawn into the Mediterranean, but from Europe it is disjoyned by Hercules ftrait. The Aquator cuts Africa almoft in the middle, and it is extended beyond the Tropick of Cancer, evento 45 degrees of the Pole Ant-artick. It is much leffe then Afia, for it hath both in length, and breadth alfo, but 70 Degrees, which make 1050 Germane miles. Its figure is almost Quadrangular, or four square, but that it runs along towards the South, with a longer point. It hath been no small controversy among Geographers, whether the River Nilus doth divide Afia from Africa, and fo, whether Egypt, and Athiopia, ought rather to be referred to Affa than to Africa; but fince thence it would follow, that sgypt thould be partly attributed to Africa, partly to Afra, which thing Prolomy holds not convenient, and seeing all do arthis day reckon the true Libiopia, which is Presbyter Johns Empire, to be in Africa, it is judged not to be circumscribed by Nile, but rather by the Mediterranean and Ocean. Africa is a very wast and uninhabited part of the World. Bur it had once the City Carthage therein for its head, which strove with Romes Empire for Masterdome. The two chief Seas (which notwithstanding belong to it but in a part) are the Atlantick Main, and on the other fide the Indian Sca. Its greatest River is Nilm, which also Geographers call the greatest of the whole World, for it flows about 700 Islands. Of which also Ramnussu and Fracastorius do relate divers, yea many wonders. It is divided into four parts, in the generall; Barbary, Namidia; Lybia, specially so called, and the land of the Negroes, or Blacks. Others make seven parts thereof; Barbary, Numidia, Lybia, the land of the Negroes, Athiopia, the upper or more inward; Ethipia the nether or more outward Ægypt; unto which is added an eighth, to wit, the African Isles.

BARBARIE took its name from the Saraceus, unto whom the conquered Inhabitants language was as a murmuring found; for so much the word Barbar imports; and is bounded on the North with the Mediterranean, on the South with Mount Atlas. It contains four Kingdoms known at this day by the names of, I. Tunis, which hath on the West Algiers; on the East the Country Cyrenaica, also called Pentapolitana; and containeth five Provinces, which lay between the great river, and the river of the Country of Mefrat; and was tormerly called Numidia, and Africa Propria, or the leffer Africk, or at leastwife included this lesser Africa within it self. The Provinces are, Bugia, which beginning at the great river, extends 150 miles, even to the Mountains of Constantine, and is nigh 40 miles broad; it was once a Kingdom of it felf. The chief City is Buoia, ot great ant quity, and was built by the Romans on a high Mountain near the Sea. Falzal is another City therein; which the most judicious hold to be Igilgili, as being very like it in scituation: in which were antiently fair Temples, Colledges, stately Lodgings, Monasterics, and Hospitals; but fince Peter of Navarr took it in 1508; it hath remained without beauty or ornament. The Country of Constantine, which lyeth between the Mountain of Constantine and Tunu, near the river Guadilbarbar; and whose chief City is Conflantine, which fome hold to be Certe, called by Piolemie Julia, and the ancient abode of old King Masinista (who being King of this Numidia antiqua, liv'd and dyed in amity with the Roman Senate, after whose death, Micipsa's Jugurtha, and the death of his son Micipfa, his adopted fou killing his two natural fons Adherbal and Hiempfal opposed the Romans, till at length being delivered into Sylla's hands by King Boccus, and led in triumph to Rome, he was there starved in prison). This Town is environed with high Mountains and Rocks, confisting now of about 8000 families. Here is also the Town Bosne, otherwise Hippo, where Augustine was Bifhop, Tripoli, fo called from three principal Cities therein: which beginning at the river and gulph of Capes, extends beyond the Town of Tripoli, near the Country of Mefrat. The chief Town is New Tripoli, or Tripoli of Barbarie: which being taken from the Knights of Malta by Sinan Basta, Selimus his Lievtenant, in 1551; Pyrats live there, which annoy all the Coasts of Italy: whereas in former time there was great concourse of Genoan, Venetian, and Sicilian Merchants, as also from other places. Ezzabe, which lies beyond Tripolis, towards the East, in which stands the City Cairaon, built by Hucha Generall to Ofmen the fourth, Caliph of the Saracens, and who subdued all Barbary. The chief Country of this Province is Mefrat near the Mediterranean, and about an 100 miles from Tripolis: which hath in it many Towns and Villages, both on the Mountains and plains. Lastly, The Country of Tuna, which lyes betwirt the River Guadilbarbar, called by the antients the pool of Hipponita, and the River of Capes. Carthage was the antientest City hereof, and once the chief of all Africk; built by Dido, in the year of the World 3078, 135 years before Rome, or as some hold, but seventy two years before Rome (yet this Country was peopled by the Phanicians long before, who fled hither from the sword of Joshuah, unto whom Dido (with her Tyrians) joyned her felf). After three several wars which the potent Carthaginians waged with the Romanes; this City was utterly razed, being taken and burnt by Scipio; but being afterwards re-built by Cafar, he transplanted a Romane Colony hither, so that it flourished again; yet far from her antient reputation, and hath since been fo ill intreated by Vandals, Goths, and Saraceus, that scarce a twentieth part of the Town remains inhabited; some say it was 21 or 22 miles in compasse; almost invironed with the Sea, in the midst of which was a Fort called By fes; containing little lesse than two miles. The Carthaginians were named Pani, or Phani: whence may be proved that they came from the Phanicians, they were also branded in their time for perjury, and falle dealing. But the chief of the many fair Towns, here is Tunis, called by Prolemy, Themife, or Thunife, which being at first but small; after Carthage was ruined, it began to be so enlarged and enriched; that now its held for the chief of the whole Country, having in it about ten thoufand Families, and near five miles in Circuit, it is feated near a very fafe harbour; which the Spaniards strengthened with the For called Goletta; which being fourty years in finishing; the Turks by their Herculian labour, equalled with the ground in 39. dayes space. This Kingdome generally considered, is fruitfull enough; for Bugia in some places yields store of grain and fruit, although in other places it be exceeding barren. There are also many Forrests, and Fountains on the high and rough Mountains, with plenty of Oxen, Goats, and Horses. Constantine hath store of Oil, with great plenty of Butter through their much Cattell; also much Corn; for near Bone (the Town where Augustine was born) there is one plain 40 miles long, and 25 broad, where grows abundance. Tripoli hath store of all kind of fruits, and Dates; also plenty of Wheat, but no other Corn. Ezzabe hath abundance of Olives, Dates, and divers other fruits in its goodly plains, but no grain. The Province of Tunis, four or five miles within the Town fo called, hath plainsfull of Olive Trees; but they dare not manure the land about the Town for any corn, because of the daily incursions of the Arabes. The Turks commanding the inhabitants of this Country, they all make open profesfion of M.homet and his law. Christians live there in their Religion, but as flaves, and with many miseries; being worse used than in the Emperour of Moroccoe's dominions, Secondly, ARGIERS, or ALGIERS; It is the Realm of Tremifen, or Telenfin, and was called in the Romans time Mauritania Cafarienfis, for that the Mauri or Moors inhabited here, as also the Weitern part of Barbary, and from Cafares the principall city herein. It is bounded on the West with Fez, and Morocco, from which it is divided by the River Mulvia; on the East with Tunis, and divided by the River Ampfaga; on the North it hath the Mediterranean looking towards the Island Sardinia; and on the South the Numidians, called Getulians. Cafarea was of old called Jul, where King Boccus (who betrayed Jugarth his friend unto Sil-(a) refided. But now this Kingdome containeth five other principall Cities, the two chief whereof are Tremifen, or Telenfine, which formerly contained 16000 or 17000 Families; but (what by Joseph King of Fez, who besieged it seven years; what by the War of Charls the fifth Emperour, who took it into his protection; what by the Turks, who in the end master'd it; and also by the war betwixt the Serif, or King there, and the Turk) it is much decayed, yet it is said to have in it divers fair Temples, and five dainty Colledges, wrought curiously with Msaique work. Algier, formerly under the Realm of Tremifen; but through infupportable charges, it revolted to the King of Bugio. Then it belonged to the King of Spain, from whom Barbarofia took it in 1515 But being now reduced under the Turk, it is grown both rich and famous, and made by them almost impregnable (though not so large as firong; effeemed to contain about 4000 families, flanding on the declining of certain hills, and three miles in Circuit ) and is a retreat for abundance of Pirats, bringing thither their prizes, for which cause the Turk hath a Lievtenant there. There are also two other Towns of note in this Country of Tremisen. Cran, taken for the Spaniards by Peter of Navarre in 1509, and befieged by the Turk (though in vain) in 1562. It contains 10000 Families, and Mafalquivir, taken likewife by the Spaniards about the same time, and is a samous Haven Town. A traveller some years fince passing between the Town of Algier, and the City Fez, found (ne (aith) strong Wines, much excellent bread, the very best and biggest of Hens, plenty of Figs, Fruits, Olives, and delicious Oyl; and when past the Plains (in which were innumerable Villages and houses, all of mud, and platformed on the top, as they are all over Africk, and also in Asia) he entring into a hilly Country, faw the fields over-clad with flocks of Goats, and sheep; the theep being fo great, that some of their broad and thick tails which hang to the ground, will weigh fixteen, eighteen, or twenty pound weight; to that (if not from this hilly region, yet) from the Plains (some, if not all, whereof belong to the Realm of Algier) we conclude this Country fertile enough, and not unlike the Kingdome of Tunis. It's Religion the same, and the Christian slaves after the fame manner.

Thirdly, Fez; and fourthly, Morocco; which being two kingdoms, yet are subject unto one Xerife, King or Emperour, called the Emperour of Morocco. These Countries were once called Mauritania Tingitana, from the Town Tingis or Tanger; (nigh which the Phænicians coming into Barbarie, are said to have engraven in their language on two Marble Pillars, these words; we flee from the face of Joshuah the robber, the son of Nave). This State, hath for some years past endured even many incredible changes, by the Princes of one samily, who by many wicked and unworthy ass, have sought against and expelled each other. They are both divided into seven Provinces. Morocco, which takes its name from the chief City so called, is scituated between Mount Ailas and the Atlantick Sca; whose seven Provinces are,

1. Hee, bounded on the North with the Ocean; on the South with Mount Alu: Its mostancient Town of Hee, is now called Tedness, that a goodly Plain on the river Tensst; yet is it not well inhabited, yea rather abandoned by the Inhabitants, who about 1514, hearing that the Arabians would sell it to the Portugalls, intended to fice, although many of them were therein put to the sword; another Town being so served. There is here amonth other places, one called in their language, The Fort of Disciples; because a Sectary of Mahomet there kept with his disciples, preaching his doctrine, and defending it against the King of Marotes.

2. Suz, which lyeth betwirt Mount Ailss and Africa properly so called; having the Lybian Defarts on the South; and on the East the great river Suz. The chief City is Messa or Missa scituated on the Cape of Gilon; and is as it were three Towns, betwirt whom, the river Suz passeth: yet is it of little or no worth, by reason of the bad soyl. But amongst others, Tavagost is the farthest, and greatest Town of Suz, which is seated in a Plain, and whose lubabitants are very rich.

3. The particular Province of Morocco is made of a triangular form by the Mountain of Nesse, bounding it on the West, East, and North, and is separated from Hee, by the river Assimulation of the control of the contro

4. Guzule, having on the West, the Mountain Ilde 3 on the East,

Hee,

Hee; and confines with Suz. Here is neither City, Town, or Cafile, onely fome Villages.

5. Ducalia, near the Ocean and the Cape Cantin on the West, the Country of Telle on the East. Its sew walled Towns are almost all held by the Portugals; and divers Towns here were abandoned by their Inhabitants, which were sacked and ruined when the Portugals took the Town of Azamor (seated at the mouth of the River Ommirabili) in 1513.

6. Haferra, which beginning at Ducalia's Mountains toward the North, confines with Morocco on the South. Here are four Towns, whereof Elvimua is a new Town, and Bzo, an ancient one, scituate on a high Mountain.

7. Tedle, of a triangular form, bounded with the river Quadelbabib, that is, a river of Slaves, on the Weft, and that of Ommirabili towards the East. The chief City is Testa, standing on the river Deyme, an ancient Town, so called, as being built with stones of the same name. Elsa, (built on Ommirabili, into which Deyme runnerh, both slowing from Mount Allas) is near Testa, and also under its jurisdiction. Then is there Chybite, having long mainained war against the King of Fez. Lastly, Eithiad, which abounds in all kind of Victuals.

The feven Provinces of Pass (which are bounded on the North with the strait of Gibralter, & the Mediterranean Sea, with part also of the Atlantick Sea, and with Morocco on the South) are, I. Tenefm, beginning on the Atlantick towards the West, and bounded with the Buragrag on the East; whose Inhabitants Ptolemy calls Caunes. This Province was (of old) the flowr of Mauritania Tingitana, containing above 400 Towns, and 300 Castles and Villages, and is 120 miles long, although parrower. Some of whole Towns are, Amfa, built anciently by the Romans on the Seashore; and hath been almost ruined by the Portugals; as also Marfor, a Town nigh this. When the Mahometans contended about the differences of the Doctors of their Law, the Town Adendum, like the rest of Mauritania, felt the ruining fury of the War. This Country is as it were a Land of conquest; for the Arabians, or rather the strongest party, command here. There is allo Rabat or Rubut, seated at the mouth of Buragrag near the Sea, and founded by Almanfer; in whose time it was one of the populoufest of Africk; but now not above 500 housholds, and nought but Gardens, Vines, and Meadows within the walls. Sala, called by the Barbarians Zale, is a Town towards Gibralter strait, in which is a Palace, wherein the Kings and Royal Princes were interred. Marmora, a mile and half from the Sea, where the Portugal Army (though Christians kept the Town) was defeated by the King of Fez, through the bad intelligence between the Generals of the Portugal and Castilian Armies. Machase scated on the River Subu, in a goodly Plain, 15 or 16 miles from Fez. It's well peopled, reasonably strong and great, having broad streets, and abundance of water by an aqueduct through the old industry of the Ro-

Secondly, Fez bounded with the rivers Buragrag, Inave, and Subs on the West, East, and North; and with Mount Ails on the South, and is about 100 miles in length. Here is the Town Gualili shewing it self upon Mount Zarbon, ruined by the Africans, but rebuilt by Idris, who is buried there, and honoured as a holy man. Near this is an ancient Town called Pharaoh's Palace, although the Agyptians never commanded over this Country. But the Metropolis is the great and stately City of Fez or Feste, called by Ptolemy, Silde; but Fesse, from Fesse, signifying, Gold, whereof they found abundance, in digging its foundation. It is scituated like Grenada in Andelusia of Spain, to wit, on the bedies and twice double devalling faces of two Hills, the low Valley between (through which the torrid River of Marrabeba runneth Southward) being the Centre and chief place thereof; for it is the most beaurifull and populous part of the City: whole scituation (as of the whole) is judged to be right under the Tropick of Cancer. The Valley is two miles long, and half a mile broad: in which are five Market-places, stately Temples, Colledges and Hospitals, and 100 Taverns, that may lodge a Monarchick Train; on the River are 67 bridges of Timber and stone, which are passages for open freets on both files: most part of the forementioned buildings are three or four stories high; adorned with large and open windowes, long galleries, spatious Chambers, and square platforms. It was first divided into two, both parts of each fide of the river having his Mahometan Lord, and Musti or chief Priest; but the King of Luntana, or of the Lantune family, facking thefe two Towns, put the Mofiz to death, and made them but one. Alfo Jacob, fon to Abdulach the first King of the Meennon-family, divided Fez into three parts, and with three feveral Walls, but now (faith a traveller) environed onely with one, and that broken down in fundry parts. On the two Hills of the City, East, and West are streets and houses of two stories-high, with delicate Gardens on their outmost devalling parts, as also numbers of Mosquees or Saracenical Temples and Watch-Towers: on which heighths, and round the Town, stand about 300 Wind-Mills, most whereof belong to the Mosquees, and the two magnifick Colledges for educating children in the Mahometan-Law, built by Kings of the Marine or Murin family; one whereof called Amarodoc, (having three Cloysters of great beauty, whosegates are of brais, and the private doors of Chambers of in-laid work, &c. coft King Haba Hennor or Habu Henon 480000 Crowns, or 460000 Duckats in the building of it. The chief Mosquee is called Mammo Currarad, which fignifies, The glory of Mahomet; which is an Italian mile in circuit, having 17 high ground Steeples, besides Turrets and Towers, 34 entring Doors, supported within by the length with 48 pillars, and about 23 ranges of pillars in breadth, besides many Isles, Quires, and Circles: Every pillar hath a lamp Nonnn 2

of oyl burning thereat, where, and thorow the whole Mosquee, are every night 900 lamps lighted; and to maintain them, with 100 Toticeks and preaching Talfumans, it hath 200 Duckats daily rent: yet some lay, this great Mosquee (no more than the rest) hath but one Priest, whose office is to say the prayers, and take care of the Temple's revenues; the which he distributes to the M nisters thereof, and for all necessaries; furnishing also other Temples that have no means, with necessaries. The rest going to the common profit of the Town, because it hath no revenues. The Citizens are faid to be very modest and zealous at their worthip, but great dancers and revellers on their folemn Festivals. Here were in times past, the Kings Almansor, Mauron, and Huccepb, both learned and civil men, and accounted excellent in their superstition; in whose times also flourished Avicen, Rasis, Albumazar, and Averroes, the famousest Physicians and Philosophers aming the Pagans: with many others maintained by the Kings of Morocco, who with their Moors were then Masters of all Barabary and Spain. There are now in Fez a great number of Poers making divers fongs, chiefly on Love and Lovers, whom they openly name: All which once a year against Mahomet's birthday, make rymes to his praise; and on that Feast-day in the aftermoon, in the Market-place is a desked Chair prepared for them; whereon they afcend one after another to recite their verses in audience of the people; and he that is judged the best, hath all the year this Epithete above the rest; The Prince of Poets; and is by the Vice-gerent and Town rewarded. But there are also 12000 Brothel-houses allowed in this City, whose Curtezans are nearly kept, and weekly looked to by Physitians, and (which is worse) they (in Summer) give open license for 3000 stews of Sodomiticall boyes. Nay (faith one) I have feen at Mid-day in the very Market places, the Moors buggering these filthy Carrions, and without any shame or bodily punishment infflicted on them, go freely away.

Thirdly, The Province of Azgar, which hath on the West the River Buragrag, antiently called Lin; on the East the Mountains of Cumera, and a part of Zarbon, and Zelag, which divide it from the Country of Fez. Its an 120 miles long, and ninety broad. Two Towns are sound herein, Laras, or Lorache, on the River Luccus, where the Port is good, though the entry difficult: and Casar Eleabir signifying the great Pallace of the foundation, built by King Marsor, or Almansor. But of the Town Giamba, which was built by the antient Africans, is nothing now to be seen but the

Fourthly, Habat, Elhabet, or Ellabat, bounded on the East with the mountains near Gibralter Grait, on the West with the Marishes of Azgar, and is larger than Azgar. A chief Town hereof is Exagen, seared nigh the River Guarga, or Zuerga, on a Mountain's top; whose inhabitants have commonly four hundred horse in Garrison, because of the Portugalls inroads. Here is also among others.

others, Homar, once well-peopled; but now little inhabited, the Portugalls commanding on that coast.

Fitthly, Erif, which runs 70 leagues from Gibralter's strait Westward, to the River Nochor Eastward. Here is Belis, having a good Port, and seated betwixt two Mountains. There is also Tergai with three other Towns that are scituated on a Mountain. But the Villages of this Province are many, although the Towns but sew.

Sixtnly, Garet, which bordereth on the River Mulvia, and part of Chauz to the East, on the River Nochor, and part of Eristowards the West; and is about 75 miles long, and sixty broad, in one part whereof are Towns, in the other Mountains, in the third a Desart; the chief Towns being Tezzora, seated on a little hill, and but one passage thereto. Miggeo, and Jasserin by the Sea, built not many years since by the Mahometans, of the race of Marin.

Seventhly, Chauz, 190 miles long, from East to West, and 170 broad, for it contains all that from Mount Atlas towards Mauritania, and no small part of the Country joyning to Lybia. Herein is Tezo, seated in a plain at the foot of Mount Dubdu, on the River Mululo, and is a City strong and rich, being also as a University, having Colledges like Fez. Teurert, a Town on a hill in a large Plain, and encompassed with Desarts. And amongst others, stands little Tezergue, subject to the Arabians, being near Cunaigel Cherben a Mountain, agnifying the passage of Ravens. Mahomet, the second Xeriff of Barbary, who beginning his reign in 1550, united the Kingdomes of Fez, and Morecce, for which Kingdome, the three fons of Hamet contended in 1603; two of which brothren dying in those wars, Abdela, son to one of the slain brothers, maintained the war again & Sidan the furviving brother: During which one Sidan Amet, a Hermite, seized on the Ciry Morocco, the which, Sidan, and Side-Hean also, a Hermite, forced him to leave in 1616, So that whatever the event hath been fince; then was the Xerifate greatly diffracted; for Sidan poffeffed Morocco; Side-Hean fortified himself in Taradant; Abdela lived by robberies; Fez stood on its Guard; and the other Towns were governed by particular Magistrates of their own. These people are Tawny, but some more than the other; they are also somewhat more civill, or else, much of the conditions of the Arabians; they are wondrous ambitious, unconstant, subtile, and treacherous, also very cholerick, great braggers, suspicious, and exceeding jealous. This Realm in general (for to speak particularly of the fourteen Provinces, would be too tedious) is said to abound in Corn, Fruit, Oyl, Honey, Wax, Sugar, Goats-hair, whereof Chamlets are made, and their skins, which being dreffed they call Marroquin-skins, and we Spanish-Leather; there is also much Cattle in divers places, also in Suz great store of fine Amber is found; so that although fome places are rough and stony, yet these inhabitants have all things needfull for life, one Country abounding in what another wants;

wants; and if they had not war on every occasion, hindering a fetled peace; this Empire would be very happy, and not envy any others commodities, for in their Mountains they feed great flore of Cattle, and they have likewise plenty of Corn; but their Plains yield to much corn, and fruit, that they furnish other places with Citrons, Oranges, Sugar, and Olives. Yea, they transport into forreign Countries, Chamlets, Barbary-skins, Cotton-Cloath, and Sugar, whereof they make great profit. And for the Emperours Revenues, he is Master both of all his subjects goods and persons, none daring to oppose any impositions laid (by him) on them; Yet the Empires usurpation, the continual wavering of affairs, with the fear of an accident like that of Muley Cheq, makes him feek to govern them the milder, that they may defire to live alwayes under his command. All here are Mahometans except the flaves, which doctrine of Mahomet entred into Egypt, in 637, through the Conquests of Omar, then a Captain of Odman, first passed into Africk, in 650, with 80000 men, who defeating Gregory Patricius, they chased the Romans with the troops of Lea the Emperour, and Absimachus, quite out of Africk, becomming Masters of Barbary, which the Arabians increased, first by Arms, and those not prevailing, by Preaching and Traffique. The Goths and Vandalls who inhabited Africk, being infected with the Arian opinion, much helped herein; for they brought in the Arabian letters and language, building Universities at Morocco and Fez, adding also great Revenues thereto; But nothing hath more advanced Mihomets lect than the Victories of the Miramamolins of Africk. But of these Mahometans are many sects also, who have their Heads, and Doctours to defend them, for divers have commented upon the Alearon, not directly allowing of what it prescribeth, but contradict it in many things; of all which different fects, and Orders, with their leaders, (some of whom differ not onely from the rest in their law, but also in faith) may be seen in the book entituled, A Description of Estates, Empires, and Principalities. But among other differences of the Law and Religion between the Moors of Fez, and Morocco, this is one, that they submit to the Califf of Bagdet, and not to him of Cair, to whom the Turks yield obedience. Here are also Jews, who having multiplyed in Spain, came by degrees into Africk; and afterwards there increased, when Ferdinand of Spain, called the Catholique, and Emmanuel; King of Portugall, expelled them their Kingdomes; many of whom comming, brought the Trades and Arts of Europe with them, which were before unknown unto the Barbarians. The lews prachife much the Art of the Gold-Smith (which is forbidden by Mahomets law) and especially of Smiths. There are but few called Christians in the Realms of Fez, and Merocco, besides slaves, (except fuch as live in places possessed by the Portugalls.) whose state is defervedly to be pitied; enduring more pain among thefe Barbarians, than beafts do among us. But Spain (most of those slaves being that Kings subject's) hath two Religious Orders, (the one called de la Merced, in Arragon; the other much greater, having the name of the Redemption of Captives) appointed purposely for Redeeming them; who gather great Sums of Money yearly, wherewith they free a great number, for they fend diligent and faithfull men to Fez, Morocco, and Algier, who first redeeming Priests and Religious men, then free the other fort : first the King of Spain's Subjects, then the rest; and there is alwayes one of the Religious of Spain, at Fez, who informing himself of the quality and necessity of flives, prepares a way for their delivery the year following. And to conclude of Barbary; The great Turk hath therein three Beglerbegs, or great Basaes, proudly styled, Lords of Lords; the first whereof is at Tripolis, (which was taken in by Sinan Bassa from the Knights of Malta in 1551) and he commandeth under him 8000 Timariots, and 6000 Janizaries. The second at Tunis, or Tunneis, who being of great authority, commandeth under him twelve Sanzacks, or Lords, Governours, and 35000 Timario's. The third at Algier, who hath under him fourteen Sanzacks, and 40000 Timariots. These are all he hath in Africk, except the great Vizier Bassa of Agypt; But in Asia, the Greater and the Lesse, he commands 30 Beglerbegs or Baffaes.

Next to Barbary is Numidia (not that spoken of so much in the Romane History, for that is a part of Tunis); on the North whereof is Mount Atlas, so high that they say its top cannot be seen, and was so called from Ailas a King of Mauritania, (who being of a great stature, was feigned by Poets to bear up Heaven with his shoulders; either for his skill in Astronomy, or for the great height of the Hil ). It is now named Anchifa, ot Montes Clari, that is, samous mountains, on its South-side Lybia, and may be called Namidia, from the manner of its inhabitants, the Namida, there living, it being like the Scythian Nomades: for these are said to spend their time in hunting, and to stay no longer in one place than there is graffe for their Camells, fothar they are albase, theevish, murderous, and ignorant people; although the Arabians who are mixt among them, are more liberall, civill, and ingenuous. The Country is meanly peopled; for Teffet, accounted by them a great City, hath in it not above 400 families; nor (if we believe reports) have no neighbours within three hundred miles thereof.

It is so named either from Eybs formerly a Moorish King, or from Lybia a Queen hereof, or from Lybs fignifying the South-Wind, which gently bloweth from these parts) is bounded with Wilas on the East, the Atlantick Ocean on the West, and is now called Sarra, that is, a Desart; for it is full of vast fandy Desarts, (oeing also under the torrid Zone, or scorching heat of the Sun). In one of these Desarts it was that william Lithgow, the Scottish Traveller in King James his daies, endured (as he saith) both hunger and great drought, for seven or eight dayes, as he went from Fez towards Arracon, a great Town on the Frontiers of Northern Ethiopia, with one Chatteline a French lapidatour, who would go thither to buy Diamonds and pretious stones, Chatteline on the eighth day, in the night, falling fick of a burning Feaver, and mindfull to return, Lithgow left him at Aheizo, the fartheft Town Southward of the Kingdome of Fez, (well fortified with Walls, and a Garrison of Moors therein) and with his Dragoman Moor, went forward, entring the Agaroes Country, whose better fort of inhabitants were half clad, the vulgars naked, who had an Emeer or Prince of their own, subject to none but his own passion; yet had they a baffard fnew of Mahometanicall Religion. They toyled fix dayes in traverfing this Country, whose salvages both fnarled on them, and fometimes gave them bastinado's; yea, and enough was it for the Dragoman to fave Lithgon's life and liberty from them, who were still inquirous what he was, and whither he went. On the feventh day, they came into the foil of the Hagans, and the Jamnites, most part whereof were White Moors, some of whose better fort, (and chief among them) had their Members covered, but far more wickedly conditioned than the former; who were ruled by a Xeriff, having his Guard made up of young Balars, or Pages; and Women, who seemed rather to live without any Religion, then to acknowledge any Deity. Then were they led by a Hagan Guide five dayes together South-Eastward, almost contrary to the borders of Athiopia, whither they were bent: who ftealing from them on the 6th night; they the next day continuing their faces the same way, were long ere night involved in a dis inhabited Countrey, being both a vaste Wildernesse, (and a part of the Berdoan's Country, one of the four Tribes of the old Lybians; the Sabuncks Carmines, and South-Garolines, being the other three) and also mountainous and dangerous for wild beasts, whom to affrighten, they burnt (every night) fhrubs of Tara. But the day after their first entrance herein, they proceeded farther, thinking to find People and Tents to relieve them with victuals, and inform them of the Country; but they found none, nor seven dayes after; so that their victual and water being done, they relyed on Tobacco, and drank their own piffe for the time aforesaid. This foyl was covered with hard and foft fands, (and those full of Serpents) whose interlarding rockey hights were faced with Caves and Dens of wild beafts; whose hollow cryes, they both heard in the night, and fighted them often in the day, especially Jackals, Bears and Boars, and femetimes Cymbers, Tygers, and Leopards, against whom when approaching, they either shot off a Harquebus, or flashed some powder in the Air. The Dragoman (on the 4th day of their feven, being there) wondring to fee him endure such heat, hunger, and toyl, despairing, threatned him with death, to make him feek back for their nearest refuge. So Lithgow holding his course North-East, met (early on the 8th day) with 900 Savi-ges, or naked Lybian Sabunks, 500 being women, armed with Bowes and Arrowes; who with their complices had put the night before, 300 Berdoans, their neighbour Tribe, to the fword, and brought away 600 theep and goats, besides other bestiall, Their Emere or Prince came in the Rear with 100 horsemen, having half pikes, tharply headed at both ends with ficel; he was cloathed onely with a vail of Crimfon Silk, hanging on his naked the ulders with coloured Ribbans, from his breatts to his middle thigh, and on his head a party-coloured thath fet like a Garland; both knees being bare, as also his anckles; the calves of his leggs were girded with crimfon filk, and on his feet were yellow thooes, his face and beard burnt with the Sun, and about the age of 33 years. His Page was even covered like himself; but all his followers stark naked. He and all the four Tribes of Lybia worthip Garlick onely for their God, it being a firong thing, and most parr of their food; unto which they annex Altars, Priests, and superstitious rites. He gave them both liberty of life, and relief of food; and after an hours parley with them, gave unto Litheon his Bow, and a Quiver of Arrowes. He also telling them, that Tunis was their beit and nearest recourse, sent a guide with them for four dayes journey, for 5 Sultans or 35 s. who brought them thorow the most habitable and best Tented passages of the Gountry: where once a day they found Bread, Water, Garlick, Onions, and fomerimes Hens, which (faith he) if truth may have credit, we would Roft or Scorch dry at the very face of the Sun, and so ear them. Their guide on the 5th day left them among 400 Teats of Numidian Moors or bastard Arabians, pitched in a pleafant Valley between two fources of water, where they repofed some 9 dayes; and where likewise, he affirmeth to have seen Smiths work Nailes and Horse-shoots out of cold iron, softened onely by the vigorous heat of the Sun, and the hard hammering of hands on the Anvile; as also he saw it in Alia. So renewing their guides from place to place, they descended from Savage, to Civil Moors, and arrived lafely, (though with great difficulty and danger) at Tunis. The Garamantes, who were thought to be the farthest people Southward, lived in this Country; and those called the Pfilli, who (if it may be believed) were of so venomous a nature, that they could poyfon a Snake. Heredotte also tells of an Expedition that this people made against the South wind; for that, it (blowing abroad the fands) had dryed up those small waters among them: but the wind encountring them with a volley of fand, overwhelmed and flew them all. Arim, who denyed Christ to be one substance with the Father, was born here. The Lybians feem rather to be worse than the Numidian Moors: their chief Cities being Guargata, Toherraum and Huaden. Some report, that these two Nations have neither King nor Laws, but are governed by the chief men of every Tribe; but this agreeth not with our Traveller's relation. And whereas they are faid to 00000 worthip worship a god called Psaphon: who teaching divers birds which he caught, to say, Psaphon was a Great God, the simple people yielded him divine worthip: he saith, the Lybians do all worship Garlick: But that they are mostly grosse idolatrous Pagans, is plain, and that among some of the Naturals, the Saracens from Arabia and Barbarie have planted their Mahometan superstition, we dony not.

He Land of the NEGROES (so called, either from the River Niger, which in Latine fignifyeth Black; or because its people are of a black colour) is bounded on the North with Lybia, on the South with Congo or Manicongo, a Kingdom in the Lower & hiopia. It containeth 25 Provinces, the chief whereof are 11, to wit, Guala, Guinea, Tombutum, Melli, Cano, Benin, Nubia, Gialofi, Ganaga, Goaga and Bornum; two of whose chief Cities are Tombutum and Chovinum, faid to be the third City for effect, of all Africa. There are four Kingdomes herein, whereof that of Tombutum (whose first King was Ichia, who in 1526, flew Soni Halin their last Lybian Lord; for in the year 908, when the M.hometan Priests came out of zeal into these parts, they had neither King nor Common-wealth) is the greatest, whose King is very rich, keeps a Royal Palace, with a very great guard, alwayes maintaining a great number of learned men, and, they fay, caufing all who have any Commerce with the Jews, to be flain, That of Bornum, which is somewhat lesse; that of Goaga, and that oi Gualata, confisting but of that one Province. These people are best conceited with their native beauty or black colour, and therefore are said to paint the Devil white, in disdain of him. They were fo blockith, that when the Portugals first sailed hither, they took their ships for great birds with white wings; the painted eyes on the beaks of their ships, to be their directours in their courle; bag-pipes to be living creatures; yea, after they had felt them: and Guns for their hideous noise, to be the Devil's works. Both males and females use to go naked till they are married, and then to cloath themselves from the waste to the knees. What the fruitfulnesse of these Countries are, is hard exactly to know: yet the fields adjacent to the River Niger, being 40 dayes (yearly) overflown by the faid river, the Country is the more fertile for its inundations; which else could be little, through the drynesse of the foyl, affording no exhalations for clouds to give rain: The Province of Cano aboundeth in Lemmons and Pomegranars, and those of Mells, (whose Country is 300 miles long) are said to be the civillest, industriousest, and richest of all the Negroes. And in Nubia there is a mortal poylon, at 100 Duckats the ounce, of which the very 10th part of a grain will end one in a quarter of an hours time. But for pure gold and filver, the Country of these Nigrites is abundantly stored. Touching Religion, they are grolle Idolatrous Pagans; yet with some mixture of Mahometans jand outward Christians: with which last, Nubia is reported to have been wholly peopled; but now for want of Ministers, fallen to the former Paganism; for they once sending to the Ethiopian Emperour for instructers, were unworthily (whatsoever the cause was) rejected by him.

Ome we now to ATHIOPIA, (raking its name from the Greeks, from 213m, to burn, and 24, a countenance: the Sun's heat Scorching the faces of its Inhabitants) which is to be divided into that of Afia, containing Arabia the Defart, the Stony, and part of the Happy; of which before; and that in Africa, of which in this place. And it is divided into Athiopia the Upper or more inward; and the Lower or more outward Libiopia. The Upper is called also Abafine or Abyfine, either from an Agyptian word, fignifying, feattered Nations; or from Abas, one of its chief Rivers. Nilus alfois supposed to arise out of the lake of Zemre in this Country; which taking its course towards Ægypt; and meeting in divers places with lower Valleys, falls down with great noise and force. It feems to be named the upper, not fo much for its being higher scienated than the other, as for that it is more Northerly; and the inward, as being environed with the lower, except where it confines with the Negroes Country, and Lybia. The Prince hereof is called the Emperour of Abyssins, by the Arabians, Aticlabafsa : fome of his Subjects name him Bel or Belul Gian, that is, a powerful Prince: and we name him, whether by corruption of language or not, Prete, or Prefbyter John; but others fay, all these Emperour's fince the Eunuch was baptized by Philip, were called Philips; till that one John that was religious, reigned, and was entituled Saint: fince whom they have been called Johns, with the word Presbyter prefixed; for that he executeth the Priestly as well as the Kingly Office: But his Subj. &s calling him Prete Gian, importing as much as Pretion Prince, makes the name of Prefbyter from the cause aforesaid, to be the more improbable. Divers have given divers bounds to this his Empire. But one Hugh Linfcott faith in his Navigations, That it extendeth from the Red-Sea's entrance, unto the Island of Siena, under the Tropick of Cancer, except the side of the Barbarian gulph, which the Turk hath held divers years; fo that Prete-Gian, at Prefbyter-John's Dominions should be bounded with the Red-Sea on the East; on the North with Egypt and the Defarts of Nubia; on the South with the Realm of Monoemugi; thus having about 400 Italian miles under his command: yet some affirm this Country to be as big as Italy, France and Germany, put together, although not very well peopled: the ground's dry barrennesse, and the climate's distemperature not admitting a multitude. But (however) this Prince attributes to himself many and great Titles, as Emperour of the higher and lower . Ethiopia, King of Goe Caffates Fatigar, &c. of Sabaim, the Queen of Saba's Country, saying, he is issued from 00000 2

David; who being faid to have 70 Tributary Provinces under his Empire, we will briefly mention the chief; among which, none is better known among us than Barnagas, for its neighbourhood to the Red-Sea, extending from Suaquem almost unto the entry of the strait. Its chief Town is Beroe or Barne, scated on a pleasant River. It hath but one Sea-Port-Town, which is Ercocso. On the Western part of this Province is a Mountain first spatious, then narrowing, and enlarging again, and a small league in compasse, on whose top are a Temple, Monastery, with royal buildings, and two huge Cisterns: with a large plot of ground to entertain 500 persons, for provision groweth there. There is but one passage to it, and that reaching to a mark: beyond which they mult afcend by cords and baskets ; fo that this place can neither be taken by force or famine. The Turks feme years fince, you whom Barnagas bordcreth, and who are faid to receive hence 1000 Crowns yearly tribute) greatly spoyled here, carrying away many prisoners: yet at length he agreed with the Beffa of Hialfia (refiding at Suaquem) for 1000 ounces of gold. Between the South and East from Barnagas, lay divers Mountains, dividing Prete-Gian's Empire from the Kingdom of Auel. Ercocco stands in the Province of Dafila, included in the Realm of Banaagas; where are also other Towns, as Sautar, Abarach, &c. The Gulph of Erocco bending to Adulite of old, which is the point of Erocco, extends to Bebal, with a nook made by the Sea towards Arabia, on the beginning of the firsit, whereby they come cut of the red-Sea or Arabian gulph; which place is very narrow, shallow, and full of Islands: beyond Ercocco are Zagnanie and Zama of the Province of Lacca; then the Port of Velle, once called Antifila. Beyond the aforesaid point are two Lakes wherein Crocodiles do live: beyond which is the Port and Promontory of Mofylon, now the Cape Docono, in the Country of Dangali, where the Sea making 2 little Gulf, suddenly straitens again, in which Channel, about thirty or thirty fix miles broad, are five or fix Islands; to avoid whole Rocks, Sailers must have good experience. Next to Dangali, are the Ports Zeiloi, and antient Daphne, where stands the Town Barbara near Mount Fellez; after which is the Cape Guardafuni; where Mette, formerly Accanne, is scirnated; here failers doubling the Cape, run from East toward the South, on which Coast is Carfur, once Opene, and the Cape Zingi: then they bend towards Azun, and Zazelle; thence to Magadazo, where the Portugalls traffique. Lastly, to Barris, which Province hath Pate, and Brave, two Towns on the Sea, dividing Prete Gians country from the King of Melinde's. But to come up into the main-land. Trigremation is a Realm lying betwixt Nile the Red-Sea, and the Realm of Angotte, whose King being Presbyter John's tributary, it is put among his dominions; in whose good Town Caxumo, Maquedathe Queen of Sabba, or Sheba, (who comming to hear Solomons Wisedome, had (they say) by him a son called Meiles) and also the Queen of Candace, were faid to abide. Angotte is fer between Tieremahon

Tigremation and Amaran, in which Realm are divers Provinces; whose chief City Angotte stands upon the River Ancona, near which, is another Town called Saint Peter. This people are reported to use Pepper, Salt, and Iron, instead of money, which formerly was the onely way of Exchange among many people: Next is Amara, bounded on the North with Angote; on the South with Dimut; and by some said to be scituated in the middle of the Country. Herein is a Hill called Amara, ninety miles in compaffe; and it feems exceeding high (I will not fay a dayes journey) on whose top are fundry Pallaces, wherein (to prevent sedition) the Emperour of Æthiopia's younger sons are alwayes kept and educated in a Princely manner; and in one whereof, is a Library faid to be, wherein are many Books as Enoch's Oracles, all Livies works, &c. to us in part or wholly loft. It hath been put to this use ever since the year 470. It is made even impregnable, having but one way of afcent. Sagamedre is the greatest country of this Ethiopia: for it extends from Goyame, beyond the Illand Guequere which is 600 miles. Guequere, or the Island of Meroe, is compassed by the River Nilus, 175 miles long, and 125 broad. Whose principal City is named Merce, built by Cambifes in memory of his Mother Merce. This Ide (although in the upper Æthiopia) is not subject as some suppose, to Presbyter John, but is inhabited by Mahometans, who are utter enemies to the Aby Sine Æthiopians. . Xoa is scituate betwixt Amara, Damut, and Fatigar. Futigar lyes between Xoa, and Adel. Damut is nigh to Xoa, lying betwixt the Province of Zanquebara, and the Lake of Barcena; yet some more probably hold Damut to lye Westward, beyond the Realms of Vangue and Goyame. Most Cosmographers (by reason of the Aby Sines ignorant reports) describe this Empire conjecturally; whose Emperour hath not his chief aboad in Caxumo; but according to Hugh Linfoot, (who failed along all the Coast of Æthiopia) his ordinary and almost constant residence is in the Town of Beimalechi, Yet according to an antient custome (for we find nothing of this Emperours stately Pallaces, unlesse at the Town of Zemra, nighthe Lake fo called, where Workmen fent by Francis. Duke of Florence, built a Royall Pallace in 1570, where the Emperour is faid somerimes to be present) He sometimes in one place, sometimes in another, lives (most commonly, in the open fields under Tents, 6000 whereof are carried with him, with great store of gold and filver veffels, and other rich moveables) whereby his Court, every man being lodged, overspreadeth the compasse of 10 or 12 miles. Some report these Ethiopians (as they are black, fo) ignorant and void of all Learning: But Escala his learned Book, of The Correction of Times, is a witnesse, they are not so ignorant as some hold them to be: yet it appears, they are for the most part flow and dull of wit: in that having flax, they can make no cloath; having Sugar-canes, and cannot draw it out; iron, and cannot work it; holding Smiths for Sorcerers and wicked men: Yet are they much given to Navigation: fo that they are im-

ployed in the Merchants thips of Goa, Bengala, China, and other places; serving herein for little money, and differing very little from flaves, as being ready for all drudgeries, and enduring whipping, &c. very patiently. They are kept by their Emperial Monarch in wonderfull awe, both high and low; who intreats them more like flaves then subjects, taking away, and giving whole Siegnuries, to whom he pleafeth, none daring to shew any difcontent, for he is held by them for a facred and divine person; (whose colour allo is said to be whiter than the rest) who was wont to thew himself but once a year to his subjects. Then he appeared thrice a year; but fince (it is faid) more familiarly; But they fo honour was name, that hearing thereof, they bend themfelves, and touch the ground with their hands, reverencing also his Tent, although he be not in it. These Countries have two Summers, and two Winters yearly; not diffinguished by heat, and cold, but by continuall showers, and fair weather. They are generally very terrile; yielding Barley, Peale, Beans, Miller and other Pulses, though but little Wheat, likewise abundance of Sugar, if they knew new to refine it. There are almost an incredible number of Oranges, Lemons, and Citrons, and great store of Vines; but no Melons roots, nor Olives, but they make Oyl of a fruit called Gove. They have abundance of Honey, and Wax enough to serve the Country with Candles, without Tallow. Flax they have, yet not the Art of making Linnen Cloath therewith; Yet they make it of Cotton, whereof there is abundance. They have almost all forts of beafts, and Fowl, as we in Europe; as Oxen, Asses, Horics, (though but small) Camells, Sheep; alfo Elephants, Lions, Tigres, Onces, and Stage, but no Bears, nor Conves, neitner is there any Bulfinch. Mines of Gold, Silver, Iron, and Braffe, are not wanting, which they know not how to draw; Yet in Zagamedra, they draw their pure Mines of Silver by fire, making it run like rods; and in Damat they draw it, and refine it something better. Their fields are full of Geese, Partridges, and Hares, because they never hunt; so that their Country is bountifull, if they knew how to use such a happinesse. But there is fometimes one inconvenience; to wit, multitudes of Grashoppers, even darkning the Ayre, spoiling one Province or another by eating the leaves and barks of Trees, and devouring their Harvest. Their Prince's revenue ariseth three wayes; From the Fruits of his demeans, manured by Oxen and Slaves; From his Subjects, who pay him for every fire, and the tenth of all Mineralls which they draw; and from the Princes fubject unto him; some giving him Horses, others Oxen, Corton, and other things; So that it is conceived he hath great places full of Gold, pretious fromes, and Cloath. His Subjects (as to Religion) are most out-fide Christians; yet are there some Mahometans alfo, his tributaries; who are alwayes feeking to revolt. The Aby Sines fay there is an old Chronicle kept in Caxumo, which faith, they at first received Judaism, through Meilech, Solomons

ion, by Queen Maqueda, and the Jews accompanying him. But Christianity was here received by means of Queen Candaces her Eunach, whom Philip Baptized, and that, first at Tygia, in which Tongue they frame all their publique writings. But they acknowledging the Parriarch of Alexandria for their head, (from whom allo they receive their Patriarch or Abuna) fell with the Colites of Agypt, into the opinion of Eutyches; holding but one nature and will in CHRIST; for they could have no entercourse with Rome, but by means of Agypt. They hold divers other impertinencies (which increase by conversing with grosse Idolaters, and Mahometans round about them; many also of these Idolaters living among them, as in Damut, Agaos, and Corague) as Circumcifing both Males and Females. Then Baptizing the Males fourty, the Females fixty dayes after their Circumcifion; they eat not of any beaft that is cloven-footed; they follow the lews in observing the last day of the Week's Sabbath, more then the first; they accept onely of the three first General Councels. Their Priests may marry but once, according to the Muscovites, and nor that, after Orders received; whom (they fay) do live by the labour of their hands; they allowing them nothing, nor fuffering them to beg. They Baptize not, but on the last and first dayes of the Week, presently giving the Bread and Wine to the Baptized. rebaptizing themselves also in Pools and little Lakes, every year on Twelf-day, in remembrance of Christs Baptism, on which day they suppose him to have been Baptized by John in Jordan. Their Sacraments are administred by the Patriarch; not spirting, as Brerewood faith, after receit of the Eucharift, (in which they communicate in both kinds, and with unleavened bread) untill Sunfet; nor in their Temples at all, putting off their shooes when they enter therein, nor suffering any beast to enter. But of these things, and other Ceremonious superstitions; with Presbyter John his overtures, as to reconciliation with the Church of Rime, &c; I refer you unto the aforesaid Book, Entituled, The Description of Estates, Empires, and Principalities.

ATHIOPIA the Nether, or more outward, which is reported to be mountainous toward the West, sandy in the midst, and Desart towards the East, is bounded on the North with the land of the Negroes, and Estiopia the inward, and on the South with the Southern Ocean; and is divided in five principal Countries.

1. Monotapa, or the Realm of Benomotana, or Benomotana, obeying one Prince called Monotapa, that is, Empire in that language. It is fashioned like an Island, betwixt two branches of a great River, running from the Lake of Zemre, Southward. Nile, which springs from this Lake, running East and North, and Zaire towards the West. Some hold it is 3000 Italian miles in compasse, yet others, but 450 miles. The chief Provinces hereof are six. The chief City is Benomotana, where the King ordinarily resides, yet some say his seat is at Tongum, besides which there is another Town named Simbas. This Kings Dominions extend far beyond the Island, even to the Capes Mozambique and Bonne Esperance, or the Cape of good Hope (all which perhaps may make up the number of 3000 Italian miles) many neighbouring Kings being his Tributaries; among which is he of Torre, or Burue, running from the River of Spirito Sando, to the Cape of Courantes, and far within the land alio. Monotapa is watered by divers Rivers. as Panami and others, which are faid to carry Gold with them; and in all this Efface is great store of Gold, both in Mines and Rocks. The Ayre is temperate, the Countrey good and pleafant, abounding in grain; yet is it full of Forrests, having in it many beaits, great and small, especially Elephants, whereof 5000 are faid to be killed yearly for their Teeth-fake. Burue is very rich in Mines of Gold, and hath very good pastures, but wanting Wood. They having such store of Mettall (to much by men defired) cannot burbe very rich. The King also exacting no Tribute, but certain dayes tervice from his People; yet without prefents, none may shew himself before him. He hath likewise no Prisons, all cautes being straightway decided by witnesses, neither do they punish any crimes to severely, as Sorcery, Adultery, and Theft. They are of mean stature, black, but active and Valiant, yet ill armed. This Prince is Politick, keeping with him his Vaffall Princes Heirs, to affure himfelf of them. They worship here one onely God, which they call Mozimo, and in 1,60, Gonfalvo a Jesuite, Baptized a Vasiall to Monotapa, called the King of Inanior: and foon after young Monotapa and his Wife. But tour Mahometans his favourites, perswading him, Gonfalvo to be a Magician, a ruiner of Kingdomes, and a Spie, to cause a revolt by his subjects, he had him flain and cast into the River Mefigina, nigh which fifty of his new converts were flain also. But when some Portugalls, and chief of the Realm had shewn him his errour, he flew some of those sour, seeking for the rest, who were hidden. But the Portugalls now not fending new Preachers hither, but fending an Army by Sea under Francis Barret, to be revenged, the affrighted King fent for peace to Barret. who ayming at the gold, rejected all conditions. But through the Ayr's intemperature unto them of Europe, this Army was confumed: fince which, fome few, called Christians, have there remained.

2. Conga or Manicongo, which is a Realm extending from two degrees and an half from the Equinoctial towards the South, that is, from Katherines Cape, to the Cape of Leo; and hath on the North the Province or Realm of Benin in the Negroes Land; and on the South, Luna Montes, or the Mountains of the Moon. It contains (according to those who compute its seituation) about 660 Italian miles, and is divided into fix eminent Provinces; whole King also commands in the Island of Loande, seated betwixt a branch of the river Dande, now Bengo; and the river Cana. He hath likewise some Islands upon the river Zaire, his seudestatics, feuderaries. Those Provinces are, Bamba, on the Sea-coast, from the river Ambrift unto Coanze, and hath many Signiories. The chiefest City is Bamba, standing between Ambrifs and the river Lofe; being about 100 Italian miles from the Sea. Songo, which extends towards the North, to Ambrifi, and ending near the red rocks of the Realm of Loangoes frontier: its chief City being Songo. Sunde, whose principal Town is Sunde; it extends from about the Town of Congo (now named by the Portugals, S. Saviour) unto Zaire river, which is 40 Italian miles. Pango, once a Realm, not subject to the King of Congo: confining with Sunde on the North; with Batte on the South. Its head City is Pango, scituated toward the West part of the river Barbela coming from the Lake whence Nile springs. Batte, whose chief Town is also Batta. This Province confines with Pango on the North, and joyning to Barbela on the South of the Mountains of Aphronitre, as far as the burnt Mountain. It extends to the Mountains of the Sun, confining it felf on Barbela toward the East. Lastly, Pemba, in which stands the City of Congo, scated on a Mountain, and about 150 Italian miles from the Sea. It was once named Banze, that is, a Court; now S. Saviour. Here is a Mountain indifferent high, fo full of houses and Villages, that it is faid to comprehend about 100000 perfons, although but two German leagues, or 10 Italian miles (taking 5 miles for a league) in quantity. So that it may be true, which is reported of these Countries populousnesse; they selling (as is supposed) 28000 flaves yearly unto the Portugals: who are carried to Brafil to work in the Mines. This Country is watered with fix rivers. This King hath a fwelling title of 18 particular Provinces and Countries: fome of whom are (they fay) Anthropophage or Men-caters : having fhambles of mens fleft, as we of other meats. But Angolis is most esteemed of the Civill Provinces; which some years fince revolted from the King of Congo, and is concluded to be very populous; for in 1582, the King hereof had 1200000 in an Army against Paul Diaz the Portugal Leader; who with his few, wifely ordered, fatally and difmally overthrew him. Edward Loope a Portugal, who lived long in these parts, reports their Winter to be like Autumne, at Rome ! yea, generally (through the tain continually falling, especially for two hours before noon, and as much after) the heat is greater in Winter than in Summer: which heat is most insupportable to the men of Europe. Their Winter begins on March 15, so that for five months, a clear day is seldome seen. Their Summer, in the midft of September. They also observe very small difference in night and day, being in a mander equall. Their Summer is as dry, as their Winter moift : whereby the overflowing rivers leaves on the land agrosse and muldy humour. They have the common winds called by Hippocrates, Etefiei: which caufing continual rain by agitation of milts on the tops of Mountains during our Summer, both in Congo and Prete-gian's Country, make the rivers Wile, Niger, Ppppp.

and Senega, &c. to swell, whereby they overflowing, do fatten those Countries which they water: for it is not the melting of fnow which causeth the rivers increase, because no snow falls on the Mountains of Athiopia and Congo, or the neighbour Countries, except on those called the Mountains of Snow; or those towards the Cape of good Hope. The West and Northwest winds in their Winter, doth temper the hot miss and vapours. But in Summer their winds are South-East, or North-East : which unleffe they did cool and refresh Athiopis and Congo, the hear would be insupportable. Greece, Candie, Cyprus, Anatolia, Syria, and Egypt, enjoying the same winds. Zaire is Congo's greatest river, and hath fuch abundance of water, (being 5 miles and a half broad) that entring the falt Ocean, it keeps its freshnesse for 8, 10, yea 16 Acagues: whereby Sea-men eafily know where they are. But to be brief; Bamba hath many filver Mines and other mettals in a Mountain thereof, also many exceeding great Elephants (through its many Forrests and Rivers) which live commonly 150 years, and grow to the midft of their age; fome of whole teeth have been 200 weight. The Antients faid, the Elephant could not bend his hamme, but were taken leaning on fome Tree afleep. But the Flemings and Porrugals feeing them get up into Trees, drawing up their haunches, to gather leaves, and stooping easily down to drink where the water is low, makes it evident, that they have

Here are also Tygers, whom the Congoans call Engoi, who through hunger's sharpnesse, finding nought in the field, do fall upon tame Cattle; and as Loope testifieth, never fet upon White men, but oft-times the Blacks. The beaft called Zebree, breeds in this Province; and is like a mule, but it ingenders and multiplyes greatly, having young every year: whose hair having from the ridge of the back to the belly streaks of white, black and yellow, is very strange; they are exceeding swift, and wild; whomif the Inhabitants had art to tame, might ferve instead of horses which this Country wants : whose office not with standing men do perform by carrying them, who speedily journey, in litters or chairs, the beaters being often changed. Beafts called Empalanges, some as big as an Ox, others lesse, are here also. To conclude, they have wild Bugles or Oxen, Wolves smelling afar off, Foxes, Goats, Stags, Hares, and Conics in abundance; for they hunt them not to death, as in Europe. They have many Civit-Cats, whom they keep tame for their pleasing sent. There are divers kinds of Serpents and Vipers, some being 25 foot long; 5 broad, with a very large belly and throat, that (if we can credit it) will devour a beaft as big as a Stag. They kill them fleeping, and hold the food of their flesh better than of any fowl. But some Vipers are lo poylonfome, that any one bitten dyes within 25 hours: There is likewise a strange beast as big as a ram, with wings like a Dragon, a tail, long beak, many rowes of teeth, two leggs, whole skin is red, mixt with green and blew, and who cat raw tieth. It hath Camelions, Parrors green and grey; very fair red birds, and many fores of small ones singing like Canarie-birds: finally, great store of Hens, Ducks, Geese, Turkies, Peacocks, Parbridges wild and tame, Turtles, Pigeons, Faulcons, Sparrowhawks, Eagles, and Pelicans. The Province of Congo hath many Elephants, and divers forts of imitating Apes, many Kine, with divers beafts forementioned: also store of Crystal and other mertals; but preferring Iron, which is found in the aforesaid fruitful Mountain; whose water is excellent good, not hurting any one: which is stored with grasse, much Cattle, Fruit-Trees alway green, vielding all kind of grain, chiefly that called Lucos whose bread is as good as ours; abundance of white Millet called Mazze; also Meaz or Turky Whear, and store of Rice; bur they little effect these. Bananes, which some take to be Muse; and others, Indian Figs, a pleafing and good food grow here; alfo Limons and Citrons exceeding pleasant, whereof the poor live. There are three forts of Palm-Trees: from one whereof they draw Oyl, Wine-Vinegar, Fruit, and Bread. Other Trees bear 2 Fruit called Cola, as big as a Pine-apple: and other wild Palms. whose fruit are good to cat, and with whose leaves they cover their Cottages, and make baskets, &c. This Province hath abundance of Melons and Cucumbers; also Tamarinds and Cassia, which serve both the Moors and Turks for Physick. The River Leonde ingenders Crocodiles, and the Hog-fish, so big and far, that some weigh 500 weight and more: also Sea-horses, or the River-horse, which is tawny, having little hair, leaping to land, and feeding, and by day living in the river; fome of whom the Africans do tame: and they are exceeding swift, but they must not passe over deep rivers, because they will presently dive. But this river which runs at the foot of the Mountain where the royal Town of Congo is built, so dries up when the rain ceaseth. that one may easily wade it. On the shoar of whose Island Leonde, are found gray Cockles very glistering, and better esteemed than those on the other shoars: where also is a Tree called Enfanda, alwayes green, and, having many virtues, strangely multiplyeth, to wit, by some small threds hanging down from the high branches, and rooting in the ground; whose upper bark being made clean, is a kind of linnen cloath, making garments for the common people: and in that part nearest to the firm land do trees grow, at whose foot salt-water springs. Here are likewise big Oysters, which they call Ambizimitare, that is, fish of a stone. They find here also divers fishes, as Pilchards, Soles, Crafishes, &c. And about the outward part of this Island are many black Whales; who fighting, many die: whole fat being taken and mixt with Pitch, the Inhabitants calk their ships. Moreover, we must not forget the great store of stone, and goodly Marble Mouncains, besides the Jasper and Porphytie, with the white Marble, Ppppp 2 and of other colours, called at Rome, Numidian and African Marble: in some Mountains also of this Province of Pemba, grow lacinths; and in other rocks they find metals, as braffe, yellow and green, whereof they make Statues, &c. So that, if we look on the abundance of metals in this Realm, as also their Elephants, and Civit-Cars, wherewith they abound, Sea-cockles ferving instead of coyn, traffique of Slaves, linnen cloath of Songo, and Sunde made of Indian Palm-Trees, Crystal, though not altogether so profitable; we may foon see how they are fought to by forreign Merchants, whereby their wealth may be conjectured. And as for the King, none would doubt, but that he (having all thefe Countries under him) is exceeding rich: of whom, one thing is reported to his commendation, That he doth Justice publiquely, without any formality; for that all things are debated before him in few words. As to their religious belief, they are fo full of vanities, that they scarce know what they believe; for, although an outward profession of Christianity be crept into this Realm, yet is it full of groffe Idolaters: some worthipping the Sun as Husband to the Moon; and the Moon as his Wife in the fecond place. Others worfhip those beasts like Dragons abovementioned. Some the Earth, as Mother of all, &c. How a Christian profession was brought first hither by the Portugals, (James Cane or Diege Can, Captain to D. John the second, King of Portugall, discovering these Countries of the Nether Ethiopia in 1486) I leave to read in the book, Of Estates, Empires, &c. Onely thus much I say, That King John sending three Dominick Friers to infruct them; the King of Congo's Uncle and his fon first; then the King and Queen were baptized; (whose eldest fon was Alphonso) and who endeavoured lovingly and zealoufly to turn the Subjects: But these Friers (beside the consuming hear, and ayr's malignity) were ill-intreated by them of Congo: who feemed tractable while they spake of ceremonies and mysteries; but when they began to fp. ak of temperance, continency, restitution of goods, pardon of offences received, with articles of Christian profession, they shewed opposition. The King also growing from zealous, to be cold: for t ey were leath to leave their Sooth-faying and Sorceries, especially their many Wives, and which Women troubled the Court and City of its abode. Then, the King dying, Alphonfo the eldest, and Panze Aquitime his fecond fon, who would not be Baptized, fell to Arms; Alphonfo defeating, and taking him (they fay) by apparent miracles; who afterwards caused all the Idols to be burnt on the top of an high Mountain, and reigned fifty years in peace; and in the midst of after troubles in Aluaro's time (through the Giaguas entring Congo's Realm in great numbers, and putting this King to flight- &c.) Jefaites came into Congo, and preached to the people, building a Religious house, so called in the Island of Leonde, where fix or seven Priests remained, or fill do remain, going up and down where necessity calls them. Aluaro

Aluare (Granchild of the first Aluaro, whose son was also of the fame name) being illegitimately born, was flighted of most of his Subjects; wherefore in 1587; he would have one of these Priefts near nim, whereby he purchased honour. And then deseating his fifter by the Father, with her brother, in a great battell, flaying the Generall; he built a Temple in the fame place, fetting the first hand thereto to encourage others, and by Edicts advanced these Priests Preaching and enterprise. But it's time to hasten to the third part of Athiopia the lower, to wit, Aian, which (including Abex, and A lell, two Kingdomes) is scituated betwirt the River Calimanes, and the Mouth of the Red Sea. Abex is also called Alea, and lyes seituated between Habasia, and Adel; unto which first it is said to be tributary, two of whose chief Towns, to wit, Tate, and Gogia, the Portugalls took under the command and conduct of Triftran de Cugna. The other principal Town is Braue Adell, is that of which Grand Amada was King, who had a great hand over the Emperour of the Habasines, it is scituated more upon the Coast of the Red-Sea than Abex, and whose three chief Cities are Arar, Borbora, and Zeila, all scated without the Red-Seas straights, the which Merchants do much frequent; for besides the Corn, siesh, Hony, and Wax, store of sheep, (whose tails are faid to weigh 25 pound) wherewith this Country abounds, they have also much Gold, and Ivory. But Zeila the chief of the three, standing near the Bay called the Bostime, or nook of the Avalites, or Abalites, who dwelt thereabout, was facked and burned by the Portugalls in 1516. 4. Zanzibar, which extends from Monotapa, unto the River Quilimanci, (whose chief Rivers are Coava, and two others) it must needs be a large Province; for it containeth fifteen Kingdomes, whose chief Cities, Corova, Monenlo, Anzuga, Badin, Calen, Quilao, Momboza, Melinda, Mombara, Monbizo, Embroe, M. Sambique, Macaos, Mordomugi, and Safila, denominate the Countries, and that of Safila (abounding much in Gold and Ivory) is thought to be the land of Ophir; but seeing Ophir is planted in the East, and Sasila stands South-West from Chaldaa, where the People's scattering began; as also fince Solomons Navy of Tarfbifb, with the Navy of Hiram came from Ophir but once in three years, as 1 Kings ch. 10. Verses 11. and 22. do demonstrate, Ophir was certainly farther off; to wit, in India, although what particular Province or Islands thereof, it is not determined. Abraham King of Quilao, suffered the Portugalls to build Forts in his Country in 1500, whom they prefumptuously nine years after deposing, the Arabians (for the Zanzibars, and Atans on the Seafide, are faid to descend from them) demolished their fortresses The true Natives are the more in land people of Zanzibar, and grofie Geattles as to Religion. Bur those on the shoar side (as of Aian) have received the Miliometan superstition of the Arabians from whom they descended.

hath on the South and West; the Ocean, on the North, the Mountains of the Moon. I find no City or Town in this Province, onely they are faid to have some Villages; in every of which is a Lord or Ruler. Some represent also, the manners of this people to be as ill-tayoured as their bodies, and faces; for being cole-black. with thick Lips, and flat Nofes, they likewife live like beafts. The long Southern Promontory called The Cape of Good Hope. (whose top hath a fair Plain covered with Graffe and various flowers, named the Table of the Cape, and largely overlooking the Sca on all fides; which here being very rough and tempestuous, hath often vexed the Spaniards) is of this Region, and was discovered by Vasco di Games in 1497.

Moreover, before we speak of Ægypt, we will look over the African Islands, which are those in the Atlantick Ocean, or in the Ethiopian Sea. In the former are to be noted. 1. That called the Princes Island, seated between the Aquator, and Tropick of Capricorn, and so named, because the Prince of Portugall was to have its Revenues when his Portugalls had conquered it. Nigh this, is that called the Isle of Saint Helen, which they so named from their Saint Helen, on whose day it was discovered, and over which (as the other) the Spaniards do command. 2. The Gorgades, of old the Gorgons, they are nine in number, now called the Islands of the Green Cape, for that they lyencar the faid Cape, in the Negroes Land. James Island is the chief of these, whose principall Town is Ribiera, fortyfied by the Spaniards. Medufadwelt here, who is reported to be a Woman exceeding beautifull, but molesting the European Seas by Piracy, the was invaded by Perfemand his Greeks. He flaying Her in a fingle Combate, ftruck off her Head, and carrying it into Greece, the people exceedingly admired both her Face and Hair. Goats are the chief thing these Islands abound with. 3. The Canaries, of which before in Spain, which for their fruitfullnesse, &c. were of old called the Fortunate-Islands. But the Canaries, from the chiefest Isle Canaria, or from the Dogs, in which the Spaniards found them to abound : They are accounted by some, but seven in number; three whereof, to wit, the Isle Canarie, Palma, (where ships use to touch going to America) and Tenariff, 90 miles in circuit, are the chief; in which Tenariff, neither shows nor river is said to be; but their water is conveyed into divers parts from a high Mountain, having a Tree alway covered with a moyst cloud, which every noon-tide diffolveth. The Commodities hereof are well enough known to be fublime Sacks, fine Sugars, and Canarie-birds.

4. The Azores 9 in number, whereof the chief Tercera, makes them all now to be called the Terceraes; unto whose second Isla of note, S. Michael, Geographers have removed the first Meridian, dividing the Eastern World from the West. Marriners also obferving the Compasse coming under this Isle's Meridian line, not to vary at all from the North. Fajall is the third of note, which Sir walter Rawleigh taking from the Spaniard against all opposition (for two reasons) in 1597, made the booty of this Expedition (called the Island-Voyage) worth 400000 Crowns, although the English kept not what they won. Although the Flemings first discovered these Islands, and thence were called the Flemish Islands; yet the Portugals subdued them all under Prince Henry's Conduct in 1444. Tercera it felf hath been called by us the Island Oade, because it aboundesh in Oade.

5. The Hesperides, Happy Islands, whereof Poets making frequent mention, placed here the Elyzian fields. They are two in number, scated not far from the Gorgades, and divided asunder by a small straight, being according to Plutarch, 10000 furlongs from the Continent of Africa. The ayr and seasons are said to be here alwayes temperate: The weather fair; for they have rain very feldome, fweet dews making the earth very fruitful with small pains; and where Sertoring the Roman earnefully defired to spend the remainder of his life in peace. In the latter Sca are, 1. Magadafear, scituated under the Southern Tropick, and reported to be 1200 miles long, and 4000 in compasse (which if so, Brittain must take but the third place of the Islands of the known World, for bignesse). Their chief Town or City is of the same name. It is called St. Laprence, which name I suppose the Portugals gave it, when they discovered it in 1506. The people are but of a dusky colour. It is (by relation) a goodly Countrey, abounding with beafts both wild and tame, and all kinds of fruits; also Ginger, Cloves, and likewife with Silver. It hath both fair Rivers, and fafe Harbours; yet they would neither trade, nor be traded with by others 3 yer the Portugals have gained a little traffigue with them, whom yet they fuffer not to come on thour. These people keep to one Wife; but for other things, said to be inhospitable and treacherous, and not onely ignorant of prayer, but of years, moneths, yea and weekly dayes distinction.

2. Zocotara, which is 60 miles long, 24 broad, and is scituated at the very mouth of the red-Sea. Its chief City is so called where the King resides. This Island, through much winds and drynesse, is deficient in most necessaries for life ; yet hath it plenty of Physicall Drugs, especially of Alges; called (if true) Zacatrina (not Succotrina) from this place. Two of their Towns, Benin and Coro, the Portugals have taken and fortified; before whose arrival here; the Inhabitants (who are afh-colour'd and tall) were a kind of outward Christians called Jacobites, Whether there are two Islands nigh this, which men alone, and women alone do inhabit; who are faid to meet fometinies, though not to day long together, through the ayr's antipathy to each other; I leave (as ambiguous) unto Traveller's experience to determine

3. The Itle of St. Thomas, feared just under the Aquinoctial, and of groundish figure. It's 180 miles about; the principal Town being Pavonfan. At its first discovery, the Portugals found it a Wood; who with the Negroes now dwell there, Iris fo plen-tifull in Sugar, that they load 40 thips yearly: But as for fruit which hath a ffonetherein, it will bear none; neither will Wheat come to good. "Although the Portugals be mafters here, yet in this the Negroes are above them; that they are reported to live (divers times) 100 years: when as the Portugals never exceed 50; where there is no water for $ dayes journey.

AGTPT is bounded on the East with the Arabian Defart, Iving betwixt it and the red Sea ; on the West with the Defarts of Lybia, Numidia, Barze, and Nubia: on the South Bugia; or as others, the Cataracts, which being very narrow ficeps, Nile powrs down his waters with a wonderful force; (although I greatly suspect, whether the adjoyning Inhabitants are dealned with the noyle) and on the North the Mediterranean, which from its joyning unto Egypt, is there called the Egyptian Sea: and which sheweth, that the Ancients have accounted that onely Egypt, which Nile watereth, beginning (according to Piolemy )on that fide near the Town Stena (now Afne), unto the Mediterranean Sea, which is 562 miles in leigth; although in the broadest place, to wit, from Damiata East, to Rosetta West, it be but 140 broad, in some places but 37, and at the bottem or point but 4. Some would have this Country diffind from Africa and Afra, conraining it betwirt both. Others taking Nile for Afra and Africk's bounds, put part thereof in either. "But Ptolemyand many others making the Red-Sea or Arabian Gulph, Egypt's commodious bound, have placed it in Africk. Egypt being first inhabited by Mifraim the ion of thus, was called by the Hebrews Mifreia, and the Arabians are faid now to call it Mife Ithath had divers names not very material here to repeat; But it was named Egypt, either from the river Nilw, once called Agypt, or from the people descending from Chams race, who, as fofephin faithiwere called Agyptians; or from one of their Kings furnamed Leyptus, and named Ramefes, the brother of Danam. It was (of old) divided into high and low, (though others have divided it into High, Middle, and Low). High Egypt being long and strait, beginning at the Cataracts beyond Siena, on Militopia's Frontiers, and ending near Cair. Low Agit containing that which hard the form of an Island made by the two Channels of Wile and the Sea, extending from Caire unto the Mediterranean, Northward, and is as Strabo faith, about 3000 flades in Circuit, that is 375 Italian Miles, and was named [Delta] from its triangular form, or refemblance to the Greek letter fo called. It's scituation is near the Tropick of Cancer, bending towards the Northern or Artick Circle, betwixt the leventh and tenth Parallell, especially under the second climate; whereby the longost day is thirteen hours and an half, nor in most Northern parts above fourreen. Some have affirmed there were two thousand Cities and Towns, others 1020, in this Country, But Orvellus who was dili2 gent in the fearth, found but 200, yet the Wars with Athiopias Syria, and the Romanes, might ruine many Townstherein ; But we Will will mention onely fome of the chief of them; as 1. Siena, now called Asne, the most Southern City thereof, and said to be exactly under the Tropick of Cancer; for Ptolemy faith, they making a very great pit, there was no shadow of the Sun, when he entred into Cancer. 2. Memphis scituated beyond Nile Westward, where the Egyptian Princes refided ; in whose place Caire succeeded, and was the aboad of the Sultans. Caire is a great City, distant from Jerufalem about 240 of our miles, which a traveller thither, calls (for its admirablenesse and greatnesse) the little World, being, (faith he) thrice as large as Constantinople, and as populous, though not so well builded, being scituate in a pleasant plain, and in the heart of Egypt, kiffing Nilus at some parts. It's divided into five parts. 1. New-Cair, the principall of the other, and lying in the midst of them, and contains all the chief Merchandise and Market-places, it hath walls and Ports, and is in : Circuit twenty two miles. 2. Old Caire, where Memphis antiently fo called, flood, also named Babylon of the Agyptians. This was the farthest place uly fes visited in his travells, which Homer fo memorizeth, yet (faith Lithgow) they were not answerable to the fifth part of mine. 3. Medin, which joyns to the back fide of Old Caire, towards the Piramides (which are not far from hence) 4. Boulake running a great length along the River fide; which bath three Market places of no small account. 5. Caraffar, a great Town bending Southward in the way of the Red-Sea, for mamy miles. All which four, are (faith he) but as Suburbs to the New Caire, making up a Country rather than a City, yet all touch one with another either to the right or left hand, or to both, with a multitude of streets: whose length in all, from the lowest end of Boulake, to the Southmost part of Caraffar, is 28 English miles, and 14 in breadth; for tryall whereof, he faith, he trod it one day on foot from Sun to Sun, being guided and guarded by a riding Janizary, which, for his bruifed feet on the streets, was one of the forest dayes journey that ever he had in his life. Here are three principall gates in New Caire; Babeh Mamstek, looking towards the Wildernesse, and Red-Sea; Bebzavillab towards Nilu; and Babell Eutuch, toward the fields. The streets are narrow, and all almost covered to fave them from the parching heat, with open vents for light, and their buildings are commonly two stories high, made either of mud or brick, and plat-forms on the tops, whereon they fleep usually in the night, to receive the fresh and cooling Ayre. Here is a great Pallace where the Beglerbeg or Turkifb Vice-gerent constantly resides, and on a moderate heig t, from whence a full prospect of the better part of the Town, Gardens and Villages, bordering on Nile, with a great part of the lower plains of Agypt, may be taken. There is likewise said to be in this City, a Tower, whereby (by observing how high Nile rifeth, for there are divers marks in it by which they judg) they know how fruitful it will be every year in Egypt; for if the River swell unto the highest hole of the Tower, they have abundance of Corn. Another faith it was in a Qqqqq

Mosque, or Furkish Temple called Eschiall, whereas they measured how much Nile role, by a Pillar there; But another in his Perceptination faith, they go into an Island nigh Caire, where they observe the height of this River. 3. Alexandria, so called from Alexander the Great, who built it, and now Scanderia; it's a Town of great traffique, and was formerly one of the chief Cities of the World, not yielding to Rome for inhabitants; and was in the time of the Nicene Councel, appointed (by them) one of the four Patriarchal Cities, Antioch, Rome, and Constantinople being the other three. It is divided into Old and New, and is scated in a sandy Country on the Sea shore, more broad than long, and like a half Moon: The Old is three miles long, having within it (besides other rare things) two Mountains of inclosed fand. The antient Walls are yet standing, but little inhabited within; four things more, among others, are here eminent; the Cifterns bringing water from an Arme of Nile called Calis, and supported by Marble Pillars; two Spires near the Walls of the Portalmost alike, Graven with Hierogliphycall letters, one whereof lyeth along, almost covered with earth; the other standing ten fadome high without the ground, and is eleven foot square: A little above which, is the place as by the ruines doth appear, where Cleopatra's Pallace of old stood, where the had as Gallery advanced over the Sea; and laftly, without the Town stands a Pillar which Cafar erected in memory of Pompey his defeat; it is of Marble, eighty foot high, and twenty in Circuit. The New is seated somewhat more pleafant, on the right hand of the Old Port, which hath a Castle of the Old Town for defence, but (through difficulty) they use it onely fometimes to lodge their Foists and Galleys. The New Port is on its right hand, and is but an open road subject to the Northern Winds, but defended by two Castles (on both sides) called Farilos one standing on a little Peninsula; the other right against it; so that all Ships must needs passe within shot of these Castles; without which two Ports (through the Ayres badnesse) the very Town (it is judged) would be foon abandoned. Two things are remarkable of this City. That the people were fo licentious, that they would neither spare personally and verbally to abuse their Governour; nor Romane Emperours, their Lords themselves: for which cause Caracalla comming to the City, and impatient of the fame, affembled the youths of the City, as if to choose some for attending on his person, and suddenly commanded his souldiers to put them all to the Sword; and that, one Gautenus reading Divinity and Philosophy in this Town in 180, thence it is thought the fetting up Universities first began in Christendome, Right against Alexandria they place the little Isle Pharos, in Cafar and Ptolemies time, but now it joyns to the Continent; and whose Pharm or watch-Tower (built by Ptolemy Philadelphin for benefit of Sailers; too redious here particularly to describe) was accounted one of the Worlds feven Wonders. The Maufoleum, which fignifies a Sepulchre or Monument for the dead: Babylon, not of Egypt, but that

of Assyria, its Walls; Diana's Temple of Ephelia. The Colosius of Rhodes, and the statue or Image of Jupiter Olympicus, and the Piramides of Egypt, being the other fix. It was called by Oppius, one of Egypis two Cloysters, or doors to shut it up, to wit by Sea; the other by land, being Pelusium. This seems to me to be the same which the Describer of Estates and Principalities, &c. calls the Castle, which (saith he) is very incommodious, in that they must carry water thither from Alexandria's Cisterns, upon Camellsbacks. 4. Pelusium, new called Damiata, and seared near the Mediterranean Sea, it was also named Eliopolis, of the Prince Ely, or Aly, who had environed it with three VValls; (but one thinks it to be that now called Teneze) This key of £27pt, (as Suidas calls it) was more then once besieged by Christian Armies, in the time of that called the Holy War; The most remarkable whereof was the eighteen Moneths fiege of John de Brenne (the entituled King of Jerusalem) with the European Princes in 1220, concerning the mortality of whose besieged, through raging Plague and Famine, and the unexpected feizure thereof, (by two ventrous fouldiers scaling the Walls, as admiring the peoples silence) ye may read at large in the Turkish History. Besides these Cities, are two others, said to be almost as big as Caire; also Thebes, which the Tyrant Busiris builded, 17 miles in compasse, and having a hundred Gates; Arsinoe, or the City of Crocodiles; now Sues, and almost abandoned, though in the Ptolemies time, a Haven Town of great commerce; yet the Turks building their Galleys at Caire, bring them, when taken in pieces, on Camells backs. Here is is also Bulasti, where Diana was worshipped. Nicopolis, now called Munia. Heliopolis, now Bethfamie, and of which Potipharab was Prieft, whole daughter Afenath, Pharaoh gave to Jojeph in marriage, and Canopus, where was Ofiris his chief Temple: four of these Cities, to wit, Alexandria, Pelusium, Bubastis, and Heliopolis, are known by other names in Ezechiel the thirtieth, as No, Philebeth, Shin, and Aven. The antient Agyptians were faid to be the first inventers of the Mathematicall Sciences; Great Magicians and Astrologers being yet of a dextrous wit, Merry, great Singers, and fociable companions; but somewhat sloathfull, and given to Riot and Luxury, neither do they live long in regard of the great heat (for they lye in the same climate with Barbary) seldome attayning 60 years; yet are they not black, but tawny and brown. Two of the chief Monuments of Apppt, were first, the Piramides, in regard of whose wonderfull Masses of stone, the antient works of the Romans were of small moment; they begin to be seen fourty miles off. They stand in a Defart place, four miles from Caire, about three Rones cast from Nile, the biggest whereof, (built by Cheops) is three hundred paces square (that is) 1200 round, at the foot, whose height may be 600 foot, though some have reported it was 1000. the stones are three foot long, and two foot broad's and of the same thicknesse; and although the top seems to be sharp, for so much the word Pyramis doth imply) yet is it there

21. foot square. Josephus reports the Ifraelites to make Bricks partly for fuch Pyramides. Secondly, Pfamniticus his Labarinth which he built, containing 1000 houses and twelve Palaces within one Wall, whose building was most under the Earth; no wood nor cement being imployed in that Marble Fabrick. The Chamber doors in opening founded as Thunder, and though there was but one passage into it, which was of white Marble, with stately Pillars, and most curious works of Imagery; yet having a multitude of turnings, and returnings within, it was even invious to one that was unacquainted. This stood on Nile's banks towards Alexandria. The Agyptians also made Paper of the sedgy weeds Papyri, which groweth on the banks of NILE, whereby Ptolemy Philadelphia the more easily made up his Library of 700000 Volumes at Alexandria, causing likewise the 72 Interpreters to translate the Bible. The Priests also, who in time of ancient heathenism, were honoured as their Kings, expressed all their conceits by Hicroglyphicks; or the shapes of things in the Creation. For eternity painting the Sun and Moon; for a year, a Snake with his tayl in mouth : to shew an endlesse circle of years. For integrity, fire and water, because they are pure, and purific other things, &c. The Red Sea is on the East of Egypt; so called from the red colour of the sands; also Sinus Arabiem, or the Arabian gulph, being 1600 miles long; thorow which India's and Arabia's Spices were brought to Alexandria, and fo disperfed throughout all parts by the Venetians. It is also named the Erythrean Sca, as much as red, nigh which, the Sybill called Erythrea, dwelt: for there were 10 of them, of whom Cumana is affirmed to have written the 9 books of the Sybills: which being burned by one Stilico, those Prophecies now extant, are onely drawn out of others writings wherein they were quoted: Now they manifestly foretold of Christ's Name, Birth, Death and Kingdom, and somewhat of Antichrist's destruction. Before we come to the quality, tiches, and Religion of this Country, we will make mention of Cyrene, anciently named Pentapolitana, from its five Cities; (for it is reckoned a part of Egypt, and feems to me, that which modern Writers call Arabia Trogloditica) which hath Tanis on the West, and Ægypt on the East. Its chief Cities are now Fessan, Barca, from whence the Country is called Barca Marmorica, and Cyrene, which once striving with Carthage for greatnesse and extent of bounds, two men of each fide were appointed to end the Controversie, by coming toward each other's City; for where they met, was to be the boundaries: But the Phileni of Carthage getting far into Cyrenia before the other met them, they (enraged) killed them because they would not depart their Country: which occasioned the Carthaginians (in honour of them) to raife the Ara Philenorum, or Altars of the Philenians in Carene's Borders. Here stood also the Oracle of Jupiter-Hammon; whose Temple, when Cambyfes King of Persia (in his Conquest of Egypt) would (by his Army) overthrow: they were (in the way) smothered thered with the light fands of this Country, although 500000 men. Although this people were rude and theevish, yet Aristippus the Philosopher, Eratosthenes the Mathematician, and Callimachus the Poet, were born here; as also Simon of Cyrene, who was forced to carry the Croffe on which Christ suffered. Some call the chief Towns hereof by another name, as Grandall or Corandall, having an indifferent good Port. Alco fer or Chozair, which some take for Berenice, one of the five antient Cities: and where is (by the Mountain's opening) passage for fruits brought out of Ethiopia the Upper. Suaquen is the name of another, which Ortolius thinks to be the Ptolemais of Mela; near which, is a very good Port: and where is also commonly a Turkish Bassa, who commands the Country. Even in the head of the Arabian gulph. Bands Suez, which some take for Arsinoe (one of the five ancient Cities of Cyrene); others for Potidia; and some for Hero or Heros, which in the Ptolemies and the Romans time, very much flourished for Indian and Arabian Merchandize, transported thence into Egypt by Caire and Alexandria; but although the Turk hath used all means to people it, yet is it not much inhabited, nor of any great traffique, by reason of the great difficulty of all things. Egypt is an ancient Kingdom; for there is a Catalogue made of 300 Kings, save eight, who reigned before Amasis in 17 Dunasties ; of whom Ofiris is onely to be mentioned, who with his fucceffours were called Pharaohs, and in whose time Abraham is thought to have gone down into Ægypt. But of the 18th Du. nastie or Lordship of great power, there were 16 Kings; Amalis being the first, and beginning his reign in the year of the World, 2242. Menophis or Miris being the last. Of the 19th Dunastie were onely five, who were called the Latti: Zetus was the first, in the year 2590; and Thuoris the last: two of which five to wit, Amenophis and Sefostris or Vexores, are of fame. The 20th Dunastie remained 177 years under the Dispolitane Princes: and of the 21 Dunastie were 18 Kings, the first of whom was Smendes, beginning to reign in the year 2961, and called in Scripture Sefac: the 15th was Pharaoh Neco, who flew Josiah at the battle of Megiddo: and Pfammenites or Pfamniticus was the last, in whose dayes Cambyfes (as was faid in Perfia, subdued Egypt under his Empire: from which it revolted in Darius Nothus his time the 6th Persian King, they choosing one of their own called Ameribeus, in 3558: the fixth from whom, was Nectanebos the second; in the 18th year of whose reign, Ochu the 8th Persian Emperour recovered it again. But Alexander vanquishing Darius, he won Egypt without bloud; after whole death, Ptelemy the fon of Lagi Inaring this Country, all the following Kings were named Ptolemies: of whom there were 12, Lagi being the first, and beginning his reign in the year of the World 3641, and called in Daniel the King of the South. Cleopatra, a woman exceeding beautifull being the last, who (being in love with Marcin Antonius, killed her felt to avoid leading thorow Rome in triumph : After whose death it was made a Roman Province, and was as warily looked to, as highly prized : no Senatour but onely a Gentleman of Rome being Governour. The Roman Empire being divided, this Country was subject to the Constantinopolitan Emperour, till the Egyptians being overburthened, craved the Saracen's ayd who made them Tributaries unto Haumer the third Caliph or Saracenical Pope. of Babylon or Bagdet; the Grecian Garrisons being first expelled: who afterwards choosing a Caliph out of their own people, there were two, one at Bagdet, to whom the Afian; and another at Caire, to whom the European and African Saracens submitted. The first Egyptian Caliph was Achmades, beginning to rule in the year of Christ 870; the 15th and last being Elphaiz, (although there be one, who addeth feven others) who fending to Noradine the Turkish King of Damasco for and against Almerican King of Jerusalem. he feat him valiant Sarracon, who, after clearing Egypt of Almeriem his forces, made himfelf King, and to confirm his estate, dashed out Elphaiz his brains with his horfeman's mace, and rooting out all his kinn, as we read in the Turkish history. Of these Turkish Kings were five; Sarracon the first, beginning his unjust reign in 1153. Melechfala the last, who (going with Lewis the 9th of France towards Damiata, when he had vanquished him) was flain by the Mamalucks, flaves whom he bought and bred up for Souldiers, to supply the deficiency of the foft Egyptians: they came from Colchis and Georgia, and were commonly called Circuftians : they also set up Turquimenus, a Mamaluck, in Melechfala's room. of which Mamaluck Sultans, there were 12, Tarquimenus, the first. beginning his rule in 1250, (who although he released King Lewis, is faid not to have performed half his conditions of peace with him made) Tonombeim, the last, who being overcome by Selimus the first in 1517, Egypt was made a Turkish Province, as it still remaineth. The Country is low, plain, and not mountain nous; wherefore they have built their Villages (though far from Nile) in high places, to avoid Nilm his overflowing, which makes Egypt exceeding fruitful; and for want whereof, the dearth is very great; (for they have no rain, as is read in Zech. 14. v. 18; or if they chance to have any, it is faid to turn to divers inconveniences, as fores, &c.) it beginning to swell about June 17, and continuing 40 dayes, (and falling the like time) which is faid to happen when Athiopia hath most rain, especially in the farther Mountains. The Greek letters of this river's name containing in them, all the dayes of the year; (for N stands for 50, H for 5, I for 10, A for 30, 0 for 70, 2 for 200, which make 365,) and the manner of whole inundation Lithgow undertakes to fnew, because he saith many learned men are meerly mistaken about its flowing. He faith, there is a dry pond digged near the river's brink, called Machafb, wherein stands a pillar as high as this ditch is deep, that is, 18 cubits: whereby they know the river's increasing (and so the plenty or scarcity of things the year following) after this manner: between the river and this pond are fix passages passages digged thorow the bank, where when the river begins to fwell, it falls down thorow the lowest passage into the pond; (and then come forth certain Priests cal'd Darvilles, accompanied with 100 Janizaries pitching their Tents about this Quadrangled pit. In all which time of the inundation, they make great feafting, rare folemoties, with dancing, finging, touching of Kettle-Drums, founding of Trumpets, and other oftentations of joy. As the water grows in the river, so also (now) upon the Pillar, which is marked from bottom to top, with Brases, handfuls, a foot, a span, and an inch. If the water rise but to 10 brases, it presageth, there will be great dearth, Pestilence and famine: If to 12 Cubits, the year will be indifferent: if to 15 Brases, then plenty and abundance: if to 18, then the whole Country is in danger to be drowned and destroyed. Also, from the body of Nile, there are (faith he)about 3000 channels drawn thorow the plain, on which paffing Ditches are all the Boroughs and Towns builded; and through which channels, the river spreads it self throughout all the Kingdome: which when scowred of filth and Worms, and the water become clear, every house opening their Cistern window, receiveth as much water as will suffice them till the next inundation: Neither doth ever the River flow any where above the banks; for if it should, it would overwhelm the whole Kingdom. All which Channels here or there, do make intercourse for their streams again, to the body and branches of Nilus; fo that he calls them Signical fools, who hold, that it overfloweth the whole face of the Land; for then I pray you (faith he) what would become of their houses, Bestials, Corn, and Fruits; for the nature of violent ftreams do ever deface, transplant, and destroy all that they debord upon, leaving flime, mud, and fand behind their breaches; and therefore such inunding cannot be called cherishings. Yes Ovid fang thus of Nile, Namq; ubi deseruit, &c.

For when the seven-mouth'd Nile the sields forsakes, Whose Rivers to th'old belly them betakes: The tillers many living creatures sind, I'th turn'd up muddie clodds that's lest behind.

Now here the Post indeed affirms muddy clodds to be left behind, and (which is strange) very many live creatures therein found: but this overflowing may seem by his words, to be the channel's watering the Country by a moderate overflowing, and not the main body or belly of Nile drowning all like a Sea: and whereas he calls it Seven-month'd Nile; although some will have seen mouthes therein; (and others nine) yet the Moderns assure there are but 3 or 4, two of whom, report what they have seen; for it divides it self into 4 branches, sour miles from Caire, two whereof make the two chief and Navigable mouthes of Damiesta and Rosetta; yet when it overflowes, many brooks (or channels, into which it is divided) are Navigable. There are abundance of venomous creatures bred (also) in this river, as Crocodiles, Scorpions, Water-Snakes, grievous mishapen worms, and other monstrous things, who do oft annoy the Inhabitants, and those who traffique on the water, yet it breeds likewise very excellent fish, and is wonderful fruitfull therein. It is also reported to be almost 3000 miles long, and said to have its beginning under the Equinoctial line from the Mountains of the Moon; but more truly from the Zembrian Lake in the more inward Lthiopia, and in a place of the outward Athiopian Alps called Catadupa. Nile's water is faid to be marvellous fweet above all others, the cause whereof is the extream force of the Sun beating always on it, and making it the lighter, purer, and simpler; as also his long course arroufing so many foiles. Egypt is not subject to Earthquakes, and is so fertile for all necessaries for man's life, that some Antients have called it, The Store-house of the Earth. It was likewise called when the Romans had it, Horreum Romanum, or the Roman Garnericor Barn. It abounds with all forts of grain and pulfes, good pastures, and abundance of Olive-Trees, and with herbs good to ear, that they may the more eafily forbear Corn; there is also in the Western part of Lower Egypt store of Cotton and Sugar. Some report, there is very good Wine in divers places, keeping very long, as near the Lake Meotides. But another faith, it produceth no Wines; for these Mahometanical Moors observing strictly the law of their Alcoran, will neither plant, nor fuffer Vines to be planted, accounting it a deadly fin to drink Wine: But for Coffa, and Sherpe, which are composed Liquors, he faith, they drink enough. Palm-trees also wonderful high, do grow throughout all Egypt; 20 great Trees, having been faid to be feen coming out of one body. Their gardens are replenished with Siccamores. Cassia, Pomegranates, Oranges and Tamaris, the greatest part whereof are exceeding high, and the Siccamores exceeding green. The garden of their Balfamo lycth near the South fide of Caire, fix miles in compasse; the Tree being but of three foot high, alwayes green of colour, with a broad three-pointed leaf; and being cur into the body, and branches thrice a year, it yields a red water dropping into earthen veffels, which is the natural Balfom: Nor far from which Garden in a fandy Defart, is the place called Mommeis: which are a multitude of Caves cut out of a Rock, wherein most mens Corpses of Caire are interred; which remain alwayes unputrified, nor yielding a stinking smell: experiments whereof are, by Merchants bringing whole bodies hands, &c. from thence, which makes the Apothecarie's Mummia, whose colour is very black, and the flesh clung to the bones. Here is a thrub called Alcana, whose leaves being yellow when dryed, the women in the Turk's Country die their hands and feet, with a part of their hair. There is great store of smelling flowrs: yet Plinie affirms, they do not commonly fmell very well, through the fogginesse of the ayr, from the river Nele. Besides hurtful beasts, it breeds also a great number of tame cattel, as Bugles, Oxen, Camels, Horses, Asses, Goats, and Sheep: all which grow very great; but the sheep are exceeding great and fat, whose Wooll is black, and their thick tails hanging unto the ground:

Here are many Fowl (for Egypt is very Moorish in VVinter) especially Storks; wherewith in some places the fields are even covered: and who devour the abundance of Frogs which are here bred. There are also many Camelions found among the shrubs, which (faith the Author) live not of the wind as many have written; yet will they continue a whole year without eating any fustenance. Hens (are said) not to hatch their Chickens here; but they do it by the heat of Furnaces. Egypt hath alwayes abounded with Mettalls, chiefly near Ethiopia; there is likewise the Amethyst with many other pretious stones, and such store of Ærites or the Eagle-stone is found near to Alexandria, that they load whole ships therewith. Their VVomen are very fruitful, having many times three or four children at a birth; neither, as it hath been observed, are the eight-Moneths Children in danger of death as in other places. There are also Lemons, Citrons, Cherries, Figs, and other fruits, as in our Countries. Cyrene, or Arabia Trogladitica, is fick of Numidia, and Lybia's difease, being barren, both of fruits, and water, Sandy, Delarr, and little inhabited, for when Alexander travelled to the Oracle of Jupiter Hammon, he law neither, Man, Beaff, Bird, Tree, nor River. And as for Suez, there is no water within two miles about it; but two miles distant they dig it out of a pir, it being faltish and bitterish, and brought upon Camells backs. There is great commerce in Egypt, and at Carre, with very many Nations; for the Country abounds fo, as to fell Silks, Corns, Fruits, VVax, Honey, and the Soveraign Balforne, besides many other commodities of Cotton-wool, Cloath of Gold and Silver: and the best Sattins, Damask, Taffaties, and Grograins that are, are here made. Their King's revenues in the Ptolemies time were 12000 Talents. The Turk now (what through tyrannical Government, what through the discontinuance of the usual traffique thorow the red Sea, receives onely three millions; one whereof his Vizier Bassa hath to support his charge: the other his garrison-Souldiers, &c. the third he Coffers up, being guarded by land to Constantinople, he not daring to adventure it by Sea, for fear of the Florentines. Egypt (where at this day are but few of the right Egyptians remaining) is peopled by Mahometans, outward Christians, and Jews in a small number. Those called Christians, are strangers or Natives. The strangers come thither (especially to Alexandria and Caire) by reason of trassique; for it is called, as it were, a ladder, by which the treasures of the Indies and the East, do passe into Asia, Europe, and Africa. Those born in the Country which have remained fince the inundation of Barbarians and cruelty of Saracens, Mamalucks and Turks, do not excced 50000, which dwell dispersed here and there, especially in Rrrrr Cairts

Caire, Meffia, &c. they are called Cofites or Copties, and Christians of the girdle, for they are both baptized and circumcifed. They also following Eutyches's opinion above this 1000 years, admitting but one Nature in Christ, separate themselves from union with others; which schism, the bad Councel of Ephesu (called, if I miltake not, Anseinn, or a Councel of Robbers) occasioned. Many of them live in Mima's Territories, wherein are divers Monasteries; but three of their chiefest Monasteries are, that of Anthonie. (which is in the Troglodite's Country) Paul, and Machaire. They obey the Patriarch of Alexandria, faying, They have their faith from Prete-Jean. They say Masse in the Chaldean tongue; reading their Gospel first in Chaldee, then in Arabick. When the Priest faith, Peace be with, or given unto you, the youngest of the affistants going, toucheth the hand of all the affistants at that Masse: and after the confecration fo called, they give to every one of the Affistants a little piece of bread.

> But toward the Newworld turn (my Pen) thy flyle, From the Countries of Danube, Euphrate, and Nyle.

We have briefly viewed the Old World, (fo called) let us also furvey the New; New I fay, not according to the nature of things, but in respect of men's skillfullnesse in discovery. That part of the Earth is called the New world, which almost by a middle space, is extended between the shoars of Spain, and Africa, and the utmost part of India from the North thorough the Ocean, washing on it on both sides, under the form of two Peninfulaes, which Peninfulaes or almost Islands, are conjoyned by a flender Isthmus, or tract of land, in such a manner, that in what part it lyeth under the Æquator, or is not so far from it, it is made narrow. Thence it is again dilated, untill (the figure of a Pyramide or Spire being stretched forth into the South) it contains the Magellanick Strait, or Narrow Sea, with other parts yet unknown. And although this continent, be not as yet altogether fearched out, yet from those parts which are already known, it may easily be concluded, that this part of the World is greater than the other parts. They fail about it at this day, beside that utmost tract, which looks to the North. Of this new World are also two questions raifed; first, Whether it were known to the Antients, or not? But Keckerman repeating the probable arguments on both fides, rather gives his judgment on the affirmative. Secondly, Whether it cleave to Europe and Afiasor whether it be an Island separated from them both? Chynau faith, it is not certain whether it be an Island or a Continent; Frisius leaves it in doubt; Yet out of the Navigations of Paulus Venetus, he faith, it may probably be drawn that it is an Island. Most Geographers vote it to be an Island. Bur then whereas another difficult question ariseth from this, being granted, to wit, Seeing men were in the beginning created in Afia, and living creatures also, were put into Asia out of Noahs Ark, how should should both men and other living creatures come into this New World? One Joseph of Costa disputes thereof in the twentieth Chapter of his first book of the New VVorld; But this I say, that men lote pretious time in disputing, and not believing; and also that if this be now an Island, yet, it might not from the beginning be fo, for it both feems to Croffe the very History of the Creation, and also we know, that many Islands have in length of time been made by the washing of the Sea. But why doth any raise a question at all from a thing that is not in it felf certainly known? And as for the West side of America, if it (saith one) be not a continent with Tartary, it is yet disjoyned by a very small straight, as may be perceived in all our Maps and Cards, as also in the Description of these Countries; so that there is into them a very quick and eafy passage. Two things also are observed in the discovery hereof, that it was discovered about the very same time wherein Arts and Tongues began to flourish in Europe, and also some Doctrines of the Romane Church to be purged from their groffe droffinesse; and that this New VVorld doth in many things profir, and in many things also hurt the Old VVorld, for from the time that it was fou o, both all things were dearer in the Old, and alfogreater allurements were afforded unto men, of Luxury and coveroulnesse, but this latter must be imputed unto Man's Corruption. The time of its first descrying was by Christopher Cotumbus, (born at Nervi in Genoa of Italy) in one thouland four hundred ninety two, who confidering the Suns motion, was perfwaded, there was another VVorld, which the Sun gave light unto, after its departure from us, and being rejected by the Genowaies, to whom he first opened his intent in 1486. he fent his brother to motion the businesse to our Hearythe seventh, who being taken and determed over long by Pirats, Columbus made his defires known to the Spanish Court, where, at length being furnished with two Ships onely, he is faid to have failed on the Ocean above fixty dayes, and could descry no land; so that the Spaniards discontented, as defirous to return, began to mutiny. The Italian wary, perceiving the Clouds fomewhat clearer than before, thought some inhabited place was nigh. VVherefore, staying their return for three dayes longer; at the end of them, one descryed fire, and straightway after an apparent Country was differred: which being an Island, Columbus in honour of the Spaniards, named HISPANIOLA, but the Natives called it HAITIE. Then discovering CABA allo, he returned toward SPAIN, and after two eminent Navigations more, he died, and was buried at SEVILL, in SPAIN. But it is divided into AMERICA; and MAGELLANICA; the former being denominated from Americas Vesputius, who followed Columbus afterwards in these attempts, and whose shores have their Bounds and Borders (from the East in leed, whereas it looks towards Europe, and Africa) the Atlantick Ocean; from the West, Mare or the Sea Del Zur ; Rrrrr 2

the latter (which is that part scirnated to the South, and the Pole Antarrick) being so named from Ferdinand Magellane, who first pierced into this part of the world in one thouland five hundred and twenty. America is distinguished into two generall parts, or Peninsulaes, one whereof is the more Northern tract, and called Mexicana; the other more the Southern, and called Pernana. They are two Peninfulaes joyned by an Ishmus or tongue of land feven leagues long, betwixt Nombre de Dios, and Panama; for the 11 leagues commonly made betwixt these two places, is through their turnings to find out a more convenient passage. Mexicana is the Northern Peninfula or tract, whose circumference is reckoned 16000 miles, and 4000 in length from East to West, the North bounds being not yet known, and contains to diffinet Provinces or Countries: as, 1. Florida, bounded on the East with Bahaman, and the Isles of Lucayes, or (as one) with the Sca, Dei Nort, On the West with Mexico, on the South with Cuba and Juction, and, as one faith, with Virginia: on the North with New France; and also as one affirmeth, with Canada and Virginia. It is 400 miles long, and 80 miles broad: and was discovered by the Equith under the Conduct of one Sebastian Cabot in 1467. But was cailed Florida, by John Ponce a Spaniard, wno possessed it afterwards in 1527; either because it was a flourishing Country; or for that he came thereunto on the Spaniard's Pascha Florida, or Eather day. It's under the same Parallel with Mauritania; (and though a great part of this New World lyeth under the fame Parallell with Æthiopia, Lybia, and Numidia, yet are the Inhabitants of a reafonable fair complexion; of which I fee no true natural cause rendred, but God's particular will;) its coast is rough and rocky, chiefly against the point called the Martires. After Ponce, it fell to the French in 1562; But the Spaniards warred with them fo long, till not a man being left, it was again abandoned in 1567. Here are three chief Towns, the one called Arx Carolina, or Charls his Tower, which the French building, the Spaniard ruined: and S. Matthew's and S. Helen's, which the Spaniard built : who wath three, and but three Forts in this Countrey; one whereof, called S. Augustine, being taken and burnt by Drake in 1586, was again repaired. It is reported, That when Ferdinando Soto (a Spaniard) would perswade the Natives, that he was the Son of God, and came to teach them the Law : One of them answered, Not fo; for God never bid thee kill and flay us, and work all kind of mischief against w. This Province hath divers fruits, and many kinds of beafts; it would also bear any grain and fruit, if manured; their Kine here also, have a bunch on their backs like a Camel, and hair like horses. Many Hermophrodites are said to be here, whom they put to all drudgery. It hath good quantity of gold and filver, which the Inhabitants gathering up in the water, by cutting rivers with little ditches, carry it to the Sea-fide to fell, which is also their chief Traffique; likewise Emeralds, Turquoysies, and Pearls have been here found. They are groffe and Pagan Idolaters, yet are faid to have a belief of the Soul's immortality: But naturally loving war and revenge.

Secondly, Mexico, which (denominating half America) extends from Florida unto the Sca of California or Mare Vermiglio on the Weit, and having on the East Jucatan, and the Gulph of Mexico: on the South Peruana, or (as another faith) Guatimala and Jucatan: the Northern bounds being unknown, it is not certain, whether it be a Continent, or an Island separated from the Old World, it is called New Spain, and was very populous, before the Spaniards, by tormenting deaths, flew (as they fay) no leffe than fix millions in 17 years. It was subdued by Ferdinand Cortez in 1518; and contains four noted Regions: I. Gallicia Nova (called formerly by the Inhabitants, Xalifque) and where Nugno de Gulman built divers Cities; after that, by taking the City Xalifeo, he had fubdued all the Province: which being watered by the River of Piaftle; that part which is enclosed by these rivers and S. Sebastian, is named Couliacan, whose chief City or Town being Couliacan: the Spaniards planting a Colonie there, it is called S. Michael: then coming to the red Sca, or of California by Sibole and Grenado, hitherto the Spaniards trade, and the Country is inhabited. One Francis Coronado came to Sibole in 1579, but returned with his Souldiers to Mexico, as finding little profit. This Province is mostly rough and stonie; yet there is that, fit to bear of all fruits; and they do catch much fish in the Sea, having also many wild beafts in their Forrests: those on the Sea-shoar living of the one; and the inland Savages, on flesh, taken by hunting. Some say likewise, they do sometimes cat man's flesh. They go for the most partnaked, and acknowledging no Ruler, till the Spaniards brought them under Dominion. 2. Mechonachan or Mechagan about 50 leagues from the Province of Mexico, and having 240 miles in compasse, three of whose chief Towns are Sinfonse, large and populous, where their Kings made their abode. Pascuar, where the Bishop (that is, I suppose, of the Spaniards) first remained; and Valadolit or Valladolid, where he is now faid to make his residence. The language of this people, is both copious, figurative, and artificial, and preferred by those who understand it, before Latine: they are all tall, strong, and active of body, and witty, as appears by divers things coming from thence: also of a good complexion, and long life. Here is a swift stream which alway turning as it goes, and receiving 12 rivers into it, enters into the Cephalique Sea of 150 miles about, from whence going, it falls fuddenly into a very deep Valley, and continuing its winding course, enters with abundance of waters (ingendring Crocodiles) into the South Sea: and a little backward is Sacatule, within which is Colima, and a Town called the Purification: the three Ports of James, Authonie, and of the Nativity or Jago, being upon the Sea-shoar. It is faid to be one of the best Countries of New Spain, bearing abundance of Cotton, Cutchaneel, Mulberry-Trees, Silk, store of gold and filver, (though coerfe) much Wax, Honey, Amber that is black, Salt, and Fish: whence (the name hereof implying a place of fishing) it was so called. Divers fruits are said to ripen here twice a year: and one Fraucu, of 4 quarts of grain fown, reaped 600. 3. Mexico, or the Province of Tremistian, faid not onely to be both the greatest and most pleasing and fertile of these 4 Provinces; but (as Acosta thinketh) one of the best in the World. It takes its name from the chief Ciry Mexico, being an hundred degrees from the Fortunate Islands; and was taken by one Cortez, in 1521, leading to this enterprise 200000 or 100000 Indians. It contains about 6000 Spanish Families, but 60000 of Indians, dwelling in the Suburbs. It's leated in a great Plain about 7 miles in circuit, and encompassed with high Mountains, on which is Snow continually. There are also in the Plain two Lakes, one fresh, the other salt; on the banks whereof, not onely is Mexico, but there were almost 50 good Towns, Tescuto, yielding little to Mexico: and on the bank of Mexico's Lake, which is 50 miles about, stand pleasant Towns, and divers houses, 50000 Wherries being still (they say) plying in the Lake. This City is fix miles in compasse, and is the seat of the Spanish Viceroy, and of an Arch bishop; They having therein both a Mint, Printing, and an University. Moreover there is Anges, a Town with a very fertile foil; Tulle, Tuluca, Tavafco, a great Town, yet the houses stand scattering for scar of fire; which had, fay fome, 25000 houses, of Lime, and fat Earth, Zempoloan, that is called the true; Crosseby which places runs the River Aluarada, and entring into the Sea by three mouths. Laftly, ulathan, a great In-land Town. The Gulf of Mexico is nigh the City fo called, 900 miles about, of a heady and swift current, that ships cannot passe directly; and hath two Ports, one betweeen the farthest part of Jucatan, and the Isle of Cuba, where the Tide violently entreth, the other betwixt Cuba, and the utmost point of Florida, where it forcibly goeth forth. The Sea hath but onely two fafe Ports, Havana, on the North, John de Lua on the South, which the Spaniards have Grongly fortified; for the Seas are very tempestuous. The Mexicans are full of courage, also industrious, and witty, fober, and given to traffick; feeding many Silk-Worms, and making many toyes of wood and feathers. The Country is likewise exceeding temperate, having many Mulberry Trees; and do now feed many Horses, Asses, and Flocks of Sheep, having also some Mines. And victualls there doth so abound, that 28 pound of Beef is worth but three pence, and a Hog one shilling, or 1 s. & 6 d. Out of the fresh Lake, they draw an herb, cut every Moon, and worth to the Inhabitants 20000 Crowns yearly. New Spain also trassiques with China; it vents likewise in Woollen Cloath, Silks, Linnen Cloath, and Tables to Peru, for a million of crowns. Finally, if Peru (faith one) exceeds this Country in abundance of gold and filver, which is very fine : yet this is richer than Peru in fruits and Cattle, and exceeds it in Arts. The Indians pay to the King and feuderaries 6 s. for a head, and nothing

elfe. Their Kings succeeded not by right of bloud, but by election : whom they held lawful to kill, if they were reputed cowards: for they used slings and arrows in their wars. They were seven Tribes in all, ruling in an Aristocracy or Government of the Nobles and chief men, untill that the mightiest Tribe chose a King, to whom they all submitted : of these Kings, we find ten mentioned, Vizilovitli being the first, Quabutimoc the last, yet they fay Izcoalt the 4th King brought the fix Tribes under the Mexican Kings. The two last were vanquished by Cortez as aforesaid, whose number of Indians (besides his 900 Spaniards, &c.) which he imployed therein, were most of the City and Territory of Tlascalan, never good friends to the Mexicans: wherefore, the Spaniards have granted divers immunities to the faid City Tlafcalan. And to conclude, the Mexicans fince they received the Spsmards baptism, (and so their religion) they have accustomed themfelves for the most part, to the Spanish fashions. 4. Gastecan or Gualtachan, fo called from the Captains of Cortez, and also the river of Panuco; but before these Captains subdued it, Francis Garai had 400 of his men flain by the barbarous people, who facrificing and cating some of them, hanged their dryed skins in their Idol-Temples. There is a place called Zimatatao, where, at the foot of a Mountain, are two fountains, one of black pitch, and the other of red, very hot; as also in the Isle of wolves near Lima is a fountain of Bitumen or slime like Pitch: and another at S. Helen's point, (in which Province, although the Spaniards have a Fort at the Cape, yet the French have planted Colonies therein) wherewith they calk their ships exceeding well. (Also there is in the Country of Mexico (but whether in this Province I wife not) the Mountain Propochampeche, of the same burning nature with Aina and Vefuviui). The two Cities here are, I. Tlascalan, yielding precedencie onely to Mexico in all these parts; and is feated in the pleasantest place of all the Country, (although Guastachan be said to be very poor in the natural Commodities of the foyl) being also rich and populous, and governed under the King of Spain's protection in form of a Common-wealth. 2. Villeriche, or the Rich Town: fo called, for that it is a Port through which all Traffique betwixt Old and New Spain doth paffe grone Don Anthonie making also a good way from hence to Mexico, the more easily to conduct their merchandize. Yet was it afterwards transported to the Town of True Crosse for more Commodity. The two Colonies which the Spaniards have here, are called James of the Valley and Panuco.

The third Province of Northern America is Jucatan, lying opposite to the Island of Cuba, called by the Inhabitants, Maiathan, or Maiapar: but the Spaniards (Francis Hernandes de Cordova discovering it in 1517) named it Jucutan, that is, What say you; because when they asked the Countrie's name, the people not understanding them, answered, Jucutan. It is a great Peninsula, being 900 miles about; and the more it advanceth into the Sea, the more it enlargeth it felf with two Capes; the Red being toward the North, and Cotoque toward the South: it is also distinguished into, 1. Jacatan, having two noted Cities; one whereof for its beauty and greatnesse they call Caire. 2. Guatimala, lying betwixt Jucata and Nicaragua; besides whose Town so called, or of S. James, are three others, Colonies of the Spaniards; the avr of which Territory is fweet and pleafant, having Mountains and Valleys yielding store of fruit: and whose Inhabitants (they say) have loft 500000 of their friends by the Spaniard's cruel dealing. 3. Acafamil, an Isle opposite to Guatimala, whose chief Town is Santa Cruza, as the Island it felf is commonly called. There are many Defarts in Jucatan, yet rich in many places in Corn, Fruits, Honey, Wax, Stags, Hares, Geefe, and Poultry; it hath no rivers, yet remaining alway fresh, because it being stony two or three foor under ground, little Springs and Brooks flow out. Guatimala (among other herbs and fruits) abounds in a Tree whose fruit is like an Almond, but not round, ferving the Indians for meat, drink, and also for money; 20000 Cacaos being worth 120 Rialls or 3.1. in Guatimala, and 200 in Mexico. There is a Lake in this Country 100 miles long, and 20 broad, &c. The Town through the hills or a Vulcanoe's casting forth slames of fire, at whose foot it was built, which happened in 1540, Decemb. 20. it was transported two miles off; But in 1581, there was such an irruption of fire about two miles from the Town, as if all would have been confumed: and the next day, filling the Valley with abundance of afthes, it almost buried the Town. And the year following, this Vulcanoe's fire running downwards 24 hours space, like a furious torrent, burned rocks and stones, and so heating five ftreams, that they were not passable: and some write they were dryed up. And while this was doing beneath, they heard fearful thunders, feeing flames and lightnings in the ayr, wonderfully terrifying them. The Jucatans are generous and warlique, living longer than them of New Spain. They seemed to be more civill than other Indians; for they did not eat their enemies taken in war, though they facrificed them : yea, they abhorred the Mexicans for the same: Also the Spaniards found a great Town here artificially built of Stone and Lime, with fair Market places; they had also laws, traffiquing by exchange, without money. And as to Religion, they had fair Temples, many of whom used circumcifion. In the much frequenting of whose Temples, and their

which they found amongst them.

The fourth is Nicaraqua, lying next to Mexico or New Spain, toward the South-East; which hath many places well peopled, but they are small. The two best Towns therein are esteemed to be, Leon, where they have a Bishop's See; and New Granado. They say, the Spaniards call this Province (for its pleasantnesse and struisfulnesse).

Mahamets

great Idolatries, they are faid to have worshipped the Crosse to obtain rain. And some report, That they told the Spaniards. A beautifull man had left with them Croffes for a remembrance.

Mahomet's Paradife; yet is it fandy, and so burnt with heat in Summer, that a man can scarce travel by day, but by night. There are in some places, Trees so big, that fix men can scarce fathom them; and some trees are of so delicate a nature, that its branches wither as foon as they are toucht. It is as much annoyed with Parrots, as our Countrie is with Crowes and Rooks. About 35 miles from Leon, there is a Vulcano or fiery hill, whose Hames may both be seen far in the night; and also that the hole from whence the fire proceeds, is 250 yards deep, as some have written. These Nicaraguans are more White than Olive of complexion, and of a good stature: yet their Country which thus aboundeth in all things, is not great. Before the Spaniards made them outwardly Christians, they had a good way of punishment for theft; the thief to be flave to the robbed till he had made fatisfaction. But for him that should kill the Cacique or Prince, no punishment was by a law ordained; because they said, such a thing could not happen: Even as Solon instituted no law for murderers of Parents; for they thought persons were not so unnatu-

Fifthly, Quivira, whose bound from the rest of Mexicana, is Mare Vermiglio; and which being scituated on the West of America, is divided into Cibola, the Eastern part, which takes its name from the chief City Cibola therein: and hath another called Totontos, seated on a river of the same name. Vasquez Dicoronado Subjecting this Province to the Spanish King in 1540, burned Tinquez another Town or City thereof: and secondly, Nova, or New Albion, the Western part, lying just over against Tartarie, whence it's thought, the Inhabitants came first into this New World Sir Francis Drake discovering this Country in 1585, and the King thereof willingly submitting himself to Queen Elizabeth, he called it, New Alkion, a name of Great Brittain; and whose chief Town is so called. Some of these people are said to be Canibals; yet hath Quivira a temperate ayr, and plenty of pasture : wherefore they have store of Kine, which are their chiefest riches; whose Hides (they say) cover their houses, their flesh yields meat; their bones, bodkins; their finews, ropes; their maws, bladders; and horns, vessels; their hair, thred; their dung, fire; their bloud, drink: and the skins of their Calves, budgets or buckets to draw and keep water. Vafques a Spaniard, when he conquered this Country, feeing some ships on the farther Sea, well made, and laden, they conjectured there was traffique from Cathaia and China hither. And as for New Albion in particular, it is faid to be pleafant both to eye and palate, as abounding in Fruits. There is reported also, to be a strange kind of Hare, like a Cat in his tail, a Want in his feet, with a bag under his chin, wherein, after his belly is full, he keeps the rest of his provision. These Inhabitants are said to be hospitable; yet worshipping devils, and so given to Witchcraft.

Sixthly, Virginia, which hath Florids on the South, Norumbega Sifff on the North; the Sea Del Noort on the East; but the Western limit is unknown. The Natives called this Country Apalchen; But the English discovering is through Sir walter Ranleigh's charges and directions in 1584, in honour of the Maiden-Queen, Elizabeth, it was named Virginia. There are two Capes on both fides of it, that of Charle and Henry, and as it were fortified; but one onely entrance into it by Sea, at the mouth of a goodly Bay, two rivers water it; and there are three chief Towns therein, one being James-Town. Our English went over divers times to inhabit it; some returning, as not liking the Country, not so much for us barrennesse, as for unsuitablenesse of the Climate: There were a pretty number; then were they not a little diminished, for the baroarous Natives flew 300 by treachery in 1622; but it hath been even yearly inhabited fince that, by the English, and divers plantations made, and houses built; so that they have a Government, yet acknowledging England's Common-wealth as Supream; and is very eminent for the Trade of Tobacco there planted: yet the Country affords other things, as Pitch, Tar, Rozen, Turpentine, Allom, store of Cedar, Oyl, Grapes, plenty of fweet Gums, Dies, Timber, Iron, and Copper-Mines: and for the land, (when tilled) it is faid, that two acres of fome, hath brought forth 400 bushels of Corn; they have also abundance of Maize, likewise Beasts, Fowl, (whereof, as in Marie-land, joyning to Virginia, and planted also by English) their great and goodly Turkies have been commended) fish and fruit. The naturall Inhabitants have their cloathing in a mantle of Deer-skin, and before their privities, an apron of the same; and are reported usually to paint their bodies with pictures of Serpents, and ugly beafts; worthipping all things, especially things able to do them hurt, as fire, water, thunder, &c. New-England, which is accounted the North part of Virginia, comes here to be mentioned, which in a fhort time (in comparison) (though not without difficulties and dangers of Natives) grew up to a flourishing plantation, being now full of good Towns; and for the fruits of the earth, is fitly called another England. Boston (the name of the chief Town in Lincolnsbire) being their Metropolis. Those who went hence, thither, at the first, were chiefly such as (both Minifters and people) could not conform to our Bishop's ceremonies; but were zealous both in preaching and hearing. I take their civill Government to be a Democracy, or men chose out of the people to govern. And as for their Church-Government, it is a kind of a mixt, between Presbytery and Independency: whether term of time hath not made them colder, and leffe conscientious and tender, than at the beginning, I much question; by God's light and truth, (more clearly breaking forth in this his day) he comes to try the childrenof men; for besides the opposition which some among themselves have found, for differing in points of Religion from the generality, some that have lately in Gods fear, and from a good intent gone over to them, have found but coorfe entertainement tainment. But Old-England hath not fo dealt with the Ministers who have (though not from the necessity that we had here of them) come from thence hither of late years.

Seventhly, Norumbega, bounded on the South with Virginia, and to the North with Nova Francia, or New France; whose chief Town named Norumbega, the French possess of an inhabit. The people hereof are said to be indifferently civill; yet painting their faces, both male and semale, and dance much, sometimes stark naked for agility sake: also much affected to hunting: and wrose Wives are loving and chaste to their Husbands. The Ayr being also temperate, and the Countrie's soyl fruitful.

Eighthly, New France, discovered by one Jaques Cartier, a Frenchman, in 1534; where, besides the Native Inhabitants, some sew French remain: for the Province is said to be but barren, and the people barbarous Pagans; yet it hath three chief Towns; two whereof being seituate on two rivers, Cavada and Sanguinai, are so called themselves; and Hochelaga, of a round form, and environced with three Timber rampiers within each other, two rods high, and sharp attop, having but one gate, shut up with barrs and piles, and containing but about 50 great houses. Those who dwell not in the Towns, live in Boats, and lying under them, I suppose, when they sleep. They are also reported to have a conscient of an earthly Paradic after death, thinking they shall first assentiated to the Stars, and thence be carried into green Fields, beautissed with Trees and Flowers, &c.

Ninthly, Terra, or the Land Corterialis, so called from a Portugall named Gasper Corterialis, who sirst found it in 1500, it is also called Di Laborodora, and is bounded on the South with the forementioned River Canada, and on the North with Estotiland. I find not any Towns this people have, but their principall Villages are three, Sunta Maria, Breste, and Cabo Marzo. Canada is a great River 900 miles long, 800 whereof are Navigable, and He nath his rise out of the Hill Hombuedo, being also, at highest overshowing, said to be 105 miles broad. Some call it Laurence his River, and likewise the River of the three Brothers. The Natives are said to be brown, swift, good Archers, but barbarous, living in low Cortages and Caves, (yet they wear Brasse, and Silver Bracelets, as Ornaments) neither seems the Country to be fertile, for that they seed generally on fish.

Tenthly, And Lastly, Estotiland, the most Northern tract of America as yet discovered, and called by us New found-Land, on whose South-side, lyeth the Land Croterialia, and on a North part thereof, Davia his straits, from one John Davia, who seeking to find a quicker passage (then before found) by the North of America, unto Calbaia, and China, performed it not with such prosperous successes he began it. Yet two others, to wit, Cabot, and Frobisher, were before him in that design, the one in 1497, the other in 1576, which last, making three Voyages, and bringing home a great deal of Ore, not worth his pains, and some of the Natives; he called a great Promontory of this Country, Queen Elizabeths Foreland; and the adjoyning Sea, Frebishers Straits. But the thear of this Region was (so far as I find) first described by two brothers, fent by Zichmi a King of Friezland not far from Groenland; which lyeth on the other fide of these Straits, in 1390. But there was fince these, a re-discovery hereof, by some of our English, in 1527, fince which, it hath been much visited for Fish, called Newfound-land-Fish; wherewith the Seas thereof do so abound, that they will, in the Summer-Moneths of fishing for this is a cold Country) rake two or three hundred of them in four hours time; whence in our English thips (called Sacks) they are carried into other parts, especially into Spain; though present War with that Nation, may hinder that Trade. I have heard fome common Scamen complain of the hardnesse and barrennesse of this Voyage, as also the toil someneffethereof, and that if one fall sick there, while they are at their work of fifthing, he is little better respected then a Dog amongst them, &c. For the Merchant and Master, carrying away the profit, the very common men are apt to be cruell to each other, as being earnest to have their voyage made as much as they can. The Natives also fishing on the Ocean in small Leathern Boats, carry home under their Arms what they have caught, This foil is faid to be naturally good enough; whose inhabitants fome will have, more Witty, and also judicious then the other Americans.

The Southern Peninfula, called Peruana, extends from Nombre de Dios, and Panama, unto the Gulfs of Meaba and Michael; Nombre de Dios, standing on the North Sea, and Panama on the South, which are the two chief Ports of Meruana, because all traffique between Spain and Peru, must needs passe thereby; The straight of Land, or Ishmus, whereby it is tyed to Mexicana, is called that of Darien but 17 miles broad, and (as others) but twelve; wherefore some have moved to Spains Councell, that a Navigable Channell may be cut thorow it to shorten the common Voyages to China, and the Molucco Islands; but for some reasons, it hath not yet been attempted. This part of America is 17000 miles in Circuit; containing sive principall Provinces or Countries.

First, Castella Aurea, or Golden Castile, comprehending the North part of Peruana, with part of the Isthmu, and was so called from it's abundance of Gold. Nombre de sios, and Panama, but now mentioned, must have reference unto this Country, as also Wraba's and Michaells Guls: which are the extent thereof, and not of all Peruana. This is stubdivided into sour Provinces. 1. Castella Del Oro, seated in the very Isthmus; whose two chief Cities built by one Didacus Niquesa, are, Theoryma, according to the Greek language, or Nombre de Dies, after the spanish (sonamed for that the said Didacus having been divers times dismally crossed, bade his men go on shoar here, In the name of God, which those words do signify) and is on the East, and Panama scituace on the West. Secondly, Nova or new Andaluzia, bounded on the South with

Peru,

Peru, on the North with Castella del Oro; two of whose best Cities are Santa Espritta, and Saint Margarets, once called Tocoia. Thirdly, Nova, or new Granada, lying on the South of Cumana, or Cartagena: whose chief Towns are Saint Fore, where is a Court of Justice, and the seat of an Arch-bishop; here are also Tungia, Palma, Veluz, Merida, and Saint Christophers, &c. here is a Sea-Cape, almost triangular; between whose Western Angle called Aranzaes point on the Eastern, called Salines point, is the Angle named the Three-points. Fourthly, Cartagena, which hath five Cities therein. Cartagena, which the Natives called Calamur, which Sir Francis Drake seizing on, took vaste sums of Moncy, and 240 Picces of Ordinance in 1585. Also Abvida, Saint Martha, on the River Abuida, having also other names; New Calet, and Vemezuela, They call these three last mentioned countries; Terra Firma, or the firm land. Neither Panama, nor Nombre de Dies, have a good Ayre; but the latter is found the worse of the two, and is commonly called the Spaniards Sepulchre. Wherefore the King of Spain ordered (in 1584) Nombre de Dios, to be transported to a lower place, and to name it Saint Philip. Panama's Ayre is likewise unwholesome, and it's heat said to be insupportable : Yea, the whole Country of Golden Castile is but little inhabited; and that, both for the Ayre's badnesse, proceeding from many dead waters (perhaps like some lakes, that are in Æthiopia the upper, of whom Ovid speaketh; that whosoever drinketh of their waters, either grows mad, or is possessed with a wonderfull heavy drowfinesse) or for the bad ordering or government of the first discoverers, who brought many to their ends, as in other places. And as for its fruitfullnesse, Maize groweth abundantly, (although wheat doth not ripen there) they have also much Sea-fish, and fish of Rivers; wherein are Crocodiles, fome being twenty five foot long, It is observed, that our seeds and plants, become lesse and worse ar Panama, and Nombre de dios, (Coleworts and Lettices being thrice fown, becomming nought worth, as even changing their kind) whereas they become better in many parts of New Spain, and Peru. New Granada is environed very ftrongly with Rocky Mountains, yet is mostly sull of pleasing Valleys which bear fruit, Near Tungia are Golden Mines, and Emeralds; and nigh the Cape of the three points, are found store of Pearls, growing in the fish of Oysters, and called Unions, because two are seldome found alike, whose price is much fallen, through the great quantity sent thence into Europe; and also of the Emeraulds great store of them being drawn not onely here, but also at Pertueil, and about Mante in Peru.

Secondly, Guiana, or Guinee, scituated under the Aquinoctial line, or, as some have described it, to be five degrees from it, and that (as one supposeth) towards the South, it hath on the South and East the River Maragnon, (named also Amazone, from the Amazones fabulously reported to have lived here); and Orellanz, from one so called, who first sailed therein in 1543, it is said to be towards the Sea 200 miles broad, and Navigable 6000 miles) on the West, the Mountains of Peru, and on the North, the River Orenoque, also called Raliana, from Sir Walter Rawleigh, who in 1595, made a full furvey of this Country; Ships of Burthen will Sail here one thousand miles, and Pinnases and Boats almost two thousand. The chief Cities and Towns are Manao, called by the Spaniards Eldorada, that is, the guilded City, from the abundance of Gold that Deigo Ordas faw therein; this City is fo large, that the faid Deigo is reported to have travelled from Noon that he entred it, all that day, and the next day till night before he could come to the Kings Pallace; it is feated on a Salt Lake 600 miles long. winicapora, Morequito, which is a fafe Harbour, and Saint Thome, built with dirt and flicks, and which occasioned the undoing of Sir walter Rawleigh. The Natives use to dwell in Trees in Winter time for fear of inundations, on which they do Arrificially make ranks of building; (they fay also it is so in Golden Castile, and Brafile) for there is flore of River, and Fresh waters in every part thereof, so that this Country is reported to be exceeding fruitfull, and as green and pleasant to the eye as any in the World. Experience hath and doth find it to be flored with Golden Mines. Whence not onely good Gold, but Elephants Teeth are brought. The People being it feems Black of Colour, whom ENGLISH Merchants buy, and fell again as flaves to Work in other Plantations. The Voyage also hither being accounted fickly.

Thirdly, Brafile, (fo called, from a red wood abundantly there growing) was discovered accidentally, by Peter Alvares Cabral, in 1501, and hath on the East the Vergivian Sea, on the West the Andes or Mountains of Peru, (which are unto Peruana, as Taurtu is to Asia) it begins at the river Maraguon, and extends to that of Plata or of filver. Among the chief places of Brafile are, Pariba, on this fide of Augustine's Cape, called also, The City of Snow. Parnabuco, or Pernanambuck, a good Town; whence the Brasile wood used in Europe in dying cloathes, is with us called Fernanbuck. Here are also the Towns Aftensio, and Anna Equitum; and The Bay of all Saints; which Town is seated on a gulph 9 miles broad ar the mouth, and 30 in compasse, where Whales do enter and sport themselves; where is also the Governour of the Province, and the Bishop. Augustine's Cape hath 8 degrees and a half of height. of the South Pole, and is the nearest to Africk of any in the New World, not being held above 1000 miles therefrom. The pcopleare most exceeding brutish and barbarous; the greatest part living without law, learning, or religion, nor acknowledging any Prince: they also go generally naked. They are much given to Sooth-faying, and are accounted very great Sorcerers: not loving labour; but affecting idlenesse, sports, feasts, and dancing; yet they undertake not war to extend their bounds, but for honour, when they think themselves wronged, and follow him therein, whom they hold the most valiant; and cating with solemn feasts, those they take in war: They seem however, to have a pretty understanding, who blaming the Spaniard's covetoninesse in coming from the other World to dig for gold, held up a wedge of it, and cryed out, Behold the God of the Christians. They found not L. F. nor R. in their language: one of them declaring the reason of that to be, because they had neither Law, Faith, nor Rulers among them. The Ayr of this Country is delicate, and the Country it felf pleasant, being full of Mountains, Rivers, and Forrests, and is distinguished into Plains and Hills alway green, with many plants and various creatures unknown to us of Europe: And befides their huge Brafile Trees, there is the Plant Copiba, whose bark being cur, sends forth Balm; unto which remedy, the very beasts when they are bitten with Serpents and other beasts, (for the hills are high, craggy, and very barren, and full of ravenous beafts, and poylonfome Scrpents) have recourse; so that, many of these plants are almost without barque. The Cedar also is an ordinary tree there. The people feed on all kinds of beafts, Apes, Lizards, Serpents, and Rats; and make their bread of the root of an herb as big as Purstain, by first pressing our its deadly juice; then drying it in the Sun, and making meal thereof; also drink of the same meal, like unto Beer. But the greatest riches drawn out of Brafile, are very fine Cotton, and excellent Sugars; unto which traffique, the Portugals are much given, having built divers places to boyl and refine their Sugar, and entertaining many flaves from Guinee and Congo. Wonderful rich Mines are allo faid to be some of the finews of this Region.

Fourthly, Chile, (so called, of a principall Valley, and which word fignifyeth nipping cold) hath for bounds on the North, Peru; on the South, the Magellane straights. In the 30th degree, (for Chile extends unto the 27th from the height of 25 and an half, from the South toward the North) is the famous Valley of Arauco, whose Inhabitants furiously defended themselves, and maintained their freedom many years. The Metropolitan Town is Sr. James, built on the river Parais, in the valley of Mapoco, built by the Spaniards; who have divers Colonies here: among which, that of the Imperial is one of the best, which before the war of the Aranques, had 300000 men of service, as Valdivia had 100000. Arepigna was one of their fairest Towns, also, which (by a strange earthquake in 1562, overthrowing Mountains, and stopping rivers paffages) was much defaced, if not ruined; and was faid to ruine 300 leagues along the Sca coast; and renewing again in 1575, it overthrew the Town of Valdivia. This Countrey was discovered by one Almagrus, but subdued by Baldivia; whom the Chilois taking prisoner, they as enraged choaked him with melted gold. They are very warlique, and of a great statute, yet I cannot fay (as one) 11 foot high. This Province hath a river (and fome lay its rivers are fuch) running violently by day; but in the night hath no water; for it is fed by fnow melting from the mountains, which through night's coldnesse, congealeth: for the Ayr's piercing cold (they fay) hath caused some unsensibly to lose their members in the Defarts, or else to fall down dead. Chile being without the burning Zone is like to European Countries, yielding store of Corn, very good Wines, and all sorts of Fruits that are to be seen in Spain. They have also good pastures, many Oxen & Sheep, and horses; their Summer being our Winter: But the wars with them of Arauco (the Spaniards deadly enemies) hath made it not to be well peopled; whose Inhabitants that are, are attired in wild beast's and Seals skins, and armed with Bows and Arrows.

Fifthly, Peru is bounded on the South with Chile, and on the North with Golden Castile, and is divided into three parts. Mounrains, Plains, and Andes: along the Sea it's plain and low, with many Valleys, and is 1500 miles long, and but 30 or 45 broad. Toward the East are the Andes or two chains of Mountains in view of each other, and are faid to run from the Magellan strait, where they begin, between Nombre de Dios and Panama, unto the firm land; called also Cordeliere: Westward is Sierra or the Mountain, their breadth being not above so miles; fo that Peru is not above 120 miles broad in all; and hath about 50 Valleys, the chief being Yauxa, (42 miles long, and 15 broad) with 3 others. This Country taketh its name from the river Peru, with which it is likewise bounded on the North side publit the principal Rivers are Maragnon Quaiachil, & Riodi la Plate', which last is said to be 2000 miles in length, and 150 broad at the mouth. All the Natives are diftinguished chiefly by three forts, whose languages are diftinat: and every one contains many other people under them, differing in names. They used to war against cach other, till by the victory of Ginacave, (whom I take to be Guaimacapa, the 5th King of Peru, that we have knowledg of ) the cause of that contention was taken away : eight Kings we find mentioned, Ingoraia being the first, Amare the lat; which election of a King among them is conjectured, by their own computation, to be in 1280, or somewhat thereabouts: and that, before, their Government was Aristocratical. Francisco Pizarre seized on this Kingdom for the Spanish King, so ending the Controversie between Guascar and Atabalipa, Guaimacapa's fons, who streve for Empire, killing Guafcar, and vanquishing Atabalipa nigh the City Caximaca: who after a vast flaughter of his men, continued a prisoner, & treacherously slew him, after they had received from him a house full of pure gold and filver, worth about 10 millions, for the ranfom of his life; this was in 1533. Peru's principal Towns or Cities are 8. Cufco, being the feat of the Kings of the Nation; beautified (by their command) with Noblemens refiding Palaces, and in which is a fair Market-place; in which,, two high-wayes, straight and levell, and crossing the Country, being 2000 miles long, do thwart one another. Here is S. Michaels, which was the first Colonie the Spaniards planted here: also Arequipa, which being scituated on the river Plata, is the Haven- Fown to Cufco: likewise Portoveio, where (if it may be credited) credited) the grave-diggers light many times on mens teeth, which are three fingers broad: Then Lima, the feat of the Vice-Roy, and the See of an Archhishop: the Town is artificially built, neither is there scarce a private house whereinto water is not conveyed from the River. To speak here of their manners, I shall forbear; onely this, when they conquered any Country, they allotted the first part to the service of their gods, the fecond to their King's revenues; and the third to the poors relief and maintenance: But as for the Countrie's quality, one thing is even to be admired, that in fo small a distance as in the breadth of Peru, it neither rains, snows, nor thunders in the plains: and on the Sierra, the scasons have their course, as in Europe, and on the Andes it rains almost all the Winter. The tillage of the Valleys is but a league on either fide distant from the rivers; and though it rain not on these plains in Winter; yet the Skie is full of thin miss, whence falls a thin humour, which although it scarce wer the dust, yet makes much for the bringing that to perfection which is lowen: also nigh Lima these mists do without other water, cause some places to flourish, and to be full of good pastures. There are also some parts of the plains where no rivers being, abundance of Corn groweth, and all kinds of fruit; which must be either from moisture from the Sea, or which rivers put forth, or from their being lost in the fand. Sierra abounds in Pastures and Forrests, where do feed a multitude of Vicugnes, like Goats, and Guanacos, and Pacos, which is a kind of Indian Theep, who use to bear their burthens. The Andes have great store of divers forts of Apes and Monkeys, also Parrots. But their herb Coca (much esteemed) yields them yearly, at Potosi, whither it is fent, 500000 Crowns: in summe, the foyl, faith one, is luxuriant in all manner of grain, whose Inhabitants are civill, their Cities frequent, and their ayr wholfome: they have also great store of Tobacco, which our Gerard the Herbalist calls (I take it) Henbane of Peru: But as for gold and filver, it hath more than any Province in America: whose Mines (one faith) in some places yield more of these metals, than earth: and besides other Merchandise, they do draw abundance of these metals; yet New Spain hath the other richer merchandizes. Yet Peru's riches does commonly furnish two third parts of all, which come from America: and among Peru's treasures, two are most eminent: the one is, the exceeding quantity of filver Mine of Potofi: the other, the Mines of Guancavelque, where is found much Quick-filver; the one being discovered in 1545, the other in 1567.

APUT VICTORIE, or the Cape of Vistory, is accounted the very Pyris or Spear of the Anerican Pyramis; and was so called, from the Ship called the Vistory; in which, some of Assellanus his Souldiers did passe, when they first compassed the World. For Magellanus, a Spaniard, addressed himself to a Voyage in 1520, to find, if it were possible, a nearer cut to the Moluc-coes; who paffing along by this Cape, and fo thorow narrow Scas, called, from him, Magellan's Straights, arrived at those Moluccoes; but was flain in a battle against the Islanders: yet the Ship named the Victory, is faid to have returned fafely into Spain. So that although Sir Francis Drake is faid ufually, and by John Lyrim, to be the first who sailed round the World, when he passed thorow these Straights, and thence to the Molucco Islands; and then homeward from the East by Africk: (wherefore, he gave the Globe of the Earth with this Motto, Tu primu circumdedifti me, that is, Thou first bast encumpa sed me) : Yet it must not simply be understood, that none had gone round before him; but that never any of fame; because Magellane was killed as aforesaid. It is also observable, That Drake's Navigation was finished in two years and a halfs time, with great fortune, being begun in 1577. But to come to Magellanica, the second general part of the New World: All that scituated to the South and Pole Antarctique is fo called from these Magellan Straights, which by one, that faith he knew every Creck therein, are faid to be three. The first lying 14 leagues within S. Marie's Cape, three leagues in length, cbbing both violently and swiftly; and whose first fall (for it is not fully half a mile broad) is very dangerous: then after, a Sea eight miles both in breadth and length, is the fecond strait, a dangerous and unpleasing passage, three leagues long, a mile broad : which opening it self into another Sea, reacheth even to the Cape of Victory. The third, properly called Magellan's Strait, enters, whose length is 40 leagues, two leagues broad in some, but in other places not half a mile; which way foever a man turn, here, the wind will be furely against him; for on both sides are high Mountains alway covered with fnow; whence those counter-winds, beating on all fides, do iffue forth. The waters course is here, likewife, full of turnings and changings: nor any anchorage to be expected, the channel being on the shoar side 200 fathom. But Magellanica is scituated beyond the 53d degree from the Æquinoctial; fo that, that place of Magellanica unto which Magellane pierced, doth agree to the Elevation of our Pole, faith Keckerman; for on the further fide of the Straights to the South of Peru, Magellane found a huge land towards the South Pole, and touched on it again before he came to the Moluccoes: fince whom, the Portugals trading towards Calecute and the East-Indies, some of them have been driven by tempest so far, as to that now called the South Continent: divers also of fundry Nations have upon occasion touched on it: it is certainly discovered in some places to come up towards the North, to the Tropick of Capricorn: and is conjectured to go Southward as far as to the Pole: the reason is, because none ever perceived the Sea to pass thorow any part thereof; neither hath fo much as any great River been descrived to come out of it into the Ocean: so that, if this be so, this lump of carth is as big as Afia, Europe, Africa, and America put all together. There are yet reported very few memorable things hereof; some write mere be very valt Countries and Wilderneffes over against the Moluccoes; (but no mention of any Inhabitants). James Chynaus faith, there are five parts numbered (by some) of Magellanica, who have followed rather conjectures, than fure experience: thefe are, I. Terra, or the Land, Del Fuogo, or Feuga, lying on the South of thele Straits, and, faith one, here to fore-thought to be a part of the South unknown Continent; but is now discovered to be an Island, by two Hollanders, who Jan. 25, 1615, entred the Strair, which fe parated it from the South Continent: they called it Fretum le Mayre or Mayre's Strait, the name of one of the discoverers. It is 28 English miles long, of a fair and equal breadth, where is plenty of good fith, especially Whales and Sea-calves. 2. Regia Patalis, or the Patalian Country. The third is, Regio Pfittacorum, or the Parrets Country, from the abundance there found. Fourthly, Regio, or the Country of Locah. Fifthly, Zenzibar; however Keckerman layes it down for one of his theoremes, that this part of the World is nothing as yet fearched out besides the shoars which are wathed with the Magellanick strait, that is, faith he, besides the Seacy-parts; which notwithstanding, may be those five particular places mentioned. And whereas a great Mathematician hath found fault with some Map-makers, because in describing this Continent, they mention not Cities, Kingdomes, nor Commonwealths here feated, whereof he feemed in words confidently to avouch, that there are many; and that it is as good a Country as almost any in the World, yet he delivered not his grounds, why he gathered it so to be; yet we may think (the premises being granted to be true) that the Creator framed not fo huge a Malle, but that he appointed likewise some of mankind to inhabite the fame.

But before we mention the American Islands, we will take notice of three or four places in South America, which although the Spantards possesse; yet their names seem not to be fo frequent among us; as first the Province of Quito, 200 miles long, and 100 broad, more cold then hot, thoug icituated under the Equator; It's chief Town is called Saint Francis, built in 1534, feated in a Valley among Mountains, and is 80 leagues, both from Saint James's Town, and Saint Michael, they have Summer here from Aprill to November. The Natives are mean of stature, yet are said to be both good for Tillage, and ordering of Cittell, and their Goats have three, and fometimes five Kids at a time, they have found one Mine of Quickfilver, besides the ordinary Mines, which is yellow, and finelling like Brimftone, when put into the fire. On the East of Saint Francis Town, is a country called Canelle of the Cinnamon, which differs from the ordinary fort, and whose Tree we shall not nere describe; but fruits and beasts of Europe (especially fruits, Sugars, and Oranges) do profit in no pare of Peru, better then in Quito; which in 1587, was much ruined by an Earthquake, and amongst others, there is one place which thrusts forth so much fire as it exceeds the noise of Thunder; and is feen above three hundred miles, whose abundance of Ashes are faid fometimes to cover the Country 200 miles about. Secondly, S. Croix of the Mount, on a small Mountain, a Town held by the Spaniards, and by them built, 400 miles from Plata, towards the North of a Country, where there is not a stone so big as a Nur, either on the Land, or within the Water; But before they descend hereinto, they passe a Mountain betwixt the Rivers Orillagno, and Plata, which being a branch of the Andes, extends to the Magellane strait, whose top is alway covered with Snow and Ice, and feems to be the abode of the Cerigans. Here is a River called the River of Vapai, rifing and falling like Nile, (but running flow) whereby the plain Country is subject to inundations. VVherefore the Antsto defend their Harvest (chiefly at Vapai) do make many small rampires, about one Cubit high, and twelve or fifteen in Circuit: whither passengers do retire, when the waters surprize them. The Country yields abundance of Rice, Maize, divers fruits and Cotton; but neither VV heat, nor VV ine. They have also many beasts different from ours, but Vipers, very great, long, and strange of condition; and many Ostriches. Their Lakes are full of Fish also; and at Saint Croix; (which is strange) is a small River, but two sadome broad, and very shallow, not running above a League (for it is fuddenly loft in the fand) furnishing the Town both with water, and all forts of good Fifth, fo that they can take them with their hands, or a pail; and it lasteth from February to May, but afterwards there is but little feen. Amongst the divers barbarous people here, are the Cerigans and Vayracans, who either alway war with each other, or fight against the Spaniards, feeking to their utmost to hinder their paffage; they ear mans flesh as we do Mutton. To speak of all their manners, would be here too tyresome; onely I observe that the Varages language extends it fell both to Brafile, and Paraguay unto the Garayes, and their Neighbours Countrey. So that, as one may in a manner travell thorow the World with the Latine, Arabian, and Sclavonian Tongues; fo with the Varayes Tongue, that of Cufco and Mexico, they may in a manner passe over all the New World. Also, that these Varayes, although they say, they are all equall among themselves; yet greater than their neighbours, whom they fo despise, that they demanded of a Priest, whether they would baptize them with the same water they did others, if so be they became Christians. Thirdly, Tucuma, which is a Realm extending 600 miles betwixt Brafile, Chile, St. Croix, and Paragua, where the Spaniards planted five Colonies. 1. Salta, the last place of Peru, standing in a Valley eighty four miles long, and thirty broad; near which is the Valley Calchioqui, ninety miles long from North to South, full of Rivers, and couragious people, who fighting divers years with the Spaniards, at length, the Prince was (by friendthip) made obedient to the Spaniard, making himself a Christian, but through bad usage he revolted, till after twenty seven years, one with three hundred Peruan Archers, five hundred Horse, and 100 Spanish foot, ended that enterprise. 2. Steco. 3. Saint James, 150 miles from Steco, where the Governour and Bithon refide. Fourthly, Cordova in Spains scituation, though colder in winter, and more temperate in Summer; it is 180 miles from Chile. Fifthly, St. Michael, The Country is generally plain, it rains much, the Rivers eafily overflowing, and the Winds very violent, Salta's Valleys abounds with fish; a good soyl feeding much Cattle, the Ayre is very temperate, and it wants therein nothing but people, Steepes Territory hath flore of Cotton, Corn, Cattle, and Fruit. 4. Paragua, whose Inhabitants dwell on the Confines of Tucuma, and take their name from the river along which they dwell. This river is very spatious, over which they passe in boats made hollow of a Tree fitly growing for that purpole, called Zaine. Here are 6 Towns, the chief whereof is called Vray Foy, or the true faith. The Country was first discovered by the North Sea, by Sebastian Cabot, and divers Spanish Captains; then by Diego Roias and others, by the way of Peru.

Coast we a little the American Islands, and so draw to a Conclusion. These are either those lying in Mare del Zur, or the Pacifique Sea, or in the Vergivian Ocean, or Mare del Noorte, so called, from one Noorte a Dutch-man, who first thorowly searched it. Those lying in the former Sea, are either the Infula Latronum, or the Islands of Robbers, and commonly called Latrones, they are two in number, a good diffance from the Moluccoes; which name, Magellane, who discovered them, is said to give them, because the Native Islanders stole away his Cockboat. But saith one, when the Spaniards had once found out an ordinary passage from the South Sea, towards the Moluscoes, they never ceased to travail that way, and discover more and more, whereby they found out divers Islands not formerly known; as two, a good distance from the Moluccoes; which, because they be inhabited by men who not onely steal from each other, but pilfer away all they can from strangers landing thereabouts; they are called Infulæ Latronum, or the Islands of Robbers. Or the Infulæ Salomonis, Salemon's Ifles; which are nearer to the East-Indies; these are faid to be many in number, 18 whereof are worth the minding: and of those, S. Thome, S. Isabella, and Gaudaleanall are the three biggeft. Lope Garcia discovered these in 1567, and mistaking them for the the Land of Opher, whither Solomon fent for gold, he fo named them: yet (it feems) he found ftore of gold to be in them, or else he could not have had a pretence for the same. The Inhabitants are faid to go naked, and to be yellowish in colour. Some other Islands also, Magellane himself descryed: at which, he landing, as thinking to furnish himself with Victuals and fresh water, in his passage to the Moluccoes, found the places wholly barren and uninhabited; wherefore he called the Infulars, Infortunatas, or Unhappy Islands, as being contrary in quality to the Canaries, which are termed, The Fortunate or Happy Islands. Those in the Vergivian Sea, which is so called, a Vergendo, from bending, are reckoned 9 in number: as, 1. Hispaniola, called by the Natives Haitie and Quisquaia; and by the Spaniards, Hispaniola, and S. Dominico, from the chief Town they have built there. It was (as aforefaid) the first place of the New World that was descryed, and is 500 miles long; the breadth being divers, in the largest place, about 300 miles. Here at Dominico, is a President, an Archbithop, and a Court and Scat of Justice, with 5 Monasteries The Spaniards are faid to have murdered 3 millions of her Inhabirams. There are other Towns, as S. John, Port-Royal, Port of Plata, Ca. vana, Xaragua, with some others which the Spaniards builded not. The last Voyage and defign of our English thither, is too too fresh in memory amongst us, by reason of the bad successe, and repulse there received. The ayr of this Island is said to be temperate; for, all plants brought out of Spain, do wonderfully grow and increase there; but Wheat comes better in hilly places: and they report, that roots as well as herbs will ripen and be fit to cat in 16 dayes. It hath many Havens, and Rivers, especially 4 great rivers coming from the tops of Mountains, which being about the midst of the Island, they run severall wayes. They draw abundance of salt out of the Mountains like Crystal. In the midst of the great Lake Haquey Gabon, whose water is falt, is the Island Guarizanta, very fit for fithing. The Island also yields gold, and in the Cabanien Mountains are faid to be Mines exceeding full-There is likewise great abundance of Sugar, Cassia, Ginger, Mastick the wood Aloes, and Cinamon; also they have Azure. Now also they have so many tame beasts, that they transport a multitude of Hides from thence into Spain; whereas before the comming of the Spaniards thither, there was but three kinds of fourfooted beatts. The Natives go naked, are floathfull, living onely of their fishing: But the Inhabitants have now great traffique, growing rich, fince Sugar-canes have been brought thither, whereby they have made Mills and thops. 2. Cuba, called also Ferdinand, which lyeth on the West of Hifpaniola: it is 300 leagues long from East to Well, and 65 broad, but in many places not 20. Here are fix Towns, the principal being that of S. James, where a Bishop resides: also there is Havana, most frequented of all the Island, it being a safe rode for shipping, and the Staple Town for Merchandife; the other are held not to be very well peopled; But at Havana rideth the King of Spain's Fleet, till the leafen and the wind do joyn to wafte them homeward. S. James or Jago, was so named of James de Valasco who built it; both these Towns being also seated on the Northern shoar of the Island. There are many dangerous shelves about it: it is likewife hilly and full of Ferrefts and Rivers, having many Lakes both freshand salt. The Natives, before it was discovered, lived all in common, as content with what nature brought forth, delighting also to tame Serpents. (of which there are many here) and went naked as them in Hispaniola. The ayr here is said to be temperate: having fine braffe and Mines of gold in the Mountams, and the gravel of rivers almost all gold, which is yet said to b somewhat drossie. It is reported to abound with Ginger, Cassia, Mastick, the wood Aloes, Cinamon, and Sugar; 15 miles from Saint James Town, is a Valley covered naturally with great bowls of stone, which seem as if set for pleasure; and night he Princes Port, is a Spring casting forth Pitch continually. Thirdly Jamaica, or Saint James his Island, which hath Cuba on the North, Hispaniola on the East. It is fifty Leagues, or as one faith, two hundred and eighty miles long, and about twenty five leagues or as another, 70 miles broad. Whether Columbus himself discovered it, I will not dispute; but Didaque his son subdued it to Spain in 1509. Its two Towns of note being Oristagne, and Sevill; in which is a Temple called an Abbey. The Natives were either like, or more cruel then them of Hifpaniela, and Cuba, in their manners. The Ayre is said to be good, the Country fruitfull in great numbers of Cattle, by reason of their waters, and pastures. Mines of Gold are faid alfo to be there; their Rivers and Lakes abounding in Fish, and having much Sugar and Cotton. This place is kno vn to have been a retreat for our repulsed and diminished men at Hispaniola, who are now in possession thereof; yet many men have died fince their landing there, but the Country may prove (t rough time and custome) propitious enough unto our Country men, for many go over, and the Island hath in it felf (for fertility) a good commendation. Fourthly, The Canniballs, or Caribe Islands which are all those stretching out in a double rank from the East, to rie South of Hispaniola, in view of the main or firm land. Most of them are not inhabited; but of those which are, Saint Johns Island is the chief, and is called by the Natives Boriquen, Iying near Hispaniola on the East, and scituated North from Guiana of wnose length and breadth, I find great difference in relating; fome, that it is 300 miles long, and feventy broad; others that it isbu fifty miles long, and eighteen broad. It is also said to be divided into two parts; whereof the North hath most plenty of Gold, and the South part of Corn, Fruit, and Cattle; it abounds all oin Fish, and they find very good Gayac. John Ponce the Spaniard first fer foor hercon in 1527. The chief Town is Saint Johns where is a very good Haven; then Port Rice, which the Earl of Cumberland ruined in 1597. Fifthly Cubagna: and fixthly Margarita; the first lying next to Saint Johns, and both scituated near Golden Castile, and are wanting in Grasse, Trees, Corn, and Water. But if it be true, that this people sometimes gladly Exchange a Tunne of Wine for a Tun of Water, I think they have great store of that; but they abound in Pearls; whence one is called Margarita, that is, a Pearl; It yields especially the Gems called Unions, because they alwayes grow in Couples. The Natives of all the Caribes are brown coloured, having little Hair, cruell, eating mans flesh, their Arrows are poysoned, and using to go to Sea in little Skiffs of one piece, which they call Canoes. Seventhly,

Trinidado, not far distant from these, which is stored with good Tobacco, called by Gerard Tobacco of Trinidado. Columbus difeovered it in his last Voyage, in the year 1497. This Island I take to be about a hundred or two hundred leagues from Barbadoes, and whither, about the beginning of our late Wars, fome went for liberty of Conscience sake, as thinking here would not be liberty granted; but the Voyage proved not answerable to their expectation, most of whom I think returned to England. Eighthly, The Bacalaos, which are some Isles seated night he land Corterialis. These people have a King, whom they are said to reverence by ftroaking their foreheads, and rubbing their Nofes; whom if the King meaneth to grace, as accepting of them, he turneth his head to his left shoulder, as a token of speciall favour. Sebaftian Cabor first descried these in 1447. Ninthly, The Bermudas, called Summer Islands, from one Sir Thomas Summers, who gave the most exact description of them; But he that gave the first cognizance thereof, was John Bermudas: they are in all 400; the biggeft whereof is planted with an English Colony, and is in form like a half Moon, It is reported to be agreeable to the nature of Englishmen, and a very fruitfull place. We must not forget two other known Islands, to wit, Saint Christophers, and the Barbadoes; the former being inhabited by French, and English, and though of no vast greatnesse yet indifferently good, where is Cotton, and Tobacco, though fomewhat heady they have likewise other fruits, as Orenges &c. The latter the English are sole Masters of, which was taken from the Spaniard within this thirty years, and through industry become (according to the bignesse of the place) an emirent Plantation, for Cotton and Brown Sugar: they have also Tobacco, but it is of the worst fort, wherefore they scarce now plant it; also Ginger in good quantity. The chief Town is called Indian-bridge, whither Vessels for traffique and otherwise do come; and wherein are shops and handicrasts men, but their houses are built low. by reason of winds called Hirricanes; amongst other food, they have much of the fith called Tortle; which is a good meat, and being dreffed, ears like Veal.

The Indians have a convincement (though barbarous) of a God, lifting up their eyes to Heaven in adverfity, &c. But their foolish minds being darkned, they had many foolish customes towards the deceased; for those of Pera, and the neighbour Countries, holding that men use to eat, drink, and wantonize with women after buriall, did commonly either kill, or bury quick some of the deceased, his best beloved wife and servants, to wait on him in the other world; they also under the figure of Idols of stone, and wood of terrible shapes, worshipped Devills for fear of harm they did, or might do them. The Devill being said to speak in divers of these Images, and give answer to their Priess. But the Mexicans (besides their Images) would sometimes worship living Idols, as a Prisener, whom they attiring, and trimming like an Idol, would would facrifice, &c. unto him: at length, when the Comedy was ended, and he grown fat in a Cage, they flaying him for facrifice, made a Featt among themselves. They of Peru had some Guacoes or Temples common to the whole Realm, and others private to every Province; But the Mexicans exceeded them of Peru much in greatnesse of Temples and ceremonies: whose Priests were divided into the little, greater, greatest of all, which were called Popes: they facrificed in their Temples, every one according to his degree; whole continual exercise was to cast incense on their Idols; at Sun-rifing, or Sun-ferring, at noon, or at midnight. And besides Priests, there were Monasteries of women; in Peru one in every Province, in which were two forts of women, fome young Virgins, others called Mamacones, of ripe age, who commanded and instructed the others. The Mexicans had alfo a fort of religious, called the daughters of Pennance, not above 13 years of age, and whose profession lasted but a year: who were thut up in chaftity, fwept the Temple, prepared meat fet before the Idol, which his Ministers did eat. The Peruans facrificed whatfoever they had good or goodly to their gods: But the Mexicans did not facrifice any men-children or Virgins, but what they took in war: wherefore, that they might have a great number, they subdued the Town Tlascala, most paganly intreating them. Those of Cusco counterfeited Supper, as a Sacrament of confederation and union with the Sun, and the Ingua or Prince. The Mexicans (most remarkably) made an Idol of roasted Maize and Blite feed, mixt with honey, which they carried in procession with merry ceremonies; then stripping the Idol, distributed pieces of the paste to the people, who received them with great reverence, faying, They did cat the flesh and bones of their god. They in Pera counterfeited confession, having Priests to hear it, holding it also a great offence to conceal any fin in confession; they went to it in adverfity, and when the Ingua was fick: But the Ingua confessed not his fins to a Priest, but to the Sun, that he might tell them to Vira coca; then entring into a running brook, he faid, I have confessed my fins unto the Sun; thou river carry them into the Sea; where they may remain for ever drowned. They worshipped also three Images of the Sun: naming one the Father, another the Son, the third, the Brother: and of their god of thunder, named Chuchille, they had three Statues, unto whom they attributed the fame names. Likewise as to marriage, those of S. Croix of the Mount, hinder marriages in some causes, and diffolve that which is contracted; and in some causes, the joyned, cannot be separated, though it be unlawfull. But as for the Government of the New World; fince the Spaniard's masterdome; there are in all two Vice royes; the one at Mexico in New Spain; the other of Peru, residing at Lima: this last having the greatest authority. There are likewise 5 Soveraign Courts both in New Spain, and Peru, at 5 severall Towns, unto which both Spaniards and In-V v v v

dians have equall recourse, and from which none may appeal. Here are likewise four Archbishopricks: one at St. Dominico, another at Mexico, a third at Lima, the fourth at S. Foy in the New Realm: the first having three Bishops under him; the second, 10; the third, 9; the fourth allo 3. Five forts of Popish Orders they have also in the New World, of Francis, Dominick, Augustine, De la Mexica, and Jesuis. There are moreover two Inquisitions; the one at Lima, the other at Mexico. Also two Universities in the same Towns. And it is also observed, that the Indians are not admitted to their communion, but after long proof; and with more difficulty at Peru, than at Mexico: neither do they suffer them commonly to study either Divinity or Philosophy: and feldom admitting them to any Orders, because of their inclination to drunkennesse.
